2013 Annual Report

Special thanks to Publishers Printing for donating the printing of this Annual Report.

Dear Friends:

St. Vincent de Paul has been continuously blessed by the support given to the poor and homeless of the Louisville community. 2013 was no different as hundreds of volunteers and donors came to the aid of their neighbors in need.

The signs of this generous spirit are evident throughout our downtown campus.

In May 2013, more than 250 people came together to build a beautiful playground for the children living on our campus and in our surrounding neighborhood. Made possible by a grant from the Dr Pepper Snapple Group and KaBOOM!, the playground provides these at-risk children with a place to play and grow. The playground is placed at the entryway of our Family Success Center, which provides year-round programming for children and their parents.

In August 2013, 100 people gathered to honor Dave Higgins for his generous gifts of time and talent as St. Vincent de Paul's former board chair. His critical role in our campus expansion project was happily celebrated with the naming of the Dave Higgins Alley on the SVDP campus.

The people served by St. Vincent de Paul during this past year received the care and attention they need and deserve under the watchful eyes of our case management team. Previously homeless men and women have learned new skills, secured income, started a bank account for the first time.

The children on our campus have also blossomed as the effects of a stable household and a safe place to live build their self-esteem, reduce school absenteeism, and improve their academic performance.

The Open Hand Kitchen, at the heart of our campus, served more than 120,000 free meals during this past fiscal year. 2,850 volunteers helped serve those many meals along with a smile and a warm greeting to anyone walking through our doors.

Thank you for your kindness, compassion and steadfast generosity. Without you, the stories on the following pages would not be possible.

Helping the Poor in Many Ways

St. Vincent de Paul was established in the Louisville community in 1853 with the purpose of aiding the poor and homeless, providing food, clothing, shelter and compassion. It has become one of the community's leading providers of services to the poor in its 161-year history.

SVDP Conferences expanded throughout Louisville, with the first Conference organized at the Cathedral of the Assumption. These Conferences are parish-based groups of volunteers working in the name of St. Vincent de Paul to help ease the pain of chronic hunger and poverty. These kind and generous volunteers came to be known as Vincentians.

The Open Hand Kitchen opened in 1983 in St. Paul's Church. The OHK now provides more than 120,000 meals each year to anyone in need, served by a loyal network of 2,850 volunteers. The number of meals served continues to grow each year.

The downtown campus of St. Vincent de Paul has grown to address the varied causes of chronic poverty and homelessness, including disability, addiction and mental illness. Through a combination of specific shelter programs and professional case management support, men, women and children are able to look toward a brighter future.

Customized care with strong case management support became the hallmark of SVDP campus programming and remains so today. Ozanam Inn men's shelter, St. Jude Women's Recovery Center, Tranquil House for men and women with mental illness, Simon Hall and Roberts Hall for homeless men and women respectively, "scattered-site" housing with case management support and DePaul Apartments for single parents and their children all support the homeless in achieving a better future. Our latest expansion occurred in 2012 with the addition of 54 new apartments for the homeless, including 20 apartments for homeless families.

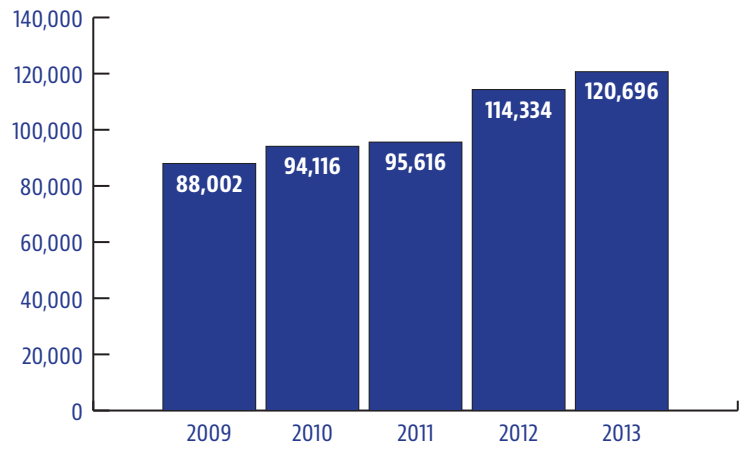

With the new family housing, 60 children now live on the St. Vincent de Paul campus. To provide support for these children and their parents, a Family Success Center provides year-round programming to support academic and personal growth and drive family stability to ultimately break the cycle of generational poverty.

Today, our many kind donors and 2,600 Vincentians provide support for hundreds of people each day within our local community and on St. Vincent de Paul's downtown campus, providing refuge and support for many, making St. Vincent de Paul a leader in the fight against chronic poverty and homelessness in Louisville.

SVDP AWARDED GRANT

SVDP Builds A Playground in A Day

KaBOOM!

On March 21st, 2013 St. Vincent de Paul was awarded a grant from the Dr Pepper Snapple Group and the KaBOOM! Foundation to build a playground on our campus.

This was not an ordinary playground construction project. Rather, it involved the input of the children and their parents to design the playground of their dreams and 250 volunteers to build the playground. The playground build would happen in one day.

The impact of the process on our clients was extraordinary. They had a seat at the table along with KaBOOM!'s project leader Brenna Hull, representatives from Dr Pepper Snapple Group and SVDP staff. The children readily took to the task of designing their dream playground and happily presented their designs. Parents helped with the review of potential playground equipment.

KaBOOM! took their input and provided three beautifully designed playground options, which incorporated their ideas. After a community voting day to select the preferred playground and colors (complete with "I voted for my favorite playground" stickers) a final design was selected.

On May 31st, 250 people came together to make the playground a reality. Volunteers included SVDP clients, parents, men and women from local businesses and people who heard about the project and wanted to help. Homeless men from Ozanam Inn working side-by-side with corporate presidents to make it happen without any knowledge of or concern about each other's background.

At 3:00 that day the ribbon was cut and a brand new playground was ready for some very happy children!

SVDP'S CHILDREN

New Center Will Enrich Family Life

A critical goal on St. Vincent de Paul's campus is to ensure the children we serve have a brighter future than their parents have experienced. This requires that they are school-ready. SVDP is working with the children, parents and staff as co-producers to achieve key school readiness benchmarks. The children served by SVDP have lived in chronic poverty and have experienced homelessness. To break this cycle of poverty high-quality learning opportunities to address key academic requirements that are predictors of future success are required. These learning opportunities focus on the skills so many impoverished children lack.

For example, the vocabulary deficit of children living in poverty versus their working and professional class counterparts is estimated to be more than 20 million words by the age of 4. Research also indicates by age 5, a typical middle class child recognizes 22 letters of the alphabet, compared to only nine for a low-income child.

As vocabulary knowledge is so highly correlated to reading comprehension and overall academic success, addressing this issue through programs directed at both parents and children can significantly impact the future of the children we serve. This focus also provides an excellent foundation for achieving third-grade reading levels, another critical indicator of future success as indicated by lower high school drop-out rates, college attendance and employment rates.

St. Vincent de Paul's Family Success Center, which includes a tech learning lab, art and music room, kitchen, game room and a gym, serves as home for these programs. The space has been designed for children and their parents with a goal of helping build family stability and creating a learning culture on campus and within the home.

Thanks to the many donors, including individuals, foundations and corporations from the Louisville community, the Family Success Center is now a reality and will impact the lives of many children and their families for years to come.

Soup Kitchen Strives for Family Environment

Twice a day men, women and children line up outside the doors of St. Vincent de Paul's Open Hand Kitchen. At noon and again at 5pm, as these hungry people are invited inside, the aromas of delicious, hot food—prepared especially for them—entices them.

Colorful stained-glass windows reflect sunlight into the spacious dining room, a 100-year-old church sanctuary with hardwood floors and a beautiful altar along the east-facing wall. Steam rises from behind the serving line as guests line up to listen to grace being said (or to observe a moment of silence), before receiving their trays that will be filled with food for lunch or dinner.

Chef Charlie Shunnarah and his staff work hard to prepare home-style meals that will please a variety of appetites and fill the bellies of kids and adults who seek out our soup kitchen for sustenance as well as emotional comfort. It's not just the thoughtfully prepared food, but the kind and welcoming faces of the volunteers who serve it, that make all the difference to the poor and homeless.

Many of our regular volunteers have developed relationships with some of our frequent guests in the Open Hand Kitchen. Often, these volunteers will greet our soup-kitchen regulars on a first-name basis, ask about family members, or make other small talk. The friendliness and camaraderie that is evident in our Open Hand Kitchen suggests that the vast majority of our clients are grateful for our outreach, and they feel welcomed unconditionally.

In the spirit of Christian love that is a guiding principle of the international Society of St. Vincent de Paul since its founding, every effort is made to connect with our clientele in a meaningful and positive way.

Our Open Hand Kitchen last fiscal year provided more than 120,000 meals to people in need, and that number of meals keeps increasing each year. The chronically homeless are only a portion of the clientele; increasingly, our resources are being stretched to meet the needs of the working poor – men and women struggling to make ends meet while earning wages that do not cover all their basic needs. Meals eaten in our Open Hand Kitchen allow these low-wage earners to stretch their budgets in difficult times.

Families, even unaccompanied youths, are also frequent guests in our kitchen, especially in the evenings and on weekends. While it can be heartbreaking for new volunteers to see these vulnerable kids walk through our doors for the first time, the end result is that at least while these young people are inside St. Vincent de Paul's Open Hand Kitchen, they are treated with care and respect as they're being fed.

Helping Men in Recovery, Retired Pilot Pays it Forward

The burly guy in the Green Bay Packers t-shirt comes through the side door of our men's homeless shelter early one morning and is greeted on a first-name basis by clients surprised to see him at this hour.

That's because Mike Hayden normally visits in the evening, when the guys have already been assigned their bunks and are on the premises for the remainder of the evening. He assists with whatever is needed: handing out towels and toiletries as the guys go to take their required showers; locking up and retrieving prescription medications that are kept in a separate, secured area of the office, answering the telephone, and assisting case managers with other odds and ends.

Hayden, 63, has been volunteering at St. Vincent de Paul's Ozanam Inn men's homeless shelter for about 18 months. He comes a couple of nights a week, usually from about 6 to 7:45 or 8pm.

"The pay is awesome!" he responds with a sarcastic smile, when asked why he does it. Kidding around aside, he says he feels a true calling to be volunteering here. "These guys need the help," he says, "and I sometimes think: That could be me. There but for the grace of God..."

A retired commercial airline pilot, Hayden is divorced, with no children. He grew up Catholic in Louisville, attended Holy Family, Trinity and Durrett (Male) high schools before enrolling at Jefferson Community College, and then embarking on flight instruction through Bowman Air Field. His career as a pilot lasted 33 years and eight months. During that time, he flew all over the world, he says, and he loved it.

"I always used to think: When I retire I need to do something like this—volunteer. Well, now I'm doing it."

David Tarullo, SVDP's program manager for the shelter, says Hayden does far more than just help out behind the front desk. He has befriended many of the clients, and he has connected with them on a deep, personal level.

"I'm sponsoring four guys in recovery right now," Hayden says. "I get a lot of self-satisfaction and peace of mind and serenity in doing this."

Hayden acknowledges his own past struggles have given him clarity about certain things in life. "It's important to reach out – to get outside yourself," he explains. "It just helps me. I feel better about myself when I help people, and it makes me feel closer, or more connected, to God.

"Plus," he adds, shifting from serious to irreverent again: "Doing this is better than staying home and watching TV. It's something constructive, and it's easy," he laughs. "Hey, it's not like I'm breaking bricks here!"

SVDP'S CASE MANAGERS

Clients Praise Case Manager for Helping Restore Their Lives

Doug, Peggy and Ernest have never formally met, but they share a case manager in common. And they're among the year's success stories in St. Vincent de Paul's Follow Up Program.

All three sought help at SVDP when their lives unraveled. Several years later and now in recovery, they each have continued to receive support and encouragement from case manager Beth White, CSW, SVDP's assistant director of programs. Through our Follow Up Program, each client receives a rent subsidy for an off-campus apartment (known as "scattered-site housing"). White makes frequent home visits with these clients to help address any challenges or problems they may be facing.

"She will do anything she can to help you," Ernest explains. "And you can't help but be happy around her because she's always got that smile on her face."

Ernest's background includes time in the military, a questionable diagnosis of schizophrenia, and years spent living in squalor in a "crack house," he says. "I never want to go back to that," he adds. Ernest started out in our homeless shelter and then completed its dorm residency program before getting his own apartment and entering our Follow-Up Program. An intelligent and deeply religious person, Ernest is very active in an East-end church and rarely misses Bible study or worship services.

Doug's introduction to St. Vincent de Paul was jarring. "I had never been homeless before," he recalls. "It has humbling." Doug had a family, a home and a mortgage that he paid off early, but back problems led to an addiction to prescription painkillers. At the height of his addiction, he was both using and selling drugs, White says.

At St. Vincent de Paul, he stayed at our men's shelter for a year. "I was a very angry man when I first got here," he recalls. Cory Bledsoe, now SVDP's director of programs, was at the time working as a case manager at the shelter and convinced Doug to start attending 12-Step meetings, to adhere to case management, and to focus on getting his life back on track. "Cory promised me if I did all those things, he would help me get my own place."

A year to the date after that conversation, as Doug remembers it, Bledsoe told Doug he could go pick up his voucher for his own apartment. Doug has been there two years, and he remains in our Follow-Up Program. He has mended relationships with his family, returned to church and completed his associate's degree. This fall, he'll begin psychology studies at the University of Louisville. "I thank God for this place," Doug says. "I really do. I am so grateful for all you have done for me."

Peggy is appreciative too. A graduate of SVDP's St. Jude Women's Recovery Center, she was formerly homeless and living in her car under a highway overpass as a result of her drug addiction. "I am so into my recovery now," she says, smiling. She works at McDonald's, has paid off her considerable debt, and formed close relationships with her grown daughter and grandson.

All three clients are grateful for the help they received at St. Vincent de Paul, but it's Ernest who spends hours volunteering each week in our Open Hand Kitchen. "I just want to give back a little bit of what this place did for me," he says.

Social Ministry Through SVDP

Our large, inner-city campus is fortunate to have the support of St. Vincent de Paul conferences throughout Louisville and Southern Indiana. One of the most steadfast in their support over the years has been St. Albert the Great.

Pat Osbourn, 80, serves as their dedicated point person for St. Vincent de Paul. A team leader on the conference's Social Concerns Committee, he's a cheerful and frequent presence on the SVDP campus, having been volunteering in our Open Hand Kitchen for a decade.

"I pick up food every week and bring it down here," Osbourn says, standing next to his Honda packed to the gills with boxes of donated breads and other food items he'd just picked up from the Springhurst Kroger store.

A vibrant Middletown parish led by Father Wayne Jenkins, pastor, St. Albert the Great is very generous with its resources of time and treasure. The church has active groups for every age. The senior group known as Al's Aces, for example, take up a regular collection for St. Vincent de Paul and help purchase holiday hams and turkeys for our soup kitchen. Confirmation students, as well, have held special food drives over the years for the same purpose. The GAP (Graduated Albert Parents) group, for parents of older children, also supports SVDP's work, donating more than $500 per year for the past few years, Osbourn says.

It's a coordinated effort. Pat O'Bryant, 72, has been chair of St. Albert the Great's Social Concerns Committee for eight years. She oversees a myriad of outreach initiatives that includes SVDP as well as many other charities. "I have a need to contribute," O'Bryant says. "And I enjoy the work... I'm a 'get'er done-er'."

Fred Ridgley is president of the conference, which strives to help people in need in the church's own neighborhood by providing financial assistance with rent, utility, food and clothing assistance. That work does not diminish members' support of our downtown campus, however. In addition to the various groups' monetary donations, many members routinely volunteer in our Open Hand Kitchen and with annual events including our Santa Shop and Friends of the Poor Walk.

And then they go above and beyond.

"At Thanksgiving, St. Albert does a ham and turkey drive for St. Vincent de Paul for the holidays," Osbourn adds. "We buy green beans, stuffing, sweet potatoes, everything. We go shopping and we buy enough food to take [the Open Hand Kitchen] from Thanksgiving through Christmas."

Last year, the conference collected $3,000 for turkeys and hams and other food for our Christmas and Thanksgiving holiday dinners, according to O'Bryant.

In addition, St. Albert the Great had supplied $600 over the summer of 2013 to purchase meats and perishable food items for the soup kitchen.

St. Albert the Great members also serve as hosts for a Christmas party each year for SVDP families living on our campus. Mary Ruckriegel spearheads the event, which in recent years has centered on a home-style holiday feast and special treats for the children. Using our Open Hand Kitchen as the party site, parish volunteers come in and serve the meal to our clients. Afterwards, the volunteers and SVDP families enjoy fellowship and family activities with one another. Our clients look forward to the event each year.

St. Vincent de Paul is most grateful to everyone at St. Albert the Great for all the remarkable generosity they have shown toward our clients and in support of our mission to help the poor and homeless.

Clockwise, from top left: Volunteer Louis Ford has been serving meals in the Open Hand Kitchen for 30 years. Awards were presented to the year's top Vincentians (from left): Bob Hagan of St. Peter the Apostle, Leo Fogle of St. Raphael, and Beverly Richards of St. Paul. Pictured with them are Ed Whorowski, SVDP's executive director, and Donna Young, director of conferences and volunteers.

A packet of personal hygiene items, along with a note of encouragement for the client that will receive them. Church youths often deliver these to SVDP, to hand out to people who come to our administration building's front door seeking assistance.

Retail Sales Make Our Services Possible

St. Vincent de Paul Thrift Stores are a vital part of our operations as all net profits are used to support St. Vincent de Paul programs for the poor and homeless. The stores are only able to thrive if we receive critical donations to fill our stores...gently used furniture, clothing, household goods and decorative items.

Our newest store is located in the Dorsey Lane Plaza shopping center on Shelbyville Road in Middletown. At 8,800 square feet, it is our largest store to date, with a convenient donation drop-off center. Three existing stores support St. Vincent de Paul, including one in Clarksville and two additional stores in Louisville.

A team of 40 people works hard to make every donation count. Roles range from customer service to sorting donations, to our drivers, who pick up donations throughout the Louisville and Southern Indiana area. Their efforts have clearly been worth it, as customer traffic and store sales have grown over the past five years.

Cost containment to maximize profit is a key objective. All unusable donations are recycled to generate extra income. The majority of store fixtures have been donated by local retailers, and recycled bags are used for customer purchases.

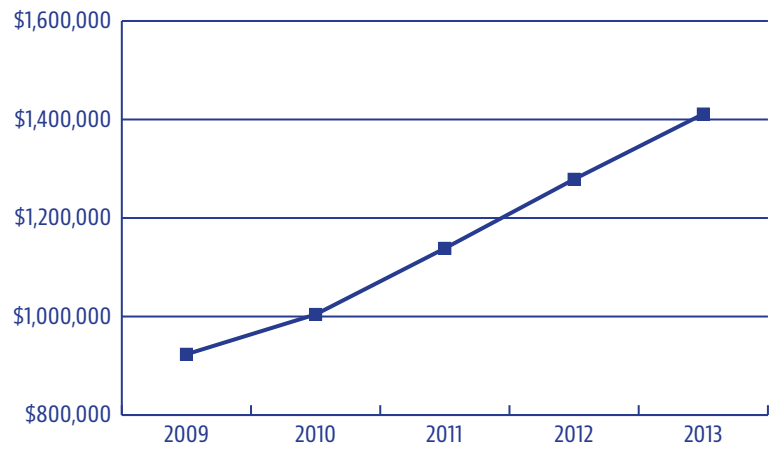

We do not have the luxury of expensive advertising campaigns to build awareness of the mission of the stores or to encourage donations. We are dependent on word-of-mouth from our loyal and generous donors. Please spread the word to all your family and friends!

No matter if you are a shopper or a donation donor, you are giving to St. Vincent de Paul, and for that we are all most grateful!
