DELTA TAU DELTA

is a constructive adjunct to the system of higher education. Her objective is to educate, contributing to the young men within her sphere of influence a moral, spiritual, and social development commensurate with the intellectual training supplied by the colleges and universities.

One Moment, Please

Many Delts know already what a memorable day for Delta Tau Delta November 1 was. On that date Mr. W. D. Brandon, of Butler, Pennsylvania, the oldest living member of our Fraternity, celebrated his one hundredth birthday. THE RAINBOW is privileged to present in this issue not only an account of this event and of the remarkable Mr. Brandon, but also a striking reproduction of a contemporary painting of Delta Tau Delta's only centenarian.

Mr. Brandon's birthday did not go unnoticed outside Delt circles. President Harry S. Truman sent his congratulations, and so did Delt Tom Clark, U. S. Attorney General, and Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson. Undergraduate chapters, alumni chapters, former Presidents of Delta Tau Delta, Arch Chapter members, and others—all added their congratulations. David Embury, Chairman of the National Interfraternity Conference, sent felicitations and inquired of other fraternities whether Mr. Brandon is not also the oldest living member of any college fraternity.

Delta Tau Delta is proud of a member who has, as a former President of the Fraternity put it, "lived so long and so well."

Edwin L. Heminger, undergraduate president of Mu Chapter at Ohio Wesleyan, has contributed to this number an interesting account of his and three other Delts' sojourn in Norway last summer. A sequel to appear in the February RAINBOW will present the student exchange picture on the other side of the world—in the Orient. This article will be written by Dr. Charles H. Brown, associate director of the Iowa State College Library, who is widely recognized for his contributions to international education and student exchange work.

Other features in these pages include an account of a great Delt gathering at Wabash; a message from Dr. Frank H. Sparks, Wabash President; a reminiscence of colorful Delt personalities of another era; and a story of a famous Delt-built home.

W. D. Brandon Reaches Century Mark

By VERNON L. WISE, W. & J., '22; Allegheny, '23

One of our RAINBOW readers, W. D. Brandon, of Butler, Pennsylvania, celebrated his one hundredth anniversary on November 1. Born in Butler County in 1847, he has had an active career as a lawyer and is said to be the oldest practicing lawyer in the United States.

Mr. Brandon is a graduate of Washington and Jefferson College, Washington, Pennsylvania, class of 1868, and the oldest alumnus of his college. He is a member of the Alpha Chapter of Delta Tau Delta, then located at Jefferson College, Canonsburg, Pennsylvania, and the oldest living member of our Fraternity. During his college course, Jefferson College combined with Washington College and was moved to Washington.

In discussing Fraternity activities, he related the keen rivalry for members. In 1866, he said, it reached such a state that the college authorities asked every applicant for admission to college to sign a pledge that he would not join any fraternity. This raised a storm of protest. A mass meeting of students was called, about two hundred attending. A resolution was offered and passed demanding a removal of this pledge by the faculty and in case of refusal all would pack up and go home. This threat of boycott was effective and the pledge was withdrawn. Thereafter, a cordial feeling between the various fraternities and the college faculty existed.

An honor student, Mr. Brandon was awarded an oration in the commencement day program. He admits, however, that it scared him so much that he went home before graduation and never did deliver his oration.

He said the years 1865 to 1868 were called the Saddle Bag Period. To get to college at that time, Mr. Brandon traveled by wagon and stage coach to get the train in Pittsburgh.

Mr. Brandon has always taken a keen interest in college and Fraternity circles. Some years ago the degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon him by his Alma Mater.

At a banquet in his honor on his birthday, a fine portrait in oil was unveiled, the gift of the Butler Bar Association.

He continues in fine health and enjoys life. He has only one recommendation for the younger generation—"Don't Worry."

Eighty-Two Years a Delt

Initiated into Delta Tau Delta in 1865, when the Fraternity was scarcely six years old, Mr. Brandon has been a Delt for eighty-two years. His lifetime spans that of the Fraternity. He has seen Delta Tau Delta survive four great wars.

On the very eve of Mr. Brandon's initiation, General Grant was mobilizing his forces for the final stage of the Civil War, and in April of 1865 General Lee signed the surrender order at Appomattox. On April 14 President Lincoln was assassinated.

In Mr. Brandon's first year in the Fraternity, there were five undergraduate chapters: his own, Alpha, at Jefferson; Beta, Ohio; Zeta, Washington; Theta, Allegheny; and Iota, Western University of Pennsylvania. "Among all the fraternity chapters there at Canonsburg," he writes, "there was none better than Delta Tau Delta." His chapter, which was the governing group, undertook extensive expansion in the fall of 1865, voting three new charters.

He was an undergraduate member at the time of the first general convention of Delta Tau Delta. Delegates of five chapters, presenting credentials which were written in Latin, met at the Merchants Hotel, Pittsburgh, July 3, 1866.

A member of the class of 1868, Mr. Brandon was in the last class to be graduated at Canonsburg in the newly united Washington and Jefferson College. All departments were transferred to Washington in 1869.

On the occasion of his one hundredth birthday, Mr. Brandon received scores of congratulatory messages from undergraduate and alumni chapters, Deltas, and other friends.

Delt Ambassadors of Good Will

By EDWIN L. HEMINGER, Ohio Wesleyan, '48

Among the 220 students enrolled in the 1947 Oslo University summer school for American students in Oslo, Norway, were four members of Delta Tau Delta—Russell G. Gustavson, Colorado, '45; William C. Kuhn, Albion, '49; William B. Grindereing, Ohio, '46; and Edwin L. Heminger, Ohio Wesleyan, '48.

The summer school, sponsored by Oslo University in conjunction with the Norwegian government and the Institute of International Education, was aimed at giving American students an understanding of Norway and her people, as a part of a larger program promoting world peace through international understanding and good will. Although the school was not arranged as a direct exchange of American and Norwegian students, several hundred Norwegian students have been accepted in American colleges and universities this fall.

The students in the summer school, who were selected from more than two thousand applicants, represented ninety-eight colleges and universities in thirty of the forty-eight states. Although the majority were undergraduate students, many were graduate students, including three holding their Ph.D. degrees and twenty holding their master's degrees. There were ten married couples in the group, several on their wedding trips. Although no special emphasis was placed upon Norwegian background in the selection of students, many had relatives in Norway whom most met for the first time.

The administration of the school was unique in that there were both Norwegian and American officials. The director of the school was Dr. Erhling Christopherson, cultural attaché to the Norwegian embassy in Washington, D. C. The remainder of the officials were American, including an American dean of students, Norman Nordstrand, dean of students at St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minnesota.

Classes for the six-week course were conducted in English by regular University faculty members, supplemented by frequent lectures from men prominent in Norwegian public life. The courses, all designed to provide information about Norway, covered art, botany, economics, geography, geology, history, meteorology, Norwegian language, politics, and social problems. In addition, one general survey course of Norwegian culture was required of all students.

Classroom lectures were supplemented with field trips and week-end excursions. Afternoon field trips included visits to museums, art exhibits, governmental offices, hospitals, industrial plants, and nearby farms. Excursions to more distant points of interest were arranged by the University for several week ends, while the remaining free week ends were used by students to visit individually points of interest of their own selection.

One typical week-end jaunt, arranged for by the University, was a trip to the Maana Valley, home of the Norske-Hydro Corporation, the largest single industrial enterprise in Norway. The town of Rjukan with its seven thousand inhabitants lies deep in the narrow river valley with mountains rising abruptly on both sides to a height of two thousand feet—so abruptly that direct sunlight never reaches the valley floor during the long winter months. The tremendous water power that is developed in the valley is used for manufacturing nitrates and related products, including heavy water used in Norwegian atomic energy research. The industrial development was in the hands of the Germans during the German occupation, and it was sabotaged several times by Norwegians and later heavily damaged by Allied bombing.

In addition to these week-end excursions, the students were privileged to travel around Scandinavia and other parts of Europe during the three weeks between the conclusion of the school and the sailing of the special student ship, the Marine Jumper, a former army transport.

The American students were formally welcomed and entertained shortly after their arrival in Norway by the Norway-America Association at a banquet held in honor of the students. Later, the Crown Prince and his family entertained the group at their summer home near Oslo, and just before the students left the school, they were entertained by Ambassador Bay at the American embassy in Oslo.

The Danish born monarch, King Haakon VII, whose seventy-fifth birthday was celebrated with great festivity in Oslo while the students were there, gave audience to student officers of the summer school group and discussed with them many of the problems that Norway now faces.

Less formal, though no less appreciated, was the warm and sincere hospitality extended all American students by innumerable Norwegian families, who welcomed into their homes on numerous occasions the summer school students. Nothing during their entire course of study more impressed the American students than the friendly spirit with which the Norwegian people greeted and accepted them.

Of their many first-hand meetings with Norway and its peoples, the students probably rate their visit to Parliament among the most revealing. For nearly two hours Haakon Lie, Secretary of the Norwegian Labor Party, and Christian S. Oftedal, Summer school students visited Rjukan, home of Norway's largest industrial enterprise.

Liberal M. P., answered a flood of questions ranging from inquiries on inflation control to Norway's policy toward Franco Spain. The frank and open question-and-answer session—especially on the Spanish matter—often brought forth bursts of applause, and at its conclusion, the students were unanimous in calling for more such “straight from the shoulder” discussions.

As for the results of the summer school, they are mostly intangible and as such they are difficult to judge. The most significant indication of its success, however, is the fact that the summer school students, the faculty, the administrative officials, and the Norwegian people have all enthusiastically joined together in an effort to encourage the continuation of the Oslo summer school and to encourage the establishment of similar schools the world over. Indeed, it seems that our state department's wish with regard to the experiment has been fulfilled, it appears that the American students were truly “ambassadors of good will.”

“This Could Be the Greatest Year in the History of Delta Tau Delta”

“This could be the greatest year in the history of Delta Tau Delta,” declared President G. Herbert McCracken, speaking at the Seventy-fifth Anniversary of Beta Psi Chapter in Crawfordsville, Indiana, October 18.

The school year 1947-48, he asserted, could be the most productive of the Fraternity's eighty-nine if undergraduate chapters will make the most of opportunities that present conditions afford. In a highly competitive field, where Delta Tau Delta must depend upon the excellence of its undergraduate chapters for preëminence, the gains that are to be registered this year will be measured by the energy and resourcefulness generated in undergraduate ranks, President McCracken pointed out.

Citing significant examples of alumni loyalty and service over a period of years, he also demonstrated how alumni assistance will contribute to the strength and soundness of the Fraternity's various chapters.

First Antarctica Delt Reunion Held

The first Delt reunion ever to be held in the Bay of Whales, Antarctica, occurred on Saturday night, January 18, 1947. Here is how it all came about.

Ensign Charles W. Mallory, Kansas State, Colorado, '47, was attached to the CB Detachment of the Navy task force which took off for Little America last year. Embarking from Port Hueneme, California, he sailed on the U. S. S. Merrick, which at the end of forty-seven days travel pulled up outside the Bay of Whales.

On the night of January 18, Ensign Mallory received a dispatch ordering his transfer to the U. S. S. Yancey, which was to be the first ship to enter the bay. The purpose of his transfer was to make him available to aid in primary construction ashore.

During the trip in a small boat, under the brilliant sunlight of the Antarctica midnight, across the choppy open water separating the two ships, he was constantly drenched with icy salt spray. Arriving aboard the Yancey, therefore, he hastily took his gear to his assigned quarters and proceeded to the wardroom to warm himself with hot coffee.

In the wardroom he was introduced to Ensigns John W. Clime, Wesleyan, '47, Tufts, '48, and Gordon M. Coleman, Georgia Tech, '46. "It was almost instantly," said Mallory, "that Coleman and I discovered that we were both wearing Delt rings, and he in turn informed me that Clime was also a Delt. We then held what we believe was the first Delta Tau Delta reunion ever to occur in the Bay of Whales, Antarctica."

Guests at the reunion came in formal attire.

Both Clime and Coleman have since been released from the Navy. Transferred to the Civil Engineer Corps of the regular Navy, Mallory is back at Port Hueneme.

All of them now agree that perhaps the caption on the Delt maps—"There will be Delts wherever you go"—is no exaggeration.

Gamma Sigma Anniversary

University of Pittsburgh Delts will gather from far and wide over the week end of November 22 for a three-day celebration on the University campus to mark the thirty-third anniversary of the founding of the Fraternity's Gamma Sigma Chapter.

The "kick-off" in the gala series of events will be made by the undergraduate chapter as host to the alumni at a dance in the Shelter, 4712 Bayard Street, on Friday evening, November 21. Many alumni will see for the first time the improvements that have taken place in the chapter house as a result of the renovation program made possible by the fund-raising drive conducted among Gamma Sigma alumni following the war.

Saturday, November 22, is the Big Day. A buffet lunch will be served at the house preceding the Pitt-Penn State football classic in the stadium. Following the anticipated victory over the Nittany Lion, the Delts will gather at the University Club for a play-by-play account from their many grandstand coaches.

High light of the first postwar, all-exclusive Gamma Sigma reunion will be a banquet and program at the University Club on Saturday evening at 6 o'clock. A lively program packed with interest and surprise is being planned by the program committee under Bob Soles, chairman, Carl Mulert, and W. T. Trimble, Jr.

On Sunday afternoon a service and dedication of the chapter memorial in honor of the eight members of Gamma Sigma Chapter who lost their lives in the service of our country will be held at the Shelter.

Alan D. Riester is general chairman of the homecoming and reunion. A committee on attendance, made up of Dr. Jack McParland, Knox Hunter, Bob Schar, and Dr. Harold Kipp, is hard at work to turn out a record-breaking number of Pitt Delts.

The first postwar edition of Gamma Sigma's newspaper, The Panther Delt, was issued in October to promote the anniversary celebration program. An alumni publications committee, consisting of John J. Grove, chairman, J. Leo McShane, Dick Barnhart, Bill Hanna, and Bob McKinnis, and an undergraduate committee, with Stan Goehring, chairman, Bob Reighart, Bob Pritchard, and Ralph Miller, are getting out the chapter paper.

Tickets are now available for the Pitt-Penn State game and the banquet at the University Club and can be obtained through Al Riester, General Chairman, Gamma Sigma Homecoming, 4712 Bayard Street, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Gamma Sigma Delts everywhere are urged to "Come Home to Pitt" over the week end of November 22.

Beta Psi Observes Anniversary

By CARTER B. THARP, Wabash, '39

Leadership was the predominant theme as Delts of Beta Psi reunited on the Wabash College campus October 18 and 19 to commemorate the seventy-fifth anniversary of the installation of Delta Tau Delta at that historic Crawfordsville, Indiana, school. More than 200 initiates of Beta Psi, of all generations, and residing in areas from New York to California, assembled for what was the most convincing of any demonstration of fraternity leadership seen by many generations of Wabash men. Actives and alumni, Delts attending and many who could not attend, dedicated themselves as a body to the perpetuation of the leadership and vigor of Beta Psi. Their spokesmen sounded that theme; the aura of loyalty and confidence cast by those assembled Delts amplified the theme and cast it as a heritage and challenge for future generations of Beta Psi Delts.

Alumni, many of whom were returning to the Wabash campus for the first time since prior to the war, found as their hosts an active chapter numbering nearly sixty men, double the prewar complement, headed by Frank A. Beardsley, Jr., '48, of Frankfort, Indiana. Their headquarters is the West Wabash Avenue Beta Psi Shelter, restored and refurbished to finer condition than any time since its acquisition in 1931, despite the fire which caused its 50 per cent destruction early in 1946. From Larry Sheaffer, beloved chapter adviser for the past twenty-six years, and from Harlan Hadley, president of the house corporation, alumni learned that the chapter's morale, its campus prestige, and its economic standing are high and in sound order; that the caliber of the undergraduates and the always dependable support afforded by Beta Psi alumni give prospect for continued advancement. The chapter's preëminence at Wabash was attested by the president and the deans of the College, who participated throughout the memorable week end.

Don C. Frist, president of the Beta Psi Alumni Association during the year just ending, had as his primary duty during this term of office the organizing and directing of the Seventy-fifth Anniversary Committee. Early in the year he fixed the dates of the diamond anniversary reunion so that it would coincide with the Butler-Wabash football game, one of the two most important on the Wabash schedule, representing a rivalry among the oldest in collegiate athletics.

Registration of alumni, their wives, and distinguished guests was conducted both Friday night and Saturday. The volume of registration was greatly enhanced by the work of the regional chairmen—George Sando, of Chicago; George Stasand, for the Pacific Coast; James Halsey, for New York and New England; Evans Harrell, for Indianapolis; and Tom Luster, for the Crawfordsville area. In addition, many self-appointed class chairmen spurred the drive for greater attendance percentages.

The program officially opened with luncheon at the Shelter preceding the football game. The meal, served in buffet style, suffered marked lack of attention as long-interrupted acquaintances were renewed, wives were introduced, and the actives and pledges circulated to meet and welcome their predecessors in Beta Psi.

Adjournment was soon called to permit the group to take its place in the grandstand section which the College athletic director had reserved for Delts, visiting and active, at an excellent vantage point for the football game.

Faculty members, fellow students, and citizens of Crawfordsville were all invited to attend the open house at the Shelter which was conducted immediately following the game. This was in keeping with the Beta Psi custom of holding one such open house during each school year. Both faculty and Crawfordsville friends attend in gratifying numbers to pay their respects to the past generations of students participating in this annual pilgrimage to Crawfordsville.

Saturday night's banquet, the climaxing event on the program, highlighted the true Delt conviviality and spirit which reigned throughout the week end. George Sando confirmed his high reputation as a toastmaster in presiding at the full evening of introductions, addresses, and presentations. Chapter President Beardsley welcomed the assembly on behalf of the undergraduates. A succinct report of current chapter standing was presented by Chapter Adviser Larry Sheaffer. House corporation president, Harlan Hadley, detailed the current status of this alumni-sponsored organization and impressed the men of Beta Psi that there exists an excellent foundation for the future welfare of the chapter. Charles C. (Hez) Rees, of Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania, as honorary chairman of the Seventy-fifth Anniversary Committee, introduced the distinguished Delt guests and College administration members. The Arch Chapter gave Beta Psi a warm confirmation of faith in the chapter's strength for the future by having in attendance as its representatives President G. Herbert McCracken, Secretary of Alumni A. B. Walling, and Northern Division President William H. Martindill. Retired Presidents Francis Patton and Harold Tharp were introduced. Hugh Shields, Executive Vice-President, and many prominent Indiana Delts and Delt officers were on hand to rise to similar introductions.

Dr. Frank H. Sparks, now in his sixth year as President of Wabash College, an engineering and industrial leader prior to his entry into the field of education, addressed the banquet as a proponent of the development of democratic leadership through liberal education supplemented by the fraternity system. Dr. Sparks's address is printed elsewhere in this issue of THE RAINBOW. For the benefit of the assembled educators and Wabash alumni he outlined his Wabash College program and its aims, a dynamic theory of liberal education designed to produce a greater capacity for professional and spiritual leadership with which students must be equipped today. He made it clear that the program was hospitable to fraternities which could adopt the aims and aspirations of the program and contribute to their fulfillment.

ROY MASSENA

A certificate similar to that pictured was officially presented by HARLAN J. HADLEY, in behalf of Beta Psi Chapter, to each Beta Psi alumnus who has been fifty years a Delt. The recipients were: EDGAR H. EVANS, JOHN H. BINFORD, HUGH T. GARY, WILLIAM R. DAVIDSON, ALEXANDER B. BOYER, WILLIAM C. VANDERBILT, URBAN C. STOVER, METER VANNUYS, FREDERICK L. CORY, JOHN T. TITSWORTH, CLARENCE E. CUSTER, and EDWARD G. COX. Of these, the first two were president at the banquet to receive their awards.

An equally eloquent response to this challenge was offered by President McCracken, who stated that Delta Tau Delta accepted the broad terms of the Wabash program as the essence of liberal education, to which the Fraternity sought ever to be a constructive adjunct. President McCracken expressed the pride shared by Delts in the position of leadership which it has attained in the field of education today. He expressed confidence in the maintenance of that preeminence which would be, in final analysis, measured by the Fraternity's capacity to develop qualities of leadership among its members.

Roy Massena, graduated from Wabash in the class of 1902, had completed nearly fifty years as a Delt. He had also become a distinguished and respected member of the legal profession in Chicago. He served as a trustee of Wabash College for eight years, and as president of the Beta Psi Alumni Association. Literally scores of loyal Beta Psi Delts received their introduction to Wabash and to Delta Tau Delta through Roy Massena. Both these men and the chapter were grateful. Roy was the type of person upon whom young men, and a fraternity chapter, instinctively rely. He had integrity and a respect for men and young men. He passed into the Chapter Eternal on September 26, 1947. He did not know that a few days prior to his death he had been cited to membership in the Distinguished Service Chapter. This recognition of his constant loyalty to Delta Tau Delta was eminently warranted. Beta Psi is proud to have claimed him. At

Fraternity Values Defined

By DR. FRANK H. SPARKS

President, Wabash College

DR. FRANK H. SPARKS

Editor's Note: Dr. Sparks, addressing the assembled Delts and guests at Beta Psi Chapter's Seventy-fifth Anniversary celebration on October 18, spoke without using a manuscript. His remarks presented herewith are thought reproductions rather than verbatim quotations.

Any organization perpetuated by voluntary membership and free-will financial support which reaches the mature age of seventy-five years is entitled to hearty congratulations, for it has been tested again and again in the critical appraisal of those whom it serves and by those who have observed it.

This hearty congratulation I offer to you Delta Taus of the Beta Psi Chapter. . . .

No college man lives intimately with all college mates—not even at Wabash. A small community is needed to give the individual identity. That is one of the sustaining qualities of the family. Each member of the family group is important in that group. His place is recognized by all of the other members of that group. He has an identity, and he has responsibilities and duties that only he can fill.

The place of the fraternity in college life is largely that of the family in normal life. The fraternity offers a small community to its members—a community made up of men of similar tastes and interests who think sufficiently well of the initiate to invite him to become a member of that community on probation. The new citizen accepts the condition of probation, and, for a period of months, he lives with and becomes acquainted with the habits of thought and action of those whom he has joined. They come to know him and, eventually, he is initiated into permanent citizenship or he withdraws from the community.

It is to the great credit of the fraternity that so high a percentage of the young men who are invited to undertake this trial period of membership accept the invitation.

It is a still greater tribute that so few who undertake the trial experience fail to carry through. It is a rare thing when a pledge either voluntarily turns in his pledge pin or is asked to surrender it by his brothers pro tem. . . .

It is the common object of college and fraternity to aid in the self-discovery process of young men. Neither is justified unless it contributes toward this common end. Both are justified so long as the contribution is significant. The college and the fraternity, properly co-ordinated and properly co-operating, should do a more effective job than either can do alone. . . .

The benefits of a fraternity to the individual fall into two categories, tangible and intangible.

The tangible benefits include, among other things:

- A home.
- A place to eat and sleep.
- A permanent headquarters from which to work.
- A group with which to be identified.
- An opportunity to develop social graces both by precept and example.

A participation in the management of group affairs always as a member and frequently as a leader or officer.

The intangible benefits are less easily defined but more enduring. They bring you back to your college for occasions such as this. The sentiments stored away here when you were an undergraduate have mellowed and multiplied. The friends you made then are your friends still. The loyalties established in those days live on.

Outside of the family circle there are few attachments that are so strong with the average alumnus of a small college as those which he feels for his college and for his fraternity. . . .

The fraternity is not without

The idea that Dr. Frank H. Sparks is advancing at Wabash College has attracted nationwide attention and approbation. It is a new wrinkle in education, for it brings business and education—liberal arts education—together. Dr. Sparks and his "Wabash Plan" provided the source of an article which appeared in Future magazine and was condensed and reprinted in a recent issue of Reader's Digest under the title "Man With a Big Idea."

Shortly after he was made President of Wabash, Dr. Sparks persuaded several large midwestern corporations to sponsor Wabash students who give evidence of developing into corporation executives. Students on such scholarships are not studying business administration; they pursue the regular liberal arts curricula. Technical specialization as needed comes later. Summers are spent working in the plants of sponsors.

Though the plan is still in its early stages, it has had an enthusiastic reception and promises to vindicate Dr. Sparks's thesis that a liberal education is the best background for business.

Dr. Sparks was a successful industrialist himself before he entered the educational field. During the war he headed the Bureau of Manpower Utilization in Washington. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi.

Modern Living by Delt Builder

A Delt who has found a progressive approach to the much-touted problem of modern living is George S. Badger, UCLA, '29.

Like thousands of other servicemen overseas, Mr. Badger (Lieutenant Colonel, Army Transportation Corps) envisioned the ideal postwar home. Unlike so many others, however, he translated his dream into action and built a home that has gained wide recognition for its luxurious practicability.

"All I did," he said, "was to build a small house (596 square feet) and include the luxury items of a mansion (those things that the building industry has neglected in its effort to provide bare shelter)."

The Badger home, a sleek, modern building in Manhattan Beach, California, was featured in a recent issue of The Californian magazine. Compact as a Swiss watch, it includes all the essentials and more—a generous living room, a kitchen alcove, bedroom and bath, a lanai, and a two-car garage.

Storage space—bane of the average housewife's existence—was plentifully provided for in this home. The panel which separates kitchen and bedroom, for instance, is closet from floor to ceiling, and there is a whole wall of closet space backing the fireplace. One wall of the bedroom opens out, revealing a large closet and built-in wardrobe. Clothes closets are doubledeck so that the maximum number of suits, sport coats, and dresses may be stored in a limited space. Downstairs, even with the two-car garage, is ample storage space for camping equipment and the inevitable life rafts and other paraphernalia needed at the beach. There is also a large workshop with modern power tools.

Substituting pragmatism for tradition, George Badger had the interior of his house constructed flush all around—i.e., with no trim on doors and windows. All interior openings round into the walls so that there is no place for dust to settle—another break for the housewife. Bullet catches have been used on interior doors with lucite door pulls in lieu of conventional knobs and locks. The entire house is illuminated with lights concealed in beams, valances, and shelves with frosted-glass backs. The living room, for example, has indirect lighting in golden tones, with a blue-tinted lamp for sea-blues at night.

The living room includes, among other attractions, a large fireplace with elevated hearth which puts the embers at eye-level and an alcove tucked in a deep recess by the fireplace. The color scheme is original: honey-colored walls, rattan furniture with deep bright blue and lime tropical floral pattern, chaise longue couch with blue pillows.

Opening directly off the living room is the lanai, separated by sliding double glass doors which, when open, make the two rooms one. Louvre-type rails around the lanai deflect the wind and insure privacy.

The kitchen-bar arrangement has been called "bachelor heaven." The low bamboo bar is the only separation between kitchen and living room, which makes it easy for the host to enjoy the company of his guests while "sweating over a hot stove."

Bedroom and bath really reveal the touch of the master builder. Miniature and compact, the bedroom is soundproofed and finished in dark gray so that one may sleep at any hour of the day or night. Closets, wardrobes, and dressing table are illuminated by a tricky arrangement that puts the lights on when the door opens. Built-in chests leave ample room for a big bed. A glass-enclosed shower, which covers one end of the bathroom, is equipped with high and low adjustable jets and streams so that one may have anything from a foot bath to a steam bath.

The house was blueprinted by Theodore Pletsch, architect, and built by Loren B. Weaver. Mr. Badger liked the plans so much that he pitched in and helped out, and now he and Weaver are building other small houses together.

The original was not cheap by present-day or any other standards, said Mr. Badger, and neither are the ones now being constructed. The partners, however, are providing "rather luxurious" small homes in the ten thousand dollar range.

The Manhattan Beach original has become famous as a "bachelor" house, in spite of the fact that Mr. Badger is married and his wife, as he says, is very much "at home." "It all started," he opines, "because, I suppose, it is the kind of a place a bachelor would like to have instead of a 'hall bedroom.'"

"Nevertheless," he added, "women, as well as men, like this type of home."

Photographs of the Badger home have been used by THE RAINBOW with permission of The Californian magazine.

Tau Anniversary

More than one hundred Deltas returned to the Penn State campus the week end of October 25 to commemorate the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of Tau Chapter.

Commemoration ceremonies were held at the Tau Shelter following the Penn State-West Virginia game. In the evening a banquet was held at the University Club with many celebrated guests in attendance.

Visiting alumni were housed at the Nittany Inn. Undergraduate chapter members moved out of the Shelter in order to accommodate others.

Banquet toastmaster was Mark M. Grubbs. Included on the speakers' program were Dean A. R. Warnock, of the College; C. W. Martzolf; and G. Herbert McCracken, President of Delta Tau Delta. Distinguished Service Chapter Citations were presented to two Tau alumni by past President Norman MacLeod.

Albert J. "Bud" Murphy, chairman of the event, provided a well-organized program for the entire week end.

A complete report of the event will be given in the February issue of THE RAINBOW.

Reminiscences of Early Delts

By FREDERIC M. WOOD, Western Reserve, '97

"Hark from the tombs a doleful sound," was the first line of one of those cheerful hymns at the old Methodist Chapel, and if this number of The Bulletin strikes you that way, just remember that Mike (Randall M. Ruhlman) asked for it. It is my observation that ancient history is, of all possible subjects, that one which the man of this high-powered age cares the most for no part of. I can't imagine myself—Zeta, '97—writing anything that would interest anybody under age sixty. But here again I pass the buck to your otherwise capable editor.

My formal introduction to the Cleveland Alumni of Delta Tau Delta took place at the old Forest City Hotel on the site now occupied by the Hotel Cleveland. It was famous both for the quality and quantity of its servings. The quantity was regulated only by the appetite and capacity of the guest, who could eat his way through the long bill of fare and be charged as much as fifty cents for the havoc he had wrought.

The effect of that party on the impressionable freshman of rural extraction can hardly be imagined in these days. I, who had never seen a football game, a dress suit, or more than one or two college graduates at a time, was suddenly catapulted into this dazzling company. I, even I, was presented to the president of the chamber of commerce, the city law director, an editor or two, and other professional dignitaries no end. If, in my youthful innocence, I got the idea that no other fraternity could possibly match this array of talent, no one took the pains to tell me otherwise. That was my affair, not theirs.

I especially remember Drs. Jack Thomas and Bob Ruedy, just back from their year in the Vienna hospitals, talking German fluently with a scholarly looking chap who seemed to be understanding them and leading in real harmony the singing of those age-old college songs which I was hearing for the first time. Then there was J. M. Shallen-

Editor's Note: Frederic M. Wood, former reporter for the Cleveland Plain Dealer and author of numerous articles and historical sketches, did this fine story for the Cleveland Alumni Chapter Bulletin. Believing that many of these flashbacks will be of general interest to all Delt readers, we are reprinting the article, with the permission of the author and Randall M. Ruhlman, editor of the Bulletin.

berger, not yet judge, but on the way, after some, but not too much urging, giving the entire grave-diggers' scene from Hamlet. Then that exuberant Kenyon Delt, G. Fred Williams, the life of the party, clerical garb and all. Was it possible that men like these would deem me worthy of a permanent place among them? It was, brethren, it was. They needed freshmen badly, how badly only God and themselves knew.

In my first year as an active, I was fifty per cent, numerically speaking, of Zeta Chapter. My classmate and roommate, George C. Clisby, alias Ted, was the other fifty. This is the same Clisby who on a memorable afternoon on the Cornell gridiron in 1895 threw an All-America guard around the premises with shocking disregard of the latter's reputation. Dr. George, I will note in passing, is spending the present winter in Florida after nearly half a century of medical practice around his boyhood home in Kinsman, Ohio. How we ever managed to pledge and help initiate three underclassmen and hang on by our fingernails until the class of 1900 came along, loaded with relatives and pals of former Delts, is a story of epic proportions, which probably will never be written, but if it should be, the alumni of the period will loom large on its pages.

An alumni chapter in the Nineties? Well, I am not sure as to the official status of that old crowd, but, individually and collectively, they were with us all the time. Not only were they ready on call with their presence and their pocketbooks, but they instilled into our inmost souls that it took a real man to live up to the ideals of Delta Tau Delta.

Of the Zetas there were two of the chapter founders, Alton A. Bemis, '83, and his classmate, James W. McLane; that unforgettable character, Sherman Arter, '86, and his classmates, Dr. Kent B. Waite and W. S. Pettibone; Gabriel Smith and Sidney S. Wilson from the class of 1888; Dr. Robert S. Ruedy, '90, and Dr. John J. Thomas, '91. From the fratres in urbe of other chapters were Minor G. Norton, Sigma, '78, city law director; Wilson M. Day, Mu, '78, president of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce; Alonzo E. Hyre, Eta, '84, later to be represented in Zeta Chapter by two sons and now a grandson.

There was a young physician whose coming world-wide fame as surgeon and investigator lay far in the future. This was Doctor George W. Crile, Psi, '92. An initiation would invariably bring that silver-tongued orator, Charles Krichbaum, Psi, '83; "Dad" Pumphrey, Eta, '74, of blessed memory; "Sunny Jim" Wakefield, Alpha, '89; and

Edison Marshall—Big-Game Author

As a little boy on hot summer afternoons, Indiana's Edison Marshall daydreamed as he angled for catfish in the upstate Iroquois River. On other days, ranging Jasper County fields with his .22-caliber rifle in search of small game he never seemed to be able to hit, the little boy liked to think of himself as a big-game hunter out stalking lions rather than bob-tailed rabbits. "Some day," he used to say to himself, "I'll track down tigers, and grizzlies, and leopards. . . ."

Daydreamers are frequently chalked off as notoriously poor doers. But for a quiet, awkward, non-athletic Jasper County farmboy, Edison Marshall has done a good deal. Somewhat less than 50 years later he is recognized as a top authority on big-game hunting; his adventure books and novels are far and away the leaders in their field; he has hunted his big game in the Arctic, Africa, India, and Burma.

His travels have taken him six times around the world. He has crossed Laos, the beautiful highlands of French Indo-China, by riverboat and horseback—the second American to turn the trick. He has explored—and named—the "Cave of the Million Buddhas," which since has caused a small tempest in the archeological teapot. A wild maharajah from the Himalayas once mistook him for an English governor and loaded him down with gifts. (Marshall didn't embarrass him by correcting the mistake.)

The story starts in 1880, when Marshall's father, who had studied law, stopped in Rensselaer, liked the town, bought the weekly newspaper and settled down. He was 30 then, with spectacular raven-black burnside whiskers. His name was George Edward Marshall, and he married Lilly Bartoo, a pretty Remington schoolteacher.

Lilly painted pictures and wrote poetry, almost professional in merit, taking time off to have a baby every two years. Her sister Jessie was one of the first women ever to own and operate a photographic studio in Indiana, while another sister Minnie was a first grade schoolteacher in Remington.

The fourth child in the family, Edison Marshall, was born in 1894 and reared by his Aunt Minnie, with whom he made a wagon trip every other week end from Remington and Rensselaer.

"Those 12 miles were the road to Samarcand," he says today. "We caught turtles and blue racers and saw prairie chickens and, once, an eagle! Aunt Minnie loved the strange and new, and was scared of nothing. For instance, she had taught school for 30 years, but at 60 she suddenly announced that she was 'sick and tired' of the blasted brats and would become a lino-typer.

"Learning to operate the immensely complicated machine was what I call a great adventure. She ran it successfully until she was nearly 80."

Marshall's father, by then an old-fashioned, fire-eating, Shakespeare-quoting editor of the daily Rensselaer Republican, affixed the middle name of "Tesla" to his fourth child in tribute to Thomas Edison's and Nicola Tesla's experiments in electricity. The name was a mistake. Edison Marshall immediately was dubbed "Tessie," a sissy girl's name which today's psychologists tell him may have been one of the factors that made him a big-game hunter.

Inept at athletics, Marshall took to hunting and fishing, he admits, because they seemed to be the only sports in which he "didn't make a show of myself." His friends were Howard (Lefty) Clark, now editor of the Rensselaer Republican; Cope Hanley, legal counsel for the Monon Railroad, and John Hempheil, Sears, Roebuck & Co. executive.

"We used to laugh at him," Clark has been quoted as saying about Marshall. "He was so unbelievably bum at games. He couldn't throw or catch a ball. When he tried to skate he fell down every few seconds. When we played 'Run Sheep Run' the side that got Edison always lost. But if we didn't like him, and rejoice at his success, we would be laughing out of the other side of our mouths by now."

In early adolescence, Edison was jerked from the little hills and green prairies of northern Indiana to the mountain of southern Oregon. His father, selling his paper, had gone there to retire. Edison, in the University of Oregon, began to write fiction. At only 21, he had a short story published in the Saturday Evening Post. That did it.

World War I, in which he served as a lieutenant, interrupted Marshall only long enough to delay for a brief time his writing of blood-and-thunder pulp magazine serials. That paid him enough to go moose and caribou hunting in Canada—his first experience in stalking big game.

"But I yearned to hunt tigers in India," he recalls, "so I wrote a tiger-hunting story about the jungles I had never seen." The story won the O. Henry Memorial Award as the best short story of the year. By the time he was 25, Marshall had finished his first book-length tale, The Voice of the Pack; had appeared twice in the O. Henry story collection, was recognized as an adventure writer—and had enough money to go adventuring.

He made a half-dozen expeditions to Alaska and one into the Arctic, shooting Kodiak and grizzly bears and writing his adventure romances for such magazines as the Post, Cosmopolitan, Field and Stream, and Good Housekeeping. The proceeds gave him enough for big four-month trips, in turn, to Africa, French Indo-China, India, and Burma. Out of the trips came such hair-raising stories as "In the Land of the Sladang," "Tiger! Tiger!" "One for Me, One for the Tiger" and "Tusk and Fang in Burma."

By 1920 Marshall had married an Augusta (Ga.) girl, Agnes Flythe, and settled in that city, where he lives today. But his adventures were far from over. A successful and established magazine author in his field, Marshall decided in 1939—much as once had his Aunt Minnie—to change his pace in the grand manner. He decided to turn to the field of the historical novel, writing only an occasional article.

His first real novel was Benjamin Blake, published in 1941, and Marshall sat back to see how it would go. It won the Literary Guild choice and attained, if not the top, at least a modest place on the best seller list. A movie from the book, entitled Son of Fury, starred Tyrone Power and Gene Tierney.

The second novel, a biography of Capt. John Smith titled Great

Smith, made a smash hit in Europe and already has been translated into Swedish, Dansk-Norsk, Finnish, German, and Dutch. During World War II, the United States sent 262,000 specially printed copies of the novel to its troops abroad.

More recently, Marshall has published The Upstart, a novel of the strolling players, and republished, in book form, his big-game hunting memoirs. Together he has published a total of twenty-six books, and a twenty-seventh, Yankee Pasha, will be out next month with a 625,000 book club sale already assured.

Nowadays, at his spacious "Breech-holm," in Augusta, Marshall works in a plain room equipped only with the simplest of furniture, some hunting trophies, and a litter of books and papers.

"I write all day and every day while an idea holds," he says; "then I have to stop and rest and figure out what in the hell would likely happen next. My Indiana accent has been overlaid with that of Oregon and Georgia, and visitors usually mistake me for a rebel.

"I can never be an out-and-out realist in my work. I did too much dreaming on the banks of the Iroquois. My best field seems to be the historical romance.

"Probably the road between Rensselaer and Remington is paved now, but I can still ride behind Stumble—that was our horse—on the old dirt road with Aunt Minnie, and that was a more momentous ride in my history than any on the road to Mandalay. The luscious curves of the Iroquois have likely been straightened by a dredger, but way down inside it is still a far more wonderful river to me than ever was the Brahmaputra. . . ."—By Frederick Parks. Reprinted from The Indianapolis Star Magazine.

Fraternity Values

problems. It has many of them. The more common are known to us all. They are perennial. They must be thought about and dealt with continuously.

At the very time when education is being expanded to larger and larger numbers and the federal government is looking with renewed interest at the prospect of subsidy, the small college and the fraternity are compelled to re-examine the basic tenets on which they have sought to serve society. . . .

During the past year more than 3100 inquiries have been received by the Admissions Office of Wabash College. In the fall term 177 new students were admitted. This amount of shrinkage puts a great testing upon the standards of selection maintained during the past seventy-five years. Almost every student who has attended Wabash College has had an opportunity to consider membership in some one of the fraternities on campus. With an enrollment of 600 men and with seven fraternities, that is no longer possible and the result puts a great strain upon the standards of selection used by the fraternity. . . .

Beta Psi has a long and honorable record. It extends years beyond the lifetime of any man here. It has successfully withstood criticism from within and without. Like the College, it is a living thing built of the lives that have gone into it and giving to the lives that have touched it.

There is no such thing as coasting up-hill. The future of Beta Psi, like the future of Wabash College, lies ahead—not behind.

Beta Psi in the years ahead will contribute to the well-being of men as it encourages the development, the growth, the unfolding of the abilities of each of the men whose names are found on the chapter roll.

Tie for First

Emory Delts are proud of their scholastic record for the summer quarter of 1947. With an index rating of plus four, they were tied for first place among all organized houses on the campus.

Three-Time Winner

For the third consecutive year, Delta Zeta Chapter has won first prize in the homecoming decorations contest at the University of Florida. The chapter has always stressed originality in its selection of a theme for a decoration.

A short time ago, at a luncheon meeting of the Greater New York Alumni Chapter, one of our members was called upon to say a few words. He replied by stating merely, "I have been a Delt for more than fifty years, and I respect and love my Fraternity more each year. While I was an undergraduate Delt, the groundwork was laid for this finer experience which has lived with me throughout my life."

His was not the first statement of this sort which it has been my good fortune to hear in one short year as your President. At the time that Iota Chapter was reinstalled at Michigan State, one of Iota's most active and devoted alumni, Frank B. Ainger, '98, lay critically ill in his hospital bed. Some of us were privileged to carry to his bedside the good news that his chapter, after fifty years of inactivity, was again on the active list. He received our information with a smile that bespoke great satisfaction, and he told us that Delta Tau Delta had meant more to him in his lifetime than his whole college experience. He has since recovered from his illness and has visited the new Iota.

Much of this devotion is a result of keeping active in the Fraternity after graduation. It can scarcely be experienced by those who become inactive or who dissociate themselves from the undergraduate and alumni functions of the Fraternity.

It is interesting to note that, although many young Delts become inactive almost immediately after graduation, just as soon as they have become established in their businesses or professions and are raising a family, they become active again in their own chapters or local alumni chapters. A fraternity would be an even greater force for good among college men if more of the current and recent graduates did not lose contact with their chapters. The Fraternity would also be stronger internally if this were true. Unfortunately, too many men never return to an active status, and although this is a loss to the Fraternity, it is a far greater personal loss to each of these members individually.

There have been other personal experiences in the last year which have brought home to me an appreciation of the values of the various aspects of Fraternity life. In Syracuse, for instance, I learned how the Syracuse alumni had been held together since the loss of their chapter in 1935 largely by a deep love and respect for Mother Gibbs, who for twenty-six years had been the chapter's housemother. Delta Alpha at Oklahoma is honoring its housemother, Mother Allen, who has been with the chapter for twenty-five years. Mother Flower, at Kappa Chapter, Hillsdale, completed her thirtieth year of service last month.

The housemother system has proved its worth. By her gracious presence and patient understanding, the housemother sets the social tenor in the chapter and becomes the members' "mother away from home."

Again, at the Iota installation, the singing by the Michigan chapters was a source of inspiration. As the banquet drew to a close, the singing of Delta Chapter's glee club compelled Dr. Hannah, president of Michigan State, to exclaim, "That is impressive!" "My Delta Shelter" cannot help tingling the blood of any group of young Delts if they sing it with feeling and sincerity. There is no question that group singing develops chapter spirit, loyalty, and esprit de corps.

James Melton, well-known star of radio and Metropolitan Opera, in contributing to the Fraternity's new pledge manual, had this to say: ". . . it seems to me that nothing which occurred at the house brought together so closely the pledges and the active members as did these songs and the texts thereof. . . . I make an honest effort to visit the Fraternity houses on each campus. I am continually impressed by the consistent urge to sing the old Fraternity songs, and many is the happy hour I have spent with the boys on these songs of my college days, which are, of course, the same ones used today."

Some of the significant experiences to which I have referred have occurred in correspondence. I received one letter which contained a request from a freshman who wanted guidance and help in eliminating sophomore preinitiation practices. The boy's pledge group had been treated roughly by the sophomores, but he realized that the practice would never die at his college if, as sophomores, he and his classmates decided to "get even" with the new freshman class. He took the initiative to learn what substitute program could be installed which would serve a better purpose.

This is the time of year when we should bring to the attention of chapter members, and particularly the sophomores, the feeling and conviction we all have about the old-fashioned Hell Week and its use of the paddle.

We know that progress in the right direction is being made, but a few chapters still consider it necessary to handle the freshmen roughly and, in their opinion, "impressively" at initiation time. We should not relax on our position for a moment.

Here is an opportunity for leaders among our sophomore members to express themselves. Let us believe that the young men our chapters have pledged and shall initiate into Delta Tau Delta prefer and will respond to inspired leadership much more favorably and permanently than they will to the sting of a paddle. I call upon you sophomore leaders to seize this opportunity and thereby make a worth-while and permanent contribution to the advancement of your chapter and your Fraternity.

▼ FROM THE FRATERNITY-COLLEGE WORLD ▼

President G. Herbert McCracken, former President Norman MacLeod, and Executive Vice-President Hugh Shields will be Delta Tau Delta's official delegates to the Thirty-ninth Annual Session of the National Interfraternity Conference, when fraternity leaders and college educators from all over the country gather November 28 and 29 at the Hotel Commodore in New York City.

Alternate delegates for the Fraternity are Eastern Division President Joel W. Reynolds and Gordon Jones, Editor of THE RAINBOW.

The Conference, which is composed of fifty-nine member fraternities, provides responsible leadership in promoting programs of benefit to the fraternity system and meets regularly to discuss matters of mutual interest to all fraternities.

Delts who are serving on the standing committees of the 1947 Conference include Dr. Alvan E. Duerr, who is a member of the membership and policy committees, and John F. White, Lawrence, '41, who is Dean of Students at Illinois Institute of Technology and a member of the Conference's educational advisory council.

Other educators who are members of Delta Tau Delta and have been active in the work of the Conference are Russell A. Griffin, Hillsdale, '28, Dean of Men, Western Reserve University; Horace T. Lavelly, Allegheny, '12, Dean of Men, Allegheny College; and Roland C. Matthies, DePauw, '31, Men's Advisor, Wittenberg College.

Although the program of the Conference's 1947 meeting had not been released, in all probability there will be held this year in connection with the Conference, an Undergraduate Conference, to which delegates of undergraduate interfraternity councils are invited. At last year's session Maurice Jacobs, then Chairman of the Conference, recommended that the new Chairman plan on an Undergraduate Conference in 1947. He said at that time, "It is most important that representatives of the local interfraternity councils meet periodically. The work of this Conference can reach the campus level much better through this medium than through any other source."

Expansion continues to keynote the interfraternity scene across the country. The journals of other fraternities have contained numerous accounts of new charter grants.

Following its national convention this summer, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, for instance, announced the granting of new charters at Texas College of Mines, El Paso; San Jose, California; and North Carolina State—which brings its total to 119.

Sigma Pi has increased its chapter roster by the reactivation of inactive chapters at the University of California and the University of Washington. It has also established colonies at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Fresno State College, Santa Barbara College, Utah State College, and the University of Arkansas.

Sigma Pi, incidentally, celebrated its fiftieth anniversary recently with a banquet in Indianapolis.

Sigma Phi Epsilon has been re-established at North Carolina, according to a recent announcement.

Kappa Sigma Fraternity has announced charter grants to local groups at Santa Barbara College and Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio.

Pi Kappa Alpha has reactivated and rechartered its chapter at Centenary College, Shreveport, Louisiana. Pi Kappa Alpha, in addition, has installed a new chapter at the University of Chattanooga and has made plans to enter Oregon State College this fall, which will swell its total of chapters to eighty-four.

The fall number of The Teke, the magazine of Tau Kappa Epsilon, reports the conclusion of the greatest year in Teke history, with thirteen new chapters added and all but two prewar chapters reactivated. Latest addition to the Teke roster is a chapter at Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

A special release from the department of public relations of Lehigh University advises that postwar housing problems for Lehigh freshmen will vanish in 1949, inasmuch as a long-range program for adequate housing of freshmen will soon be realized on that campus. A new dormitory is now under construction.

All out-of-town freshmen entering Lehigh in the fall of 1949 and thereafter will be required to live in campus dormitories during their first year. Completion of the third unit of the University's dormitory system in 1948 will make possible the housing of 1,050 students in five dormitories.

In announcing the new ruling, Dr. Wray H. Congdon, Dean of Undergraduates, stated that the delay of a year, after the building is ready for occupancy, in enforcing the requirement of all freshmen's living in the dormitories is allowed so that all fraternities can adjust their student populations without serious difficulties.

Sigma Nu Fraternity installed its one hundredth undergraduate chapter when a charter was granted last spring at Westminster College (Pennsylvania). The local fraternity taken in was eighty-two years old.

Beta Theta Pi has announced the election of its new general secretary—Colonel Clifford C. Gregg, Director of the Chicago Museum of Natural History.

AROUND THE FIREPLACE

WITH GOOD DELTS

On most campuses we have rung down the curtain on rush week. There remains now the epilogue, which is a sort of commentary on what took place. And if we were writing that commentary, we would drag out the one discordant note in the whole picture and hang it on the line.

We mean this business of alumni recommendations. A great many were received this year. Most of them were courteously and tactfully handled and acted upon; some of them were not. Some were not even acknowledged.

Frankly, some alumni are seriously questioning the value of making recommendations. And you can't blame them! There's no incentive for sending further recommendations when your letters go unanswered and the young men you recommend never see the inside of the Shelter.

There is a real need here for an understanding. Every now and then a chapter rush chairman looks with suspicion or indifference at a recommendation from an alumnus. He seems to feel, somehow, that the class of '06 is trying to tell the class of '48 how to run things, that an outsider is attempting to cram something down the chapter's unwilling throat, that perhaps the alumnus has something personal to gain by foisting his protégé upon the chapter.

Well, what are the motives of Brother Doak, '06, who sends in the name of Bill Jones and invites the chapter to look him over? Why should he be so interested in having Bill be a Delt? Is it because he has something personal to gain? Will it bring him monetary recompense or great glory? Usually it won't—unless Bill happens to be the boss' son and can't get an invitation from any other tong. Why, then, should he take time out from a busy schedule to write long letters or to give Bill a good rush talk? Doak is forty years out of college. Why should he bother himself at all?

Perhaps he does have something personal to gain, for certainly, if he loves his Fraternity, it will be a great personal satisfaction for him to see outstanding young men directed to that organization. If he takes pride in the accomplishments of Delta Tau Delta, he will be personally gratified by securing for the Fraternity men who will be a credit to it. If he conscientiously wants to serve his Fraternity, what better way could he choose than offering for appraisal a youth who he believes would be a Good Delt?

Aside from his self-styled idea of what is good for the Fraternity, what right does Doak have to make recommendations to your chapter? Well, for one thing, he helped build that Shelter you're living in. He contributed to the fund that put the rug in your front room and the andirons in the fireplace. He and some of the others kept the chapter alive when wars and legislatures and hard times militated against it. If it hadn't been for the Doaks, there probably wouldn't be any Delta Tau Delta.

And for all this what does he ask of you in the chapter? That you engrave his name on the front door? That you pay him great homage? That you pledge willy-nilly every man that he recommends? No. No one knows better than you that the final decision is yours, that in the final analysis you in the chapter run your own show. No one wants it otherwise.

What Doak does request is not much, and if he didn't request it, good breeding and courtesy at least would. First of all, he would ask that you acknowledge his recommendation—that you extend him the courtesy of a reply. If you would thank the man who does you a favor, you would thank the alumnus who recommends a rushee. A personal letter is appreciated, but if circumstances do not permit the time required, the Central Office supplies printed forms which may be used with a minimum of effort.

Second, he would ask that you consider the young man he recommends, that you invite him to the Shelter and treat him courteously, as you would another guest.

Third, he would ask that you play fairly with the rushee, that you be gracious and tactful, that you do nothing to embarrass him or yourselves. And that is all.

If you have done these three things, Doak understands that you have discharged the duties of gentlemanly conduct. Of course he would like to know the outcome of his recommendation. (The Central Office provides forms to serve this purpose.) He does not ask that your chapter give up its right of selection, however, and if you follow these three fundamentals, you will have kept the good will of a loyal alumnus.

Which brings us to the crux of the whole situation. In the heat and the furor of rush week, it is easy to overlook some of the little amenities which comprise good manners. It is easy to fall into habits which can make one something less than a gentleman.

Perhaps it would not be amiss for all of us to recall occasionally that in rushing and in alumni relations and in everything else, if Delta Tau Delta stands for anything, it stands for good manners.

Dr. Frank Wieland, a great President of the Fraternity, put it rather well. He said:

"Delta Tau Delta stands for aristocracy, but it is the aristocracy of morals, and of deeds. She stands for courtesy, for the thousand and one little acts that make the difference between the gentleman and the boor. She stands for chivalry, the chivalry that recognizes the rights of all men, and respects their reserves."

At the opening of the fall term in 1862, the war between the North and South had taken such a heavy toll of undergraduates that W. H. Kirk found himself the one active member of his chapter, then Alpha of Jefferson College, and the one active member in the whole Fraternity. An early historian, however, relates that "he was soon reinforced by a number of young men who were recommended to him by the members of his chapter who had left college."

Publications Awards to Mu, Delta Alpha, Gamma Tau

Honorable Mention to Alpha, Gamma Kappa,
Phi, and Gamma Upsilon

Competition for awards made to undergraduate chapters for publications issued during the school year 1946-47 resulted in a tie in the newspaper format division between Mu (Ohio Wesleyan) and Delta Alpha (Oklahoma) and first place in the magazine format division to Gamma Tau (Kansas).

Each chapter will be awarded a prize valued at $50, consisting of merchandise suitable for a chapter hall or chapter house. The practice of making awards for the best chapter publications, suspended during the war years, was reinstated last spring.

Honorable mention in the newspaper format classification was awarded Phi (W. & L.) and Gamma Kappa (Missouri). Gamma Upsilon (Miami) was cited for honorable mention in the magazine format classification. A special honorable mention for constructive use of mimeographed publications and newspaper in combination was given to Alpha (Allegheny).

Basis of Selection

As a guide to chapters in competing for the annual publications award, the committee suggests attention to the following points.

Winners are selected on the basis of: first, general appeal and interest of the material to alumni; second, manner in which the material is written and edited; third, attractiveness in typographical layout and printing. The number of issues presented during the college year is taken into consideration; however, more than three issues will not influence the award.

Chapters using professional services in publishing their papers are not eligible for the award, but the committee is authorized to confer honorable mention to such chapters.

This section of the firm is eminent in the development of faired-in, dragless antennas for trans-sonic and super-sonic aircraft.

During and since the war Dr. Krueger has worked with the Manhattan Project (nuclear physics and nuclear and radiation chemistry), with the Allen D. Cardwell Company (as engineer in charge of research and development), and with Republic Aviation Corporation (as development engineer on a guided missiles project).

Dr. Krueger is a former chapter adviser of Delta Omicron Chapter at Westminster College. He served in that capacity at the time the chapter received its charter.

Gamma Eta Reactivated

Summer activities at Gamma Eta (George Washington) have been confined to reorganization and re-establishment of the chapter. Gamma Eta went inactive in the fall of 1942 when the bulk of the active chapter was called into the armed forces.

Definite steps were taken for reactivation last April when, under a committee of alumni, the Capital Deltas got together at the National Press Club for the National Capital Founders Day Banquet. Some two hundred and thirty Deltas showed enthusiasm for the reactivation of Gamma Eta.

The work began. The committee on reactivation planned social gatherings at the houses of the interested alumni to maintain the current interest and to enlarge membership of the George Washington University chapter.

The rush committee, headed by Lowell Moran, with the assistance of other active Deltas, including Chuck Ellis, Ed Young, Harold Howland, and Dean Nichols, capitalized on early rush functions and pledged Joe Rawlings, a premed student, and Charley Smay, a business administration major. The committee then had a nucleus around which it could form an active chapter.

The pledging of three other men followed—Reggie Stabler, Franklin McLernon, and Percy Uhlinger—all typical Deltas, and all eager to set the stages for a strong season this fall. The formal pledging of these men took place Friday, September 26, in an impressive ceremony at the home of Burr Christopher.

Gamma Eta was pleased to have President G. Herbert McCracken and Hugh Shields spend Monday, September 22, with the reactivation committee, at which time the progress and plans of the committee were discussed.

The chapter was fortunate to have Johnny Oliver, Ohio State, '43, and Bob Nolan, Ohio State, '48, with it in various stages of its reactivation. Johnny Oliver, now traveling for the Central Office, has been on hand for the more important occasions to give guidance and advice to the active chapter.

Bob Nolan, now a student at Ohio State, graciously offered his services to Gamma Eta, and was with the chapter during the vital period prior to the opening of school. His activities included the co-ordination of the alumni and actives and advisement on rushing and administrative organization.

Homecoming Chairman

Delt Bob Kenworthy is this year's chairman of the homecoming celebration for Iowa State College. He has announced that he has booked Tex Beneke for the College's homecoming dance.

Alumni Contribute

The success of Beta Theta Chapter's rush week at Sewanee, which resulted in the pledging of fifteen men from eleven different states, may be partly attributed to the splendid co-operation of Delt alumni on the Mountain. The chapter extended appreciation to William W. Lewis, retiring chapter adviser; John Hodges, new chapter adviser; the Right Reverend Frank Juhan, Episcopal Bishop of Northern Florida; Walter McGoldrick; Major Ellis Bearden; Dr. George B. Myers; and wives of the alumni—Mrs. Myers, Mrs. McGoldrick, and Mrs. Hodges.

Another Tradition

Another tradition at the Delta Pi Shelter, Southern California, has been reinstated. Each Saturday before the football game a preclash buffet luncheon is given for friends and alumni of the chapter. Bill Shattuck and Larry O'Neil are in charge of the luncheon, which has been successful in giving alumni members an opportunity to meet the active chapter.

Remodeling Completed

With remodeling practically complete, the finishing touches being all that remain, Tennessee's Shelter is not only the equal of, but is superior to, any house on the "Hill" this year. The spacious game room, with juke box, wall booths, pool table, ping-pong table, and coke machine, could look no better had it been carefully planned and produced by talented Hollywood decorators. The kitchen is a chef's dream with its new checkered tile floor and its new electric range and dishwasher. Thanks to the Mothers' and Wives' Club, the chapter now has cushioned chairs in the dining room and plush leather cushions on all seats in the game room.

Productive Reunion

At the annual Beta Upsilon reunion in Champaign, Illinois, alumni and actives laid the groundwork for a four-year house renovation plan to be executed during the yearly vacations.

This summer Fred Berger, '13, and son, Tom, '39, architects, carried out the first step of the house corporation's design with extensive refurbishing inside and out. An all-over paint job followed installation of a new wiring and lighting system, refrigerators, and heating plant. New floor coverings, furniture, and furnishings completed the decoration in time for fall rushing.

Westminster Wins Honors

The George B. English Scholarship Trophy, coveted campus award for the organization with the highest scholastic average, has been won by Delta Omicron Chapter for the third year in succession. Delta Omicron is the first social organization in the history of the award to win it three years straight—ample evidence that placing emphasis on scholarship pays off.

Individual honors, too, have come to Westminster Delts. Bob Schroeder, varsity tennis letterman, has been elected president of the sophomore class. Active in intramural sports, Bob is a member of the glee club, prominent in the International Relations Club, and on the staff of the campus newspaper and annual.

Reynolds Hamlin, chapter president, is also the new vice-president of the senior class. He is the chapter's representative on IFC and is a member of the International Relations Club.

Bob Green, who is chapter corresponding secretary, has been appointed editor-in-chief of the Blue-

Jay, college annual. Bob is a member of Jabberwocky and the International Relations Club and is on the production staff for the campus variety show.

Cornell Footballers

Football season at Cornell, opening with Lehigh, found Beta Omicron Chapter well represented on the gridiron. Fred VanderPoel and Joe Morrow are among the hard workers on the field each day. When basketball season starts, Bill Hunt, Jack Servis, Gordy Harrison, and Fred Turk, of Beta Omicron, will be bidding for honors.

Beta Omega Ranks High

Beta Omega Chapter distinguished itself on the University of California campus in the spring semester by obtaining a scholastic average of 1.76. This average was the second highest among the forty-six fraternities at the University and far above the all men's average, which was about 1.25.

The excellent showing of the chapter was due to the efforts of Dick Burns, scholarship chairman, who planned and carried through the semester a smooth, well-working scholarship program. The house average was greatly aided by Graham Glascock, Perry Byerly, and Dick himself, all of whom received a straight A average.

An Even Dozen

Twelve Delts represent Gamma Theta Chapter on the Baker gridiron this season. Five are lettermen, with twice all-conference end, Jim Irick, playing his last season. Jim is one of the headiest men on the team; he will fill the quarterback slot.

Kitchen Enlarged

As a part of this year's preparation for rush week, Delta Alpha Chapter, Oklahoma, included its kitchen as one of its major projects. With the chapter as large as it was last year, members of the house corporation, with no exception, deemed it necessary to rejuvenate the kitchen. It was a gourmet's delight to see the new king-size stove, two toasters, and double coffee urn installed.

On Soccer Squad

The opening of the soccer season at Stevens finds several Delts on the varsity squad. Bob Gooley and Don Cordell started last season on the Jayvee team and now rank among the top players on the varsity squad. Bill Schmidt was appointed team manager for the season. Among other accomplishments, Bill played a starring role in the Spring Sports Week End presentation of "Knickerbocker Holiday." Also active in sports is Tom Brendgoord, who made a name for himself on his high school basketball team and promises to be one of the mainstays of the Stevens squad during the current year.

November Initiation

Rho Chapter's initiation committee is planning elaborate formal ceremonies to take place early in November at Stevens. All alumni of Rho and representatives of all Delt chapters in the Eastern Division will be invited to attend. Following the rites, a banquet for the new initiates will be held in one of the local hotels.

Tech Homecoming

Major event of the fall season at Delta Beta, to which all Delts are looking forward, is Carnegie Tech's homecoming week end of November 15. Last year the celebration on the entire campus seemed to center around the Shelter, and all alumni who attended recall the event as an outstanding one. Plans have been laid for an even greater celebration this year, and it is hoped that all former Tech Delts will find it possible to attend.

Play for Little Giants

Delts Len Wahl, Norm Wilson, George Ekstedt, Tom Barrett, and Thayne Sando are helping the Little Giants of Wabash in their fight to better their enviable gridiron record of last year. Beta Psi's Paich and Trapp are assistants on the coaching staff. Yell leader for Wabash is Delt Bill Clark, who is also editor of the Caveman, campus humor magazine.

Mother Flower

Kappa Chapter at Hillsdale reports that its beloved housemother,

Mother Flower, has recovered from a recent illness and is back in fine spirits to give the chapter further guidance. Mother Flower has served for thirty years as housemother at Hillsdale.

Delt Quarterback

Beta Alpha Chapter is proud to claim as one of its members Del Russell, an outstanding quarterback on Bo McMillan's "Fightin' Hoosiers." "Rus" is one of the team's better passers. He is a rather small boy (six feet, one inch, 175 pounds), but his lack of beef is made up by his agility and his speed. "Rus" has one more year to play.

Hope to Repeat

Homecoming noises have been heard for some time on the Butler campus. They will rise to a frenzied crescendo when the Butler Bulldogs meet Western Michigan's Broncos on homecoming day. The Beta Zeta Shelter is being prepared to receive another cup for the best house decoration to match the one awarded to the Delts last year.

Represent Five States

Five states were represented by five recent initiates at Baker. A stag was held in honor of Richard Sweet, Illinois; John Flickinger, Kansas; Otto Henderson, Ohio; Harlan Miller, Missouri; and George Olmstead, Minnesota.

Chicken Fry Remains

The Fifty-eighth Annual Chicken Fry of Gamma Theta Chapter, Baker, was held October 18. Delts were invited from the four adjoining chapters at Kansas, Kansas State, Missouri, and Westminster. The traditional paddle favor was given to all dates. "Time has changed many things at Baker," writes the chapter correspondent, "but 'Chicken Picking' will continue forever."

Alumni Aid Rush

Five well-planned parties in various parts of the state of West Virginia contributed to the continued success of rushing at Gamma Delta Chapter. More than one hundred rushees were entertained at these parties.

The capital city, Charleston, was the scene of a banquet and smoker which was attended by twenty-five prospects and forty alumni members of Delta Tau Delta. This is one of the largest groups of Delts to be organized in the city since several years before the war. Lawn parties, banquets, and smokers were held in Parkersburg, Fairmont, Clarksburg, and Morgantown.

Wins Opener

New pledges contributed to Gamma Iota's first offensive in the intramural campaign at Texas, a football game in which the Delts overwhelmed their opponents 23 to 0. The team is under the expert coaching of Ed Schutze, a '44 letterman of the powerful Longhorns, and the Delt game is sparked by the near-professional passing of Vilbry White and expert place-kicking of John Fry.

Skin Changes Hands

With the inside help of Delts H. K. Allen and Errol Fry in the Texas-Oregon pigskin clash, Gamma Iota was able to add another trophy skin to its collection, much to the sorrow of Delts at Oregon, who had envisioned an Oregon victory.

Looking to the future, the most eagerly awaited event for Gamma Iota is the Texas-Oklahoma game in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. After the game Delts of the Texas and Oklahoma chapters have reserved the Junior Ballroom of the Adolphus Hotel for a private dance. This social event shows great promise of becoming a yearly tradition for the two chapters.

Versatile Member

Every chapter has its "rods" and every chapter has its "brains." But few chapters can boast such a versatile member as Beta Alpha's Harry Wallace. Harry, a senior in prelaw, has a 2.75 average and wears nine keys on his key chain. Among them are Skull and Crescent, Falcon Club, Union Board, Board of Aeons, Phi Eta Sigma, and Blue Key. Harry has brought honor to himself and to Delta Tau Delta through his many achievements on the Indiana campus.

1. Iota Chapter set the pace at Michigan State last spring when its pledges marched out to supplant unpopular hazing with the "Campus Cleanup."
 2. The last of the Barber brothers was pledged at Oklahoma, and Delta Alpha has all of them now—(left to right) Dick, Van, and Jack.
 3. Illinois Delts gathered in front of the fireplace at a Beta Upsilon reunion. Left to right: ANDY PHILLIP, ERNIE POOL, BABE LIVAN, and J. B. CROWLEY.
 4. This is the float that won first prize for Delta Mu of Idaho.

5. With this novel decoration, Delta Mu also won honors in homecoming competition.
 6. Beta Phi Chapter's summer formal was held at the mansion of Ohio Governor Thomas J. Herbert.

Summer Frolics

During the University of Florida's Summer Frolics, Delta Zeta Deltas participated in their usual whole-hearted manner. A picnic at the University's recreational area, Lake Wauburg, was the chief event in the Deltas' private datebook during the summer term.

Spring Mill Party

Beta Zeta Deltas, of Butler, are preparing for their annual house party. About thirty couples are expected to spend Thanksgiving week end at Spring Mill State Park. The program includes a hayride, treasure hunt, banquet, and dance. Activities run from Friday noon until Sunday noon.

Linemen Spark Team

Southern California's gridiron team is sparked this year by two Deltas—Jay Perrin and Jim Snyder. Both men plug holes in the line and can throw their weight around without fear of being bowled over. Perrin is six feet, four inches, and weighs 299 pounds, while Snyder is five feet, nine inches, and tips the scale at 200.

Delt Cheerleaders

The Deltas are furnishing two of the three male cheerleaders at the University of Tennessee this year. They are Tandy Wilson, head cheerleader, and Joe Roberts, who is new in the corps.

Housemother Acquired

Fraternities on the Wisconsin campus adopted the housemother system this year. After much hard work and planning, mainly by chapter President John Secord, Beta Gamma Chapter has prepared an adequate suite and has installed a housemother—Mrs. Veva Huntington—of whom the members are most proud.

A native of Platteville, Wisconsin, Mrs. Huntington at one time gained recognition for her cake-decorating prowess. She still treasures a letter from President Coolidge thanking and complimenting her for one of her cakes.

For the last ten years Mrs. Huntington has been a sorority housemother, serving on campuses at the Universities of Iowa, Colorado, and Wyoming. She was noted on all three campuses for her ability to serve the best meals on the lowest budgets.

In addition to her proficiency in the field of foods, Beta Gamma's housemother has an interest in photography that will undoubtedly result in more Wisconsin pictures in THE RAINBOW.

First Newsletter

Iota's first newsletter, sent this summer to all Deltas residing in Michigan, announced the new chapter's first alumni since the February reactivation. They were Norman Schmitzer, Louis Nedeau, and Lawson Brown.

Following the announcement, an appeal was made to brother Deltas for recommendations for fall rushing. The response was, in the words of the rush chairman, Art Stadelmeyer, "so good the committee had to be enlarged."

Ann Arbor Week End

At the end of fall registration week, Iota Chapter's members took off for Ann Arbor for the annual Michigan-Michigan State kickoff. Iota Deltas cheered on their team, particularly Delt Jim Zito, tackle in State's line-up, and were entertained by Delta Chapter after the game with a dinner dance that made State Deltas forget the lopsided score.

Housing Solved at M.I.T.

Beta Nu Chapter's man power is back to the prewar level of fifty members, but since there is living space for only twenty-six men in the Shelter, the problem of obtaining adequate quarters arose this fall. The difficulty was quickly solved by the procurement of the entire second floor of a dwelling just two houses away. With most of the members quartered in either the Shelter or the "Delt Annex," the chapter is now able to settle down to organized work.

Wesleyan Delt Honored

William J. Malamud has been awarded the Osborne Memorial Trophy as the most outstanding member of Gamma Zeta's freshman delegation. The trophy was presented to Bill by Chapter Adviser

Tom Meeker at the commencement dinner last June.

The trophy was established in the fall of 1941 in honor of Ralph Osborne, a brother of Gamma Zeta who was killed during the summer vacation of that year. Ralph, by far the most outstanding member of his delegation, was loved by all for his congeniality, friendship, and devotion to his Fraternity and its brothers. He showed promising qualities on the freshman football team and was scholastically equal to the best in the chapter. His death was a blow to his classmates; they established the trophy in his honor and memory.

The statue itself is gold and stands about fifteen inches in height. It bears an inscription to Ralph, the qualities its recipient should possess, and the names of those who have received the trophy in the years succeeding its establishment.

To those who receive the trophy, miniature replicas of the original about seven inches in height are given. At present the award bears the names of Robert F. Black and William P. Thompson. Bill's name is now being engraved.

Dean Tate Award

Dean William Tate, of the University of Georgia, this fall donated to Beta Delta and Gamma Psi Chapters scholarship keys to be awarded for freshman scholastic achievement. Dean Tate, an alumnus of Beta Delta, will donate keys annually to both chapters as an added incentive for superior scholarship during pledge training.

First winner of the key in Gamma Psi Chapter, Georgia Tech, is Henry McCamish, who had the highest scholastic average in the 1947 pledge class.

Delta Activities

Campus activities have proved attractive to a number of Michigan Deltas this fall. Joe Wimsatt is serving as a member of IFC staff and has announced his intention of running for chairman of J-Hop. Jim Wimsatt, Art Higbee, and George Whitehorne are representing Delta Chapter on the staff of the Michigan Daily, while Walt Shaffer is a member of the Michigan Union Opera Committee.

Ken Bay is once again writing feature articles for the Michigan Technic, a publication of the engineering students. Ted Bank's cartoons will regale foresters and other students alike in the pages of the Michigan Forester. Ted was editor-in-chief of the Forester during the past year.

Pointing for Record

Gamma Chi Chapter, Kansas State, will seek to extend its remarkable record of never having been defeated in the homecoming decorations contest since 1936 when Nebraska invades Manhattan for homecoming this fall. All organized houses and departments on the campus will enter into a gala week end with house decorations and a parade of floats.

High light of this year's homecoming at Kansas State will be the visit of General Dwight Eisenhower, brother of the College's president, Milton Eisenhower.

Four Delts in Line-Up

Four members of Delta Gamma Chapter spearhead South Dakota's gridiron attack this fall. Mainstay of the line is Norman Bartholow, who packs a terrific 230-pound punch at guard. Last season's most outstanding lineman, Norm is expected to be a candidate for all-conference selection this year.

The wings of the Coyote line are securely protected by two rugged and hard-hitting Delts. Harry Klostergaard, already a two-year letterman, is certain to use his experience and his 195 pounds to play havoc with opposing backs as well as to add several touchdowns for the Red and White. Harry Carleton, the other end, has already proved himself a rough and capable contender in his first year of college football. "Little Bud" (who is six feet three and weighs 210 pounds) doesn't have any trouble holding on to an airborne pigskin after being a star player for the last season's University cagers.

The scoring punch is centered around the star of last year's eleven, Tailback Jack VanArsdale. Jack weighs only 175 but makes up for this weight deficit by his ability as a broken field runner. From his tailback spot, Jack also directs the aerial attack, while getting his teammates out of some bad spots with his beautiful boots of nearly sixty yards. He is a triple-threat man who is certain to emerge with all-conference honors.

Three other Delts certain to see plenty of action are Linemen Virgil Vail and Karleton Johnson and blocking Back Merle Houck.

The Delta Gamma varsity men are fortunate to be coached by such men as backfield Coach Dick Richards, Northwestern, '41, who captained the Northwestern team of 1940.

Father-Son Combination

William E. "Bill" Buckler, of East Alton, Illinois, Delta Eta, '26, who kicked the point which won the Rose Bowl Game for Alabama in 1926 and who has always been recognized as one of Alabama's all-time great football players, visited the Shelter at the beginning of the school year.

Bill is a charter member and past president of Delta Eta. He was largely instrumental in bringing Delta Tau Delta to the Alabama campus.

With him he brought his elder son, Bill, Jr., who is now a Delt pledge. The father placed the pin on his son, an honor both have awaited for years.

Bill, Jr., who distinguished himself in high school football, will try out for the freshman team at Alabama.

BILL THOMPSON, Delta Eta president, and BILL BUCKLER, JR., son of a former president and charter member of the chapter.

Delt Editor

Another important step in keeping Delta Tau Delta in the lime-light in campus journalism at Oregon State was taken when Fred Zwahlen, junior, received the appointment of editorship of the student directory. Fred was editor of the newly published student handbook and is night editor of the school paper. He was initiated into Sigma Delta Chi, journalism honorary, last spring and is currently treasurer of Delta Lambda Chapter.

Sophomore Tailback

Beta Kappa's Harry Narcisian, '50, a prominent figure in Colorado athletics, is tailback on the varsity football team. A sophomore in the engineering school, Harry gives promise of being a real threat to opposing teams.

Caniff Comes Through

An event much anticipated in Delta Lambda Chapter at Oregon State is the formal "hanging" of Delta, mysterious and beautiful woman in the new Steve Canyon comic strip. After following Steve in one certain adventure, enthralled Delts penned a letter to Milton Caniff, Sigma Chi creator of the strip, and asked him for a picture of Delta.

Caniff obligingly returned an eighteen by twelve drawing artistically finished in glowing colors. In one corner was the inscription: "A sleek peek for you Greeks—from Steve Canyon and Milton Caniff." Pledges have yet to finish ogling.

Miami Homecoming

Gamma Upsilon Chapter made extensive plans for Miami's gala homecoming. House decorations, parades, and a football game with rival Ohio University were features of the day.

Spectators at the games this year are seeing a Miami team which is predominantly Delt. Mel Olix, star quarterback, and Tom Cole form a great place kick combination. Jack Carmichael, Ray Green, and Johnny North are all backfield men, while Arch McCartney and Bob Kappes serve in the line. In addition, Delts claim Duke Small on the coaching staff.

Three for Gamma

Three members of Gamma Chapter—John Capriotti, Bob Craft, and John Lukowsky—play on Washington and Jefferson's varsity football team. They are expected to give a good account of themselves in what should be a successful season for W. & J.

Fall Activities

The members of Gamma Tau Chapter, Kansas, are claiming their share of honors in fall activities.

Buck Neel is on the intramural advisory board. Cliff Wade, former K football letterman, is coaching the intramural football squad this year; he is also the social chairman.

Hoyt Baker, punting fullback, and Charlie Moffett, who was starting halfback for Kansas during the war, are playing varsity ball this year, as is Ed Blincoe, a former navy pilot. Ed's "little" brother, Bob, is a promising player on the freshman squad. Charlie and Hoyt both saw a lot of action in the two games played to date—the Texas Christian game, played to a scoreless tie in the tail-end of the New Orleans hurricane, and the Denver U. game which ended in a 9-0 victory for Kansas.

Dave Mordy has received a Summerfield scholarship for his scholastic achievement.

Actor Extraordinary

Back with the Shelter Deltas of Chapter Mu once again is Kelly Danford of Ohio Wesleyan. To his friends "K. D." represents one of those extremely rare combinations of inexhaustible energy (hurricane style), boundless wit (Oscar Levant style), and numerous and varied talents (all his own).

Kelly came to Ohio Wesleyan in 1938, graduating with a B.M. degree in 1942. In 1939 he joined Chapter Mu and has been devoting much of his high talent to Delt crusades ever since. Kelly's talents, however, in his fields of drama and music have not developed without much hard work and careful cultivation. His background in various theater and opera projects reads like a professional's playbill.

In high school, back in '38, Kelly took the leading male roles in dramatic and light opera productions. In 1942, after graduation, he went to Ada High School, where he taught for four years and where he established the now famous Civic Theater. For three summers (1942-43-44), Kelly was with summer stock at Plymouth, Mass. There he played Albert in Ladies in Retirement, Beverly Carleton in The Man Who Came to Dinner, and many other leading roles. The year 1946 saw Kelly back at Wesleyan to work for his master's in speech and opera production.

Last spring Kelly created a sensation of no mean proportions at Wesleyan in his role of the Lord Chancellor in Iolanthe. Never one to let an idle moment creep up on him, Kelly "took the summer off" this year by directing the opera productions at the summer music colony in North Carolina. This fall he is continuing his master's work and teaching classes at Wesleyan under a fellowship in speech.

Incidental to this magnificent record are Kelly's many elections to honoraries which include Theta Alpha Phi (drama), Phi Mu Alpha (music), and Omicron Delta Kappa (senior men's honorary).

Renovation at Emory

Proudest fraternity members on the Emory campus are the Delts of Beta Epsilon Chapter. Their re-decorated Shelter is a glowing tribute to the spirit of co-operation which exists among them. A few of the members worked steadily from the close of school last summer to the beginning of the fall quarter in order that the Shelter might be the place of beauty that it now is. The new oak-panelled playroom promises to be a main center of activity for many years to come. Alumni support, loyalty, and that good Delt spirit were the chief factors which brought about the many improvements to the Shelter.

Summer Party

The big event of Beta Phi's social calendar at Ohio State during the summer quarter was the summer formal on the lawn of the Governor's mansion. Dancing, singing, and refreshments were the high spots of the evening. Beta Phis came in from everywhere, and there were Delts from all the other Delt chapters in Ohio. Many had the privilege of meeting Governor Thomas J. Herbert, Western Reserve, '15, during the evening. The affair was brought to a successful conclusion with everyone's joining in on a serenade to all the lady guests.

Cincinnati Migration

The first big social function for Gamma Xi was a mass migration of the chapter to Delta Epsilon at the University of Kentucky to witness the battle between the Bearcats and the Wildcats. The long bus ride was overshadowed by the cordial reception and southern hospitality accorded the visiting members.

Novel Decoration

Indiana's homecoming on October 4 was marked by many beautiful decorations in all fraternity and sorority houses. The sophomore class of Beta Alpha provided the brains and brawn to produce a fine display. The chapter's decoration was a huge revolving ash tray with many signs and pictures around it. It was said to be one of the more original on the campus.

ATHLETIC

1. Upsilon's DAYMON JORDAN, star back for Rensselaer, All-America in lacrosse, winner of the Batchelor Cup. (See story on Page 31.)

2. "HAMY" MILLER, Cornell, number one goalie of the Big Red lacrosse squad for two years.

3. MURNEY LAZIER, Beta Upsilon, crashing fullback at Illinois.

4. DON CORDELLI, Rho, ace halfback on Stevens' soccer team.

5. JACK SERVIS, Beta Omicron, shot-putter, javelin and hammer thrower on Cornell's track team this year and last.

STANDOUTS

1. DEL RUSSELL, Beta Alpha, quarterback of the Indiana eleven.

2. JIM ZITO, Iota, varsity tackle for Michigan State.

3. MEL SHEEHAN, first-string end at Missouri, captain of track, president of Gamma Kappa Chapter.

4. HOYT BAKER (left), fullback, and CHARLIE MOFFETT, halfback, play for GEORGE SAUER'S Kansas team.

5. BOB GOOLEY, center forward for Stevens, dribbles past opponent in squad soccer practice.

1. Third-floor members of Upsilon at R. P. I. (Prescribed neck-ware for third floor is bow tie.)

2. Beta Alpha President BILL FRASER, prominent activities man on the Indiana campus.

3. Rho's administrative committee discusses plans for fall term with Prexy ARVE LARSSON (with gavel) at Stevens.

5. Foreman of Delta's paint gang at Michigan is DICK SCHILLING.

6. Upsilon Delts gather around the piano for close harmony.

4. RONALD FETT, North Dakota president and editor of campus daily, examines scholarship plaque won by freshmen.

8. Iota Chapter (Michigan State) entertains four lads from Delt FLOYD STARR'S Commonwealth School (Michigan's Boys' Town). Center is Mr. Baughman, assistant director of school.

Alpha Delts in Soccer

Alpha Chapter, Allegheny, is well represented in soccer this year. Al Carpenter is manager and Bob Davis is an assistant manager. Ralph Roberts is back for his third year as varsity fullback. Ralph Ketcham, who played goalie for the Coast Guard Academy, is trying out for that position at Allegheny.

In other fields, Paul Berner has been elected captain of the track team. There are five Delts in the Allegheny band—Bob McCune, Bob Mekeel, Don Beard, Dick Davis, and John Pflieger, the drum major.

MacKinnon Addresses Delts

Former Gopher grid great and a Delt, George MacKinnon, '29, a Minnesota Representative in the United States House of Representatives, addressed Beta Eta Chapter at its opening meeting of the fall quarter.

There will be other guests this fall. Thirty-three Delts of the Northwestern chapter are expected to visit the Beta Eta Shelter the week end of the Minnesota-Northwestern contest. After the game coffee will be served, with an evening of fun to follow. Although a few of the Beta Eta Delts journeyed to Lincoln for the Nebraska-Minnesota tilt, many are planning to travel southward to the game at Iowa City, the last out-of-town game of the year.

Athletic Achievement

About once every decade, there comes to Rensselaer a man who is unusually successful in his every undertaking. Upsilon Chapter believes that it has such a man in Daymon Jordan.

Jordan, a native of California, was one of the West Coast's best high school athletes. During his career in the Navy he was assigned to the Naval unit at Rensselaer and as a result of his scholastic work was awarded a four-year scholarship.

During his first year at R.P.I. Daymon was a member of the varsity football and basketball squads. With the arrival of spring, he went out for the lacrosse team. He tallied four goals in the first game, which, incidentally, was the first lacrosse game he had ever seen, and by the end of the season his total had risen to forty-six goals, the highest in the nation. He was selected for the All-North team and also chosen for the All-America second team.

During his second year, Jordan was unable to participate in either football or basketball as a result of an injury sustained during a pre-season football scrimmage. The opening of the lacrosse season found the "Demon" ready to go. Once again he led the country in scoring, was chosen for the All-North squad, which he led to a one-sided victory over the South, and was nominated to the All-America first team. Last June he was awarded the Batchelor of Rensselaer Cup, presented each year to the outstanding athlete.

This year Jordan is once again cavorting on the gridiron. In his first game he averaged more than sixteen yards per try. He is without a doubt the outstanding candidate for the Rensselaer Athletic Hall of Fame, a list which includes fewer than ten names and which covers more than sixty years of intercollegiate competition at R.P.I. In the face of such outstanding scholastic and athletic achievement, it is small wonder that Upsilon says a man of "Demon's" caliber comes once in a decade.

Pig Roast

Gamma Kappa Chapter, Missouri, held its first social event of the fall semester, a pig roast, late in September. Delts and their dates also listened to the broadcast of the Missouri-Southern Methodist football game. Jim Allen masterminded the making of the cider, and Jack

Carson butchered the pig for one of the best social functions on the campus.

Publications Revived

Alan Himelich, of Beta Chapter, associate editor of the Ohio University Post, campus newspaper, has revived both the alumni and active chapter publications. The alumni's Ancient Greek was published last June, and the Ohio Delt will be unveiled in November.

Raleigh Banquet

Members of Delta Kappa Chapter of Duke University recently attended a Delt banquet in Raleigh, North Carolina, at which the President of Delta Tau Delta, G. Herbert McCracken, former President Charles T. Boyd, Treasurer Don C. Wheaton, and Southern Division Vice-President William Andrews were the principal speakers. Present also were alumni members of Gamma Omega (North Carolina). The proposed reactivation of Gamma Omega furnished the theme of the speakers' talks.

Nebraska Athletes

Beta Tau will be well represented in athletic ranks this year. Gardner Johnson and Joseph McGill, former all-state award winners, will carry Delt laurels in freshman football, while Harry Breetzke, Jim Sharp, and Bob Gates are gunning for positions on the Husker basketball team. Ray Prochaska, '42, is varsity end coach on the Cornhusker staff. Ed Nyden and Ed Schwartzkopf, two-year letter winners in football, are looking forward to a successful third season.

Vying for Third Leg

Beta Chapter, Ohio, is out this year to gain permanent possession of the University's intramural trophy. The chapter has won two successive "legs" and by winning a third will gain permanent possession of the coveted award. The football team started the season successfully by winning the first game. All members are wholeheartedly behind Bill "Mouse" Hasselbach, intramural chairman.

Delta Gamma President

Tom Luby, new president of Delta Gamma Chapter at South Dakota, is scholar, athlete, and activities man. A premedical student, he has maintained a high B average and has still taken time to play an important part in campus activities, serving as vice-president of the interfraternity council and a member of the student athletic board of control. His characteristics of friendliness, congeniality, and efficiency have gained him many friends on the campus.

Tom is probably best known for his fine performance on the Coyote cage squad. He has been an all-conference player for the past two years and was a high scorer for the Red and White both of these years. He holds the University scoring record for racking up thirty-one points in one game.

Beta Mu Goes to Work

Beta Mu Chapter returned to Tufts a week and a half before classes commenced this fall and utilized that time in working in and around the Shelter. The old Chapter Hall was partitioned into two rooms—a store room and a new recreation room. Floors were sanded, varnished, and waxed, and some external painting was done. The grounds around the Shelter were also cleaned. All work was done by members. Results were highly satisfactory.

Regulars at Tufts

Beta Mu is represented on the Tufts football team this fall by Chuck Berndt and Frank Steves, who are regular starters, and Ray Ackerman, who is on the second string.

Alumni Aid in Rush

Gamma Rho's programs of summer rushing in Oregon were carried through in top shape. Members living in the Portland area were ably assisted by the alumni chapter in having several spirited parties. Rolla Gray, '23, turned his yacht over to the boys for a day on the water; Karl Greve, '32, Portland's leading jeweler, was host to the gang for an evening; and Robert Ormond Case, '19, nationally known author, showed the boys a good time at his home. These and other activities enabled the chapter at the end of rush week to pledge the men it desired.

New Shelter at Georgia

Beta Delta's latest achievement—the opening of the new Shelter—has crowned all other accomplishments. Visitors to the house have used every superlative to describe their impressions of Georgia Delts' new home.

A long magnolia-shaded walk leads from Milledge Avenue, Athens' fraternity row, to the three-story Southern mansion, where Delts may be found relaxing on a spacious, wrought-iron framed veranda. Inside, on the first floor, a visitor will find a large reception hall, music room, main lounge, dining room, game room, and the chapter office. The two upper floors contain comfortable bedrooms for thirty resident Delts, and the building is topped by the third-floor ballroom which, when redecorated, will serve as the chapter room.

Gamma Lambda Serenades

Gamma Lambda Chapter, Purdue, has been kept busy with requests for serenades at sorority rush parties. Under the direction of newly elected song leader, Bill Wainwright, the Delts have high hopes for repeating last year's performance at the interfraternity sing and again bringing home the first-place trophy.

Largest Class

The current school year will usher out the largest graduating class of Purdue Delts since prewar days. A good portion of these Delts participated in the senior parade and festivities prior to the first home football game with Ohio State. After three weeks of mustache cultivating, a few of the seniors were unable to display their attributes in the parade and were busy patching minor cuts and bruises after several clashes with razor-bearing pledges intent on mustache trimming.

Purdue's victory over a favored Ohio State eleven was an appropriate ending to a gala Senior Day.

Welcome Affiliate

Besides all the older members who have returned to the Shelter at Lafayette, Nu Chapter was glad to welcome Charlie Parker into its midst. Charlie comes from Upsilon of R.P.I., where he was a member of the N.R.O.T.C., first-string basketball, and a member of I.F.C.

Black Mascot at Westminster

Last spring Delta Omicron acquired a new official mascot to replace the roving puppy, "Omicron." Because he is a black chow, the new mascot was appropriately named "Blackie." He was willed to the chapter by one of the St. Louis alumni, who couldn't quite keep track of the dog in the big city.

Now well adjusted to campus life, "Blackie" has become famous around town and where good Delts are seen. He attends all intramural games, barking as loudly for the team as the Delts cheer. The chapter is proud of "Blackie's" Fraternity spirit.

Anniversary

the close of the banquet program the following citation was read by Harold Tharp, and the scroll of membership was presented to Fred Massena, Beta Psi, '48, past president of the chapter and son of our distinguished brother, Roy:

Sponsor of more worthy Delt initiates than any other Beta Psi alumnus; for forty years a paternal guide for its undergraduates; an unselfish and constant supporter of the Alumni and Home Associations.

On Sunday morning, October 19, a special church service was conducted for Deltas and visitors in the Wabash College chapel. The organ and choral portions of the service were rendered by Deltas. The recessional, the Wabash Alma Mater, sung by the active chapter, perhaps served more than any other event of the week end program to revivify the loyalties and the kindred feeling of undergraduate days.

The first seventy-five years of Beta Psi history were thoroughly chronicled by Bowman Downey, whose pamphlet, distributed to all Deltas attending the anniversary reunion, will be a valuable addition to the archives of the chapter. The history recorded there should afford future generations of Deltas a realization that mutual fidelity to right principles engenders a brotherhood among men which has aspects of permanence.

The notable, but all too ephemeral, anniversary reunion was adjourned officially at the close of dinner served at the Shelter on Sunday noon.

Dedicated without ceremony on the occasion of this seventy-fifth anniversary reunion was a plaque honoring the five alumni of Beta Psi who joined the Chapter Eternal as casualties of World War II. This fitting monument to the sacrifices of these individuals will be displayed permanently in the Beta Psi Shelter. Other monuments to these sacrifices exist in the hearts of men everywhere. One of these monuments is the determination, shared mutely in the hearts of Beta Psi Deltas, that the educational world today, including this Fraternity, shall nurture the leadership among men and races which will obviate such sacrifices by future generations.

Anniversary High Lights

Chapter Adviser Larry Sheaffer introduced at the banquet a "resurrected Delt"—Hobert Chenault, Wabash, '22. Listed as "deceased" for many years on chapter and Fraternity records, Mr. Chenault was discovered very much alive by the anniversary committee, and he was "resurrected" in time to attend the anniversary celebration. His present home is Crawfordsville.

A record for family attendance was set by Beta Psi's four McCabe brothers—Charles E., '11; Robert R., '13; Edward L., '22; and Harold R., '25.

Another record was established by the classes of 1920 and 1937, both of which boasted one hundred per cent attendance.

A rising vote of thanks was accorded the anniversary committee, whose efforts made the event successful. Members of the committee were Chairman Don Frist, Tom Luster, Al Webb, Bowman Downey, Jack Curry, Bill Grimes, Larry Sheaffer, Carter Tharp, Dick Savidge, Francis Fay, Carl Pinkerton, Lynn Davis, and Frank Beardsley. Charles Rees was honorary chairman.

Reminiscences

Founder Jacob S. Lowe, '60, that living personification of the magic name of Bethany. Only those of us who lived in those days know what Zeta Chapter and the Fraternity in general owe to those Olympians of old Delta Tau.

Once in their undergraduate days Lon Hyre and J. M. Shallenberger were the bright and scintillating stars in a barnstorming troupe that took Shakespeare to the district school houses of the back country. One night poor Ophelia's grave had been constructed of twelve-inch boards above the level of the platform stage because the churlish school directors had been unreasonable in the matter of taking up a few floor boards. When the bag of straw which represented the mortal remains was brought in, the grave was found to be far too shallow. The first gravedigger, being a man of resourcefulness and split-second decisions, promptly clambered aboard the grave and trampled the corps to proper level. The scene went over big with the audience, but it was days before the outraged Hamlet would speak to the first gravedigger.

In my oldest scrapbook are three banquet programs which revive memories of three great events of the Golden Age—the Eighteenth Annual Boreadis, at the Stillman Hotel in 1899; the Thirty-seventh Karnea, at the Hollenden in 1903; and the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of the founding of Zeta Chapter, also at the Hollenden, in 1907. At the first, Dr. Harris G. Sherman, Eta, '77, was toastmaster; the speakers were A. E. Hyre, Eta, '84; W. S. Couch, Zeta, '00; J. M. Shallenberger, Psi, '86; Charles Krichbaum, Psi, '83; and, as a crowning glory, Founder Jacob S. Lowe, Theta, '60.

On the Karnea program, Sherman Arter, Zeta, '86, was toastmaster, and the ever-present Lowe, Krichbaum, and Shallenberger shared honors with Frank Wieland, Eta, '90, and that tremendous Delt from Dixie, Charles Oscar "King" Maas, Beta Xi, '88.

At this Karnea I met J. Russell Thornton, Delta Prime, '59, who actually antedated the saintly Lowe by a year as to college graduation. Russ, as we affectionately knew him, was the most picturesque Delt I was ever to see. He was allergic to white collars and razors, and his whiskers were the longest in Delta Tau's history. He had a story—and surely he was entitled to one at least—of his wild, all-night ride through No Man's Land in the opening days of the Civil War, from Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, to Bethany to preserve the Fraternity charter from rebel contamination. The preservation of the Union was a minor matter along side of this. No Longfellow was on hand on this momentous occasion, but every loyal Delta may rest assured that the midnight ride of Paul Revere was as nothing compared with the all-night ride of J. Russell Thornton.

Probably I am the only living Delta Tau Delta who sat under the class instruction of Jacob S. Lowe. He was superintendent of the famous Geneva Normal School and taught me my first Latin. Not only did he drive home the fine points of syntax, but he instilled into my soul a love for the classics that has never wavered to this day. The school catalogue described him as "Teacher of Ancient Languages, Logic, Mental and Moral Science, Chemistry and Teachers' Class." Hardly a narrow specialist. A grand gentleman—and I mean gentleman—he was, affable and approachable at all times, but possessed of a quiet dignity that did not invite familiarity.

Such a man's political and religious affiliations are always significant. Always a Republican, he was a personal friend of two Presidents, Hayes and Garfield. At Bethany he had studied under Alexander Campbell. Under this influence he entered the Disciple Church, then in its infancy, and followed it through life. A man of deep and sincere religious feeling, he was a forcible pulpit speaker and often "supplied" for ministers of other denominations as well as his own. I suspect that his life spoke louder than his words. He died in 1919 in his eighty-first year.

An able and painstaking school executive, his dominating interest was always teaching. In every sense a man's man, he was the soul of gentleness and sympathy. As I remember him over the lapse of years, I can think of no other man to whom I would more readily apply Tennyson's superlative phrase, "Wearing the white flower of a blameless life."

The class of 1900 with its ten Deltas put Zeta on the map, but it brought us a tragedy that cut deep into our lives. Two of the most colorful men of our history, Jerry Tracy and William Sykes Couch, on fire with patriotism, blew up with the Maine and enlisted for "Cuban Freedom." Sentiment was above par in those days. Tracy died of spinal meningitis at Camp Lytle, Georgia, and the broken-hearted Couch drifted back to college, pulled himself together to finish his course and to take a commanding position among the nation's top-rank newspaper writers as Washington correspondent of the Cleveland Plain Dealer. His brilliant career was cut short by untimely death. We held Tracy's funeral in Eldred Hall and a bronze tablet was placed in the entrance hall to his memory. The tablet, along with his memory, has long since passed into oblivion and the name of Jerry Tracy chiseled into a simple white marble marker in Lakeview Cemetery in 1898 has probably long since yielded to the corroding touch of time.

My contact with the active chapter happened to be prolonged far beyond my undergraduate days and thus I had the privilege of knowing an unusual number of Deltas in their college days. Roy "Ike" Watts, Frank Shankland, Frank Pelton, Budd Merrills, John Roy Petty, Clare Caldwell, Alton Bemis, Dwight DeWeese, and the brother teams of Thomas, Hyre, Lind, and Portmann are hardly to be differentiated in memory from my own generation of the Nineties. Yes, I even recall two freshman suspects known as Ray Carroll and Tommy Herbert. After careful deliberation we took a chance on them both. And really they haven't done so badly. Then, too, I attached the pledge button to Don Van Buren who reciprocated many years later by doing the same for a youngster bearing my name with the Jr. tag. It is all good to remember.

And now by way of a postscript I must leave the dear, dead past and make a friendly gesture to the present. On the evening of February 20 I found myself, quite unexpectedly, at the University Club with the old Delt songs ringing clear and the old Delt spirit the same as ever. Not much changed—only everything so bewilderingly big: seventy-four chapters, 1,300 initiates in a single year, an Arch Chapter with all the earmarks of a big-time corporation—plus a soul.

I sadly missed the familiar faces of Jack Thomas and Frank Pelton and Billy Rose but was gladdened by those of Bob Ruedy and Ike Watts and Walter Scott and Howard Crow. And coming a little farther down the years were Rex and Ray Hyre and Clem Frank and your secretary, Randall Ruhlman, who has given and is still giving so much of himself to the Fraternity. And then the sons of men who entered so deeply into my life, William Bemis, William Ruedy, and Charles Willard Stage. And finally a grandson, Marc Hyre, as Prexy Thwing would have expressed it—a worthy continuance. Oh, yes, and Mike has booked me as the orator of the occasion at the banquet of 1957. There's a date to paste in your hat.

It is related of dear old "Dad" Pumphrey that as he lay on his death bed he spoke of seeing the long line of Deltas who had been so great a part of his life pass in review. I am not yet in extremis, but I know what he meant. And so here's an old Delt's benediction.

▼ THE DELTA ALUMNI CHAPTERS ▼

Boise Valley

The Boise Valley Alumni Chapter is closing its first year of organized activity with the chapter in high spirits and the promise of greater things to come in succeeding years. Luncheon meetings are now held on the last Friday of each month, at noon, at the Hotel Boise. Attendance at these meetings has been excellent, and it is encouraging to see new faces among the old regulars. All Delts in the Boise Valley should make a special effort to attend these luncheons when they are in Boise.

All hands turned out for the annual barbecue picnic and softball game which was staged at the Municipal Park in Boise on September 5. Members and rush-ees from Boise, Caldwell, Nampa, McCall, and other near-by towns were in attendance. The high light of the evening was furnished by Brother Frank Chapman, who was the Chairman of the Food Situation—all present agreed it was the finest feed they had been to!!! The aroma of the baked hams and potato salad still lives in our memories—recalling an evening of fun and good food!

The alumni chapter was very happy to hear from some of our active chapters for which we had rushed prospective members that rush-ees at the party had been pledged. We now consider the picnic a success in all ways.

Next momentous occasion for the Boise Valley Chapter is our annual Christmas party. Committees have already been appointed by President Fred Rieger, and arrangements so far made promise an even bigger and better party than last year's. One thing is sure—with Frank Chapman handling the eats, we can't afford to miss this affair. Invitations are extended to all visiting Delts, both active and alumni, to attend this affair with us. We expect a good turnout of actives and pledges from the University of Idaho, at Moscow.

Although this chapter is only approaching its first birthday of organized activity, we have continued to gain ground in membership, fellowship, and service. Each successive year will find a constantly growing alumni chapter in the Boise Valley.

J. E. VAN DEUSEN, JR.

Boston

The Boston Alumni Chapter still holds forth every Thursday noon for luncheon at Patten's on Court Street at a special table on the second floor reserved for the Chapter.

A November meeting is being planned at the Beta Mu Shelter at Tufts for reorganizing the Chapter to its active pre-war status. New officers and committees will be selected at that meeting.

Dunc Newell, Dartmouth, our secretary-treasurer these many years, has just completed the famous course for bankers at Rutgers and, incidentally, will soon join the ranks of the benedicts. Paul Wren, Tufts, has just been made vice-president of the Old Colony Trust Company. Ed Ginn, Alabama, is radio assistant at Boston University. Ed Broadhurst, Kenyon, has just joined our ranks and is a budding huckster in a local advertising company.

Recent visitors to our Thursday luncheons were Lowell Fitch and Bill Kerr of Cornell; Chuck Meeks of Ohio Wesleyan, now studying at Boston University; Hal Chase of Wesleyan, also at B. U.; and John Mills of Duke. Norm Mosher of Maine, who used to visit us frequently, is now at Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts taking his master's degree and we expect him to drop in on us again soon. Bill Poor, Tufts, from New Bedford, drops in when he comes to Boston Thursdays.

Regulars at the luncheons are Ed Ginn; Dunc Newell; Heick Chase, of Wesleyan, when he can make it; Ed Broadhurst; Tony Shallna, of Indiana and Cornell; and the old guard from Tufts: Joe Reynolds, John Thalheimer, Shorty Brothers, Joe Olive, Dave Young, Paul Wren, Dinty Howe, Rudy Helgeson, and a new regular, Dick Pierce, now working in Boston.

We'll be glad to welcome you at Patten's on any Thursday afternoon.

A Word from Walling

Delta Tau Delta, having completed another year notable for its growth and achievements, is now entering a new Karnea year with high hopes and aspirations in the matter of alumni activities of all types, particularly those designed to assist undergraduate chapters.

The response of alumni and alumni groups all over the country the past year in making a most careful and selective survey of their areas for promising new pledge material has been most heartening. Their all-out assistance in planning and sponsoring many summer and early fall rushing parties and other related activities is evidence of renewed interest and determination to carry out one of the most vital and important of all objectives—that of aiding and promoting the welfare and best interests of our undergraduate chapters.

To active chapter members such support and interest in their affairs are most encouraging and inspiring, and their appreciation and thanks for this assistance have many times been openly and freely expressed.

While, as alumni, we have made great strides in grouping ourselves into active alumni chapters and we hope to attain a membership goal of greatly increased numbers, President McCracken points out that numbers alone do not make a great fraternity. Numbers alone do not provide our source of strength. Our interest, our activity, our loyalty, and our generous participation in the affairs and programs of the Fraternity, particularly those of the undergraduate chapters, are things that will add strength and help to keep Delta Tau Delta paramount and in the foreground in the years to come.

University course in Wilmette. Both events were well attended.

About ninety-five rushees were entertained by the alumni under the leadership of Carl Wolf and "Bunker" Bean, who planned the dinner and program following. Lawrence, Northwestern, and Purdue were among the colleges prominently represented by undergraduates and sub-freshmen. Jack Arthur, Beta Pi alumnus, was the principal speaker, outlining the history of the Fraternity and its place in today's college life.

The first Delt golf tourney since the war was successfully engineered by "Port" Arthur on Thursday, September 11. Despite a heavy downpour in the early afternoon, four foursomes turned out and teed off while the trees were still dripping. Pete Smith, Cornell undergraduate, toured the Northwestern course in a championship two over par, easily winning the low gross prize with a 75. More non-golfers came out for dinner, and about thirty were at the long table on the porch dining room. Cards and good fellowship continued the party through the evening.

A. B. Walling, upon returning from the annual fall roundup of the Columbus Alumni Chapter, reports an attendance there of three hundred, which gives Chicago something to shoot at.

If you're wondering about the alumni chapter directory, latest predictions are that it will be out around the first of the year. The publishing company has undertaken the entire job of collecting data and editing the book, and it has become quite a job. Advertising carried in the directory will help defray costs of publication.

ROBERT H. GARDNER

Cincinnati

The Cincinnati Alumni Chapter has been enjoying a very active and progressive year. In addition to our regular weekly luncheon meetings, held each Tuesday at 12:30 p. m. at the Cincinnati Club, we have been holding monthly evening meetings at the homes of various Delt alumni. During the past several months we enjoyed the hospitality of Bob Heuck, Herb Schroth, Dr. Howard Fischbach, and Dick Farrell. After short business meetings and programs consisting of movies, etc., the brethren spent the remainder of the evenings at cards, lunch, refreshments, and good old Delt "bull" sessions.

On August 20, Brother Ed Schott again was host to Cincy Delt alumni at Coney Island. After a fine dinner, Ed passed out tickets for the various rides and admission to Moonlite Gardens for dancing. Sixty-two couples enjoyed this festive evening, a fine tribute to Jack Powell's excellent job as general chairman.

On September 19 our annual picnic for the active chapter and its rush men was held at Ash Grove, with Ralph Flohr serving as chairman. The high light of the day was the sound trouncing the alums administered the active chapter in our annual ball game.

The house corporation has authorized and undertaken extensive improvements to the Gamma Xi Shelter. Most of the work was completed prior to the start of the rush season, so as to give the actives an added stimulant in their rushing program.

We are endeavoring to build up our mailing list of Delt's residing in the Cincinnati area. If you are not receiving notices of our monthly meetings or other functions, let us know and we'll see that these notices start reaching you.

ART JACOBS

Clarksburg

The Clarksburg Alumni Chapter started the fall season with a bang at a luncheon on September 4 at the Waldo Hotel with thirteen alumni, six active members, and seven rushees.

The alumni chapter received the good news of Gamma Delta's achievements during the past year from acting chapter advisor Brother William F. McCue. We feel certain that Gamma Delta Chapter will continue the leadership that it has reassumed so quickly in this postwar period.

Acting upon a call from the actives, the alumni chapter donated fifty dollars towards a radio-phonograph combination set for the house at Morgantown. All the alumni have been invited to visit the house at Morgantown to hear this set and view the improvements that have been made there.

We just had word from the acting advisor at Gamma Delta, William F. McCue, that he is now the proud father of an heir. Brother Anthony F. McCue, of Clarksburg, will wax eloquent as the grandfather!

The new alumni chapter officers are George Post, president, James Barlett, vice-president, and Nelson Elbert Matthews, secretary-treasurer.

NELSON ELBERT MATTHEWS

Cleveland

Members of the Cleveland Alumni Chapter are looking forward with keen anticipation to an active winter season. Attendance at the Thursday noon luncheons held at the Mid-Day Club is picking up rapidly and unless a larger room can be obtained a move may be necessary. President Frank "Pat" Moran has announced a program of activities which should prove interesting and attractive to all Delt's in the Cleveland area. Once each month there will be a speaker at a luncheon meeting. Other major events will include a dinner party, preceding a football game, a clam bake, a fall golf tournament, and a Christmas formal. All of this means that we are getting back to our traditional schedule of social functions.

During the past year the deaths of Roger Burt (Zeta, '24) and Gabriel Smith (Zeta, '88) have brought sorrow to the hearts of local Delt's.

Without going into detail here are a few "quicknesses" about individual Delt's on the local scene: Governor Tom Herbert doing an outstanding job of leadership in Ohio. Mark McElroy a candidate for Judge. Ray Dolwick returns to Cleveland as General Agent of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company. After thirty years as a member of Council in Cleveland Heights, Doctor Robert E. Ruedy (Zeta, '90) retires. His son Wilson "Bill" Ruedy (Zeta, '23) is a candidate to succeed him. Karl Ertle's Cleveland-Canada Steamship line closed a successful cross-lake season on September 15. C. W. Portman in Cleveland for American Bar Association meeting September 22-27. Phil Handerson in town recently. William Ganson Rose does masterful job as Chairman when Cleveland entertained state officials and members of the Ohio Legislature. Ike Watts an officer and very active in Lake Erie Wild Flower Club. A. Lyle Lawrence, Illinois, '30, in Cleveland as manager of Pitney Bowes, Inc. Doctors J. J. and Bob Thomas spend part of the summer as physicians in Kewaydin Camp in Ontario. Gordon Harkin marries the very attractive Vera Jean Curtis of Sandusky. As a Chamber of Commerce representative, your correspondent conducted forty American and Canadian businessmen on a good will tour around Lake Erie.

The Cleveland Alumni Chapter extends a welcome and cordially invites all Delt's in this area to participate in any and all of our functions. We will be pleased to mail notices and the news bulletin if you will send your name and address to the secretary.

Columbus

The Columbus Alumni Chapter has scored again with its Annual Fall Round-Up which was held September 24 at Delt's and guests at a recent meeting of the Clarksburg Alumni Chapter.

Brother John Galbreath's Darby Dan Farm. Playing host to the undergraduate chapters of central Ohio as well as all Delt alumni in the Columbus area, the alumni chapter provided plenty of activity, entertainment, and good food.

ROBERT E. GIBBS

Dallas

The next meeting of the Dallas alumni will be in late October, at which time the annual election of officers will be accomplished. In addition, the activities for 1947-48 will be planned.

On October 11 the Texas University and Oklahoma University football game will be played in Dallas. Following the game the undergraduate chapters are holding a dance at the Adolphus Hotel, and many alumni from Texas and Oklahoma plan to attend.

The Dallas alumni are interested in the establishment of an undergraduate chapter of our Fraternity at Southern Methodist University in Dallas. This University is now attended by some 7,000 students and is recognized as a healthy place for college-fraternity association. Several outstanding national competitors of Delta Tau Delta have flourished on the campus for many years. Phi Beta Kappa established a chapter at S. M. U. in the thirties.

The Dallas alumni welcome the cooperation of Delta Tau Delta toward the goal of establishing the Fraternity at S. M. U.

LLOYD W. BIRDWELL

Denver

Under the able direction of Kim Barnes, Jr., president of the Denver Alumni Chapter, fifty Delts from Beta Kappa at Boulder and the Denver alumni got together on September 5 at Lakewood Country Club for the annual Fall Pow-wow. Twenty-five rushees were guests. Kim provided the usual "luscious" entertainment, and Beany Beck and Doc Yegge gave him able assistance with two intellectual talks. In spite of any reports to the contrary, the Pow-wow was a huge success. Two boys that we know of came by plane to attend it.

The latest news report from Boulder is that Beta Kappa has a fine class of twenty-seven men to start off the 1947 season.

L. Allen (Beany) Beck was recently elected State President of the Colorado Association of Insurance Agents.

Possibly next time we'll have something more dazzling to report. Maybe some of the brothers we haven't seen for a long time will attend the Founders Day Banquet and even come by plane.

ART THOMPSON

Greater New York

The busy, bustling, business-brained Greater New York Delts are back in action.

Our officers for this year are Herb Hudson, Tufts, '12, president; John Robinson, Stevens, '43, vice-president; Charles Keyser, Pennsylvania, '31, treasurer; and Franz Fideli, Stevens, '43, secretary.

We held our first meeting of the season on September 10 in our new luncheon meeting room in the New York Engineer's Club. Our more spacious quarters now make it a perfect setting for the various speakers we anticipate, to bring all their displays and films for the education and entertainment of the Greater New York Chapter members.

Among the numerous distinguished guests at our first meeting was our national President, G. Herbert McCracken. He gave us a sneak preview of the expansion program being inaugurated for Delta Tau Delta.

Chairman of our program committee, Don Mallory, Cornell, '17, arranged to have a prominent New York attorney, Brother LeRoy Campbell, Chicago, '15, tell us a story of one of his clients who spent eight months in the Death House before he and his associates proved him innocent.

In the very near future we expect to hear from Brother E. G. Dudley, Michigan, '18, of the General Electric Company with his sound and technicolor movie on "Clean Water."

Another of our recent activities was held at Rho Chapter, Stevens Tech, for the benefit of our brother Delts at Beta Nu who live in the metropolitan area. Several members of the Greater New York Alumni Chapter, including Rho Chapter Adviser Robinson, were present to initiate the prospects in fraternity life and Delta Tau Delta in particular. Active undergraduates of Beta Nu and recent graduates were also present to add their information and answer questions. We hope to carry this procedure on throughout the year at various local undergraduate chapters in the vicinity.

Before our next monthly meeting, we are planning to inaugurate our first Greater New York Alumni Association Newsletter in some years. Besides taking the place of our card announcements of meetings, it will include a little of the general activities and movements of our members. Before going to press for the first time, our tentative name for this great sheet is The Metropolitan Delt.

This is just a sample of the interesting goings-on at the Greater New York Chapter. We cordially invite all Delt transients to drop in, say hello, and join the fun whenever they are in the area.

FRANZ A. FIDELI

Indianapolis

The summer activities were terminated by a festive golf tournament held at the Hillcrest Country Club, September 26, which was climaxed with a banquet attended by more than forty alumni. Judge Alex Clark, Republican, did the honors as toastmaster, while Judge Howard, Democrat, as guest of honor, entertained the gathering with a fine speech.

Everyone received a prize, top honors going to Frank Wieland, who received the Annual Championship Trophy, and Bob Arnold, who received the cup awarded for first blind par.

Election of officers was held with Gene Hibbs being re-elected president, Fred Tucker, Jr., vice-president in charge of activities, Carter Tharp, vice-president in charge of membership, Donn Nicewander, treasurer, and Bob Johnson, secretary.

This coming season the Indianapolis Alumni Chapter is planning several activities, which include regularly scheduled evening meetings, an intensified membership drive, and, of course, our annual Christmas party. The evening meeting is a new idea which we hope will enable more of us to get together, particularly those whose business obligations prevent their attending weekly noon luncheons.

The Indianapolis alumni wish to extend an invitation to all Delts when they are in town and cordially invite them to attend our weekly noon luncheons, which are held every Friday at 12:15 p. m. at the Washington Hotel.

We are looking forward to a great year with anticipation of more activities and increased membership.

BOB JOHNSON

Kansas City

Rush parties have been held in Kansas City this month by Gamma Theta, Gamma Kappa, Gamma Tau, and Gamma Chi chapters with considerable assistance from the Kansas City Alumni Chapter.

Brother Groves started on a lovely vacation to Colorado which ended abruptly in western Kansas, partly by a member of the bee family and a telephone pole. Roscoe returned to Kansas City minus a vacation and with a badly damaged Buick.

Brother Frank Siegrist had a lovely vacation last month with Brother Stan Caywood at Lake Chataqua, New York.

Brother Charles Carr returned recently from a two-month vacation in California. Brother Tom Carr is now practicing law in Kansas City.

Our weekly luncheons are getting a very good turnout every Thursday at the University Club.

FRANK H. SCOTT

Lexington

While the football season is moving toward its close, don't forget to chalk up a touchdown or two to the credit of the Lexington Alumni Club, several members having turned out to be pretty fair ticket-hustlers. And that doesn't mean scalping.

The stands for all but one of Kentucky's home games were sold out on season tickets, so alumni here got together, bought and split up some of the season books and otherwise picked up a few pasteboards here and there in order to have seats for Delts from out of town who wanted to come in at least once to see the Wildcats in action.

Among the Delta Epsilon alumni who put in requests early and were thus provided with game tickets this fall were Len Weakley and John Bullock, both of Cincinnati; Abie Kittinger, Owensboro; Bill Ryan, Louisville; and John David Nantz—yeah, actually, old "Ichabod," all the way from Alden, N. Y.

The club held no meetings during the summer but started activity again in the fall with a country-club session which began with chips on the golf course and ended up, following an intermission for fried chicken, with chips on a round table. Dinner meetings are now being held again on the regular date, the second Tuesday in each month, at the Delta Epsilon Shelter.

The club is growing, too. Gus Stevens, Purdue, '23, has made known his presence in the city, and Dick Ebert, DePauw, '43, came to town last spring as office manager at one of the new General Electric plants. Jack Floyd, Kentucky, '38, having completed a special course in New Orleans, came back to Lexington during the summer to practice medicine here. Jack Crain, Kentucky, '35, has been transferred here from Louisville as district chief for an automobile insurance company, and Tom Sawyer, Kentucky, '43, having given up a job with G. B. in order to return to Lexington, is now selling furnaces here.

Ed Lander, married late in the summer to the daughter of Lexington's Mayor Mack Oldham, probably will be on hand often, commuting from Eastern Teachers College, where he is now assistant basketball coach.

Wee bundles arrived during the summer at the homes of John Crosby, J. D. Davis, Wing Campbell, now located at Corbin, and Bruce King, who recently became proprietor of a Western Auto store at Owenton.

The club, without a letter in the summer RAINBOW, wishes to report, even at this late date, the following alumni from out of town who returned for the Founders Day observance of Delta Epsilon Chapter last May: Tom Bowling, Detroit; Ray Hays, Peoria, Ill.; Art Bryson, Ashland; Jack Mylor, Louisville; Gene Combs, Hazard; Bill Bryan, Dayton, Ohio; Col. Elbert DeCoursey, Fort Sam Houston, Texas; Cameron Coffman, Fort Thomas; Ben Fowler, Frankfort; Jim Hagler, Millersburg; and Lt. Bob Winfree, home on leave before heading out for Army duty in Japan.

Other former Delta Epsilon men in town later in the summer or during the early fall included George Bolard, from Meadville, Pa.; Billy Nicholls, from Chicago; Nando Kelly, from Hazard, and Dr. Arnold Combs, from Minot, N. D.

LAURENCE SHROPSHIRE

Long Beach

Since writing our last RAINBOW letter, the Long Beach Alumni Chapter has invited all members of Delta Tau Delta living in adjacent communities to become members. To our surprise, we learned that there were thirty-seven brothers in these cities who were not members of an alumni chapter, and letters were written to all asking them to attend our monthly meetings and to join our chapter. Some have responded, others require more persuasion; it is our hope that most, if not all, will form the habit of meeting with us and enjoying the good Delt fellowship that always prevails.

Believing that there are young men in our local high schools who would be acceptable members of our Fraternity, we invited the active chapters at the University of California at Los Angeles and the University of Southern California to send representatives to our August dinner to tell us what we could do to help them with their rushing activities. Brother Spike Tatten, chairman of the rushing committee, and Brother Gil Patton, chairman of the alumni relations committee, from Delta Iota Chapter attended the dinner and presented the needs of their chapter in a very able manner. As a result, a rushing committee was appointed with Brother William Deatherage as chairman, and this committee has already made some recommendations. This committee will continue to function through the present school year and will undoubtedly report some desirable candidates to more than the two local active chapters.

At our August meeting we had the pleasure of greeting the father of Brother Paul Hiller who was vacationing in California and who is himself a Delta Tau. Both were members of Rho Chapter, Stevens Institute of Technology.

Our September meeting was attended by Brother Seymour Charles Hayden, Allegheny, '98, the last surviving founder of the Choctaw society and still one of the most enthusiastic Deltas it has been our good fortune to know. At this meeting it was decided that, instead of our regular monthly dinner in Long Beach, we would accept the invitation of Delta Iota Chapter and attend its monthly alumni dinner in October.

This chapter meets for dinner on the third Tuesday of each month and we invite any member of the Fraternity who may visit Southern California to be our guest.

ROBERT B. TAPLIN

Los Angeles

Brother Deltas of all sizes and descriptions gathered together at the Annual Hi-Jinks on August 23. More than 175 partook of ice cold coke, delicious barbecued beef, Spanish beans, salad, ice cream, and coffee. Many notable guests were present, one being Dan Ferguson, President of the Western Division, flanked by John Nichols of Oklahoma City, vice-president, who added greatly to the occasion.

Activities of the day began at 7:00 a. m. at the Southern California Golf and Country Club where Delmar Reed, UCLA, '32, won the low gross with a sparkling 70, two under par. Wally Evans, Iowa, '42, was low net winner, and Johnny Adams, UCLA, '35, grabbed off the blind bogey. Five foursomes showed up, and we are hoping for even a larger turnout next year.

The main event began at noon, however, and prominent among those present were active from UCLA, USC, Stanford, and California, who brought along a good number of rushees. Soon after lunch, horseshoe games developed, a couple of other games were started, and a strolling guitar player gave the boys an opportunity to give forth, and led by Frank Rethlefsen, Colorado, '25, and Ed Tinch, Washington, '25, many old melodies were sung.

Later in the day SC defeated UCLA in a softball game, 4 to 3, although the alumni in a windup game walloped the Delta Pi's 11 to 1.

Too much credit cannot be given the committee that caused this year's Jinks to go off the smoothest ever. It was headed by Charley Church, UCLA, and ably assisted by Bill Schwab, Kentucky, John Mudge, Iowa State, and Herb McKenzie, Brown. The Jinks has become a tradition among the Los Angeles alumni. It is looked forward to perhaps more than any other single event during the year except for the annual banquet. It is gaining tradition and a tinge of dignity. It is a place where alumnus and active can meet on common ground, let their hair down, relax, and have a swell time. So if any of you traveling Deltas are in this neighborhood in August next year, don't miss it.

The Dr. Charles Lincoln Edwards award has been recently awarded Robert F. Jones, Stanford, '32. Brother Jones did yeoman service in connection with the development of the dinner club and, in addition, introduced more new members at the luncheons during the past year than any other Delt. Although Brother Bob recently left for Tulsa, by this award he knows his services did not go unrecognized.

Although we have two splendid chapters in this territory at USC and UCLA, our chapter is looking with covetous eyes at California at Santa Barbara.

Remember our monthly dinners on the first Thursday of the month at Taix's French Restaurant, 321 East Commercial Street. Last month sixteen Deltas who had never been to a Delt function in Los Angeles came and had a good time. We should get sixteen new ones every time. Lunches are still at 12:15 every Tuesday at the University Club. For you out-of-town Deltas, remember these monthly meetings when you travel out for a little sunshine, and we are not worrying about the Florida Chamber of Commerce for a change.

GORDON B. CAREY

Milwaukee

Alumni, actives, and prospective pledges of Delta Tau Delta enjoyed a real treat on August 23 when forty odd of them rallied round at the Lake Nagawicka home of Fred C. Seegert, Jr., for the Milwaukee Alumni Chapter's traditional summer rushing picnic.

Arrivals began taking place around two o'clock, and it was not long before Deltas and their guests were swimming, sailing, motor boating, playing badminton or horseshoes, and tossing a softball around. It sounds awfully athletic, but actually there was a sizable group that played bridge on the lawn or just chatted.

Along about five in the afternoon, people began to show signs of extreme hunger, so our worthy arrangements chairman, Russ Bach, stepped up to the grill and proceeded to turn out a hundred or so delectable steaks. Signs of contentment appeared once more.

At dark we gathered to see movies of the 1947 Rose Bowl game. They were obtained by Illinois' greatest booster, Bert Nelson, '04, and were shown by Cincinnati's most energetic alumnus, Red Johnson, '24. Since Bert got the film, you can bet Illinois was the winner—and how! After the movies, Shelley Watts, Butler, '00, presented us with some thoughtful comments on the true meaning of Delta Tau Delta.

Orchids for their contributions to the picnic's success should go to our host, who was graduated from Michigan in '46, and to Bob Heffren, Lawrence, '45, and Tom Aylward, Wisconsin, '45.

Congratulations to THE RAINBOW as it begins its seventy-first year of keeping Delts close to their Fraternity.

PHIL DRESSLER

National Capital

Despite the usual lull during the vacation months, the Delts in Washington have been busy as little bees. Although most of the alumni activity has been mainly centered around the now activated chapter at George Washington, the old boys did swing a swell party at Meadow Brook, Rollingwood, September 18.

Included in the events in the afternoon was a softball game between the Gamma Eta actives and alumni and those from other chapters. The boys from George Washington, aided by superb pitching by Tuffy Leemans (New York Giants) and sloppy fielding by the boys from the states, won the hotly contested game 19 to 2. However, we will all wear spikes next year for the return game.

Following the "Comedy of Errors," hot dogs and basket suppers were consumed. Subsequently came the "sing" with the Delt songs projected on a screen, as well as some movies. Without a doubt, the outing was one of the best ever given in Washington, and to top it off we had our dance. It appears we established a precedent for the years to come.

We are still waiting for the publication of the Washington Delt Directory, but you still have time to get your name listed if you are living in the Washington area.

Our weekly twelve o'clock luncheons have been resumed at Bonat's, Vermont Avenue at K Street, N. W., where the food is good. Plans are now being made for the Initiation Banquet in November.

ROBERT VAN SICKLER

Omaha

The Omaha Alumni Chapter has been much more active since the war than it was during the war or for several preceding years. Following the joint Omaha-Lincoln initiation banquet held in Omaha last spring, there were several small informal get-togethers during the summer concerning rushing, and this fall a noon meeting was held at which John Wynkoop, "Rusty" Joynt, and Ralph Nelson, the chapter president, presented the chapter's plans for purchase of a lot and construction of a house in Fraternity Row. The immediate problem is the procurement of a lot, as the financing arrangements for the house have proceeded satisfactorily, but under the trustee arrangement the lot must be procured separately. To further the procurement of this lot, a group of the Omaha alumni agreed to underwrite the major portion of the cost of the lot, contingent upon the Lincoln and Beatrice alumni groups' underwriting the balance. At last report the underwriting was virtually completed.

WILLIAM A. SAWTELL, JR.

Portland

The Portland Alumni Chapter is adding its newsletter early this quarter to insure its bit in celebrating the seventieth anniversary of publication of THE RAINBOW. It's a noteworthy record to be looked upon with pride.

The rushing parties that the alumni chapter threw this summer seem to have borne fruit. We haven't heard from Delta Lambda at Oregon State, but the news from Gamma Rho at the University of Oregon was encouraging: the majority of the new pledge class is from Portland.

Now that summer vacations are over, the alumni chapter is resuming the monthly bridge parties, and Paul Eckelman, social chairman, has announced appointment of the committee to plan the annual Winter Formal Dance.

For the first time since the war ended, the Portland Alumni Chapter has set a date early in January for the honor initiation, which was an annual affair prior to suspension for the war years. It will again come to be known as the annual honor initiation.

With the coming of football weather, the alumni luncheons are turning into regular quarterback sessions. Since the weekly luncheons are held on Mondays at noon, the games of the previous week end are fresh in all our minds. Join us whenever you are in town—at the Chamber of Commerce dining rooms.

CLYDE ANGERMAN

St. Louis

On August 16 the St. Louis Alumni Chapter, in conjunction with the Gamma Kappa and Delta Omicron Chapters, held a rush party for all prospective rushees in the St. Louis area. The place was the Griesedieck farm in St. Louis County, and the attendance about seventy-five alumni, actives, and rushees. Softball, corkball, swimming, horseshoes, lots of food, plenty of talk, and a good time were the order of the day.

A night meeting is being planned for the near future, at which time new officers will be elected and a program for the coming year outlined.

We received a letter from Paul Johnson, Gamma Kappa, who is still in Korea. He was recently able to visit Tokio and see Japan proper. Word has been received that Will Beck of Lawrence College is the proud father of twins.

Luncheons are still being held each Tuesday noon at the American Hotel.

DICK WATKINS

San Antonio

The San Antonio Delts decided it was high time to organize and get together. On March 25, 1947, a friendly group got together and elected Mr. John L. Clem as its president, Mr. Austin Anderson, vice-president, and Mr. Stanley Jung, secretary and treasurer.

The group meets in the evening every last Monday in the month in a downtown cafeteria. The turnouts have varied as vacation time in the sunny South makes one lazy, but every meeting showed enthusiasm—especially the meeting of October 1. Members of the group intend to get their wives to come with them for some of the meetings and enjoy the spirit. The San Antonio alums are now twenty-seven strong.

The alums gave one rush party for San Antonio rushees who they thought would make good Delt material. It was a picnic on a near-by lake. Swimming, boating, fishing, food, ice cream, and everything that goes to make a boy happy was had. This is the first act the San Antonio alums have taken to help the Delt chapter in Austin, which is the nearest chapter to us.

R. S. JUNG

San Diego

Reactivation of the San Diego Alumni Chapter of Delta Tau Delta, which verged on moribundity throughout the war and its immediate aftermath, is under way. Several informal meetings have been held for the purpose of formulating plans for the ensuing year and one result is a systematic effort to compile a definitive directory of all Delts—alumni and actives—now living in San Diego County. This is preliminary to the call of a reorganization dinner which is intended to be the forerunner of a series of more or less regular meetings.

Lack of attendance compelled the few faithful to put aside the idea of weekly luncheons for the disrupted days of the war, but that condition also is on the way to being remedied and announcement of resumption will appear in The RAINBOW.

One of San Diego's alumni activities, however, has been maintained—the recommendation to various active chapters of matriculating freshmen who appear to be sound Delt material. We of the San Diego Alumni Chapter are rather proud of our record in this respect and feel that our crop for this year is well up to standard.

STUART N. LAKE

Seattle

The close of summer brings the Seattle Alumni Chapter into a period of heightened activities as plans for broadening and strengthening its organization are placed into effect. At a midsummer meeting, Howard S. Wright announced his retirement as president and an immediate vote placed John R. Nelson, Jr., Washington, '43, former field secretary for the Fraternity, in the driver's seat. Other officers' positions are unchanged.

Local alumni interest in the projected chapter at Whitman College in Walla Walla, Washington, is greatly in evidence and was considerably enhanced by the visit to Seattle of Hugh Shields, national Executive Vice-President, and Dan Ferguson, Western Division President. These national officers visited a special meeting of the Seattle association in August during their inspection tour of petitioning locals in the Pacific Northwest. A record group of Seattle alumni turned out to greet them and hear the latest information on the progress of the Whitman petition. All Delts in this region are following the progress of this activity with interest, as we feel it will strengthen the position of the Fraternity in the area and fill in a vacant spot in the circle of Washington schools.

Many good suggestions on organization, operation, activities, and membership techniques were received from Brother Ferguson by the Seattle group's officers, and it is anticipated that new life will be instilled in the Alumni Chapter as a result. The bylaws are now undergoing revision with the help of the Central Office's booklet on alumni chapters. The time and place of future meetings will be announced well in advance through the publication of a monthly newspaper called The Evergreen Delt which will deal with the Fraternity's activities throughout the Pacific Northwest and will be mailed to all Delts in the region for whom addresses are available. Also regular premeeting announcements will be sent out in the form of printed cards.

Plans are being made for a full calendar of meetings and social events to fit in with the activities of Gamma Mu Chapter. The means of financing these events will be through the collection of dues from the many alumni in this area—however, every member of the association may expect his money's worth. Standing and special committees will soon be appointed and it is hoped that 1947-48 will prove to be the most active year in the history to date of the Seattle Alumni Chapter. All, of course, depends on the membership of this Delt group.

BOB WHITELEY

Spokane

The Spokane Alumni Chapter continues to move forward. At the regular meeting held in August a vice-president and secretary-treasurer were elected. The new men who fill these offices are Merle Emry and Robert Greene.

We are glad to see one of our number, Robert Greene, selected as a vice-president of the Western Division. Bob can be counted on to do a good job.

A. Z. Hadley and Ed Scofield are to be commended on their attendance at the regular meetings. Since the chapter was reorganized last April, they have not missed one meeting.

Our sincere thanks to Delta Mu for the invitations to visit the chapter and the efforts put forth in making reservations for homecoming this year. It is hoped that our chapter will be able to organize a successful party to be held during the Christmas holidays to honor the actives of Delta Mu.

Among the notables to visit our group were Hugh Shields and Dan Ferguson. They were in this area investigating the possibilities of expansion. We hope it will be possible for them to pay us another visit soon.

A. C. KISER

Syracuse

For some months past, the Executive Committee of the Syracuse Alumni Chapter has been busy contacting various officials of the Fraternity in an effort to reactivate the Gamma Omicron Chapter at Syracuse University. On the night of September 5, the committee's efforts reached unbounded heights at the dinner-meeting, at which Herb McCracken, Joel Reynolds, and Hugh Shields were present. Over thirty local Deltas were in attendance and the topic of the evening was the reorganizing of Gamma Omicron. Officials from Syracuse University were also invited guests, chief among which were Louis Crawford and Frank Piskor, both of whom are indispensable to Gamma Omicron in housing and fraternity affairs.

The dinner was highly successful and the enthusiastic report of the Deltas at present indicate a live-wire alumni group supporting the local chapter. As a result of this enthusiasm, the Executive Committee appointed three committees to co-operate with the University officials in the initial steps and in carrying through the program and a fourth committee, composed of the chairmen of the other three committees, to act as a co-ordinating group. To date, contacts have been made with undergraduate transfers to Syracuse University, housing has become an accepted reality for 1948, and a second dinner-meeting is planned for October 21, at which time the full report will be made to the alumni chapter and the undergraduate Deltas will be introduced.

The dinner dance is scheduled for later in the season, and in early spring an outing or clambake is in the embryo stage.

With the fine co-operation of the officers and Arch Chapter of the Fraternity, there can be little doubt that the future growth and success of Gamma Omicron is assured.

ERNEST R. DEMING, JR.

Topeka

Topeka Delta Tau Delta alumni have once again come to life. We have had two excellent noon meetings with twenty to thirty brothers present. We have elected Paul Beatty, president; M. C. Oberhelman, vice-president; Frank F. Hogueland, secretary. Much enthusiasm has resulted under the leadership of these men.

Meetings are now being held on the first Tuesday of each month at noon at the Kansan Hotel. Our next meeting will be held October 7 at the White Lakes Club, where we expect to have at least thirty Deltas and their wives present. A lovely dinner has been arranged with dancing, music, and card playing for entertainment.

Since Topeka is located in the center of the United States and we know many Deltas are forced to go through our city, we urge you to stop and attend our luncheon meetings.

We again want to extend our greetings to all Deltas!

GAIL E. WILSON

Toronto

A distinguishing feature of the Toronto chapter which may not have occurred to many Deltas is the fact that its membership is made up almost entirely of alumni of Delta Theta (University of Toronto), which is Canada's only active chapter. The result is a natural desire to keep some track of all these alumni, though at least half of them now reside far enough from Toronto not to come within the bounds of what would be strictly interpreted as a Toronto chapter. The executive has been making a special effort this year to bring its records of addresses up to date, and the information gathered has been extremely interesting.

In addition to the Deltas spread out from coast to coast in Canada, most of whom are occasionally contacted, either by members who have occasion to travel, or by their own visits to Toronto district, we hear from South America, Hong Kong, and of course many parts of the United States. Our records even show a member residing in South Africa.

We have heard expressions of interest in the idea of getting an active chapter under way at the University of British Columbia, which we find very gratifying. We of Delta Theta naturally look forward to the day when Delta Tau Delta will be adequately represented at some of Canada's other large universities, and we are ready to assist in any way possible with any such ventures.

There have been no alumni functions in Toronto since the dinner last spring, but plans are under way for small gatherings at the Shelter to assist the actives with their rushing. These will be completed by the time this letter reaches print, and our activities will be directed toward our fall meeting. Judging from the response to our appeal for addressing information, members' interest is very keen, and we look forward to an outstanding year.

NORMAN A. JULL

Tulsa

On Friday evening, August 15, a stag rush party was given at the Tulsa Country Club honoring the 1947 prospective Deltas.

There were fifteen alumni present, sixteen actives from the University of Oklahoma, and twenty-four rushees. There was swimming from 5:00 to 7:00 p. m., dinner at 7:30, and later wives and dates joined the group for a dance under the stars at Tulsa's popular Blue Moon.

Results being the acid test, the Tulsa Alumni Chapter was pleased when eight Tulsa boys, all that the chapter could take from Tulsa, pledged DTD at the University of Oklahoma. Sam Rhodes, another outstanding lad from Tulsa, also pledged Delt at the University of Texas. The chapter is also hopeful that Frank and Jack Wamsley, twin sons of Delt John Wamsley, and brothers of Delt Walter Wamsley, Butler University and University of Colorado respectively, will fall into the Delt tradition at Duke University when the deferred pledging period is up.

Good Delt James Melton is making a concert appearance in Tulsa on October 30 and the alumni chapter hopes to have an opportunity of entertaining him if his already overcrowded schedule will permit.

Delta Tau Delta Fraternity, 333 N. Pennsylvania St., Indianapolis 4, Indiana

FRATERNALLY YOURS

I am enclosing two pictures of my father, Founder Jacob S. Lowe, neither one of which has ever been published. . . . In 1868 a school was opened in the town of Geneva, Ohio, and it was called "Geneva Normal School." . . . Father went to Geneva in 1869 and was in charge of all the town schools until 1873. From 1873 to 1877, Farmers College in Cincinnati (a prep school); 1877 to 1881, Shelby schools; 1881 to 1883, Bethany College (prep department); 1883 to 1891, Geneva. In 1891 he went to Ashtabula where he remained for the rest of his teaching life.

He raised the standard of all the schools he worked in and he always had "teachers' classes." He also spent each summer in the county schools where the work was for teachers. He felt that higher education depended on the foundation gained in high school work. His favorite classes were the beginning ones in Latin and Greek. . . .

A great nephew of mine has just been pledged to Beta Chapter.

I thank you for all you have done to keep the "Ideals" of Delta Tau Delta alive. Most sincerely, HARRIET LOWE ROTE, Cleveland, Ohio.

I have browsed through it [THE RAINBOW] with interest and better yet realized the status of Delta Tau Delta in our nation today. Again I browsed through, and yet again, so as to miss nothing. My only cause for complaint is that THE RAINBOW is not bigger and more of it. . . .

Indeed there are many ways in which I would like to contribute to Delta Tau Delta because I feel indebted to the Fraternity for the honor bestowed upon me in making me a member in 1893.

LONG LIVE DELTA TAU.

Wishing you success in all things and especially in matters pertaining to OUR Fraternity. I remain, Fraternally yours, SEYMOUR CHARLES HAYDEN, Allegheny, '98.

I had a chat with some of the brothers at Tennessee, stopped by the house at Kentucky for dinner, talked to some of the boys at Sewanee, and dropped by the houses at Ohio and Iowa. All I can say is that Delta Tau Delta is second to no fraternity. The chapter at Kentucky is superb—a lovely house, lovely housemother, and a grand bunch of men. Their singing was excellent. I intend to visit Iowa State, North Dakota, South Dakota, Alabama, Nebraska, and Westminster during the year.

I introduced myself to two men at Iowa who turned out to be pledges. I told them I was from Delta Kappa, and they said, "Oh, you have the wrong fraternity. This is Delta Tau Delta." Fraternally yours, JOHN A. McDOUGALD, Duke, '46.

Recently I visited Delta Chapter at Michigan and was so cordially treated that I could not help mentioning it in my letter. That is truly the best chapter I have ever visited since leaving my own campus at Colorado. Fraternally, CHARLES W. SCHOBINGER, Colorado, '45.

You probably wonder what I'm doing in Yokohama, but as my new letterhead shows, I'm sitting as a judge on one of the famous War Crimes Commissions, trying Japanese war criminals. . . .

These trials are, of course, interesting, but I prefer my work in Northern Honshu. . . . Some of the evidence is quite gruesome and bloodcurdling. How people could be so cruel and abusive to others who were helpless is beyond me. But the bad boys are paying now—several have been hung. . . . Many of them are getting "life" sentences. . . .

The people are still poor over here, underfed and but few clothes. Their homes are generally shacks, cold and drafty. Fall is here and winter not too far away, so there will be lots of suffering from cold very soon. But in spite of it all they smile when they greet you and never complain. They're so happy we doughboys are here instead of another neighbor I could mention! Fraternally, LT. COL. HOWARD R. TURNER, Nebraska, '24.

I was happy to learn of the present progress and success being made by the Fraternity in its postwar reactivation by reading concerning its activities in The Delta Tau Delta News.

It has been a source of regret with me that I haven't been in a position to take a more active interest in the affairs of the Fraternity since my undergraduate days at Butler and Indiana Universities. Through all these years, however, my interest has remained passive and now I hope that the time is coming when all that is changed and I can once again re-establish those heart-warming and strong fraternal bonds. Fraternally yours, MAURICE M. SHELTON, Indiana, '34, Butler, '33.

Keep up the good work on THE RAINBOW. I find it more interesting now than I did when I was in school. . . . I'd like to get into alumni activities. But THE RAINBOW plus occasional contacts with some old chapter buddies have been the extent of it for a while now. Fraternally, BANKS E. EUDY, JR., Alabama, '43.

This will be my first year to be such a distance from my chapter. I will certainly miss my visits to my native Shelter.

Let me speak for all Gamma Theta alums when I say we've been pleased and proud of Gamma Theta's last two Distinguished Service Chapter Citations—those to Brother Cherry Leitnaker and Brother "Cap" Runyan. They were timely and well deserved. . . .

I am anxious to know of Delt Doings in this part of the country and receive news of my own chapter via THE RAINBOW. Fraternally, DONALD W. SELZER, M.D., Baker, '45.

May number of RAINBOW received and delights my heart (Zeta '88) to realize the steady and sound improvements in the management of Delta Tau Delta! SIDNEY S. WILSON, Western Reserve, '88, Twenty-nine Palms, California.

It might interest you to know that we have just sent out our second letter to all the Omicron alumni. . . . Also, yesterday, we received a check for $300.00 from Guatemala, a member of the Class of '97. Sincerely yours, MAURICE C. MILLER, Iowa, '18.

You are putting out a grand RAINBOW which I have greatly enjoyed. Especially the number containing story and pictures of our Founders. I received initiation into old Theta Chapter in 1891. Fraternally yours, REVEREND JOHN J. WHITE, Bethany, '95, Cornell, '99, Berkeley, California.
