One Moment, Please

Exactly one year ago we wrote in this column that it would be difficult to find a period of greater significance or one crammed more fully with activity than the spring of that far distant age. We are now prepared to eat those words. For the difference between today's cadence and that of last year is the contrast of a Sousa march and a Strauss waltz.

The first Regional Conference last February set off a chain reaction of events that will be culminated in August by the biggest detonation of all—the Fifty-ninth Karnea. During those six months, there will have been five Regional Conferences, a full Division Conference, multitudinous Founders Day celebrations, chapter initiations in every quarter, and three new Delt chapters installed.

Many of these events are chronicled in this issue. Others are foretold. The Fraternity's memorable entry on the Whitman College campus is described with words and pictures on Pages 143 to 149. As we go to press, two more chapters are about to spring into being. On May 23 Delta Sigma Chapter will be chartered at the University of Maryland, and June 5 will find Delta Tau Chapter of Delta Tau Delta installed at Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio. The August RAINBOW will give full coverage to these events.

On the next page Francis M. Hughes, General Chairman of the Fifty-ninth Karnea, invites all Delts to gather at French Lick in August for the time of their Delt lives. We urge you to read his story—and then to join him at French Lick.

Another Great Karnea—Hoosier Style

By FRANCIS M. HUGHES, Ohio Wesleyan, '31

General Chairman, Fifty-ninth Karnea

Seventy-nine years after the first Karnea at Meadville, Delts will gather on August 19, 20, and 21 at French Lick, Indiana, for the Fifty-ninth Karnea of Delta Tau Delta.

This will be the sixth Hoosier Karnea, Bloomington having been the site in 1872, and Indianapolis the gathering place on four subsequent occasions.

Hoosier Delts, native or adopted, are eager to display to the Delt world the rustic beauty of Southern Indiana, exemplified by the wooded hills and the quiet glens of the 2,000 acres of French Lick Springs.

Karneia Undergraduate Committee

Appointed by President G. Herbert McCracken, an undergraduate committee will work closely with the General Karnea Committee to make this Karnea a memorable one. All chapters from states that surround the Karnea site—Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, and Illinois— are represented. In addition, one member from each of the other two divisions was selected. The following chapter presidents comprise the committee:

Harry L. Wallace, Beta Alpha (Indiana)
Darrel G. Dock, Beta Beta (DePauw)
Bruce W. Christie, Beta Zeta (Butler)
Thomas I. Stuart, Beta Psi (Wabash)
Richard Cartwright, Gamma Lambda (Purdue)
Hugh Moorhead, Delta Epsilon (Kentucky)
William G. Johnson, Beta (Ohio)
James W. Bastian, Zeta (Western Reserve)
Mike Kevesdy, Mu (Ohio Wesleyan)
Charles D. Hering, Jr., Chi (Kenyon)
David H. King, Beta Phi (Ohio State)
Carl H. Schindler, Gamma Xi (Cincinnati)
David T. Paton, Gamma Upsilon (Miami)
William J. Fitzgerald, Beta Pi (Northwestern)
Harold A. Workman, Jr., Beta Upsilon (Illinois)
Roger E. Sellstrom, Gamma Beta (Illinois Tech)
John N. Dahle, Gamma Gamma (Dartmouth)
John A. Roesch, Delta Iota (U. C. L. A.)

Remember White Sulphur Springs? French Lick Springs can be and frequently is mentioned in the same inspired breath!

Some days ago, the stentorian voice of Hugh Shields over the long distance wire from Walla Walla asked the writer to act as General Chairman of the Karnea. The words were those of request, but the tone was one of command. And no one is in a position to refuse a command from Walla Walla! The next request was for this article, which is almost wholly promissory in nature. And your Committee, I assure you, is not going to leave a trail of broken promises in the path of the 1948 Karnea. Our collective neck is not endangered by the following assurances which we make to all Delts everywhere.

First, we promise the finest recreation to be desired, whether it be golf on two beautiful full length courses, or swimming, horseback riding, bowling, badminton, skeet, archery, ping-pong or tennis. And there will be those who desire quiet rest and relaxation, which is always available on the shaded verandas or in the sunlit gardens. So if you are the strong athletic type, or the quiet soul, French Lick will cater to your every desire! That is a promise!

Our next assurance is that no one will go away from the Karnea famished. A superb cuisine will be afforded to all Delts, be they gourmets or light partakers. French Lick's own model farm will supply the wholesome vegetables and dairy products served at meals. No one will be bored at the banquet board in the great dining room. And remember, it is American plan!

Then, again, we promise a complete program for the family. Delt dames and children will find a never ending procession of activities. A bridge luncheon, fashion show, and the many varied activities of the spa will be available to all the ladies. And, bless them, they are all invited to the Karnea Banquet. To say naught of the Karnea Ball! Bring your wife or sweetheart. Even your mother-in-law will enjoy herself.

And we are hoping for the greatest reunion of Deltism in the history of the Fraternity. The Board of Directors has approved the payment of the transportation expenses of two delegates from each undergraduate chapter. The location is ideal for a migration of Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, and Kentucky Delts. And the dignitaries of the Fraternity will be there almost without exception, whether they be officers, Arch Chapter members, present and past, former presidents, and Distinguished Service Chapter recipients. And

These are the Delts who have been appointed by the President of the Fraternity to make your Karnea a success. They are the men who will be on the ground laying the plans and grinding out the work that make a Karnea great. They promise you that your stay in French Lick will be a milestone in your Delt life.

COME RAIN - OR SHINE

"A few days at French Lick—say August 19, 20, and 21—would cure all of his symptoms!"

Everyone will be there—MARK TRAIL and ANDY (created by Delt Ed Dodd); EGGBERT, Delt EARLE CHESNEY's ubiquitous character; RODNEY DOW, ALEX COOK's mythical college boy; and many others.

Be there yourself!

Delts from all over America will be conspicuous by their presence. Even Hugh Shields has made a half-way promise to attend!

Have I forgotten to mention the hotel itself? Twelve hundred guests may be accommodated, so the Greeks will take over this old Indian territory completely. The rooms are bright, inviting, and beautifully furnished. The spacious lobby is an indicia of the luxury and comfort of all of the surroundings. Every detail is planned for maximum comfort. May I quote: "The modern man's castle, a retreat fashioned for rest and pleasure and generously endowed by nature." French Lick Springs Hotel will afford to all Delts a natural beauty of surroundings combined with modern luxury and amusements. Unless you've been there, your experience has been exceedingly limited, or, to speak frankly, you ain't seen nothin' yet.

I am not yet finished with my prolific list of promises. If you are unattached, an escort to the Karnea

Ball will be furnished. Remember what Lord Byron said about Hoosier girls: "She walks in beauty like the night of cloudless climes and starry skies." DePauw, Butler, Indiana, and Purdue are famous for beautiful coeds, and many of them, with a warm spot in their heart for Delta Tau Delta, will be present.

For those who are tourists at heart, the surrounding territory provides a fascinating variety of scenes of historical interest. Spring Mill State Park, the first Indiana state capitol at Corydon, the Nancy Hanks Lincoln Memorial and the Lincoln State Park, the old territorial capitol of Vincennes, and even the famed and picturesque town of Santa Claus are all within easy driving distance of French Lick.

Big cities have furnished the scene for most of our Karneas: Cleveland, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Indianapolis, New York, San Francisco, Boston, Memphis, and so on. But we in Hoosierland promise that the French Lick Karnea will be remembered with pleasure along with the other great Karneas of the past, carried on as it will be in a setting of incomparable beauty.

Yet perhaps our last promise is the best. In the final analysis, the test of a great Karnea is what it accomplishes for our Fraternity. Old friendships in the fraternal bond are renewed and strengthened. Hands that have been separated by the distance of years are clasped again. A model initiation ceremony will revive sacred fraternal memories and vows of brotherhood. Familiar songs will awake fond recollections of undergraduate days.

The progress of the Fraternity

will be strengthened by the Karnea sessions, with vital forum discussions for undergraduates, and for chapter and alumni officers, and advisers. And Delts will select their leadership for the next biennium. As in the past, the Karnea will give renewed impetus to the fraternal ideals of Delta Tau Delta, and will point the way to a greater and richer future for our great Fraternity.

Mrs. G. Herbert McCracken has graciously assumed the chairmanship of the Women's Committee, and she will be ably assisted by the wives of other members of the Arch Chapter. A large undergraduate committee, composed of the presidents of all Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, and Illinois chapters and representatives of the Western and Eastern Divisions, has been formed. And needless to say, we will lean heavily upon the able assistance of the Central Office of the Fraternity.

Here, then, is a brief preview of your 1948 Hoosier Karnea. The Cumberland foothills of Southern Indiana beckon to all Delts to join in this great fraternal gathering in Hoosierland. And when the history of this Karnea is written, it is our hope that it will be recorded of us that we did those things which ought to have been done, and that we left undone those things which ought not to have been done!

BRANCH RICKEY

Thomas C. Clark, Texas, '22, United States Attorney General, and Branch Rickey, Ohio Wesleyan, '04, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers Baseball Club, last year's National League pennant winner, will be principal speakers at the Karnea banquet at French Lick on Saturday, August 21, 1948.

Tom Clark, as he is popularly known, became Attorney General in 1945, following a distinguished career in the Department of Justice. He moved up from head of the Criminal Division to his present post. Nationally famous, he is in constant demand as a public speaker.

Well remembered for his part in the White Sulphur Karnea in 1941, Branch Rickey is noted for his colorful, effective speaking. He is a former Arch Chapter member, having served as Secretary of Alumni.

Delt Bob Strong to Play at Karnea

Bob Strong, Kansas State, '24, and his orchestra will provide music for the Karnea Ball, Saturday night, August 21.

Bob is no stranger in Delt circles. He has visited many chapters during his tours of college campuses, where he has always been a favorite.

Star of such radio shows as "Uncle Walter's Doghouse," "Avalon Time—with Red Skelton," and "Showboat," Bob has been featured also on Coca-Cola Spotlight Bands and the Fitch Bandwagon. He has played engagements at such famous spots as Chicago's Hotel Sherman and the Glen Island Casino.

Invitation From Karnea Hound

HARRY R. HEWITT
3121 LAKEVIEW AVENUE
ST. PETERSBURG 7, FLORIDA

April 1, 1948

Dear Brother Delt:

This is addressed to you, whether an active or an alumnus, and especially to Delts who have never attended a Karnea.

Do you plan a vacation this summer? If you do, why not include the Fifty-ninth Karnea to be held at the French Lick Springs Hotel, French Lick, Indiana, August 19, 20, and 21. If you do, it will be a real event in your life as a Delt, one never to be forgotten. No one who has never attended a Karnea has any real and true conception of the Fraternity as a national organization. There you will meet those members of the Arch Chapter who devote so much love and labor in guiding the destiny of the Fraternity. You will find them to be just the usual run of Delts, but working hard because of their love for the Fraternity.

There also you will meet the members in charge of the Central Office, our Executive Vice-President, the Editor of THE RAINBOW, and others of this office. There also you will meet many prominent alumni, those prominent in the religious, political, financial, and scientific affairs of our nation. And last but not least, there you will meet hundreds of members from our many active chapters from all quarters of the country, including Canada. Any one of the above, let alone all together, will more than repay you for your time, no matter how precious it may be.

To attend a Karnea is a real treat and will make any Delt more proud of his Fraternity, filled with more love for his Fraternity. To attend a Karnea is especially profitable to members of our active chapters. They will return to their respective chapters with renewed enthusiasm, renewed love, and with new ideas. There will be at least two delegates from each active chapter and hundreds of others.

So Delts everywhere, active and alumni, let's all meet at French Lick, Indiana, in August. Bring your wives, your sisters, your sweethearts; there will be plenty of entertainment for them all.

Fraternally yours,

Harry R. Hewitt
Harry R. Hewitt,
Beta Gamma, 1902.

Judge Harry R. Hewitt, Wisconsin, '02, hailed as "Chief of the Kennel of Karnea Hounds," writes that he plans to attend the Fifty-ninth Karnea at French Lick Springs Hotel this summer if his health permits, and he offers the above as a special invitation to other Delts to join the Brotherhood of the Kennel.

A Karnea Hound is a special breed of Delt, who once he has attended a Delt Karnea cannot resist the call every other August to enjoy the fellowship that is found at the Fraternity's national convention. Judge Hewitt, who has attended fifteen Karneas, has undisputed claim to being the Delt who has attended the most Karneas.

A former Arch Chapter member, Judge Hewitt attended his first Karnea in Milwaukee in 1901, at the time when Bishop Hughes was President of the Fraternity.

There will be other Karnea Hounds at French Lick in August. Keep your record handy so that you can compare notes with the Chief.

Famous Lincoln Memorial by Delt Architect

Karneagoers, whether they are Lincoln scholars or not, will experience a real thrill when they visit Indiana's Nancy Hanks Lincoln Memorial, nationally famous historic landmark, a project designed by a Delt architect, Richard E. Bishop, Wabash, '14, and Purdue, '14.

Situated thirty-five miles northeast of Evansville, Indiana, in Lincoln State Park—about fifty miles southwest of French Lick—the memorial was erected for the purpose of properly preserving the grave of Nancy Hanks Lincoln and paying tribute to both Lincoln and his mother. Abraham Lincoln spent fourteen years of his boyhood in Spencer County, where the Memorial is located. The Lincoln family settled in that county in 1816, the same year that Indiana became a state.

In 1940, after the Indiana Lincoln Union, with the approval and cooperation of the Indiana Department of Conservation, had decided to commemorate the life of Lincoln during the period 1816 to 1830, a time when most of Indiana was a wilderness, Richard E. Bishop was retained as the architect. His problem and objective were to try to suggest architecturally the simple style of the early nineteenth century and at the same time to incorporate into the ensemble an expression of those attributes which typify Lincoln.

When he undertook the task, Mr. Bishop started with this principle: "Whatever is built should be a forthright expression of honesty, simplicity, and dignity, qualities which we associate with Lincoln and his mother.

"There should be no false construction or design. Materials should be native and largely hand worked.

Mr. Bishop and his associates realized from the outset that the undertaking presented tremendous technical obstacles, but at the same time they were determined to make the Memorial structure as nearly authentic and perfect in every detail as was humanly possible. The Memorial as it now stands is a tribute not only to Lincoln, but also to those who, with infinite patience and exactitude, designed and built it.

The architect and contractors went to unusual lengths in selecting, processing, and finishing their material to get the desired effect. Native timbers and lumber of tulip poplar, walnut, and cherry were cut and squared by skilled workmen who used primitive hand tools. Timbers were chemically treated and kiln dried. Indiana limestone was cut and finished by hand according to the practice employed before machine-cut stone became popular.

Historical material of the chapters and the Fraternity will be displayed at the Karnea in French Lick Springs. Chapters and individuals are invited to submit items for this collection to the Central Office, Delta Tau Delta Fraternity, 333 North Pennsylvania Street, Indianapolis 4, Indiana. Receipts for the material will be issued and care will be taken to return the items in good condition.

Two items which will be of special interest to members of Beta and Mu Chapters are the early minute books of these two Ohio chapters. Similar material as well as items relating to early Karneas will be welcome for the exhibit.

The roof is of sheet copper. Windows, though aluminum, are of a design similar to that of the early period. The interior walls of Abraham Lincoln Hall are of Saint Meinrad sandstone, with cherry wood wainscot. Woodwork, including pews, are native yellow poplar, walnut, and cherry.

Indiana Artist E. H. Daniels sculptured the limestone panels surrounding Memorial Court, which constitute his conception of the significant period of Lincoln's life. Renowned Sculptor Lee Lawrie served as sculptural adviser. Above the doorways and panels authentic Lincoln quotations have been carved into the stone. Each represents the great President's belief in a fundamental moral principal, as: "Democracy. And that government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

The monument was completed in 1944—a monument which, it has been said, "presents the life of Lincoln better than any other Lincoln memorial." Mr. J. I. Holcomb, president of the Indiana Lincoln Union, acknowledged Mr. Bishop's work with this encomium: "The artistry that has gone into the countless details of planning and execution to recreate in stone and wood the very atmosphere of the day when Lincoln as a boy walked those hills beside his mother, is largely due to the meticulous, painstaking study, effort, and persistency of the architect, Richard E. Bishop."

A versatile architect, Mr. Bishop has lent his talents to two Delt chapters. He drew up the plan for remodeling the Wabash chapter house, and he designed the Purdue Shelter, which is widely recognized as one of the best constructed fraternity houses in the country. He served for twelve years as architect for the Indiana Department of Conservation.

Richard Bishop will be at the Karnea. Delts will have the opportunity to meet personally the man whose imagination created an authentic masterpiece of stone and wood.

Whitman Welcomes Delta Tau Delta

It was a dramatic moment.

Twenty young men had been initiated into Delta Tau Delta that Sunday afternoon, March 21. Some two hundred more Delts had gathered around the banquet tables of Walla Walla's Grand Hotel to take part in the event. Ranking officials and faculty members of Whitman College were attending as guests of honor.

President G. Herbert McCracken had traveled across the continent to officiate at the Fraternity's second postwar installation. Dr. Herbert L. Spencer, president of Bucknell University, had flown in from Pennsylvania to deliver the installation address. Western Division President Daniel W. Ferguson had introduced the new Delts and presented them their membership certificates.

Toastmaster DeWitt Williams had moved the program along at a fast clip, building for a climax. Delts and guests had edged forward in their chairs.

All of the work and planning of many months; all of the important behind-the-scenes organizing, studying, and developing that preceded a Delt charter grant; all of the working contributions of scores of people—all were waiting for culmination as Hugh Shields, Executive Vice-President of Delta Tau Delta, stepped to the rostrum, with the talismanic parchment in his hand, and addressed members of Delta Rho and their president, Roy Nilson.

Billings Hall on the Whitman College campus.

"This charter of Delta Rho," he said, "is far more than a mere piece of parchment. It represents a heritage and a tradition that are eighty-nine years old. It forges a new link in a chain that spans a continent. It marks the beginning of a long and distinguished career of another unit of our Fraternity. It plants the Delt heart on the Whitman campus.

"Members of Delta Rho Chapter, the Fraternity honors you with this charter. From this moment on you represent Delta Tau Delta at Whitman College. Your devotion to the high purpose of your College, the manner in which you conduct your affairs and develop your organization will largely determine the success of the chapter for many years to come. You set the pace. As charter members of the seventy-fifth active undergraduate chapter of our Fraternity, you assume a significant role in the history of Delta Tau Delta.

"Yours is the glorious opportunity to construct a foundation which will endure as a permanent and very real contribution to your College and your Fraternity.

"Receive this charter as a sacred trust, as evidence of our confidence in you, as a challenge and a charge to represent the highest standards of Delta Tau Delta. Accept it with responsibility, regard it with courage, and honor it with loyalty."

As the assembled Delts and guests rose to give the new group a rousing ovation, Delta Rho Chapter of Heart of the Whitman campus.

Whitman College became officially enrolled.

In response, Roy Nilson spoke for his chapter: "Words cannot fully express our appreciation for all the help and co-operation that was so generously given by the national Fraternity, Whitman College, the alumni, the undergraduate chapters, and many others. It is with extreme pleasure and pride that I now accept this charter."

With the baby chapter resoundingly launched, the installation oratory got under way—a friendly, fraternal sort of speaking that gripped the imagination. Speaking interfraternally, Dr. Chester C. Maxey, Dean of Whitman's Division of Social Sciences and faculty adviser to Beta Theta Pi, beamed, "I'm happy as a mere Beta could be. . . . We're glad you're here," and he extended the good wishes of all fraternities represented at Whitman—Beta Theta Pi, Sigma Chi, Phi Delta Theta, and Tau Kappa Epsilon.

"Whitman College believes in fraternities," declared Dr. Charles J. Armstrong, Dean of Administration, representing the College. He extended personal greetings from Dr. Winslow S. Anderson, president of Whitman, who was unable to be present.

"We're all in the same boat together—college and fraternity," Dr. Armstrong said. "I hope we can all row together." A fraternity man himself, member of Psi Upsilon, Dr. Armstrong had already done a good deal of rowing for Delta Tau Delta. When Whitman College invited the Fraternity to establish a chapter on that campus, he worked long and hard with the group of students who made up the nucleus of a petitioning local.

Delts heard from their President, G. Herbert McCracken, and from another Good Delt, Dr. Herbert L. Spencer. Their speeches are reprinted elsewhere in this issue.

True to tradition, ceremonies were concluded with the singing of "Delta Shelter" and a closely-knit Walk-Around, which ended noisily with the Choctaw yell, led by the ubiquitous man of all talents, Field Secretary Ed Heminger.

That rang down the curtain on a week end which was packed to the hilt with activity. It all began Saturday, March 20, when Delts from all over the Northwest started piling up at the Shelter. Whitman College and other fraternities on campus had gone all out to insure adequate housing and feeding for visiting Delts. Gamma Mu Chapter of the University of Washington turned out the largest undergraduate delegation with fifty members in Walla Walla for the week end.

The installation ball Saturday night was held at the Grand Hotel. Whitman sororities co-operated in furnishing dates for more than one hundred Delt undergraduates, who will vouch for the desirability of Whitman as a field for expansion. Intermission entertainment was provided by the Gamma Mu glee club, under the direction of William Copps.

Other events on Saturday's calendar included a special radio broadcast over Station KJ, when Carter DeBrito, Delta Rho pledge, interviewed Fraternity officials and local Delts, and a special luncheon given for visiting officials by the newly chartered Blue Mountain Alumni Chapter. Members of the local alumni chapter, incidentally, are deserving of a salute for the work they did in connection with developing Delta Rho Chapter and providing sound support from the outset. The Fraternity looks to them to provide the necessary alumni support which will provide a sustaining influence for Delta Rho.

It was on Saturday, too, that wires and other congratulatory messages started pouring in—from alumni chapters, undergraduate chapters, individual Delts, and friends. Just as important, there was a deluge of gifts—a piano from the Spokane Alumni Chapter (that's right—a piano), dishes from Gamma Mu, electric mantle clock from Delta Mu, silver candlestick holders from the Kappas, a gavel from the Tri Delts, flowers from the Alpha Chis, the Phi Delts, and Delta Gamma, silver serving dish from Alpha Phi, and cigars from the Betas.

Sunday morning and afternoon were devoted to formal initiation ceremonies, conducted impressively by special teams from the Universities of Oregon, Idaho, and Washington and Oregon State. Gamma Mu, Gamma Rho, Delta Lambda, and Delta Mu deserve special commendation for their excellent presentations of the Fraternity's Ritual.

The story would not be complete without mentioning the effective banquet entertainment, introduced by Paul R. Troeh, president of the Blue Mountain Alumni Chapter. It included the Whitman mixed octet; Dancer Helen Johnston, daughter of Delt George W. Johnston, Nebraska, '26; Roy Peringer, Delta Rho, who sang "Stouthearted Men"; and John Alexander, Jr., storyteller

Paul Hoffman Becomes Head of ECA

PAUL G. HOFFMAN

Paul G. Hoffman, Chicago, '12, a past President of Delta Tau Delta, has been appointed by the President of the United States and unanimously confirmed by the Senate as Economic Co-operation Administrator, or head of the European Recovery Program. This appointment means becoming what Newsweek has termed "the supreme United States commander in the cold war against Russian Communism."

As chief of ERP, this country's economic counteroffensive, Mr. Hoffman automatically assumes Cabinet rank. It has been emphasized that, although Congress had plotted the over-all strategy, the actual conduct of the economic war will be left up to him. He has been vested with unprecedented authority.

During the first twelve months of his tenure, he will have at his disposal $5,300,000,000, with another $11,700,000,000 in the succeeding three years. Assisting him will be a salaried deputy, a special roving ambassador, and a new Public Advisory Board of twelve people, appointed by President Truman. His staff will stretch halfway around the world. Commissioned to borrow employees from any Federal agencies, he will have available the cream of trained man power.

The whole world has focused its attention on Paul Hoffman, for the success or failure of the gigantic enterprise he now commands may well determine whether the world achieves a lasting peace or whether it is plunged into another global conflict.

Mr. Hoffman steps into the driver's seat with a wealth of economic and administrative experience. As chairman of the Committee on Economic Development, he directed the spending of roughly a million dollars in research into economic and production problems of this country. He served on the Harriman committee, which resolved the question of how much aid to Europe our country could afford. When his appointment was announced, he was just returning from an extensive two-week study of the recovery needs in Korea and Japan.

In Washington, D. C., the Public Buildings Administration has set aside five floors of the new, nearly completed Maiatico Building. Going to work at once, Mr. Hoffman arranged for temporary headquarters in the old State Department Building.

Paul Hoffman had his start in the automotive industry when it was in its infancy. Beginning as a porter in the salesroom of the Halladay Motor Company in Chicago, he became two years later a salesman for a Los Angeles Studebaker dealer. He was soon the firm's star salesman on the Pacific Coast. After an interruption during which he served in World War I as a field artillery first lieutenant, he bought the Studebaker retail branch in Los Angeles.

In 1924 Studebaker made him its vice-president in charge of the sales force and a member of the board of directors. A combination of setbacks placed the company in receivership in 1933 and Mr. Hoffman was appointed as coreceiver, which brought to the fore his executive ability. He was elected president of the Studebaker Corporation in 1935, a position which he has held since.

In 1937 he was pressed into the service of the Fraternity when the Karnea elected him Vice-President. Two years later he was elevated to the presidency, and he served two terms, being re-elected by the Karnea of 1941. Although he stepped down as Delta Tau Delta's chief administrator in 1943, he has retained his interest in his Fraternity and has been active in many Delt affairs since that date. In 1946 he was toastmaster of the Karnea banquet in Chicago.

After Dinner Forum

The beginning of the spring semester saw the fruits of virtually a year's planning on the Wesleyan campus when the Delt After Dinner Forum became a reality.

Conceived and supervised by Tom Meeker, class of '41, with organizational help from undergraduates Lou Willsea and Bill Malamud, both the class of 1950, the Forum was started with a dual purpose. First, it was felt that such a program would stimulate more interest on campus on affairs on both the national and international levels. Second, the Forum would serve as the vehicle by which Delt and members of the entire Wesleyan community could be brought in contact with men well known for proficiency in their specialized fields.

The inaugural program presented a talk on "The Middle East and Power Politics" by Dr. Wolff Kogun of Palestine. The next program, a round-table discussion on "Shall the United States Adopt a System of Universal Military Training?," featured Homer E. Woodbridge, John W. Abrams, and Francis C. Prescott, of the Wesleyan faculty, and Tom Meeker. The first March program featured Prof. Wesley A. Sturges, Dean of the Yale Law School, in a talk on "A Legal Career in Modern Society."

Programs scheduled for the remainder of the school year are, "The Atom Bomb—Past, Present and Future," featuring Allen Kline, formerly of the Atomic Energy Division, United States Army; a talk by Wilbert Snow, former Lieutenant Governor of Connecticut, on "Politics"; Professor Fred Rodell of the Yale Law School, who will talk on "The American Political Scene and 1948"; and "Europe's Future," a talk by George Ritter, recently returned from educational and reconstruction work in Europe.

Economic Life XV: Engineering

By C. W. BEESE, Iowa State, '15

Director of Technical Extension Division, Purdue University

Although it is a black night, flickering flames silhouette a jumble of steel mill buildings and illuminate in brilliant red the overhanging clouds. At one side, naked incandescent lights define, as in an office building, level after level of the towering steel framework surrounding the stills of an oil refinery. Droning unseen above the clouds, an airplane carries its passengers to a distant city, while across the scene flashes a passenger train pulled by a Diesel locomotive of modern design.

Does the picture thrill you? Does it awaken within you a yearning to participate in its activities? Do you see, perhaps dimly, the careers of the men who plan, construct, and operate the machinery of America, and do you promise to yourself that some day you will be one of a new generation whose technical skills accomplish the next steps in the industrial development of our country? Far more remains to be done than has been accomplished up to this time.

This country has become great because we are free to translate results of a competitive society into the things that make this the best place in the world in which to live. Because we have an aptitude for technology and a favorable environment for its growth, we have gone far beyond the subsistence living of the pioneers to whom we owe the first steps in our economic development.

The history of this country is marked by the rapid growth of technology. An increasing proportion of the population is employed in manufacturing, mining, transportation, and communication. Through industrial progress has come our increase in wealth and the rise in our standard of living. The Indians who occupied the North American continent possessed all the natural resources and the agricultural opportunities that make the United States the first nation of the world. The discoveries of the scientist and the application of this new knowledge

C. W. BEESE

Following military service, C. W. Beese served as adviser in his own chapter at Iowa State College. He later became chapter adviser at Penn State, while he was there as head of the Industrial Engineering Department. He transferred to industry in 1930 becoming Industrial Engineer for the Armstrong Cork Company at Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

Mr. Beese came to Purdue University in 1937 as head of the General Engineering Department, later being appointed to his present position as Director of the Technical Extension Division.

by the engineer spell the difference between the way people lived in colonial days and the way they live today.

Many a young man without previous vocational experience became acquainted with spectacular technological developments during his military service. The mysteries of the devices which served him intrigued his imagination, and he was thrilled with the possibilities of applying the discoveries of war to the needs of peacetime society.

The halo of engineering was well earned but there is a danger that it may confuse the judgment of the young man who sees more clearly the glamour than the grind. The accomplishments of an industrial age are an inspiration but they may be at the same time a delusion. The demands of the engineering profession are heavy, and the decision to follow it should not be made lightly.

If you are considering a career as an engineer, withhold your decision until you have made a study of yourself and the profession. It will be a better decision if you consider complete facts and sound advice. Compare your capacities with the demands of the profession. If an honest decision is impossible, postpone it. A willingness to "try it for a while" may be dangerous as well as wasteful.

The engineering profession is broadly defined in terms of its activities and responsibilities. It is the combination of art and science by which materials and power are made available for the use of mankind. The engineer, therefore, must have the specific training and the broad experience needed to plan and construct structures and machines and to supervise the human effort to bring them about. The functions of the engineer are those of a designer, a supervisor, a constructor, an operator, an investigator, and an adviser.

A profession is much more than a job. Engineering in common with the other professions is a career that demands much from the individual. It requires a high level of intelligence, certain very definite natural abilities, and a willingness to devote long periods of time to study and intensive training. Monetary rewards are satisfactory but not spectacular; but in few lines of human activity are there opportunities for more important contributions to the wealth of the nation and the happiness of its people.

FIELDS OF ENGINEERING

The engineer and the scientist are partners. The latter is a discoverer of new knowledge which may or may not be immediately usable. It is the function of the engineer to develop processes, structures, and devices, and to translate new knowledge into goods, transportation, and services that contribute to improving the way we live. An engineer must have a broad education and an intense technical training which extend beyond his school days. He must continue to study to accumulate new knowledge and to interpret and integrate his experiences.

The first engineers were military engineers. They built bridges, highways, and crude engines of war. Science had added to our technical knowledge so tremendously that other divisions became recognized. Many of these have specialized subdivisions.

The civil engineer plans and builds private structures and public works such as roads, railroads, buildings, dams, tunnels, and water supply and sewage systems. If he is essentially the planner, he may operate from a fixed base in an engineering firm or industry. If he does construction, he leads a roving life for few of his jobs require his attention after they are completed.

Mechanical engineers traditionally deal with machinery and the power to operate it. More recently mechanical engineers have concerned themselves with manufacturing production. They plan a product for economical manufacture, determine the methods to be used, design the tools to produce it, and direct the organization in its specialized assignments.

The activities of the electrical engineer usually lie within one of two major fields. One includes the application of electricity to power. It deals with equipment such as generators, motors, and transmission apparatus employing heavy currents. In the second field, communication, the engineer works with telephone, telegraph, and radio equipment. The same fundamental electrical theory applies to both.

The chemical engineer is concerned with materials and the chemical and physical changes they undergo in industrial processes. He is familiar with the problems of the chemist on one hand, and of the plant operator on the other. His most important work will be translating the work of the research laboratory into practice in a full-scale manufacturing enterprise or in a pilot plant.

The mining engineer searches for and discovers ores and other minerals and operates the enterprises that remove them from the earth and refine them into usable metals. He has a peculiar responsibility for he frequently lives in out-of-the-way places where he is responsible both for his operation and the activities of his industrial community.

Metallurgical engineering is closely allied to mining engineering. It deals with ores and metals and developing alloys of the latter to meet special needs.

There are some specialized subdivisions of engineering within smaller groups but almost without exception, they may be classified in one of the above divisions.

FUNCTIONS WITHIN ENGINEERING

A career in engineering is pointed not only toward a field of the profession but to a less degree toward a specific function within one or more fields. Your basic training within a branch of engineering may be applied in one or a combination of several functions.

Research in engineering discovers new knowledge and helps to understand the significance and relationship of facts already known. Development is closely related to research. It is the process by which the engineer makes the results of research useful through new products, new methods, and new processes.

Design is the engineering function that is usually thought of. It consists of converting ideas into plans and specifications for a machine, building, bridge, or other engineering structure. Construction and production are similar in nature. The former translates the design into a structure of steel or concrete, usually in connection with civil engineering projects. Production is the counterpart in industry and deals with the output of manufactured products.

Sales in technical industries require trained engineers to advise customers on the use of machines, raw and manufactured materials, and services.

Management is a function that is by no means reserved for the engineer, though he has some advantages in technical industries. In the lower levels, it involves the economical usage of materials, personnel, and equipment for the plant, the industry, or communications system. On the upper levels, it deals with the development of policies of finance, sales, public relations, personnel, and the activation of these policies into a successful enterprise.

These functions are not exclusive. An engineer may find that his capabilities and the needs of the circumstances where he finds himself may assign to him a combination of them.

PERSONAL QUALIFICATIONS OF THE ENGINEER

Choosing a field of engineering seems to be a confusing one. Actually it is less complicated than it appears. Much basic education and training is common to several fields of engineering so that you can postpone a final choice until it seems more certain. Experience is a teacher, and the finer degrees of specialization come during the years of professional practice and industrial employment.

An important point to consider is what a career as an engineer will require of you and how your capacities and abilities match with these requirements. Engineering is exacting and the education and training for it are necessarily difficult. You need to be able to master a tough program.

You must have a genuine and lasting interest in the things that an engineer does. This must be deeper than an interest in the things the engineer produces.

You must have a high level of integrity. You must seek the truth and be honest in your thoughts and actions. You will deal with the laws of nature with which there is no compromise. Your professional relationships with your employers, clients, and coworkers must be above question.

You must possess mental ability of a high order. You must have the capacity to think logically. You must be able to weigh ideas and decide wisely. You must have the ability to visualize constructively. You must have more than a spark of originality which usually shows itself as an ability to obtain ingenuous results.

You must be willing to work hard in school where your course will be difficult. In the beginning, your job will call for all your energy and ability to secure initial progress toward a career. As your years and experience accumulate, your professional career and your civic responsibilities permit little coasting.

Almost all engineers work with people. Successful co-operation with coworkers is important both for the enterprise and for the individual. With the ability to co-operate comes the capacity for leadership. It shows itself as soon as two people work together and becomes increasingly important as responsibilities become heavier.

It may sound as if every engineer must be a superman. The preceding qualities exist in different degrees and are required in different combinations for different jobs. Give yourself an honest inventory to be sure that there is none of them lacking.

EDUCATION FOR ENGINEERING

When does a man become an engineer? Actually, it is a process which has no end and with beginnings early in the years of formal education. Lucky is the boy who recognizes his aptitudes and interests early so that he can plan his education toward engineering objectives. This does not mean specialization in the early years for a broad educational structure is more important.

Science is the foundation of engineering education. First, and above all, is mathematics. Do you enjoy mathematics? Is it easy for you? It is the engineer's most important tool. His problems have answers of "how much" and "how many." His studies of engineering applications are outlined in terms of mathematical problems. The other sciences, too, are important. An aptitude for physics and chemistry makes these studies easier and enjoyable and points toward successfully mastering the application subjects which come later. Work hard on the underlying courses of mathematics, physics, chemistry, and let the special courses come later. A thorough grounding on the fundamental courses will give you a flexibility to provide specialization in several fields if your career demands it.

Let your program include a reasonable number of nonengineering subjects. After all, you will be a citizen and a member of an organization. You will deal with people as well as things. Learn to express yourself in speech and the written report. This is an important tool for your technical as well as personal success. Familiarize yourself with the high points of history. Know your government and its importance in the economic success of our country. Study some psychology to give you an insight into why you and other people behave as you do.

Maybe you need to get through school at the earliest possible moment. More likely you will not have to attend classes in the summer. By all means get a job. You probably will need the money, but even if you don't, get a job anyway. Learn to work with people. Get an idea of what a day's work is. Develop a responsibility for being on the job every day. What kind of a job to get is less important. It is helpful if it has some connection with industry or business so that you can see the "wheels go 'round." There is nothing to feel bad about if it is far down on the scale of skill and responsibility.

If you can do so, carry a reasonable amount of extracurricular activities while an undergraduate. Do it because it is fun and because it is an opportunity to develop qualities that are important in a professional and business career. You will learn to plan an activity, work with people, develop leadership, and appreciate citizenship responsibilities. You will learn to budget your time and to keep a complicated program active.

An engineering education in college may take more than four years if it includes part-time work in industry or if it includes advanced study. Careers in production, construction, and sales may be properly launched after a four-year college program. Chemical engineering or careers in research and teaching require masters and doctors degrees. These are points of decision for a later date when objectives are more clearly defined.

It is not worth while to worry over the initial job. If you have a good record in college, there are opportunities for employment. Industry is expanding and the proportion of technically trained persons needed there is increasing. But you must have something to sell besides a diploma. A mediocre record, even though you may have earned a degree, will have to meet tough competition from better ones.

All in all, the engineer who is properly qualified and trained has a happy career before him. He has the joy of doing a job he likes. He feels the satisfaction of making this country a better place in which to live. He expects to work hard because there is so much that has to be done. He has the satisfaction of knowing that success in his profession carries with it success and recognition as a citizen as well.

Fischbach Scholarship Renewed

For the second consecutive year, Dr. Robert F. Hall, Colorado, '40, has been awarded a scholarship under The Fischbach Residency Foundation. The Foundation committee last year selected him as the first recipient of the award.

The scholarship is made available annually to a member or members who are doing, or are about to do, graduate training beyond internship in a hospital recognized by the American College of Surgeons or by the American Medical Association.

The scholarship consists of a monthly cash payment in an amount which is determined by the Foundation committee.

Dr. Hall, who is specializing in orthopedics, began a residency July 1, 1947, at the Colorado General Hospital in Denver, Colorado.

The Fischbach Residency Foundation, established through a gift of Dr. Howard P. Fischbach, Kenyon, '06, and Mrs. Fischbach, is administered within the structure of the Fraternity's Educational Fund.

Dr. Herbert E. Chamberlain—Psychiatrist

Though Dr. Herbert E. Chamberlain, Albion, '16, son of a farmer near Howell, Michigan, knew even before he was ten that he wanted to be a physician, he was determined never to become involved with patients mentally ill. Those hair-raising stories about insane women that his architectural engineer brother had brought home from a job at the Binghamton state hospital were much too terrifying to his young, eavesdropping ears. Nevertheless up and down the West Coast and indeed in national medical circles Dr. Chamberlain is today considered one of the country's foremost psychiatrists, a man whose counsel is so widely sought that to keep his appointments he has already flown over 270,000 miles. The states of Oregon and Nevada engage him as consultant psychiatrist for their departments of social welfare; every month he spends a solid week each with private and public agencies from Vallejo to Long Beach and Santa Monica in California; every other month he is in New Mexico; every year he lectures in Texas and Florida. And not many months ago he returned from a mission to the Philippines on which he had been sent by the U. S. State Department and the Federal Security Agency's U. S. Children's Bureau.

"Oh, I live out of seven suitcases," he assured us one morning recently when we were his breakfast guests at the Biltmore in Los Angeles. Finally with great difficulty we had gotten him to talk a little about himself rather than his recent experiences in the Philippines where he had been observing the health of the women and children after four years of Japanese occupation.

"My becoming a psychiatrist was quite a fortuitous happenstance," Dr. Chamberlain explained. "I was studying medicine at Harvard after Albion graduation, of course, and when still a junior there Dr. Harvey Cushing (the famous brain specialist) placed my name as one of twenty on an exchange list for the summer work in New York."

Dr. Chamberlain's assignment was to the Westchester branch of the New York hospital, which to the initiated is "Bloomingdale," a hospital for mental cases. In full charge of the emergency ward his second night there, Herbert Chamberlain found himself questioning a young man who had been brought in because of attempted suicide. Gently the young doctor-to-be probed for the full story and discovered that the patient, who had reared his nine brothers and sisters after the death of his parents, had gone off to World War I, and on his return had found his sweetheart married to one of his brothers. For an hour and a half Chamberlain and the young man talked it over and then the patient confessed to a relaxing drowsiness—the first he had known in over two weeks—a most flattering response to initial therapy and practical science!

So Chamberlain ordered warm milk and a bed for him, and then retired himself. Early next morning his patient was a new creature, bright-eyed and vigorous. Could it be that Chamberlain had some special gift after all? The thought intrigued the young medico but was shortlived, for the patient quite frankly explained his renewed interest in life: "When I listened an hour and a half to you and saw how successful as a misfit you were, I decided to take another stab at life."

This is the sort of fun Dr. Herbert Chamberlain enjoys poking at himself. Once during our interview he asked us abruptly if we had ever read the book Where Do People Take Their Troubles? We hadn't, so he told us that just two and a half pages before the nation's "psychics" his name appears as the flying psychiatrist. His friends, he claimed, all wanted to know whether this subliminal status makes him a leader in quackery or whether he is being clairvoyantly chased.

The facts are that Dr. Chamberlain's formal professional training has been Simon pure, orthodox and international.

EARLY YEARS

After graduation from Harvard Medical in 1921, he interned at Royal Victoria hospital in Montreal, affiliated with McGill University. Bloomingdale then wanted him back as a full-fledged staff psychiatrist. So for the next five years Dr. Chamberlain served this famous institution and taught at the same time at Vanderbilt clinic in New York. It was during these important years that he met the founder of the mental hygiene movement in this country, the colorful Clifford Beers, author of The Mind That Found Itself, an autobiographic account of the conditions in hospitals for the insane. The young National Committee for Mental Hygiene then asked him to make a six months' survey for the Eleemosynary Committee for the state of Texas. So Chamberlain studied the work done there for children in schools, almshouses, and state institutions. In all, 3,300 children were examined and over 600 inmates of the almshouses and jails.

Not long afterwards, on Mr. Beers' recommendation, Chamberlain was named one of the first five Commonwealth Fund Fellows. In 1926 he spent six months in the London National hospital in Queens Square on a neurological clerkship; six months in Paris at the Sal Petriere Hospice, where he worked with Babinski in his clinic—Babinski of reflex repute; and six months in Zurich on adult psychology and neurology, where he observed first hand the early work of Rorschach.

Back in America Chamberlain was plunged into an energetic career. Following a survey of 1300 children for the state of Vermont, he spent five years as director of the Child Guidance Clinic for the Minneapolis schools, lecturing concurrently at the University of Minnesota in the departments of education and medicine on the behavior problems of children. Three summers he taught at the well-known Smith College School of Social Service. Thousands, too, who swung their dials to WCCO, Minneapolis, heard him regularly.

When the Pan-American Congress met in Lima, Peru, during Hoover's presidency, Dr. Chamberlain appeared on the program in the health section, an honor that came to him again at the Congress's meeting in Mexico City when Roosevelt was president.

An associate professorship at the University of Chicago lured him from Minneapolis, and in 1937 he left his teaching assignment to become chief of Child Welfare Services in the State Department of Social Welfare of California, a post which he resigned at the beginning of World War II to "limit" his practice to consultations, lectures, and free lancing.

PHILIPPINE SURVEY

Last year when the Reconstruction Rehabilitation bill for the Philippines was before Congress, four hundred million dollars was appropriated to survey the harbors and rebuild the roads and government buildings there, but not one cent was set aside for the evaluation of health and welfare services for the people themselves. So two outstanding American physicians were sent on a tour of investigation by the State Department, one of them Dr. Chamberlain.

It is the story of this mission that is in the forefront of the doctor's thinking today, and his rapid gliding over the Philippine situation was an experience we wished many Americans could share. Perhaps he will write a book about it. We urged him to. But no reader could ever capture the personality of this concerned physician. One really needs to see and hear Dr. Chamberlain, a vivacious and vivid actor, himself, who identifies himself sympathetically with the Filipinos—citizens, guerrillas, bandits, children. Even his houseboy, he maintains, was more like a brother than a servant. They showed him every courtesy they could, filling his arms embarrassingly with gardenias; serving him banquets even when the last pig in town had to be killed; his former driver even pressing upon him, as a token of fraternity and equality, his war helmet in which he had carried Japs' brains back to guerrilla leaders for praise and bounty! Thirty letters monthly from the Philippines urge his return and admonish him to care for himself as well as he does others.

By army transport plane Dr. Chamberlain flew to the Philippines in May, 1946. Billeted with colonels one day, he would find himself the next in a barrio nipa hut with Filipino peasants.

"I rode a carabao to reach out-of-way barrios," Dr. Chamberlain said. "And even though I sat on a burlap sack, that's like riding the kitchen stove. The carabao doesn't perspire, you see. But he does cool off by wallowing in the mud every three hours, and the combination in the tropics—Chamberlain, mud, and carabao—is something to behold."

So Dr. Chamberlain forded streams with mud up to his armpits. Thirteen nights he spent talking to guerrillas. He washed his own clothes. Rats ate the tongues out of his shoes. He lost thirty pounds. At times he had no light but coconut oil in discarded beer cans, or tallow, home-made candles. Disease and malnutrition were rife.

"But never have I met people so magnificent, so devoted, so sincere. The most humble and impoverished among them have a quiet dignity and integrity that Americans might well study and copy." This he attested to again when he addressed the Los Angeles-Albion club a few nights later. "The Filipino loves freedom above all else and many if not all aspire to an independence they believe is typically American." . . .

AMERICA'S OWN PROBLEMS

To our query as to America's own mental health we had a rapid fire response.

"Three or four factors call for serious thinking," he said emphatically.

"The present American family is very mobile. Indeed, anyone living in the same place he did three years ago is strange, and of course such milling around results in loss of security from definite anchorage and a low regard for personal property rights and possessions.

"Then, in the typical American family which today has fewer children, both parents and children are likely to suffer from too much guidance from too many agencies trying to help them in the up-bringing of youth.

"The increased emancipation of women, too, has made for much bickering today between husbands and wives with the resultant high divorce rates and separations.

"And, of course, I fear that the

In each of the four Divisions, there are several Division vice-presidents, whose duties include assisting the Division President in his work, counseling with the undergraduate and alumni chapters in their respective areas, and carrying out special duties which may be assigned to them from time to time. They are the Good Delts who help execute many of the important programs of the Fraternity, giving unselfishly of their time and effort. In addition, many of them are, or have been, chapter advisers and officers in alumni chapters.

There are four vice-presidents in the Southern Division, five in the Western, six in the Northern, and three in the Eastern. They are elected by Division Conferences in the Southern and Eastern Divisions, appointed by the Division Presidents in the Northern and Western Divisions.

Division vice-presidents have taken an active part in Regional and Division Conferences held this spring. In the Eastern Division there were regional meetings in Pittsburgh, Boston, and New York. In the Western Division there were Regional Conferences at Eugene, Oregon, and Lawrence, Kansas.

The only Division to have a full Division Conference was the Northern Division, which met at the Hotel

Olds in Lansing, Michigan, with Iota Chapter of Michigan State College as the host chapter. Delegates voted to hold next year's Conference at Madison, Wisconsin, where Beta Gamma Chapter of the University of Wisconsin will be the host.

There were no conferences in the Southern Division this year. The constitution of the Southern Division provides only for the biennial Division Conference.

Supplementing the work of the General Karnea Committee, the Division vice-presidents will serve as coordinators in their respective areas in boosting attendance for the Fifty-ninth Karnea and in making preparations for this great Delt event on a nationwide basis. Keeping closely in touch with the Karnea Committee, they will be able to extend the influence of committee organization into the undergraduate and alumni chapters they serve.

Division vice-presidents are available, in matters pertaining to the Karnea, as in other Fraternity programs, to give guidance and counsel to undergraduate and alumni groups. Their efforts will contribute substantially toward making the French Lick Karnea an event which will take a prominent place in Delt history.

Delt Heritage From Former President

WASHINGTON GARDNER, Hillsdale, '69, and Ohio Wesleyan, '70, was President of the Fraternity from 1886 to 1887. A charter member of the Hillsdale chapter, he later followed a distinguished political career, serving several terms as a Member of the United States Congress.

RAYMOND H. GARDNER, Albion, '07, and George Washington, '07, son of the former President. He is president of the board of directors of the Albion Malleable Iron Company.

RAYMOND H. GARDNER, JR., Albion, '36, grandson, is now a pilot for American Airlines.

JOHN WASHINGTON GARDNER, second grandson, is an undergraduate member of Epsilon Chapter at Albion, where he is making straight "A" averages.

bizarre action of our occupational forces abroad is going to seriously influence upon their return their concept of family life in its responsibilities in the years to come."

As for the war's casualty list, Dr. Chamberlain made another disturbing statement. "Just as the World War I casualty list was not considered complete until 1947, so our casualty list for this war will not be complete until 1986 or thereabouts. More casualties occur after a war than during it. . . ."

Never marrying because he was "too busy and too happily preoccupied with a gratifying professional life," Dr. Chamberlain has developed two hobbies—photography and snowshoeing in the Sierras. He has also written many pamphlets and monographs and has spoken before conferences of social work in over thirty states. . . .

Just before we left him we asked about an interesting silver ring with bronze insignia that he was wearing on his expressive left hand.

"Oh that! It was won long before the war in the Olympic games. Oh, no, not by me but by a young man whom I got to know as a result of my broadcasts over Station WCCO in Minneapolis. He came to me professionally and I urged him therapeutically to undertake weightlifting not so much as a sport but as a diversion from emotional conflict. He did, grew most proficient at it, and when he won this ring in the Olympics, he insisted I must have it."

We felt that the young man had a sense of the appropriate. A weightlifter's trophy! Certainly it belongs on Dr. Chamberlain's finger.

THE EARLY BIRD

Delta Tau Delta is signally honored this evening in becoming the fifth national fraternity on the campus of Whitman College.

We of Delta Tau Delta admire the liberal traditions of Whitman and, with you, we are convinced that if the American dream, as conceived by Marcus Whitman and other forward-looking pioneers, is to be maintained and to come to its true fulfillment, we must labor unceasingly for the maintenance and development of that heritage.

Once more, we respect your recognized standing and the high objectives of Whitman in the realm of education, and we pledge ourselves as a fraternity to uphold and advance them.

Then, too, Delta Tau Delta is happy to be privileged to install our Delta Rho Chapter on this campus because Whitman's limited enrollment and its homogeneous character permit and are conducive to those deep interpersonal relationships which we believe make student life a richer and more creative experience.

And so, you see, Delta Tau Delta already feels quite at home on the campus of Whitman College, and we look forward to years of pleasant relationships and creative co-operation.

But more specifically, what does Delta Tau Delta have to offer you members of Delta Rho Chapter and what does it bring to the traditions and objectives of Whitman College?

In the first place, it is our deep-seated desire, as a fraternity, to develop young men with a capacity to think clearly, to feel deeply, and to decide and act in accordance with those ethical standards which, through the long years, have been tried and tested—and found to be good.

In an era of conflict between competing political and economic systems, in a time of turmoil and yet of tremendous possibilities, and in a moment of history when one of the supreme needs of our world is young men who can stand on their own feet and play a creative role in deciding the character of tomorrow—we of Delta Tau Delta believe, with a conviction born of eighty-nine years of experience on college and university campuses, that there is no greater immediate need than this type of character, and it is our purpose to help create it here on this campus, in co-operation with Whitman College.

In the second place, to be a member of Delta Tau Delta is to be lifted out of our singleness as individuals into a fellowship as brothers, in which we are forever being reminded that we, as individuals, have a collective obligation, and that it will be only as we live and play and work together that our individual personalities will be socially matured and a happier world achieved.

To live together successfully as brothers in a fraternity requires social imagination, consideration for the rights of others, disciplined behavior, and the recognition of each member as a significant personality with a structure of character to develop.

And I submit that if the members of Delta Rho Chapter strike hands tonight as true brothers—and live and play and work democratically together in the authentic Delt spirit through all their days on this campus—they will be effectively equipped and adequately prepared to take a creative place in that larger society which today needs so desperately men of social imagination who recognize their collective obligations.

In the third place, Delta Tau Delta, as the scholastic standing of our chapters on seventy-four campuses will bear testimony, believes that there is no substitute for a trained and disciplined mind. We hold, therefore, that, although house parties, athletics, and campus offices have a rightful and important place in student experience, the primary responsibility and opportunity of the student on the campus is to assimilate, to integrate, and then to implement on the level of ethical and religious conviction the findings of the arts and the sciences, gaining thereby the best possible techniques, tools, and implements for his future work.

A war of ideas is being waged in our world today. How can a man think critically and creatively, and play a worthy part in this battle of ideas, if he does not know how and what men have thought in the past, and if he does not think today about the forces and influences and ideas which are contending for mastery in this generation? We have at hand a rich heritage of the best thinking of the past, and I know that Whitman College is employing these concepts of the past and integrating them with the best thinking of the present in a creative search for the truth which alone will keep us free. As I work at my business I see businessmen who are fearful and anxious; as I read my daily paper, I see statesmen who are nervous and apprehensive. People everywhere are going about as if a sword were suspended by a thread over their heads! Our need today is for leaders in all of the interests of life who are equipped to think and to deal intelligently, not emotionally, with the issues before us. And so, Delta Tau Delta holds that scholastic achievement and the learning process are central, or should be central, in the lives of the members of our Fraternity.

In conclusion, on behalf of our national Fraternity, I pledge to you, the members of Delta Rho Chapter, and to Whitman College that Delta Tau Delta will place at your disposal its accumulated experience of eighty-nine years and its resources of guidance and friendship and leaders in the achievement of these goals and purposes and ideals.

Today, because of its creative campus program and its forward-looking policies, Delta Tau Delta boasts of seventy-five active chapters, including Delta Rho, lo-

WITH GOOD DELTS

By DR. HERBERT L. SPENCER, Carnegie Tech, '21

President, Bucknell University

A CHALLENGE TO DELTA RHO

It is with deep gratitude and very real pleasure that I have accepted your kind invitation to come across the country from the campus of Bucknell University at Lewisburg, Pa., to address you on this memorable occasion, the founding of the Delta Rho Chapter of Delta Tau Delta.

First, I want to bring you greetings from my own chapter, Delta Beta, at the Carnegie Institute of Technology. And next I want to congratulate the Delt chapters in the Northwest whose initiating teams have installed this chapter of Delta Tau Delta at Whitman College in such an inspiring manner.

To the faculty and the administration, and especially to Dean Armstrong of Whitman College, I want to express the deep appreciation of Delta Tau Delta for the excellent co-operation and help which they have so generously given. I want also to congratulate Whitman College upon having obtained a chapter of Delta Tau Delta.

To the members of Delta Rho Chapter and to all brother Delts assembled here, may I offer my own interpretation of the challenge which Delta Tau Delta presents to its members.

I am convinced, as I hope that you will be, that our Fraternity has no just claim to existence unless it can develop in its members certain important personal, moral, and intellectual attributes. Among these attributes I would include such vital traits as personality, character, integrity, manners, leadership, and scholarship. Time will not permit me to describe in detail each of these six essential characteristics of a fraternity man, but I should like to review them briefly.

The fraternity, more than any other organization on the campus, has, I believe, the opportunity to develop in a student the distinguishing marks of a fine personality.

Some time ago I talked with one of the high officials of the General Electric Corporation who, for nearly a quarter of a century, had been responsible for the selection of college graduates entering the service of his company. He told me that in 20 years not one person had failed because he lacked technical training. Those who failed did so because they could not get along with their fellow beings. They lacked the art of human understanding. At some time or other, possibly during their college careers, they had developed warped personalities. At precisely this point, it seems to me the fraternity faces a challenge as well as an opportunity—that of developing wholesome, Christian personalities. Men of Delta Rho, let me challenge you in your dealings with one another, in your dealings with the students of Whitman College, in your dealings with the faculty and administration of Whitman College, to consider always the personal rights of your associates. May you be irrevocably committed to the service of your fellow men.

A second important quality which we may properly expect the fraternity to develop is character. What is character? I am not sure that anyone has ever defined it satisfactorily, but all of us can understand something of the factors which go into its making. For example, I like the thought expressed in these words: "To create in each Delta Tau Delta man the spirit of tolerance, to make him alive to beauty, to develop what might be called a sanctuary of the mind; having tolerance he may face the puzzle of things not understood and withhold judgment, through the perception of beauty he may grow in refinement, and within the sanctuary of the mind, because of the tolerance and the beauty, he may begin to understand himself." Yes, one of the fundamental concepts back of Delta Tau Delta is the development of character. May it always be said on the Whitman campus that the man wearing the badge of Delta Tau Delta is a man of sterling character.

Fraternity life offers also the opportunity to stress a third quality, the quality of integrity. Integrity, like character, is not easily defined, but few would deny that it is a virtue badly needed in our world today. Mr. Stringfellow, executive vice-president of the Edison Industries, has offered this definition: "Integrity is soundness of character; integrity is the quality of mind and spirit which we associate with honesty and good faith, either in public or private life; integrity is the foundation on which virtue and morality rest; integrity is the cornerstone of right relationships between individuals and groups; integrity is the indispensable ingredient of sound business and professions."

The greatest single asset of the United States of America is not in its stupendous industrial enterprise; it is not in its unsurpassed agricultural system, the greatest the world has ever known and which is now being asked to feed the world; it is not in its unrivaled transportation system; or in its army or navy or air corps; it is not even in its colleges and universities or its churches; it is in the character and integrity of its citizens. "When our people lose their fundamental honesty, business will collapse overnight. Let them lose their sense of decency, and no one will be safe anywhere. Let them lose their sense of liberty and tyrants will spring into power immediately. Thinking people know there is no substitute for integrity." The history of human progress is the record of men who could be trusted and who could trust themselves, men who put righteousness, truth, justice, and freedom above personal gain, above personal power—yes, above life itself. Jan Masaryk died because he valued freedom even more than he valued his own life.

The greatest asset of Delta Tau Delta is found not in its beautiful houses of which you hope someday to have one, it is found not in its alumni, not in its activities, or even in its scholarship; it is found in the character and integrity of its members. Loyal Delts are men of character.

I mentioned earlier that in twenty years at General Electric Company not one man had failed because he lacked the necessary technical qualities. I dare say that ordinary, common, everyday manners, or rather, the lack of manners, provided the clue to many of these failures. How frequently we find college students, and I am ashamed to say even college professors with Ph.D. degrees, whose manners have not kept pace with their learning. Certainly the fraternity can do a great deal to develop proper awareness of the rules of social conduct.

But the fraternity has an even greater contribution to make to the growth of the college man, a contribution of tremendous significance. If we are to survive our present era of confusion and avoid possible chaos, a new type of leadership must be developed. Somehow or other, the youth of this country must learn that security does not come from man-made laws. It comes from individual initiative and enterprise, from courage, from hard work. Certainly the fraternity should be the seed bed of leadership for the new day.

No, real security does not come from man-made laws. Real security comes as a reward of hard work. Success comes not so much as the result of an individual's seeking after it but as the result of his unselfish service to mankind. It comes from self-development in light of the social whole rather than the individual's own advancement. We have found that "Wide is the gate and broad is the way that leadeth to destruction." What we need now to realize is that "Straight is the gate and narrow is the way that leadeth unto life."

To travel this path, man must learn to give generously of himself above and beyond any hope of recompense. He must be willing to travel the extra mile in service to his fellow man. History gives us many examples of noted men and women whose careers were devoted to this ideal, but I have time to mention only a few of them.

Thomas Jefferson, whose 200th birthday we celebrated last year, was paid not a cent for writing the "Declaration of Independence." The design and supervision of the University of Virginia he did in his spare time and not for compensation. Thomas Jefferson knew the meaning of the "extra mile."

The Curies of France gave to the world, without thought of pay, one of the greatest of mankind's benefactions—Radium—and they received nothing for it. It was developed during their spare time. They knew the meaning of the "extra mile."

John Martin Hall, one of the inventors of the modern process for making aluminum, gave his invention to society for the good of civilization—it was discovered and perfected on his extra mile of effort.

George Washington Carver, the noted colored scientist, devoted his entire life to the service of his fellow men. No temptation of money or fame in Washington could take him from his tasks of serving his race. He also knew the value of "the extra mile."

Many of our boys in the Armed Services were awarded honors for "heroism over and beyond the call of duty." Yes, it's the extra mile that counts. It's the extra mile that will give Delta Tau Delta security, not man-made systems of physical or economic or academic protection.

I haven't said anything thus far about scholarship, and I have purposely not mentioned it because it is axiomatic that scholarship comes first on the list of desirable traits for any college student. Delta Tau Delta is deeply interested in scholarship of its members and I can assure you, Dean Armstrong, that you will get all possible support from the national office, to keep members of Delta Rho high in their scholarship.

Yes, this chapter, Delta Rho of Delta Tau Delta, has no right to exist unless it develops in its members character, integrity, manners, leadership, and scholarship. And so, to the members of Delta Rho, I say: 1. Make your grades; 2. Pay your bills; 3. Be gentlemen.

If members of Delta Rho of Delta Tau Delta will apply these three principles to their daily living, I am sure that their success, the success of this great Fraternity, and the success of those who follow in the years to come will be as assured as tomorrow's sunrise. Members of Delta Rho, as you go out into the world proudly displaying the badge of Delta Tau Delta over your heart, may it always be said that wherever you may be, whatever you may do, and whatever you may say, that you will always bring honor and glory to your beloved College and to your beloved Fraternity, Delta Tau Delta.

cated at leading colleges and universities in the United States and at the University of Toronto, with some 6,000 undergraduates and more than 33,000 alumni members. It boasts of sixty-nine chapters owning their own homes or having substantial investments in lodges and houses that are valued at approximately $4,000,000. Delta Tau Delta possesses an endowment fund of more than half a million dollars; an Undergraduate Loan and Scholarship Fund, known as the Educational Fund; and a Central Office directed by the country's outstanding fraternity executive and staffed by unusually competent office and field secretaries.

Today, Delta Tau Delta enjoys leadership representation in all the fields of human endeavor—science, education, business, religion, journalism, medicine, government, athletics, and so on. You members of Delta Rho are joining a brotherhood of men, stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific—and from the past to the future.

This fellowship, these resources, this Fraternity are now yours—to enjoy, to utilize, to enrich. We pledge you our support, our best wisdom, and our blessings.

Alfred T. Rogers

He joined the Chapter Eternal March 27, 1948, after serving Delta Tau Delta through the major years of his lifetime.

He never lost faith in the younger generation. To him the boys in the chapter, year after year, were always the finest group in the world. Through lean years and good years his loyalty never faltered.

One of the happiest days of his life was when he was honored by the Distinguished Service Chapter before his brother Delts. What a fine time he had at the 1946 Karnea renewing his many lifelong friendships.

Yes, Alf lived a full life and enjoyed his many contributions to his Fraternity and his beloved Beta Gamma Chapter. He would be happy to know his Badge is to be worn by each incoming chapter president during his term of office.

extraordinary, son of Delt John Alexander, Oregon State, '23. The Fraternity is grateful, also, to Dr. Melvin C. Jacobs, Professor of Biblical Literature at Whitman, who pronounced the invocation at the banquet.

Tribute was paid to the original eight members of the colony who founded the local fraternity which became Delta Rho Chapter. Raymond Haman, in behalf of the pledges and other members of Delta Rho, presented the following men founders' keys: Charles B. Daiger, John W. Davis, Joseph A. DeBoer, Leonard T. Eckstrand, Fred M. Ladd, Roy Nilson, John E. VanHouse, and Gordon J. Zerbetz.

Seldom has a college's reception of a new fraternity chapter been as enthusiastic as that accorded Delta Tau Delta at Whitman. The College, founded in 1859, the same year the Fraternity was founded, represents the best traditions of the small liberal arts college. Delta Tau Delta is proud to be represented there by Delta Rho.

Arch Chapter Meets

For the first time in history, undergraduate representatives attended a meeting of the Arch Chapter. When the Arch Chapter met at French Lick April 23, 24, and 25, four undergraduates representing all four Divisions were present.

Pictured in session below, the Arch Chapter found that the presence of undergraduate representatives worked for mutual benefit. Arch Chapter members were able to hear firsthand the undergraduate point of view, while undergraduates gained a better conception of the national scope and programs of the Fraternity.

College, defended the "on-to-college" stampede with an article in The Denver Post in which he imagined Williams was debating the question of higher education with Socrates.

As a sequel to the controversy, Williams was presented with a bust of himself, "handsomer than Socrates," and a degree of doctor of useless degrees (D.U.D.) at the annual Founders Day banquet in Denver by L. ALLEN BECK, Baker, '09.

Joins Field Staff

The Fraternity announces the appointment of Field Secretary Fred C. Kellogg, Missouri, '46, who will join Delta Tau Delta's field staff in July.

Fred, a native of St. Joseph, Missouri, spent one year in college before entering the Navy. After eighteen months service, he was commissioned an ensign in the Naval Air Corps and served as an operational instrument flight instructor.

Re-entering Missouri in 1946, after military service, Fred played an important part in reactivating Gamma Kappa Chapter, into which he had been initiated shortly before leaving the campus. A tireless worker, Fred served at various times as treasurer, vice-president, house manager, and pledge trainer.

Not content with his record in the chapter, Fred became extremely active in campus activities and served as senior representative on the student council, as a member of the interfraternity council, and did a great deal of work on several student committees.

THE DELT CHAPTERS

Alpha—Allegheny

A signal success for Alpha was the election of Jack Nixon, '49, to the presidency of Allegheny's Men's Undergraduate Council, the most important student government organization on the campus.

The chapter's political campaign included radio broadcasts over station WMGW, Meadville, and numerous "Vote for Nixon" signs which earned Jack the nickname the "pie-plate candidate."

Beta—Ohio

Beta Chapter held its first postwar reactivation of the Fraternity Founders Day in conjunction with the spring initiation February 29. Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt, of the Ohio Supreme Court, and F. Darrell Moore, a Beta Chapter graduate and member of the faculty at Purdue University, were featured as speaker and toastmaster, respectively.

Honoring fourteen newly initiated men, the banquet was highlighted by the adoption of the Chief Justice as an honorary member of the chapter. Owing to the fact that his chapter at Wooster College is now inactive, the chapter members felt this measure was fitting for the occasion.

The banquet also featured several selections by the Delt Glee Club, under the direction of Glenn Humphrey, '48, and the traditional "Delt Walk Around."

Latest Honors

Beta's intramural basketball team not only captured the fraternity championship, but also surged ahead to take the complete court honors by defeating the independent champions to win the all-campus intramural basketball crown.

A few more campus positions have been added to the list of activities, with Ed Mazzocco, '49, maintaining the highest new post. Elected president of Varsity "O," campus athletic association, in February, Ed has been distinguishing himself in publication and athletic circles for two years. In addition, a new pledge, David Neil Keller of Hicksville, Ohio, was elected vice-president of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman scholastic honorary.

ALAN E. HIMELICK

Gamma—W. & J.

Gamma's basketball quintet is leading the other fraternities and organizations on the campus in the intramural contest with twelve wins and one loss. This puts it far ahead. The chapter has already made a place for the new cup in the trophy room.

Continuing in the line of sports, we are running second in the race for the big cup which is awarded to the organization accumulating the greatest number of points in sports during the school year, and with a victory in basketball Gamma hopes to win the cup.

New Initiates

On Saturday, March 13, thirteen pledges became Deltas. The initiation was followed by a card party at the house which lasted until seven o'clock. The chapter then went to the George Washington Hotel for a convivial banquet. Vice-president Means presented "Deek" di Salvo with a plaque for being the most outstanding pledge of his class.

Alumnus Jack Snee then took over as toastmaster and introduced Raymond Hyre, who gave a very inspiring talk on Deltism and the meaning of Delta in a man's later life. Mr. Hyre's speech was followed by short talks from the various alumni present who included Al Phillips, celebrating his fiftieth anniversary as a Delt, and Bill Norris, father of Rod Norris. The banquet ended with the singing of the Delta Shelter and the Washington and Jefferson Alma Mater.

Delta—Michigan

Delta Chapter takes great pride in announcing the recent appointment of Robert L. Shipman, Kenyon, '39, as its new chapter adviser.

Bob has long been a friend of Delta Chapter inasmuch as his home is in Ann Arbor. He and Mrs. Shipman have served ably many times as chaperones at varied Delta functions. He is well acquainted with chapter problems and knows many of the brothers, both undergraduate and alumni.

Bob's conveniently located shoe store has been a haven for the frigid brothers through the cold Michigan winter, while three of the brothers live in his residence on Elm Street.

Backstroker

Backstroker Bud Johnson represented Delta Chapter on Michigan's NCAA and Big Nine championship swimming team. Bud rounded out his collegiate eligibility as a consistent point-getter and understudy to the sensational Harry Holliday.

Epsilon—Albion

Spring finds letter-winners Bill Kasler and Don Denton out for varsity golf and John Mayne striving for a berth on the tennis team.

In intramurals Epsilon copped first place in the tennis tournament and swimming meet, reached the semifinals in volleyball, and had winners in both the boxing and wrestling tournaments. Kasler and Tom Steele were in the finals of the ping-pong tournament. Two pledges, Ted Hagadone and Bob Ball, are on the Albion MIAA championship track team.

Zeta—Western Reserve

Zeta's representatives on the basketball squad were Fred Shew and Bill Manniko. Fred held down a regular berth as the team's first-string pivotman. He is a sophomore this year and will be around for two more seasons.

In spring track Zeta is proud to have Bob Patterson, captain, as one of the stand-out hurdlers in the Mid-American Conference. Bob is now rounding into shape for his second season with the squad.

Musical Comedy

The production of Amphitryon '48, a musical comedy which is the high spot of Greek Week, is in the hands of Brother Pat Clark. The music for the show was written by Jim Lynn, who directs the Interfraternity Glee Club and the Delt Octet. The Octet, outstanding vocal group on the campus, has made several appearances on the radio. Brother Marling Abel, who has a lead in the show, has been selected on the Foil and Mace ticket as president of the student council for next year.

Iota—Michigan State

An anniversary dinner-dance, a tea honoring the new housemother, a midnight-plus-one serenade, and a stag breakfast marked Iota's celebration of its first year of reactivation the week end of February 28 and 29.

The Hotel Olds ballroom in Lansing did double-duty Saturday, February 28, exactly one year after Iota had its charter restored, as chapter members, their dates, alumni, patrons, and guests first dined and afterward danced to the music of Don Tatroe's orchestra playing for the "Anniversary Waltz."

Mrs. Jessica Williams, new Shelter housemother, was feted at a tea Sunday afternoon of the gala week end. The tea, held from three to five, was attended by all campus housemothers; fraternity and sorority presidents; MSC officials, Tom King, director of alumni relations; Registrar Robert S. Linton; and Delt alumni.

Members of the newly organized Tri Delt chapter, who had gathered at South Campbell, women's dorm, were serenaded by Iota's vocalists at one a. m. Saturday. The Tri Deltas had been invited to participate with their brother fraternity in the celebration.

Cutting of a stately six-tier cake topped by one candle and decorated with a timely "Happy Birthday, Iota" was featured during the dance.

Delt patrons for the dance were Mr. and Mrs. K. L. Carr, Dr. and Mrs. C. N. McCarty, and Mr. and Mrs. Winton. Actives from Kappa and Epsilon Chapters at Hillsdale and Albion joined Iota in its anniversary observance.

Chronicle Reappears

The first edition of the Iota Chronicle to roll off the presses in about fifty years is the long-awaited accomplishment of Editor Paton Marshall and staff.

Featuring news coverage of fall and winter chapter activities, the four-page edition boasts a number of supplementing pictures. An original art design, representing the relighting of the lamp of knowledge, was drawn for the Chronicle's "flag" by Walt Johnson, chairman of Iota's art and decoration committee.

Assisting Editor Marshall on the staff were: Bob Kinney, assistant editor; Rol Fulde, Bud Fleming, and Norm Anschuetz on the editorial board.

Kappa—Hillsdale

With the end of last term and a new one underway, Kappa Chapter is off to a good start with the highest men's scholastic average on Hillsdale's campus (1.95, or just about a "B" average). The chapter is planning on even better marks for the current term.

Initiation Ceremonies

Another big event of the year was the initiation of seven promising young men. The initiation was followed by a dinner with Chapter Advisor Ed Lincoln acting as toastmaster; Mob Harvey, '22, as guest speaker; Bob Crankshaw, speaking for the actives; and Chuck Anderson, speaking for the new initiates. This initiation brought the seven hundredth man into the chapter.

Delts Since 1871

Being the present-day representative on Hillsdale's campus of a family whose affiliation with the College dates back to the 1860's and whose Delt tradition began in 1871 when his grandfather was initiated into Kappa Chapter keeps William M. Friedrichs busy these days just living up to the family record. The grandson of Joseph William Mauck, Kappa, '75, and the nephew of Willfred O. Mauck, Kappa, '21, Bill has succeeded in his three years at Hillsdale in making an outstanding record for himself both in chapter and in campus affairs.

Although both his grandfather and uncle served many years as presidents of Hillsdale, Bill says that he is satisfied to look back on his recently completed year as president of Kappa Chapter. A psychology major, he is active in the field of international relations, having been elected last March as vice-president of the Midwest Region of International Relations Clubs.

In addition to three terms as vice-president of the local IRC, he has been active as a speaker at the College and in the community on international affairs. Last summer, following a week in New York studying the United Nations, he took a whirlwind tour of the western European countries of England, France, Switzerland, and Italy to see how that side of the world lives. Bill's army service placed him in India for two years, part of which time was spent serving under another Delt, Russell W. Burk, Lehigh, '32.

GREETJE WIJNANDS

Upon his return to the campus in the fall of '46, Bill put the pressure on scholastics, contributing to Kappa's outstanding scholastic record as leading men's group on campus, and earned himself membership in Hillsdale's local honor society, Epsilon Delta Alpha. This year, in the wake of active participation on the Men's Council, the Student Christian Association, the Collegian and the Publications Board, he was selected for listing in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. Forever striving to improve his chapter and student life in general, Bill has recently been active in petitioning a national leadership honor society for a chapter on Hillsdale's campus.

Mu—Ohio Wesleyan

Chapter Mu of Delta Tau Delta at Ohio Wesleyan is now the proud foster parent of a six-year-old Dutch war victim. She is pretty little Greetje Wijnands of Amsterdam, Holland. Several months ago the chapter voted to support this little Dutch girl for a period not less than one year, sending financial support to help buy her food, clothing, and shelter.

Greetje is the younger of two children of Adri and Bleijenberg Wijnands. Her brother, Eddy, is eight. Greetje is a typical Dutch girl. She leads a normal life inasmuch as conditions will allow, and she has a great fondness for dolls. The one that she is pictured with here is the first one that she has ever had. Greetje is just starting to school. She is attending kindergarten at the Dutch Reformed Church of which her family are members.

Her father was a fearless young man of twenty-nine. He was active in the underground until 1914 when he was seized and deported for forced labor in Germany. He died in a Nazi concentration camp.

The years of occupation by the Germans brought many privations and much suffering. Life in a wartorn country meant hunger, cold, inadequate clothing, and constant fear. If it were not for the support from the chapter, Mrs. Wijnands would not be able to keep Greetje with her. At present she is working as an unskilled worker, learning to become a dress-maker and trying her best to support her two children.

Mu Chapter adopted Greetje through the Foster Parents' Plan for War Children, Inc., New York. Several other fraternities throughout the country have adopted similar children.

Mu feels that this is a very small way to express its desire for the rehabilitation of Europe, but it is at least a positive step towards better world situations. One future citizen of Europe will remember America in terms of generosity and kindness.

Student Body President

Dick Peters was recently elected student body president of Ohio Wesleyan University.

Peters, an independent candidate of Mu Chapter, triumphed over his nearest opponent by 243 votes. Final tabulations show that 88 per cent of the student body voted.

His election was announced after a turbulent week of campaigning which consisted of open houses, demonstrations, and numerous organizational speeches.

At the final demonstration, the Delt marched to the women's dormitories where they presented their candidate and provided music from the Mu Choir. After Peters delivered his speech at Austin-Monnett Court, upperclass women's dormitories, the ovation was so sustained that he was brought back again to speak.

Peters, 25, a transfer student from Western Reserve University, served with the 63rd Division in France and Germany. His campus activities include: associate editor, Ohio Wesleyan Transcript, YMCA cabinet, literary editor of the Owl Magazine, sports editor of Le Bijou, Phi Society, and pledge class president.

An honor student, he is majoring in political science and journalism. His wife, Lynn, is a graduate of both Stephens and Denison University. His hometown is Cleveland.

Nu—Lafayette

When Nu Chapter's Bill Anderson reentered Lafayette in February, 1946, to take a civil engineering course, he immediately set to work reactivating the Civil Engineering Society on campus. The powers that be stood up and took notice at the end of the semester when Bill closed it with a ninety-four average. That summer he worked for the college as an instructor in surveying, worked part time in the Lehigh Foundries, and took three courses in summer school. Just about the only thing he didn't do was sleep.

In the fall of that year Bill was rushed and pledged by Nu Chapter, and he was elected president of the Civil Engineering Society.

Bill was initiated into Nu Chapter in the spring of 1947 and immediately brought laurels to the house by being elected vice-president of the Lafayette chapter of Tau Beta Pi.

This fall Bill reached that far distant and to most of us hopelessly high pinnacle of scholastic attainment—he was initiated into Phi Beta Kappa. In the spring when Bill receives his two degrees, one in electrical engineering and one in civil engineering, Nu Chapter will not have only lost a scholar but a brother to all in the fullest sense of the Delt Creed.

Omicron—Iowa

It's up to the Deltas to keep things rolling on the outstanding University newspaper of the country, Iowa's Daily Iowan. Chuck Sanders capably handles the rewrite work, while other members of Omicron Chapter, John Gordon, Wayne McClow, Louis Suiter, and Marsh Berg, are held responsible for the editorial copy.

WSUI, the popular radio station of the University, receives Delt aid as well. Louis Neilson, past president of the chapter, has achieved one of the highest staff positions, that of "A" announcer, while Chuck Sanders daily takes time off from his newspaper duties to edit the news broadcasts.

Open House

Omicron Chapter held its annual open house for University of Iowa sororities on March 21. As usual, the Shelter received a capacity number of guests. More than five hundred Iowa coeds enjoyed light refreshments along with the traditional Delt hospitality.

Rho—Stevens

The Rho Chapter house at Stevens Institute of Technology has reached middle age but has yet to sprout those telltale grey hairs. Has the Fountain of Youth been discovered? Nope! The teen-age appearance is due to the constant care of our busy beauticians. Not even Buckingham Palace can boast of a better staff of grooms.

This Shelter made its bow in 1907, way back in the swashbuckling days of Teddy Roosevelt and the "Big Stick" policy. In those days the price of horseless carriages ranged from $350 to $6,500, with only 93,000 in operation to terrorize skeptical pedestrians. The first of the "Ziegfeld Follies" took Broadway into camp; Adele and Fred Astaire were cutting their vaudeville teeth in a juvenile act; and everybody's hit tune was "Budweiser's a Friend of Mine."

Through the generosity of Edwin "Duke" Stevens, grandson of the college founder, Colonel Stevens, a sizable plot of the campus grounds was granted to the Rho House Corporation. On this site the granddaddy of Delt chapter houses was built.

Now, shortly after the Shelter's fortieth anniversary, a new face-lifting program got under way with a financial green light from the Alumni Association. Through its efforts, someone let a swarm of wallet-moths escape along with $7,500. No longer to be bothered by the menace of falling plaster, brothers have laid aside their armor. Thanks to a new and improved lavatory, "top-deck" brothers find early morning whisker wilting an easier task. During the house parties, the girls with the "new look" neck line found our old French doors a bit drafty; so they were scrapped in favor of weather-proof windows. To combat that haunted house atmosphere, all the squeaks have been chased out of the stairways. There's a regal touch, too. A new oaken door of Olde English styling serves the double purpose of gracing the building and magnetizing hot rushees.

Family Social

On Sunday, March 21, Rho Chapter inaugurated a Family Sunday Evening Hour. Invited were the parents and friends of house members and pledges. A larger turnout than was expected resulted, and the Shelter was very nearly bursting at the seams during the height of the events.

Several of the high lights of the event were to be found in the movies, refreshments, speeches, and photography.

Gordon Harwood, president, officiated at the party, making everyone feel at home and, at the proper times, introducing the various speakers. Giving a short descriptive talk of life in the chapter was Sigurd Clausen, who interspersed his talk with several humorous anecdotes. Following up was Vice-president Thomas Keegan, who introduced Edwin "Duke" Stevens, '05, who spoke for a few minutes on the impressions and recollections an alumnus has of Rho Shelter.

The main event of the evening was movies of the atomic explosions at Bikini, Hiroshima, and Nagasaki. Introducing with lucid explanations these films was Dr. Arnold Arons, member of the Stevens Physics Department and a participant in Operation Crossroads.

Upsilon—Rensselaer

Lacrosse is the biggest thing to hit the RPI campus in years, with the Deltas leading the ranks of players. The American and English Lacrosse Associations have chosen the RPI team to represent the United States in the Olympics and to play a series of twelve exhibition games with other teams from England and Canada.

Five Deltas are certain to make the trip: Daymon Jordan, All-America and national high scorer for the past two years; Spencer (Thumper) Spaulding, the soft spoken defenseman with the big stick; Bob Campbell, new hair-triggered goalie; and Alvie Meyers and Art Beard, both outstanding midfielders.

Five other Deltas are good possibilities—Willie Coleman, Walt Young, Larry O'Connor, Bob Frick, and Norm McLeod. All of these men are excellent players and will see plenty of action during the regular season.

Phi—W. & L.

Phi Chapter again contributes three outstanding men to Washington and Lee's lacrosse team. All three men, Frank Brooks, Gill Brooks, and Tommy Tongue (all of Baltimore, Maryland), were selected to play on the South's team in the annual North-South game last year. Gill and Frank, at midfield, and Tommy, at close attack, are all men to watch this spring when the lacrosse season gets under way.

Repeat Performance

Phi is now well on its way toward retaining the University Intramural Championship which it won last year. Roger Kimball, of Needham, Massachusetts, took the 165-pound class wrestling title this year. Roger is also vice-president of Phi Chapter. The Delt team came through the finals with enough points to win the handball tournament, too, to put Phi in the lead in the overall scoring race.

Chi—Kenyon

Sweeping the football, basketball, swimming, and volleyball championships, the Deltas of Chi Chapter have yet to meet defeat in the 1947-48 intramural program at Kenyon College. With actives of Chi again taking the lead in the winning of varsity football and basketball positions, a large share of the credit for the long unbroken intramural victory string must go to an outstanding group of pledges.

Leading Scorer

Eppa Rixey, Kenyon's greatest basketball player and past president of Chi Chapter, brought Kenyon into the national spotlight last winter by scoring 550 points in twenty-two games, for an average of twenty-five points a game.

A six foot, six and one-half inch center, Eppa led the All-Ohio Conference ballot, was chosen cocaptain of the All-Ohio quintet, and was elected first-string center on Collegiate magazine's all-star team. With one more year of eligibility, Eppa is in line for All-America honors.

He is the son of Eppa Rixey, Virginia, '14, former National League pitcher with the Philadelphia and Cincinnati teams.

Omega—Pennsylvania

Formal initiation ceremonies for twenty-one new members were conducted by Omega Chapter on March 13. Following the initiation the chapter gathered at the University Club to enjoy a Founders Day Dinner which featured some excellent speaking, the coach of the Penn crew, "Rusty" Callow, Dr. Piersol, and John Reeder.

Six petitioners from the University of Delaware were present.

Beta Alpha—Indiana

Beta Alpha has had two initiation ceremonies during the second semester. The first, in March, installed five new Deltas. An impressive banquet was held, at which Colonel Robert Shoemaker, Dean of Students, was the principal speaker.

At a later initiation in the latter part of April, fifteen freshmen and sophomores were brought impressively into our Fraternity. Delt faculty members were the honored guests and speakers. The chapter looks to these men to help achieve the goal of regaining the place of top fraternity on the Indiana campus.

Dalmatian Mascot

Born with the name King-Crested Pearl Diver, Beta Alpha's purebred Dalmatian mascot has been dubbed "Diver" for short. Bashful at first, "Diver" found the affection of seventy masters too much for him, and he is now friendly and at ease. His good manners and the favorable impression he leaves with guests have made the chapter proud of him.

Beta Beta—DePauw

Setting a record that is probably unique in Delt history, Joe Don Boyd will be graduated this June after having been president of Beta Beta for three years.

Joe came to DePauw in 1944, after captaining a Muncie Burris basketball team to the state finals, and garnering for himself all-sectional, all-regional, and all-semifinal honors in the play-offs and an all-conference forward position the previous spring. With the freshman rule off, Joe immediately played the first of his four years of varsity. In his sophomore year he captained the Tiger squad and won honorable mention in the Indiana Conference.

Six-foot, four-inch Joe has also been active on campus as chairman of the Publications Board, a member of the Methodist Student Movement, the Radio Guild, and the Philosophy Club.

A Rector Scholar with a "B" average, Joe has majored both in education and physical education and now plans to begin a coaching or school administrative career.

Standout Scholar

Kenneth Crandall did not let his long list of activities interfere with his studying, except for six hours of "B" along the line. At the recent Phi Beta Kappa Chapel, Kenny was one of nine men to receive this highest scholastic honor; his 2.93 stood out easily.

Ken entered DePauw in 1943 and has since put two years of army service under his belt. As a freshman, he made Phi Eta Sigma, a scholastic honorary, and was later elected vice-president. He has also been president of both the Philosophy Club and the Oxford Fellowship, a member of the Methodist Student Movement, and active in the Religious Education Club.

A Rector Scholar, Kenny was last year named the outstanding pre-theological student on campus, and as such received the coveted five hundred dollar Eugene B. Pulliam Scholarship. Kenny lays his path now to Yale Divinity School.

Record-Breaker

Three records fell at the recent little State swimming meet at Ball State in Muncie, Indiana. Colin V. Dowds, Beta Beta senior, led DePauw to victory in this six-team meet by setting both a new two hundred-yard breast-stroke record and, with two teammates, whittling seconds off the standing medley-relay mark.

"Doaks," who hails from Bridgeport, Connecticut, joined the squad late in the season—after helping coach the Deltas to the intramural swimming crown—but was soon in number one position. In one of his early tries, he helped beat the DePauw pool record in the medley.

During part of his three and one-half years of service, Dowds swam on a Chapel Hill, North Carolina, regimental team and there set the pool record in the fifty-yard breast stroke.

Aside from his swimming, "Doaks" has been Beta Beta social chairman and a member of Black Friars.

Beta Gamma—Wisconsin

Since 1948 marks the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of Beta Gamma Chapter, along with the one hundred-year mark of Wisconsin's statehood, enthusiastic plans are being laid for holding a chapter Founders Day celebration on May 22 and 23. John Secord, past chapter president and chairman of the alumni relations committee, is in charge of the event. The chapter hopes that the double anniversary will be added incentive for bringing back as many alumni as possible.

Spring Sports

Golf clubs, tennis rackets, and softball equipment have come out of the moth balls these past few weeks, as Beta Gamma athletes get set to pull down new laurels. While the basketball and bowling squads participated in the final playoffs, the summer sportsmen plan to hit the top. Bob Herman, Al Marker, and Dick Eulitt will spark the golf team, W-club president Marty Meyer leads the tennis crew, and former numeral winner Milo Flaten has big plans for the softball team.

Award winners Tom Reghanti, Gail Butts, Charlie Windle, Bob Hanley, and Hal Faverty have answered the call to varsity spring football practice, while chapter President Fred Suckow, two-letter winner on the varsity crew, again has a key spot in the Wisconsin shell.

Beta Delta—Georgia

Beta Delta has begun to feel its oats as more and more of its members gain attention on the Georgia campus. Two "Great Greeks" and a flock of campus journalists have helped considerably to augment a growing confidence in the success of the chapter's activities program.

Dan Stanley, '49, and Lee Dickens, '48, were recently chosen by the Interfraternity Council as two of the twenty-five men from Georgia who will appear in the latest issue of Great Greeks on American College Campuses.

Dan, a former president of the chapter and present Interfraternity Council secretary, has had an outstanding record at the University. Not only has he maintained a near A plus average while serving the chapter and the IFC, but he has been an unflagging participant in campus affairs.

Lee Dickens, the other "Great Greek," will be graduated from the University Law School at the end of the winter quarter. Lee was one of the leaders in the reactivation of Beta Delta Chapter less than two years ago, and he has served the chapter both as president and vice-president. He is a member of Phi Delta Phi, national law fraternity, and of Gridiron, honorary society.

The Delt journalists—Ed Rich, Ed Matthews, Dick Bullock, and Raleigh Bryans—have gained wide attention through their work on the Red and Black, the prize-winning weekly newspaper published by Georgia students.

Ed Rich becomes sports editor of the paper at the beginning of the spring quarter, stepping up from his winter quarter position as assistant sports editor. Ed also served as editor of the Beta Delta Data, issued by the chapter for the first time this quarter.

Ed Matthews has conducted a traditional feature column in the Red and Black, known as "Pall Burnabust." The column has been his exclusive property for three quarters, and the excellence of his work helped the Red and Black to capture second place in the feature story category in national competition.

Dick Bullock and Raleigh Bryans have jointly conducted an editorial feature column for the paper for the past three quarters. "Bullock & Bryans" have attained considerable attention as critics since they rarely allow themselves to indulge in praise or mere discussion.

Matthews, Bryans, and Bullock were recently initiated into Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity, in recognition of their outstanding journalistic abilities.

Beta Epsilon—Emory

Beta Epsilon is proud of an exceptional member who has been successful in all of the undertakings of his college career. Such a member has been found in Garland Perdue who recently achieved the highest scholastic goal of a college man, being elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He was initiated into the local Georgia Gamma Chapter in February. After lengthy service in the Army as a first sergeant in a rifle company, Garland returned to Emory in September of 1946 to complete his major in biology so that he could enter Emory Medical School this coming fall.

Since his return, he has held the office of secretary in the chapter and was representative to the interfraternity council. He is also a member of Phi Sigma, biological fraternity, and he has been elected to an instructorship in the biology department at Emory. It is with much pride that Beta Epsilon congratulates Garland in his achievements and with much hope that he may set an example to be followed in the future by other members.

Initiates Honored

Thirteen men were initiated into Beta Epsilon Chapter in February with a formal ceremony which was preceded by a banquet at the Shelter. After the ceremony, members, new initiates, and their dates attended the annual Valentine Dance given by the interfraternity council, during which sponsors of all the local fraternities were presented. The initiates were further honored after the dance with a breakfast at a restaurant in downtown Atlanta.

Beta Zeta—Butler

The spring initiation was held on March 10. About thirty alumni assembled at the Columbia Club in Indianapolis to help the chapter perform the ceremony.

Fourteen men assumed the Square Badge of Delta Tau Delta. One of them is Paul Bevelheimer, president of his pledge class, who is president of the freshman class at Butler.

The initiation, which began at 6:30, was well handled by the initiating team. Immediately afterwards a banquet was held. Bruce Christie, Beta Zeta president, acted as master of ceremonies and introduced some of the distinguished alumni. He drew a round of cheers by announcing that there would be no speeches. He then introduced the new actives; one by one they rose and said a few words (very few).

Final item on the agenda was several numbers by the chorus. The banquet ended with the singing of Delta Shelter by everyone present.

Beta Eta—Minnesota

The annual Founders Day Banquet had a special significance for Beta Eta Chapter this year. It not only honored the founding of the national organization, but it also was Beta Eta's sixty-fifth birthday. Over one hundred and twenty-five good Twin City Deltas turned out to do honor to the occasion on March 1.

Notable among the distinguished guest list were Herbert McCracken, national President of Delta Tau Delta; Bill Martindill, President of the Northern Division; and Otto Silha, Vice-President of the Northern Division and chairman of the Beta Eta alumni advisory committee. Also recognized at the dinner were State Senator Harold Harrison, as Beta Eta's oldest active alumnus, and Dave Clark, as our newest member.

Frank Kiewel was master of ceremonies. After everyone had had his fill of a wonderful steak dinner, he started the ball rolling with a quiz between the alumni and active teams. The actives managed to hold their own, even though the alums had been given the answers beforehand.

Bob Schimke, president of the undergraduate chapter, next welcomed all assembled and gave a brief review of the past year's accomplishments. Senator Harrison gave a short word picture of the chapter back at the turn of the century, and then Otto Silha spoke on conditions of the alumni chapter. Division President Bill Martindill spoke next, addressing the alumni members on the necessity and value of a strong and active alumni association.

President McCracken's talk was outstanding. He quoted Branch Rickey, and based his talk on the three qualities necessary for a successful team—outstanding teamwork, leadership, and top-grade material. It is to be hoped that other chapters can read or hear this outstanding speech.

After the singing of the Delta Shelter, the banquet broke up into many reunions, and the dining hall rang out for a long time with "If You Want to Be a Delta," "My Delta Queen," and "Delta, Delta Tau."

Beta Theta—Sewanee

The chapter has continued to lead in varsity athletics. Brothers Morehouse, Uhlig, Hannah, and Brown were awarded letters in football. Brother Hoover Hamblen received a letter as manager of the team, the best team since 1909! Sewanee was one of the last teams in the nation to be scored upon and dropped only one game. In the starting basketball lineup were Brothers Brown, Weatherill, and Jarrell. Brother McWhorter and Brother Wharton are our representatives on the track team.

Dramatics

Beta Theta members have been active in dramatics on the Mountain this year. John W. Caldwell and Edward Darrach have been elected to membership in Alpha Psi Omega. These two men are at present directing two one-act plays: The Game of Chess and The Monkey's Paw. Professor Walter L. McGoldrick, Beta Theta, '39, is director of dramatics at Sewanee.

Individual Honors

Ronnie Howell was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in the fall. Shortly after this, he was elected president of the Alpha Chapter of Sigma Upsilon. In February he was chosen for membership in Omicron Delta Kappa. Ronnie is editor of the Sewanee Delta and is also the student member of the University publications board. He is a member of the executive committee of the Order of Gownsmen. Brothers Putnam, Hamblen, and Caldwell were elected in February to The Order of Gownsmen.

Former Adviser Honored

On February 16, Beta Theta gave a testimonial dinner in honor of "Señor" William W. Lewis, who was chapter adviser to Beta Theta for twenty-four years. The chapter's new adviser, John Hodges, was toastmaster. Brother Morehouse, on behalf of the chapter, presented to "Señor" a beautiful Sheffield coffee service. "Señor" still presides over his traditional coffee hour in his apartment after lunch each day.

Beta Kappa—Colorado

Topping the Beta Kappa calendar of events last quarter was the Founders Day Banquet held in the banquet room of the Olin Hotel in Denver on February 29. Guest speaker of the evening was Dallas Ward, new head football coach at the University of Colorado.

Also present at the banquet was Clyde "Cac" Hubbard, Oregon State, '21, director of athletics at the University of Denver. Ralph L. Carr, Colorado, '10, ex-governor of Colorado, acted as toastmaster.

Scholarship Awards

Nineteen men were initiated into the fraternity recently at the chapter house and were honored at a banquet. One of the high lights of the program was the presentation of the scholarship awards. Reginald W. Rice received the Freshman Scholarship Trophy, and Donald E. Willis received the Scholarship Achievement Award. The awards were made by Eugene Grieshaber, chairman of the chapter's scholarship committee.

Basketball Champs

The Beta Kappa cagers won the all-school basketball championship trophy recently after a hard fought battle with the intramural champions in the independent division. In the Greek intramural division, the Deltas won every game after losing the first two to the Phi Deltas and the Sigma Chis. The trophy will be given to the Deltas at the presentation of awards during the annual CU Days Celebration, held in the spring.

Wrestling Titles

Intramural wrestling champions this season are Allen Lodge and Don Jessen. Jack Davis was runner-up in his division. In boxing Norman Brown and Charles Hughes came out the victors and hold championship titles. The Deltas easily outnumbered their opponents in intramural credit points in wrestling and boxing.

Beta Lambda—Lehigh

On March 12, 1948, Beta Lambda's Dick Kelsey entered the semifinals of the Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Championship by defeating Michael of Brown. Although he had pinned Montgomery of Pennsylvania promptly in the preliminaries, many people thought he would lose to his semifinal opponent, Sattani of Syracuse, the man who earlier in the season had snapped Dick's thirty-match winning streak.

To the surprise of experts, Kelsey rolled over Sattani with a decisive seven to four count and went on to the finals. Meanwhile in the other semifinal match, Colegio of Franklin and Marshall College defeated Wayne Smith, and defending champion from Navy.

Kelsey, the only man ever to defeat Colegio, had almost pinned him in their previous meeting earlier in the winter.

Relying on his past experience, Dick waited for the mistake he was sure Colegio would make. Seeing an opening, he shot in for a two-point take-down. A little later Colegio escaped; but Dick, wrestling cautiously and intelligently, increased his lead in the last period with a reversal. The match ended with both wrestlers on their feet and with Kelsey as the new 136-pound wrestling champion.

Dick, a true champion in every sense of the word, and by far one of the most popular wrestlers in the tournament, acknowledged a thunderous ovation when he received his medal from Professor Bartlett. This championship was the logical conclusion to a wrestling career which started in eighth grade and continued spectacularly through high school, prep school, and college.

L. U. C. K.

Early last fall the stewards of four houses at Lehigh got together to discuss the best way to combat the rising food prices. L. U. C. K.—the Lehigh University Co-operative Kitchen—was the result of a plan suggested by Fred Ruoff, Beta Lambda's efficient steward. Basically the plan called for all the fraternities at Lehigh to buy their food in bulk directly from wholesalers rather than in small quantities from local retailers.

Pursuing this idea further, Fred organized monthly meetings of the stewards of all the various houses at which local hotel and cafeteria managers were asked to criticize the plan. Investigations of similar organizations as well as the intense interest on the part of the wholesalers showed that savings of from twenty to thirty per cent could be effected from such an organization.

Eventually L. U. C. K. became a highly co-ordinated, co-operative, employing a full-time professional purchasing agent who played the market traveling to farmers' auctions to bid on large quantities of produce. Contracts with wholesalers for meat, dairy products, and staples at bulk prices include the delivery of purchases to individual houses. The monthly stewards' meetings have been continued in order to discuss any general or individual problems which may arise. A further step towards efficiency has been the development of a cook and waiter pool to aid houses in obtaining extra help needed for parties or dinner.

So far the system has worked exceptionally well, and Beta Lambda is quite proud of the outstanding part Fred played in its development. Even prior to the formation of L. U. C. K., Fred's policy of dealing directly with wholesalers had resulted in many savings for the chapter. An ex-army battalion supply officer, Fred is especially well qualified for work in the purchasing field where he will undoubtedly go far after his graduation in June.

All-America But No Letter

Whoever heard of an All-America who did not win his varsity letter? It actually happened to Lehigh's Earle A. Compton, outstanding soccer player and Beta Lambda Delt.

Twice a letter-winner before the war, Earle was injured early in the season and did not play enough during this fall's season to win a letter, yet he was the only man on the Lehigh squad to receive honorable mention on the All-America selections made by a meeting of the National Soccer Coaches Association.

This selection was not surprising to those who knew Earle's record before the war. After winning a varsity soccer letter during his freshman year, Earle went on to captain the Lehigh squad in 1945. His sparkling attack that season won him a berth on the second All-Eastern soccer team.

Versatile in many fields, Earle is proud of the fact that he won two letters in baseball while playing on the "best team Lehigh ever had," which won twelve out of sixteen contests. He is also a letter-winner in basketball, the assistant managing editor of the school newspaper, The Brown and White, and a member of several honoraries, including Pi Delta Epsilon.

Beta Mu—Tufts

Sunday, March 21, was the day of the annual Beta Mu initiation and banquet. After the ceremony many Beta Mu alumni and several of the fathers of the new initiates were present at a banquet given in their honor.

One of the guests was Brother Lewis Sterling, Beta Mu, '13, who was chapter adviser for eighteen years at the time when the present chapter adviser, Joel Reynolds, was an undergraduate. Brother Reynolds, who is pressing hard on Lew's record and is also President of the Eastern Division, gave a short speech to the fathers and sons present, introducing them to Delta Tau Delta and welcoming them.

The speaker of the evening was Thomas Meeker, Wesleyan, '41, Vice-President of the Eastern Division and now a senior in Yale Law School. After welcoming the new members and the guests, he spoke of the responsibilities and privileges of Delthood and particularly of the success of the new Delt Forum recently instituted at Gamma Zeta.

Barbershop Revived

Heading a renewed interest in traditional Delt singing at Tufts is the recently organized Beta Mu Barbershop Quartet, composed of Don Cochrane, Dave Wick, Jake Clime, and Danny Villani. The group was started when four of the members of the house glee club began harmonizing for their own amusement (or amazement). With a wire recorder, a gift to Beta Mu from Pledge Lloyd Coffin's father, they have been able to develop their natural ability, and constant practice has produced an almost professional group.

At the recent initiation banquet their singing, the high point of the evening, was so successful that they have made plans for appearances at many future parties.

The new wire recorder has proved an invaluable instrument to the house in teaching new members Delt songs and in learning new pieces.

Mighty Mite

If there were to be a competition at Tufts for the title of "Biggest Little Man on Campus," Beta Mu's five-foot seven inch, one hundred and twenty-eight pound Dave Patriquin would be sure to get it. Although he is small, Dave's drive and determination have won him varsity letters in both lacrosse and wrestling. He plays a hard-driving midfield and attack in lacrosse, and throws his opponents to the mat in the 128-pound class.

Dave has rounded his sphere of activities in extracurricular activities with membership in the Tufts Mountain Club, the Pre-medical Society, and the Tufts unit of the R. O. T. C.

Dave has helped the chapter in its sports activities by winning points for the house track team and winning in his class for two years in the interfraternity wrestling. Beta Mu is proud of Dave's records and achievements and looks forward to even greater things from the "Mighty Mite."

Beta Nu—M. I. T.

On Sunday, February 15, Beta Nu held initiation rites for ten pledges. At the banquet held just previous to initiation, Colonel G. F. Hobson, '06, made the first annual presentation of the G. F. Hobson Award to the outstanding pledge of the year. This award is a plaque that the chapter instigated last year as a tribute to Colonel Hobson for the tireless efforts put forth by him in the alumni drive for funds for restoration of the Shelter. William Gerald (Jerry) Austen was awarded the plaque this year.

Beta Xi—Tulane

The Delt chapter at Tulane added another achievement to its scholastic record last semester by placing second in the mid-year ranking of seventeen fraternities with a composite average of 1.404 on a scale of three. The first-place winner had an average of only one-hundredth of a point higher.

Beta Xi's Bob Beadle, Tau Beta Pi prexy, was heard berating himself for missing his straight "A" average by one grade—the grade that would have put Delt in first place. Other members of the chapter who made the Dean's List included Paul Morphy, Jimmy Reynolds, Hank Angulo, and Charlie Ramond.

Beta Omicron—Cornell

Eleven men received the Delt Squares and took their fraternal vows on March 14, 1948. Several distinguished Delt alumni were present to witness the impressive ceremony.

Among those attending were Whitman Daniels, Dartmouth, '32, assistant to President Day of Cornell; E. W. Deck, Stevens, '30, president of Morse Chain; Warner Lansing, Cornell, '41, instructor in civil engineering; Norm Hall, Virginia, '39, instructor in psychology; T. J. Turk, Michigan, '09, of Muncie, Indiana; Searle von Storch, Cornell, '23, vice-president of A. I. A., from Waverly, Pennsylvania; and R. L. McJunkin, Cornell, '32, of Cortland, New York.

Brother James F. Hunter was also present to bestow the Delt Badge upon his son, Dick. Brother W. W. Williams could not attend, but his son, Pete, received his father's pin. All alumni in New York, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey received invitations.

Following a six-thirty dinner and coffee, Chapter Adviser Joe Barr said a few words about the smoking of the friendship pipe. The pipe is elaborately carved in fine amber and has been in the house since its inception in 1890. Tradition has it that there shall be brotherhood among all who smoke this pipe. It is used only at initiation banquets. The oldest Beta Omicron Delt is the first to smoke and has the honor of lighting it. J. J. Munns, '14, filled this classification, and, although a non-smoker, started the pipe on its way.

Toastmaster for the evening was Jack Servis, who presided while calmly munching a Gillette Blue Blade, although he prefers Mazda sixty-watt bulbs.

Distinguished speaker of the evening was Francis M. Hughes, prominent Indianapolis attorney and the Fraternity's legal counsel. He has a fine Delt heritage, or pedigree, as he expressed it. Save a single brother-in-law, all his male kinsmen are wearers of the Square. Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, former President of the Fraternity, is his father.

Mr. Hughes spoke on the fundamental principles of Deltism. Honesty, generosity, and infinite kindness were the attributes he described as most desirable in man, and he pointed out how each of these is fostered by Delta Tau Delta. He stressed the importance of the Ritual and formal meetings and especially encouraged members to use and live the Delt Creed.

In conclusion, Jack Hollands, president of the pledge class, expressed the pleasure of the new initiates in having finally reached their goal.

Beta Pi—Northwestern

Northwestern Delts are taking the lead in all phases of campus activities this year. Recently the interfraternity council honored Jim Fitzgerald by placing him in the office of vice-president. Jim was recognized, among other things, for his work in reviving many of the prewar campus traditions. The chapter expressed its confidence in his ability as a leader by electing him president.

If the 1948 Waa-Mu Show, the annual campus variety show, is a success, a great part of the credit must go to the Beta Pi men. Jack Sinise has been awarded the post of stage manager. Working under him are Dwayne Kizzier, Bill MacLachlin, Dick Donaldson, Chuck Westfall, Rog Quinlan, and Dick Coldren. The brand-new position of talent and material scout was filled by Dave Rogers.

Many more Delts are in the cast. Bob Hejna and Bob Howland are members of the important special choral group. John Lagerlof, a freshman, was awarded one of the principal roles in his first year in the show.

Dwayne Kizzier was appointed vice-president of the interfraternity pledge council, illustrating the fact that the Beta Pi freshmen have already claimed their share of campus honors.

Sculpture Award

Delt "Boomer" Dale Peterson, president of the sophomore class, was happy to award his own Fraternity second-place honors for snow sculpturing in the Winter Snow Carnival, sponsored in February by the sophomores. The Delt work of art, "Smoe" peering over the porch railing, evidently amused the judges as much as the other onlookers.

Beta Rho—Stanford

Keeping the fine Stanford Beta Rho athletic record intact last month were Milt Iverson and Gus Chavalas, who lettered in varsity basketball for their second successive year. Both Iverson and Chavalas will become four-year lettermen in basketball.

The Delts also have good representation on the varsity baseball team, as Cleanup Bob Nava, Clyde Dingfelder, and Bill Arce form Stanford's power-hitting trio.

At the present time, Beta Rho men are getting ready for intramural volleyball and softball. With league victories in one, the Delts could take over the leadership in the 1948 intramural race. They are third now, having finished second in basketball after winning the football league. Late in May, the Delts will have to defend their 1947 championship in the all-University relays.

Beta Tau—Nebraska

"Squabbie," the perennial rpledge, is beginning his fourth semester of pledge-ship at Beta Tau. Nebraska Delts have become so attached to their mascot, a formidable English bulldog, that they just haven't the heart to give him the boot. "Squabbie" is widely known on the campus and has proved himself one of the most ardent fans at Delt intramural activities. His actions at intramural football games this past fall included everything but calling the referee a "bum" when things looked dark for the Delts.

Beta Upsilon—Illinois

Beta Upsilon enjoyed one of the finest initiation banquets in its history on the evening of March 12. The nine initiates entertained the chapter with songs composed for the occasion.

Special appreciation was in order for the fine steak-fish filet meal prepared by the Shelter's new cook.

Intramural Drive

Beta Upsilon is beginning a spring push that will insure it of retaining the intramural championship that it won last year.

With the basketball team living up to preseason "dope," the boys from the Shelter are assured of at least a play-off spot. Spring individual sports will attract many high-point Delts from last year. The "diamond men," who were runners-up for the title last year, are fielding almost the same team.

The future looks bright for the boys from 302, and it shouldn't be long before they move up from third place.

Beta Phi—Ohio State

Beta Phi's new president, Dave King, boasts a string of activities that is almost unprecedented in the history of the chapter. Past president of the Ohio State sophomore class, he is secretary-treasurer of the Fraternity Affairs Office and a member of the following groups: board of directors of the Fraternity Managers Association, Interfraternity Court, Homecoming Committee, Student Senate, and Bucket and Dipper (junior honorary).

In addition, Dave was recently appointed to serve as one of two students on the Ohio State Athletic Board along with members of the faculty and prominent alumni. This Board determines University policy with regard to all athletics and votes all awards.

New Trophies

Beta Phi placed third in the interfraternity sing contest under the direction of Song Leader Cowperthwaite. The basketball team, coached by William Mills, was runner-up for the intramural trophy. By placing second and third in these events, the chapter became proud owner of two new trophies.

Beta Chi—Brown

Intramural sports activity has been occupying nearly every brother in Beta Chi during the late winter months, and concentrated effort on the part of all has paid off handsome dividends. The basketball team captured the fraternity championship of the University as it negotiated a twelve-game schedule without defeat.

Two stellar performers in the Brown varsity wrestling picture, Dick Ferenbach and Gray Michael, combined to tutor the willing in wrestling. Six brothers reached the finals, and Bill McLellan, Tony Davids, and Art Foster won championships in the unlimited, 155, and 135-pound brackets respectively. Ted Dane lost to McLellan in an all-Delt final, and Doug MacKay and Bill Munroe were narrowly beaten in the 145 and 121-pound classes. The house captured the wrestling title also, outdistancing the rest of the field handily.

Swimming, too, saw some class competition. The final tally saw Beta Chi the University champ in that field. The freestyle relay team of Bob Grant, Frank Newman, Ned Barlow, and Art Round won that event and teamed up against the three other top teams in a special A. A. U. Gold Cup event, adding another trophy to the collection with a convincing win. McKay won a gold medal with a beautiful display of fancy diving.

A fourth place in the Fraternity track meet sent the house into the van in total points towards the Lanpher Cup, emblematic of overall University Interfraternity Championship. This trophy is already in possession of the chapter as a result of last year's competition.

Beta Omega—California

Beta Omega is well represented in rugby, a sport which is fast gaining recognition on the Cal campus. Cal has one of the finest teams in the world. Delt Bill Lenz was outstanding when Cal came within an inch of beating the famous Australian team which is now touring the world.

Gamma Beta—Illinois Tech

Climaxing four months of pledge training, "Be Kind to Active Week" accomplished a useful purpose. During this week the Shelter was given a complete "going over" and made bright and clean to meet the visiting brothers who were in Chicago attending the Founders Day Banquet.

Gamma Gamma—Dartmouth

Gamma Gamma Chapter's "Hospitable Delt" statue in ice gained first prize in the fraternity class competition during the Winter Carnival at Dartmouth. The silver cup awarded the winning group was accepted by Delt Douglas Leigh, who designed the figure.

Gamma Zeta—Wesleyan

Elections and appointments for campus jobs at Wesleyan University at the beginning of the spring semester swept Deltas into important positions with the Christian Association, the paper, and committees.

Elected by the student body for presidency of the Christian Association was Charlie Laufer. Laufer previously was on the executive cabinet of the C. A.

Dunc Fraser, president of the house, was chosen editor-in-chief of the Argus, student paper. Fraser had served as features editor and news editor. Bill Giger was selected sports editor of the Argus. Previously, Giger was on the Senior Editorial Board. On the Junior Editorial Board are Frank Ridout, Bill Malamud, and Bob Fithian.

Three Deltas were named to committees. Ridout is on the rushing, Fraser on the faculty relations, and Giger on the prom committees.

Gamma Eta—George Washington

According to an old saying, "Good things come in small packages." Gamma Eta Chapter, recently reactivated at George Washington University, with the smallest number of active members of any fraternity on the campus, proved the point at the end of the fall semester when it came out in the lead of all fraternities and sororities in scholastic standing.

The Delt average for the semester was 3.252, higher than the average for all men and the average for all fraternity men, thus winning for the chapter the Interfraternity Council Scholarship Cup.

Apparently members find time to study as well as to engage in activities and duties which center on the Shelter and on the Fraternity's position on the campus. At the present time, Gamma Eta has three men who are members of Phi Eta Sigma, an honorary fraternity for male freshmen who attain a scholastic average of at least 3.5. These men are Joe Rawlings, Charlie Smay, and Mac McLernon. There are several other freshmen who will qualify for membership at the next initiation period.

Along with everything else during the busy month of March, the chapter found time to publish a four-page newsletter which was dedicated to the loyal and generous members of the National Capital Alumni Chapter whose support made the reactivation of Gamma Eta a reality.

Gamma Theta—Baker

Gamma Theta started the new year by being the first organized house on the campus to hold a dance in the new gym, taking first place in the intramural volleyball tournament, and by copping top honors in the class elections with the election of Brother Jim Irick as president of the senior class.

Alumni Expected

Preparations are well under way for the bright spot in the spring social whirl at Baker, the Spring Formal. This year, in addition to the active chapter, Gamma Theta expects a good turnout from the alums in the surrounding territory.

Gamma Iota—Texas

It was the first night of spring at the University of Texas, but most of the students' interests weren't on thoughts of love, for in Gregory Gym the University basketball championships were being held. A capacity crowd had jammed the gymnasium to witness the best games of the season—games that would determine the University champions in both the "A" and "B" divisions.

Delta Tau Delta had representatives left in both divisions and was striving to become the second group in history to win both divisions of basketball at the same time. (The Deltas had turned the trick before in 1944.)

The "B" game was extremely interesting, and the lead see-sawed back and forth innumerable times as Franklin Pigg and John Fry kept the Deltas in the ball game with superb backboard play. When the final gun sounded, however, they were one point behind—but wait—one of the Delt players had been fouled before the gun sounded.

He was John Robertson, Olympic track prospect and team player extraordinary. He walked calmly to the foul circle, toed the marker, and neatly tied up the ball game with his free throw. Then, with seventeen seconds remaining in the overtime and the Deltas again one point behind, little Dickie Williamson came through with a one-hander just back of the foul circle, and the class "B" championship was safely tucked in the Deltas' trophy case.

The second game of the evening for the class "A" championship was just as nerve-racking as the first for the rabid Delt supporters. The Deltas remained behind the entire game with H. K. Allen and Pinky Quarles striving desperately to keep the Delt hopes alive with a succession of long baskets from their guard positions. They succeeded in their attempts, for Si Ragsdale tied up the ball game with a beautiful hook shot just as the final whistle blew.

The overtime was marked by wild shooting of both teams, but T. A. Outlaw sank a high looper from the corner with only twelve seconds remaining to give the Deltas the lead at last. The opponent Kappa Sigs tried a fast break on the ensuing play, but the play was broken up as Quarles fouled the man breaking under the basket for a shot. If the Kappa Sig made both the free throws, the game was again tied up, but if he missed either one of the shots, then the Deltas were also class "A" champions.

He made the first shot without effort, and the Delt cheering section underwent a series of convulsions that cannot be successfully described; but the second shot missed completely, and Gamma Iota went on to tie its own record of a clean sweep in basketball competition.

London—Here He Comes

One of the United States' leading contenders for the Olympic Games has more than one reason for wanting to compete in this summer's extravaganza in London. He is John Robertson, who is NCAA broadjump champion and an important member of the outstanding 440-yard relay team running under the orange and white of the University of Texas.

1. GABE SELLERS, Kansas State, Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

2. WARD KELLER, Kansas State, Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

3. ERNEST SELLERS, Kansas State, Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

4. BILL MALAMUD, winner of Osborne Memorial Trophy at Gamma Zeta last year, member of Wesleyan debate squad.

5. JOSEPH YOUNG, past president of Delta Epsilon, president of men's glee club at Kentucky, Omicron Delta Kappa, and director of chapter's winning glee club.

6. MRS. MARGUERITE COWAN, Gamma Nu's housemother at Maine.

7. JACK CARMICHAEL, 1947 Homecoming King of Miami, with Jo McMANUS.

8. DON STONESTROM, North Dakota, member of Blue Key, Sigma Xi, Sigma Tau, and past president of Delta Xi Chapter.

In addition to the honor which automatically comes to any member of an Olympic team, the trip to London will give John a chance to return to his birthplace, Edinburgh, Scotland, and to see many of his relatives for the first time.

John's NCAA first-place jump was one of 24 feet, 11 inches. He has jumped over 25 feet several times. He has been clocked at 9.6 seconds in the hundred, and 21.5 seconds in the 220-yard dash. He was the number one man on the 440-yard relay team that turned in a 40.5 performance in Los Angeles last summer, just missing a new world's record by two-tenths of a second.

John is a past vice-president and pledge trainer in the chapter at Texas and was a representative to the Karnea in 1946. He plans to be graduated in June of 1949 with a B.S. in industrial engineering.

Gamma Kappa—Missouri

Gamma Kappa was represented by twenty-five men at this year's Founders Day banquet held on March 12 at the President Hotel in Kansas City. The affair was in observance of the eighty-ninth anniversary of the founding of the Fraternity.

Those attending from the Chapter left Columbia in the afternoon and, by doubling up in the available cars, arrived in time to meet some of the one hundred fifty other representatives from Western Division chapters before the program began.

Olympic Contender

With spring and the outdoor track season well under way at the University of Missouri, cinder interest around the Gamma Kappa Shelter has hit a new all-time high. The reason for the upsurge in track talk is found in the person of big, smiling Mel Sheehan, captain of the 1948 Tiger track squad and leading Missouri contender for a berth on the 1948 United States Olympic team.

Considered by sports authorities as one of the top three discus men in the country, Mel has better than an even chance to represent the United States in the discus competition at the Olympic games.

Mel has been winning titles in the discus ever since his high school days. While attending Normandy, Missouri, High School in 1942, he set a new high school record for the St. Louis district meet with a toss of 152 feet.

Entering Missouri University in the fall of 1942, Mel became one of the rare freshmen to win a varsity letter in track. He also placed second that year in the Big Six Conference discus event.

The war interrupted Mel's athletic career in 1943, and for three years he flew Douglas SBDs for the Navy air arm.

Re-entering the University in 1946, Mel proceeded to prove that the military life had not taken away any of his athletic prowess by winning the 1946 Big Six discus championship. In the same year he placed among the first six in the N. A. A. U. meet.

In 1947 Mel continued his winning ways by capturing the Big Six discus championship for the second time and placing third and fourth, respectively, in the N. C. A. A. and N. A. A. U. national meets. Not content with these honors, he won first place in the 1947 Drake Relays and set an all-time Missouri athlete record by hurling the discus 163 feet, 9 inches on Rollins Field in a dual meet with Kansas University. He finished up the 1947 season by being elected captain of the 1948 track team and winning a place on the 1947 All-America track squad.

Mel's athletic ability isn't confined to track events. In high school he lettered in all four major sports: football, track, basketball, and baseball.

He has continued his football participation at the University. He won his first varsity letter as a sophomore in 1946 and has played first-string end for Missouri ever since. In 1947 he was selected as right end on the All Big Six team and won honorable mention on several All-America squads.

Gamma Lambda—Purdue

The men at Purdue have been loosening up their vocal cords for the last few days. They're getting in shape for the University Sing, which will be held, as usual, on Mother's Day this spring. As they have done for the past several years, the mothers will move in and take over the Shelter for the week end, while actives and pledges scurry for choice places to rest their weary heads.

This year Gamma Lambda is planning to even up the score in the Sing. The chapter took second place in 1945 and 1946 and first place in 1947. Now members want to make it "two-all."

"The Sweet Sixteen" showed the way at the Founders Day banquet in Indianapolis when they took the stunt award. The "Sixteen" is a group of about sixteen men who enjoy singing and practicing a little more than the rest of the house. They have worked up quite a few specialty numbers besides learning the regular Delt songs a little better than anyone else around.

Gamma Mu—Washington

Two of the biggest events on this year's Gamma Mu calendar took place on one big week end in the middle of March.

On Friday, March 19, the local chapter celebrated its fortieth anniversary on the University of Washington campus with a formal banquet at the Seattle Rainier Club, attended by many nationally prominent Deltas, including G. Herbert McCracken, President of Delta Tau Delta, and Daniel W. Ferguson, President of the Western Division.

From an original group of nineteen members the Gamma Mu Chapter of Delta Tau Delta has grown to a chapter of almost one hundred Deltas, and its place on the University of Washington campus has steadily grown during these four decades until it is now among the top fraternities at this school.

On March 20 and 21 practically the whole membership of the chapter converged on Whitman College in Walla Walla, Washington, along with fellow Deltas from both alumni and active chapters in Idaho, Oregon, and Washington, to help install the new Delta Rho Chapter. All of Gamma Mu joins hands in wishing the newcomers a hardy welcome to the fold of Delta Tau Delta and thanks for a wonderful week end.

Men on Campus

The latest additions to the "men on the campus group" in Gamma Mu are Delt Dave Clinkenbeard, who topped all other candidates in the recent AMS Board of Control elections, and Bill Jewell, who was elected vice-president of the Junior IFC at the last meeting of that body. Of the sixteen candidates, the top seven of whom received positions, Dave received 563 votes, having a margin of more than 50 votes over his nearest competitor.

Honor Initiation

Another annual event, the Pacific Northwest Honor Initiation, was resumed in Portland, Oregon, in January after a wartime lapse. The affair is held alternately at Portland and Seattle and initiates the two outstanding pledges from each of the Northwest chapters at Oregon, Oregon State, Idaho, and Washington. Gamma Mu pledges so honored were Bill Gellerman and John Cockburn. Attending both the initiation and banquet following, besides the pledges, were actives and alums from the local chapter. Speaker of the day was Ernest Haycox, Gamma Rho, a prominent author.

Gamma Nu—Maine

For the second year in a row Gamma Nu turned up with the prize-winning snow sculpture during the 1948 Winter Carnival at Maine. The front lawn was transformed into a snowy frontier scene of a cabin being built by a pioneer under the supervision of his wife and dog.

The high spots of the Carnival were the Intramural Ball and the Maine-Rhode Island State basketball game. The Shelter was thrown open for a buffet supper before the ball, and an informal dance was held after the game—the snow sculptor being the guest of honor.

Delt Wives

The Delt wives of Gamma Nu have organized a wives' club, one of the first on the Maine campus. The girls meet biweekly with Mother Cowan in her apartment. The wives have elected no officers, but take turns as acting chairwoman.

The club is discussing plans to hold monthly open houses at the Shelter next fall with guest speakers from the faculty. The Gamma Nu wives are always ready with suggestions and assistance for decorating the Shelter for parties and dances.

Elected to Honorary

John Grant, H. Douglas Collins, and Eric Hanson, of Gamma Nu Chapter, have been elected to membership in Phi Kappa Phi, honorary fraternity. Now a national society, Phi Kappa Phi originated at the University of Maine in 1897.

Gamma Xi—Cincinnati

Special honors have been bestowed on past Vice-President Raymond Wuerth. Ray was recently elected to the highest student office on campus—president of Student Council. He was also initiated into Tau Beta Pi and Omicron Delta Kappa.

George Bruestle, the new vice-president, who is working toward degrees in both physics and mechanical engineering, received the outstanding and unique honor of being elected to both Phi Beta Kappa and Tau Beta Pi, as well as Omicron Delta Kappa.

Initiation Celebration

Gamma Xi initiated nineteen new members on February 15. At the banquet following initiation ceremonies, John C. Maescher, Cincinnati, '13, was toastmaster, and Raymond E. Hvre, Western Reserve, '11, prominent Cleveland attorney, was the well-received speaker.

Two of the University's finest athletes were honored at the banquet. Earl Hobt, stalwart tackle of the mighty Bearcat Mid-American Conference football champions, and Charles Clickner, ace man in the clutch and one-hand-shot expert of the varsity basketball team, which also copped the Mid-American championship, spent a trying few moments endeavoring to get the other fellow to make a speech.

Gamma Pi—Iowa State

Iowa State's three-day Veishea celebration, originated in 1922 by Gamma Pi alumnus Wallace McKee, will take place May 13, 14, and 15. Many Deltas hold key positions for this year's event.

Veishea will get off to a rousing start at the opening ceremonies, when the reigning queen, selected by movie actor Alan Ladd, will be crowned by Iowa's Governor Blue. Delt Bob McKee is business manager of the opening ceremonies program. Immediately following the opening ceremonies will be the canoe races on Lake La Verne, under the supervision of John Haddick, assisted by Don Oppenheimer, Al Waterland, and Bud Ostrand. This event provides keen competition for the fraternities, sororities, and dormitories on the campus. Fraternity paddles are used to motivate the canoes.

Paul Himebaugh and Carl Mahnke are working on the float parade, which will consist of more than one hundred floats and fifteen marching bands. Speaking of bands, Count Basie's organization will be featured in an outdoor concert on Clyde Williams Field.

Delts participating in their divisional open houses will include Luke Pfeifferberger, Lee Roose, and Howard Thistlewood. Doug Matthews is in charge of constructing the Deltas' float, and all the men in the chapter will be hard at work getting the house in readiness for the many Gamma Pi alums who are expected to visit the Shelter during this year's festivities.

Gamma Rho—Oregon

For the first time since the war, Gamma Rho Chapter at the University of Oregon returned to the old tradition of a Sister-Daughter Banquet. This formal banquet, held February 13, 1948, took place at the Shelter in Eugene.

Sisters and daughters of Deltas represented nearly every women's organization on the campus. Gamma Rho President Elvin Hale acted as toastmaster. Mrs. Carter was official chaperone for the evening.

Both the corsages that were given the girls and the entertainment after the dinner made the evening a complete success. Initial plans have already been laid for a bigger and better Sister-Daughter Banquet next year.

Gamma Sigma—Pittsburgh

No member of Gamma Sigma Chapter is better known both on and off the Pitt campus than "J. J." Greaney, the new chapter president. Shortly after being pledged to Delta Tau Delta, "J. J." was elected social chairman of his pledge class and, after his initiation, became social chairman for the chapter. Jim conducted the social affairs of Gamma Sigma so well that he has remained social chairman without interruption until his election to the presidency. Besides his social chairmanship, Jim Greaney has also been rushing chairman and one of two interfraternity council representatives. During a recent crisis in the interfraternity social committee, he assumed the chairmanship of that body.

Pittsburgh alumni will recognize James Greaney as the undergraduate who helped so much in formulating the program for the thirty-third Anniversary Reunion in November.

Outside of school, "J. J." is associated with the State Mutual Life Assurance Company and in school is pursuing a course that will lead to being a chartered life underwriter. He is a member of the Life Underwriters' Association and is the chairman of the hospitality committee of the Pittsburgh Junior Chamber of Commerce. Jim is also Program Chairman for the Air Force Association. Together with Franklin Blackstone, member of the honorary scholastic fraternity ODK and president of interfraternity council, Jim will attend the Karnea as an official representative of Gamma Sigma.

Gamma Tau—Kansas

Despite bad weather conditions following one of the worst snowstorms in the history of Kansas, the spirit of brotherhood prevailed as Gamma Tau welcomed delegates and alternates to the Western Division Regional Conference held March 12 and 13 at the Shelter. The Conference was attended by thirteen chapters of the Western Division.

The Conference was highlighted by a Kansas City Founders Day Dinner and celebration in the Aztec Room of the Hotel President. The dinner was attended by all chapters present at the Conference. Entertainment was furnished by the Gamma Tau Double Quartet, with Monte Gaston at the piano and Wayne Landis as soloist. The quartet presented a new song entitled "My Delt Memories," written by Harriet Harlow for her two Delt brothers of Delta Alpha Chapter at Oklahoma.

Gamma Upsilon—Miami

Talk still floats around the house about picnics, open houses, and Saturday dances, but this year one topic has crowded them all into the background. The proposed house addition is the biggest thing that has happened to Gamma Upsilon for a long time. It will provide facilities unknown at the house and some unknown on the campus.

The need has long been felt for a powder room for dates and other feminine visitors to the house. Our present telephone-booth-with-running-water is not exactly commodious (no pun intended). The new set-up will feature a separate lavatory and powder room, the latter attractively furnished with a lounge and a dressing table to accommodate four. The present dining room, as the plan indicates, will become a game room. The housemother's room will also be entirely new, with the most tasteful interior decorating the chapter can manage.

In the new addition itself, the Shelter will have on the first floor a dining room to seat forty-five, study rooms and lavatory on the second floor, and the dormitory on the third floor. Unlike the present dormitory, the room will be heated and every four bunks will be separated by partitions, to provide some semblance of privacy.

By moving the dormitory into the new addition, the chapter accomplishes something else that has long been desired: a better and larger chapter meeting room. This is really a twofold accomplishment, since the basement will be converted to a recreation room.

Nor has the outside of the house been forgotten on the list of innovations. The driveway will run along the south side of the house instead of the west; the addition will be surrounded by a low-walled walk that adjoins a circular terrace which will be ideal for outside parties and dances, and the entire yard will be relandscaped.

These are just the physical changes in the house. They improve conditions for living, studying, and playing, but they signify something far greater and more important to the continued life and success of Gamma Upsilon. They mean a step forward. The actives realize and try to impress pledges with the fact that all the comforts and pleasures they enjoy are the result of the labor and loyalty of those who have gone before. Many of the men who are working hardest to make the addition a reality will never see it as students. Of this Gamma Upsilon is proud—that the men of Gamma Upsilon can see beyond the picnics, the open houses, and the Saturday dances for the many men who will follow them as Miami Deltas. Upon such things, Miami Deltas feel, are founded the pleasures, the strength, and the benefits of fraternity life.

Gamma Chi—Kansas State

On Sunday, March 7, the members of Gamma Chi once again greeted the alumni at the annual Founders Day banquet at the chapter house. The after-dinner program included: a welcoming address by President Jim Davis; alumni response by Ray H. Pollom; introduction of the chapter by Jack Rieb; introduction of alumni by Kansas State President emeritus F. D. Farrell; and an interpretative speech, "What Delta Tau Delta Means to You," by Dick Parker. Scholarship awards were also presented to Sidney Rieb, having an average of 2.85, and Dean Kays, who was running a close second.

Following the program and one of Daisy's super dinners, the afternoon was spent making and renewing old friendships.

Gamma Psi—Georgia Tech

Gamma Psi's annual Artist's Ball, originated by Brother Ed Dodd, nationally known cartoonist and creator of the comic strip Mark Trail, was held April 30 at Atlanta's spacious Peachtree Gardens Club. Strictly a costume affair, the event required that Deltas be dressed alike in the traditional artist's smock, with a palette, brushes, and paint rag. High light of the ball was the presentation of the Delt Queen by Prexy Howard Johnston. The evening's festivities ended with an early morning breakfast for the brothers and their dates.

Ace Pitcher Returns

Spirits are running high around the chapter house with the return of Gamma Psi's ace softball pitcher, Jack Vanderbleek. Room has already been made in the trophy case for the cup the team plans to win. Champions in 1946 and runner-up last year, the 1948 Interfraternity League entry is built around veterans of the last two seasons, which has proved exceptionally strong in preseason games.

Delta Alpha—Oklahoma

Two parties were given for the actives of Delta Alpha by the two alumni chapters in Oklahoma. The Tulsa Alumni Chapter held its annual party in the Hotel Tulsa, at Tulsa, Saturday, March 27, 1948. The Oklahoma City Alumni Chapter held its party in the Oklahoma Club at Oklahoma City the following week.

These parties have two purposes: first, to renew fraternal bonds among the alumni; and, second, to increase the alumni-active relationship to its fullest.

Delt Debaters

Four Deltas at the University of Oklahoma have the honor of comprising the entire junior division of the University debate team. Bill McGeehee and Harry McMillan comprise one team, and Howard Borden and Horace Rhodes comprise the other. The debate team recently returned from the Southeastern Invitational Debate Tournament with a first-place and third-place winner in the junior division. Bill and Harry won first over the team that defeated Howard and Horace in the semi-finals.

The junior division of the debate team is for the sophomores and freshmen in the University. All four men should comprise a nucleus for future debate teams at the University of Oklahoma.

Delta Beta—Carnegie Tech

At Carnegie Tech, the most eagerly awaited event of the school year is the Spring Carnival which is held in the middle of May. It offers a fine opportunity for campus recognition of the fraternity as well as a most enjoyable week end. Early in the week of carnival, the campus is converted into a conventional carnival site, complete with sawdust, ferris wheel, and merry-go-round. The regular booths and concessions are set up and are run by the individual fraternities and sororities in a manner that definitely resembles that of professional "hucksters." The Delt baseball-throwing booth of last year's Carnival was a definite financial success.

The week end features a spring formal dance and also a costume ball. These dances require a great deal of planning, and the Deltas are well represented on the necessary committees.

There is a continuous program of events during the days of Spring Carnival. The Delt canoe-tilting team captured the cup for this event last spring and is preparing for another successful encounter this year. With last year's third place as an inspiration to greater effort, a stronger team is being readied for the Sweepstakes, the Tech version of the old buggy race.

There is also a keen rivalry between fraternities in the float competition. All entries are judged very closely and this year's Delt contribution (it is still a guarded secret) will be even better than last year's attractive sedan chair featuring the Campus Queen.

Delta Gamma shined during the basketball season not only on the varsity squad but also in interfraternity competition. The chapter's basketball team walked off with the first-place trophy in the interfraternity round robin schedule held the last of February.

Local Talent Wins

Delta Gamma also displayed its dramatic talents by its place-winning act in the 1948 annual Stroller's vaudeville show presented March 5. Delta Gamma's "Gay Nineties Review" featured a barbershop quartet, a Gallagher and Sheen number, and a can-can number with a dozen gaily costumed girls.

Mother's Day Sing

As Mother's Day approaches, the Deltas of Delta Gamma will be out in an attempt to take again the first-place trophy won last year in the Interfraternity Sing. The Sing is held every year on Mother's Day and will follow an open house and banquet at the Shelter honoring the mothers of Delta Gamma members.

Delta Delta—Tennessee

Delta Delta's biennial formal dance was originally set for March 6 in accordance with the celebration of Founders Day, but the University decided to give a high school basketball tournament priority on the Alumni Memorial Auditorium. Consequently, the formal will be held on May 22, making it the last formal of the year.

This obstacle failed to dampen the spirits of the Deltas, however, as they proceeded to make the week end one of the biggest socially in Delt history at Tennessee.

On Friday night, March 5, the Delta Delta Deltas journeyed out to Whittles Springs Hotel for the Founders Day Banquet. Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Knoxville and a Delt alumnus, did a marvelous job as speaker for the evening. After the banquet, alums and members retired to the Hotel's ballroom for an old-fashioned stag party. The pledges gave a skit which presented the members of the active chapter as they appeared to the pledge.

The following night Deltas set a precedent for future years by establishing as an annual affair a Delt Monte Carlo Party. The true night club picture was made complete with the presentation of a floor show which was culminated with the presentation of the Delt Queen for the coming year, Miss Lynn Rose Stansberry.

President Walker Meacham presented Lynn Rose with a huge loving cup and a bouquet of iris (the Delt flower) and carnations.

Curve Ball Artist

"Hank" McDonald, Delta Delta, was the ace of the pitching staff of the University of Tennessee's baseball team last year. He had a record of seven won and only one lost.

During the past summer, "Hank" pitched for a local amateur club, Frolic's Inn, which advanced to the finals of the National Amateur Baseball Tournament, mostly due to the "stuff" dished up to the plate by the lanky Henry McDonald.

This year, "Hank," who hails from Miami, Florida, signed a contract with the Chicago Cubs, obtaining a fat bonus in the deal. He was assigned to the Nashville Vols of the Southern League, and reports from the Vols' training camp indicate that "Hank" is expected to garner a starting role.

Delta Epsilon—Kentucky

Delta Epsilon Chapter has established a tradition at Kentucky as far as winning the Campus Sing is concerned, for Kentucky Deltas have won the coveted gold cup for ten out of the past twelve years.

This year, with the competition determined and well trained, Delta Tau Delta still had no real threats, for when past President Joe Young and H. B. Wright stepped forward to lead the singing of cherished, impressive "Delta Shelter" and a Fred Waring arrangement of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," everybody in Memorial Hall knew what to expect. As evidenced by the thunder of applause which followed the performance, nobody was disappointed. Kentucky Deltas, running true to form, had done it again.

Nobody could have been even half as proud as "Mimi" (Mrs. W. R. Fish, Delta Epsilon's housemother), when her Deltas carried the winner's cup back to its customary and time-worn circle on the piano at the Shelter.

Leader Extraordinary

Delta Epsilon Chapter is losing one of its most valuable seniors through graduation. This man is Joseph G. Young, a music major, from St. Louis, Missouri. The loss of his leaving will be felt not only by the Fraternity, but by the University of Kentucky as a whole.

During the past four years, Joe has been president of Delta Epsilon of Delta Tau Delta; vice-president of Phi Mu Alpha, a men's musical recognition fraternity; president of the Men's Glee Club; and leader of the winning Delt Glee Club for the past two years. In addition, he has been in Lamp and Cross, senior men's leadership society, and Omicron Delta Kappa, national men's leadership fraternity. He also made Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities for 1947-1948. He is the student director of the Agricultural College Men's Glee Club.

Besides his University work, Joe has appeared in recitals in St. Louis, Ohio, Indiana, and Kentucky. He has also had his weekly radio program, "The Steinway Hour," along with being accompanist and soloist with the University of Kentucky's Men's Glee Club.

Delta Zeta—Florida

Plans for the future construction of an east wing for the Delta Shelter at Florida began to take shape this semester with the purchase of a lot adjoining the house. The lot measures 100' x 54', which greatly increased the frontage on University Avenue. Beautification of the lot has already begun with the transplanting of a hedge and sowing of grass seed under the direction of House Manager Harvey Page. The purchase was made possible by donations from alumni and allocation of funds of the chapter.

Track Star

Delta Zeta produced some fine athletes this year. Outstanding among varsity lettermen was Tommy Taylor. A track man, Tommy specializes in the pole vault and the broad jump. One of two men to represent the University of Florida, he journeyed to the North Carolina Invitational Indoor Meet and took honors in both his events. Taylor tied for first place in the pole vault and won second place in the broad jump. Tommy's hometown is Fort Myers, Florida.

Founders Day Banquet

Delta Zeta's annual Founders Day Banquet took place in Jacksonville, Florida, this year. The event was held in the west ballroom of the Hotel Roosevelt. Deltas, pledges, alumni, and their wives and dates were present for the dinner. Alumni chapters from Tampa, Miami, and Jacksonville were represented. Following Master of Ceremonies Ed Beardsley's introductory speech, the program included talks by President Jack Doherty, Vice-President John Trinkle, and numerous alumni.

Delta Eta—Alabama

Delta Eta Chapter at the University of Alabama was host at the first postwar Founders Day banquet to be held in the state. On Saturday night, March 6, 1948, some fifty chapter members and alumni representing six different chapters gathered in the Thomas Jefferson Hotel in Birmingham for dinner and an old-fashioned Delt get-together.

Headlining the after-dinner discussions of Delt doings on a local and the national scale was Brother Charlie Pearson, President of the Southern Division, who came to Birmingham from Atlanta for the banquet. In an informal talk, Brother Pearson outlined the progress of the Fraternity during the past several years and discussed the previous and future growth of the Southern Division, in addition to answering many questions from his audience of undergraduate and alumni members.

Nelson McNaughton, President of Delta Eta, then gave a brief outline of the present accomplishments and problems of the chapter at the University. Following the banquet, members of the group picked up their wives and dates and adjourned to one of the local country clubs for dancing and further deep discussions of Fraternity affairs.

Among the alumni present at the dinner and party were John Lunsford (Tennessee), George Fertig (Purdue), R. H. Stebbins (Kansas State), Tom Purdin (Emory), Charlie Pearson (Georgia Tech), and A. P. Drummond, Emil Mosebaugh, Jack Waite, Dick Van Horn, William Waite, John Echols, and Tom Holloway, all of Alabama.

The secondary purpose of the dinner, after honoring the founding fathers of the Fraternity, that of organizing an alumni chapter in Birmingham, was also accomplished during the banquet. The chapter is pleased to announce that the first meeting of the group was held on March 17, and plans have been made for enlargement of the nucleus of the chapter to include nearly all of the Delt alumni living in and around Birmingham.

Cagers Second

Delta Eta's basketball team finished its season in second place, after being downed by the league-leading Sigma Chi five in the last round of play. Sparked by Bob Unkenholz and Rod Ritter, who ranked fourth and eighth, respectively, among the top scorers of all the fraternities, the Delt team racked up 348 points to its opponents' 250.

Delta Iota—U. C. L. A.

Outstanding social event at Delta Iota in the early summer was the initiation banquet and formal honoring the new initiates. Immediately preceding the dance the new initiates were introduced separately, toasts were drunk, and songs were sung in their honor. It is believed that this brief ceremony will become a tradition in the future.

Sporting Deltas

The Deltas are well represented in school sports activities this year. Jack Nelson and Gil Tuffi are on the varsity swimming team, and both will place high in the Pacific Coast Conference competition. John Chandler, pledge, is on the frosh swim team.

John Roesch, halfback on the football team, and Bob Frear are Delta Iota's contribution to the reactivated Rugby team. Recently the house was proud to be hosts to the World Champion Rugby Team, the Australian Wallabies.

Jim Harvey is tossing the javelin with the varsity tracksters; Jack Dean and Bill Bowman are running on the frosh track squad.

Intramural basketball competition finds the team, composed of Darrell Riggs, Bob Frear, Joe Klinger, Tom Horton, and Jim Hurry, undefeated thus far, and favorites to annex the school title for the second consecutive year. The basketball title will put Delta Iota in first place for all interfraternity athletics.

Delta Kappa—Duke

The Delt Shelter at Duke was recently honored by a visit from Hugh Shields. The Executive Vice-President was in the area investigating the possibility of reactivating Gamma Omega at the University of North Carolina.

The Shelter was filled with members and pledges who came to hear Brother Shields speak on matters concerning both the national Fraternity and the chapters in this section of the country. Brothers Charlie Boyd, former national President, Bill Andrews, vice-president of the Southern Division, Everett Weatherspoon, chapter adviser, and Professor Leon H. Ellis were present and also spoke. The gathering then developed into a genial question-and-answer session from which the members learned a great deal of interesting, yet generally unknown, information about the Fraternity as a whole and of the chapters in other sections of the country.

Pledges Go to Town

Duke Deltas are proud of their present pledge class. Two recent additions are members of the honorary freshman fraternity, Phi Eta Sigma. Several are already active in campus publications and in the campus Theater Guild. Two others are shaping up extremely well in the spring football practices. Another has earned a starting assignment on the lacrosse team. Seven of the pledges are on the baseball squad. Two others are expected to be playing varsity basketball next year.

Scholar and Pitcher

Frank McDonald is leading the members in scholarship, having just become a member of Phi Beta Kappa. Paul Karukstis is at this writing the workhorse of Duke's pitching staff. Paul has pitched in half of the team's games to date.

Delta Lambda—Oregon State

Alex Petersen, varsity forward on Oregon State's basketball team, had the highest percentage of shots attempted and made in the nation. Complete season figures reveal that "Pete" bucketed .476 per cent of his basket attempts to win national honors. Petersen, a junior, still has one more year of basketball competition remaining.

Ski Mainstay

Phil Peoples, '48, was the mainstay of Oregon State's ski team and has lettered for two years. Phil also instructs skiing at Hoodoo Bowl, local skiing winter playground, each week end.

THE DELTA ALUMNI CHAPTERS

Ashtabula

Twenty-six members of the Ashtabula County Alumni Chapter recently attended a Founders Day dinner at the Hotel Ashtabula.

Principal speaker on the program was City Manager R. M. Hoisington, Colorado, '30, who spoke on the Fraternity's founding and early history. Presiding at the affair was Richard Baldwin, secretary of the chapter, who with Neil H. Payne arranged the meeting. A committee consisting of Kenneth Church, Albert W. Lewis, and Burdette Chapman was appointed to take charge of the next meeting to be held early in the summer.

The alumni chapter paid tribute to Madison J. Humphrey, Ohio, '21, for outstanding achievement in activity as an alumni member. He was presented a watch chain bearing the Delt coat of arms and insignia.

Lee Belding, president of the alumni chapter, presided at the business meeting.

Battle Creek

The Battle Creek Alumni Chapter had an excellent meeting on the night of Tuesday, March 30. Twenty members turned out for a dinner and business meeting at the Hart Hotel.

The following members were elected officers for the coming year: Neal N. Nelson, Minnesota, '26, president; Charles W. Gustke, Jr., Hillsdale, '46, vice-president; Miles S. Robertson, Albion, '36, secretary-treasurer.

Norman W. Schmitzer, Michigan State, '47, was elected delegate to the Northern Division Conference to be held at Michigan State College, April 9 and 10.

Plans were also made to hold a smoker in May or June and to hold a June meeting with the S. A. E. Alumni Chapter of Battle Creek.

The high spot of the evening was a very interesting talk by Gordon Jones on the status of the Fraternity, in which he outlined the progress that the Fraternity has made in the last few years and presented the problems which confront the Fraternity at the present time.

J. ADDINGTON WAGNER

Birmingham

The first of the activities sponsored by the Birmingham alumni group was the joint Founders Day banquet, held in conjunction with Delta Eta Chapter, at the Thomas Jefferson Hotel on March 6, 1948. A fine group of alumni and active members turned out to hear Brother Charlie Pearson, President of the Southern Division, keynote the first postwar meeting of the Deltas in this vicinity. Brother Pearson discussed the growth of the Fraternity over the past several years and the contributions of the alumni chapters in that growth, along with some of the possible sites for the future expansion of the Fraternity in the Southern states. Following the banquet, most of the alumni adjourned to the Highland Country Club to finish the evening's entertainment.

Encouraged by the spirit shown by the large number of men who attended the banquet, Emil Mosebaugh and Jack Waite began to contact the remaining Deltas in Birmingham, with the view of reorganizing the alumni chapter that had been started before the war. Two meetings have been held in March for the purpose of establishing a permanent group, and although the chapter is still in the preliminary stages of formation, it is expected that a petition for a charter will be presented to the Arch Chapter sometime during the spring months.

At the present time, no officers have been elected for the chapter, but prominent among the nucleus which is assisting in the organization of the group are Jack Waite and Emil Mosebaugh, Alabama; Fred Cox, Georgia Tech; Ralph Stebbings, Kansas State; "Twink" Starr, Kansas; Howard Ford and John Lunsford, Tennessee; Edmund Armes, Sewanee; Tom Purdom, Emory; and John Glasser, Pittsburgh.

The program of activities for the chapter includes bimonthly luncheon meetings, a membership drive for enlargement of the group, assistance to the rushing program of Delta Eta and other active chapters, petitioning for a charter as an alumni chapter, and the planning of some type of social event to be held late in the spring.

JERRY GOODE

Chicago

Charlie Axelson, Chicago, '07, who has attended a lot of 'em in his time, thinks that the Founders Day celebration, Saturday, February 27, was one of the very best and most enthusiastic parties the Chicago Alumni Chapter has ever staged, and we are sure that all who were there would agree that it was tops. Some one hundred and forty Deltas of all ages were in attendance to hear a most inspiring talk by our

A Word from Walling

In '48—1848, that is—all trails led to Sutter's Mill in California and the newly discovered gold fields. In those days that territory was not readily accessible, and transportation was pretty much limited to the covered wagon and other slow and perilous means of travel.

In 1948, for Deltas, all roads lead to French Lick, an ideally situated lovely country estate in the Cumberland foothills of Indiana, carefully chosen as the ideal spot for the Fifty-ninth Karnea in August.

Don't let your attendance at this Karnea be open to question. Don't trifle with the idea too long—bring it to an early conclusion and prepare now to be there and help make this the largest and most successful fraternity convention ever held.

Alumni chapters are urged to send official delegates to this year's Karnea so that they may participate in the legislative branch of our Fraternity.

Delta Tau Delta will continue to grow and prosper if each of its members manifests an interest in its affairs, comes to the general convention to take part in its activities and the discussion of its problems and proposed plans, and helps to chart its future course.

Alumni, this is an opportunity to combine your vacation with an occasion to engage in the affairs of your Fraternity, at a retreat ideally situated for rest and recreation to suit your desires. Make your reservations now!

national President on the fundamentals of Deltaism. Besides Charlie, who ranks as dean of Chicago Deltas and unfailing bellwether of loyal Gamma Alpha alumni, there were present such well known Chicago Deltas as France Patton, Chicago, '11; Blake Hooper, Illinois Tech, '07; Carl Kuehnle, Iowa, '19; Matt Hosely, Chicago, '10; and Al Brunker, Penn, '03; not to speak of our new chapter president, R. S. "Port" Arthur, Illinois, '08.

Other new officers elected are: Ralph Butz, Baker, '21, vice-president; Bob Wilson, Lawrence, '46, treasurer; and C. C. "Bunker" Bean, Ohio, '09, secretary.

In spite of the fact that both of the local chapters had entertained the night before, sizable delegations for each were at the luncheon, contributing greatly to the enjoyability of the occasion by leading the singing of good old Delt songs. The presidents of the active chapters, George Black, Beta Pi, and Roger Sellstrom, Gamma Beta, sat with the presidents of their respective house corporations, Andy Duncan and Emmett Hartnett, at the speakers' table.

Our new directory, listing some 1,600 Deltas of Chicago and suburbs, made its first appearance at the Founders Day luncheon. The last one appeared 'way back in the early thirties. This handy little pamphlet represents several months of work on the part of Orville Dewey, George Washington, '28, and the retiring president of the alumni chapter, Jack West, DePauw, '38. Publication of the book would not have been possible without the valuable aid of the Central Office, for which thanks are hereby returned.

One result of publication of the directory has been an increase in the attendance at the weekly luncheon, held at Hardings at the Fair, in the "Loop." It, of course, goes without saying that all Deltas passing through Chicago are cordially invited to meet with us there any Monday from 12:00 to 1:30.

Cincinnati

Hi there, you Cincy Deltas! We've been missing you at our alumni meetings. You know we have a pretty complete round of activities. Certainly you can find time to attend some of them. Or maybe you aren't aware of just what we are doing. Did you know we have a luncheon each Tuesday noon at the Cincinnati Club? And that Deltas both old and new are regular attendants? Undoubtedly, some of your old classmates are there each week. Did you know we have regular monthly evening meetings and that many of our alumni who cannot attend the luncheons make it a point to get to these gatherings and renew old acquaintances and once again enjoy real Delt fellowship?

Did you know we have other parties and gatherings which enable you to again enjoy Delt brotherhood? For example, in February many alumni from this area attended the Gamma Xi initiation banquet at which time twenty-two new initiates were welcomed into the Fraternity. And on April 2, about 100 alums enjoyed the first annual Delta Carlo party which was held at the Hartwell Country Club. Several other gala affairs are being arranged for your enjoyment. So how about it, you Cincy Deltas; will we be seeing you at our next meeting? We'll be looking for you!

ART JACOBS

Cleveland

The Cleveland Alumni Chapter has enjoyed an unusually interesting winter season and now looks forward with keen anticipation to a renewal of several of our traditional spring, summer, and fall social functions. Under the direction of our new president, Bob Hartford, there will be a golf tournament in June, a family picnic in July, and a dinner meeting in August.

Nearly 200 Deltas were present at the Founders Day celebration and annual meeting which was held on February 23 at the University Club. By all odds it was one of the grandest events ever held by the Cleveland Alumni Chapter. The main speech of the evening was given by Harold K. "Frenchy" Bell. His remarks were truly inspirational and made all those present realize that, no matter how well we serve the Fraternity, the ledger will never be completely balanced, for every man who wears the Square Badge has received much more from Delta Tau Delta than he can ever repay.

As toastmaster for the evening, Carr Liggett demonstrated conclusively that he is a master craftsman. His workmanship was smooth, interesting, and entertaining. President Frank Moran presided at the business session and with the co-operation of Chief Steam Roller Engineer, Jim Crow, in the usual democratic (?) style, steered the following members into office for the coming year: president, Robert Hartford; vice-president, Richard F. Seaman; treasurer, Otto Digel; secretary, Randall M. Ruhlman.

The actives of Zeta Chapter joined with the alumni chapter for the annual meeting. A fine group of new initiates was presented and all actives introduced. As a special feature Zeta Chapter entertained with a series of Delt songs—and those boys can really give with the music.

During the business session at the annual banquet your correspondent was literally "bowled over" by the presentation of a beautiful illuminated scroll containing a lot of very wonderful words—some true, some exaggerated—but all very pleasing to the recipient. The excuse for the presentation was fourteen consecutive years as an officer of the Cleveland Alumni Chapter and editor of the local Bulletin.

With the close of our fiscal year in February, it is only proper to pay tribute to the excellent leadership the chapter has received from the retiring president, Frank Moran. He has given unstintingly of his time. His executive ability has strengthened the chapter and the many innovations which he introduced during his regime have created renewed interest in Fraternity affairs. Publicly we say, "Thanks, Pat."

Once more we repeat our invitation to all Deltas in the Cleveland area to join with us in the continuing enjoyment and satisfaction of participating in the program of activities carried on by the Cleveland Alumni Chapter of Delta Tau Delta.

RANDALL M. RUHLMAN

Columbus

Already sporting an alumni chapter of two hundred plus Delt alumni and a Mothers' Club of forty Delt mothers, Columbus is now facing more complete encirclement with the recent formation of the Delt Wives' Club. Purpose: "To foster friendship—etc." (gained from a sly peek by a husband Delt at the wives' constitution carelessly left available.)

Yes, acquaintance and friendship are gained by the girls in gathering for meetings once a month at the Shelter, through the courtesy of Beta Phi Chapter. On the second Thursday of each month, the Delt husbands become baby sitters and "club bachelors" for an evening while their wives gather to discuss—who knows what—and to be entertained by the program of a committee appointed each month for that purpose.

January's meeting entertainment was presented by Charlene Gilliland (William Gilliland, Beta Phi, '41), Delta Omicron and music major, with a violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. Lorena Creamer McClure, one of the founders of Delta Omicron, national music sorority.

But the Wives' Club has a serious side, too, having as one of its purposes the raisings of funds to make possible gifts to the chapter. At Christmas, Beta Phi Chapter was presented by the club with a heavy brass ornamental Chinese dinner bell which adorns the head table in the dining room. Just completed was a scrap paper drive, which saw stacks and boxes of papers and magazines deposited at the Shelter to be sold to swell the treasury.

Since the State of Ohio makes refunds of a small percentage of the face value of its sales tax stamps turned in by organizations, the club gathers these paper tokens for their cash value.

Thursday, February 26, saw the meeting of the Delt Mothers' Club take place, at which the Delt Wives' Club members were guests of the mothers. It is reported the girls of both clubs had a wonderful time. Since the Delt Wives' Club is not limited to any age group, it was a matter of concern for a while during the formation as to which club would claim the loyalty of the mothers who are also wives. (Not meant to be facetious.) However, the groups seem not to overlap at all, and each group serves a specific purpose of association.

And the wives, God bless them, have become so interested that their enthusiasm has bolstered the interest of the husbands (probably wary, lest the women start wearing the Badge as well as the pants in the family), and we find them more actively participating in undergraduate chapter and alumni affairs.

The qualifications for membership? The only requirement is to have been one of the girls (lucky or smart enough, we claim) to have found a Delt husband.

We of the Columbus, Ohio, Deltas say to others: "Please copy." It's a grand chance for our wives to get together and gain a deeper understanding of what the Fraternity means to its men.

We invite THE RAINBOW to dispatch reporters to cover the organization and report to the membership on the founding of a wonderful adjunct to the Delta Tau Delta movement.

DONALD J. WOLPERT

Greater New York

The big news this issue is of course the eighty-ninth anniversary Founders Day banquets which were held throughout the country. Here in New York we held our banquet at the beautiful Council Room of the New York University Club. A fine representative group of almost one hundred Deltas was present to toast the founders and to praise the extension of our great Fraternity. We all listened to Mr. James E. Craig, chief editorial writer of the New York Sun, whose knowledge of present-day affairs of the world is apparently unlimited.

Herb McCracken gave a running description of a motion picture of the sports high lights of 1947, which was indeed interesting to all present.

Among the many distinguished guests present we had the pleasure of entertaining Mr. Joel W. Reynolds, Eastern Division President, along with several delegates who were in town for the Regional Conference.

Our own Bob Lange certainly has a vote of thanks due him for the wonderful job he did in organizing and running the affair off to a great conclusion.

Our downtown group luncheons got off to a fine start with twenty-five members present as the guests of A. Bruce Bielaski at the Drug and Chemical Club. A fine location has been found for this informal group to meet, and a table is reserved at The Chamber of Commerce, 65 Liberty Street, for the first Tuesday of every month. Nineteen were present for a lunch in their new surroundings in February, and the way it looks now, the downtown group will soon become as big as the regular association meetings. We should interject a word on behalf of John Monstream, who, as a member of the Chamber of Commerce, enabled us to use its facilities.

Our regular luncheon meeting in February had George Luxemburger, a claim attorney for the N. Y. N. H. & H. Railroad as our speaker. If you think railroads don't get sued for silk stockings snags, just ask George.

An interesting situation was brought up at our March lunch when we had Gene Dawson, a mining and metallurgical engineer as our guest. The last time Gene remembers addressing our group was thirty-five years ago, and at that time the triumvirate, C. C. Harris, "Duke" Stevens, and Ed Partridge, was present. These same three were at our March meeting to cheer him on.

FRANZ A. FIDELI

Houston

Maurice T. Angly headed the delegation of the Houston Alumni Chapter to the Founders Day activities of Gamma Iota Chapter at the University of Texas. He was the principal speaker at the banquet held in Austin during the Founders Day festivities.

Silas B. Ragsdale, Sr., was there visiting his son, Silas, Jr., an active in the chapter. Silas, Sr., we've just learned, is in Who's Who in America, was graduated from Texas in the class of 1918, and is now with the Gulf Publishing Company, which publishes World Oil, largest of oil magazines.

Others in Austin for Founders Day included Charles Westmoreland, president of the alumni chapter, Ed Richardson, and John Singleton, Jr.

With summer weather in the offing, the alumni chapter is negotiating for an air-conditioned room at the Houston Club where a series of semimonthly luncheons will be held beginning in April.

Azalea Trail, sponsored by the River Oaks Garden Club, opened nine of the city's most beautiful private gardens to the pilgrimage of flower lovers this spring. Among them was the garden of George A. Butler, at 3416 Chevy Chase.

Jess Neely, popular head coach of Rice Institute's football squad, has not confirmed the many rumors heard this spring that his Owls will start the season next fall as the strongest team in the Southwest Conference, but he has promised to give us the real lowdown at our next meeting.

Ralph A. Johnston, oil producer, is a director of the Houston Fat Stock Show and is one of the main reasons why this year's show was the most successful ever put on in Houston. The Houston show is now the largest in the world.

At the recent annual meeting of the stockholders of the American General Insurance Company, two Houston Deltas were re-elected directors of the company. They are George A. Butler and Wharton Weems. Butler has made an astounding success in the practice of law, and his firm of Butler, Binion, Rice & Cool, now has eighteen lawyers in its offices in the Gulf Building. Weems is a senior partner of the firm of Vinson, Elkins, Weems & Francis, one of the world's largest law firms.

William R. Brown, one of the more prominent of Houston's young lawyers, is associated with the firm of Baker, Botts, Andrews & Parish with offices in the Esperson Building.

George L. Temple, formerly of Oklahoma, is now located in Houston where he is an engineer with the Lee C. Moore Company, builder of oil derricks.

HIRST SUFFIELD

Indianapolis

The Indianapolis Alumni Chapter ended its 1947 activities with the traditional Christmas luncheon at the Washington Hotel. Over fifty alums attended, gifts were exchanged, and entertainment was provided by an accordion player and Bud Selig on the piano. As usual everyone enjoyed himself.

Fred Tucker, Jr., was elected delegate to the Northern Division Conference.

After the first of the year our activities were directed toward our annual Founders Day Banquet and Dance, which was held at the Indianapolis Athletic Club on Saturday, February 28. We had a fine turnout from all the chapters, Beta Psi, Beta Alpha, Beta Beta, Gamma Lambda, and Beta Zeta, as well as from our alumni. Over 300 attended.

Harlan Hadley did a fine job as toastmaster and Raymond E. Hyre was our guest speaker. His talk on "The Delt World" was most interesting.

Joe Morgan was presented with an award for his long, outstanding service to the Fraternity.

The attendance cup was won by the Butler chapter, Beta Zeta, for 100 per cent attendance, and the Purdue chapter, Gamma Lambda, won the stunt award with some extra fine singing. After the banquet, Joe Zaney's orchestra supplied the dance music.

We are looking forward to our spring and summer activities, which will include golf tournaments and evening get-togethers.

BOB JOHNSON

Kansas City

We have watched with interest the campaign of Bob Winslow, Kansas, for the office of District Councilman in Kansas City. He came through the primary election successfully and is now on the home stretch for the main election coming up.

Edmund Marshall, Missouri, was elected first vice-president of the Board of Trade. By standard procedure, he will automatically move into the presidency of that organization next year.

S. D. (Mike) Horton, Missouri, now lives in Minneapolis, where he is connected with the Horton-Earle Company. He dropped in for one of the Thursday noon luncheons back in January.

The Kansas City chapter held its Founders Day banquet on March 12. President Bill Gilges certainly deserves a lot of credit for a varied program of music and speeches. Among those guests saying a few words were Dan Ferguson, President of the Western Division; Hugh Shields, Executive Vice-President of Delta Tau Delta; Martin Dickinson, Secretary of Delta Tau Delta; and Gordon Jones, Editor of THE RAINBOW. The Aztec Room of the Hotel President on this occasion was filled with some 160 Deltis, including the delegations from the various chapters meeting that week at Gamma Tau for the Western Division Conference.

TOM CARR

Knoxville

Founders Day is always a high point in the year for most alumni chapters. Festivities have covered a period of two days in Knoxville. First was the Founders Day banquet and informal smoker for members of the Delta Delta Chapter and the Knoxville Alumni Chapter. The following night a formal house party was held at the Delta Delta Shelter for members of the Delta Delta Chapter, the Knoxville Alumni Chapter, and their wives and dates. The party was a Monte Carlo affair with prizes for those winning the largest amount in stage money. Apparently the "house" was taking a very small cut; the bank was broken several times during the evening.

The regular meetings on the first Monday of each month are still being held, and with fairly steady attendance. All Deltis who happen to be in the area at these times are cordially invited to attend.

Long Beach

A most successful monthly meeting was called Tuesday evening, March 16, in the rumpus room of the Dr. George Hansen residence. Plans were made to assist U. S. C. and U. C. L. A. rushing in the Long Beach area.

Robert Taplin, Victor Mingers, and William Deatherage volunteered to contact the principals of all local high schools and secure lists of outstanding seniors who intend to enter college upon graduation from high school. These lists will be checked and sent to the proper rushing chairmen, with comments added regarding any man personally known to a Delt alum.

Edwin Thomas, Lonnie Robbins, Dr. George Hansen, and other members each agreed to telephone three alums regarding the next meeting, to encourage increased attendance at Long Beach alumni gatherings. Postcard notices of these meetings will be sent by Arthur Bates-Lane to registered Deltis in Long Beach and vicinity.

Meetings are held on the third Tuesday of each month, and any Delt in or near Long Beach is urged to contact Floyd Vinson, 1114 Security Building, telephone 76-212, for further information about these monthly Delt doings.

FLOYD VINSON

Los Angeles

Honored by the presence of G. Herbert McCracken, President of Delta Tau Delta, and Hugh Shields, Executive Vice-President of the Fraternity, the Los Angeles Alumni Chapter was host to these national officers at a luncheon held at the University Club on March 26 with approximately fifty Deltis in attendance.

This luncheon served to highlight an extremely busy first three months of 1948 for the alumni chapter, and it was a privilege and pleasure for many of us to meet these estimable gentlemen for the first time, and to listen to their talks on the progress of the Fraternity.

On January 30, Delts in Los Angeles entertained Francis F. Patton, junior past President of the Fraternity, and Martin B. Dickinson, Secretary, at a function held at the University Club with eighty-one members present. This, incidentally, establishes an all-time high for a luncheon attendance among Delts in this district.

Assembling again to observe the eighty-ninth anniversary of the founding of Delta Tau Delta, 285 members of the Fraternity held their Founders Day dinner at the University Club on March 5. Toastmaster of the evening was Robert L. Meyer, USC, '45, whose smooth introductions and able handling of his duties created quite an impression on some of the older members. Principal speaker of the evening was Edward S. Shattuck, California, '23, whose main theme was a talk on national defense—not a defense based on universal military training, but, as Shattuck expressed it, on a powerful air force, able to blanket the world on an instant's notice, and supplemented by an equally powerful submarine arm. Colonel Shattuck's talk was well received by a group liberally sprinkled with men who formerly served in all branches of the service during World War II.

Considerable interest has been shown here among the alumni over the expansion plans of the Fraternity, and the recent installation of Delta Rho Chapter at Whitman College generally met with approval. At the moment attention is focused on the University of California at Santa Barbara as a possible school for expansion, as this institution has elaborate plans to develop this campus into something to see.

Under the able guidance of President Gordon Carey, the Los Angeles Alumni Chapter continues to hold its weekly meetings at the University Club. While attendance is somewhat down from last year (due to a prohibitive $2 charge for lunch), the spirit is great and evidence that we will increase in numbers at the luncheons is attested by new faces which constantly crop up.

Monthly dinners are held at Taix French Restaurant the first Thursday of each month and as many as seventy-five have been in attendance. These dinners are fast taking their place as a real function and are assuming more importance among the alumni, as they enable many to attend who are unable to be present at the Tuesday luncheons.

Evidence that Delta Tau Delta is growing in this territory is attested by the formation of the San Gabriel Valley Alumni Group which meets on the last Monday night of each month in the Harry-Raymond Steak House in San Marino. George McMullin, Oklahoma, is secretary of the group and has done a good job in getting the boys together. The group has held two meetings since it was formed, and the attendance at each dinner has been better than fifty.

To visiting Delts who might be in Los Angeles, we extend the hand of fellowship and cordially invite you to come to the luncheons on Tuesday and get acquainted. You will undoubtedly find some of the brothers from your own chapter, for almost every chapter in the Fraternity is represented in the Los Angeles Alumni Chapter of Delta Tau Delta.

JERRY STEWART

Milwaukee

On March 9 the Milwaukee Alumni Chapter held its annual Founders Day banquet at the University Club. We had a fine turnout and everyone present seemed to have a wonderful time. Carl Gezelschap, chairman of the banquet, donated to the chapter a silver tray on which the names of all the Delts in attendance will be engraved. This is the beginning of a fine tradition. Throughout the coming years the chapter will acquire a silver service to be used at all Delt functions.

Throughout the festivities Red Johnson and his movie camera were busy taking pictures of the Delts in action. These pictures will be part of the film showing all the Delt activities.

The results of the election of members to the Advisory Board were announced and the Board in turn has elected the following officers for the coming year: Phil Dressler, president; Jim Goetter, secretary; Wally Patten, treasurer; and Red Johnson, rushing chairman. We wish to extend our hearty thanks to the retiring officers for their energetic and faithful service during the past year.

JAMES A. GOETTER

National Capital

One of the high lights of the winter social season was the Delt alumni dinner dance held at the Washington Golf and Country Club on January 17. Sixty-four attended, including a number of Gamma Eta actives and their ladies. Innumerable dancing exhibitions were noted at random, and among the show-offs were Bob Valiant, Charlie Crichton, Don Myrick, and Bob van Sickler. Outstanding in performance and pulchritude was Cookie. Enjoyable music was served by the Army Air Force Orchestra, and a lot of credit should go to Major "Hardware" Dickey and his committee for a swell affair.

Dell Floyd and Dr. Wohlforth took numerous flashlight pictures, but due to the influence of their subjects and other reasons, they did not turn out so well. Nevertheless, it was fun.

Our regular weekly luncheons at Bonat's on Thursday noons have been well attended and among the notable out-of-town guests were Bruce Bielski and J. M. Wright, Van Nuys, California. It is hoped that others passing through Washington will stop in at these Thursday luncheons.

Congratulations are in order, for Bob Newby has finally distributed the Washington Directory. This comparatively small volume represents hours of work by Bob and his committee and is of tremendous value to those in the city as well as for the Delts from the states. Washington, as everyone knows, is the melting pot of the country, and sooner or later a need for this book arises. A copy has been sent to all the chapter houses in the country.

Dick Daniels and his committee have been very active on the petitioning Maryland University local K Σ K, and a great amount of progress has been made. President Byrd of Maryland University has twice entertained the committee and the local's representatives at luncheon, and if squab is served again, we will all be there. At the last luncheon, William H. Andrews, vice-president of the Southern Division, was up from Greensboro, North Carolina, and appeared to substantiate our belief that the petitioning group from Maryland is deserving of full consideration. It is the writer's understanding that approval from the Washington area has been forwarded to the Arch Chapter.

Plans for the forthcoming annual Founders Day banquet on April 9 at the National Press Club are pretty well under control of the chairman, Dell Floyd, whose committee includes Rhesa Norris, Camden McAttee, Ralph Wray, Riggs Monfort, Gordon Delk, Burr Christopher, Paul Hayward, Bob Newby, and Bob van Sickler. Last year we had a turnout of 225, and we hope to exceed it this time. Lee Arries, president of the Touchdown Club, is the toastmaster, and Senator Jenner from Indiana is to be the speaker. In addition to the Delt Senators and Congressmen, numbering about twelve, and Lew Deschler, Parliamentarian of the House, there will be a large percentage of the 600 business, professional, and government people in attendance. Indications are that it will be another successful Delt party.

It is expected that there will be quite a large delegation from Washington who will attend the Karnea at French Lick Springs this August, for it also promises to be quite a party.

ROBERT VAN SICKLER

New Orleans

At a recent meeting of the New Orleans Alumni Chapter the following officers were unanimously elected for the 1948 term: Dr. Willoughby E. Kittredge, president; William W. Messersmith, Jr., vice-president; Conrad Meyer, III, secretary; and A. J. Nugon, Jr., treasurer.

For the past several months the alumni group has been holding its monthly supper and meeting as guests of the undergraduate chapter at the Delt house. The meetings, which have been attended by a large group of the alumni, together with the officers of the active chapter, have been a means of acquainting the alumni firsthand with the activities and problems of the active chapter, and at the same time giving the active chapter concrete assistance and advice in its activities. We recommend the idea to other alumni chapters for a trial.

Through the efforts of Francis Henry the April meeting is scheduled to be held in a private dining room of New Orleans' new International House. It is expected that at the meeting there will be a report from the House Committee on the estimated cost of enlarging and renovating the Delt house on the Tulane campus. The members of the committee, Dick Andry, Francis Henry, and "Trip" Trepagnier, have been proceeding steadily in their work to obtain a comprehensive survey of the factors to be considered in making major alterations in these days. Interest in the project is great among both the alumni and the actives.

CONRAD MEYER, III

Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh activities during the past quarter were highlighted by our Founders Day celebration March 23 at the University Club. Almost two hundred alumni and actives from Pitt, Carnegie Tech, and Washington and Jefferson were present at a banquet and get-together that evening.

After a fine dinner, Harry Birmingham, W. & J., '10, reviewed the founding of Delta Tau Delta and its particular meaning to us here in the Pittsburgh area, located so close to the place of this historical event. Our grateful thanks are extended to Charles Lewis, Allegheny, '09; Mert Grubbs, Penn State, '13; Bill Trimble, Jr., Pittsburgh, '16; Mark Follansbee, Pittsburgh, '14; and Harry Birmingham for arranging and making it possible for us to have Cy Hungerford, eminent cartoonist of the Pittsburgh Post Gazette. Having recently returned from a tour of Western Europe, he drew some very interesting and timely sketches of many characters now in the news.

President Lee Sellers made the award of the Dean High Moor cup to the Carnegie Tech chapter sing team for winning the competition two years straight at the annual Christmas service at Trinity Cathedral. This cup, donated by C. R. Wilson, is given to the team selected as best of the Pitt, Carnegie Tech, and W. & J. chapters. After receiving the cup, the Tech team gave us some of the finest singing of Delt songs we have ever heard.

The new alumni chapter officers for the coming year, elected that night, are: John V. Snee, W. & J., '30, president; C. Robert Schar, Pittsburgh, '38, vice-president; Richard Barnhart, Pittsburgh, '46, editor of "Delt Doings"; and Arthur H. Stroyd, Pittsburgh, '36, secretary-treasurer.

A smoker after the dinner and talks nicely rounded out the evening. Much credit is due Jack Kelso and his committee for the fine job they did in arranging and putting on this affair.

We are making plans for another Baseball Party this summer very similar to the very successful one held last year, and possibly a golf party after this event.

All Delts happening to be in Pittsburgh at noon on Tuesday are invited to our luncheons at the Law & Finance Building restaurant.

ARTHUR H. STROYD

Portland

The annual Honor Initiation is now a thing of the past and will be remembered by all who attended—a record attendance—as a wonderful experience. The model initiation was followed by a lavish banquet and an excellent address by Ernest Haycox, Portland's well-known author. Now that the annual Honor Initiation has been reinstated to the regular agenda of the Portland Alumni Chapter, we can look forward to still better and better initiations as the years go by.

The plans for summer rushing for all the Pacific Northwest undergraduate chapters are now being formulated and should give many prospective rushees a good idea of the wonders of Delta Tau Delta. The returns from our summer rushing last year were so good that we have been encouraged to expand our ideas this year.

Whenever you are in Portland, drop in to the weekly luncheon. It is held each Monday at noon at the Chamber of Commerce dining rooms, corner of S. W. Taylor and S. W. 5th Avenue.

CLYDE ANGERMAN

San Francisco

Well, lo and behold, here comes a report from the San Francisco Alumni Chapter, dormant but not dead these many years.

Last November a small group met for lunch and inveigled John Twelvetrees, Beta Rho, '33, to take over the presidency and whip some life and enthusiasm into the chapter. Other officers elected were Bill Marckoff, Beta Omega, '47, vice-president; Dick Peterson, Beta Omega, '35, treasurer; Bill Mitchell, Beta Omega, '39, secretary.

The first meeting was a dinner December 3, 1947, held at the Marine Memorial Club, San Francisco. Daniel W. Ferguson, Gamma Alpha, '09, President of the Western Division, was our guest of honor and the "piece de resistance" was the presentation of a Distinguished Service Chapter Citation to Dr. Frank L. Kelly, who for thirteen years has been chapter adviser of Beta Omega and is affectionately known as "Spi." This presentation was very ably made by vice-president of the Western Division H. J. Jepsen, Beta Rho, '20, and Gamma Alpha, '23. Reports by the president of Beta Rho, Don Zappettini, and the president of Beta Omega, Charles Dole, Jr., were presented to the alumni chapter. The meeting was a great joy to the eighty-five members there assembled and adjournment was preceded by singing and a Walk-Around led by Jud Crary, Beta Rho, '03.

The second meeting was a luncheon held at the Marine Memorial Club on Wednesday, January 28, 1948. Chairman of this meeting was D. P. "Pod" Boothe, Beta Rho, '31. An extremely interesting talk was given by Brutus Hamilton, Gamma Kappa, '22, director of athletics and track coach at the University of California. About forty Delt alumni were in attendance and we were happy to see so many new faces. At this time Jerry McKenna, Beta Omega, '23, was elected vice-president to succeed Bill Marckoff, who moved to Southern California.

A Founders Day dinner on March 9 was the occasion for our third celebration and was also held at the Marine Memorial Club. This was a joint meeting with the Oakland alumni group, fathered by Sterling J. Tipton, Gamma Zeta, '22, Beta Omega, '23, and now so well led by Al Horn, Beta Omega, '35. The first rain in a decade in California, the championship play-off between University of Washington and University of California, plus the Stock Exchange Formal combined to hold down our attendance to a mere 70. What we lacked in numbers was made up in enthusiasm, as after the dinner and the introduction of the chapter presidents, Milt Walkup of Beta Rho and Ron Naess of Beta Omega, a radio was procured and our meeting continued far into the evening. Al Horn, Bill Gay, Beta Omega, '13, and Pod Boothe did yeoman work assisting the officers for this meeting.

Our fourth meeting was held at the Beta Rho house on the Stanford campus on March 24 and was in the form of a dinner and a smoker. Stanford was in adjournment for Easter vacation, but arrangements were made for a cook, etc. Our honored guests were President G. Herbert McCracken and Executive Vice-President Hugh Shields. Seventy-four alumni and one active heard a stirring address by President Herb McCracken. Songs were ably led by the golden-voiced tenor Tom Howard, Beta Rho, '43. Prize for the longest distance travelled went to Dick Phinney, Delta Mu, '40, and his contingent of Delbert Jeffers, Beta Beta, '33; Talbert Josselyn, Beta Rho and Beta Omega, '10; Commander Boord, Beta Psi, '40; and Gustave Moller, Beta Omega, '15, who came up from Monterey and Carmel. This meeting was held on the spur of the moment and our hard-working president wants to pay his respects to Jud Crary, Bill Kratt, Gamma Rho, '29, Bob and Henry Plate, Bob Kennedy, Fred Glover, Ed Johnson, Bill Jess, and Jack Brenner, all Beta Rho, '33 to '45, for their loyalty and their hard work. This meeting was a big success, and because of its different geographical location, many Delt alumni south of San Francisco attended a meeting for the first time in years.

The officers of the revitalized San Francisco chapter are to be highly congratulated for turning out a total of almost 200 different Delts at the four meetings. Thirty-six different chapters have been represented. The award at the first meeting by the Western Division President, Dan Ferguson, to John Twelvetrees was a very fine gesture and one that our entire organization takes pride in.

The next affair planned is a luncheon at the Marine Memorial Club, June 17, 1948, in honor of the graduating seniors from California and Stanford who are planning to settle in the Bay Area. The Oakland Alumni Chapter will probably hold such a luncheon the same week. All alumni please note the date and plan to attend one of these.

EMMONS W. COOGAN

Seattle

Winter activity of the Seattle Alumni Chapter was dimaxed by the Founders Day banquet which was held March 19 at Seattle's Rainier Club. This event was more than a routine observance of Founders Day for Northwest Delts, for it was also the formal celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the founding of Gamma Mu Chapter at the University of Washington. Such being the case, a considerable part of the program was devoted to the observance of Gamma Mu's fortieth birthday and charter members of the chapter were the honor guests.

Northwest Delts were indeed fortunate to hear as guest speaker for this meeting Fraternity President G. Herbert McCracken, who was in the Northwest in connection with the installation of Delta Rho Chapter at Whitman College. Dan Ferguson, President of the Western Division, also attended the banquet and all concerned were happy to renew old acquaintances and to be able to spend some time with our national officers. The meeting was a gala, rapid-fire affair in all respects, and it was regretted that both Herb and Dan had to leave on a relatively early train for Walla Walla.

John J. Sullivan, prominent Seattle Delt and charter member of Gamma Mu Chapter, represented the charter members and spoke of the early days of the chapter. He particularly called our attention to the many fine Delts from schools all over the country who were in the area prior to the founding in 1908 and who were responsible in large part for the establishment of the chapter. Brother Sullivan's remarks recalled many fine traditions and a good deal of forgotten history to older alumni present and breathed new life into that part of the Fraternity's history dealing with the University of Washington for the younger Delts.

Tom Sill handled all arrangements for the Founders Day banquet and is to be congratulated on doing a splendid job.

The year's activities will be wound up during the next few months with the Washington chapter's spring formal dinner-dance and the annual Alumni Golf Picnic as the two high lights. The active chapter's idea of issuing a general invitation to all Delts to attend the spring formal was so well received last year that the same arrangements have been made again this year. Needless to say, the alumni appreciate it.

Details on the annual Golf Picnic are not available at this writing, but this event has had such a successful history and features such an array of traditional matches, awards, teams, and competition, not to mention plenty of nineteenth hole fellowship, that little else need be said.

Election of officers will take place at the June meeting of the chapter in accordance with newly established procedure to enable alumni chapter officers to co-ordinate better their activities with the active chapters in the area.

The Seattle Alumni Chapter wishes to extend every best wish to our newest chapter, Delta Rho at Whitman College. Seattle Delts have been keenly interested in the installation of this chapter and look forward to becoming better acquainted with the new actives. We feel we will be able to offer a good deal of concrete support when summer rushing gets under way, and we look forward to visiting the new chapter. Best of good wishes and good luck to Delta Rho Chapter!

JOHN R. NELSON

Spokane

Of outstanding interest to the Delts in Spokane was the installation of Delta Rho at Whitman College in Walla Walla, Washington March 20 and 21. Several brothers who attended are Robert Wert, George Fyhrie, and Robert T. Greene.

During the installation banquet, Brother Greene made the announcement of a gift of a piano from the Spokane alumni to the new chapter.

Brother Al Kiser, Idaho, was married at Moscow, Idaho, last month to Eleanor Andrew. Al is with Standard Oil Company. He and his bride will live in Spokane.

Our monthly luncheons continue on the last Wednesday of each month at the Spokane Hotel, which we invite all brothers in the territory to attend.

ROBERT T. GREENE

Syracuse

The Syracuse Alumni Chapter has been hard at work on the reactivation program for Gamma Omicron at Syracuse University; therefore, our social activities have been curtailed. However, a Founders Day banquet is planned for April 9, at which time a large turnout is expected. Dave Reeder will be our principal speaker, and we are all looking forward to the occasion, at which time the undergraduates who have been pledged to date will be presented to the alumni group and acquainted with some of our ideals.

The housing of the new chapter is no longer a problem and by September, when Syracuse University opens, we anticipate that Gamma Omicron can swing into full activity with the best on the campus.

ERNEST R. DEMING, JR.

Topeka

The Topeka, Kansas, Alumni Chapter carries on with regular meetings the first Tuesday of each month, and with an average attendance of twenty to twenty-five members present. We have lost a few members who have been transferred out of Topeka, but we have picked up some new Delts who are locating here and will soon celebrate our first year's anniversary since the Topeka chapter was reorganized.

Gail Wilson, Kansas, is in charge of the program and has been providing some interesting speakers, one of which gave us a full account of the Orange Bowl game at Miami. Other talks have been on housing, new construction, home financing, and title insurance.

Our vice-president, Mike Oberhelman, has been in demand as a basketball referee in the Big Seven and Missouri Valley conference.

At our last meeting a committee was appointed to check on high school graduates from Topeka and near-by towns, looking for good prospective Delts.

We plan a spring party, probably in May, and are hoping that we can be represented at the Karnea in August.

One of our good members, Phil C. Ehly, has moved to Amarillo, Texas, as manager of the Gibbs Clothing Company there. We miss him in Topeka.

FRANK F. HOGUELAND.

Tulsa

The Tulsa chapter gave its annual pre-Easter dance on Saturday night, March 27, in the Topaz Room of the Hotel Tulsa. In years prior to the war, this dance was an annual event opening the spring season. However, this function was discontinued in 1942. The 1948 dance was a huge success, with an attendance of more than 400 actives, pledges, and alumni.

At the annual election of officers in January, the new officers installed were Bob Bates, president; Bob Jones, vice-president; Paul Fielding, treasurer; Jack Harlow, secretary.

New members of our group include Phalos Scott, Carl King, and Ben Hatcher from Oklahoma; F. A. Nance from Tennessee; and Keith Frazier from Kansas.

The next function of the Tulsa group will be a joint party in Norman for rushees of Delta Alpha.

Delt Chapters

rice Paulsen, Delt senior at the University of Idaho and prolific playwright.

In addition to regularly heavy academic schedules that have permitted him to complete four years' work in three, Paulsen writes and produces a play a week for his "Paulsen Playhouse" over campus station KUOI, has a full-length play, a novel, and several magazine articles in progress at the same time, and edits Blot, the campus magazine. This publication he founded two years ago and carried on under his own financing until the ASUI provided for it permanently in its constitution last fall. He is now training another Delt, Walt Jain, to step into the editor's shoes next fall.

Paulsen is also one of the leading actors in University dramatic productions. He directed an all-Delt cast in one of six one-act plays for public performance this spring.

His first three-act play was produced when he was a senior in high school at Sioux Falls, S. D., and he has been going strong ever since. His third, the psychological thriller Sorcery, was presented by the high school of Lapwai, Idaho, in April, 1947, and his latest, the mystery-comedy This'll Killya, was presented by the Elk River, Idaho, high school last month.

Recently awarded a Blue Key for campus leadership and qualifying for Phi Beta Kappa in May, the indefatigable writer is looking forward to graduate work at the Yale School of Drama next fall.

Delta Nu—Lawrence

Shortly before the Easter recess, Delta Nu was privileged to have Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes pay a visit to the Shelter. Bishop Hughes, in the Lawrence area in connection with his duties in the Methodist Church, stopped at the house one noon for luncheon.

An amazingly spry man for his eighty-one years, the Bishop gave the gathered alumni and undergraduates an anecdotal account of his own undergraduate days as a Delt at Ohio Wesleyan.

Alumni Book Planned

Alumni relations at Delta Nu have been given a much needed shot in the arm by Chapter President Scott Hunsberger. With several smokers and a pair of alumni dinners already given at the house, attention is now being directed toward completion of a special alumni book. The book, scheduled to be off the press before the end of the semester, will be a thirty-page affair, complete with pictures, containing information of interest to every alumnus of the Lawrence chapter.

Delta Xi—North Dakota

James R. Gessner of Delta Xi Chapter was recently elected president of Beta Alpha Psi, national accounting fraternity, at the University of North Dakota. Jim is a junior in the school of commerce.

Flickertail Follies

Delta Xi Chapter's "Radio Varieties" was one of the twelve acts accepted for presentation in the 1948 Flickertail Follies, all-campus variety show at the University of North Dakota, sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity. The amateur production is scheduled for May 3 and 4 in the Grand Forks High School auditorium. Ronald Fett, journalist, is in charge of the publicity and program committee for the two-day affair.

Delta Omicron—Westminster

Delta Omicron initiated ten members of the 1947 pledge class February 29. John Altheide, of Normandy, Missouri, served as president; Ed Frahm, Richmond Heights, led scholastically with a 93.33 average; and Jim Moorman, Carthage, was voted the outstanding pledge.

Spring Sports

Spring sports have taken a prominent place in campus activity now, and the Delts will be well represented on the Blue Jay teams. Captain Howard Whiteway, last year's M. C. A. U. golf titlist, is back to lead Westminster's conference champions.

The track team will be bolstered by President Paul Titus in the hurdle events, while Bob Schroeder is expected to repeat his fine performance of last year with the tennis squad.

The past basketball season was successful. Delts placed second in the intramural league and first in the "Carver Invitational Tournament." The team was paced by Schroeder, Whiteway, and Bill Adams, with Schroeder being named to the all-star intramural quintet.

Delta Pi—U. S. C.

It was a cold night on Wilshire Boulevard and all the Delts were there. The occasion was the initiation of twelve men into the Delta Pi Chapter.

It was an eventful evening for all the men, including the initiates and older actives. Brother Nat Fitts, Los Angeles Alumni Chapter, gave a most inspiring talk about Alexander Earle, one of the founders of the Fraternity, and presented a poem which Earle had written in his own handwriting. It brought young and old members a tangible acquaintance with the founding of the brotherhood.

Delta Pi President Jim Wood shared the head table with Adviser Rod Hansen and Initiate President Doug MacDonald. Bill Warfield led the men in some rowdy-dowdy songs, and the group retired to the Delt Shelter for study time.

Shelter Improvements

The Delta Pi chapter house is shaping up into a Shelter that everyone on campus is proud of. The addition of the "Delta Cella" was reviewed in the local humor magazine and has obtained a good deal of publicity on the Row.

The cellar job was inspired by Sam Spence, Ollie Mitchell, Chuck Goodspeed, and Bill Saunders. Pink elephants adorn the walls along with portraits of the house's two football greats, Jay Perrin and Jim Snyder.

Other improvements include a volleyball court which was laid out by Harry Anderson, football luminary, and Don Sacre. Besides volleyball, the house has facilities for ping-pong, tennis, and baseball.
