What you will be doing

You will be learning from and working with an excellent calibre of colleague and best practice quality systems. Our aspirations for you go far beyond obtaining a professional qualification. Our hands on approach means that each trainee is given significant responsibility from day one and are fully supported by the Firm's management team and in particular through direct on the job experience with the Partners.

Typical services provided to EisnerAmper Ireland clients include:

- Corporate audit, accounting, company secretarial and compliance services;
- Tax compliance services;
- Outsourcing services to foreign inward investment clients;
- Regulatory inspections and forensic work;
- Governance and compliance advisory; and
- Business advisory services.

You will get the chance at the interview to meet current trainees who will answer your questions and share their stories about life in the Firm.

Your development

Your development is our future and our approach to education and training reflects that. Education & training is so integral to our business that it is one of the professional services we offer clients such as law firms and banks.

We provide continuous coaching and training to develop our people into business advisors and professional practitioners.

Training programs include:

- monthly in-house learning afternoons;
- 2 day internal technical training sessions in December;
- offsite training day in March; and
- 2 day residential training course in November.

There is a strong coaching atmosphere within the Firm, where senior staff offer advice and support (through buddy systems) to trainees over the course of their training contracts. Partners are closely involved in the CAI Training, Audit and Assurance, QAC Committees and lecture on the FAE.

The culture of the Firm is represented by the hardworking, candid, commercial, can do, ambitious and principled approach of its staff. Through the Firm's "Integrated Personal Development Framework" you will manage your own development and learn a lot more about what we call "The Art of Practice". The development framework will require post engagement reviews in addition to bi-annual self-appraisal meetings and career planning sessions with Senior Management.
