

Death Of A Nun

Original title: Dood van een non

When Sabine Arnauld is told she'll be spending the rest of her life in a wheelchair, she asks God to let her walk again. In return she'll enter a convent the following year. When she's cured, she can't keep her promise to God because she fell in love and got married. After a series of fatal events, she decides to fulfill her promise and enters a convent. But life in the convent doesn't bring her inner peace. And after an argument with mother superior, she decides to leave for India, where her sister lives. There she discovers the richness of oriental wisdom. Based on the work of Maria Rosseels
