WILLIAM A. DUER, LL.D

PRESIDENT OF COLUMBIA COLLEGE IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK,

THIS LITTLE WORK

IS INSCRIBED

AS A TRIBUTE OF RESPECT

FOR DISTINGUISHED TALENTS AND UNBLEMISHED INTEGRITY.

PREFACE.

THE Latin Reader, now offered to the public, forms part of a work well known in Germany, under the title of "Lateinisches Elementarbuch zum öffentlichen und Privat-Gebrauche von Friedrich Jacobs und Friedrich Wilhelm Döring." The German edition consists of six parts, of which the 1st and 2nd are comprised in this volume. The 3rd contains extracts from Caesar, Curtius Rufus, Livy, Sallust, and Tacitus; the 4th is made up of excerpts from Cicero's Epistles and Orations; the 5th is composed of selections from Ovid, Martial, and the Anthologia Latina; and the 6th embraces parts of Catullus, Tibullus, Propertius, Lucretius, Virgil, and Seneca. As this little book is intended merely to give the learner such an acquaintance with the fundamental principles of the Latin language as will enable him to enter with advantage upon the study of the preparatory course for our College, it has been deemed advisable to omit the contents of the last four volumes. A part of them is contained in the course for entrance, and the rest is too difficult for mere beginners.

It may be necessary here to state the reason for publishing a New York edition, when one has already been issued from the Boston press. It will be readily acknowledged, that if the assistance of notes is necessary to the learner in Germany, where the advantages in classical instruction are incomparably greater than in our country, they are much more requisite to the American pupil. It has been the object of the editor, therefore, to supply this deficiency in the previous American editions. Most of the Notes have been translated from the German; others have been supplied, which the superior state of instruction on the Continent would render unnecessary there.

It is hoped that this little work may be found serviceable to those who use it, and contribute in some degree to the advancement of sound elementary education.

* Three things are required to constitute a proposition, i. e. the subject, the predicate, and the copula.

The subject is that concerning which any thing is affirmed or denied; so in the proposition, Terra est rotunda, Terra is the subject.

The predicate (prædicō; āre;) is that which is affirmed or denied of the subject; so rotunda is the predicate of the above-mentioned proposition, since it is declared or affirmed of the earth that it is round.

The copula is the form of a proposition; it represents the act of the mind affirming, or denying, and accordingly joins or disjoins the terms or ideas which constitute the proposition, or, in other words, the subject and predicate: so, in the phrase quoted, est is the copula, since it joins the subject, terra, with the predicate, rotunda. In the phrase, Vera amicitia est sempiterna, vera amicitia is the subject, sempiterna the predicate, and est the copula. Maximum animal terrestre est elephas; elephas is the subject, maximum animal terrestre, the predicate, and est the copula.

ritatem et speciem sunt mirabiles. Servi parent propter metum, boni propter officium. Navigatio juxta litus saepe est periculosa.

capere noluit, inediaque confectus est. Regis Lysimăchi canis, corpore domini accensae pyrae imposito, in flammam se conjecit. Nicomēde rege interfecto, equus ejus vitam finivit inedia. Chilo, unus e septem sapientibus, filiō victore¹ Olympiae, prae gaudio expiravit. Apes, aculeo amisso, statim emōri existimantur. Eaedam, rege interfecto aut morbo consumto, fame luctuque moriuntur. Pavo, caua amissa pudibundus ac moerens quaerit latēbram. Erinacei, ubi sensēre venantem, contracto ore pedibusque convolvuntur² in formam pilae, ne quid comprehendi possit praeter aculeos. Anaxagōram nuntiata morte filii dixisse ferunt: sciebam me genuisse mortalem.

II. FABLES FROM ÆSOP.

1. Accipiter et Columbae.

Columbae milvii metu¹ accipitrem rogaverunt, ut eas defenderet. Ille annuit. At in columbare receptus,² uno die majorem stragem edidit, quam milvius longo tempore potuisset edere.—Fabula docet, malorum patrocinium vitandum esse.

2. Mus et Milvius.

Milvius laqueis irretitus musculum exoravit,³ ut eum corrosis plagis⁴ liberaret. Quo facto,⁵ milvius liberatus murem arripuit et devoravit.—Haec fabula ostendit, quam gratiam mali pro beneficiis reddere soleant.⁶

3. Hoedus et Lupus.

Hoedus stans in tecto domūs lupo praetereunti⁷ maledixit. Cui⁸ lupo, *non tu, inquit, sed tectum mihi maledicit.*⁹—Saepe locus et tempus homines timidos audaces reddit.

4. Grus et Pavo.

Pavo coram grue pennas suas explicans, quanta est, inquit, formositas mea et tua deformitas! At grus evölans, et quanta est, inquit, levitas mea et tua tarditas!—Monet haec fabula, ne ob aliquod bonum, quod nobis natura tribuit, alios contemnamus, quibus natura alia et fortasse majora dedit.

5. Pavo.

Pavo graviter conquerebatur apud Junōnem,¹⁰ dominam suam, quod¹¹ vocis suavitas sibi negata esset,¹² dum luscinia, avis tam parum decōra, cantu excellat.¹² Cui Juno, *et merito, inquit; nōn enim*¹³ omnia bona in unum conferrī oportuit.

6. Anseres et Grues.

In eodem quondam prato pascebantur anseres et grues. Adveniente domino prati,¹⁴ grues facile avolabant; sed anseres, im-pediti corporis gravitate, deprehensi et mactati sunt.—Sic saepe pauperes cum potentioribus in eodem crimine deprehensi, soli dant poenam, dum illi salvi evādunt.

7. Capra et Lupus.

Lupus capram in alta rupe stantem conspicatus, cur non, inquit, relinquis nuda illa et sterilia loca, et huc descendis in herbidos campos, qui tibi laetum pabulum offerunt? Cui¹ respondit capra: mihi non est in animo,² dulcia tutis³ praeponere.

8. Venter et Membra.

Membra quondam dicebant ventri: nosne⁴ te semper ministerio nostro alemus, dum ipse summo otio fruëris?⁵ Non faciemus. Dum igitur ventri cibum subducunt, corpus debilitatur, et membra sero invidiae suae poenituit.⁶

9. Canis et Boves.

Canis jacebat in praesēpi bovesque latrando⁷ a pabulo arcebat. Cui unus boum, quanta ista, inquit, invidia est, quod⁸ non patëris, ut eo cibo vescamur,⁹ quem tu ipse capere nec velis nec possis!¹⁰—Haec fabula invidiae indolem declārat.

10. Vulpes et Leo.

Vulpes, quae nunquam leonem viderat, quum ei forte occurrisset leo, ita est perterrita, ut paene moreretur formidine. Eundem¹¹ conspicata¹² iterum, timuit quidem, sed nequaquam ut antea. Tertio illi obviam facta,¹² ausa est¹³ etiam propius accedere, eumque allōqui.

11. Cancrī.

Cancer dicebat filio: mi fili, ne sic obliquis semper gressibus incede, sed recta via¹⁴ perge. Cui¹⁵ ille, mi pater, respondit, libenter tuis praeceptis obsēquar, si te prius idem facientem¹⁶ videro.¹⁷—Docet haec fabula, adolescentiam nulla re magis, quam exemplis, instrui.

12. Boves.

In eodem prato pascebantur tres boves in maxima concordia, et sic¹⁸ ab omni ferarum incursione tuti erant. Sed dissidio inter illos orto,¹⁹ singuli a feris petiti et laniati sunt.—Fa-bula docet, quantum boni²⁰ sit²¹ concordia.

13. Asinus.

Asinus, pelle leonis indutus, territabat homines et bestias, tanquam leo esset.¹ Sed forte, dum se celerius movet, aures eminebant: unde agnitus,² in pistrinum abductus est, ubi poenas petulantiae dedit.—Haec fabula stolidos notat, qui immeritis honoribus superbiunt.

14. Mulier et Gallina.

Mulier quaedam habebat gallinam, quae ei quotidie ovum pariebat aureum. Hinc suspicari coepit, illam³ auri massam intus celare, et gallinam occidit. Sed nihil in ea reperit, nisi quod in aliis gallinis reperiri solet. Itaque dum maioribus divitiis inhiabat, etiam minores perdidit.

15. Viatores et Asinus.

Duo qui una⁴ iter faciebant, asinum oberrantem in solitudine conspicati, accurrunt laeti,⁵ et uterque eum sibi vindicare coepit, quod eum prior⁵ conspexisset.⁶ Dum vero contendunt⁷ et rixantur, nec a verberibus abstinent, asinus aufugit, et neuter eo potitur.

16. Corvus et Lupi.

Corvus partem praedae petebat a lupis, quod eos totum diem comitatus esset.⁸ Cui illi, non tu nos, inquit, sed praedam sectatus es, idque⁹ eo animo ut ne nostris quidem corporibus¹⁰ parceres, si exanimarentur.

Merito in actionibus non spectatur, quid fiat,¹¹ sed quo animo fiat.

17. Pastores et Lupus.

Pastores caesa ove convivium celebrabant. Quod quum¹² lupus cerneret, ego, inquit, si agnum rapuissem, quantus tumultus fieret! At isti impune ovem comedunt! Tum unus illorum, nos enim¹³ inquit, nostra, non aliena ove epulamur.

18. Carbonarius et Fullo.

Carbonarius, qui spatiosam habebat domum, invitavit fullo-nem, ut ad se commigraret. Ille respondit: quaenam inter nos esse possit societas? quum tu vestes, quas ego nitidas¹⁴ red- didissem,¹ fuligine et maculis inquinaturus esses.—Haec fabula docet, dissimilia non debere conjungi.

19. Tubicen.

Tubicen ab hostibus captus, *ne me, inquit, interficite;*² nam inermis sum, neque quidquam habeo praeter hanc tubam. At hostes, *propter hoc ipsum,*³ *inquiunt, te interimemus; quod, quum ipse pugnandi sis imperitus,*⁴ alios ad pugnam incitare soles.—Fabula docet, non solum maleficos esse puniendos, sed etiam eos, qui alios ad male faciendum irritent.⁵

20. Accipitres et Columbae.

Accipitres quondam acerrime inter se belligerabant. Hos columbae in gratiam reducere conatae effecerunt, ut illi pacem inter se facerent. Qua firmata, accipitres vim suam in ipsas columbas converterunt.—Haec fabula docet, potentiorum discordias imbecillioribus saepe prodesse.

21. Mulier et Gallina.

Mulier vidua gallinam habebat, quae ei quotidie unum ovum pariebat. Illa existimabat, si gallinam diligentius saginaret, fore, ut illa bina aut terna⁶ ova quotidie pareret.⁷ Quum autem cibo superfluo gallina pinguis esset facta, plane ova parere desiit.—Haec fabula docet, avaritiam saepe damnosam esse.

22. Vulpes et Uva.

Vulpes uvam in vite conspicata, ad illam subsiliit omnium virium suarum contentione, si eam forte attingere posset. Tandem defatigata inani labore, discedens dixit: at⁸ nunc etiam⁹ acerbae sunt, nec eas in via repertas tollerem. Haec fabula docet, multos ea contemnere, quae¹⁰ se assèqui posse despèrent.¹¹

23. Vulpes et Leaena.

Vulpes leaenam exprobrabat, quod non nisi unum catulum pareret. Huic dicitur respondisse,¹² unum, sed leonem.—Haec fabula, non copiam, sed bonitatem rerum aestimandam esse, docet.

24. Mures.

Mures aliquando habuerunt consilium, quomodo a fele caverent.¹ Multis aliis propositis,² omnibus placuit, ut ei tintinnabulum annecteretur: sic enim ipsos,³ sonitu admonitos, eam fugere posse. Sed quum jam inter mures quaereretur, qui feli tintinnabulum annecteret, nemo repertus est.—Fabula docet, in suadendo plurimos esse audaces, sed in ipso periculo timidos.

25. Canis Mordax.

Canis mordaci paterfamilias jussit tintinnabulum ex aere appendi,⁴ ut omnes eum cavere possent. Ille vero aeris tinnitu gaudebat, et quasi virtutis suae praemium esset,⁵ alios canes prae se contemnere coepit. Cui unus senior, *o te stolidum,*⁶ inquit, *qui ignorare videris,*⁷ isto tinnitu pravitatem morum tuorum indicari!—Haec fabula scripta est in eos, qui sibi insignibus flagitiorum suorum placent.⁸

26. Canis et Lupis.

Lupus canem videns bene saginatum, quanta est, inquit, felicitas tua! Tu, ut videtur, laute vivis, at ego fame enecor. Tum canis, licet, inquit, *mecum in urbem venias et eadem felicitate fruaris.*⁹ Lupus conditionem accepit. Dum una eunt, animadvertit lupus in collo canis attritos pilos. Quid hoc est? inquit. Num jugum sustines? cervix enim tua tota est glabra. Nihil est, canis respondit. Sed interdum me alligant, ut noctu sim vigilantior; atque haec sunt vestigia collaris, quod cervici circumdari solet. Tum lupus, vale, inquit, *amice! nihil moror*¹⁰ felicitatem servitutē emtam!—Haec fabula docet, liberis nullum commodum tanti esse,¹¹ quod servitutis calamitatem compensare possit.¹²

27. Lupus et Grus.

In faucibus lupi os inhaeserat. Mercede igitur condūcit¹³ gruem, qui illud extrahat.¹⁴ Hoc grus longitudine colli facile effecit. Quum autem mercedem postularet, subridens lupus et dentibus infrendens, num tibi, inquit, parva merces videtur, quod caput incolome ex lupi faucibus extraxisti?

audivisset. At illæ, diuturno labore fatigatæ, statuerunt gal-lum interficere. Quo facto,¹ deteriore conditione² quam prius esse coeperunt. Nam domina, de hora noctis incerta,³ nunc famulas sæpe jam prima nocte⁴ excitabat.

33. Testudo et Aquila.

Testudo aquilam magnopere orabat, ut sese⁵ volare⁶ do-ceret. Aquila ei ostendebat quidem, eam rem petere naturæ suæ contrariam; sed illa nihilo minus instabat, et obsecrabat aquilam, ut se volucrem facere vellet. Itaque unguis arrep-tam aquila sustulit⁷ in sublime, et demisit illam, ut per aërem ferretur. Tum in saxa incidens comminuta interiit.⁸ Haec fabula docet, multos cupiditatibus suis occoecatos consilia prudentiorum respuere, et in exitium ruere stultitia sua.

34. Luscinia et Accipiter.

Accipiter esuriens rapuit lusciniam. Quæ quum⁹ intelli-geret, sibi mortem impendēre, ad preces conversa, orat accipitrem, ne se¹⁰ perdat sine causa. Se enim avidissimum ventrem illius non posse explere, et suadēre adeo, ut grandiores aliquas volūcres venetur.¹¹ Cui accipiter,¹² insanirem, inquit, si par-tam prædam¹³ amittere, et incerta pro certis sectari vellem.

35. Senex et Mors.

Senex in silva ligna ceciderat, iisque sublatis¹⁴ domum¹⁵ re-dire coepit. Quum aliquantum viae¹⁶ progressus esset, et onere et¹⁷ via defatigatus,¹⁸ fascem deposuit, et secum aetatis et inopiae mala contemplatus, Mortem clara voce invocat, quæ ipsum ab omnibus his malis liberet.¹⁹ Tum Mors, senis precibus auditis subito adstitit, et quid vellet, percunctatur.
At Senex, quem jam votorum suorum poenitebat,²⁰ nihil, inquit, sed requiro,²¹ qui onus paululum allevet,²² dum ego rursus subeo.

36. Inimici.

In eādam navi vehebantur duo, qui inter se capitalia odia exercebant. Unus eorum in prora, alter in puppi residebat.
Orta tempestate ingenti, quum omnes de vita desperarent, interrogat is, qui in puppi sedebat, gubernatorem, utram par- tem navis prius submersum iri¹ existimaret.² Cui gubernator, proram, respondit. Tum ille, jam mors mihi non molesta est, quum inimici mei mortem adspecturus sim.

37. Hinnuleus et Cervus.

Hinnuleus quondam patrem suum his verbis interrogasse dicitur: Mi pater, quum multo sis major canibus³ et tam ardua cornua habeas, quibus a te vim propulsare possis,⁴ qui fit,⁵ ut canes tantopere metuas? Ibi cervus ridens, mi nate, inquit, vera memoras; mihi tamen, nescio quo pacto, semper accidit, ut, audita canum voce, in fugam statim convertar.—Haec fabula docet, natura formidolosos⁶ nullis rationibus fortes reddi posse.

38. Hoedus et Lupus.

Quum hoedus evasisset lupum et confugisset in caulam ovium, quid tu, stulte, inquit ille,⁷ hic te salvum futurum⁸ speras, ubi⁹ quotidie pecudes rapi et diis mactari videas? Non curo, inquit hoedus; nam si moriendum sit,¹⁰ quanto praeclarius mihi erit, meo cruore aspergi¹¹ aras deorum immortalium, quam irrigari siccas lupi fauces.—Haec fabula docet, bonos mortem, quae omnibus imminet, non timere, si cum honestate et laude conjuncta sit.

39. Corvus et Vulpes.

Corvus alicunde caseum rapuerat, et cum illo in altam arborem subvolarat. Vulpecula, illum caseum appetens, corvum blandis verbis adoritur; quumque primum formam ejus pennarumque nitorem laudasset, pol,¹² inquit, te avium regem esse dicerem, si cantus pulchritudini tuae responderet. Tum ille, laudibus vulpis inflatus, etiam cantu se valere demonstrare voluit. Ita vero e rostro aperto caseus delapsus est, quem vulpes arreptum devoravit.¹³—Haec fabula docet, vitandas esse adulatorum voces, qui blanditiis suis nobis insidiantur.

40. Leo.

Societatem junxerant Leo, Juvenca, Capra, Ovis. Praeda autem, quam ceperant, in quatuor partes aequales divisa,¹⁴ leo, prima, ait, mea est; debetur enim haec praestantiae meae. Tollam et secundam, quam meretur robur meum.

Tertiam vindicat sibi egregius labor meus.¹ Quartam qui sibi arrogare voluerit,² is sciat, se habiturum me inimicum sibi. Quid facerent imbecilles bestiae, aut quae³ sibi leonem infestum habere vellet?

41. Mus et Rusticus.

Mus a Rustico in caricarum acervo deprehensus, tam acri morsu ejus digitos vulneravit, ut ille eum dimitteret, dicens: nihil, mehercule, tam pusillum est, quod de salute desperare debeat,⁴ modo⁵ se defendere et vim depulsare velit.

42. Vultur et Aviculae.

Vultur aliquando aviculas invitavit ad convivium, quod illis daturus esset⁶ die natali suo. Quae⁷ quum ad tempus adessent, eas carpere et occidere, epulasque sibi de invitatis instruere coepit.

43. Ranae.

Ranae laetabantur, quum nuntiatum esset, Solem uxorem duxisse. Sed una caeteris⁸ prudentior, *O vos stolidos!*⁹ inquit; *nonne meministis, quantopere vos saepe unius Solis aestus excruciet?*¹⁰ Quid igitur fiet, quum liberos etiam procreaverit?

44. Ranae et Jupiter.

Ranae aliquando regem sibi a Jove petivisse dicuntur.¹¹ Quarum¹² ille precibus exoratus trabem ingentem in lacum dejecit. Ranae sonitu perterritae primum refugere, deinde vero, trabem in aqua natantem conspicatae, magno cum contemptu in ea consederunt aliumque sibi novis clamoribus regem expetiverunt. Tum Jupiter, earum stultitiam puniturus,¹³ hydram illis misit, a quo¹⁴ quum plurimae captae perirent, sero eas stolidarum precum poenitur.¹⁵

45. Lupi et Pastores.

Quum Philippus, rex Macedoniae, cum Atheniensibus foedus initurus esset, ea conditione, ut oratores suos¹⁶ ipsi traderent, Demosthenes¹⁷ populo narravit fabulam, qua¹⁸ iis calidum regis consilium ante oculos poneret. Dixit enim, lupos quondam cum pastoribus pactos esse, se nunquam in posterum greges esse impugnatos, si canes ipsis dederen-

tur. Placuisse stultis pastoribus conditionem; sed quum lupi caulas excubiis nudatas vidissent, eos impetu facto¹ omnem gregem dilaniasse.

46. Puer mendax.

Puer oves pascens crebro per lusum magnis clamoribus opem rusticorum imploraveret, lupos gregem suum aggressos esse fingens. Saepe autem frustratus² eos, qui auxilium latūri advenerant, tandem lupo revēra irruente³ multis cum lacrymis vicinos orare coepit,⁴ ut sibi et gregi subvenirent. At illi eum pariter ut antea ludere existimantes, preces ejus et lacrymas neglexerunt, ita ut lopus libere in oves grassaretur, plurimasque earum dilaniaret.

47. Corvus.

Corvus, qui caseum forte repererat, gaudium alta voce significavit. Quo sono⁵ allecti⁶ plures corvi famelici advolaverunt, impetuque in illum facto,⁷ opimam ei dapem eripuerunt.

48. Cornix et Columba.

Cornix columbae gratulabatur foecunditatem, quod singulis mensibus pullos excluderet. At illa, ne mei, inquit, doloris causam commemores. Nam quos pullos edūco, eos⁸ dominus raptos aut ipse comēdit, aut aliis comedendos⁹ vendit. Ita mihi mea foecunditas novum semper luctum parit.

49. Leo, Asinus et Vulpes.

Vulpes, asinus et leo venatum¹⁰ iverant. Ampla praeda facta, leo asinum illam partiri jubet. Qui quum singulis singulas partes poneret aequales, leo eum correptum¹¹ dilaniavit, et vulpeculae partiendi negotium¹² tribuit. Illa astutior,¹³ leoni partem maximam apposuit, sibi vix minimam reservans particulam. Tum leo subridens ejus prudentiam laudare,¹⁴ et unde hoc didicerit,¹⁵ interrogare coepit. Et vulpes, Hujus¹⁶ me, inquit, calamitas docuit, quid minores potentioribus debeant.

50. Muscae.

Effusa mellis copia est: Muscae advolant
 Pascuntur. At Mox impeditis cruribus
 Revolare nequeunt. Heu miseram, inquit, vicem!¹
 Cibus iste blandus, qui pellexit suaviter,
 Nunc fraudulentus² quam crudeliter necat!
 Perfida voluptas³ fabula hac depingitur.

51. Cancer.

Mare cancer olim deseruit, in littore
 Pascendi cupidus.⁴ Vulpes hunc simul⁵ adspici
 Jejuna, simul⁵ accurrit, et praedam capit.
 Nae, dixit ille, jure plector, qui,⁶ salo⁷
 Quum fuerim natus, voluerim solo⁷ ingredi!
 Suus unicuique praefinitus est locus,
 Quem praeterire sine periculo non licet.

52. Culex et Taurus.

In cornu tauri parvulus quondam culex
 Consedit; seque⁸ dixit, mole si sua
 Eum gravaret, avolaturum illico.
 At ille:⁹ nec¹⁰ te considentem¹¹ senseram.

III. MYTHOLOGICAL EXTRACTS.

1. Cadmus, Agenōris filius, quod dracōnem,¹ Martis filium, fontis cujusdam in Boeotia custodem, occiderat, omnem suam proiem² interemtam vidit, et ipse cum Harmonia, uxore sua, in Illyriam³ fugit, ubi ambo in dracones conversi sunt.

2. Amycus, Neptuni filius, rex Bebryciae,⁴ omnes, qui in ejus regna venissent, cogebat caestibus secum contendere, et victos occidebat. Hic quum Argonautas⁵ ad certamen provocasset, Pollux⁶ cum eo contendit et eum interfecit.

3. Otos et Ephialtes, Aloeī filii, mira magnitudine⁷ fuisse dicuntur. Nam singulis mensibus novem digitis⁸ crescebant. Itaque quum essent annorum⁹ novem, in coelum ascendere sunt conati. Huc sibi aditum sic faciebant, ut montem Ossam super Pelion¹⁰ ponerent, aliosque praeterea montes exstruerent. Sed Apollinis sagittis interemti sunt.

4. Daedalus Euphēmi filius, artifex peritissimus, ob caedem Athenis¹¹ commissam, in Cretam abiit ad regem Minōem. Ibi labyrinthum¹² exstruxit. A Minoē aliquando in custodiam conjectus, sibi et Icaro filio alas cera aptavit, et cum eo avolavit. Dum Icarus altius evolabat, cera solis calore liquefacta, in mare decidit, quod ex eo Icarium pelagus¹³ est appellatum; Daedalus autem in Siciliam pervenit.

5. Aesculapius, Apollinis filius, medicus praestantissimus, Hippolyto, Thesēi filio, vitam reddidisse dicitur. Ob id facinus Jupiter eum fulmine percussit. Tum Apollo, quod filii mortem in Jove ulcisci non poterat, Cyclōpes,¹⁴ qui fulmina fecerant, interemit. Ob hoc factum, Apollinem Jupiter Admēto, regi Thessaliae,¹⁵ in servitatem dedit.

6. Alcestim, Peliae filiam; quum multi in matrimonium peterent, Pelias promisit, se filiam ei esse daturum, qui feras currui junxisset. Admetus, qui eam perditam amabat, Apollinem rogavit, ut se in hoc negotio adjuvaret. Is quum ab Admeto, dum ei serviebat, liberaliter esset tractatus, aprum ei et leonem currui junxit, quibus ille Alcestim avexit. Idem gravi morbo implicitus,¹⁶ munus ab Apolline accepit, ut praesens periculum effugeret, si quis¹ sponte pro eo moreretur. Jam quum neque pater, neque mater Admeti pro eo mori voluissent, uxor se Alcestis morti obtulit, quam Hercules,² forte adveniēns, Orci³ manibus eripuit et Admeto reddidit.

7. Cassiōpe⁴ filiae suae Andromēdae formam Nerēidum⁵ formae anteposuit. Ob hoc crimen illae a Neptūno postulaverunt, ut Andromeda ceto immani, quod oras populabatur, objiceretur. Quae quum ad saxum alligata esset, Perseus⁶ ex Libya, ubi Medusam⁷ occiderat, advolavit, et, bellua devicta et interemta, Andromedam liberavit.

8. Quam quum abducere vellet victor,⁸ Agēnor, cui antea desponsata fuerat, Persēo insidias struxit, ut eum interficeret, sponsamque eriperet. Ille, re cognita,⁹ caput Medusae insidiantibus ostendit, quo viso,¹⁰ omnes in saxa mutati sunt. Perseus autem cum Andromeda in patriam¹¹ rediit.

9. Cēyx, Hespēri filius, quum in naufragio periisset, Alcyōne, conjugis morte audita, se in mare praecipitavit. Tum deorum misericordia ambo in aves sunt mutati, quae Alcyōnēs appellantur. Hae aves pariunt hiberno tempore. Per illos dies mare tranquillum esse dicitur; unde nautae tranquillos et serenos dies Alcyonios appellare solent.

10. Tantālus, Jovis filius, tam carus fuit Diis, ut Jupiter ei consilia sua concrederet eumque ad epulas Deorum admitteret. At ille, quae apud Jovem audiverat, cum mortalibus communicabat. Ob id crimen dicitur apud inferos in aqua collocatus esse, semperque sitire. Nam quoties haustum aquae sumturus est, aqua recedit. Tum etiam poma ei super caput pendent; sed quoties ea decerpere conatur, rami vento moti¹² recedunt. Alii saxum ejus capiti impendēre dicunt, cujus ruinam timens, perpetuo metu cruciatur.

11. In nuptiis Pelēi¹³ et Thetidis¹⁴ omnes Dii invitati erant praeter Discordiam. Haec irā commota mālum¹⁵ misit¹⁶ in medium,¹⁷ cui inscripta erant verba; Pulcherrima me habeto. Tum Juno, Venus et Minerva illud simul appetebant; magnāque inter eas discordia exorta, Jupiter Mercurio¹⁸ imperat, ut Deas ad Paridem,¹⁹ Priami filium, duceret, qui in monte Ida²⁰ greges pascebat; hunc earum litem diremturum esse.²¹ Huic Juno, si se pulcherrimam judicasset, omnium terrarum regnum est pollicita; Minerva ei splendidam inter homines famam promisit; Venus autem Helēnam, Ladae et Jovis filiam, se ei in conjugium dare spondit.²² Paris, hoc dono prioribus anteposito,²³ Venerem pulcherrimam esse judicavit. Postea, Veneris hortatu, Lacedaemōnem profectus, Helenam conjugii suo Menelāo²⁴ eripuit. Hinc bellum Trojanum originem cepit, ad

17. Ceres quum nesciret, ubi filia esset, eam per totum orbem terrarum quaesivit. In quo itinere ad Celëum venit, regem Eleusini¹orum, cujus uxor Metanira puerum Triptolëmum pepererat, rogavitque, ut se tanquam nutricem in domum reciperent. Quo facto, quum Ceres alumnum suum immortalem reddere vellet, eum interdium lacte divino alebat, noctu clam igne obruebat.² Itaque mirum in modum crescebat. Quod quum mirarentur parentes, eam observaverunt. Qui quum viderent, Cererem puerum in ignem mittere, pater exclamavit. Tum Dea Celeum exanimavit; Triptolemo autem currum draconibus junctum tribuit, frugesque mandavit, quas³ per orbem terrarum vectus disseminaret.

18. Althaea, Thestii filia, ex Oeneo peperit Meleagrum. Ei Parcae⁴ ardentem titionem dederunt, praefantes, Meleagrum tam diu victurum,⁵ quam diu is titio foret incolumis. Hunc itaque Althaea diligenter in arca clausum servavit. Interim Diana, Oeneo irata, quia ei sacra annua non fecerat, aprum mira magnitudine misit, qui agrum Calydonium⁶ vastaret. Quem Meleager cum juvenibus ex omni Graecia delectis interfecit, pellemque ejus Atalantae⁷ donavit. Cui quum Althaeae fratres eam eripere vellent, illa Meleagri auxilium imploravit, qui avunculos occidit. Tum Althaea, gravi ira in filium commota, titionem illum fatalem in ignem conjecit. Sic Meleager periit. At sorores ejus, dum fratrem insolabiliter lugent, in aves⁸ mutatae sunt.

19. Europam, Agenöris filiam Sidoniam, Jupiter, in taurum mutatus, Sidöne⁹ Cretam¹⁰ transvexit, et ex ea procreavit Minöem, Sarpedönem et Rhadamanthum. Hanc ut reducerent, Agënor filios suos misit, conditione addita,¹¹ ut nec ipsi redirent, nisi sororem invenissent. Horum unus, Cadmus¹² nomine, quum erraret, Delphos¹³ venit, ibique responsum accepit, bovem praecedentem sequeretur;¹⁴ ubi ille decubuisset, ibi urbem conderet. Quod quum faceret, in Boeotiam¹⁵ venit. Ibi aquam quaerens, ad fontem Castalium dracönem¹⁶ invēnit, Martis filium, qui aquam custodiebat. Hunc Cadmus interfecit, dentesque ejus sparsit et aravit.¹⁷ Unde Sparti¹⁸ enati sunt. Pugnâ inter illos exortâ, quinque superfuerunt, ex quibus quinque nobiles Thebanorum¹⁹ stirpes originem duxerunt.

20. Quum Bacchus, Jovis ex Semële filius, exercitum in Indiam duceret, Silënus²⁰ ab agmine aberravit. Quem Midas, rex Mygdoniae,²¹ hospitio liberaliter accepit, eique ducem dedit, qui eum ad Bacchum reduceret. Ob hoc beneficium Bacchus Midas optionem dedit, ut, quidquid vellet, a se peteret. Ille petiit, ut quidquid tetigisset,¹ aurum fieret. Quod quum impetrasset, quidquid tetigerat, aurum fiebat. Primo gavisus est hac virtute sua; mox intellexit, nihil ipsi hoc munere perniciosius esse. Nam etiam cibus et potio in aurum mutabatur. Quum jam fame cruciaretur, petit a Baccho, ut donum suum revocaret. Quem² Bacchus jussit in flumine Pactōlo se abluere, quumque aquam tetigisset, facta est colore aureo.³

21. Schoeneus⁴ Atalantam filiam formosissimam dicitur habuisse, quae cursu viros superabat. Haec quum a pluribus in conjugium peteretur, pater ejus conditionem proposuit, ut, qui eam ducere vellet, prius cursu cum ea contenderet; si victus esset, occideretur. Multos quum superasset et interfecisset, tandem ab Hippomēne victa est. Hic enim a Venere tria mala aurea acceperat. Dum currebant, horum⁵ unum post alterum projecit, iisque Atalantae cursum tardavit. Nam dum mala colligit, Hippomenes ad metam pervēnit. Huic itaque Schoeneus filiam uxorem dedit. Quam quum in patriam duceret, oblitus Veneris beneficio se vicisse, grates ei non egit. Hanc ob causam Hippomenes mutatus est in leonem, Atalanta in leaenam.

22. Nisus, rex Megarensium, in capite crinem purpureum habuisse dicitur, eique praedictum fuit, tam diu eum regnaturum, quam diu eum crinem custodisset. Hunc Minos, rex Cretensium, bello aggressus est. Qui quum urbem Megāram⁶ oppugnaret, Scylla, Nisi filia, amore ejus correpta est, et, ut ei victoriam pararet, patri dormienti fatalem crinem praecidit. Ita Nisus a Minōē victus et occisus est. Quum autem Minos in Cretam rediret, Scylla eum rogavit, ut eam secum aveheret. Sed ille negavit,⁷ Cretam tantum scelus⁸ esse recepturam. Tum illa se in mare praecipitat,⁹ navemque persequitur. Nisus in aquilam marinam conversus est, Scylla in piscem, quem Cirim vocant. Hodieque, si quando illa avis hunc piscem conspexerit, mittit se in aquam raptumque unguibus dilaniat.

23. Amphion, Jovis et Antiōpes filius, qui Thebas muris cinxit,¹⁰ Niōben, Tantāli filiam, in matrimonium duxit. Ex qua procreavit filios septem, totidemque filias. Quem partum¹¹ Niobe Latonae liberis anteposuit, superbissime¹² loquuta est in Apollinem et Dianam. Ob id Apollo filios ejus venantes sagittis interfecit, Diana autem filias. Niobe, liberis orbata, in saxum mūtata esse dicitur,¹³ ejusque lacrymae hodieque manare narrantur.¹³ Amphion autem, quum templum Apollinis expugnare vellet, ab Apolline sagittis est interfectus.

IV. ANECDOTES OF EMINENT PERSONS OF ANTIQUITY.

1. Thales interrogatus, an facta hominum deos laterent,¹ respondit, ne cogitata quidem.

2. Solon, qui Atheniensibus leges scripsit, dicebat, neminem, dum viveret,² beatum haberi posse, quod omnes ad ultimum usque diem ancipiti³ fortunae obnoxii essent.

3. Pythagorae philosophi tanta fuit apud discipulos suos auctoritas, ut, quae ab eo⁴ audivissent, ea in dubitationem adducere non auderent. Rogati autem, ut causam redderent eorum, quae dixissent, respondebant, Ipsam dixisse. Ipsa autem erat Pythagoras.

4. Bias, unus ex septem Sapientibus, quum patriam Priēnen⁵ ab hostibus expugnatam et eversam fugeret, interrogatus, cur nihil ex bonis suis secum ferret; ego vero,⁶ respondit, bona mea mecum porto omnia.

5. Democritus, cui pater ingentes divitias reliquerat, omne fere patrimonium suum civibus donavit, ne domesticarum rerum cura a philosophiae studio avocaretur.

6. Etiam Crates Thebanus bona sua inter Thebanos divisit, nihil sibi servans praeter peram et baculum. Haec enim Cynicorum⁷ instrumenta erant. A quo consilio quum amici et propinqui eum avocare studerent, eos correpto baculo fugavit, nihil pulchrius esse arbitratus, quam ab omnibus curis vacuum uni philosophiae operam dare.

7. Anaxagoras quum a longinqua peregrinatione, scientiae augendae causa suscepta, in patriam rediisset, agrosque suos neglectos et desertos videret,⁸ non essem, inquit, salvus, nisi ista periissent.⁹

8. Carneades usque ad extremam senectam nunquam cessavit a philosophiae studio. Saepe ei accidit, ut, quum cibi capiendi causa accubisset,¹⁰ cogitationibus inhaerens,¹¹ manum ad cibos appositos porrigere oblivisceretur.

9. Idem adversus Zenonem Stoicum scripturus, caput hellebōro purgabat, ne corrupti humores sollertiam et acumen mentis impedirent.

10. Anaxagoras, philosophus, morte filii audita, vultu nihil immutato dixit: Sciebam me mortalem genuisse.

11. Archytas Tarentinus,¹ quum ab itinere reversus, agros suos villici² socordia neglectos videret, graviter te castigarem, inquit, nisi iratus essem.

12. Plato quoque quum in servum vehementius³ exarsisset,⁴ veritus⁵ ne vindictae modum excederet, Speusippo adstanti mandavit, ut de illius poena statueret.

13. Idem, discendi cupiditate ductus,⁶ Aegyptum peragravit, et a sacerdotibus illius regionis geometriam et astronomiam didicit. Idem in Italiam trajecit, ut ubi Pythagorae⁷ philosophiam et instituta disceret.

14. Athenienses Socratem damnaverunt, quod novos deos introducere videbatur. Protagoram quoque philosophum, qui ausus fuerat scribere, se ignorare, an dii essent, Athenienses ex urbe pepulerunt.

15. Xanthippe, Socratis uxor, morosa admodum fuisse fertur.⁸ Quam ejus indolem quum perspexisset Alcibiades, Socratem interrogavit, quid esset, quod⁹ mulierem tam acerbam et jurgiosam non exigeret domo. Tum ille, quoniam, inquit, dum illam domi perpetior, insuesco, ut ceterorum quoque foris petulantiam et injurias facilius feram.

16. Xenocrates philosophus quum maledicorum quorundam sermoni interesset,¹⁰ neque quidquam ipse loqueretur, interrogatus, cur solus taceret, respondit: quia dixisse me aliquando poenituit¹¹ tacuisse nunquam.

17. Hegesias philosophus in disputationibus suis mala et cruciatus vitae tam vividis coloribus repraesentabat, ut multi, qui eum audiverant, sponte se occiderent. Quare a Ptolemaeo¹² rege ulterius his de rebus disserere est prohibitus.

18. Gorgiae Leontino¹³ qui eloquentia et eruditione omnes suae aetatis homines superare existimabatur,¹⁴ universa Graecia in templo Apollinis Delphici¹⁵ statuam auream collocavit.

19. Idem quum annum centesimum septimum ageret, interrogatus, quapropter tam diu vellet in vita remanere? respondit: quia nihil habeo, quod¹⁶ senectutem meam accūsem.

20. Illustrissimi saepe viri humili loco nati fuerunt. Socrates, quem oraculum Apollinis sapientissimum omnium hominum judicavit, obstetricis filius fuit. Euripides, poeta, tragicus, matrem habuit, quae olera venditabat; et Demosthenis, oratoris eloquentissimi, patrem cultellos vendidisse narrant.

21. Homerus, princeps poetarum Graecorum, dolore absumtus esse creditur,¹ quod quaestionem² a piscatoribus ipsi propositam solvere non posset.

22. Simonides, poeta praestantissimus, gloriatur in quodam poemate, se octoginta annos natum³ in certamen musicum⁴ descendisse, et victoriam inde retulisse. Idem aliquamdiu vixit apud Hipparchum, Pisistrati filium, Athenarum tyrannum. Inde Syracusas se contulit ad Hieronem regem, cum quo familiariter vixisse dicitur. Primus carmina statuto pretio scripsit; quare eum Musam venalem reddidisse dicunt.⁵

23. Quum Aeschylus Atheniensis, qui parens tragoediae dicitur, in Sicilia versaretur, ibique in loco aprico sederet, aquila testudinem glabro eius capiti immisit, quod pro saxo habuit. Quo ictu ille exstinctus est.

24. Euripides, qui et ipse⁶ magnum inter poetas tragicos nomen habet, a coena domum rediens⁷ a canibus laceratus est.

25. Athenienses quondam ab Euripide postulabant, ut ex tragoedia sententiam⁸ quandam tolleret. Ille autem in scenam progressus dixit: se fabulas componere solere, ut populum doceret, non ut a populo disceret.

26. Philippides, comoediarum scriptor, quum in poetarum certamine praeter spem vicisset, et illa victoria impense gauderet, eo ipso gaudio repente exstinctus est.

27. Pindarus, poeta Thebanus, Apollini gratissimus fuisse dicitur. Quare saepe a sacerdotibus in templum Delphicum ad coenam vocabatur, parsque ei tribuebatur donorum, quae sacrificantes deo obtulerant. Ferunt etiam Pana⁹ Pindari hymnis tantopere fuisse laetatum, ut eos in montibus et silvis caneret. Quum Alexander, rex Macedoniae, Thebas diriperet, unius Pindari domo et familiae pepercit.¹⁰

28. Diogenes Cynicus Myndum¹¹ profectus, quum videret magnificas portas et urbem exiguam, Myndios monuit, ut portas clauderent, ne urbs egrederetur.

29. Demosthenes, Atheniensis, incredibili studio et labore eo pervenit, ut, quum¹² multi eum ingenio parum valere existimarent, omnes aetatis suae oratores superaret eloquentia. Numquam tamen ex tempore dicebat, neque in concione volebat assurgere, nisi rem, de qua ageretur,¹³ accurate antea meditatus esset. Unde plerique eum timidum esse existimabant. Sed in hac re Periclis¹⁴ consuetudinem imitabatur, qui non facile de quaque re dicere, nec existimationem suam fortunae committere solebat.

30. Pericles in concionem iturus,¹⁵ quum animo perpenderet, quantum periculi inconsiderate dicta hominibus afferrent, solebat precari a diis, ne quod¹ ipsi verbum imprudenti excideret, quod reipublicae officere posset.

31. Minos, Cretensium rex, saepe se in speluncam quandam conferebat, ibique se cum Jove collōqui legesque ab eo accipere dicebat. Etiam Lycurgus² Lacedaemoniis persuasit,³ se leges suas ab Apolline didicisse.

32. Quum Lycurgus, Lacedaemoniorum legislator, Delphis in templum Apollinis intrasset, ut a deo oraculum peteret, Pythia⁴ eum his verbis allocuta est: nescio, utrum Deus an homo appellandus sis; sed deus potius videris esse.

33. Leonidas, rex Lacedaemoniorum, quum Persae⁵ dicerentur sagittarum multitudinem solem obscuraturi,⁶ respondisse fertur: melius itaque in umbra pugnabimus.

34. Cyrus⁷ omnium suorum militum nomina memoria tenebat. Mithridates autem, rex Ponti,⁸ duarum et viginti gentium, quae sub regno ejus erant, linguas ita didicerat, ut cum omnibus, quibus imperabat, sine interprete loqui posset.

35. Themistocles interroganti, utrum Achilles⁹ esse mallet, an Homerus, respondit: Tu vero mallesne te in Olympico certamine¹⁰ victorem renuntiari, an praeco esse, qui victorum nomina proclāmat?

36. Epaminondas,¹¹ Thebanorum imperator, in bello adversus Lacedaemonios, animos suorum religione excitandos ratus, arma in templis affixa¹² nocte detraxit, persuasitque militibus, quum illa abesse viderent, deos iter suum sequi, ut ipsis proeliantibus adessent.

37. Idem in pugna ad Mantinēam¹³ graviter vulneratus est. Quum animam recepisset, interrogavit circumstantes amicos, an clypeus¹⁴ salvus esset? deinde, an hostes fusi essent? Illi utrumque affirmaverunt. Tum demum hastam e corpore edūci jussit. Quo facto statim exspiravit.

38. Epaminondas tanta fuit abstinentia¹⁵ et integritate, ut post plurima bella, quibus Thebanorum potentiam incredibiliter auxerat, nihil in suppellectili haberet praeter ahenum et veru.

39. Lysander,¹⁶ dux Lacedaemoniorum, militem quendam, via egressum, castigabat. Cui dicenti, ad nullius rei rapinam se ab agmine recessisse, respondit: *ne speciem quidem rapturi praebeas volo.*¹⁷

40. Iphicrātes, dux Atheniensium, quum praesidio teneret Corinthum, et sub adventum hostium ipse vigilias circumiret, vigilem, quem dormientem invenerat hasta transfixit. Quod factum¹⁸ quibusdam ei, ut saevum, exprobrantibus, qualem invenni, inquit, talem relinqui.

41. Quum quidam Thrasybūlo,¹⁹ qui civitatem Atheniensium ratos tuos terreas. Mea quidem nihil interest,¹ humine² an sublīme³ putrescam.

51. Mausōlus, rex Cariae,⁴ Artemisiam habuit conjugem. Haec, Mausolo defuncto, ossa cineremque mariti contusa et odoribus mixta cum aqua potabat. Exstruxit quoque, ad conservandam ejus memoriam, sepulcrum⁵ illud nobilissimum, ab ejus nomine appellatum, quod inter septem orbis terrarum miracula⁶ numeratur. Quod quum Mausoli manibus⁷ dicaret, certamen instituit, praemiis amplissimis ei propositis,⁸ qui defunctum regem optime laudasset.

52. Dionysius,⁹ qui a patre Syracusarum et paene totius Siciliae tyrannidem acceperat, senex, patria pulsus, Corinthi pueros litteras docuit.

53. Mithridates, rex Ponti, saepe venenum hauserat, ut sibi a clandestinis caveret insidiis. Hinc factum est, ut, quum a Pompejo superatus mortem sibi consciscere vellet, ne velocissima quidem venena ei nocerent.

54. Quum Gyges, rex Lydiae¹⁰ ditissimus, oraculum Apollinis interrogaret, *an quisquam mortalium se esset felicior,*¹¹ deus Aglaum quendam Psophidium¹² feliciorē praedicavit. Is autem erat Arcadum pauperrimus, parvuli agelli possessor, cujus terminos, quamvis senex, nunquam excesserat, fructibus et voluptatibus angusti ruris contentus.

55. Pyrrhus,¹³ rex Epīri, quum in Italia esset, audivit, Tarentinos quosdam juvenes in convivio parum honorifice de se loquutos esse. Eos igitur ad se arcessitos percunctatus est, an dixissent ea, quae ad aures suas pervenissent. Tum unus ex his, *nisi, inquit, vinum nobis defecisset, multo etiam plura et graviora in te loquuturi eramus.*¹⁴ Haec criminis excusatio iram regis in risum convertit.

56. Marsyas, frater Antigōni,¹⁵ regis Macedoniae, quum causam haberet cum privato quodam, fratrem rogavit, ut de ea domi cognosceret. At ille, *in foro potius,*¹⁶ inquit. Nam si culpā vacas, innocentia tua ibi melius apparebit; sin dammandus es, nostra justitia.

57. Clara sunt apud Catanenses¹⁷ nomina fratrum Anāpi et Amphinōmi, qui patrem et matrem humeris per medios ignes Aetnae portarunt, eosque cum vitae suae periculo e flammis eripuerunt.

58. Spartanus quidam quum rideretur, quod claudus in pugnam iret, *at*¹⁸ mihī, inquit, pugnare, non fugere est propositum.

59. Spartanus quidam in magistratus petitione ab aemulis victus, *maximae sibi laetitiae esse,*¹⁹ dixit, *quod patria sua se meliores*²⁰ cives haberet.

60. Quum homo quidam, qui diu in uno pede stare didice rat, Lacedaemonio cuidam dixisset, se non arbitrari, Lacedaemoniorum quemquam tamdiu idem facere posse, ille respondit: at anseres¹ te diutius.

61. Diagoras Rhodius,² quum tres ejus filii in ludis Olympicis³ victores renuntiati essent, tanto affectus est gaudio, ut in ipso stadio, inspectante populo,⁴ in filiorum manibus animam redderet.

62. Scipio Africanus⁵ nunquam ad negotia publica accedebat, ante quam in templo Jovis precatus esset.

63. Scipio dicere solebat, hosti non solum dandam esse viam fugiendi, sed etiam muniendam. Similiter Pyrrhus, rex Epīri,⁶ fugienti hosti pertinaciter instandum esse negabat;⁷ non solum, ne fortius⁸ ex necessitate⁹ resisteret, sed ut postea quoque facilius acie cederet, ratus, victores fugientibus non usque ad perniciem instaturos esse.

64. Metellus Pius, in Hispania bellum gerens, interrogatus, quid postero die facturus esset? tunicam meam, inquit, si id elōqui posset, comburerem.

65. L. Mummius, qui, Corintho¹⁰ capta, totam Italiam tabulis statuisque exornavit, ex tantis manubiis nihil in suum usum convertit, ita ut, eo defuncto, non esset unde¹¹ ejus filia dotem acciperet. Quare senatus ei ex publico dotem decrevit.

66. Scipio Africanus major¹² Ennii poëtae imaginem in sepulcro gentis Corneliae¹³ collocari jussit, quod Scipiōnum res gestas carminibus suis illustraverat.

67. M. Cato, Catonis Censorii filius, in acie, cadente equo prolapsus, quum se recollegisset, animadvertissetque gladium excidisse vagina, rediit in hostem: acceptisque aliquot vulneribus, recuperato demum gladio¹⁴ ad suos reversus est.

68. Q. Metellus Macedonicus in Hispania quinque cohortes, quae hostibus cesserant testamentum facere jussas, ad locum¹⁵ recuperandum misit; minatus, eos¹⁶ non nisi post victoriam receptum iri.

69. Publius Decius consul, quum in bello contra Latinos Romanorum aciem cedentem videret,¹⁷ capite pro reipublicae salute devoto,¹⁸ in medium hostium agmen irruit, et magna strage edita plurimis telis obrutus cecidit. Haec ejus mors Romanorum aciem restituit iisque victoriam paravit.

70. L. Junius Brutus, qui Romam a regibus liberavit,¹⁹ filios suos, qui Tarquinium regem expulsum restituere conati erant, ipse capitis damnavit, eosque virgis caesos²⁰ securi percūti jussit.

71. Q. Marcius Rex, consul, quum filium unicum, juvenem summae pietatis et magnae spei, mortē amisisset, dolorem suum ita coërcuit, ut a rogo adolescentis protēnus curiam peteret, ibique muneris sui negotiā strenue obiret.

72. In bello Romanorum cum Persēo;¹ ultimo Macedoniae rege, accidit, ut serena nocte subito luna deficeret. Haec res ingentem apud milites terrorem excitavit, qui existimabant, hoc omine² futuram cladem portendi. Tum vero Sulpicius Gallus, qui erat in eo exercitu, in concione militum causam hujus rei tam diserte exposuit, ut postero die omnes intrepido animo pugnam committerent.

73. L. Siccus Dentatus ob insignem fortitudinem appellatus est Achilles Romanus. Pugnasse is dicitur centum et viginti proeliis; cicatricem aversam³ nullam, adversas quinque et quadraginta tulisse; coronis⁴ esse donatus aureis duodeviginti, obsidionali una, muralibus tribus, civicis quatuordecim, torquibus tribus et octoginta, armillis plus centum sexaginta, hastis duodeviginti. Phalēris idem donatus est quinquies vicesque. Triumphavit cum imperatoribus suis triumphos novem.

74. Hannibalem in Italiam proficiscentem tria millia Carpetanorum⁵ reliquerent. Quorum exemplum ne caeteri quoque barbari⁶ sequerentur, edixit, eos a se esse dimissos, et in super in fidem ejus rei⁷ alios etiam, quorum fides ipsi suspecta erat, domum remisit.

75. Hannibal quum elephantos compellere non posset, ut praealtum flumen transirent, neque rates haberet, quibus eos trajiceret,⁸ jussit ferocissimum elephantorum sub aure vulnerari,⁹ et eum, qui vulnerasset, se in flumen conjicere illudque tranare. Tum elephante exasperatus ad persequendum doloris sui auctorem tranavit amnem, et reliqui quoque eum secuti sunt.

SECOND DIVISION.

AN EPITOME OF ROMAN HISTORY,

FROM THE EARLIEST AGES TO THE TIME OF THE EMPERORS.

LIBER PRIMUS.

1. Antiquissimis temporibus Saturnus in Italiam venisse dicitur. Ibi haud procul a Janiculo¹ arcem condidit, eamque Saturniam appellavit. Hic Italos primus agriculturam docuit.

2. Postea Latinus in illis regionibus imperavit. Sub hoc rege Troja² in Asia eversa est. Hinc Aenēas, Anchisae filius, cum multis Trojanis, quibus ferrum Graecorum pepererat,³ aufūgit, et in Italiam pervēnit. Ibi Latinus rex ei benigne recepto filiam Laviniam in matrimonium dedit. Aeneas urbem condidit, quam in honorem conjugis Lavinium appellavit.

3. Post Aeneae mortem, Ascanius, Aeneae filius, regnum accepit. Hic sedem regni in alium locum transtulit, urbemque condidit in monte Albano, eamque Albam longam⁴ nuncupavit. Eum secutus est Silvius, qui post Aeneae mortem a Lavinia genitus erat. Ejus posterī omnes, usque ad Romam conditam, Albae regnaverunt.

4. Unus horum regum, Romulus Silvius, se Jove majorem esse dicebat, et, quum tonaret, militibus imperavit, ut clypeos hastis percuterent, dicebatque, hunc sonum multo clariorem esse quam tonitru. Fulmine ictus et in Albanum lacum praecipitatus est.

5. Silvius Procas, rex Albanorum, duos filios reliquit, Numitōrem et Amulium. Horum minor natu, Amulius, fratri optionem dedit, utrum regnum habere vellet, an bona, quae ater reliquisset. Numitor paterna bona praetulit; Amulius regnum obtinuit.

6. Amulius, ut regnum firmissime possideret, Numitoris filium per insidias interemit, et filiam fratris, Rheam Silviam, Vestalem virginem fecit. Nam his Vestae sacerdotibus¹ non licet viro nubere.² Sed haec a Marte geminos filios, Romulum et Remum, peperit. Hoc quum Amulius comperisset, matrem in vincula conjecit, pueros autem in Tiberim abjici jussit.

7. Forte Tiberis aqua ultra ripam³ se effuderat, et quum pueri in vado essent positi, aqua refluxens eos in sicco reliquit. Ad eorum vagitum lupa accurrit, eosque uberibus suis aluit. Quod videns Faustulus quidam, pastor illius regionis, pueros sustulit, et uxori Accae Laurentiae nutriendos⁴ dedit.

8. Sic Romulus et Remus pueritiam inter pastores transegerunt. Quum adolevissent, et forte comperissent, quis ipsorum avus, quae mater fuisset, Amulium interfecerunt, et Numitori avo regnum restituerunt. Tum urbem condiderunt in monte Aventino, quam Romulus a suo nomine Romam vocavit. Haec quum moenibus circumdaretur, Remus occisus est, dum fratrem irridens moenia transiliebat.

9. Romulus, ut civium numerum augeret, asylum⁵ patefecit, ad quod multi ex civitatibus suis pulsi⁶ accurrerunt. Sed novae urbis civibus conjuges deerant. Festum itaque Neptuni et ludos instituit. Ab hos quum multi ex finitimis populis cum mulieribus et liberis venissent, Romani, inter ipsos ludos, spectantes virgines rapuerunt.

10. Populi illi, quorum virgines raptae erant, bellum adversus raptos suscepserunt. Quum Romae appropinquarent, forte in Tarpejam virginem inciderunt, quae in arce⁷ sacra procurabat. Hanc rogabant, ut viam in arcem monstraret, eique permiserunt ut munus sibi posceret. Illa petiit, ut sibi darent, quod in sinistris manibus gererent, annulos aureos et armillas significans. At hostes, in arcem ab ea perducti, scutis Tarpejam obruerunt; nam et haec in sinistris manibus gerebant.

11. Tum Romulus cum hoste, qui montem Tarpejum tenebat, pugnam conseruit in eo loco, ubi nunc forum Romanum est. In media caede raptae processerunt, et hinc patres, hinc conjuges et soceros complectebantur et rogabant, ut caedis finem facerent. Utrique his precibus commoti sunt. Romulus foedus icit, et Sabinos in urbem recepit.⁸

12. Postea civitatem descripsit. Centum senatores legit, eosque cum ob aetatem, tum ob reverentiam iis debitam, Patres appellavit. Plebem in triginta curias distribuit, easque raptarum nominibus nuncupavit. Anno regni tricesimo septimo, quum exercitum lustraret,¹ inter tempestatem ortam, repente oculis hominum subductus est. Hinc alii eum a senatoribus interfectum, alii ad deos sublatum² esse existimaverunt. A. V.

C. 37.

13. Post Romuli mortem unius anni interregnum fuit. Quo elapso Numa Pompilius, Curibus, urbe in agro Sabingorum, natus, rex creatus est. Hic vir bellum quidem nullum gessit; nec minus tamen civitati profuit. Nam et leges dedit, et sacra plurima instituit, ut populi barbari et bellicosi mores molliret. Omnia autem, quae faciebat, se nymphae Egeriae, conjugis suae, jussu facere dicebat. Morbo decessit, quadragesimo tertio imperii anno.

14. Numae successit Tullus Hostilius, cujus avus se in bello adversus Sabinos fortem et strenuum virum praestiterat. Rex creatus bellum Albanis indixit, idque trigeminorum, Horatiorum et Curiatorum, certamine finivit. Albam propter perfidiam Metii Fuffetii³ diruit. Quum triginta duobus annis regnasset, fulmine ictus cum domo sua arsit. A. V.

15. Post hunc Ancus Marcius, Numae ex filia nepos, suscepit imperium. Hic vir aequitate et religione avo similis, Latinos bello domuit, urbem ampliavit, et nova ei moenia circumdedit.⁴ Carcerem primus aedificavit. Ad Tiberis ostia urbem condidit, Ostiamque vocavit. Vicesimo quarto anno imperii morbo obiit. A. V.
114.

16. Deinde regnum Lucius Tarquinius Priscus accepit, Damarati filius, qui tyrannos patriae Corinthi⁵ fugiens in Etruriam⁶ venerat. Ipse Tarquinius, qui nomen ab urbe Tarquiniis accepit, aliquando Romam profectus erat. Advenienti aquila pileum abstulit, et postquam alte evolaverat, reposuit. Hinc Tanaquil conjux, mulier auguriorum perita, regnum ei portendi intellexit. A. V.
137.

17. Quum Romae commoraretur, Anci regis familiaritatem consequutus est, qui eum filiorum suorum tutorem reliquit. Sed is pupillis regnum interceptit. Senatoribus, quos Romulus creaverat, centum alios addidit, qui minorum gentium⁷ sunt appellati. Plura bella feliciter gessit, nec paucos agros, hostibus ademptos,⁸ urbis territorio adjunxit. Primus triumphans urbem intravit. Cloacas fecit; Capitolium⁹ inchoavit. Tricesimo octavo imperii anno per Anci filios, quibus regnum eripuerat, occisus est.

18. Post hunc Servius Tullius suscepit imperium, genitus ex nobili femina, captiva tamen et famula. Quum in domo Tarquini Prisci educaretur, flamma in ejus capite visa est. Hoc prodigio Tanaquil ei summam A. V.

dignitatem portendi intellexit, et conjugī persuasit, ut eum sicuti liberos suos educaret. Quum adolevisset, rex ei filiam in matrimonium dedit.

19. Quum Priscus Tarquinius occisus esset, Tanaquil de superiore parte domus populum allocuta est, dicens: regem grave quidem, sed non letale vulnus accepisse; eum petere, ut populus, dum convaluisset, Servio Tullio obediret. Sic Servius regnare coepit, sed bene imperium administravit. Montes tres urbi adjunxit. Primus omnium censum¹ ordinavit. Sub eo Roma habuit capitum octoginta tria millia civium Romanorum cum his, qui in agris erant.

A. V. 220. 20. Hic rex interfectus est scelere filiae Tulliae et Tarquini Superbi, filii ejus regis, cui Servius successerat. Nam ab ipso Tarquinio de gradibus Curiae² dejectus, quum domum fugeret, interfectus est. Tullia in forum properavit et prima conjugem regem salutavit. Quum domum rediret, aurigam super patris corpus, in via jacens, carpentum³ agere jussit.

21. Tarquinius Superbus cognomen moribus meruit. Bello tamen strenuus plures finitimorum populorum vicit. Templum Jovis in Capitolio aedificavit. Postea, dum Ardeam oppugnabat, urbem Etruriae, imperium perdidit. Nam quum filius ejus Lucretiae, nobilissimae feminae, conjugī Tarquini Collatini, vim fecisset, haec se ipsa occidit in conspectu mariti, patris et amicorum, postquam eos obtestata fuerat, ut hanc injuriam⁴ ulciscerentur.

A. V. 243. 22. Hanc ob causam L. Brutus, Collatinus, aliique nonnulli in exitium regis conjurarunt, populoque persuaserunt, ut ei portas Urbis clauderet. Exercitus quoque, qui civitatem Ardeam cum rege oppugnabat, eum reliquit. Fugit itaque cum uxore et liberis suis. Ita Romae regnatum est per septem reges, annos ducentos quadraginta tres.

23. Hinc consules coepere pro uno rege duo creari, ut, si unus malus esset, alter eum coerceret. Annum iis imperium tributum est, ne per diuturnitatem potestatis insolentiores redderentur. Fuerunt igitur anno primo, expulsis regibus, consules L. Junius Brutus acerrimus libertatis vindex, et Tarquinius Collatinus, maritus Lucretiae. Sed Collatino paulo post dignitas sublata est. Placuerat enim, ne quis ex Tarquiniorum familia Romae maneret. Ergo cum omni patrimonio suo ex urbe migravit, et in ejus locum Valerius Publicola consul factus est.

24. Commovit bellum urbi rex Tarquinius. In prima pugna Brutus, consul, et Aruns, Tarquini filius, sese invi-familia Fabiorum sola hoc bellum suscepit. Profecti sunt trecenti sex nobilissimi homines, duce Fabio consule. A. V. 274. Quum saepe hostes vicissent, apud Cremēram¹ fluvium castra posuerunt. Ibi Vejentes, dolo usi, eos in insidias pellexerunt. In proelio ibi exorto omnes perierunt. Unus superfuit ex tanta familia, qui propter aetatem puerilem duci non potuerat ad pugnam. Hic genus propagavit ad Qu. Fabium Maximum, illum, qui Hannibalem² prudenti cunctatione debilitavit.³

30. Anno trecentesimo et altero ab Urbe condita A. V. 302. Decemviri⁴ creati sunt, qui civitati leges scriberent. Hi primo anno bene egerunt; secundo autem dominationem exercere coeperunt. Sed quum unus eorum Appius Claudius virginem ingenuam, Virginiam, Virginii centurionis filiam, corrumpere vellet, pater eam occidit. Tum ad milites profūgit, eosque ad seditionem commovit. Sublata est decemviris potestas, ipsique omnes aut morte aut exilio puniti sunt.

31. In bello contra Vejentanos Furius Camillus urbem Falerios⁵ obsidebat. In quo obsidione quum ludi literarii magister principum filios ex urbe in castra hostium duxisset, Camillus hoc donum non accepit, sed scelestum hominem, manibus post tergum vinctis, pueris Falerios reducendum tradidit;⁶ virgasque iis dedit, quibus proditorem in urbem agerent.

32. Hac tanta animi nobilitate commoti Falisci urbem Romanis tradiderunt. Camillo autem apud Romanos crimini datum est, quod albis equis⁷ triumphasset, et praedam inique divisisset; damnatusque ob eam causam et civitate expulsus est. Paulo post Galli Senones⁸ ad Urbem venerunt, A. V. 364. Romanos apud flumen Alliam⁹ vicerunt, et Urbem etiam occuparunt. Jam nihil praeter Capitolium defendi potuit. Et jam praesidium fame laborabat, et in eo erant,¹⁰ ut pacem a Gallis auro emerent, quum Camillus cum manu militum superveniens hostes magno proelio superaret.

LIBER SECUNDUS.

1. Anno trecentesimo nonagesimo quarto post Urbem conditam Galli iterum ad Urbem accedebant, et A. V. 394. quarto milliario trans Aniēnem¹¹ fluvium consederant. Contra eos missus est T. Quinctius. Ibi Gallus quidam, eximia corporis magnitudine, fortissimum Romanorum ad certamen singulare provocavit. T. Manlius, nobilissimus juvenis, provocationem accepit, Gallum occidit, eumque torque aureo spoliavit, quo ornatus erat. Hinc et ipse et posterius eius Torquati appellati sunt. Galli fugam capessiverunt.

2. Novo bello cum Gallis exorto, anno Urbis quadringentesimo sexto, iterum Gallus processit, robore atque armis insignis, et provocavit unum ex Romanis, ut secum armis decerneret. Tum se M. Valerius, tribunus militum,¹ obtulit; et quum processisset armatus, corvus ei supra dextrum brachium sedit. Mox, commissa pugna, hic corvus alis et unguibus Galli oculos verberavit. Ita factum est, ut Gallus facili negotio a Valerio interficeretur, qui hinc Corvini nomen accepit.

3. Postea Romani bellum gesserunt cum Samnitibus.² ad quod L. Papirius Cursor cum honore dictatoris³ profectus est. Qui, quum negotii cujusdam causa Romam ivisset, praecepit Q. Fabio Rulliano, magistro equitum, quem apud exercitum reliquit, ne pugnam cum hoste committeret. Sed ille, occasionem nactus, felicissime dimicavit et Samnites delevit. Ob hanc rem a dictatore capitis damnatus est. At ille in Urbem confugit, et ingenti favore militum et populi liberatus est; in Papirium autem tanta exorta est seditio, ut paene ipse interficeretur.

4. Duobus annis post T. Veturius et Spurius Postumius consules bellum adversum Samnites gerebant. Hi a Pontio Thelesino, duce hostium, in insidias inducti sunt. Nam ad Furculas Caudinas⁴ Romanos pellexit in angustias, unde sese expedire non poterant. Ibi Pontius patrem suum Herennium rogavit, quid faciendum putaret. Ille ait, aut omnes occidendos esse, ut Romanorum vires frangerentur, aut omnes dimittendos, ut beneficio obligarentur. Pontius utrumque consilium improbavit, omnesque sub jugum⁵ misit. Samnites denique post bellum undequinquaginta annorum superati sunt.

5. Devictis Samnitibus, Tarentinis⁶ bellum indictum est, quia legatis Romanorum injuriam fecissent. Hi Pyrrhum, Epiri⁷ regem, contra Romanos auxilio poposcerunt.⁸ Is mox in Italiam venit, tumque primum Romani cum transmarino hoste pugnaverunt. Missus est contra eum consul P. Valerius Laevinus. Hic, quum exploratores Pyrrhi cepisset, jussit eos per castra duci, ostendi omnem exercitum, tumque dimitti, ut renuntiarent Pyrrho, quaecunque a Romanis agerentur.

6. Pugna commissa, Pyrrhus auxilio elephantorum⁹ vicit. Nox proelio finem dedit. Laevinus tamen per noctem fugit. Pyrrhus Romanos mille octingentos cepit, eosque summo honore tractavit. Quum eos, qui in proelio interfecti fuerant, omnes adversis vulneribus¹ et truci vultu etiam mortuos jacere videret, tulisse ad coelum manus dicitur, cum hac voce: Ego cum talibus viris brevi² orbem terrarum subigerem.

7. Postea Pyrrhus Romam perrexit; omnia ferro igneque vastavit; Campaniam³ depopulatus est, atque ad Praeneste⁴ venit, milliario ab Urbe octavo decimo. Mox terrore exercitus, qui cum consule sequebatur, in Campaniam se recepit. Legati, ad Pyrrhum de captivis redimendis missi, honorifice ab eo suscepti sunt; captivos sine pretio reddidit. Unum ex legatis Fabricium, sic admiratus est, ut ei quartam partem regni sui promitteret, si ad se transiret; sed a Fabricio contemptus est.

8. Quum jam Pyrrhus ingenti Romanorum admiratione teneretur, legatum misit Cineam, praestantissimum virum, qui pacem peteret, ea conditione, ut Pyrrhus eam partem Italiae quam armis occupaverat, obtineret. Romani responderunt, eum cum Romanis pacem habere non posse, nisi ex Italia recessisset. Cineas quum rediisset, Pyrrho, eum interroganti, qualis ipsi Roma visa esset; respondit, se regum patriam vidisse.

9. In altero proelio cum rege Epiri commisso,⁵ Pyrrhus vulneratus est, elephantum interfecti, viginti millia hostium caesa sunt. Pyrrhus Tarentum fugit. Interjecto anno Fabricius contra eum missus est. Ad hunc medicus Pyrrhi nocte venit, promittens, se Pyrrhum veneno occisurum, si munus sibi daretur. Hunc Fabricius vinctum reduci jussit ad dominum. Tunc rex, generosum viri animum admiratus, dixisse fertur; Ille est Fabricius, qui difficilius ob honestate, quam sol a cursu suo averti potest. Paulo post Pyrrhus, tertio etiam proelio fusus, a Tarento recessit, et, quum in Graeciam rediisset, apud Argos, Peloponnesi urbem, interfectus est.

10. Anno quadringentesimo nonagesimo post Urbem conditam Romanorum exercitus primum in Siciliam trajecerunt, regemque Syracusarum Hieronem, Poenosque, qui multas civitates in ea insula occupaverant, superaverunt. Quinto anno hujus belli, quod contra Poenos gerebatur, primum Romani, C. Duillio et Cn. Cornelio Asina Coss., in mari dimicaverunt. Duillius Carthaginienses vicit, triginta naves occupavit, quatuordecim merisit, septem millia hostium cepit, tria millia occidit. Nulla victoria Romanis gratior fuit. Duillio concessum est, ut, quum a coena rediret, pueri funalia gestantes et tibicen eum comitantur.⁶

11. Paucis annis interjectis bellum in Africam translatum est. Hamilcar, Carthaginiensium dux, pugna navali superatur; nam perditis sexaginta quatuor navi-

bus, se recepit; Romani viginti duas amiserunt. Quum in Africam venissent, Poenos in pluribus proeliis vicerunt, magnam vim hominum ceperunt, septuaginta quatuor civitates in fidem acceperunt. Tum victi Carthaginenses pacem a Romanis petierunt. Quam quum M. Atilius Regulus, Romanorum dux, dare nollet nisi durissimis conditionibus, Carthaginenses auxilium petierunt a Lacedaemoniis. Hi Xanthippum miserunt, qui Romanum exercitum magno proelio vicit. Regulus ipse captus et in vincula conjectus est.

12. Non tamen ubique fortuna Carthaginensibus favit. Quum aliquot proeliis victi essent, Regulum rogaverunt, ut Romam proficisceretur, et pacem captivorumque permutationem a Romanis obtineret. Ille quum Romam venisset, inductus in senatum, dixit, se desiisse Romanum esse ex illa die, qua in potestatem Poenorum venisset. Tum Romanis suavit, ne pacem cum Carthaginensibus facerent; illos enim tot casibus fractos, spem nullam nisi in pace habere; tanti non esse, ut tot millia² captivorum propter se unum et paucos, qui ex Romanis capti essent, redderentur. Haec sententia obtinuit. Regressus igitur in Africam crudelissimis suppliciis extinctus est.

13. Tandem C. Lutatio Catulo, A. Postumio Coss., anno belli Punici vicesimo tertio, magnum proelium A. V.
513. navale commissum est contra Lilybaeum,³ promontorium Siciliae. In eo proelio septuaginta tres Carthaginensium naves captae, centum viginti quinque demersae, triginta duo millia hostium capta, tredecim millia occisa sunt. Statim Carthaginenses pacem petierunt, eisque pax tributa est. Captivi Romanorum, qui tenebantur, a Carthaginensibus, redditi sunt. Poeni Sicilia, Sardinia et ceteris insulis, quae intra Italiam Africamque jacent decesserunt, omnemque Hispaniam, quae citra Iberum⁴ est, Romanis permiserunt.

LIBER TERTIUS.

1. Anno quingentesimo undetricesimo ingentes Gallorum copiae Alpes transierunt. Sed pro Romanis A. V.
529. tota Italia consensit: traditumque est, octingenta millia hominum ad id bellum parata fuisse. Res prospere gesta est apud Clusium:⁵ quadraginta millia hominum interfecta sunt. Aliquot annis post pugnatum est contra Gallos in agro Insubrum,⁶ finitumque est bellum M. Claudio Marcello, Cn. Cornelio Scipione Coss. Tum Marcellus regem Gallorum, Viridomarum, manu sua occidit et triumphans spolia¹ Galli, stipiti imposita, humeris suis vexit.

2. Paulo post Punicum bellum removatum est per Hannibalem, Carthaginiensium ducem, quem pater Hamilcar, novem annos natum, aris admoverat, ut odium perenne in A. V. Romanos juraret. Hic annum agens vicesimum aetatis, Saguntum,² Hispaniae civitatem, Romanis amicam, oppugnare aggressus est. Huic Romani per legatos denuntiaverunt, ut bello abstineret. Qui quum legatos admittere nollet, Romani Carthaginem miserunt, ut mandaretur³ Hannibali, ne bellum contra socios populi Romani gereret. Dura responsa a Carthaginiensibus reddita. Saguntinis interea fame victis, Romani Carthaginiensibus bellum indixerunt.

3. Hannibal, fratre Hasdrubale in Hispania relicto, Pyrenaeum et Alpes transiit. Traditur in Italiam octoginta millia pedum, et viginti millia equitum, septem et triginta elephantos adduxisse. Interea multi Ligures⁴ et Galli Hannibali se conjunxerunt. Primus ei occurrit P. Cornelius Scipio, qui proelio ad Ticinum⁵ commisso, superatus est, et, vulnere accepto, in castra rediit. Tum Sempronius Gracchus conflixit ad Trebiam⁶ amnem. Is quoque vincitur. Multi populi se Hannibali dediderunt. Inde in Tusciam⁷ progressus Flaminium Cos. ad Trasimenum⁸ lacum superat. Ipse Flaminus interemptus, Romanorum viginti quinque millia caesa sunt.

4. Quingentesimo et quadragesimo anno post Urbem A. V. conditam L. Aemilius Paulus et P. Terentius Varro 540. contra Hannibalem mittuntur. Quamquam intellectum erat, Hannibalem non aliter vinci posse, quam mora,⁹ Varro tamen, morae impatiens, apud vicum, qui Cannae appellatur, in Apulia¹⁰ pugnavit; ambo consules victi, Paulus interemptus est. In ea pugna consulares aut praetorii viginti, senatores triginta capti aut occisi, militum quadraginta millia, equitum tria millia et quingenti perierunt. In his tantis malis nemo tamen pacis mentionem facere dignatus est. Servi, quod nunquam ante factum, manumissi et milites facti sunt.

5. Post eam pugnam multae Italiae civitates, quae Romanis paruerant, se ad Hannibalem transtulerunt. Hannibal Romanis obtulit, ut captivos redimerent; responsumque est a senatu, eos cives non esse necessarios, qui armati¹¹ capi potuissent. Hos omnes ille postea variis suppliciis interfecit, et tres modios aureorum annulorum¹² Carthaginem misit, quos manibus equitum Romanorum, senatorum et militum detraxerat. Interea in Hispania frater Hannibalis Hasdrubal, qui ibi remanserat cum magno exercitu, a duobus Scipionibus¹ vincitur, perditque in pugna triginta quinque millia hominum.

6. Anno quarto post quam Hannibal in Italiam venerat, M. Claudius Marcellus Cos. apud Nolam,² civitatem Campaniae, contra Hannibalem bene pugnavit. Illo tempore Philippus, Demetrii filius, rex Macedoniae, ad Hannibalem legatos mittit, eique auxilia contra Romanos pollicetur. Qui legati quum a Romanis capti essent, M. Valerius Laevinus cum navibus missus est, qui regem impediret, quo minus copias in Italiam trajiceret.³ Idem in Macedoniam penetrans regem Philippum vicit.

7. In Sicilia quoque res prospere gesta est. Marcellus magnam hujus insulae partem cepit, quam Poeni⁴ occupaverant; Syracusas,⁵ nobilissimam urbem, expugnavit, et ingentem inde praedam Romam misit. Laevinus in Macedonia cum Philippo et multis Graeciae populis amicitiam fecit; et in Siciliam profectus, Hannonem, Poenorum ducem, apud Agrigentum cepit; quadraginta civitates in deditionem accepit, viginti sex expugnavit. Ita omni Sicilia recepta cum ingenti gloria Romam regressus est.

8. Interea in Hispaniam, ubi duo Scipiones⁶ ab Hasdrubale interfecti erant, missus est P. Cornelius Scipio, vir Romanorum omnium fere primus. Hic puer duodeviginti annorum in pugna ad Ticinum⁷ patrem singulari virtute servavit. Deinde post cladem Cannensem multos nobilissimorum juvenum, Italiam deserere cupientium,⁸ auctoritate sua ab hoc consilio deterruit. Viginti quatuor annorum juvenis in Hispaniam missus, die, qua venit, Carthaginem novam⁹ cepit, in qua omne aurum et argentum et belli apparatus Poeni habebant, nobilissimos quoque obsides, quos ab Hispanis acceperant. Hos obsides parentibus suis reddidit. Quare omnes Hispaniae civitates ad eum uno animo transierunt.

9. Ab eo inde tempore res Romanorum in dies laetiores factae sunt. Hasdrubal a fratre ex Hispania in Italiam evocatus, apud Senam,¹⁰ Piceni¹¹ civitatem, in insidias incidit, et strenue pugnans occisus est. Plurimae autem civitates, quae in Brutiis ab Hannibale tenebantur, Romanis se tradiderunt.

10. Anno decimo quarto postquam in Italiam Hannibal venerat, Scipio consul creatus et in Africam missus est. Ibi contra Hannonem, ducem Carthaginensium prospere pugnat totumque ejus exercitum delet. Secundo proelio undecim millia hominum occidit, et castra cepit cum quatuor millibus et quingentis militibus. Syphacem, Numidia¹³ regem, qui se cum Poenis conjunxerat, cepit, eumque cum nobilissimis Numidis et infinitis spoliis Romam misit. Qua re audita, omnis fere Italia Hannibalem deseruit. Ipse a Carthaginensibus in Africam redire jubetur. Ita anno decimo septimo Italia ab Hannibale liberata est.

A. V. 553. 11. Post plures pugnas et pacem plus semel frustra tentam, pugna ad Zamam¹ committitur, in qua peritissimi duces copias suas ad bellum educebant. Scipio victor recedit; Hannibale cum paucis equitibus evadit. Post hoc proelium pax cum Carthaginensibus facta est. Scipio, quum Romam rediisset, ingenti gloria triumphavit, atque Africanus appellatus est. Sic finem accepit secundum Punicum bellum post annum undevicesimum quam coeperat.²

LIBER QUARTUS.

A. V. 556. 1. Finito Punico bello, secutum est Macedonicum contra Philippum³ regem. Superatus est rex a T. Quinctio Flamini apud Cynoscephalas,⁴ paxque ei data est his legibus: ne Graeciae civitatibus, quas Romani contra eum defenderant, bellum inferret; ut captivos et transfugas redderet; quinquaginta solum naves haberet; reliquas Romanis daret; mille talenta praestaret, et obsidem daret filium Demetrium. T. Quinctius etiam Lacedaemoniis intulit bellum, et ducem eorum Nabidem⁵ vicit.

A. V. 563. 2. Finito bello Macedonico, secutum est bellum Syriae cum⁶ contra Antiochum regem, cum quo Hannibal se junxerat. Missus est contra eum L. Cornelius Scipio Cos., cui frater ejus Scipio Africanus legatus⁷ est additus. Hannibal navali proelio victus, Antiochus autem ad Magnesium,⁸ Asiae civitatem, a Cornelio Scipione Cos. ingenti proelio fusus est. Tum rex Antiochus pacem petit. Data est ei hac lege, ut ex Europa et Asia⁹ recederet, atque intra Taurum¹⁰ se contineret, decem millia talentorum et viginti obsides praerberet, Hannibalem, concitorem belli, dederet. Scipio Romam rediit et ingenti gloria triumphavit. Nomen et ipse ad imitationem fratris Asiatici accepit.

3. Philippo, rege Macedoniae, mortuo, filius ejus Perseus rebellavit, ingentibus copiis paratis. Dux Romanorum, P. Licinius Cos. contra eum missus, gravi proelio a rege victus est. Rex tamen pacem petebat. Cui Romani eam praestare noluerunt, nisi his conditionibus, ut se et suos Romanis dederet. Mox Aemilius Paulus Cos. regem ad Pydnam¹¹ superavit, et viginti millia peditum ejus occidit. Equitatus cum rege fugit. Urbes Macedoniae tavit. Pastor primo fuit, mox latronum dux; postremo tantos ad bellum populos concitavit, ut vindex libertatis Hispaniae existimaretur. Denique a suis interfectus est. Quum interfectores ejus praemium a Caepione Cos. peterent, responsum est, nunquam Romanis placuisse, imperatorem a militibus suis interfici.

8. Deinde bellum exortum est cum Numantinis,¹ civitate Hispaniae. Victus ab his Qu. Pompejus, et post eum C. Hostilius Mancinus Cos., qui pacem cum iis fecit infamem, quam populus et senatus jussit infringi, atque ipsum Mancinum hostibus tradi.² Tum P. Scipio Africanus in Hispaniam missus est. Is primum militem ignavum et corruptum cor-

A. V. 621. rexit:³ tum multas Hispaniae civitates partim bello cepit, partim in deditionem accepit. Postremo ipsam Numantiam fame ad deditionem coegit, urbemque evertit; reliquam provinciam in fidem accepit.

9. P. Scipione Nasica et L. Calpurnio Bestia Coss. Jugurthae, Numidarum regi, bellum illatum est, quod Adherbalem et Hiempsalem, Micipsae filios, patruelles suos, interemisset. Missus adversus eum Cos. Calpurnius Bestia, corruptus regis pecunia, pacem cum eo flagitiosissimam fecit, quae a senatu improbata est. Denique Qu. Caecilius Metellus Cos. Jugurtham variis proeliis vicit, elephantos ejus occidit vel cepit, multas civitates ipsius in deditionem accepit.

Ei successit C. Marius, qui bello terminum posuit, ipsumque Jugurtham cepit. Ante currum triumphantis Marii Jugurtha cum duobus filiis ductus est vinctus,⁴ et mox jussu consulis in carcere strangulatus.

LIBER QUINTUS.

1. Dum bellum in Numidia contra Jugurtham geritur, Cimbri et Teutones⁵ aliaeque Germanorum et Gallorum gentes Italiae minabantur, pluresque Romanorum exercitus fuderunt. Ingens fuit Romae timor, ne iterum⁶ Galli Urbem occuparent. Ergo Marius Cos. creatus, eique bellum contra Cimbros et Teutones⁷ decretum est; belloque protracto,⁸ tertius ei et quartus consulatus delatus est. In duobus proeliis cum Cimbris ducenta millia hostium cecidit, octoginta milli cepit, eorumque regem Theutobochum; propter quod meritum absens quinto consul creatus est. Interea Cimbri e

A. V. 563. Teutones, quorum copia adhuc infinita erat, in Italian transierunt. Iterum a C. Mario et Qu. Catulo contra eos dimicatum est ad Veronam. Centum et quadra ginta millia aut in pugna aut in fuga caesa sunt; sexaginta millia capta. Tria et triginta Cimbris signa sublata sunt.

2. Sexcentesimo quinquagesimo nono anno ab Urbe condita in Italia gravissimum bellum¹ exarsit. Nam A. V.
659. Picentes, Marsi Pelignique, qui multos annos populo Romano obedierant, aequa cum illis jura² sibi dari postulabant. Perniciosum admodum hoc bellum fuit. P. Rutilius Cos. in eo occisus est; plures exercitus fusi fugatique. Tandem L. Cornelius Sulla cum alia egregie gessit, tum Cluentium, hostium ducem, cum magnis copiis fudit. Per quadriennium cum gravi utriusque partis calamitate hoc bellum tractum est. Quinto demum anno L. Cornelius Sulla ei imposuit finem. Romani tamen, id quod prius negaverant, jus civitatis,³ bello finito sociis tribuerunt.

3. Anno Urbis conditae sexcentesimo sexagesimo sexto primū Romae bellum civile exortum est; eodem anno etiam Mithridaticum. Causam bello civili C. Marius A. V.
666. dedit. Nam quum Sullae bellum adversus Mithridatem, regem Ponti,⁴ decretum esset, Marius ei hunc honorem eripere conatus est. Sed Sulla, qui adhuc cum legionibus suis in Italia morabatur, cum exercitu Romam venit, et adversarios cum interfecit, tum fugavit. Tum rebus Romae utcunque compositis, in Asiam profectus est, pluribusque proeliis Mithridatem coëgit, ut pacem a Romanis peteret, et Asia, quam invaserat, relicta, regni suis finibus contentus esset.

4. Sed dum Sulla in Graecia et Asia Mithridatem vincit, Marius, qui fugatus fuerat,⁵ et Cornelius Cinna, unus ex consulibus, bellum in Italia repararunt; et ingressi Romam, nobilissimos ex senatu, et consulares viros interfecerunt; multos proscripserunt;⁶ ipsius Sullae domo eversa, filios et uxorem ad fugam compulerunt. Universus reliquus senatus, ex Urbe fugiens, ad Sullam in Graeciam venit, orans, ut patriae subveniret. Sulla in Italiam trajecit, hostium exercitus vicit, mox etiam Urbem ingressus est, quam caede et sanguine civium replevit. Quatuor millia inermium, qui se dediderant, interfici jussit; duo millia equitum et senatorum proscripsit. Tum de Mithridate triumphavit. Duo haec bella funestissima, Italicum, quod et Sociale⁷ dictum est, et Civile, consumserunt ultra centum et quinquaginta millia hominum, viros consulares viginti quatuor, praetorios septem, aedilitios sexaginta, senatores fere ducentos.

LIBER SEXTUS.

1. Anno Urbis conditae sexcentesimo septuagesimo
 A. V. sexto, L. Licinio Lucullo et M. Aurelio Cotta Coss. mor-676. tuus est Nicomedes, rex Bithyniae, et testamento populum Romanum fecit heredem. Mithridates, pace rupta, Asiam rursus voluit invadere. Adversus eum ambo consules missi variam habuere fortunam. Cotta apud Chalcedonem¹ victus proelio, a rege etiam intra oppidum obsessus est. Sed quum se inde Mithridates Cyzicum² transtulisset, ut hac urbe capta totam Asiam invaderet, Lucullus ei alter consul occurrit, ac dum Mithridates in obsidione Cyzici commoratur, ipse eum a tergo obsedit, fameque consumptum multis proeliis vicit. Pos-tremo Byzantium³ fugavit; navali quoque proelio ejus duces oppressit. Ita una hieme et aestate a Lucullo centum fere millia militum regis extincta sunt.

2. Anno Urbis sexcentesimo septuagesimo octavo
 A. V. novum in Italia bellum⁴ commotum est. Septuaginta
 678. enim quatuor gladiatores,⁵ ducibus Spartaco, Crixo et Oenomao, e ludo gladiatorio, qui Capuae erat, effugerunt, et per Italiam vagantes paene non levius bellum, quam Hannibal, moverunt. Nam contraxerunt exercitum fere sexaginta millium armatorum, multosque duces et duos Romanos consules vicerunt. Ipsi victi sunt in Apulia a M. Licinio Crasso proconsule, et post multas calamitates Italiae, tertio anno huic bello finis est impositus.

3. Interim L. Lucullus bellum Mithridaticum persequutus, regnum Mithridatis invasit, ipsumque regem apud Cabira⁶ civitatem, quo ingentes copias ex omni regno adduxerat Mithridates, ingenti proelio superatum fugavit, et castra ejus diripuit. Armenia quoque minor, quam tenebat, eidem erepta est. Susceptus est Mithridates a Tigrane, Armeniae rege, qui tum ingenti gloria imperabat; sed hujus quoque regnum Lucullus est ingressus; Tigranocerta nobilissimam Armeniae civitatem, cepit; ipsum regem, cum magno exer-citu venientem, ita vicit, ut robur militum Armeniorum deleret.
 Sed quum Lucullus finem bello imponere pararet, successor⁷ ei missus est.

4. Per illa tempora piratae⁸ omnia maria infestabant ita, ut Romanis, toto orbe terrarum victoribus, sola navigatio tuta non esset. Quare id bellum Cn. Pompejo decretum
 A. V. 687. est, quod intra paucos menses incredibili felicitate et celeritate confecit. Mox ei delatum bellum contra re-gem Mithridatem et Tigranem. Quo suscepto, Mithridatem in Armenia minore nocturno proelio vicit, castra diripuit, et quadraginta millibus ejus occisis, viginti tantum de exercitu suo perdidit et duos centuriones. Mithridates fugit cum uxore et duobus comitibus, neque multo post, Pharnacis filii sui seditione coactus, venenum hausit.¹ Hunc vitae finem habuit Mithridates, vir ingentis industriae atque consilii. Regnavit annis sexaginta, vixit septuaginta duobus; contra Romanos bellum habuit annis quadraginta.

5. Tigrani deinde Pompejus bellum intulit. Ille se ei dedit, et in castra Pompeji venit, ac diadēma suum in ejus manibus collocavit, quod ei Pompejus reposuit. Parte regni eum multavit et grandi pecunia. Tum alios etiam reges et populos superavit. Armeniam minorem Dejotāro, Galatiae² regi, donavit, quia auxilium contra Mithridatem tulerat. Seleuciam, vicinam Antiochiaē civitatem, libertate donavit, quod regem Tigranem non recepisset.³ Inde in Judaeam⁴ transgressus, Hierosolymam, caput gentis, tertio mense cepit, duodecim millibus Judaeorum occisis, ceteris in fidem receptis. His gestis finem antiquissimo bello imposuit. Ante triumphantis currum ducti sunt filii Mithridatis, filius Tigranis, et Aristobūlus, rex Judaeorum. Praelata ingens pecunia, auri atque argenti infinitum.⁵ Hoc tempore nullum per orbem terrarum grave bellum erat.

6. M. Tullio Cicerone oratore et C. Antonio Coss. anno ab Urbe condita sexcentesimo undenonagesimo, A. V.
689. L. Sergius Catilina,⁶ nobilissimi generis vir, sed ingenii pravissimi, ad delendam patriam conjuravit cum quibusdam, claris quidem, sed audacibus viris. A Cicerone urbe expulsus est, socii ejus deprehensi et in carcere strangulati sunt. Ab Antonio, altero consule, Catilina ipse proelio victus est et interfectus.

7. Anno Urbis conditae sexcentesimo nonagesimo tertio C. Julius Caesar cum L. Bibulo consul est factus. A. V.
693. Quum ei Gallia decreta esset, semper vincendo usque ad Oceanum Britannicum processit. Domuit autem annis novem fere omnem Galliam, quae inter Alpes, flumen Rhodānum, Rhenum et Oceanum est. Britannis mox bellum intulit, quibus ante eum ne nomen quidem Romanorum cognitum erat; Germanos quoque trans Rhenum aggressus, ingentibus proeliis vicit.

8. Circa eadem tempora M. Licinius Crassus contra Parthos⁷ missus est. Et quum circa Carras⁸ contra omnia et auspicia⁹ proelium commisisset, a Surena, Orodis regis duce, victus et interfectus est cum filio, claris A. V.

simo et praestantissimo juvene. Reliquiae exercitus per C. Cassium quaestorem servatae sunt.

9. Hinc jam bellum civile successit, quo Romani
 A. V. 705. nominis¹ fortuna mutata est. Caesar enim victor e Gallia rediens, absens² coepit poscere alterum consulatum; quem quum aliqui sine dubitatione deferrent, contradictum est a Pompejo et aliis, jussusque est, dimissis exercitiibus, in urbem redire. Propter hanc injuriam ab Arimino,³ ubi milites congregatos habebat infesto exercitu Romam contendit. Consules cum Pompejo, senatusque omnis atque universa nobilitas ex urbe fugit et in Graeciam transiit; et, dum senatus bellum contra Caesarem parabat, hic, vacuum urbem ingressus, dictatorem⁴ se fecit.

10. Inde Hispanias⁵ petit, ibique Pompeji legiones superavit; tum in Graecia adversum Pompejum ipsum dimicavit. Primo proelio⁶ victus est et fugatus; evasit tamen, quia nocte interveniente Pompejus sequi noluit; dixitque Caesar, nec Pompejum scire vincere, et illo tantum die se potuisse superari. Deinde in Thessalia apud Pharsalum⁷ ingentibus utrinque copiis commissis dimicaverunt. Nunquam adhuc Romanae copiae majores, neque melioribus ducibus convenerant. Pugnatum est ingenti contentione, victusque ad postremum Pompejus, et castra ejus direpta sunt. Ipse fugatus Alexandriam⁸ petiit, ut a rege Aegypti,⁹ cui tutor a senatu datus fuerat, acciperet auxilia. At hic fortunam magis, quam amicitiam, secutus, occidit Pompejum, caput ejus et annulum Caesari misit. Quo conspecto, Caesar lacrymas fudisse dicitur, tanti viri intuens caput, et generi¹⁰ quondam sui.

11. Quum ad Alexandriam venisset Caesar, Ptolemaeus ei insidias parare voluit; qua de causa regi bellum illatum est. Rex victus in Nilo periit, inventumque est corpus ejus cum lorica aurea. Caesar Alexandria potitus, regnum Cleopatrae¹¹ dedit. Tum inde profectus Pompejanarum partium reliquias est persecutus, bellisque civilibus toto terrarum orbe compositis, Romam rediit. Ubi quum insolentius¹² agere coepisset, conjuratum est in eum a sexaginta vel amplius senatoribus, equitibusque Romanis. Praecipui fuerunt inter conjuratos Bruti duo,¹³ ex genere illius Bruti, qui, regibus expulsi, primus Romae consul fuerat, C. Cassius et Servilius
 A. V. 709. Casca. Ergo Caesar, quum in curiam venisset, viginti tribus vulneribus confossus est.

12. Interfecto Caesare, anno Urbis septingentesimo nono, bella civilia reparata sunt. Senatus favebat Caesaris percussoribus, Antonius Cos. Caesaris partibus stabat. Ergo turbata republica, Antonius, multis sceleribus commissis, a senatu hostis judicatus est. Fusus¹ fugatusque Antonius, amisso exercitu, confugit ad Lepidum,² qui Caesari magister equitum fuerat, et tum grandes copias militum habebat; a quo susceptus est. Mox Octavianus³ cum Antonio pacem fecit, et quasi vindicaturus patris sui mortem, a quo per testamentum fuerat adoptatus, Romam cum exercitu profectus extorsit, ut sibi juveni viginti annorum consulatus daretur. Tum junctus cum Antonio et Lepido rempublicam armis tenere coepit, senatumque proscripsit.⁴ Per hōs etiam Cicero orator occisus est multique alii nobiles.

13. Interea Brutus et Cassius,⁵ interfectores Caesaris, ingens bellum moverunt. Profecti contra eos Caesar Octavianus, qui postea Augustus est appellatus, et M. Antonius, apud Philippos,⁶ Macedoniae urbem, contra A. V.
712. eos pugnaverunt. Primo proelio victi sunt Antonius et Caesar; periit tamen dux nobilitatis Cassius; secundo Brutum et infinitam nobilitatem, quae cum illis bellum susceperat, victam interfecerunt. Tum victores rempublicam ita inter se dividerunt, ut Octavianus Caesar Hispanias, Gallias,⁷ Italiam teneret; Antonius Orientem, Lepidus⁸ Africam acciperet.

14. Paulo post Antonius, repudiata sorore Caesaris Octaviani, Cleopatram, reginam Aegypti, uxorem duxit. Ab hac incitatus ingens bellum commovit, dum Cleopatra cupiditate muliebri optat Romae regnare. Victus est ab Augusto⁹ navali pugna clara et illustri apud Actium,¹⁰ qui locus in Epiro est. Hinc fugit in Aegyptum, et desperatis re- A. V.

Ita bellis toto orbe confectis, Octavianus Augustus Romam rediit anno duodecimo quam consul fuerat. Ex eo inde tempore rempublicam per quadraginta et quatuor annos solus obtinuit. Ante enim duodecim annis cum Antonio et Lepido tenuerat. Ita ab initio principatus ejus usque ad finem quinquaginta sex anni fuere.

VI. OF THE GEOGRAPHY AND THE NATIONS OF ANTIQUITY.

1. Universus terrarum orbis in tres partes dividitur, Europam, Asiam, Africam. Europa ab Africa sejungitur freto Gaditano,¹ in cujus utrâque parte montes sunt altissimi, Abÿla in Africa, in Europa Calpe, qui montes² Herculis columnæ³ appellantur. Per idem fretum mare internum, quod littoribus Europae, Asiae et Africae includitur, jungitur cum Oceano.

2. Europa terminos habet ab oriente Tanâim⁴ fluvium, Pontum Euxinum⁵ et paludem Maeotida;⁶ a meridie, mare internum: ab occidente, mare Atlanticum sive Oceanum; a septentrione, mare Britannicum.⁷ Mare internum tres maximos sinus habet. Quorum is, qui Asiam a Graecia sejungit Aegaeum⁸ mare vocatur: secundus, qui est inter Graeciam et Italiam, Ionium; tertius denique, qui occidentales Italiae oras alluit, a Romanis Tuscum, a Graecis Tyrrhenum⁹ mare appellatur.

3. In ea Europae parte, quae ad occasum vergit, prima terrarum est Hispania, quae a tribus lateribus mari circumdâta, per Pyrenaeos montes cum Gallia cohaeret. Quum universa Hispania dives sit et fecunda, ea tamen regio, quae a flumine Baeti¹⁰ Baetica vocatur, ceteras fertilitate antecellit. Ibi Gades sitae, insula cum urbe a Tyriis condita,¹¹ quae freto Gaditano nomen dedit. Tota illa regio viris, equis, ferro, plumbo, aere, argento, auroque abundat, et ubi penurâ aquarum minus est fertilis, linum tamen aut spartum alit. Marmõris quoque lapicidinas habet. In Baetica minium reperitur.

4. Gallia posita est inter Pyrenaeos montes et Rhenum; orientalem oram Tuscum mare alluit, occidentalem Oceanus. Ejus pars illa, quae Italiae est opposita et Narbonensis,¹² vocatur, omnium est laetissima. In ea ora sita est Massilia¹³ urbs a Phocaeis condita, qui, patriâ a Persis devictâ, quum servitutem ferre non possent, Asiâ relictâ, novas in Europa sedes quaesiverant. Ibidem est campus lapideus, ubi Hercules dicitur contra Neptuni liberos dimicasse.¹⁴ Quum tela defecissent, Jupiter filium imbri lapidum adjuvit. Credas pluisse;¹⁵ adeo multi passim jacent.

geribusque munitas non habent. Ipsas domos ad breve tempus struunt, non lapidibus aut lateribus coctis, sed lignis, quae frondibus tegunt. Nam diu eodem in loco morari periculosum arbitrantur libertati.

12. Agriculturae Germani non admodum student, nec quisquam agri modum certum aut fines proprios habet. Lacte vescuntur et caseo et carne. Ubi fons, campus nemusve iis placuerit, ibi domos figunt, mox alio transituri¹ cum conjugibus et liberis. Interdum etiam hiemem in subterraneis specubus dicuntur transigere.

13. Germania altis montibus, silvis paludibusque invia redditur. Inter silvas maxima est Hercynia,² cujus latitudinem Caesar novem dierum iter patere narrat.³ Insequenti tempore magna pars ejus excisa est. Flumina sunt in Germania multa et magna. Inter haec clarissimum nomen Rheni, de quo supra diximus, et Danubii.⁴ Clari quoque amnes, Moenus,⁵ Visurgis,⁶ Albis.⁷ Danubius, omnium Europae fluviorum maximus; apud Rhaetos⁸ oritur, flexoque ad ortum solis cursu, receptisque sexaginta amnibus, in Pontum Euxinum sex vastis ostiis effunditur.

14. Britanniam insulam Phoenicibus innotuisse, eosque stannum inde et plumbum pellesque petivisse, probabile est. Romanis eam Julius Caesar primus aperuit;⁹ neque tamen prius cognita esse coepit, quam Claudio imperante.¹⁰ Hadrianus eam, muro¹¹ ab Oceano Germanico ad Hibernicum mare ducto, in duas partes divisit, ut inferiorem insulae partem, quae Romanis parebat, a barbarorum populorum, qui in Scotia habitabant, incursionibus tueretur.

15. Maxima insulae pars campestris, collibus, passim silvisque distincta. Incolae Gallos proceritate corporum vincunt, ceterum ingenio Gallis similes, simpliciores tamen illis magisque barbari. Nemora habitant pro urbibus. Ibi tuguria extruunt et stabula pecori, sed plerumque ad breve tempus. Humanitate ceteris praestant ii, qui Cantium¹² incolunt. Tota haec regio est maritima. Qui interiorem insulae partem habitant, frumenta non serunt; lacte et carne vivunt. Pro vestibus induti sunt pellibus.

16. Italia ab Alpibus usque ad fretum Siculum porrigitur inter mare Tuscum et Adriaticum. Multo longior est quam latior.¹³ In medio se attollit Apenninus mons, qui, postquam continenti jugo progressus est usque ad Apuliam, in duos quasi ramos¹⁴ dividitur. Nobilissima regio ob fertilitatem soli, coelique salubritatem. Quum longe in mare procurrat, plurimos habet portus, populorum inter se patentes commercio. Neque ulla facile est regio, quae tot tamque pulcras urbes habeat, inter quas Roma et magnitudine et nominis fama eminet.

17. Haec urbs, orbis terrarum caput, septem montes complectitur. Initio quatuor portas habebat; Augusti aevo triginta septem. Urbis magnificentiam augebant fora, templa, porticus, aquaeductus, theatra, arcus triumphales, horti denique, et id genus¹ alia, ad quae vel lecta² animus stupet. Quare recte de ea praedicare videntur, qui nullius urbis in toto orbe terrarum magnificentiam ei comparari posse dixerunt.

18. Felicissima in Italia regio est Campania. Multi ibi vitiferi colles, ubi nobilissima vina gignuntur, Setinum, Caecubum, Falernum, Massicum. Calidi ibidem fontes saluberrimi.³ Nusquam generosior olea. Conchylio quoque et pisce nobilissima vicina scatent.

19. Clarissimi amnes Italiae sunt Padus⁴ et Tiberis. Et Padus quidem in superiore parte, quae Gallia Cisalpina⁵ vocatur, ab imis radicibus Vesuli⁶ montis exoritur; primum exilis, deinde aliis amnibus ita alitur, ut se per septem ostia in mare effundat. Tiberis, qui antiquissimis temporibus Albulae nomen habebat, ex Apennino oritur; deinde duobus et quadraginta fluminibus auctus, fit navigabilis. Plurimas in utraque ripa villas adspicit, praecipue autem urbis Romanae magnificentiam.⁷ Placidissimus amnium raro ripas egreditur.

20. In inferiore parte Italiae clara quondam urbs Tarentum,⁸ quae maris sinui, cui adjacet, nomen dedit. Soli fertilitas coelique jucunda temperies in causa fuisse videtur, ut incolae luxuria et deliciis enervarentur. Quumque aliquamdiu potentia florerent copiasque haud contemnendas alerent, peregrinis tamen plerumque ducibus in bellis utebantur, ut Pyrrho, rege Epīri, quo superato,⁹ urbs in Romanorum potestatem venit.

21. Proxima Italiae est Sicilia, insula omnium maris interni maxima. Antiquissimis temporibus eam cum Italiae cohaesisse, marisque impetu, aut terrae motu inde divulsam esse, verisimile est. Forma triangularis, ita ut litterae, quam Graeci Δέλτα vocant, imaginem referat. A tribus promontoriis vocatur Trinacria.¹⁰ Nobilissimus ibi mons Aetnae, qui urbi Catanae imminet, tum ob altitudinem, tum etiam ob ignes, quos effundit; quare Cyclōpum¹¹ in illo monte officinam esse poëtae dicunt. Cineres e crateribus egesti¹² agrum circumjacentem fecundum et feracem reddere existimantur. Sunt ibi Picorum campi, qui nomen habent a duobus juvenibus Catanensibus, qui, flammis quondam repente ingruentibus, parentes senectute confectos, humeris sublato¹³ flammae eripuisse feruntur. Nomina fratrum Amphinōmus et Anāpus fuerunt.

22. Inter urbes Siciliae nulla est illustrior Syracusis, Corinthiorum colonia, ex quinque urbibus conflata. Ab Atheniensibus bello petita,¹ maximas hostium copias delevit: Carthaginienses etiam magnis interdum cladibus affecit. Secundo bello Punico² per triennium oppugnata, Archimedis³ potissimum ingenio et arte defensa, a M. Marcello capta est. Vicinus huic urbi fons Arethusae Nymphae sacer, ad quam Alphēus amnis ex Peloponneso per mare Ionium lapsus commissari dicitur; nam si quid ad Olympiam⁴ in illum amnem jactum fuerit, id in Arethusae fonte reddi.⁵ De illa fabula quid statuendum sit, sponte apparet.

23. In mari Ligustico insula est Corsica, quam Graeci Cynnum vocant. Terra aspera multisque locis invia, coelum grave, mare circa importunum. Incolae latrociniis dediti, feri sunt et horridi. Mella quoque illius insulae amara esse dicuntur corporibusque nocere. Proxima ei est Sardinia, quae a Graecis mercatoribus Ichnusa vocatur, quia formam humani vestigii⁶ habet. Solum quam coelum melius. Illud fertile, hoc grave ac noxium. Noxia quoque animalia herbasque venenatas gignit. Multum inde frumenti Romam mittitur; unde haec insula et Sicilia nutrices Urbis vocantur.

24. Graecia nominis celebritate omnes fere alias orbis terrarum regiones superavit. Nulla enim magnorum ingeniorum fuit feracior; neque ulla belli pacisque artes majore studio excoluit. Plurimas eadem colonias in omnes terrae partes deduxit. Multum itaque terra marique valuit, et gravissima bella magna cum gloria gessit.

25. Graecia inter Ionium et Aegaeum mare porrigitur. In plurimas regiones divisa est, quarum amplissimae sunt Macedonia et Epīrus⁷—quamquam hae a nonnullis a Graecia sejunguntur⁸—tum Thessalia. Macedoniam Philippi et Alexandri regnum illustravit; quorum ille Graeciam subegit, hic Asiam latissime domuit, ereptumque Persis imperium in Macedōnes transtulit.⁹ Centum ejus regiones et quinquaginta urbes numerantur; quarum septuaginta duas, Persēo, ultimo Macedōniae rege, superato¹⁰ Paulus Aemilius diripuit.

26. Epirus, quae ab Acrocerauniis incipit montibus,¹¹ desinit in Achelōo flumine. Plures eam populi incolunt. Illustris ibi Dodōna in Molossorum finibus vetustissimo Jovis oraculo inclūta. Columbae ibi ex arboribus oracula dedisse narrantur: quercusque ipsas et lebētes aeneos inde suspensos deorum voluntatem tinnītu significasse¹² fama est.

27. Achelōi fluvii ostiis insulae aliquot objacent, quarum maxima est Cephallenia.¹³ Multae praeterea insulae littori Epiri adjacent, interque eas Corcūra,¹⁴ quam Hómerus Schemiam appellasse existimatur. In hac Phaeācas posuit ille et hortos Alcinōi. Coloniā huc deduxerunt Corinthii, quo tempore¹ Numa Pompilius² Romae regnavit. Vicina ei Ithāca,³ Ulyssis patria, aspera montibus, sed Homeri carminibus adeo nobilitata, ut ne fertilissimis quidem regionibus cedat.

28. Thessalia late patet inter Macedoniam et Epirum, fecunda regio, generosis praecipue equis excellens, unde Thessalorum equitatus celeberrimus. Montes ibi memorabiles Olympus, in quo deorum sedes esse existimatur, Pelion et Ossa, per quos⁴ Gigantes coelum petivisse dicuntur; Oeta denique, in cuius vertice Hercules, rogo conscenso, se ipsum cremavit. Inter Ossam et Olympum Penēus,⁵ limpidissimus amnis, delabitur, vallem amoenissimam, Tempe⁶ vocatam irrigans.

29. Inter reliquas Graeciae regiones nominis claritate eminent Attica, quae etiam Atthis vocatur. Ibi Athenae,⁷ de qua urbe deos⁸ inter se certasse fama est. Certius est, nullam unquam urbem tot poetas tulisse, tot oratores, tot philosophos, totque in omni virtutis genere claros viros. Res autem bello eas⁹ gessit, ut huic soli gloriae studere videretur; pacisque artes ita excoluit, ut hac laude magis etiam quam belli gloria splenderet. Arx ibi sive Acropolis, urbi imminens, unde latus in mare prospectus patet. Per propylaea¹⁰ ad eam adscenditur, splendidum Periclis opus. Cum ipsa urbe per longos muros¹¹ conjunctus est portus Piraeus, post bellum Persicum secundum a Themistocle munitus. Tutissima ibi statio navium.

30. Atticam attingit Boeotia, fertilissima regio. Incolae magis corporibus valent, quam ingeniis. Urbs celeberrima Thebae, quas Amphion, musices ope,¹² moenibus cinxisse dicitur. Illustravit eam Pindari poetae ingenium, Epaminondae virtus.¹³ Mons ibi Helicon, Musarum sedes, et Cithaeron, plurimis poetarum fabulis celebratus.

31. Boeotiae Phocis finitima, ubi Delphi urbs clarissima. In qua urbe oraculum Apollinis quantam apud omnes gentes auctoritatem habuerit, quot quamque praeclara munera ex omni fere terrarum orbe Delphos missa fuerint, nemo ignorat.¹⁴ Imminet urbi Parnassus mons, in cuius verticibus Musae habitare dicuntur, unde aqua fontis Castalii poetarum ingenia inflammare existimatur.

32. Cum ea parte Graeciae, quam haecenus descripsimus, cohaeret ingens peninsula, quae Peloponnesus¹⁵ vocatur, platanifolia simillima. Angustus ille trames inter Aegaeum mare et Ionium, per quem cum Megaride cohaeret, Isthmus¹⁶ appellatur. In eo templum Neptuni est, ad quod ludi celebrantur Isthmici.¹⁷ Ibidem in ipso Peloponnesi aditu, Corinthus sita est, urbs antiquissima, ex cujus summa arce (Acrocorinthon appellant) utrumque mare conspicitur. Quum opibus floreret, maritimisque valeret copiis, gravia bella gessit. In bello Achaico,¹ quod Romani cum Graecis gesserunt, pulcherrima urbs, quam Cicero Graeciae lumen appellat, a L. Mummio expugnata funditusque deleta est. Restituit ea Julius Caesar, colonosque eo milites veteranos misit.

33. Nobilis est in Peloponneso urbs Olympia, templo Jovi Olympii ac statua illustris. Statua ex ebore facta, Phidia summi artificis opus praestantissimum. Prope illud templum ad Alphēi fluminis ripas ludi celebrantur Olympici, ad quo videndos ex tota Graecia concurritur. Ab his ludis Graec gens res gestas suas numerat.²

34. Nec Sparta praetereunda est, urbs nobilissima, quam Lycurgi leges,³ civiumque virtus et patientia illustravit. Nulla fere gens bellica laude magis floruit, pluresque viros fortes constantesque genuit. Urbi imminet mons Taygētus,⁴ qui usque ad Arcadium procurrit. Proxime urbem Eurōtas fluvius delabitur, ad cujus ripas Spartani se exercere solebant. In Sinum Laconicum effunditur. Haud procul inde abest promontorium Taenārum, ubi altissimi specus, per quos Orphēum⁵ ad inferos descendisse narrant.

35. Mare Aegaeum, inter Graeciam Asiamque patens, plurimis insulis distinguitur. Illustres inter eas sunt Cyclādes,⁶ sic appellatae, quia in orbem jacent. Media earum est Delus,⁷ quae repente e mari enāta esse dicitur. In ea insula Latōna Apollinem et Dianam peperit, quae numina ibi una cum matre summa religione coluntur. Urbi imminet Cynthus, mons excelsus et arduus. Inōpus amnis pariter cum Nilo decrescere et augeri dicitur. Mercatus in Delo celeberrimus, quod ob portus commoditatem templique religionem mercatores ex toto orbe terrarum eo confluebant. Eandem ob causam civitates Graeciae, post secundum Persicum bellum, tributa ad belli usum in eam insulam, tamquam in commune totius Graeciae aerarium, conferebant; quam pecuniam insequenti tempore Athenienses in suam urbem transtulerunt.⁸

36. Euboea⁹ insula littori Boeotiae et Atticae praetenditur, angusto freto a continenti distans. Terrae motu a Boeotia avulsa esse creditur: saepius eam concussam esse constat. Fretum, quo a Graecia sejungitur, vocatur Eurīpus, saevum et aestuosum mare, quod continuo motu agitur. Nonnulli dicunt, septies quovis die, statis temporibus, fluctus alterno motu agitari: alii hoc negant, dicentes, mare temere,¹⁰ in ventimodum, huc illuc moveri. Sunt, qui narrent, Aristotelem philosophum, quia hujus miraculi causas investigare non posset, aegritudine confectum esse.

37. Jam ad boreales regiones pergamus. Supra Macedoniam Thracia porrigitur a Ponto Euxino usque ad Illyriam. Regio frigida et in iis tantum partibus fecundior, quae propiores sunt mari. Pomiferae arbores rarae; frequentiores vites; sed uvae non maturescunt, nisi frigus studiose arcetur. Sola Thasus, insula littori Thraciae adjacens, vino excellit. Amnes sunt celeberrimi Hebrus, ad quem Orpheus a Maenadibus discerptus esse dicitur; Nestus et Strymon. Montes altissimi, Haemus, ex cujus vertice Pontus et Adria conspicitur; Rhodöpe et Orbêlus.

38. Plures Thraciam gentes incolunt, et nominibus diversae et moribus. Inter has Getae omnium sunt ferocissimi et ad mortem paratissimi. Animas enim post mortem redituras existimant. Recens nati apud eos deflentur; funera autem cantu lusuque celebrantur. Plures singuli uxores habent.¹ Hae omnes, viro defuncto, mactari simulque cum eo sepeliri cupiunt, magnoque id certamine a iudicibus² contendunt. Virgines non a parentibus traduntur viris, sed aut publice ducendae³ locantur, aut veneunt. Formosae in pretio sunt; ceterae maritos mercede data inveniunt.⁴

39. Inter urbes Thraciae memorabile est Byzantium,⁵ ad Bospörum Thracium,⁶ urbs natura munita et arte, quae cum ob soli fertilitatem, tum ob vicinitatem maris omnium rerum, quas vita requirit, copia abundat. Nec Sestos praetereunda est silentio, urbs ad Hellespontum⁷ posita, quam amor Herus et Leandri⁸ memorabilem reddidit; nec Cynossëma,⁹ tumulus Hecübae,¹⁰ ubi illa, post Trojam dirütam, in canem mutata et sepulta esse dicitur. Nomen etiam habet in iisdem regionibus urbs Aenos, ab Aenëa,¹¹ e patria profugo, condita; Zone, ubi nemorä Orpheum canentem secuta esse narrantur; Abdëra denique, ubi Diomëdes rex advenas equis suis devorandos¹² objiciebat, donec ipse ab Hercule iisdem objectus est. Quae urbs quum ranarum muriumque multitudine infestaretur, incolae, relicto patriae solo, novas sedes quaesiverunt. Hos Cassander,¹³ rex Macedoniae, in societatem accepisse, agrosque in extrema Macedonia¹⁴ assignasse¹⁵ dicitur.

40. Jam de Scythis pauca dicenda sunt. Terminatur Scythia¹⁶ ab uno latere Ponto Euxino, ab altero montibus Rhipaeis, a tergo, Asia et Phaside flumine. Vasta regio nullis fere intus finibus dividitur. Scythae enim nec agrum exercent, nec certas sedes habent, sed armenta et pecora pascentes, per incultas solitudines errare solent. Uxores liberosque secum in plaustis vehunt. Lacte et melle vescuntur; aurum et argentum, cujus nullus apud eos usus est, aspernantur. Corpora pellibus vestiunt.

41. Diversae sunt Scytharum gentes diversique mores. Sunt, qui funera parentum festis sacrificiis celebrent, eorumque capitibus affabre expolitis auroque vinctis pro poculis utantur. Agathyrsi ora et corpora pingunt, idque tanto magis, quanto quis illustrioribus gaudet majoribus.¹ Ii, qui Tauricam Chersonesum² incolunt, antiquissimis temporibus advēnas Dianae mactabant. Interius habitantes ceteris rudiores sunt. Bella amant, et quo quis plures hostes interemerit, eo majore existimatione apud suos habetur. Ne foedera quidem incruenta sunt. Sauciant se qui paciscuntur, sanguinemque permistum degustant. Id fidei pignus certissimum esse putant.

42. Maxima fluminum Scythicorum sunt Ister, qui et Danubius vocatur, et Borysthēnes.³ De Istro supra dictum est. Borysthenes, ex ignotis fontibus ortus, liquidissimas aquas trahit et potatu jucundas. Placidus idem laetissima pabula alit. Magno spatio navigabilis juxta urbem Borysthenida in Pontum effunditur.

43. Ultra Rhipaeos montes et Aquilonem gens habitare existimatur felicissima; Hyperborēos⁴ appellant. Regio aprica, felix coeli temperies omnique afflatu noxio carens. Semel in anno sol iis oritur solstitio, bruma semel occidit.⁵ Incolae in nemoribus et lucis habitant; sine omni⁶ discordia et aegritudine vivunt. Quum vitae eos taedet,⁷ epulis sumtis ex rupe se in mare praecipitant. Hoc enim sepulturae genus beatissimum esse existimant.

44. Asia ceteris terrae partibus est amplior. Oceanus eam alluit, ut locis, ita nominibus differens; Eous ab oriente, a meridie Indicus, a septentrione Scythicus. Asiae nomine⁸ appellatur etiam peninsula, quae a mari Aegaeo usque ad Armeniam patet. In hac parte est Bithynia ad Propontidem sita, ubi Granicus in mare effunditur, ad quem amnem⁹ Alexander, rex Macedoniae, primam victoriam de Persis reportavit.¹⁰ Trans illum amnem sita est Cyzicus in cervice peninsulae,¹¹ urbs nobilissima, a Cyzico appellata, qui in illis regionibus ab Argonautis pugna occisus est.¹² Haud procul ab illa urbe Rhyndacus in mare effunditur, circa quem angues nascuntur, non solum ob magnitudinem mirabiles, sed etiam ob id, quod, quum ex aqua emergunt et hiant, supervolantes aves absorbent.¹³ ci nomen habet. Fluvius ibi Cydnus, aquâ limpidissimâ et frigidissimâ, in quo Alexander Macēdo quum lavaret,¹ parum abfuit, quin frigore enecaretur. Antrum Corycium in iisdem regionibus ob singularem naturam memorabile est. Ingenti illud hiatu patet in monte arduo, alteque demissum undique viret lucis² pendentibus. Ubi ad ima perventum est rursus aliud antrum aperitur. Ibi sonitus cymbalorum ingredientiē terrere dicitur.³ Totus hic specus augustus est et vere sacer, et a Diis habitari existimatur.

45. Propontis cum Ponto jungitur per Bospōrum, quod fretum quinque stadia latum, Europam ab Asia separat. Iphis in faucibus Bospori oppidum est Chalcēdon, ab Archia, Megarensium principe, et templum Jovis, ab Jasōne¹⁴ conditum.

51. E Cilicia egressos Syria excipit, cūjus pars est Phœnice in littore maris interni posita. Hanc regionem sollers hominum genus colit. Phœnices enim litterarum formas a se inventas aliis populis tradiderunt; alias etiam artes, quae ad navigationem et mercaturam spectant, studiose coluerunt. Ceterum fertilis regio crebrisque fluminibus rigata, quorum ope terrae marisque opes facili negotio inter se permutantur. Nobilissimae Phœnices urbes Sidon, antequam a Persis caperetur, maritimarum urbium maxima, et Tyrus, aggere cum terra conjuncta.⁴ Purpura hujus urbis omnium pretiosissima. Conficitur ille color ex succo in conchis, quae etiam purpurae vocantur, latente.

52. Ex Syria descenditur in Arabiam, peninsulam inter duo maria, Rubrum et Persicum, porrectam. Hujus ea pars, quae ab urbe Petra Petraeae nomen accepit, plane est sterilis; hanc excipit ea, quae ob vastas solitudines deserta vocatur. His partibus adhaeret Arabia felix, regio angusta, sed cinnāmi, thuris aliorumque odorum feracissima. Multae ibi gentes sunt, quae fixas sedes non habeant, Nomādes a Graecis appellatae. Lacte et carne ferina vescuntur. Multi etiam Arābum populi latrociniis vivunt.⁵ Primus e Romanis Aelius Gallus in hanc terram cum exercitu penetravit.⁶

53. Camelos inter armenta pascit Oriens. Duo harum sunt genera, Bractrianae et Arabiae.⁷ Illae bina habent in dorso tubera, hae singula; unum autem sub pectore, cui incumbant. Dentium ordine superiore carent. Sitem quatrīduo tolerant; aquam antequam bibant, pedibus turbant. Vivunt quinquagenis annis; quaedam etiam centenīs.

54. Ex Arabia pervenitur in Babyloniam, cui Babylon nomen dedit, Chaldaicarum gentium caput, urbs et magnitudine et divitiis clara. Semiramis eam condiderat, vel, ut multi crediderunt, Belus, cujus regia ostenditur. Murus exstructus laterculo coctili, triginta et duos pedes est latus, ita ut quadrigae inter se occurrentes sine periculo commeare dicantur; altitudo ducentorum pedum; turre autem denis pedibus quam murus altiores sunt. Totius operis ambitus sexaginta millia passuum complectitur. Mediam urbem permeat Euphrātes. Arcem habet viginti stadiorum ambitu ;¹ super ea pensiles horti conspiciuntur, tantaeque sunt moles² tamque firmæ, ut onera nemorum sine detrimento ferant.

55. Amplissima Asiae regio India primum patefacta est armis Alexandri Magni, regis Macedoniae, cujus exemplum suc-cessores³ secuti in interiora Indiae penetraverunt. In eo tractu, quem Alexander subegit, quinque millia oppidorum fuisse, gentesque novem, Indiamque tertiam partem esse terrarum omnium, ejus comites scripserunt. Ingentes ibi sunt amnes, Indus et Indo-major Ganges. Indus in Paropamiso⁴ ortus undeviginti amnes recipit, totidem Ganges, interque eos plures navigabiles.

56. Maxima in India gignuntur animalia. Canes ibi gran-diores ceteris. Arbores tantae proceritatis esse traduntur, ut sagittis superjāci nequeant. Hoc efficit ubertas soli, temperies coeli, aquarum abundantia. Immanes quoque serpentes alit, qui elephantos morsu et ambitu corporis⁵ conficiunt. Solum tam pingue et ferax, ut mella frondibus defluant, sylvae lanas ferant⁶ arundinum internodia fissa cymbarum usum praebent, binosque, quaedam etiam ternos homines, vehant.

57. Incolarum habitus moresque diversi. Lino alii vestiun-tur et lanis arborum, alii ferarum aviumque pellibus, pars nudi incedunt. Quidam animalia occidere eorumque carnibus vesci nefas putant; alii piscibus tantum aluntur. Quidam parentes et propinquos, prius quam annis et macie confi-ciantur, velut hostias caedunt eorumque visceribus epulantur; ubi senectus eos morbusve invadit, mortem in solitudine aequo animo expectant. Ii, qui sapientiam profitentur, ab ortu solis ad occasum stare solent, solem immobilibus oculis intuentes; ferventibus arenis toto die alternis pedibus insistunt.⁷
Mortem non expectant, sed sponte arcessunt, in rogos incensos se praecipitantes.⁸

58. Maximos India elephantos gignit, adeoque feroces, ut Afri elephanti illos paveant, nec contueri audeant. Hoc animal cetera omnia docilitate superat. Discunt arma jacere, gladiatorum more congredi, saltare et per funes incedere. Pli-nius⁹ narrat, Romae unum segnioris ingenii saepius castigatum esse verberibus, quia tardius accipiebat, quae tradebantur; eun-dem repertum esse noctu eadem meditantem.¹⁰ Elephanti gregatim semper ingrediuntur. Ducit agmen maximus natu, co-git is, qui aetate ei est proximus. Annem transituri minimos praemittunt. Capiuntur foveis. In has ubi elephas deciderit, ceteri ramos congerunt, aggeres construunt, omnique vi conan-tur extrahere. Domantur fame et verberibus. Domiti militant et turres armatorum in hostes ferunt, magnaque ex parte¹¹

Orientis bella conficiunt. Totas acies prosternunt, armatos proterunt. Ingens dentibus pretium. In Graecia ebur ad deorum simulacra tanquam pretiosissima materia adhibetur;¹ in extremis Africae postium vicem in domiciliis praebet, sepesque in pecorum stabulis elephantorum dentibus fiunt. Inter omnia animalia maxime oderunt murem. Infestus elephanto etiam rhinoceros, qui nomen habet a cornu, quod in naso gerit. In pugna maxime adversarii alvum petit, quam scit esse molliorem. Longitudine elephantum fere exaequat; crura multo breviora: color buxeus.

59. Etiam psittacos India mittit. Haec avis humanas voces optime reddit. Quum loqui discit, ferreo radio verberatur, aliter enim non sentit ictus. Capiti ejus eadem est duritia, quae rostro. Quum devolat, rostro se excipit,² eique innititur.

60. Testudines tantae magnitudinis Indicum mare emittit, ut singularum testis casas integant. Insulas rubri praecipue maris his navigant cymbis.³ Capiuntur obdormiscentes in summa aqua, id quod proditur stertentium sonitu. Tum terni⁴ adnātant, a duobus in dorsum vertitur, a tertio laqueus injicitur, atque ita a pluribus in littore stantibus trahitur. In mari testudines conchyliis vivunt; tanta enim oris est duritia, ut lapides comminuant; in terram egressae, herbis. Pariunt ova, ovis avium similia, ad centena⁵ numero; eaque extra aquam defossa terrâ cooperiunt.

61. Margaritae Indici Oceani omnium maxime laudantur. Inveniuntur in conchis, scopulis adhaerentibus. Maxima laus est in candore, magnitudine, laevore, pondere. Raro duae inveniuntur, quae sibi ex omni parte sint similes. Has auribus suspendere, feminarum est gloria.⁶ Duos maximos uniones Cleopatra, Aegypti regina, habuisse dicitur. Horum unum, ut Antonium⁷ magnificentia superaret, in coena aceto solvit, solutum hausit.

62. Aegyptus, inter Catabathmum⁸ et Arabas posita, a plurimis ad Asiam refertur; alii Asiam Arabico sinu terminari existimant. Haec regio, quamquam expers est imbrium, mire tamen est fertilis. Hoc Nilus efficit, omnium fluviorum, qui in mare internum effunduntur, maximus. Hic in desertis Africae oritur, tum ex Aethiopia descendit in Aegyptum, ubi de altis rupibus praecipitatus⁹ usque ad Elephantidem urbem fervens adhuc decurrit. Tum demum fit placidior. Juxta Cercasorum oppidum in plures amnes dividitur, et tandem per septem ora¹⁰ effunditur in mare.

63. Nilus, nivibus in Aethiopiae montibus solutis, crescere incipit Luna nova post solstitium per quinquaginta fere dies; totidem diebus minuitur. Justum incrementum est cubitorum sexdecim. Si minores sunt aquae, non omnia rigant. Maximum incrementum fuit cubitorum duodeviginti; minimum quinque. Quum stetere aquae, aggeres aperiuntur,¹ et arte aqua in agros immittitur. Quum omnis recesserit, agri irrigati et limo obducti seruntur.

64. Nilus crocodilum alit, belluam quadrūpedem, in terra non minus quam in flumine hominibus infestam. Unum hoc animal terrestre linguae usu caret; dentium plures habet ordines; maxilla inferior est immobilis. Magnitudine excedit plerumque duodeviginti cubita. Parit ova anserinis non majora. Unguibus etiam armatus est, et cute contra omnes ictus invicta. Dies in terra agit, noctes in aqua. Quum satur est et in littore somnum capit, ore hiante, trochilus, parva avis, dentes ei faucesque purgat. Sed hiantem conspicatus ichneumon, per easdem fauces, ut telum aliquod immissus, erodit alvum. Hebētes oculos dicitur habere in aqua, extra aquam acerrimos. Tentyritae in insula Nili² habitantes, dirae huic belluae obviam ire audent, eamque incredibili audacia expugnant.

65. Aliam etiam belluam Nilus alit, hippopotamum; unguibus binis, dorso equi et juba et hinnitu; rostro resimo, cauda et dentibus aprorum. Cutis impenetrabilis, praeterquam si humore madeat. Primus hippopotamum et quinque crocodilos M. Scaurus aedilitatis suae ludis Romae ostendit.³

66. Multa in Aegypto mira sunt et artis et naturae opera. Inter ea, quae manibus hominum facta sunt, eminent pyramides, quarum maximae sunt et celeberrimae in monte sterili inter Memphin oppidum et eam partem Aegypti, quae Delta vocatur. Amplissimam earum trecenta sexaginta sex hominum millia annis viginti extruxisse traduntur. Haec octo jugera soli occupat; unumquodque latus octingentos octoginta tres pedes longum est; altitudo a cacumine, pedum quindecim millium. Intus in ea est puteus octoginta sex cubitorum. Ante has pyramides Sphinx est posita mirae magnitudinis. Capitis ambitus centum duos pedes habet; longitudo est pedum centum quadraginta trium; altitudo a ventre usque ad summum capitis apicem sexaginta duorum.

67. Inter miracula Aegypti commemoratur etiam Moeris⁴ lacus, quingenta millia passuum in circuitu patens; Labyrinthus,⁵ ter mille domos et regias duodecim uno pariete amplexus, totus marmore exstructus tectusque; turris denique in insula Pharo, a Ptolemaeo, Lagi filio,⁶ condita. Usus ejus navibus noctu ignes ostendere ad praenuntianda vada portusque introitum.

68. In palustribus Aegypti regionibus papyrus nascitur.

Radicibus incolae pro ligno utuntur; ex ipso autem papyro navigia texunt, e libro vela, tegetes, vestem ac funes. Succicausa etiam mandunt modo crudum, modo decoctum. Praeparantur ex eo etiam chartae. Chartae ex papyro usus post Alexandri demum victorias repertus est. Primo enim scriptum in palmarum foliis, deinde in libris quarundam arborum; postea publica monimenta plumbeis tabulis confici, aut marmoribus mandari coepta sunt. Tandem aemulatio regum Ptolemaei et Eumēnis in bibliothecis condendis¹ occasionem dedit membranas Pergami inveniendi. Ab eo inde tempore libri modo in charta ex papyro facta, modo in membranis scripti sunt.

69. Mores incolarum Aegypti ab aliorum populorum moribus vehementer discrepant. Mortuos nec cremant, nec sepeliunt; verum arte medicatos,² intra penetralia collocant. Negotia extra domos feminae, viri domos et res domesticas curant; onera illae humeris, hi capitibus gerunt. Colunt effigies multorum animalium et ipsa animalia. Haec interfecisse capitale est; morbo extincta lugent et sepeliunt.

70. Apis omnium Aegypti populorum numen est; bos niger cum candida in dextro latere macula: nodus sub lingua quem cantharum appellant. Non fas est eum certos vitae annos excedere. Ad hunc vitae terminum quum pervenerit, mersum in fonte enecant. Necatum lugent, aliumque quaerunt, quem ei substituant; nec tamen unquam diu quaeritur.³ Delubra ei sunt gemina, quae thalamos vocant, ubi populus auguria captat. Alterum intrasse laetum est; in altero dira portendit. Pro bono etiam habetur signo, si e manibus consulentium cibum capit. In publicum procedentem grex puerorum comitatur, carmenque in ejus honorem canunt, idque videtur intelligere.

71. Ultra Aegyptum Aethiopes habitant. Horum populi quidam Macrobii⁴ vocantur, quia paulo quam nos diutius vivunt. Plus auri apud eos reperitur, quam aeris; hanc ob causam aes illis videtur pretiosius. Aere se exornant, vincula auro fabricant. Lacus est apud eos, cujus aqua tam est liquida atque levis, ut nihil eorum, quae inmittuntur, sustinere queat; quare arborum quoque folia non innatant aquae, sed pessum aguntur.

72. Africa ab oriente terminatur Nilo;⁵ a ceteris partibus mari. Regiones ad mare positae eximie sunt fertiles; interiores incultae et arenis sterilibus tectae, et ob nimium calorem desertae. Prima pars ab occidente est Mauritania.⁶ Ibi mons praealtus Abyla, Calpae monti in Hispania oppositus. Hi montes columnae Herculis appellantur.⁷ Fama est, ante Herculem mare internum terris inclusum fuisse, nec exitum habuisse in Oceanum; Herculem autem junctos montes diremisse et mare junxisse cum Oceano. Ceterum regio illa est ignobilis et parvis tantum oppidis habitatur. Solum melius quam incolae.

73. Numidia¹ magis culta et opulentior. Ibi satis longo a littore intervallo saxa cernuntur attrita fluctibus, spinae piscium, ostreorumque fragmenta, anchorae etiam cautibus infixae, et alia ejusmodi signa maris olim usque ad ea loco effusi. Finitima regio, a promontorio Metagonio ad aras Philaenorum, proprie vocatur Africa.² Urbes in ea celeberrimae Utica et Carthago, ambae a Phoenicibus conditae. Carthaginem divitiae, mercaturâ imprimis comparatae, tum bella cum Romanis³ gesta, ex-cidium denique illustravit.

74. De aris Philaenorum haec narrantur.⁴ Pertinacissima fuerat contentio inter Carthaginem et Cyrenas de finibus. Tandem placuit, utrimque eodem tempore juvenes mitti, et locum, quo convenissent pro finibus haberi. Carthaginensium legati, Philaeni fratres, paulo ante tempus constitutum egressi esse dicuntur. Quod quum Cyrenensium legati intellexissent, magnaue exorta esset contentio, tandem Cyrenenses dixerunt, se tum demum hunc locum pro finibus habituros esse, si Philaeni se ibi vivos obrui passi essent. Illi conditionem acceperunt. Carthaginenses autem animosis juvenibus in illis ipsis locis, ubi vivi sepulti sunt, aras consecraverunt, eorumque virtutem aeternis honoribus prosecuti sunt.

75. Inde ad Catabathmum⁵ Cyrenaica⁶ porrigitur, ubi Ammonis oraculum et fons quidam, quem Solis⁷ esse dicunt. Hic fons media nocte fervet, tum paulatim tepescit; sole oriente fit frigidus; per meridiem maxime riget. Catabathmus vallis est devexa versus Aegyptum. Ibi finitur Africa. Proximi his⁸ populi urbes non habent, sed in tuguriis vivunt, quae mapalia vocantur. Vulgus pecudum vestitur pellibus. Potus est lac succusque baccarum; cibus caro. Interiores etiam incultius vivunt. Sequuntur greges suos, utque hi pabulo ducuntur, ita illi tuguria sua promövent.⁹ Leges nullas habent, nec in commune consultant. Inter hos Troglodytae in specubus habitant, serpentibusque aluntur.

76. Ferarum Africa feracissima. Pardos, panthēras, leones gignit, quod belluarum genus Europa ignorat. Leoni praecipua generositas.¹⁰ Prostratis¹¹ parcere dicitur; in infantes non nisi summa fame saevit. Animi ejus index caudā, quam, dum placidus est, iminctam servat; dum irascitur, terram et se ipsum ea flagellat. Vis summa in pectore. Si fugere cogitur, contemtim cedit, quam diu spectari potest; in silvis acerrimo cursu fertur. Vulneratus percussorem novit, et in quantalibet multi-tudine appetit.¹ Hoc tam saevum animal gallinacei cantus terret. Domatur etiam ab hominibus. Hanno Poenus primus leonem mansuefactum ostendisse dicitur. Marcus autem Antonius, triumvir, primus, post pugnam in campis Philippicis,² Romae leones ad currum junxit.

77. Struthiocamēli Africi altitudinem equitis equo insidentis exaequant, celeritatem vincunt. Pennae ad hoc demum videntur datae, ut currentes adjūvent; nam a terra tolli non possunt. Ungulae cervinis sunt similes. His in fuga comprehendunt lapides, eosque contra sequentes jaculantur. Omnia concōquunt. Ceterum magna iis stoliditas, ita ut, quum caput et collum frutice occultaverint, se latēre existiment. Pennae eorum quaeruntur ad ornatum.

78. Africa serpentes generat vicensorum cubitorum; nec minores India. Certe Megasthēnes scribit, serpentes ibi in tantam magnitudinem adolescere, ut solidos hauriant cervos taurosque. In primo Pūnico bello ad flumen Bagrādam³ serpens centum viginti pedum a Regulo, imperatore Romano,⁴ ballistis et tormentis expugnata esse fertur. Pellis ejus et maxillae diu Romae in templo quodam asservatae sunt. In India serpentes perpetuum bellum cum elephantis gerunt. Ex arboribus se in praetereuntes praecipitant gressusque ligant nodis. Hos nodos elephantī manu⁵ resolvunt. At dracones in ipsas elephantorum nares caput condunt spiritumque praecludunt. Plerumque in illa dimicatione utrique commoriuntur, cum victus elephas corruens serpentem pondere suo elīdit.

5 swering to the question ubi, where? Pergamus, now Bergamo, a town of Mysia, in Asia Minor, on the Caicus, the capital of a kingdom which the Romans enlarged in favour of Eumenes, after the defeat of Antiochus, king of Syria, and which was left to the Roman people by Attalus, the last king, B. C. 133, A. U. C. 621. Here Eumenes founded a famous library, in opposition to that of Ptolemy at Alexandria, who, from motives of jealousy, forbade the exportation of Egyptian papyrus, in consequence of which Eumenes invented parchment, called hence Pergamena (charta.) Antony and Cleopatra transported this library, containing 200,000 volumes, to Alexandria.

3. Esse, when it admits of being translated by have, and denotes possession, governs the dative.

4. Terrori sunt, "are a terror to, terrify."

5. Nobis. The dative sometimes indicates the object for which, and on account of which, something takes place.

6. Ne quidem, "not even." These words are always separated by the word on which the emphasis falls.

7. Sacra, profana, as substantives. See note 6, p. 4.

8. Parcere, signifies properly, "to show forbearance," as,

9. Invidere, "to feel envy."

10. Mederi, signifying "to give relief," "to cure," governs the dative of the person.

11. Vesci, "to feed upon," governs the ablative.

12. Prioribus, (pedibus), "the fore feet."

13. Uti aliqua re, "to make use of a thing."

6 1. Carere, "to be without, want, be in want of;" it is followed by an ablative of the thing wanted.

2. Sex sestertiis Romae venit. A sestertium (the name of a sum, not of a coin) was equivalent to 1000 sestertii. A sestertius was equal to 3¼ cents, and 1000 sestertii or a sestertium, to $37 50; six sestertia, therefore, were equal to $225. Veneo, venire, "to be sold, to be exposed to sale;" it must be distinguished from venio, venire, "to come."

3. Carthagine. Names of towns of the 3d declension, and also plurals of the 1st and 2d, are put in the ablative when answering to the question, where?

4. Beneficium repetere. The accusative depending upon the infinitive; and that again which depends upon it, like adverbs with the infinitive, form, in conjunction with it, the subject.

7 1. Prodesse from prosum.

2. Equo vehi is equivalent to equitationem.

3. Pugnare, equivalent to pugnare.

4. Juveni. The person on whom a necessity of doing something lies, is put in the dative, as here, juveni and seni, and in the following sentences, discipulis and senibus.

5. Vincendi. The gerund is nothing else than the four oblique cases (genitive, dative, accusative, and ablative) of the neuter of the participle passive in dus. In respect to signification, it supplies the place of a declinable infinitive of the present active, since it expresses the action or state of the verb, as a verbal substantive. It is governed, as a substantive, by other substantives and adjectives, and also governs the case of its verb. Thus,

6. Utendi governs re in the ablative, because its verb utor governs that case.

7. Naturâ, "by nature, naturally;" the ablative of the cause.

8. Nova (negotia), the neuter plural. See note 6, p. 4.

9. With equus, inutilis est must be understood.

10. Pennae, i. e. adhibentur.

11. Et—et, “as well—as also.”

1. Quid for aliquid.

2. Et ipse, “thou too,” “thou thyself also.”

3. Sub hasta, “at auction, at public sale.” At first a spear was set up only when spoils taken in war were to be sold. Afterwards at all auctions. Hence hasta is put for a public sale, and sub hasta venire, to be publicly sold.

4. Clementiâ instead of quâ clementiâ. The ablative may be put after the comparative, if the comparative particle be omitted instead of the nominative of the subject, and, in the construction of the accusative with the infinitive, instead of the accusative of the subject.

1. Opulentissimae urbes. The words which form an apposition, agree with those, which they accompany, in case, and, for the most part, when circumstances permit, in gender and number.

2. Why not altiores?

3. Thebae, a plural only.

4. Utor with an ablative of the thing used.

5. Quod. When the relative pronoun refers to is, ea, id, and agree with it in case, the demonstrative is often left out.

6. Parcere with the dative of the thing spared.

7. Carere aliqua re.

8. Vel, even.

9. Haec, as a neuter plural, to be referred to the preceding substantives.

1. Ut—condantur. It is to be observed, as a general rule, that when the verb preceding ut is in the present or future tense, the verb following ut must be put in the present subjunctive; and that, when the preceding verb is in any of the preterite tenses, the verb following must be in the imperfect or perfect subjunctive.

2. Ne vulneribus quidem. See above, note 6, p. 5.

3. Omnia, quae, “all, that.”

4. Ne quis (aliquis) equivalent to: ut nemo—Apelles, the greatest painter of that time.

5. Quin, equivalent to quod non.

6. Quin conspicer, “that I cannot see,” or, “without seeing you.”

7. Quin after non dubito signifies “that.”

8. Unusne. The enclitic ne (distinguished by its quantity from the conjunction ne) is equivalent to num.

9. Qua de causa. This is the usual position of the words; as in quam ob rem, the preposition is placed after the relative pronoun.

1. Suffossum, scil. esse. So also in the following sentences, pulsos and fugatos must be connected with esse, which stands at the end of the sentence. In Thessalia, supply aliud oppidum.

2. Jusserat cremari. The infinitive active is used with jubere, when the person is expressed to whom the commission is given; otherwise, the infinitive passive.

3. Quam Hispaniae gentes. The relative is here used as the accusative of the subject. Hispania was separated from Gaul by the Pyrenees, and from Africa by the Fretum Herculeum, now the Straits of Gibraltar; on the east it was bounded by the Mediterranean, and on the west by the Atlantic.

- 11 4. Noli, with the infinitive, often forms a periphrasis, instead of ne with the imperative or subjunctive.
5. Homerus traditur. Instead of quidam tradunt, Homerum vixisse, &c.
6. Totos dies. The accusative, expressing duration of time.
7. Fessus has a participial form and signification; there is, however, no theme from which it can be derived. It is commonly assigned to fatiscor.
8. Legentem, i. e. aliquem qui legebat: "a reader."
9. Habentes. The participles in this and some of the following sentences, can be rendered by the relative pronoun, for which sometimes (as in dantis) the demonstrative must be taken.
- 12 1. Proeliatus, equivalent to qui centum et viginti proeliis interfuerat.
2. Adverso corpore. "On the breast."
3. Satiati. This and the following participles may be rendered by "when."
4. Transituri. The future participle active is used to express an action which one is about to perform.
5. Duces ad terga recipiunt. Those, which have preceded for a time, when tired, take the hindmost place.
6. Ejus tumulo circumdedit, equivalent to tumulum ejus circumdedit urbe, Bucephalon appellata.
7. Patronum, scil. suum. The possessive pronoun is in every instance omitted, where it can be understood from the context.
8. Heres institutus, "although appointed heir."
9. Tantae magnitudinis. The genitive of quality.
10. Tegendo, "for covering." The future participle passive can often be translated by a substantive.
- 13 1. Filio victore. The adjective victor is here used exactly after the manner of a participle. The phrase is equivalent to postquam filius vicerat Olympiae (in the solemn games there celebrated.)
2. Convolvuntur, "are rolled together; roll themselves together."

ÆSOP'S FABLES.

- 14 1. Milvii metu, or milvium metuentes. That shows more definitely the efficient cause.
2. Receptus, i. e. postquam receptus fuit.
3. Orare, "to pray;" exorare, "to move by prayer, to obtain by praying, to prevail upon."
4. Corrosio plagis. The ablative absolute; whereby the original force of this mode of speaking shows itself; "by means of the nets being gnawed through," i. e. "by means of its gnawing the nets." By this form the sentences are more intimately connected than if the form, ut plagas corroderet eumque liberaret, were used.
5. Quo facto, instead of quum hoc factum esset. The relative noun often stands instead of the demonstrative at the beginning of a sentence, to connect it more closely with that which precedes.
6. Soleant. When the subject of the verb is expressed chiefly by the clause following it, whether there be, or be not, an antecedent word, receiving the action of the verb, the pronoun is to be considered as indefinite, and joined with the subjunctive mood. It has been observed, that this mood has two different names, as it has two distinct uses, potential and subjunctive. When the meaning is contingent, that is, when the sense requires this form, the mood is strictly potential, as Doceam, "I may teach." Here the verb is not affected, as to its mood, by any antecedent word. But, if we say, Quod doceam, "Because I teach," the verb is under the government of the conjunction quod, and were it not for this conjunction, the English being indicative, the verb would be put in the indicative mood. In this example, therefore, the verb is strictly in the subjunctive mood, this form being used, not because the sense requires it, for the English is indicative, but because it is subjoined to the conjunction quod. Crombie's Gymnasium, vol. 1. p. 64, 3d ed.

7. Praetereunti from praetereo (praeteriens).

8. Cui, instead of huic.

9. Maledicere, properly "to speak ill of one."

10. Apud Junonem. The peacock is sacred to Juno, the eagle to Jupiter, the raven to Apollo, and the wolf to Mars.

11. Quod denotes the cause of the action of the verb on which it depends, (conquerebatur); while ut expresses the consequence of the action.

12. Negata esset—excellat. When a proposition, containing the statement of a fact, and therefore being in the indicative mood, has another dependent upon it, connected by a causal conjunction or relative, in which something is alleged as the sentiment or language of another, and not of the writer, the dependent proposition will be in the subjunctive mood. In the present case, the dependent clause, connected to the preceding by the conjunction quod, does not express an opinion of the author, but the complaint of the peacock. The sentence, from quod vocis to cantu excellat, is equivalent, therefore, to Quod dixit, vocis suavitatem sibi negatam esse, dum lusciniam, avem tam parum decoram, cantu excellere. Crombie's Gymnasium, vol. 2, p. 4, 3d ed. Zumpt's Lat. Gram. Kenrick's translation, 2d ed. p. 341.

13. Non enim. Combine oportuit non conferrī omnia, "one ought not to heap up."

14. Adveniente domino prati, instead of quum dominus prati adveniret.

1. Cui instead of huic. See page 14th, note 5th.

2. Non est in animo instead of non libet.

3. Dulcia, "the agreeable;" tuta, "the safe, safety." The neuter of adjectives are often used in this manner as substantives, particularly in the plural.

4. Nosne, instead of num nos.

5. Frueris, with the ablative of the thing.

6. The impersonal verbs, puget, piget, pœnitet, tædet, miseret, require the person who is the subject of the feeling to be in the accusative case, and the object which excites it to be in the genitive.

7. Latrando. The ablative of the gerund.

8. Quod denotes the cause of the preceding.

9. Vescamur. With the ablative of the thing.

10. Velis—possis. The subjunctive stands after qui, quae, quod, when it refers to an indefinite object, expressed by is, aliquis, or talis.

11. Eundem, scil. leonem.

12. Conspicata and obviam facta can be resolved by quum with the pluperfect.
 13. Ausa est. Why not audebat?
 14. Recta via, "straight forward."
 15. Cui. See above, note 1st.
 16. Facientem. The participle depends upon videre, and supplies the place of the infinitive.
 17. Videro. In what relation does the future past stand here?
 18. Sic. By this concord.
 19. Dissidio orto, equivalent to post-dissidium ortum, or postquam dissidium ortum erat.
 20. Quantum boni. The genitive depends upon quantum. The nominatives and accusatives neuter of some pronouns, and of some adjectives which are used as pronouns, take a genitive, either because they are virtually become substantives, or because they denote a part.
 21. Sit. Compare note 6th, page 14.
1. Tanquam esset. The subjunctive serves to express that which exists only in the conception of another.
 2. Unde agnitus. Unde, instead of et inde, connects in the same manner as the relative pronoun.
 3. Illam, scil. gallinam; as the accusative of the subject, while massam, which depends on celare, is the accusative of the object.
 4. Una. An adverb.
 5. Laeti—prior. The adjective is often added to the verb, instead of the adverb, to denote the manner, or situation, in which the action is performed.
 6. Conspexisset. Compare note 1st above.
 7. Contendant, etc. Observe the use of the present in animated narration instead of the imperfect, just as below aufugit and potitur instead of the perfect.
 8. Comitatus esset. See above, note 1st.
 9. Idque, equivalent to et quidem.
 10. Ne nostris quidem corporibus. The particles ne, quidem, are separated by the word on which the emphasis lies. In what case is corporibus?
 11. Quid fiat. Interrogatives, when preceded by such words as scio, nescio, quaero, dubito, are said to be taken indefinitely, and
 12. Quod quum. See above, note 5, p. 14.
 13. Enim suffers us to add in thought a sentence from the preceding.
 14. Nitidas, i. e. candidas. The ancients wore garments of wool, which was cleansed and made white by Fullers.
- 17
1. Reddidissem. The subjunctive of the pluperfect takes the place of the future past, and denotes an action as possible in the future, and as accomplished in relation to a future action.
 2. Ne me interficite. Ne is used instead of non, with the imperative mood, and also with the present subjunctive.
 3. Propter hoc ipsum, "for the same reason." These words are explained by the following sentence.
 4. Pugnandi imperitus, is used in the same manner as peritus, imperitus, litterarum.
 5. Eos, qui irritent. See note 10, p. 15.
 6. Bina aut terna. The cardinal numerals, unus, duo, &c. imply, that the number spoken of belongs to all collectively, and is the whole amount. The distributive, singuli, bini, terni, denote that the number specified belongs to each individual, and is therefore only a part of the whole. Thus, Eutropius, speaking of the government of the senators after the death of Romulus, says, "Regnaverunt per quinos dies;" not, "they reigned five days," but "five days each." Crombie's Gymnasium, vol. 1, p. 38, 3d ed.

7. Fore, ut pareret. A periphrasis for illam parituram esse.

8. At denotes an objection which we make to the intention or thought.

9. Etiam, "yet too," with reference to the trouble it costs to obtain them, to which afterwards the words, in via repertas, (of things, which one can get without any exertion) are opposed.

10. Quae is the accusative governed by assequi; se the accusative of the subject. The phrase may be rendered, "which they despair of being able to attain."

11. Desperent. See note 10, p. 15.

12. Dicitur respondisse, instead of respondit, ut dicitur.

* 1. Caverent. The past tense is here used, because habuerunt, the leading verb, is in the past. Even, however, though the leading verb were present (habent), caverent would still be used, if it were requisite to denote a continued action: "how they might protect themselves for the time to come." 18

2. Multis aliis propositis, "after many other propositions."

3. Ipsos is equivalent to se, but lays more stress on the pronoun.

4. Jussit appendi. See note 2, p. 11.

5. Quasi esset. See note 1, p. 16.

6. O te stolidum. The accusative is used in exclamations with or without an interjection. Me miserum! me felicem!

7. Qui ignorare videris. The clause gives the reason for the preceding remark.

8. Sibi placere, applied to a vain person, who is filled with conceit on account of something.

9. Licet venias, fruaris. The subjunctive depends upon ut understood.

10. Nihil moror. More forcible than non curo.

11. Tanti esse. The genitive of valuing.

12. Quod possit. The relative pronoun contains, in relation to tanti, the meaning of a consequence, and may be expressed by ut id.

13. Conducit. Concerning the present in a narration. See p. 10, note 7.

14. Qui extrahat. When the proposition introduced by the relative expresses the end and motive of the action mentioned in the preceding proposition, so that ut might be substituted for it, the verb must be in the subjunctive mood. This applies also to relative adverbs. Compare Crombie's Gymnasium, vol. 2, p. 23, and Zumpt's L. G., Kenrick's Transl. p. 348.

* 1. Misericordia motus. We often add to the expression of passion a participle which designates its origin. Thus, incensus ira, inflammatus amore, percussus terrore. 19

2. Qualem soleant. See page 14, note 6.

* 3. Qui pasceretur. The relative pronoun includes the designation of a reason, and is then, in signification, equivalent to quod. Concerning the subjunctive, see note 12, p. 14.

4. Bello exorto (exorior.) The ablative absolute.

* 5. Vulneribus confossus, collabatur, (collabor). Properly telis

- Page
19 should be used. But the consequence is often used instead of the cause.
6. O me stolidum. See note 6, p. 18.
 7. Qui aestimaverim. As just above, qui pasceretur.
 8. Quos noverat. The relative pronoun includes the accusative of the subject, which depends upon noverat. "When he knew to."
 9. Afferri jubet. See note 2, page 11.
 10. Quibus allatis. The phrase may be resolved into quae quum allatae essent. For the use of the relative, see note 5, p. 14.
 11. Quod quum, instead of quum hoc.
 12. Aliqua parte. The ablative of measure, as in the sentence, Sol multis partibus major est, quam terra.
 13. Se levaret. The whole clause is equivalent to ut aliquam partem oneris reciperet.
 14. O me miserum. See note 6, p. 18.
 15. Qui noluerim. See above, note 3.
 16. Texendo. The ablative answering to the question, by what?
 17. De nocte, "during the night."
 18. Ad opus. The spinning and weaving.
- 20
1. Quo facto. See note 5, p. 14.
 2. Deteriore conditione. The ablative of quality.
 3. Incerta. To be joined with domina, and to be explained as a participle.
 4. Prima nocte, instead of initio, or, primā parte noctis. The adjectives primus, medius, ultimus, and the like, are often used in this manner for the sake of abbreviating the expression. Thus, in media urbe, in ultimo carmine, in summo monte.
 5. Sese. Sui, sibi, is a reflexive pronoun, i. e. denotes an agent, who is the subject of the proposition, and whose act reverts upon himself; and therefore, this pronoun exists only in the oblique cases. It continues to be used in a sentence through successive propositions, as long as no other subject is introduced. If a second subject be introduced, se refers strictly to that subject, and is should be used of the first. But se often continues, if no ambiguity is produced, to be used of the original subject, especially if the second proposition expresses a thought or purpose of the subject at first. Thus in the present instance, sese is used, because the second proposition, ut sese volare doceret, expresses a wish of the testudo, the subject of the first. Zumpt's Lat. Gram. p. 241.
 6. Volare supplies the place of the accusative of the thing (docere aliquem aliquid).
 7. Arreptam sustulit. Instead of arripuit et sustulit, (arripio, tollo).
 8. Comminuta interiit. Instead of comminuta est et interiit.
 9. Quae quum. See note 11, p. 19.
 10. Se for ipsam. See above, note 5.
 11. Venetur. The present is used, because the leading verb is in the present.
 12. Cui accipitur. See note 5, p. 14.
 13. Partam praedam, (pario). Partus applies properly to that which has been earned or acquired by one's self; then to that which is held in possession. So parta praeda here signifies "the booty which is secure."
 14. Iisque sublatis; equivalent to quae postquam sustulerat.
 15. Domum. Domus and rus, like names of towns, are used with

- 22 duce a sentence or clause, where in English we use the demonstrative pronouns simply.
8. Caeteris. See note 4, p. 8.
 9. O vos stolidos. See note 6, p. 18.
 10. Quantopere excruciet. See p. 21, note 2.
 11. Petivisse dicuntur. For petiverunt, ut dicitur.
 12. Quarum. See above, note 7.
 13. Puniturus. The future participle serves to express an intention.
 14. A quo. The relative pronoun includes the copula, and the demonstrative, or, in other words, qui is frequently used for et ille, et hic.
 15. Poenituit. See note 6, p. 15.
 16. Suos refers to Athenienses, ipsi to Philippus.
 17. Demosthenes, the greatest orator of Athens, and a strenuous opponent of Philip.
 18. Qua denotes a purpose, and consequently has the subjunctive. It is equivalent to ut ea. Compare note 14, p. 18.
- 23
1. Impetu facto. Instead of impetum fecisse (in caulas) et gregem dilaniasse.
 2. Frustratus, i. e. quum decepisset. Frustrari conveys the idea of pains taken in vain (frustra).
 3. Lupo irruente. Instead of et lupus tandem revera irrueret.
 4. Coepit forms with orare a periphrasis for the finite verb (oravit), to denote the commencement of the action.
 5. Quo sono. See note 7, p. 22.
 6. Allecti, from allicere, originally "to allure by bait."
 7. Impetu facto. See above, note 1.
 8. Quos pullos, eos. In the usual transposition of sentences, where the relative precedes the demonstrative, the former attracts to itself the substantive to which it refers.
 9. Comedendos. The future passive participle denotes the purpose and destination: ut ab iis comedantur, ("for eating.")
 10. Venatum. In signification equivalent to venaturi. The supine is frequently used with ire, venire; thus, eo dormitum; ibimus auditum oratores; spectatum veniunt.
 11. Correptum dilaniavit. Instead of corripuit et dilaniavit.
 12. Partiendi negotium. The gerund supplies the place of a declinable infinitive of the present active. See note 5, p. 7.
 13. Astutior, scil. quam asinus.
 14. Laudare coepit. See note 4, above.
 15. Unde didicerit. In a direct question the expression would be, unde didicisti?
 16. Hujus. Alluding to the ass which had been killed by him.
- 24
1. Heu miseram vicem! See note 6, p. 18.
 2. Fraudulentus. Opposed to blandus.
 3. Perfida voluptas. According to the context, perfida voluptatis would have been more appropriate.
 4. Cupidus pascendi. See note 5, p. 7.
 5. Simul—simul. The repetition of the adverb denotes the quick succession of the actions. It might be said, though with less animation, simul atque hunc adspicit, accurrit.
 6. Jure plector, qui. The relative pronoun includes the signification of cause. See note 3, p. 19.
 7. Salo—solo. An intentional play upon words similar in form.
 8. Seq̄ue. Combine; et dixit, se avolaturum esse, si eum gravaret.

9. At ille, scil. respondit.

10. Nec, "not even."

11. Considentem. Instead of the infinitive as denoting an action of the accusative of the subject. This change takes place generally with the verbs sentire, videre, audire, and the like.

1. Draconem. Dragons, in consequence of their acute sight were often considered the guardians of holy places and treasures. 25

2. Prolem, Semele and Ino, and his grand-children Pentheus and Actaeon.

3. Illyriam, a country bordering on the Adriatic, opposite Italy. It lies in a northerly direction from Macedonia. It answers now, in a great degree, to modern Albania.

4. Bebrycia, an ancient name of Bithynia, which extends along the Propontis and Euxine.

5. Argonautas. The Grecian heroes, who went to Colchis in the ship Argo, under the command of Jason, to take forcible possession of the golden fleece.

6. Pollux and Castor, sons of Leda and Jupiter, were worshipped under the name of Dioscuri, (Διόσκουροι,) "sons of Jupiter."

7. Mira magnitudine. The ablative of quality.

8. Novem digitis. The ablative of measure.

9. Annorum. The genitive of quality.

10. Ossa and Pelion, mountains in Thessaly.

11. Athenis. The names of towns of the 3d declension, or of the plural number, are put in the ablative when answering to the question, where?

12. Labyrinthus, a building full of intricate windings.

13. Icarium pelagus, a part of the Aegaeon, off the western coast of Asia Minor.

14. Cyclopes, the assistants of Vulcan.

15. Thessalia, a country in the north of Greece.

16. Morbo implicitus. Equivalent to correptus.

1. Si quis. Instead of aliquis.

2. Hercules. The guest of Admetus.

3. Orcus generally stands for the infernal regions; here it is the divinity that conducts men to the world below, by the Greek poets called Θάνατος, (Mors.)

4. Cassiope, wife of Cepheus, king of Aethiopia.

5. Nereides, daughters of Nereus, a god of the sea.

6. Perseus, son of Jupiter and Danaë, who received from Mercury winged sandals, with which he flew over the sea; whence here advolavit.

7. Medusa, one of the Gorgons, who petrified all by her terrific appearance.

8. Victor, as victor, after having proved victorious.

9. Re cognita, i. e. quum insidias sibi parari cognovisset.

10. Quo viso. Equivalent to cujus adspectu.

11. In patriam. To Argos, in Greece.

12. Vento moti. Instead of rami (cum pomis) vento moventur et recedunt.

13. Peleus, a king of Thessaly, one of the Argonauts.

14. Thetis, a daughter of Nereus.

15. Mālum, (to be distinguished from mālum.)

16. Misit. Instead of conjecit.

17. In medium. Among the guests.

18. Mercurius, the messenger of the gods.

19. Paris, also called Alexander, son of Priam, king of Troy.

20. Ida, a mountain of Mysia, east of Troy.

21. Diremturum esse. The infinitive depends upon dixit, which, according to the signification, is included in imperat.

22. Spopondit. Spondeo is one of the four verbs of the second conjugation, which receive the reduplication in the perfect, after the manner of the Greek.

23. Anteposito. Translate as if it were expressed in the active: hoc donum prioribus anteposuit et. . . .

24. Menelaus, king of Lacedaemon, and son of Atreus.

27

1. Cito periturum esse. The Parcae had fixed it as his destiny, to enjoy, either a long but inglorious life, or great glory and a short life.

2. Scyros, an island in the Aegæan sea.

3. Ithaca, an island on the western side of Greece; Ulysses, (Ὀδυσσεύς), was distinguished for his prudence.

4. Advocari. Why not advocare?

5. Unde. See note 2, p. 16.

6. Aulis, a town in Greece, on the Euripus, which separates Euboea from the continent.

7. Agamemnon, king of Argos, and brother of Menelaus.

8. Superbiusque. He had preferred himself to the goddess in the art of shooting with the bow. Scil. superbius, quam par erat.

9. Abduxit. On this pretence (sic) he allured her from her home to Aulis.

10. Terram Tauricam. The Taurica Chersonesus was a large peninsula of Europe, at the south-west of the Palus Mæotis, now called the Crimea. It was joined by an isthmus to Scythia. The inhabitants, called Tauri, were a savage and uncivilized nation.

11. Achilles was desirous of marrying Polyxena, and was killed at an interview with her in the temple of Apollo, according to some, by the god, who favoured the Trojans; according to others, by Paris.

12. Caucasus, a range of mountains between the Euxine and the Caspian sea. The length of this chain is 400 miles, and its breadth from 60 to 200 miles.

13. Quae, with the signification of purpose. See n. 14, p. 18.

14. Pluto, Jupiter, and Neptune, sons of Saturn, divided the world among themselves by lot in such a manner, that Jupiter obtained the heaven (Olympus), with the sovereignty of the whole, Neptune the sea, and Pluto the infernal regions (Hades), and the realms of the dead.

15. Negavit, i. e. dixit, Cererem non esse passuram.

1. Eleusis, a town in Attica, famous for the Eleusinian Mysteries, which commemorated the arrival of the goddess in this region.

2. Ignè obruebat. In order to purify him by fire of that which was terrestrial.

3. Quas disseminaret. Quas is equivalent to ut eas. See n. 13, p. 27.

4. Parcae. The three goddesses of destiny, Clotho, Lachesis, and Atropos.

5. Victurum, scil. esse.

6. Calydon, a town in Aetolia in Greece.

7. Atalanta, daughter of Jason, who ruled over a part of Arcadia; she was brought up in the woods, and devoted herself to the chase.

28

8. In aves, Meleagrides, "guinea-hens."

9. Sidon, onis, (do in these names is long, Σιδών, ὄνος; in the derivative Sidonius it is usually short, Σιδόνιος). A town in Phoenicia, on the Mediterranean.

10. Creta, a large island in the same sea, south-east of Greece; famous for its 100 cities and the laws of Minos. It is now called Candia.

11. Conditione addita. Instead of hac conditione, since he had added the condition to their message.

12. Cadmus. See p. 25, § 1.

13. Delphos. To the oracle of Apollo in Phocis. We must suppose that he had questioned the oracle respecting his future lot; hence below responsum.

14. Sequeretur. The idea of an order is contained in the words responsum accepit; hence sequeretur instead of ut sequeretur.

15. In Boeotiam. A country of Greece, north of Attica. It is now called Livadia.

16. Draconem. See p. 25, § 1.

17. Aravit. He ploughed them over, as a sower the scattered seed.

18. Sparti, called Σπαρτοί from σπείρειν, "to sow." Here the name is derived from spargere.

19. Thebæ, arum, the capital of Boeotia. Its citadel was built by Cadmus, hence called Cadmea.

20. Silenus, the instructor and companion of the young Bacchus.

21. Mygdonia, a country of Lydia in Asia Minor.

1. Quidquid tetigisset. Here the action is expressed in the pluperfect, because it is last in relation to the following, aurum fieret, and it is expressed by the subjunctive, because it is an historical narration of the language of another.

2. Quem. The relative pronoun includes, besides the demonstrative, a conjunction, as et, vero, igitur, tamen, etc. Quem is here the accusative of the subject depending upon jussit.

3. Colore aureo. The ablative of quality; instead of aqua tinctorum est colore aureo.

4. Schoeneus. He was born in Boeotia, but became naturalized in Arcadia.

5. Horum, scil. malorum.

6. Megara. A town in Greece, the capital of a country called Megaris. It was at an equal distance from Athens and Corinth, on the Sinus Saronicus.

7. Negavit, i. e. dixit, Cretam non esse recepturam, &c.

8. Tantum scelus, a strong expression for mulierum tam sceleratam.

9. Praecipitat. The present instead of the perfect. See note 7, p. 16.

10. Muris cinxit. Since he collected the stones by the melody of his lyre.

11. Quem partum, i. e. hos liberos suos.

12. Superbius. See note 8, p. 27.

13. Dicitur, narrantur. Observe the construction of the verbs dici and narrari with the nominative and infinitive.

- 30 1. Harpyias, fledged, ravenous monsters. The name is derived, from ἀρπάζειν.
2. Canes. The ancient poetic language called dogs, "beings subservient to the gods."
3. Argonautae. See note 5, p. 25.
4. Iter rogarent. Rogare aliquem aliquid, "to ask one for something."
5. Strophades, two islands off the western coast of Greece. The name is derived from στρέφειν, "to turn," because here the sons of Aquilo or Boreas turned from their pursuit of the Harpyiae.
6. Liberarunt. Instead of liberaverunt.
- 31 1. Laiere aliquem. Complete the following sentences by eos latent.
2. Dum viveret. The subjunctive stands in the dependent sentence, because it is an historical narration of thoughts and words of another, and is not an assertion of the author.
3. Ancipiti, i. e. dubiae et ambiguae.
4. Quae ab eo. The order of translation is, ut non auderent adducere in dubitationem ea, quae audivissent ab eo.
5. Priene, a maritime town of Asia Minor, at the foot of Mount Mycale. It was one of the 12 independent cities of Ionia, and owed its foundation to the Athenians.
6. Ego vero. The conjunctions Autem, Enim, Vero, Quoque, Quidem, are always placed after the introductory word of the clause, generally in the second place, and sometimes in the third—as, Ille autem, Ego enim, Qui vero—not Autem ille, Enim ego, Vero qui. Crombie's Gymnasium, vol. 2, p. 46.
7. Cynicorum. The Cynics (from κύων) endeavoured to attain the highest freedom by denying themselves every superfluity, allowing only the necessaries of nature. Like travellers, without a home upon earth, they always went with knapsack and staff, engaged in a constant war against vice and the vicious.
8. Videret, with a participle. See n. 11, p. 24.
9. Nisi ista periissent. He considered the knowledge, which he had acquired during his absence, of so much greater value than extensive possessions.
10. Accubuisset. The ancients took their meals reclining (accumbentes), not sitting.
11. Cogitationibus inhaerens, "lost in thought."
- 32 1. Tarentinus, of Tarentum, now Taranto, a town of Calabria, in Magna Graecia or Lower Italy, situated on the Tarentinus Sinus, near the mouth of the river Galesus. The luxurious habits of the Tarentines were proverbial.

- 34 the Euxine, on the east by Armenia, on the south by Cappadocia, and on the west by Galatia and Paphlagonia.
9. Achilles, son of Peleus and Thetis, the bravest of all the Greeks in the Trojan war. He is the hero of the Iliad of Homer.
10. In Olympico certamine. Olympia, a town in Elis, a country of the Peloponnesus, situated on the southern bank of the Alpheus, now Alfeo. This was the celebrated region in which the Olympic games were held in honour of Jupiter Olympius. They were of very ancient foundation, and revived, by Coroebus, B. C. 776, and serve as the epoch of Grecian chronology. They were celebrated at the conclusion of every fourth year, or rather every forty-ninth month, and were held for five successive days. The Roman lustrum was a period of five years.
11. Epaminondas, a famous Theban, who aided his friend Pelopidas in freeing their city from the yoke of Lacedaemon, and in maintaining its freedom and independence.
12. Affixa. The ancients, after a contest, hung up, in the temple of the gods, the arms taken from the enemy, or at the close of the war, their own.
13. Mantineia, a town of Arcadia, near the borders of Argolis. From the death of Epaminondas, Thebes lost its power and consequence among the Grecian states.
14. Clypeus. It was considered most disgraceful to a soldier to abandon his shield in the fight.
15. Tanta abst. et integr. Ablatives of quality.
16. Lysander, a celebrated Spartan, who terminated the Peloponnesian war, by taking Athens, and appointing 30 tyrants over it, B. C. 404.
17. Volo praebeas. Understand ut.
18. Quod factum. The accusative depending upon exprobrantibus.
19. Thrasybulus, who freed his country from the 30 tyrants, B. C. 401.
- 35 1. Quantas—tantas. Concerning the position of the sentences, and the attraction of the substantive by the relative, see n. 8, p. 23.
2. Ut videar retulisse, is a more modest expression than ut retulerim would be, since it leaves it to others to decide as to the merit of his action.
3. Abscinderem. Understand num or ne; abscinderemne.
4. Pythiam ad se vocatum. Translate as if it were Pythiam ad se vocavit, quumque ab eo, ("from his mouth:") accepisset (audivisset) difficultatem rei dom. ("the deranged state of his private affairs,") eum pecunia instruxit.
5. Pythia. The ablative in the abridged comparison.
6. Damnata, who, in a cause decided by the king, had received an unfavourable sentence.
7. Filium, Alexander.
8. Quod, instead of quam ob rem.
9. Spero jore ut. A common periphrasis for spero with the infinitive of the future.
10. Et nobis et rebus. The ablatives depend upon dignus.
11. Sperasne. Instead of num speras.
12. Eos, quos.. "That such as." Concerning the subjunctive following the relative, when it refers to talis, ejusmodi, is, see n. 10, p. 15.

17. Catāna, now Catania, a town at the foot of Aetna in Sicily.
18. At permits us to understand a sentence from the preceding; "you would justly laugh, if I intended to fly before the enemy; but I go to war to fight firmly, without abandoning my post."
19. Sibi laetitiae esse. With the verbs esse, proficisci, dare, and venire, verto, fi, and others of the same meaning, besides the dative of the person, another is used to express the purpose, effect, and destination. Zumpt's L. G.; Kenrick's Transl.
20. Se meliores. Instead of quam ipsum.
- 37
1. At anseres. See n. 18, p. 36.
2. Rhodi, of the island Rhodus, which lies opposite Caria, in the Mediterranean.
3. In ludis Olympicis. See n. 10, p. 34.
4. Inspectante populo. "In the sight of the assembled people."
5. Africanus. So called from his victory over Hannibal in Africa.
6. Epirus, a country in the western part of Greece, forming a part of modern Albania.
7. Instandum esse negabat. The neuter of the participle passive in dus is used in the nominative, or the accusative before the infinitive, with esse, in the sense of propriety or necessity. Accordingly the words above may be translated, "said that one ought not to urge."
8. Fortius, scil. quam alias fecisset.
9. Ex necessitate, i. e. necessitate coactus.
10. Corinthus, now Cōrito, a famous commercial city, situated on the Isthmus of Corinth, now Hexamili, which connects the Peloponnesus with Hellas, or Greece properly so called. Corinth was destroyed by Mummius the Roman general, B. C. 146.
11. Non esset unde. Instead of non esset aliquid, ex quo—
12. Major. The conqueror of Hannibal in the battle of Zama, to be distinguished from the Younger, who destroyed Carthage.
13. Gentis Corneliae. The family of Scipiones was a branch of the gens Cornelia. The full name of this Scipio was P. Cornelius Scipio Africanus. Concerning the name of the Romans, see n. 2, p. 4. Sometimes, as in the present instance, a fourth name, called the Agnomen, was given, added from some illustrious action or remarkable event.
14. Recuperato demum gladio, i. e. non prius ad suos reversus est, quam gladium recuperaverat.
15. Locum. The place from which they had retreated during the fight. A soldier could name his heir in the presence of 3 or 4 comrades, before he went to battle, and this, without any other ceremonies, was considered a complete testament. It was called testamentum militare, vel in procinctu, i. e. "made while he was girding himself, or preparing for battle."
16. Eos is to be referred to milites, which is contained in cohortes.
17. Cedentem videret. See n. 11, p. 24.
18. Capite devoto. He suffered himself to be devoted to death by certain ceremonies, as if it were an atoning sacrifice for the whole army.
19. Liberavit. Brutus expelled Tarquinius Superbus, B. C. 509. The consular authority was established, which continued independent 461 years, till the battle of Pharsalia.
20. Virgis caesos. Roman citizens, who were condemned to death, were beaten with rods previous to their execution, in order to place them on a level with the slaves. Page 37

1. Perseus was conquered by Paulus Aemylius, son of the Aemylius who fell at Cannae. The decisive battle was fought at Pydna, B. C. 168. The province Macedonia, under the Romans, included Thessaly and Epirus, and extended from sea to sea. It is now Roumelia. 38

2. Hoc omine. All unusual phenomena, particularly in the heavens, were considered by the ancients as signs of future things.

3. Cicatricem aversam, i. e. in parte corporis, hostibus aversa, i. e. in tergo; on the contrary, adversa vulnera are "wounds in the breast."

4. Coronis. Crowns were given by the ancients to free citizens as tokens of merit and valour. They were different according to the circumstances: Obsidionalis, for freeing an army from a blockade; Vallarum vel Castrensium, to the first who mounted the rampart, or entered the camp of the enemy; Muralis, to him who first scaled the walls of a city in an assault; Navalis, to him who first boarded the ship of an enemy; Civica, to him who had saved the life of a citizen. There were smaller rewards of various kinds; as, a banner, (Vexillum); trappings, (Phalerae); golden chains, (Aurea Torques); bracelets, (Armillae).

5. Carpetani. The territories of this people were in the centre of Spain, in what is now New Castile. Their principal city was Toletum, now Toledo.

6. Barbari. Hispani et Galli, who were in the Carthaginian army. The Romans, like the Greeks, called every nation barbarian which was not of their own race.

7. In fidem ejus rei. "In order to give credit to this pretence."

8. Quibus trajiceret. Respecting the subjunctive, see n. 14, p. 18.

9. Vulnerari. See n. 2, p. 11.

AN EPITOME OF ROMAN HISTORY.

1. Janiculum. A hill on the Tiber, by some considered as one of the seven hills on which Rome was built; while others say that it was not included within the city. It was fortified by Ancus Martius. 39

2. Troja eversa. Troja, the capital of Troas, a district on the Aegaeon coast of Mysia in Asia Minor. After a war of 10 years, undertaken in consequence of the rape of Helen by Paris, Troy was taken and completely destroyed by the allied army of the Greeks, B. C. 1184. This city has been celebrated by the poems of Homer and Virgil; the former gives an account of the war, and the latter relates the wanderings of Aeneas, after the fall of his native city, and his final settlement in Italy. See p. 26, § 11.

3. Quibus pepercerat, (parcere alicui).

4. Alba longa. Called longa, because it extended along the hill Albanus, and Alba, from the circumstance of Aeneas having found on the spot a white sow with 30 young ones, according to the prophecy of Helenus.

1. Vestae sacerdotibus. The Vestal virgins devoted themselves to the service of the goddess Vesta, and kept the perpetual fire upon her altar. They took upon themselves the vow of chastity, and a violation of it was punished with death. 40

2. Viro nubere. Ducere, "to take in marriage," is used when a man is the subject of discourse; Nubere, "to be veiled," or duci, "to be led," is used when a woman is the subject.
3. Ultra ripam. The Tiber having flat banks, the overflowing of the river is a common occurrence.
4. Nutriendos. Instead of ut eos nutriret.
5. Asylum, Gr. ἄσυλον, a consecrated place, which afforded safety from violence.
6. Pulsi. Understand such as during the civil commotions had been expelled by the opposite faction, or were obliged to leave their country on account of a murder, which, in the badly organized state of civil society, was a common occurrence.
7. In arce. The Capitol was a citadel and temple on the Tarpeian rock, which formed a part of the Capitoline hill.
8. In urbem recepit. On condition that Tatius, king of the Sabines, should share the sovereignty with him.
- 41
1. Lustraret. At the end of every five years a review (census) of the people was made. After the census was finished, an expiatory or purifying sacrifice, (Sacrificium lustrale), was made; and thus the people were said to be purified, (lustrari). Because this was done at the end of every fifth year, hence Lustrum is put for the space of five years.
2. Ad deos sublatum, (tollere). Romulus was afterwards worshipped by the Romans as a god, under the name of Quirinus.
3. Metius Fuffetius. The general of the Albans. After a treaty of peace had been made, he sided with the Romans in a battle between them and the Veientes, and, deserting during the fight, exposed his allies to great danger.
4. Ei moenia circumdedit. Equivalent to novis eam moenibus circumdedit.
5. Corinthas. See n. 10, p. 37.
6. Etruria, otherwise called Tuscia, a celebrated country of Italy, lying to the west of the Tiber. It is now called Tuscany.
7. Minorum gentium. Those elected by Romulus were called Patres majorum gentium, and those enrolled by Tullus Hostilius, Tarquinius Priscus, and Brutus, were denominated Patres minorum gentium. This at least is the opinion of some critics. Others maintain, that all those who were enrolled before the time of Brutus, were named Patres majorum gentium, and those enrolled by him, Patres minorum gentium. See Crombie's Gymnasium, vol. 2, p. 315.
8. Ademptos, i. e. quos hostibus ademerat.
9. Capitolium. See n. 7, p. 40.
- 42
1. Censum. The census was instituted by Servius Tullius, and properly consisted in taking an account of the property and family of each citizen, and in imposing taxes in proportion to their effects. Servius at the same time divided the people into six classes, and these again into centuries. The census was at first taken by the kings, and afterwards by the consuls; but, after the year of the city 310, by a proper officer, called Censor.
2. Curia. The place at which the senate usually met was the Curia Hostilia, built by Tullus Hostilius at the foot of the Palatine hill, so that there was an easy ascent to it from the Forum by means of steps, (gradibus).
3. Carpentum, a vehicle with two wheels, and an arched cover-

45 1. Tribunus militum. One of the highest military officers. In the earliest times there were three to each legion, and as the legion at that time consisted of 3000 men, each tribune commanded 1000; hence they were called by the Greeks chiliarchi (χιλιάρχοι). In later times there were six in each legion, who commanded under the consuls.

2. Samnites, a people of Italy, whose territory was called Samnium. Their country lay between Apulia on the east, Latium and Campania on the west, Lucania on the south, and the confines of the Marsi on the north.

3. Dictator, a magistrate at Rome, invested with absolute authority. He was appointed only in extraordinary cases, when the circumstances of the state required prompt and efficient management. His power continued only for the space of six months. The dictator, as soon as elected, chose a subordinate officer, called his master of horse, magister equitum.

4. Furculæ Caudinae, a narrow pass in the vicinity of Caudium, a town of the Samnites.

5. Sub jugum. When enemies were vanquished, they were stripped of their arms and made to pass under the yoke, (jugum). This consisted of two spears planted in the ground, which were crossed at the top by a third, so low, however, that the captives were obliged to bend in passing under.

6. Tarentinīs. Tarentum was a Grecian colony in lower Italy, still called Tarento.

7. Epirus, a country on the western coast of Greece.

8. Auxilio poposcerunt. The more usual construction is, poscere auxilium ab aliquo, or, with a double accusative, poscere aliquem auxilium.

9. Elephantorum. As the Romans first saw the elephant in the army of Pyrrhus in Lucania, and were ignorant of its proper name, they called it bos Lucas.

46 1. Adversis vulneribus, See note 3, p. 38.

2. Brevi, scil. tempore.

3. Campania, a country of Middle Italy, on the Inferum vel Tyrrhenum Mare.

4. Praeneste, a town in Latium.

5. Praelio commisso. In the consulship of P. Sulpicius Saverrio and P. Decius Mus.

6. Pueri comitarentur. This distinction was usually allowed to triumphant generals, and only on the day of their triumph. It was granted to Duilius for his lifetime.

47 1. Se desiisse. Soldiers who were taken prisoners in war, lost thereby their right of citizenship.

2. Tot millia. The Carthaginians had proposed an exchange in the lump, although the number of Carthaginian prisoners was by far the greater.

3. Lilybaeum, the western promontory of Sicily.

4. Citra Iberum. The Iberus (now the Ebro) flowed through Spain from north-west to south-east, almost parallel to the Pyrenees. The country south of this river remained subject to the Carthaginians.

5. Clusium, (now Chiusi), a town in Etruria.

6. Insubres, a powerful Gallic tribe in Upper Italy, in what is now the government of Milan in Austrian Italy.

48 1. Spolia. The spoils which a general took from the general of the enemy was called spolia opima. They were dedicated and suspended in the temple of Jupiter Feretrius. These spoils were obtained only thrice before the fall of the republic. The first by Romulus, who slew Acron, king of the Caeninenses; the next by A. Cornelius Cossus, who slew Lar Tolumnius, king of the Veientes, A. U. C. 318; and the third by M. Claudius Marcellus, who slew Viridomarus, a king of the Gauls, A. U. C. 530.

2. Saguntum, a city on the eastern coast of Spain, in Hispania Tarraconensis.

3. Ut mandaretur. Understand before it qui postularent, the idea of which is contained in miserunt.

4. Liguria, a country of Upper Italy, bounded on the south by the Sinus Ligusticus, or Gulf of Genoa, on the north by the Padus, now the Po, on the east by the river Macra, and on the west by the Varus. It answers to Genoa and part of Piedmont.

5. Ticinus, now Tessino, a river of Cisalpine Gaul, which rises in the Alps, and, having traversed in its course the Lacus Verbanus, (now Lago Maggiore), empties into the Padus near Ticinum.

6. Trebia, a river of the same country, which rises in Liguria, and flowing in a northerly direction empties into the Padus near Placentia.

7. Tuscia, or Etruria. From the former the present name Tuscany is derived.

8. Trasimenus, a lake of Etruria, near Perugia, (now Perugia), from which it takes its present name, lake of Perugia.

9. Quam mora, i. e. cunctando et bellum differendo. This Fabius had shown, who, when appointed dictator, weakened the enemy by avoiding an engagement and continually harassing his army by countermarches and ambuscades. Hence he received the surname of Cunctator.

10. Apulia, now Puglia, a country of Magna Graecia in Italy, lying along the Adriatic, from the river Frento in the north-west to the promontory Iapygium.

11. Armata, "with their arms in their hands."

12. Aureorum annulorum. The senators and knights enjoyed the privilege of wearing golden rings.

1. A duobus Scipionibus. - Publius and Cnaeus. The former 49 was a father of the elder Scipio Africanus.

2. Nola, a town of Campania. Bells were invented there, in the beginning of the 5th century, by St. Paulinus, the bishop of the place. Hence they have been called in Latin Nolae, or Campanae.

3. Quo minus trajiceret. After verbs meaning "to hinder, to prevent," quo minus is used in the signification of ne.

4. Poeni, a name given to the Carthaginians. It seems to be a corruption of Phoeni or Phoenices, as the Carthaginians were of Phoenician origin.

5. Syracusae, a celebrated city of Sicily, founded about 732 B. C. by Archias a Corinthian.

6. Duo Scipiones interfecti. Both were slain within the space of one month, in the eighth year of their generalship in Spain, in unfortunate battles against the Carthaginians.

7. Ad Ticinum. See above, c. 3.

8. Ital. deser. cupient. Since they thought that the state was ruined beyond all hope of recovery.

9. Carthago nova, now Carthagera, on the southern coast of Hispania Tarraconensis.

- 49 10. Sena, or Sena Gallica, now Senigaglia, a town on the Adriatic, built by the Senones, A. U. C. 396.
11. Picenum, a country of Italy on the Adriatic, east of the Apennines; now called the March of Ancona.
12. Bruttii, a people who inhabited the most southern part of Italy.
13. Numidia, an extensive kingdom in the northern part of Africa, west of Africa Propria. It was bounded on the west by Mauretania, and on the south by Gaetulia. It forms the present kingdom of Algiers.
- 50 1. Zama, a town of Numidia, now Zamora, 300 miles south-west of Carthage.
2. Quam coeperat, i. e. anno undevicesimo, postquam coeperat.
3. Philippus, the son of Demetrius. See above, p. 49, § 6.
4. Cynoscephalae, eminences in Thessaly, south-east of Pharsalus, so called from their resemblance to the heads of dogs, (κυνων κεφαλαι.)
5. Nabis, a tyrant of Sparta, celebrated for his cruelty. He was slain B. C. 192, after an usurpation of 14 years.
6. Syriacum, "a Syrian." Syria, a country of Asia, on the Mediterranean, between Arabia and Cilicia in Asia Minor.
7. Legatus, the name of the officer chosen by a proconsul or propraetor to accompany him to his province, and assist him in the discharge of his duties. Sometimes the governor remained at home, and merely sent out the legatus to the province; and at other times the senate sent out a legatus, without naming any proconsul or propraetor.
8. Magnesia, a town in the northern part of Lydia, near the junction of the Hermus and Hyllus, and in the vicinity of mount Sipylus.
9. Asia, i. e. Asia Minor, in which Antiochus had many possessions.
10. Taurus, the largest range of mountains in Asia as to extent. Intra Taurum, "on the southern side of the range."
11. Pydna, a town in the southern part of Macedonia, situate on the shore of the Sinus Thermaicus. It was originally called Citron.
- 51 1. Sexdecim remorum ordines. The ships of war were variously named from their rows or ranks of oars. Those which had two rows or tiers were called Birēmes; three, trirēmes; four, quadriremes; five, quinqueremes vel penteres; those of six or seven, by a Greek name, Hexeres, Hepteres, and above that by a circumlocution, as in the present instance. The rowers were placed above one another in different stages or benches (in transtris vel jugis) on the side of the ship.
2. Tribunus, as tribunus militum.
3. Plurima, works of art, and images of the gods, taken from the temples of conquered towns.
4. Pseudophilippus, Ψευδοφίλιππος, who had falsely assumed the name of Philippus. A certain Andriscus pretended to be the son of Perseus, that he might lay claim to the kingdom of Macedonia, and formed a large party among the Macedonians, who were oppressed under the sovereignty of the Romans.
5. Corinthiis. Corinth, (see p. 37, § 65,) the principal city of the Achaean league, a famous confederacy which was formed B. C. 284, and continued formidable upwards of 130 years.

1. Chalcedon, now Kadi-Keni, an ancient city of Bithynia, opposite Byzantium, built by a colony from Megara, B. C. 685, some years before the founding of Byzantium.

2. Cyzicus, anciently a very flourishing city, situate on the island of Cyzicus, in the Propontis, which is now a peninsula, and preserves its name.

3. Byzantium, a city situate on the Thracian Bosphorus, founded by a colony from Argos and Megara, B. C. 658. Constantine the Great made it the capital of the eastern Roman empire, A. D. 328, and called it Constantinopolis.

4. Novum bellum, the war of the slaves.

5. Gladiatores. Gladiators were for some time exhibited only at funerals, but afterwards also by the magistrates, to entertain the people. They were kept and trained in schools (in ludis) by persons called Lanistae. The whole number under one Lanista was called Familia. Gladiators were at first composed of captives, slaves, or condemned malefactors. Afterwards also free-born citizens fought, some even of noble birth. Gladiators were exhibited sometimes at the funeral pile, often in the Forum, but usually in an amphitheatre, so called, because it was seated all round, like two theatres joined. The place where the gladiators fought was called Arena, because it was covered with saw-dust or sand, to prevent the gladiators from sliding, and to absorb the blood; and the persons who fought, Arenarii.—The slaves of Capua were quickly joined by an immense multitude of their fellow-sufferers, with whom Italy was filled.

6. Cabira, a fortified town of Armenia Minor, near the confines of Pontus, afterwards called Sebaste.

7. Successor. M. Acilius Glabrio, who was shortly after succeeded by Pompey.

8. Piratae, chiefly the inhabitants of the coast of Asia Minor, especially the Cilicians, who rendered the Mediterranean unsafe by their piracies.

55 1. Venenum hausit. According to others, he stabbed himself, since the poison had no effect on him, in consequence of the antidotes which he was in the habit of taking to render ineffectual the attempts of his enemies to poison him.

2. Galatia, a country of Asia Minor, lying west of Pontus. It derived its name of Galatia from the Gauls or Celtae, who invaded and settled the country. From the Greeks, who subsequently became intermingled with them, the country was also called Gallo-Graecia.

3. Quod non recepisset. See n. 12, p. 14.

4. Judaea, a province of Palestine, forming the southern division, and lying north of Arabia. Hierosolyma (Jerusalem) was the capital.

5. Argenti infinitum, i. e. infinitum pondus, infinita summa.

6. Catalina. In order to repair his ruined fortune, he attempted to effect a political revolution, and to murder the Senate and opulent citizens, with the intention of confiscating their property for the benefit of himself and his followers.

7. Parthi, a people of Asia, successively tributary to the empire of the Assyrians, Medes, and Persians, and almost unknown until about 240 B. C., when they suddenly emerged from their obscurity under Arsaces, who laid the foundation of the Parthian empire. This empire was bounded on the east by the Indus, on the south by the Mare Erythraeum, on the west by the Tigris, and on the north by Caucasus. Page 55

8. Carrae, a town of Mesopotamia, south-east of Edessa.

9. Contra auspicia, notwithstanding the unlucky omens, which occurred before the battle.

1. Nominis, i. e. populi.

2. Absens. Candidates were bound according to law to be present at Rome, and when they commanded an army, to discharge it before soliciting an office. But Caesar continued with his army in Cisalpine Gaul. 56

3. Ariminum, now Rimini, a town in Italy on the Adriatic, beyond the limits of Caesar's province; wherefore the taking possession of this town was to be considered as a declaration of war.

4. Dictatorem. See n. 3, p. 45.

5. Hispanias. The plural comprehends the three principal divisions of the peninsula, Lusitania, Tarraconensis, and Baetica.

6. Primo praelio. This battle was fought near Dyrrachium, now Durazzo, a large city of Macedonia, bordering on the Adriatic sea.

7. Pharsalus, now Farsa, a town of Thessaly, south-west of Larissa, on the river Enipeus. In its neighbourhood is a large plain called Pharsalia, in which the battle was fought.

8. Alexandria, a city founded by Alexander the Great, B. C. 332, situate at the mouth of the Nile. It was famous for its commercial advantages, commanding the trade of the east until the discovery of the Cape of Good Hope. It was also celebrated for its schools, and its library of 700,000 volumes.

9. A rege Aegypti, the last of the Ptolemies, and the brother of Cleopatra.

10. Generi quondam, i. e. qui quondam gener Caesaris fuerat. Pompey had formed a league with Caesar and Crassus, A. U. 694, and had married Julia, the daughter of Caesar. She died in the year 703, and with her death the last bond of union between the two statesmen was severed.

11. Cleopatra, the sister of Ptolemy; she had a short time before laid claim to the throne.

12. Insolentius. He made himself perpetual Dictator, Imperator, &c. and it was suspected that he intended to declare himself king.

13. Bruti duo, Marcus and Decimus.

1. Fusus. Antony besieged D. Brutus in Mutina, a town of Gallia Cispadana, now Modena, but was defeated by the consuls Pansa and Hirtius. 57

2. Lepidum, who was in Gaul with the army.

3. Octavianus, the son of C. Octavius and Atia, a niece of Julius Caesar, by whom Octavianus was adopted as a son. But sons, who entered a family by adoption, added to the name of their pater adoptivus, which they assumed, the name of their real father with an addition; so that Aemilius became Aemilianus, and Octavius, Octavianus. Octavianus had first waged war with the senate (Optimates) against Antony.

4. Proscripsit. See n. 6, p. 53.

5. Cassius. After the first battle Cassius caused one of his freedmen to kill him; Brutus fell on his own sword after the second.

6. Philippi, a town of Macedonia, east of Amphipolis.

7. Gallias, (as Hispanias, see n. 5, p. 56), comprehends all coun-

57. tries under the name of Gallia, both on this side and the other side of the Alps.
8. Lepidus. A short time after the division, Lepidus was stripped of his portion by Octavianus, and made to retire to a private station, because he made higher pretensions than he ought.
9. Augustus, a title of honour, which Octavianus received in the year 726, when he proposed to abdicate the imperial dignity, and which conveyed the idea of holiness, since Augustus was especially applied to places which were devoted to religious purposes.
10. Actium, now Azio, a town and promontory of Epirus.
11. Aspis, a poisonous serpent of Egypt and Libya, whose bite occasions inevitable death, but without pain.
58. 1. Fretum Gaditanum, from Gades, a Phoenician colony, now Cadiz.
2. Qui montes. Not, as in English, montes—qui, which position of the relative, when accompanied by an apposition, the Latin did not admit.
3. Herculis columnae, as marks of the limit which nature had put to the wanderings of Hercules. According to some he had erected columns on these mountains, after he had separated them by force, and thereby connected the Mediterranean (mare internum) with the Ocean (mare Atlanticum).
4. Tanais, now the Don.
5. Pontus Euxinus, now the Black Sea.
6. Palus Maeotis, now the Sea of Azoph or Zaback.
7. Mare Brit. now the North Sea.
8. Aegaeum, now the Archipelago.
9. Tyrrhenum, so called from the ancient inhabitants of middle Italy, who named the land which they inhabited Tyrrhenia; by the Romans it was called Tuscia.
10. Baetis, now the Guadalquivir.
11. Condita. The island, on which Gades was built, was connected to the main land by a mole.
12. Narbonensis, so called from the city Narbo (Narbonne); before the reign of Augustus it was called Provincia Romana (Provence), as being the first country subdued by the Romans in Transalpine Gaul.
13. Massilia, now Marseilles. Respecting the foundation of the city by the Phocaeans, see Part II. I. i.
14. Campus lapideus, or campi lapidei, a plain of several miles in extent, covered with round stones, situate in the vicinity of the Rhodanus, (Rhone), not far from the sea. The natural soil of this region is the same as described by the ancients.
15. Pluisse, scil. lapidibus.
59. 1. Rhodanus, now the Rhone.
2. Lacus Lemanus, now the Lake of Geneva. They distinguished the water of the Rhine at a considerable distance, whence the opinion arose that the river flowed unmixed through the lake.
3. Dirimit. The Rhone flows between Gallia Narbonensis and Lugdunensis, and empties into the Mediterranean by several mouths between Narbo and Massilia.
4. Porrigitur. The ancient Gallia comprehended the whole country west of the Rhine as far as the North Sea, including the modern kingdom of the Netherlands.
5. Druidae. Britain, according to Caesar, was the great school

4. Danubius, the Danube, called by the Greeks Ister, which name the Romans also applied to the eastern part of the stream.
5. Moenus, now Mayne, which falls into the Rhine by Mentz.
6. Visurgis, now the Weser, falling into the German ocean.
7. Albis, now the Elbe.
8. Rhaetia, bounded on the north by Vindelicia, east by Noricum, south by Italy, and west by Helvetia.
9. Aperuit. Julius Caesar made two voyages from Gaul to Britain, and thus opened the way to the Romans.
10. Claudio imperante. In the reign of Claudius, A. D. 42, the Romans first established themselves in Britain, under the command of Aulus Plautius.
11. Muro. This wall, which was intended to protect Roman Britain from the incursions of the Picts and Scots, extended from the Tyne to the Esk. The succeeding Caesars built other ramparts and walls for the same purpose.
12. Cantium, now Kent.
13. Longior quam latior. When two predicates are joined to a noun, and one is to be expressed in a higher degree than the other, both are used in Latin in the comparative.
14. Ramos. One of these branches of the Apennines terminates in the promontory of Iapygium, the other in that of Leucopetra.
- 61 1. Id genus, equivalent to hujus generis.
2. Lecta, i. e. when one merely reads about them.
3. Fontes saluberrimi, the warm baths of Baiæ.
4. Padus, now the Po.
5. Gallia Cisalpina, or Togata, the northern part of Italy on this side of the Alps, including the Italian Tyrol, extending as far south as the Rubicon.
6. Vesulus, in Liguria, a mountain of the Alpes Cottiae.
7. Urbis Romanæ magnificentiam, instead of Romam urbem magnificentissimam.
8. Tarentum, now Taranto.
9. Superato. In the war with the Romans. See Roman Hist. Lib. II. 5—9.
10. Trinacria, compounded of τρεις, "three," and ἄκρα, "a promontory."
11. Cyclopes, giants with one eye in their forehead, who forged the thunderbolts of Jupiter in the workshop of Vulcan.
12. Egesti, from egero.
13. Humeris sublato flammæ erip., equivalent to humeris sustulisse et fl. eripuisse.
- 62 1. Bello petita. For an account of this war, see part II. C. 19—21.
2. Bello Punico. See Roman Hist. Lib. III. 2—11.
3. Archimedes, a famous mathematician, who defended the town for a long time by the machines of war which he constructed. He was made captive and slain by a Roman soldier.
4. Olympia. See p. 34, n. 10.
5. Reddi depends upon dicitur in the preceding sentence.
6. Vestigii. The name Ichnusa is derived from ἵχνος, vestigium.
7. Epirus, a country of Greece, to the west of Thessaly, lying along the Adriatic, and now forming a part of modern Albania.
8. Sejunguntur. Macedonia and Epirus, which were governed by kings, were by many considered as not belonging to Greece, which consisted only of free states.

9. Transtulit. For the history of Philip and Alexander, see part II. E.

10. Perseo superato. See Roman Hist. Lib. IV. 3.

11. Acroceraunii montes. A range of mountains in the vicinity of the sea, which terminated in the promontory Acroceraunium.

12. Tinnitu significasse. The ancients supposed that the oaks of Dodona possessed human voices and prophesied. The priests drew their predictions from the rustling of the leaves, and the clattering din of large kettles, which were suspended in the air near a brazen statue; when this was agitated, it struck against one of the kettles, which communicated the motion to the rest.

13. Cephalenia, now Cefalonia.

14. Corcyra, now Corfu, the land of the Phaeacians, over which (according to the Odyssey) Alcinous reigned in the time of Ulysses. The gardens of Alcinous bloomed and bore fruit constantly.

1. Quo tempore. Not tempore quo. See p. 58, n. 2.

2. Numa Pompilius. See Roman Hist. Lib. I. 13.

3. Ithaca, now Teaki. The fame given by the Odyssey of Homer to this barren island, has placed it in as high or even a higher rank than that occupied by the most fruitful region of the earth.

4. Per quos, scil. montes. They placed these mountains one upon the other, intending by means of them to climb to the habitation of the gods. See III. 3

5. Penēus, now Salempria; Σαλεμπρία (pronounced Salebria), one of the finest and clearest rivers of Greece.

6. Tempe, τὰ τέμπη.

7. Athenae. Understand sunt, or sitae sunt.

8. Deos, Neptune (Ποσειδῶν) and Minerva (Ἀθήνη). From the last the town received its name.

9. Eas, instead of tales, tam praeclaras.

10. Propylaea, τὰ προπύλαια, a gateway, ornamented with rows of columns, one of the most magnificent structures in Athens.

11. Longos muros, τὰ μακρὰ τείχη, also called σκέλη.

12. Musices ope. See above, III. 23.

13. Epaminondae virtus. See Part II. D. § 8, 9, 10.

14. Nemo ignorat. Combine thus, nemo ignorat, quantam auctoritatem oraculum Apollinis in hac urbe habuerit. Respecting the relative in the beginning of a sentence, see n. 5, p. 14.

15. Peloponnesus, ("the island of Pelops,") now the Morea.

16. Isthmus, Gr. ισθμός; the Isthmus of Corinth is now Hexamili.

17. Ludi Isthmici. The Isthmian games were instituted, B. C. 1326; in honour of Melicerta or Palaemon, but having been interrupted after some years, they were re-instituted by Theseus in honour of Neptune.

1. Bellum Achaicum. Respecting this war, see Roman Hist. Lib. IV. 6. and Part II. E. § 75, 76.

2. Res gestas numerat. As the Olympiads were celebrated after an interval of 4 years, the Greeks called that space of time an Olympiad. They counted the Olympiads from the year 776 B. C. They reckon (numerant), or date their actions and exploits (res gestas) from the years of the Olympic games. See p. 34, n. 10.

3. Lycurgi leges. See Part II. D. § 1, 2.

4. Taygetus, a chain of mountains, which extending from Arcadia divide into two branches, of which one terminates in the Taenarium Promontorium, the other in the Malea Pr. These promontories form the Sinus Laconicus, now G. of Colokythia.

Page

- 64 5. Orpheus, as is said, descended by a cave at Taenārus to the infernal regions, for the purpose of procuring from Pluto the restoration of his wife Eurydice to life.
6. Cyclādes, from κύκλος "a circle."
7. Delus, (derived from δῆλος), now Sedili.
8. Transtulerunt. The allied states of Greece, in order that they might always be prepared to carry on war with the Persians, made a proportional contribution, which they deposited in the temple of Delos, as a common treasury of Greece, but subsequently the Athenians, having become most powerful by sea, conveyed the treasures to Athens, and applied them to their own use.
9. Euboea, now Negropont.
10. Temere, "without stated intervals."
- 65 1. Plures (uxores) singuli (viri) habent.
2. A judicibus. In these disputes judges decided who was most worthy of following her husband.
3. Ducendae. The participle denotes the purpose.
4. Inveniunt, etc. instead of maritos pecunia data (mercede) emunt.
5. Byzantium, called Constantinople from Constantine the Great. The Turks call it Istamboul or Stamboul.
6. Bospōrus Thracius, (so called to distinguish it from the Bosporus Cimmerius), a strait connecting the Propontis (Sea of Marmora) with the Pontus Euxinus (Black Sea).
7. Hellespontus, now the Dardanelles, leading from the Aegaeon to the Propontis.
8. Amor Herus et Leandri, the love of Leander of Abydus (on the Asiatic coast) for Hero, (genit. Herus, Ἡρώ, οἷς), a priestess of Venus at Sestos, to whom he used to swim by night across the Hellespont. He was at length drowned, in consequence of the torch, which Hero held to direct his course, being extinguished during a storm.
9. Cynossēma, κυνὸς σῆμα, "a dog's tomb."
10. Hecuba, wife of Priam, king of Troy.
11. Aenēas, son of Anchises and Venus, who, after the destruction of Troy, went in quest of new habitations, accompanied by a band of his countrymen.
12. Devorandus, "to be devoured."
13. Cassander, son of Antipater; he made himself master of Macedonia after his father's death.
14. In extrema Macedonia, i. e. in extremis Macedoniae partibus.
15. Assignasse, scil. iis.
16. Scythia, a country between the Ister and the Maeotis Palus or the Phasis, which also extended into unknown regions of the north and east. The name of Riphaei Montes is applied to any cold mountains in a northern country; it would appear that the ancients intended to denote by them the northern and western limits of the earth.
- 66 1. Majoribus, etc. i. e. quanto quis (aliquis) illustriores majores habet.
2. Taurica Chersonesus, (to distinguish it from the Chersonesus Thracia), a peninsula in the Black Sea, now Crimea.
3. Borysthēnes, a large river of Scythia, falling into the Euxine, now the Dnieper.
4. Hyperborēi, ὑπερβόρειοι; the word signifies "people who inhabit beyond the wind Boreas." Thrace was the residence of 68 pus, membra, is also used in a neuter-sense, instead of se lavare, or lavari.

2. Lucis, i. e. nemoribus.
 3. Terrere dicitur. The greatest part of the Corycian cave was in reality a valley between rugged rocks; in the bottom of the valley was a hole, in which the rushing of the water might produce the effects here mentioned. There was another Corycian cave in Phocis near Parnassus.
 4. Cum terra conjuncta. This connexion with the main land was first made by Alexander, who, when besieging the place, formed a mole in order to gain access to the city, which was built on an island.
 5. Latrociniis vivunt. As the Bedouins at the present day.
 6. Aelius Gallus penetravit. In the reign of Augustus, A. U. C. 729.
 7. Bactrianae et Arabiae, adjectives from Bactrianus and Arabius. The camel with one bunch or protuberance on its back is called a dromedary.
- 69
1. Ambitu. The noun ambitus has the penult short, although the participle ambitus has that syllable long.
 2. Moles. The arches on which the gardens rested, the plan of which was arranged by Semiramis.
 3. Successores. Seleucus Nicator, one of the successors of Alexander, who penetrated as far as the countries which border on the Ganges.
 4. Paropamisus, a mountain which separates Bactria from India.
 5. Ambitu corporis, i. e. corpora elephantorum ambientes et implicantes.
 6. Lanas ferunt. The cotton (gossypium) growing upon trees and shrubs.
 7. Insistunt. In like manner the Fakirs at the present day acquire a character for holiness by subjecting themselves to bodily tortures and mortifications.
 8. In rogos se praecipitantes. This is told of the Gymnosophistae.
 9. Plinius, a learned Roman, who lived in the reigns of Claudius, Nero, and Vespasian, and who has left an extensive work, giving an account of almost every natural object. He perished in an eruption of Vesuvius.
 10. Meditantem, i. e. exercentem.
 11. Magna ex parte. In the east the battle is principally decided by the elephants.
- 70
1. Ebur adhibetur. The most famous statues of Phidias, as the Jupiter at Olympia, and the Minerva in the Parthenon at Athens were of ivory, and were covered with golden garments.
 2. Excipit, equivalent to sustinet.
 3. His cymbis instead of his testis utuntur pro cymbis, iisque navigant.
 4. Terni, scil. homines.
 5. Ad centena, "about a hundred every time."
 6. Feminarum gloria, "is an object of pride among the women."
 7. Antonius, M. Antonius, the triumvir, who after the war with the Parthians, lived in extreme luxury, at Alexandria, with Cleopatra the last princess of Egypt, whom he rivalled in extravagance.
 8. Catabathmus, καταβαθμὸς, a region constantly declining.

9. Praecipitatus. This waterfall (Catarractes or Cataracta) is the smallest of several, which the river forms before its entrance into Egypt.

10. Septem ora. Many give it nine mouths.

1. Aggeres aperiuntur. Egypt is intersected by canals, in order to extend the water of the river through every part of the country. These are kept shut by sluices and dams, until the Nile has attained its proper height. 71

2. In insula Nili. So says Pliny. According to others, Tentyra (τὰ Τέντυρα) is a town and district on the western side of the Nile.

3. Crocodylos ostendit. The Roman Aediles took upon themselves the care of celebrating the Ludi Maximi or Romani, and some other festivals, in which they often caused foreign and rare animals to be exhibited to the people.

4. Moeris, a lake in Middle Egypt, now Birket Caroun. The present extent of this lake is by no means the same as that represented by the ancients.

5. Labyrinthus. The labyrinth, which is said to have been built by 12 Egyptian kings, lay on the southern side of lake Moeris, not far from Arsinoe.

6. Ptolemaeus, Lagi filius, or Soter, the first of the Ptolemies. Egypt was governed by these princes from the time of Alexander until it became a Roman province. From the light-house here mentioned, built upon the island of Pharos, the name Pharos is applied to light-houses in general.

1. In bibliothecis condendis. The Alexandrian library, commenced by the second Ptolemy (Philadelphus), is said to have increased until it contained 700,000 volumes (volumina). Respecting the library at Pergamus, see p. 5, n. 2. 72

2. Medicatos, "embalmed," as mummies.

3. Nec diu quaeritur. The priest kept another in readiness which had the required marks.

4. Macrobii, μακρόβιοι, "long-lived."

5. Terminatur Nilo. The Nile was considered by many as the eastern limit of Africa; others comprehended the whole of Egypt in Africa.

6. Mauritania was bounded on the north by the Fretum Herculeum, now Straits of Gibraltar, on the east by Numidia, on the south by Gaetulia, and on the west by the Atlantic. It is now the empire of Fez and Morocco. The inhabitants were called Mauri.

7. Columnae Herculis app. See p. 58. § 1.

1. Numidia, now the kingdom of Algiers. It was bounded on the north by the Mediterranean, south by Gaetulia, east by Africa Propria, and west by Mauritania. The inhabitants were called Nomades, and afterwards Numidae. 73

2. Africa. That part of Africa called Propria corresponds with the modern Tunis.

3. Bella cum Romanis. The three Punic wars, which terminated in the destruction of Carthage. See Roman Hist. Lib. II. 10—13. Lib. III. 3—11. Lib. IV. 4, 5.

4. Narrantur. A full account of this transaction is given in the 79th chapter of Sallust's History of the Jugurthine war.

5. Catabathmus. The declivity which separated Cyrenaica from Egypt was called Catabathmus magnus, to distinguish it from another in the Lybian nome, called parvus. The former is called by the Arabs Akabet-Ossolom.

Page

- 73 6. Cyrēnaica, corresponding with the modern Barca, was also called Pentapolis, from five principal cities which it contained, viz. Berenice or Hesperis, Barce, Ptolemais, Apollonia, and Cyrēne the capital.
7. Solis, scil. fontem.
8. His, scil. locis regionibus.
9. Ita promovent. As the herds go in quest of food, so these pastoral tribes wander about with their huts or tents.
10. Generositas, scil. est. Instead of leones praecipue generosi.
11. Prostratis, i. e. iis, qui se prosternunt.
- 74 1. Appetit, he finds him out in the greatest multitude, and attacks him.
2. In campis Phalippicis. After the battle in the plains of Philippi in Macedonia, in which Brutus and Cassius perished, and the party of Octavianus and Antonius proved victorious.
3. Bagrada, now Megerda, a river of Africa, which empties into the sea between Utica and Carthage.
4. Regulus, imp. Rom. Concerning Regulus, see Roman Hist. Lib. II. 11, 12.
5. Manu, "with its trunk.

CHRONOLOGICAL TABLE,

ADAPTED TO THE

EXTRACTS FROM JUSTIN AND NEPOS.

This chronological Table is divided into three parts: the first commences with the Creation and terminates at the conquest of Corobus, the era from which the Olympiads are counted. The second extends to the capture of Corinth by Mummius and the reduction of Greece to a Roman province. The third comprises the rest of the principal events alluded to in the Extracts, and terminates with the restoration of the standards taken by the Parthians from Crassus. A few important events, not mentioned in the text, have been inserted.

positus, venisset invenit eum inter mulierum greges, muliebri habitu, lanam tractantem, et pensa virginibus dividentem. Quibus visis, indignatus Arbaces, tot viros huic feminae¹ parere, omnem rem ad amicos retulit, negatque² se ei obedire posse, qui se feminam esse malit quam virum. Fit igitur conjuratio. Bellum Sardanapalo infertur. Quo ille audito, primum, ut mulieres solent, latebras circumspicit; mox deinde cum paucis et incompositis in bellum progreditur. Victus proelio in regiam se recipit, ubi, exstructo incensoque rogo, et se et divitias in flammam conjicit; hoc solo facinore virum imitatus.

B. REGNUM MEDORUM ET PERSARUM.

1. Astyages. (Justin. I. 4.)

Sardanapalo sublato quum Arbaces rex esset constitutus, imperium ab Assyriis ad Medos translatum est. Post multos deinde reges ad Astyagem descendit.³ Hic aliquando per somnum vidit e sinu filiae Mandanes, quam unicam habebat, vitem enatam,⁴ cujus palmite omnis Asia obumbraretur. Consulti harioli, qui somnia interpretabantur, responderunt, nepotem regi ex filia natum iri, qui regno potiretur omnemque Asiam subigeret. Hoc responso perterritus, Astyages filiam Cambysi in matrimonium dedit, mediocris fortunae viro, ex gente Persarum, quae tunc temporis nullis adhuc rebus gestis illustrabatur.⁵ Sed ne sic quidem ab omni metu liberatus est.

2. Cyri natales. (Ibid. I. 4.)

Quum itaque Mandane puerum peperisset, Astyages cum Harpago, arcanorum suorum participi, occidendum dedit. Is veritus, ne Mandane aliquando necati infantis ultionem a se exigeret, pastori regii pecoris puerum exponendum tradit. Forte eodem tempore et ipsi pastori filius natus erat. Ejus igitur uxor, audita regii infantis expositione, maritum precibus movit, ut sibi afferret ostenderetque puerum. Cujus precibus fatigatus pastor reversus in silvam, juxta infantem invenit canem, ubera parvulo praebentem, et a feris alitibusque defendentem. Motus et ipse misericordia, qua canem motam viderat, puerum defert ad stabula, eadem cane anxie prose-quente. Quem ubi in manus mulier accepit, puer eam risu et blanditiis ita cepit, ut eum a se nollet dimittere, maritoque precibus persuaderet, ut suum ipsius puerum exponeret, altero servato.¹ Atque ita permutata sorte parvulorum, hic pro filio pastoris educatur, illé pro² nepote Astyagis exponitur.

3. Cyrus agnoscitur. (Ibid. I. 5.)

Puer deinde quum inter pastores esset, Cyri nomen accepit. Ibi aliquando rex inter ludentes creatus, contumaces flagellis cecidit: ob quam contumeliam puerorum parentes irati regem adierunt, querentes, quod ingenui³ pueri a servo regio verberibus essent affecti. Rex puerum arcessitum quum interrogasset, quomodo ausus esset illos verberare, ille, vultu nihil mutato, se ut regem fecisse respondit. Hoc responsum puerique constantiam admiratus Astyages, somnium, quod olim viderat, in mentem revocat, quumque et vultus similitudo et expositionis tempora,⁴ et pastoris confessio convenirent, nepotem agnovit. Et quoniam somnium exitum habuisse existimabat, quod Cyrus regnum inter pastores gessisset, puero quidem pepercit, sed Harpago ob imperium neglectum iratus, filium ejus interfecit patrique epulandum apposuit.

4. Harpagus Astyagen prodit. (Ibid. I. 5.)

Ab initio quidem Harpagus dissimulavit dolorem, sed intentus occasioni vindictae exercendae, tempore interjecto, quum adolevisset Cyrus, omnia ei perscripsit: ut Astyages eum interfici jusserit, ut suo⁵ beneficio sit servatus, ut ipse filium crudelitate regis amiserit. Deinde eum hortatur, ut exercitum paret, pronamque⁶ ad regnum viam ingrediatur; simul Medorum ipsi transitionem promittit. Epistola, quia regis custodes omnes aditus obsidebant, exenterato lepore inseritur, lepusque Cyro apud Persas degenti per fidum servum mittitur.

5. Cyrus exercitum parat. (Ibid. I. 6.)

Cyrus, Harpagi epistolis lectis, nihil⁷ cunctatus, populum convocavit, eoque in locum silvestrem adducto, silvam securibus excidi jussit. Quod quum strenue fecissent,⁸ eosdem postero die ad epulas invitavit. Deinde quum alacriores ipso convivio factos videret, rogat, si conditio esset proposita,⁹ utrum hesterni diei laborem, an praesentium epularum hilaritatem praelaturi essent? omnibusque clamantibus, se praesentes praeferre epulas, ait: Hesterno diei omnem vitam similem agetis, quamdiu Medis parebitis; at si me sequerini, efficiam, ut per omnem vitam epulas agere videamini.

6. Astyages regno exiit. (Ibid. I. 6.)

Laetis omnibus, Medis bellum infert. Astyages Harpago summam belli¹ committit, oblitus² injuriarum quibus eum afecerat. At ille exercitum acceptum statim Cyro tradit, regisque crudelitatem defectione ulciscitur. Quod ubi Astyages audivit, contractis undique auxiliis ipse in Persas proficiscitur, variamque ibi belli fortunam expertus, tandem in proelio capitur. Cyrus avo regnum abstulit, eumque maximae genti Hyrcanorum³ praeposuit. Nam in Medos reverti ipse noluit. Hic finis Medorum imperii fuit. Regnaverunt annos trecentos quinquaginta.

7. Cyrus Lydiam et Croesum superat. (Ibid. I. 7.)

Initio regni Cyrus civitates, quae Medorum tributariae fuerant, bello domuit. Deinde quum adversus Babylonios bellum gereret, Croesus, rex Lydorum,⁴ cujus opes et divitiae illa tempestate insignes erant, Babyloniis auxilium tulit; eoque victo, Cyrus bellum in Lydiam transfert. Ibi Croesi exercitus, fortuna prioris proelii jam percussus, nullo negotio⁵ funditur, Croesus ipse capitur. Victor, clementia erga victum usus, et vitam ei et patrimonii partem concessit. Interjecto deinde tempore, occupato in aliis bellis Cyro, Lydi rebellavere. Quibus iterum victis arma et equi adempti, jussique sunt cauponias⁶ et ludicras artes⁷ exercere. Sic gens, industriâ quondam potens, mollitie et luxuriâ effeminata, virtutem pristinam perdidit.

8. Cyrus interficitur. (Ibid. I. 8.)

Cyrus, subacta Asia, Scythis bellum infert. Erat eo tempore Scytharum regina, Tomyris, quae quum hostes Araxis⁸ fluminis transitu prohibere posset, iis transire permisit, existimans, faciliorem sibi intra terminos regni pugnam fore. Itaque Cyrus, trajectis copiis, quum aliquantisper in Scythiam processisset, castra metatus est. Deinde, simulato metu, quasi refugiens, castra deseruit, atque in iis vini affatim, et quae epulis erant necessaria, reliquit. Quod quum reginae nuntiatum esset, adolescentulum filium ad insequendum hostem cum tertia parte copiarum misit. Quum ventum ad Cyri castra esset, adolescens, rei militaris ignarus, omissis⁹ hostibus, milites suos insuetos¹⁰ vino se onerare patitur. Qui jussit. Tum fortuna ita regente,¹ Gobrya incolumi, magus interficitur.

11. Darius Hystaspis rex creatur. (Ibid. I. 10.)

Quibus peractis, conjurati virtute et nobilitate pares, pacti sunt inter se, ut die statuta omnes equos ante regiam primo mane perducerent; et cujus equus inter Solis ortum hinnitum primus edidisset, is rex esset. Nam et Solem Persae unum Deum esse credunt, et equos eidem Deo sacros putant. Erat autem inter conjuratos Darius Hystaspis filius; cui, de eventu sollicito, equi custos ait: si haec res,² quam tu dicis, victoriam decernit, nihil negotii superesse existima.³ Tum per noctem, pridie constitutam diem,⁴ equum ad eundem locum⁵ ducit, simulque equam. Postera die itaque quum ad statutam horam omnes convenissent, Darii equus, cognito loco ubi equam viderat, hinnitum statim edidit. Quo auspicio audito, omnes confestim equis desilierunt, et Darium regem salutaverunt. Populus quoque universus, principum secutus iudicium, eundem regem constituit. Principio regni, Cyri filiam in matrimonium duxit, regalibus nuptiis regnum firmaturus;⁶ ut non tam in extraneum translatus quam, in familiam Cyri reversum esse videretur.

12. Zopyri dolo Babylonia capitur. (Ibid. I. 10.)

Interjecto deinde tempore, quum Assyrii descivissent, et Babyloniam occupassent, difficilisque urbis expugnatio esset, unus de interfecto magorum Zopyrus, domi se verberibus lacerari toto corpore jubet; tum naso, auribus et labiis abscissis, regi se inopinanti offert.⁷ Jam quum Darius ejus adspectu attonitus, auctorem tam foedae lacerationis requireret, ille, quo consilio hoc fecerit, edocet; rebusque cum rege compositis, transfugae titulo⁸ in Babyloniam proficiscitur. Ibi ostendit populo laniatum corpus regisque Darii jussu se tam crudeliter affectum esse queritur, persuadetque mirantibus, ut se in urbem reciperent. Omnibus et virtus viri et nobilitas pariter nota erat, nec de fide⁹ dubitabant, quam corpus verberibus laniatum satis probare videbatur. Receptus igitur, omnium suffragio dux constituitur, et accepta parva manu, semel iterumque Persarum copias consulto cedentes fundit. Ad postremum universus ei creditur exercitus. Hunc Dario prodit, urbemque ipsam in ejus potestatem redigit.

13. Darii expeditio contra Scythas. (Ibid. II. 5.)

Multis in Asia feliciter gestis, Darius Scythis¹ bellum intulit, et armatis septingentis millibus hominum, Scythiam ingressus, quum hostes ei pugnae potestatem non facerent, metuens, ne interrupto ponte Istri,² reditus sibi intercluderetur, amissis octoginta millibus hominum, trepidus³ refūgit. Inde Macedoniam domuit. Paulo post, quum cognovisset, Athenienses Ionibus⁴ contra se auxilium tulisse, bello eos adortus est. Quod quo eventu gestum sit, in Atheniensium historia narrabitur.⁵

14. Filiorum Darii de regno contentio. (Ibid. II. 10.)

Persarum legionibus in campo Marathonio⁶ magno proelio superatis, Darius, bellum instauraturus, in ipso apparatu decēdit, relictis multis filiis, et in regno et ante regnum⁷ susceptis.⁸ Ex his Artemenes, maximus nātū, aetatis privilegio, regnum sibi vindicabat; Xerxes, quod patre ad regiam dignitatem sublatō, primus genitus esset. Hoc certamen duo fratres concordi animo ad patrum suum Artaphernem deferunt; qui, domi⁹ cognita causa, Xerxem praeposuit: adeoque fraterna fuit contentio,¹⁰ ut nec victor insultaret, nec victus doleret; ipsoque litis tempore munera sibi invicem mitterent.

15. Xerxes bellum adversus Graeciam parat. (Ibid. II. 10.)

Igitur Xerxes bellum a patre coeptum adversus Graeciam denuo instruxit, eique apparatus¹¹ quinquennium insumsit. Septingenta millia ex regni sui provinciis armasse dicitur, et trecenta millia auxiliariorum; ut non inmerito proditum sit, flumina ab exercitu ejus siccata esse, Graeciamque omnem vix capere exercitum ejus potuisse. Navēs quoque mille ducentas numero habuisse dicitur. Huic tanto agmini dux¹² defuit. Rex enim primus in fuga, postremus in proelio semper visus est. In periculis timidus, ubi metus abesset, inflatus erat.

16. Pugna ad Thermopylas. (Ibid. II. 11.)

Ejus introitus in Graeciam quam terribilis, tam turpis discessus fuit. Nam quum Leonidas, rex Spartanorum, cum quatuor millibus militum angustias Thermopylarum¹³ occupasset, Xerxes contemptu paucitatis eos aggreditur. Triduo ibi pugnatum, magnaue in Persarum exercitu caedes est edita.

Quarta die quum nuntiatum esset Leonidae, summum montium cacumen a viginti millibus hostium teneri, socios hortatur, recedant¹ et se ad meliora patriae tempora reservent; sibi cum Spartanis fortunam esse experiendam. Tum caeteri discessere; soli Lacedaemonii remanserunt. Hi omnes Xerxis castra adorti, post ingentem caedem editam ibi occubuerunt.

L 17. Xerxes Graecia vastata fugatur. (Ibid. II. 12.)

Tum Xerxes maris fortunam experiri statuit. Sed ante navalis proelii congressionem² misit quatuor millia armatorum Delphos³ ad templum Apollinis diripiendum. Quae manus tota imbris et fulminibus deleta est, ut intelligerent, quam nullae⁴ essent hominum adversus Deos vires. Post haec Thespias et Plataeas⁵ et Athenas⁶ vacuas hominibus incendit; et quoniam ferro in homines non poterat,⁷ in aedificia igne grassatur. Cujus incendii flammam quum viderent Graeci in classe circum Salamina⁸ insulam statuta,⁹ dissensio inter principes orta est, quum plurimi hortarentur, ut domos suas discederent moenibusque se defenderent. Tum Themistocles, Atheniensium imperator, timens, ne discessu sociorum vires Graeciae minuerentur, per servum fidum Xerxi nuntiat, uno in loco eum contractas Graeciae vires facillime opprimere posse. Quod si populi, qui jam abire vellent, dissiparentur, majori labore ei singulos consectandos esse. Hoc dolo impulit regem, ut signum pugnae daret. Graeci quoque adventu hostium coacti sunt proelium collatis viribus capessere. Interea rex, velut spectator pugnae, in litore remanet. Artemisia autem, regina Halicarnassi,¹⁰ quae in auxilium Xerxi venerat, plurima in hoc navali proelio virtutis documenta dedit. Sic illo tempore in viro muliebris timor, in muliere virilis conspiciebatur audacia. Quum proelium anceps esset, Iones, qui cum rege¹¹ pugnabant, a Themistocle instigati, pugnae se paulatim subtrahere coeperunt; quorum defectio animos caeterorum fregit. Itaque circumspicientes fugam pelluntur Persae, et mox, proelio victi, in fugam vertuntur.

18. Xerxis in Asiam reditus. (Ibid. II. 13.)

Hac clade percussus Xerxes domum redire statuit, parte exercitus cum Mardonio in Graeciâ relictâ. Sed Graeci, auditâ regis fugâ, consilium inveniunt pontis rumpendi, quo ille Hellespontum¹² junxerat, ut intercluso reditu cum reliquiis exercitus deleretur. Sed Themistocles timens, ne interclusi hostes iter, quod aliter non pateret, ferro patefacerent, servum ad Xerfilios regis, votis suis obsistentes, amoveret, Artaxerxi, admodum puero, persuasit, regem a Dario,¹ qui erat adolescens, occisum esse, quo maturius regno potiretur, eumque impulit, ut patris caedem in fratre vindicaret. Quum ventum ad domum Darii esset, hic dormiens inventus interficitur. Quo facto, ut etiam Artaxerxem tolleret, Artabanus, principum de regno certamina metuens, assumit in societatem consilii Bacabasum: qui² praesenti rerum statu contentus, rem prodit Artaxerxi, ut pater ejus occisus, ut frater falsa parricidii suspitione oppressus esset, quaenam ipsi denique pararentur insidiae. His cognitis Artaxerxes in posterum diem armatum exercitum adesse jubet, recogniturus³ et numerum militum et in armis industriam singulorum. Itaque quum inter caeteros et ipse Artabanus armatus assisteret, rex simulavit, se breviorē lorica habere, jussitque Artabanum suam secum commutare; tum exuentem se et nudatum gladio trajecit, simulque filios ejus corripit jubet. Atque ita egregius juvenis et caedem patris, et se ab insidiis Artabani vindicavit.⁴

21. Intestina discordia in regno Persarum gliscit.
(Just. V. 11.)

Artaxerxem secutus est filius Xerxes, qui post breve quadraginta quinque dierum regnum a Sogdiano occisus est. Qui regnum scelere occupatum quum caedibus tueri conaretur, post septem menses a Dario proelio superatus periit. Sub his regibus imperium Persarum principum discordiis populorumque seditionibus agitatum magis magisque inclinari⁵ coepit. Darius moriens Artaxerxi, majori natu filio, qui Mnemon appellabatur, regnum, minori, Cyro, urbes Lydiae, quibus praefectus fuit, testamento legavit. Sed Cyro judicium⁶ patris injuria videbatur; itaque occulte adversus fratrem bellum paravit. Quod quum nuntiatum esset Artaxerxi, Cyrum ad se accessitum compedibus aureis vinxit, interfecissetque, nisi mater prohibuisset.

22. Cyrus in bello adversus fratrem suscepto perit.
(Just. V. 11.)

Quod periculum quum effugisset, Cyrus jam non occulte bellum, sed palam parare coepit; auxilium undique contrahit. Sed quum in proelio⁷ commisso fratrem imprudentius aggreditur, hunc quidem⁸ equi fuga⁹ periculo subtrahit, Cyrus autem⁸ a cohorte regia circumventus interficitur. In eo proelio decem millia Graecorum in auxilio Cyri fuere; quae et in cornu, in quo steterant, vicerunt, et post mortem Cÿri neque armis a tanto exercitu vinci, neque dolo capi potuerunt, sed per indomitas nationes et gentes barbaras, virtute sua confisi, in patriam revertuntur.¹

53. Artaxerxis filii in patrem conjurant. (Just. X. 1. 2.)

Artaxerxi ex pellicibus centum et quindecim filii fuere, sed tres tantum justo matrimonio suscepti, Darius, Ariarates et Ochus. Ex his Darium per indulgentiam pater, contra morem Persarum, regem vivus fecit. Sed hic paterna pietate nihil motus, interficiendi patris consilium cepit. Occiso quippe Cÿro, Aspasiam, pellicem ejus, in regium gynaeceum translata, a patre sibi dari postulaverat. Hic, pro sua in liberos indulgentia, primo se id facturum esse dixerat; mox poenitentia ductus, Solis eam sacerdotio praefecit, quo munere ab omni virorum consortio prohibebatur. Hinc exacerbatus juvenis cum quinquaginta fratribus in patrem conjuravit; sed deprehensus cum sociis poenas parricidii² dedit. Conjuges³ quoque conjuratorum cum liberis omnibus interfectae sunt, ne quod vestigium tanti sceleris superesset. Paulo post Artaxerxes morbo ex dolore contracto decessit.

24. Ochus. Darius Codomannus, postremus rex Persiae.
(Just. X. 3.)

Post patris mortem Ochus regnum paternum invasit. Qui parem conjurationem timens, regiam cognatorum et principum caede replet. Tum bellum Cadusiis⁴ infert. In quo bello Codomannus quidam adversus hostem, qui unum ex Persis ad singulare certamen provocaverat, magno animo processit, et hoste occiso victoriam suis et prope amissam gloriam restituit. Ob haec decora⁵ praeficitur Armeniis. Interjecto deinde tempore post mortem Ochi regis, ob memoriam pristinae virtutis rex a populo constituitur, Darii nomine honoratus; bellumque cum Alexandro non sine virtute gessit. Postremo ab Alexandro victus et a cognatis occisus, vitam pariter cum Persarum regno finivit.

C. RES ATHËNIENSIIUM.

1. Atheniensium origines et primi reges. (Just. II 6.)

Athenienses non solum incrementis¹ suis, sed etiam origine gloriantur. Non enim a sordidis² initiis crevere, nec ex aliis regionibus advenerunt, sed eodem innati solo,³ quod incolunt; et quae illis sedes, eadem origo est. Primi lanificii et olei⁴ et vini⁵ usum docuere. Arare quoque et serere frumenta⁶ glandem vescentibus⁷ monstrarunt. Litterae certe ac facundia, leges et civilis disciplina⁸ veluti templum Athenas habuere. Ante Deucaliōnis tempora regem habuere Cecrōpem; quem, ut omnis antiquitas fabulosa est, biformem tradidere, quia primus marem feminae matrimonio junxit. Huic successit Cranāus, cujus filia Atthis regioni nomen dedit. Post hunc Amphictyon regnavit, qui primus Minervae urbem sacravit, et nomen civitati Athenas dedit. Hujus temporibus aquarum illuvies majorem partem populorum Graeciae absumpsit. Superfuerunt,⁹ quos refugia montium receperunt, aut¹⁰ ad regem Thessaliae¹¹ Deucalionem ratibus evecti sunt, a quo propterea genus humanum conditum dicitur. Per ordinem deinde successionis regnum ad Erechtheum descendit, sub quo frumentisatio apud Eleusin a Triptolemo reperta est. In hujus muneris honorem noctes initiorum¹² sacratae.¹³ Tenuit et Aegeus, Thesei pater, Athenis regnum. Post Aegeum Theseus,¹⁴ ac deinceps Thesei filius, Demophon, qui auxilium Graecis adversus Trojanos¹⁵ tulit, regnum possedit.

2. Codrus se pro patria devovet. (Just. II. 6.)

Erant inter Athenienses et Dorienses¹⁶ veteres offensae, quas vindicaturi bello Dorienses, de eventu proelii oracula consuluerunt. Responsum superiores¹⁷ fore, ni regem Atheniensium occidissent. Itaque quum ventum esset in bellum, militibus ante omnia custodia¹⁸ regis praecipitur. Atheniensibus eo tempore rex Codrus erat; qui et responso Dei, et praeceptis hostium cognitis, permutato¹⁹ regis habitu, pannosus, sarmen-taque gerens, castra hostium ingreditur; ibique in turba militum, quum unum falce sponte vulnerasset, occiditur. Cognito regis corpore, Dorienses sine proelio discedunt. Atque ita Athenienses virtute ducis, pro salute patriae, morti se offerentis, bello liberantur.

libertatis esset, tandem Hippias regno pulsus in exsilium agitatur, et in Persiam profectus, Dario, Atheniensibus bellum illaturo, ducem se adversus patriam offert. Igitur Athenienses, nuntio de Persarum adventu accepto, auxilium a Lacedaemoniis petiverunt. Quos ubi viderunt religione¹ retineri, quominus statim auxilium ferrent, non expectata eorum ope, instructis decem millibus civium, et Plataeensibus auxiliariis mille, in campos Marathonios² in proelium egrediuntur. Miltiades erat unus ducum exercitus, ejusque potissimum auctoritate impulsus Athenienses copias ex urbe eduxerunt, locoque idoneo castra fecerunt. Deinde postero die sub montis radicibus acies instruitur. Datis, Persarum dux, etsi non aequum locum³ videbat suis, tamen, fretus numero copiarum suarum, confluere cupiebat. Itaque in aciem peditum centum, equitum decem millia produxit, proeliumque commisit. Tanta vero Atheniensibus in pugnam euntibus alacritas animorum fuit, ut quum mille passus inter duas acies essent, citato cursu ad hostem venirent. Nec audaciae eventus⁴ defuit. Pugnatum est enim tanta virtute, ut Persae perterriti non castra sed naves peterent, ex quibus multae suppressae,⁵ multae captae sunt.

6. Virtutis in illo proelio documenta. (Just. II. 9.)

In illo proelio tanta virtus singulorum fuit, ut cujus laus prima esset, difficile dictu videretur. Inter caeteros tamen Themistoclis adolescentis gloria emicuit. Cynegiri quoque, militis Atheniensis, gloria multorum scriptorum laudibus celebrata est. Qui post innumeras caedes, quum fugientes hostes ad naves egisset, onustam navem dextra manu tenuit, nec prius dimisit, quam manum amitteret, tum quoque amputata dextra, navem sinistra comprehendit; quam et ipsam quum amisisset, ad postremum morsu navem retinuit. Persae magnam vim hominum eo proelio amiserunt. Cecidit et Hippias, tyrannus Atheniensis, auctor et concitor ejus belli, diis patriae ultoribus poenas repetentibus.

7. Honor Miltiadi tributus. (Corn. Nep. Vita Milt. c. 6.)

Jam non alienum videtur, hujus victoriae quale praemium⁶ Miltiadi sit tributum docere. Huic viro, qui Athenas totamque Graeciam liberarat, hic honor tributus est, ut, quum in porticu, quae Poecile⁷ vocatur, pugna depingeretur Marathonia, in decem praetorum⁸ numero prima ejus imago poneretur, milites hortantis⁹ proeliumque committentis. Antiquissimis enim temporibus rari fuerunt honores et tenues,¹⁰ et propter id ipsum gloriosi. Idem populus postquam corruptus est, trecentas statuas Demetrio Phalereo¹ decrevit.

8. Bellum Persicum alterum, (Corn. Nep. Vita Them. c. 2. 3.)

Paulo post Xerxes majoribus viribus Graeciam aggressus est. Quo adventante quum oraculum Delphicum consulissent,² responsum est, moenibus ligneis se tuerentur. Quod responsum quo valeret,³ quum intelligeret nemo, Themistocles persuasit civibus, ut in naves se suaque conferrent; eum enim significari murum ligneum. Quo consilio probato navium augment numerum, suaque omnia, quae moveri poterant, conjuges liberosque partim Salamina,⁴ partim Troezēna⁵ asportant; arcem⁶ sacerdotibus paucisque majoribus natu ad sacra procuranda tradunt, reliquum oppidum⁷ relinquunt. Communis autem Graeciae classis trecentarum navium, quarum ducentae erant Atheniensium, primum apud Artemisium⁸ inter Euboeam⁹ continentemque terram cum classiariis regis¹⁰ conflictavit. Angustias enim Themistocles quaerebat, ne multitudine regiarum navium circumiretur. Hinc etsi pari proelio¹¹ discesserant, tamen eodem loco non sunt ausi manere, quod erat periculum, ne, si pars navium adversariorum Euboeam superasset, ancipiti premerentur periculo.¹² Quo factum est, ut ab Artemisio discederent, et adversum Athenas apud Salamina classem suam constituerent.

9. Xerxes Themistoclis consilio ad Salamina superatur.
(Corn. Nep. Vit. Them. c. 4. Justin. II. 12.)

At Xerxes, Thermopylis expugnatis, protinus accessit Urbem, eamque nullis defendentibus, interfectis sacerdotibus, quos in arce invenerat, incendio delevit; cujus fiamma perterriti classiarii, quum manere non auderent, et plurimi hortarentur, ut domos suas discederent, moenibusque se defenderent, Themistocles unus restitit, et universos quidem hosti pares esse posse aiebat, dispersos autem perituros. Quum vero socios minus, quam vellet, moveret, noctu de servis suis, quem habuit fidelissimum,¹³ ad regem misit, ut ei nuntiaret suis verbis,¹⁴ Graecos in eo esse, ut fugerent. Qui si discessissent, majore cum labore et longinquiore tempore¹⁵ bellum confecturum,¹⁶ quum singulos consectari cogeretur; quos si statim aggrediretur, brevi universos oppressurum.¹⁷ Hoc eo valebat,¹⁸ ut ingratis ad depugnandum omnes cogerentur. Hac re audita, barbarus,¹⁹ nihil doli subesse ratus, postridie alienis-simo¹ sibi loco, contra opportunissimo hostibus, adeo angusto mari confligit, ut ejus multitudo navium explicari non posset. Victus ergo est magis consilio Themistoclis, quam armis Graeciae.

10. Xerxes in Asiam revertitur. (C. N. I. c. 5.)

Hic etsi male rem gesserat, tamen tantas habebat reliquias copiarum, ut etiam cum his Graeciam opprimere posset. Ne igitur bellare perseveraret, Themistocles eum certiores fecit, id agi, ut pons, quem ille in Hellesponto fecerat, dissolveretur, quo ipse reditu in Asiam excluderetur. Idque ei persuasit. Celerrimo itaque itinere in Asiam reversus est, seque a Themistocle non superatum, sed conservatum judicavit. Sic unius viri prudentia Graecia liberata est.

11. Reliquiae Persarum delentur. (Justin. II. 14. Corn. Nep. Vit. Them. c. 6.)

Quum tamen pars exercitus sub duce Mardonio, regis genero, in Graecia esset relicta, quae bellum continuaret, hae quoque copiae superatae sunt apud Plataeas, urbem Boeotiae; eodemque forte die in Asia ad montem Mycalen Persae a Graecis pugna superati sunt. Jamque omnibus pacatis, Athenienses belli damna reparare coeperunt. Quumque Phalerico portu neque magno neque bono uterentur,² Themistoclis consilio triplex Piraei³ portus constitutus est, isque moenibus circumdatus, ut ipsam urbem dignitate⁴ aequipararet, utilitate superaret. Idem muros Athenarum restituit, Lacedaemoniis vetantibus, non sine periculo suo.

12. Pausanias, dux Spartanorum, proditorem meditatur.
(Just. II. 15. Corn. N. Vita Paus. c. 2.)

Post haec Lacedaemonii, ut bis illatum Graeciae bellum ulciscerentur, ultro⁵ fines Persarum depopulantur. Cui bello quum praefecissent Pausaniam, hic superbia elatus, majores res coepit appetere. Nam quum, Byzantio⁶ expugnato, cepisset complures Persarum nobiles, atque in his nonnullos regis propinquos, hos clam Xerxi remisit, simulans, eos ex vinculis publicis effugisse; et cum his Gongylum Eretriensem,⁷ qui litteras regi redderet, in quibus haec scripta fuisse tradunt; Pausanias, dux Spartaee, quos Byzantii ceperat, postquam propinquos tuos cognovit, tibi muneri misit,⁸ seque tecum affinitate conjungi cupit. Quare, si tibi videtur, des ei filiam

15. Themistocles a rege Persiae benigne exceptus, Magnesiaë moritur. (Corn. Nep. Vit. Them. c. 10.)

Ad haec rex, tantam animi magnitudinem¹ admiratus, cupiensque talem virum sibi conciliari, benigne respondit. Themistocles autem omne illud tempus² litteris sermonique Persarum dedit; quibus adeo eruditus est, ut multo commodius³ dicatur apud regem verba fecisse, quam hi poterant, qui in Perside erant nati. Hic quum multa esset regi pollicitus, magnis muneribus ab Artaxerxe donatus in Asiam⁴ rediit, domiciliumque Magnesiaë⁵ sibi constituit. In hac urbe morbo obiisse dicitur. Fama tamen fuit, eum venenum sumsisse, quum se, quae Regi de Graecia opprimenda pollicitus esset, praestare posse desperaret.⁶ Sunt, qui narrent, ossa ejus ab amicis clam in Attica sepulta esse, quoniam legibus non concederetur, quod proditionis esset damnatus.

16. Cimon insulas Atheniensibus subjicit. (Corn. Nep. Vita Cim. c. 2.)

Dum illa gerebantur, Athenienses maris imperium sine aemulo exercebant. Hoc et Themistoclis prudentiae et Cimonis virtuti debebant. Hic vir post victoriam apud Mycalen de Persis reportatam, quum magna praeda potitus domum reverteretur, quod jam nonnullae insulae propter acerbitatem⁷ imperii ab Atheniensibus defecerant, bene animatas confirmavit,⁸ alienatas⁹ ad officium redire coëgit. Scyrum,¹⁰ quod contumacius se gesserat, vacuefecit, sessores veteres urbe insulaque ejecit, agros civibus¹¹ divisit. Thasios,¹² opulentia fretos, suo adventu fregit. His manubiis¹³ Athenarum arx, qua¹⁴ ad meridiem vergit, est ornata.

17. Ostracismo patria pulsus, mox revocatur. (Ibid. c. 3.)

Quibus rebus quum unus in civitate maxime floreret, incidit in eandem invidiam, quam¹⁵ Themistocles; nam testarum suffragiis decem annorum exsilio multatus est. Cujus facti celerius Athenienses, quam ipsum, poenituit. Nam quum ille forti animo invidiae ingratorum civium cessisset, bellumque Lacedaemonii Atheniensibus indixissent, confestim notae ejus virtutis desiderium¹⁶ consecutum est. Itaque post annum quintum, quam expulsus erat,¹⁷ in patriam revocatus est. Ille, quod hospitio Lacedaemoniorum utebatur, satius¹⁸ existimans, contendere¹⁹ Lacedaemonem, sua sponte²⁰ profectus, pacem inter duas potentissimas civitates conciliavit. Post, neque ita multo, Cyprum cum ducentis navibus imperator missus, quum majorem partem ejus insulae devicisset, in morbum implicitus, in oppido Citió est mortuus.

18. Bellum Peloponnesiacum. Pericles. (Just. III. 2. et 7.)

Quum Athenienses maris imperium non sine superbia sociorumque injuria exercerent, multique, gravi eorum jugo fatigati, alios, qui se tuerentur, circumspicerent; tota Graecia, ducibus Lacedaemoniis, aemulae urbi magnitudinem et incrementa invidentibus,¹ in duas partes divisa, velut in viscera sua arma convertit. Hoc bellum, quo nullum aliud florentes Graeciae res gravius afflixit, saepius susceptum et depositum est.² Initio Spartani fines Atticae populabantur, hostesque ad proelium provocabant. Sed Athenienses, Periclis consilio, ultionis tempus expectantes, intra moenia se continebant. Deinde, paucis diebus interjectis, naves conscendunt, et, nihil sentientibus Lacedaemoniis, totam Laconiam depraedantur. Clara quidem haec Periclis expeditio est habita; sed multo clarior privati patrimonii contemptus fuit. Nam in populatione caeterorum agrorum, Periclis agros hostes intactos reliquerant, ut aut invidiam ei apud cives concitarent, aut in proditionis suspicionem adducerent. Quod intelligens, Pericles agros reipublicae dono dedit. Post haec aliquot diebus interjectis, navali proelio³ dimicatum est. Victi Lacedaemonii fugerunt. Post plures annos,⁴ fessi malis, pacem in annos quinquaginta fecere, quam non nisi sex annos servaverunt. Nam inducias, quos proprio nomine pepigerant, ex sociorum persona⁵ rumpebant. Hinc bellum in Siciliam translatum est.

19. Atheniensium in Siciliam expeditio. (Just. IV. 3, 4.)

Quum enim jam antea, bello inter Catinienses⁶ et Syracusanos exorto, Athenienses Catiniensibus opem tulissent, tempore interjecto, quum pacis conditiones a Syracusanis non servarentur, illi denúo legatos Athenas miserunt, qui sordida veste, capillo barbaque promissa, concionem adeunt, populumque lacrymis movent, ut, quamvis Peloponnesiaco bello districtus, auxilium illis mittendum censeret. - Igitur classis iugens discernitur; creantur duces Nicias, Alcibiades et Lamachus; tantaeque vires in Siciliam effusae sunt, ut iis ipsis terrori essent, quibus auxilio venerant.

-20. Atheniensium res in Sicilia gestae. (Just. IV. 4.)

Brevi post, quum Alcibiades, ob causas mox indicandas, revocatus esset, Nicias et Lamachus duo proelia pedestria secundo Marte¹ pugnant: munitionibusque urbi Syracusarum circumdatis, incolas etiam marinis commeatibus intercludunt. Quibus rebus fracti Syracusani, auxilium a Lacedaemoniis petiverunt. Ab his mittitur Gylippus, qui, quum in itinere de belli jam inclinato statu² audivisset, auxiliis partim in Graecia, partim in Sicilia contractis, opportuna bello loca occupat. Duobus deinde proeliis victus, tertio hostes in fugam conjecit, sociosque obsidione liberavit. In eo proelio Lamachus fortiter pugnans occisus est.

21. Athenienses saepius victi ingentem cladem accipiunt.
(Justin. IV. c. 4 et 5.)

Sed quum Athenienses, terrestri bello superati, portum Syracusarum tenerent, Gylippus classem Lacedaemone cum auxiliis arcessit. Quo cognito³ et ipsi Athenienses in locum amissiducis Demosthenem et Eurymedonta cum supplemento copiarum mittunt, et quasi Graeciae bellum⁴ in Siciliam translatum esset, ita ex utraque parte⁵ summis viribus dimicabatur. Prima igitur congressione navalis certaminis Athenienses vincuntur; castra quoque cum omni publica ac privata pecunia amittunt. Inter haec mala quum etiam terrestri proelio victi essent, Demosthenes censere coepit, ut abirent Sicilia, dum res quamvis afflictas, nondum tamen perditas essent. Nicias autem seu pudore male actae rei, seu impellente fato manere contendit. Reparatur igitur navale bellum; sed inscitiam ducum, qui Syracusanos, inter angustias maris⁶ facile se tuentes, temere aggressi fuerant, Atheniensium copiae iterum vincuntur. Eurymedon dux in prima acie fortissime dimicans, primus cadit; triginta naves, quibus praefuerat, incenduntur; Demosthenes et Nicias autem cum reliquis exercitus terrestri itinere fugiunt. Ab his relictas centum triginta naves Gylippus invasit; ipsos deinde insequitur; fugientes partim capit, partim caedit. Demosthenes, amisso exercitu, a captivitate gladio et voluntaria morte se vindicat: Nicias autem cladem suorum auxit dedecore captivitatis.

quitur, polliceturque his amicitiam regis, si respublica a populo ad senatum translata foret; sperans fore, ut aut concordante civitate dux belli ab omnibus legeretur, aut discordia inter ordines facta, ab altera parte in auxilium vocaretur. Itaque, permittente populo, imperium ad senatum transferitur.¹ Qui quum crudeliter in plebem consuleret, ab exercitu Alcibiades exsul revocatur, duxque classi constituitur. Hac denuntiatione territi senatores, primo urbem prodere Lacedaemoniis tentavere; dein, quum id nequissent, in exsiliium profecti sunt. Itaque Alcibiades, patria ab intestino malo liberata,² summa cura classem instruit, atque, ita in bellum adversus Lacedaemonios perrexit.

25. Lacedaemoniorum vires frangit. (Corn. Nep. Vita Alcib. c. 5.)

Hac expeditione tanta subito rerum commutatio facta est, ut Lacedaemonii, qui paulo ante victores viguerant,³ perterriti pacem peterent; victi enim erant quinque terrestribus proeliis, tribus navalibus,⁴ in quibus trecentas triremes amiserant, quae captae in hostium venerant potestatem. Alcibiades simul cum collegis receperat Ioniam, Hellespontum, multas praeterea urbes Graecas, quae in ora sitae sunt Asiae: quarum expugnaverant quam plurimas, in his Byzantium, neque minus multas consilio⁵ ad amicitiam adjunxerant, quod in captos benevolentia fuerant usi. Inde praeda onusti, locupletato exercitu, maximis rebus gestis, Athenas venerunt.

26. Athenas redit. (Corn. Nep. I. c. 6.)

Ad hunc redeuntis exercitus triumphum effusa omnis multitudo obviam procedit, et universos quidem milites, praecipue tamen Alcibiadem mirantur. Sic enim populo erat persuasum, omnes et adversas superiores⁶ et praesentes secundas res accidisse ejus opera. Itaque et cladem in Sicilia et Lacedaemoniorum victorias suae culpae tribuebant, quod talem virum e civitate expulissent. Hic ut navi egressus est, illum unum omnes prosequabantur, et id quod nunquam antea usu venerat, nisi Olympiae victoribus, coronis aureis aeneisque vulgo donabatur.⁷ Postquam in Urbem venerat, concione advocata, sic verba fecit, ut nemo tam ferus esset, quin ejus casum lacrymaret, inimicumque his se ostenderet, quorum opera patria pulsus fuerat. Restituta igitur huic sunt publice bona; et iidem illi sacerdotes, qui eum devoyerant, rursus resacrare⁸ sunt coacti.

27. Lysandro duce res Lacedaemoniorum reparantur.
(Justin. V. 5.)

Dum haec Athenis geruntur, a Lacedaemoniis Lysander classi belloque praeficitur; et in locum Tissaphernis Darius rex Persarum, filium suum, Cyrum, Ioniae Lydiaeque praeposuit, qui Lacedaemonios auxiliis opibusque ad spem fortunae prioris erexit. Aucti igitur viribus Alcibiadem cum centum navibus in Asiam profectum, dum agros populatur,¹ repentino adventu oppressere. Magnae et inopinatae cladis nuntius quum Athenas venisset, tanta Atheniensium desperatio fuit, ut statim Cononem in Alcibiadis locum mitterent, ducis se fraude magis quam belli fortuna victos arbitantes. Alcibiades autem impetum multitudinis veritus, denuo in voluntarium exsilium proficiscitur.

28. Athenienses magno proelio apud Aegospotamos superantur.
(Just. V. 6, 7. Corn. Nep. Vita Alcib. c. 8.)

Itaque Conon Alcibiadi suffectus classem maxima industria adornat; sed navibus exercitus deerat. Nam ut numerus militum expleretur, senes et pueri arma capere coacti sunt. Pluribus itaque proeliis adverso Marte pugnatis, tandem Lysander, Spartanorum dux, Atheniensium exercitum, qui, navibus relictis, in terram praedatum exierat, ad Aegos flumen² oppressit, eoque impetu totum bellum finivit. Haec enim clade res Atheniensium penitus inclinata est.³ Tributariae civitates, quas metus in fide retinuerat, Lysandro se tradiderunt, nec aliud ditionis Atheniensium⁴ relictum est praeter urbem ipsam.

29. Atheniensium consternatio. (Just. V. 7.)

Quae quum Athenis nuntiata essent, ingens omnium consternatio fuit; viri mulieresque relictis domibus, per urbem currere pavidi; alius alium sciscitari; auctorem nuntii requirere.⁵ In foro deinde coeunt, noctemque ibi inter timorem, questus, et lacrymas transigunt. Alii fratres, aut filios, aut parentes deflent, et cum privatis casibus querelam publicam⁶ miscent: Jam se ipsos, jam ipsam patriam perituram, miserio-remque superstitem, quam amissorum fortunam esse. Nullam nunc classem superesse, in quam confugiant; nullum exercitum, cujus virtute servari possint.

30. Athenae se Lysandro tradunt. (Justin. V. 8. Corn. Nep. Vita Lys. c. 1.)

Dum haec Athenis fiunt, Lysander Graeciae civitates in Lacedaemoniorum potestatem redigit, et undique iis, qui Atheniensium rebus studerent, ejectis, decem in unaquaque civitate delegit viros,¹ quibus summum imperium potestatemque omnium rerum commisit. His actis, Athenas navigavit, miseramque civitatem, obsidione circumdatam, fame urget. Sciebat enim, neque ex advectis copiis multum superesse, et ne novae advehi possent, providebat. Quibus malis Athenienses fracti, multis fame et ferro amissis, pacem petivere: quae an dari deberet, diu inter Spartanos sociosque deliberatum est. Quum nonnulli nomen Atheniensium² delendum, urbemque incendio consumendam censerent, Spartani negarunt, se passuros,³ ut ex duobus Graeciae oculis⁴ alter erueretur; pacemque Atheniensibus sunt polliciti, si longi muri brachia⁵ dejicerent, navesque, quae reliquae forent, traderent; denique si respublica triginta rectores,⁶ ex civibus deligendos, acciperet.

31. Triginta viri tyrannidem Athenis exercent. (Justin V. 8, 9.)

His legibus acceptis, tota civitas subito mutari⁷ coepit: Triginta rectores reipublicae constituuntur, Lacedaemoniis et Lysandro dediti, qui brevi tyrannidem in cives exercere coeperunt. Quippe a principio tria millia satellitum sibi statuunt; et quasi hic numerus ad continendam civitatem non sufficeret, septingentos milites a victoribus⁸ accipiunt. His copiis instructi exhaustam urbem caedibus et rapinis fatigant:⁹ quumque hoc uni ex numero suo Therameni¹⁰ displicere didicissent, ipsum quoque ad terrorem omnium interficiunt. Quo factum est, ut multi, urbe relicta, exsilio miserias, quam domesticum terrorem¹¹ pati mallent.

32. Alcibiades interficitur. (Corn. Nep. Vita Alcib. 9, 10.)

Horum tyrannorum consiliis etiam Alcibiades periit. Qui quum castellum in Phrygia¹² habitaret, ubi liberandae patriae agitabat consilia, Critias¹³ caeterique tyranni Atheniensium certos homines ad Lysandrum in Asiam miserunt, qui eum certiore facerent, nisi Alcibiadem sustulisset, nihil earum rerum ratum¹⁴ fore, quas ipse Athenis constituisset. Quare si suas res gestas manere vellet, illum persequeretur. Ly-set, legem tulit: ne quis anteactarum rerum accusaretur, neve multaretur; eamque illi legem Oblivionis vocant.

35. Athenienses se desidia tradunt. (Just. VI. 9.)

Non ita multo post per victoriam,¹ a Conone de Lacedaemoniorum classe reportatam, fractae res Atheniensium non-nihil reparatae sunt; nec tamen pristinam inter Graecos auctoritatem potuerunt recipere. Magis magisque in torporem et segnitiam resoluti, non ut olim in classem et exercitum, sed in dies festos apparatusque ludorum reditus publicos effundebant, frequentiusque in theatris quam in castris versabantur. Tum vectigal publicum quo milites et remiges aliebantur, inter urbanum populum dividi coeptum. Quibus rebus effectum est, ut, Graecis otio torpescentibus, obscurum antea Macedonum nomen emergeret; et Philippus, obses triennio Thebis habitus in Epaminondae domo, hujus praestantissimi viri et Pelopidae virtutibus eruditus Graeciae servitutis jugum imponeret.

D. DE REBUS LACEDAEMONIORUM.

1. Lycurgus Spartanorum legislator. (Just. III. 2.)

Lacedaemoniorum respublica auctoritatem, qua inter Graecos pollebat, et incrementa debebat legibus et disciplinae Lycurgi. Qui vir quum fratri suo, Polydectae, regi Spartanorum,² successisset, regnumque sibi vindicare potuisset, Charilao, filio ejus, qui natus posthumus fuerat, quum ad aetatem adultam pervenisset, regnum, summa fide restituit; ut intelligerent omnes, quanto plus apud bonos pietatis jura, quam omnes opes valerent. Jam probitate ejus perspecta, populus et principes, diuturnis inter se dissidiis agitati, conjunctis precibus eum permoverunt, ut civitati leges scriberet. Quo difficillimo negotio suscepto, rem ita perfecit, ut, dum Lycurgi leges florebant, Spartanorum civitas principem locum inter Graecos obtineret.

2. Quaedam Lycurgi leges. (Just. III. 2, 3.)

Ac primum quidem populum in obsequia principum, principes ad justitiam imperiorum formavit.⁴ Parsimoniam omnibus suasit. Emi singula non pecunia, sed compensatione mercium¹ jussit. Auri argentique usum, velut omnium scelerum materiam, sustulit. Fundos omnium aequaliter inter omnes divisit. Convivari omnes publice jussit, ne cujus divitiae vel luxuria in occulto essent. Pueros puberes in agrum deduci praecepit, ut primos annos non in luxuria,² sed in opere et laboribus agerent. Virgines sine dote nubere jussit, ut uxores eligerentur, non pecuniae. Maximum honorem senum esse voluit. Haec quoniam primo, solutis antea moribus, dura videbat esse, auctorem eorum Apollinem Delphicum fingit.³ Dein, ut aeternitatem legibus suis daret, jurejurando obligat civitatem, nihil eos de ejus legibus mutaturos, priusquam reverteretur, et simulat, se ad oraculum Delphicum proficisci, consulturum, quid addendum mutandumque, legibus videretur Deo. Proficiscitur autem Cretam,⁴ ibique perpetuum exsilium egit, abjicique in mare ossa sua moriens jussit, ne, reliquiis suis Lacedaemonem relatis, Spartani se religione jurisjurandi solutos arbitrarentur.

3. Bella Messenica. (Just. III. 4. 5.)

His igitur moribus ita brevi civitas convaluit, ut quum Messeniis bellum intulissent, gravissima se exsecratione obstringerent, non, priusquam Messeniam⁵ expugnassent, reversuros. Sed decem annis in obsidione urbis frustra consumptis, Messenii tandem per insidias expugnantur. Deinde, quum per octoginta annos omnia servitutis mala perpessi essent, post longam poenarum⁶ patientiam bellum restaurant. Lacedaemonii autem tanto majore confidentia ad arma concurrunt, quod adversus servos dimicaturi videbantur. Res tamen aliter cecidit, atque ipsi speraverant. Nam tribus proeliis fusi, eo usque desperationis adducti sunt Spartani, ut ad supplementum exercitus servos suos manumitterent. Tum de belli eventu oraculo Delphis consulto, jubentur ducem belli ab Atheniensibus petere. Athenienses autem, quum hoc responsum cognovissent, in contemptum Spartanorum Tyrtaeum poëtam claudum pede miserunt. Qui quum venisset, carmina exercitui recitavit, in quibus virtutis hortamenta, damnorum solatia, belli consilia, conscripserat.⁷ Itaque tantum ardorem militibus iniecit, ut omnes alacri animo mortem oppeterent. raro unquam cruentius proelium fuit. Ad postremum tamen victoria Lacedaemoniorum fuit.

4. Lacedaemonii principatum in Graecia exercent.

Insequenti aevo factum est, ut Lacedaemonii, ob insitam quandam populo nobilitatem et eximiam virtutis famam, principatum in Graecia obtinerent. Quare in Persicis bellis omnes Graeciae civitates, quae se adversus barbaros conjunxerant, eorum imperio parebant. Sed post illa tempora quum Athenienses maris sibi imperium vindicassent, ingens Lacedaemoniorum contra eos exarsit invidia. Hinc inimicitiae, mox bella exorta; unumque¹ gravissimum, quod, per viginti septem annos extractum, universae Graeciae vires vehementer afflixit. Victoria penes Spartanos fuit; qui post pugnam apud Aegos flumen, ubi Atheniensium robur fractum est, terra marique dominari coeperunt.

5. Lacedaemonii cum Persis in Asia bellum gerunt. (Just. VI. 1. Corn. Vit. Con. c. 2.)

Jam auctis viribus, Lacedaemonii totius Asiae imperium affectare coeperunt. Circa illud tempus, Conon, Atheniensis, qui, amissâ bello patriâ, in exilio vivebat, contulit se ad Pharnabazum, Satrapen Ioniae et Lydiae, eundemque generum regis et propinquum, apud quem ut gratia valeret, multo labore perfecit. Nam quum Lacedaemonii in societate non manerent, quam cum Artaxerxe fecerant, Agesilaumque bellatum misissent in Asiam, maxime impulsus a Tissapherne, qui a regis amicitia defecerat, et cum Lacedaemoniis coierat societatem, hunc adversus² Pharnabazus habitus est imperator; re vera autem exercitui praefuit Conon, ejusque arbitrio omnia gesta sunt. Hic summum ducem Agesilaum multum impedivit, saepeque ejus consiliis obstitit, neque non fuit apertum, si ille non fuisset, Agesilaum Asiam Tauro tenuis² regi fuisse erepturum.

6. Agesilai res gestae. (Corn. Nep. Vit. Ages. c. 4.)

Hic quum jam animo meditaretur proficisci in Persas et ipsum regem adoriri, nuntius ei domo venit Ephorum jussu, bellum Athenienses et Boeotios³ indixisse Lacedaemoniis; quare venire ne dubitaret. Qui quum victori praeesset exercitui, maximamque haberet fiduciam regni Persarum potiundi, gloriosius tamen duxit, si institutis patriae⁴ paruisset, quam si bello superasset Asiam. Quum jam haud ita longe abesset Peloponneso, obsistere ei conati sunt Athenienses et Boeo-signum apud Graecos victoriae traditae. Qua confessione contenti Thebani signum parcendi dederunt.

9. Spartanorum virtus. Epaminondas in pugna ad Mantineam interficitur. (Just. VI. 7. Corn. Nep. Vita Epam. c. 9.)

Paulo post Thebani, Epaminonda duce, occupandae urbis hostium spem ceperunt. Igitur principio noctis¹ taciti Lacedaemona proficiscuntur, non tamen aggredi incautos potuerunt. Quippe senes, et caetera imbellis aetas, quum adventum hostium sensissent, in ipsis portarum angustiis armati occurrunt. Pauci igitur senes sustinuerunt aciem,² cui paulo ante universa juvenus par esse non potuit. Agesilai autem adventu nuntiato, Thebani recessere. Nec bellum diu dilatatum; siquidem Spartanorum juvenus, senum virtute et gloria incensa, teneri non potuit, quin ex continenti³ acie decerneret. Quum victoria⁴ Thebanorum esset, Epaminondas, dum non ducis tantum, verum etiam fortissimi militis officio fungitur, graviter vulneratur. Hujus casu aliquantum retardati sunt Boeotii: neque tamen prius pugna excesserunt, quam repugnantes profligarunt. At Epaminondas quum animadverteret, mortiferum se vulnus accepisse, simulque, si ferrum, quod ex hastili in corpore remanserat, extraxisset, animam statim emissurum, usque eo retinuit, quoad renuntiatum est, vicisse Boeotios. Id postquam audivit, satis, inquit, vixi; invictus enim morior. Tum, ferro extracto, confestim exanimatus est.

10. Epaminondae laus. Just. VI. 8. Corn. Nep. Vita Epam. c. 3.)

Una cum Epaminonda Thebanorum quoque vires ceciderunt; ut non tam illum amisisse, quam cum illo interiisse omnes viderentur. Nam neque hunc ante⁵ ducem ullum memorabile bellum gessere; nec postea virtutibus, sed claudibus insignes fuere; ut manifestum sit, patriae gloriam et natam et extinctam cum eo fuisse. Fuit autem incertum vir melior,⁶ an dux esset. Erat enim modestus, prudens, gravis, temporibus sapienter utens, peritus belli, fortis manu, animo maximo, adeo veritatis diligens, ut ne joco quidem mentiretur. Paupertatem adeo facile perpessus est, ut de republica nihil nisi gloriam caperet; honores autem ita gessit, ut ornamentum non accipere,⁷ sed dare ipse honori-bus videretur. Jam litterarum studium et philosophiae doctrina tanta fuit, ut mirabile videretur, unde tam insignis militiae scientia homini inter litteras nato contigisset.

E. MACEDONUM IMPERIUM.

1. Macedoniae origines. (Justin. VII. 1.)

Macedonia ante, a nomine Emathionis regis, Emathia cognominata est. Hujus, sicut incrementa modica, ita termini perangusti fuere. Antiquissimis temporibus Caranus, ex Herculis progenie, responso oraculi sedes quaerere jussus, cum magna multitudine Graecorum in Emathiam venit, ibique urbem Edessam, oppidanis propter imbrium et nebulae magnitudinem non sentientibus, gregem caprarum, imbrem fugientium secutus, occupavit. Oraculum autem jusserat eum ducibus capris imperium quaerere. Hinc etiam postea in bellis, quae cum finitimis gerebat, capras ante signa habere solebat. Urbem quoque Edessam, ob memoriam muneris¹ Aegaeas,² populum Aegeadas vocavit. Pulso deinde Mida, qui partem Macedoniae tenebat, aliisque regibus, in locum omnium solus successit, primusque adunatis gentibus variorum populorum, veluti unum corpus Macedoniae fecit.

2. Primi Macedoniae reges. (Just. VII. 2.)

Post hunc Perdicca regnavit, cujus et vita illustris et mortis postrema³ memorabilia fuere; siquidem senex moriens Argaeo filio monstravit locum, quo condi vellet, ibique non sua tantum, sed et succedentium sibi regum ossa poni jussit; praefatus,⁴ quoad ibi conditae posterorum reliquiae forent, regnum in familia mansurum; creduntque extinctam in Alexandre stirpem,⁵ quod locum sepulturae mutaverit. Argaeus, moderate et cum amore popularium administrato regno, successorem filium Philippum reliquit: qui immatura morte raptus Aëropum, parvulum admodum, instituit heredem. Illis temporibus Macedonibus assidua certamina cum Thracibus et Illyriis⁶ fuere. Tum quoque Illyrii, infantiam regis pupilli contemnentes, bello Macedonas aggrediuntur. Qui quum primo proelio pulsi essent, rege suo in cunis prolato et pone aciem posito, acrius certamen repetivere. Conserto itaque proelio magna caede Illyrios fudere, ostenderuntque hostibus suis, priore bello regem¹ Macedonibus, non virtutem defuisse.

3. Amynta rex. (Just. VII. 4.)

Multis annis interjectis, per ordinem successionis regnum ad Amyntam pervenit. Hic quoque rex insigni industria et omnibus imperatoriis virtutibus instructus fuit. Ex Eurydice tres filios sustulit,² Alexandrum, Perdiccam et Philippum, Alexandri Magni patrem, et filiam Euryōnen. Cum Illyriis et Olynthiis³ gravia bella gessit. Insidiis autem Eurydices uxoris, quae regnum adultero tradendum susceperat, occupatus fuisset,⁴ nisi filia matris consilia et scelus prodidisset. Functus itaque multis periculis senex decessit, regno maximo ex filiis Alexandro tradito.

4. Philippus, Thebis eruditus, fratri Perdiccae succedit. (Just. VII. 5.)

Alexander inter prima initia regni bellum ab Illyriis pacta mercede redemit; et interjecto tempore, Philippo fratre obside dato, cum Thebanis pacem conciliat; quae res ad egregiam Philippi indolem formandam plurimum valuit. Siquidem per triennium Thebis obses habitus in domo Epaminondae, summi et philosophi et imperatoris, ad hujus viri exemplum se composuit. Nec multo post Alexander, insidiis Eurydices matris petitus, occubuit:⁵ cui Amyntas, quum in scelere esset deprehensa, propter communes liberos percerat, ignarus, eam his ipsis aliquando exitiosam fore. Frater quoque ejus Perdicca pari insidiarum fraude decipitur,⁶ parvo filio relicto. Nuntio de fratris morte accepto, Philippus clam Thebis aufugit, domumque rediit, ubi diu pupilli regis tutorem egit. At ubi graviora bella imminebant, serumque auxilium in expectatione infantis⁷ erat, compulsus a populo regnum suscepit.

5. Initia regni. (Justin. VII. 6.)

Principium imperii non satis prosperum videbatur, quum hinc⁸ insidiarum metus, inde inopia regni, continuis bellis exhausti, immaturam adolescentis aetatem urgeret.⁹ Simul finitimae gentes, velut conspiratione facta ad opprimendam Macedoniam, ex diversis locis uno tempore regnum bello lem excindit, et fratres olim destinato supplicio tradit, simulque praeda ingenti fruitur. Inde auraria in Thessalia, argenti metalla in Thracia¹ occupat. His ita gestis, forte evenit, ut eum fratres duo,² reges Thraciae, disceptationum suarum judicem eligerent. Sed Philippus ad iudicium, velut ad bellum, instructo exercitu supervenit, et regno utrumque spoliavit.

8. In Graeciam penetrat. (Just. VIII. 4.)

Paulo post Thebani iterum legatos ad eum miserunt, qui rogarent, ut bellum contra Phocenses susceptum renovaret. Contra Phocensium legati, adhibit³ Lacedaemoniis et Atheniensibus, bellum deprecabantur,⁴ cujus ab eo dilationem ter jam emerant. Secreto igitur auditis utriusque populi legationibus, his⁵ veniam belli pollicetur;⁶ illis contra, venturum se auxiliumque laturum. Utrosque vetat parare bellum aut metuere. Sic factum est, ut, securis omnibus, Thermopylarum angustias occuparet. Tunc primum Phocenses captos⁷ se fraude Philippi animadvertentes, trepidi ad arma confugiunt. Sed neque spatium erat instruendi belli, nec tempus ad contrahenda auxilia; et Philippus excidium minabatur, ni deditio fieret. Victi igitur necessitate, pacta salute,⁸ se dediderunt. At, deditioe facta, caeduntur passim rapiunturque, haud secus ac si proelio superati essent.

9. Bella secunda gerit in Chersoneso et in Scythia.
(Justin. VIII. 6. IX. 1.)

His peractis, rebusque Macedoniae compositis, Dardanos⁹ caeterosque finitimos expugnat, et Byzantium, nobilem urbem et maritimam, obsidione cingit. Quam quum expugnare non posset, profectus cum fortissimis, se ad Chersonensium urbes¹⁰ convertit, plurimasque earum sibi subjicit, filiumque Alexandrum, decem et octo annos natum, ad se arcessit, ut prima stipendia sub patris militia faceret. In Scythiam quoque praedandi causa profectus est; Scythasque, et virtute et numero praestantes, dolo vicit. Viginti millia puerorum ac feminarum capta, pecoris magna vis, auri argentique nihil.¹¹ Aliquot millia nobilium equarum ad genus faciendum in Macedonia missa.

10. Graecos ad Chaeroneam vincit. (Just. IX. 3.)

Ab hac expeditione reversus, diu dissimulatum¹ bellum Atheniensibus² infert, quorum causae Thebani se junxerunt. Facta igitur inter duas antea infestissimas civitates societate, legationibus Graeciam fatigant.³ Communem hostem putant communibus viribus summovendum; neque enim cessaturum Philippum, nisi omnem Graeciam domuerit. Motae quaedam civitates Atheniensibus se jungunt, quasdam autem ad Philippum belli metus traxit. Proelio ad Chaeroneam⁴ commisso, quum Athenienses longe majore militum numero praestarent, tamen assiduis bellis indurata Macedonum virtute vincuntur. Non tamen immemores pristinae virtutis ceciderunt; quippe adversis vulneribus⁵ omnes loca, quae tuenda a ducibus acceperant, morientes corporibus texerunt. Hic dies universae Graeciae et gloriam dominationis et vetustissimam libertatem finivit.

11. Bellum contra Persas parat. (Just. IX. 4, 5.)

Hujus victoriae callide dissimulata laetitia est. Non solita sacra Philippus illa die fecit; non in convivio risit; non coronas aut unguenta sumsit; et, quantum in illo fuit, ita vicit,⁶ ut victorem nemo sentiret. Atheniensibus, quos passus⁷ infestissimos fuerat, et captivos gratis remisit, et bello consumptorum corpora sepulturae reddidit. Compositis in Graecia rebus, omnium civitatum legatos ad formandum rerum praesentium statum evocari Corinthum⁸ jubet. Ibi pacis leges universae Graeciae pro meritis singularum civitatum statuit, conciliumque omnium, veluti unum senatum, ex omnibus legit. Auxilia deinde singularum civitatum describuntur; nec dubium erat, eum Persarum imperium et suis et Graeciae viribus impugnaturum esse.

12. Philippus interficitur. (Just. IX. 6.)

Interea dum auxilia a Graecia coeunt, nuptias Cleopatrae filiae, et Alexandri,⁹ quem regem Epiri fecerat, magno apparatu celebrat. Ubi quum Philippus ad ludos spectandos, medius inter duos Alexandros, et filium et generum, contenderet,¹⁰ Pausanias, nobilis ex Macedonibus adolescens, occupatis augustiis, Philippum in transitu obtruncat. Hic ab Attalo¹¹ indigno modo tractatus, quum saepe querelam ad Philippum frustra detulisset, et honoratum insuper adversarium videret, iram in ipsum Philippum vertit, ultionemque quam ab adversario non poterat,¹ ab iniquo iudice exegit.

13. Olympias mariti percussorem muneribus condecorat.
(Justin. IX. 7, 8.)

Creditum est etiam, percussorem inmissum ab Olympiade, matre Alexandri, fuisse; nec ipsum Alexandrum ignarum paternae caedis exstitisse, quod Philippus, Olympiade repudiata, Cleopätram, Parmeniönis sororem, in matrimonium duxisset. Olympias certe fugienti percussori equos praeparatos habuit. Ipsa deinde, quum regis nece, audita accurrisset, eadem nocte, qua venit, Pausaniae in cruce pendentis capiti coronam auream imposuit. Paucos deinde post dies refixum corpus interfectoris super reliquias mariti cremavit, et tumulum ei fecit eodem in loco, parentarique eidem quotannis curavit. Post haec Cleopatram, a qua pulsa Philippi matrimonio fuerat, filiâ ejus in matris gremio interfectâ, finire vitam suspendio coëgit. Novissime gladium quo rex percussus est, Apollini consecravit. Caeterum decessit Philippus anno aetatis quadragesimo septimo, quum annis viginti quinque regnasset.

14. Philippus cum Alexandro filio comparatus.
(Justin. IX. 8.)

Philippo Alexander filius successit, et virtute et vitiis patre major. Vincendi ratio utrique diversa. Hic aperte, ille artibus bella tractabat. Deceptis ille gaudere² hostibus, hic palam fuis. Prudentior ille consilio, hic animo magnificentior. Iram pater dissimulare, plerumque etiam vincere; hic ubi exarsisset, nec dilatio ultionis, nec modus erat. Vini uterque nimis avidus; sed ebrietatis diversa ratio. Pater de convivio in hostem procurrere, manum conserere, periculis se temere offerre; Alexander non in hostem, sed in suos saevire. Regnare ille cum amicis volebat; hic in amicos regna exercebat. Amari pater malle, hic metui. Litterarum cultus utrique similis. Solertiae pater majoris, hic fidei. Verbis atque oratione Philippus, hic rebus moderatior. Parcendi victis filio animus promptior; ille nec sociis abstinebat. Frugalitati pater, luxuriae filius magis deditus erat. Quibus artibus orbis imperii fundamenta pater jecit, operis totius gloriam filius consummavit.

milis prosiluit, atque ita hostias caedit, precatus, ne se regem illae terrae invitae accipiant. In Ilio quoque ad tumulos heroum, qui Trojano bello ceciderant, parentavit.

18. Prima congressione Persas vincit. (Just. XI. 6.)

Inde hostem petens milites a populatione Asiae prohibuit, *parcendum suis rebus*¹ praefatus, nec perdenda ea, quae possessuri venerint. In exercitu ejus fuere peditum triginta duo millia, equitum quatuor millia quingenti, naves centum octoginta duae. Hac tam parva manu universum terrarum orbem vincere est aggressus. Quum ad tam periculosum bellum exercitum legeret, non juvenes robustos, sed veteranos, qui cum patre patruisque militaverant, elegit: ut non tam milites, quam magistros militiae electos putares. Prima cum hoste congressio in campis Adrastiae² fuit. In acie Persarum sexcenta millia militum fuerunt, quae non minus arte quam virtute Macedonum superata, terga verterunt. Magna itaque caedes Persarum fuit. De exercitu Alexandri novem pedites, centum viginti equites cecidere; quos rex magnifice humatos statuibus equestribus donavit; cognatis eorum autem immunitates a publicis muneribus dedit. Post victoriam major pars Asiae³ ad eum defecit. Habuit et plura proelia cum praefectis Darii, quos jam non tam armis, quam terrore nominis sui vicit.

19. Gordii nodum fatalem solvit. (Just. XI. 7.)

Post haec Gordium urbem petit, quae posita est inter Phrygiam majorem et minorem, quod audierat, in ea urbe, in templo Jovis, jugum plaustrum Gordii⁴ esse positum; cujus nexum si quis solvisset, eum tota Asia regnaturum, antiqua oracula cecinisse. Capta igitur urbe quum in templum venisset, illud jugum requisivit; quo monstrato, quum capita loramentorum intra nodos abscondita reperire non posset, gladio loramenta caedit, dicens nihil interest, quo modo nodus solvatur; atque ita resolutis nexibus, latentia in nodis capita invenit.

20. In gravem morbum incidit. (Just. XI. 8.)

Haec illi agenti nuntiatur, Darium cum ingenti exercitu adventare. Itaque timens angustias, magna celeritate Taurum transcendit. Quum Tarsum⁵ venisset, captus amoenitate Cydni fluminis, per mediam urbem influentis, projectis armis, plenus pulveris ac sudoris, in praefrigidam undam se projecit. Tum repente tantus nervos ejus occupat rigor, ut jam de eo actum esse videretur. Unus erat ex medicis, nomine Philippus, qui remedium polliceretur; sed hunc Parmenionis epistolae pridie e Cappadocia missae suspectum faciebant. Hic enim, ignarus infirmitatis Alexandri, scripserat, a Philippo medico caveret; nam corruptum illum a Dario ingenti pecunia esse. Alexander tamen tutius est ratus, dubiae se fidei medico credere, quam indubitato¹ morbo perire. Accepto igitur poculo, epistolas medico tradidit; atque ita inter bibendum oculos in vultum legentis intendit. Ut securum conspexit, laetior factus est, sanitatemque quarta die recepit.

21. Darium vincit ad Issum. (Just. XI. 9.)

Interea Darius cum quadringentis millibus peditum, ac centum millibus equitum in aciem procedit. Movebat haec multitudo hostium respectu paucitatis suae Alexandrum; nec tamen bellum differre ratus, circumvectus suos, singulas gentes diversa oratione alloquitur. Illyrios et Thracas opum ac divitiarum² ostentatione; Graecos veterum bellorum memoriâ, internecivique cum Persis odii accendebat. Macedones autem nunc Europae victae admonet, nunc Asiae expetitae; nec inventas illis toto orbe pares vires gloriatur.³ Nec Darii segnis opera in ordinanda acie fuit. Quippe ipse omnia circumire, singulos hortari, veteris gloriae Persarum admonere. Post haec proelium ingentibus animis committitur. In eo uterque rex vulneratur. Tam diu certamen anceps fuit, quoad fugeret Darius. Exinde caedes Persarum secuta est. In castris eorum multum auri caeterarumque opum inventum. Inter captivos castrorum mater et uxor et filiae duae Darii fuere. Ad quas visendas quum Alexander venisset, conspectis armatis invicem se complexae, velut statim moriturae, complorationem edidere. Provolutae deinde genibus Alexandri mortis dilationem precantur, dum Darii corpus sepeliverint. Motus tanta mulierum pietate Alexander, et Darium vivere dixit, et timentibus mortis metum demisit, easque haberi ut reginas praecipit.

22. Plurimae Asiae gentes victori se subjiciunt. (Justin. XI. 10.)

vitates misit, quae statim, audita fama victoriae, in potestatem victorum venerunt. Tunc in Syriam proficiscitur, ubi obvios cum infulis multos Orientis reges habuit. Ex his, pro meritis singulorum, alios in societatem recepit, aliis regnum ademit, suffectis in loca eorum novis regibus. Insignis praeter caeteros fuit Abdalonymus, rex ab Alexandro Sidoniae¹ constitutus. Quem Alexander, quum operam locare ad puteos exhauriendos hortosque irrigandos solitus esset, regem fecerat, spretis² nobilibus, ne generis id, non dantis, beneficium putarent.³ Quum Tyriorum legatis, qui ei coronam auream magni ponderis miserant, significasset, se Tyrum⁴ ire velle ad vota Herculi reddenda, iique ejus introitum deprecarentur, ita exarsit, ut urbi excidium minaretur. Confestim admoto exercitu, post diuturnam obsidionem, Tyriis muros animose defendentibus, urbs tandem per proditionem capitur.

23. Ab oraculo Jovis Ammonis Alexander salutatur deus.
(Justin. XI. 11.)

Inde Rhodum Alexander, Aegyptum, Ciliciamque sine certamine cepit. Ad Jovem deinde Ammonem⁵ pergit, consulturus et de eventu futurorum et de origine sua. Nam mater ejus Olympias gloriata erat, Alexandrum non ex Philippo, sed ex serpente ingentis magnitudinis esse conceptum. Igitur Alexander, cupiens, originem divinam sibi tribui, subornat antistites, quid sibi responderi velit per praemissos docens. Itaque ingredientem templum statim antistites, ut Ammonis filium, salutant. Simul victoriam omnium bellorum, possessionemque terrarum dari respondetur. Comitibus quoque ejus imperatum, ut Alexandrum pro deo, non pro rege colerent. Reversus ab Ammone Alexandriam⁶ condidit, et coloniam Macedonum caput esse Aegypti jubet.

24. Darius pacem precatur frustra. (Just. XI. 12.)

Darius quum Babyloniam profugisset,⁷ per epistolam Alexandrum precatur, redimendarum sibi captivarum potestatem faciat,⁸ inque eam rem magnam pecuniam pollicetur. Sed Alexander in pretium captivarum regnum omne, non pecuniam petit. Interjecto tempore aliae epistolae Darii Alexandro redduntur, quibus filiae matrimonium et regni portio offertur. Sed Alexander *sua sibi dari*⁹ rescripsit, jussitque regni arbitria¹⁰ victori¹¹ permittere. Tum, spe pacis amissa, vehiculo Darium, multis quidem vulneribus confossum, sed spirantem adhuc invenit, et unum e captivis ad eum adduxit. Quem quum rex ex voce civem esse cognovisset, Alexandro dicere jubet, se plurimam ei gratiam habere, quod in matrem liberosque suos regium, non hostilem animum exhibuisset. Quare se precari superum inferumque numina, et deos regni custodes et praesides, ut illi terrarum omnium contingat imperium. Posthaec porrecta manu exspiravit. Quae ubi Alexandro nuntiata sunt, viso corpore defuncti, tam indignam mortem lacrymis prosecutus est; corpusque regio more sepeliri jussit:

27. Graecarum civitatum motus ad libertatem recuperandam.
(Justin. XII. 1.)

Dum haec in Asia gerebantur, Graecia fere omnis, spe recuperandae libertatis, ad arma concurrerat, auctoritatem Lacedaemoniorum secuta. Dux hujus belli Agis, rex Lacedaemoniorum, fuit. Quem motum Antipater, dux ab Alexandro in Macedonia relictus, in ipso ortu oppressit. Magna tamen utrimque caedes fuit. Agis rex, quum suos terga dantes videret, dimissis satellitibus, ut Alexandro felicitate, non virtute inferior videretur, tantam stragem hostium edidit, ut agmina interdum fugaret. Ad postremum, etsi a multitudine victus, gloria tamen omnes vicit.

28. Alexander Persarum vitam et cultum imitatur.
(Justin. XII. 3.)

Alexander autem, Hyrcanis¹ Mardisque² subactis, habitum regum Persarum et diadema, insolitum antea regibus Macedonicis, assumit, amicos quoque longam vestem auratam et purpuream sumere jubet. Ut luxum quoque Persarum imitaretur, ingentes epularum apparatus fecit, et convivia juxta regiam magnificentiam instruxit.

29. Alexander suorum in se animos exacerbat.
(Justin. XII. 5.)

Tum etiam primum hostili odio in suos saevire coepit. Maxime indignabatur, carpi se sermonibus suorum, quod Philippi patris patriaeque mores subvertisset. Propter quae crimina³ Parmenio senex, dignitate regi proximus, cum Philota filio interficitur. Fremere itaque omnes universis castris coepere, innoxii senis filiique casum miserantes: interdum, se quoque non debere melius sperare dicentes. Quae quum nuntiata Alexandro essent, simulat, se ex amicis quosdam in patriam victoriae nuntios missurum. Hortatur milites, ut suis scribe-rent; datasque epistolas tacite ad se deferri jubet; ex quibus cognito de se singulorum iudicio,¹ in unam cohortem eos, qui de rege durius opinati fuerant² contribuit, aut consumtu-rus eos,³ aut in ultimis terris in colonias distributurus. Inde Drancas, Euergetas, caeterosque populos, qui ad radicem

Caucasi habitabant, subegit. Interea unus ex amicis Darii, Bessus, vinctus adducitur, qui regem non solum prodiderat, verum etiam interfecerat. Quem in ultionem perfidiae fratri Darii excruciantum tradidit. Et ut his terris nomen relinqueret, urbem Alexandriam super amnem Tanain⁴ condidit.
In Bactrianis quoque Sogdianisque⁵ duodecim urbes condidit, ibique eos, quos in exercitu seditiosos cognoverat, habitare iussit.

30. Clitum sua manu interficit. (Justin. XII. 6.)

His ita gestis solemnī die amicos in convivium vocat. Ubi orta inter ebrios rerum a Philippo gestarum mentione, ipse se patri praeferre coepit, assentante maiore convivarum parte.
Itaque quum unus e senibus, Clitus, fiducia amicitiae regiae, memoriam Philippi tueretur, laudaretque ejus res gestas, Alexander adeo ira exarsit, ut, telo a satellite rapto, Clitum in convivio trucidaret. Post, irae aestu subsidente, in poenitentiam versus, mori voluit. Mansit haec moriendi voluntas etiam insequentibus diebus, donec exercitus universi precibus exoratus est, precantis, ne ita unius mortem doleat, ut universos perdat; neque milites in ultimam deductos barbariam, inter infestas gentes destituat. Revocato igitur ad bellum animo, Chorasmos et Dahas⁶ in deditioem accepit.

31. In Indiam penetrat. (Justin. XII. 7.)

Post haec Indiam petit, ut Oceano finiret imperium. Cui gloriae ut etiam exercitus ornamenta convenirent, phaleras equorum et arma militum argento inducit; exercitumque suum, ab argenteis clypeis, Argyraspidas⁷ appellavit. Quum ad Nysam⁸ urbem venisset, oppidanis non repugnantibus, fiducia Liberi⁹ patris, a quo condita urbs erat, parci iussit.
Tunc ad sacrum montem duxit exercitum, vite hederaque non aliter vestitum, quam si manu cultus exornatusque es-set. Ubi ad montem accessit, exercitus, repentino mentis impetu correptus, ululare coepit, et Bacchantium more dis-currit.

32. Porum, regem Indiae, superat. (Just. XII. 8.)

Unus ex regibus Indorum fuit, Porus nomine, viribus corporis et animi magnitudine pariter insignis; qui ad famam de Alexandri adventu bellum paraverat. Commisso proelio,¹ Alexandrum ad singulare certamen provocat. Nec Alexander pugnae moram facit; sed prima congressione vulnerato equo, quum praeceps in terram decidisset, concursu satellitum servatur. Porus multis vulneribus obrutus capitur. Qui victum se adeo doluit, ut, quum veniam ab hoste invenisset, neque cibum capere vellet, neque vulnera curari pateretur; aegreque ab eo obtentum est, ut vellet vivere. Quem Alexander ob honorem virtutis incolumem in regnum remisit. Duas ibi urbes condidit, unam Nicaeam,² alteram ex nomine equi Bucephalen³ vocavit.

33. Macedones in patriam redire cupiunt. (Justin. XII. 8.)

Quum ad Cuphites venisset, ubi eum cum ducentis millibus equitum hostes opperiebantur, exercitus omnis laboribus fessus, lacrymis eum precatur, finem tandem belli faceret; aliquando patriae reditusque meminisset, militumque annos respiceret. Ostendere⁴ alius canitiem, alius vulnera, alius aetate consumptum corpus et cicatricibus obductum. Motus eorum precibus, veluti finem victoriis facturus castra solito magnificentiora fieri iussit, quorum molitionibus et hostis tereretur, et posteris sui admiratio relinqueretur. Nullum opus laetius milites fecerunt. Itaque caesis hostibus cum gratulatione in haec castra reverterunt.

34. Alexander e vitae periculo aegre servatur. (Justin. XII. 9.)

Inde Alexander ad amnem Acesinen⁵ perguit; per quem in Oceanum devehitur, et in Ambros et Sigambros navigat. Quae gentes eum armatis octoginta millibus peditum, et sexaginta millibus equitum excipiunt. Quum proelio victor esset, exercitum ad urbem eorum duxit. Quam quum de muro, quem primus ceperat, a defensoribus desertam animadvertisset, in urbis planitiem sine ullo satellite desiliit. Itaque quum eum hostes solum conspexissent, clamore edito undique in eum concurrunt. Ubi obrui multitudine se vidit, trunco se, qui propter murum stabat, applicuit. Quum sic diu agmen sustinisset, tandem, regis periculo cognito, amici ad eum desiliunt, ex quibus multi caesi; proeliumque tamdiu anceps rent, quaerunt, quem imperii faciat heredem; respondit, dig-nissimum. Hac voce omnes amicos suos ad aemulam regni cupiditatem accendit. Sexta die, praeclusa voce, exemtum digito anulum Perdiccae tradidit, quae res gliscentem ami-corum discordiam sedavit. Nam etsi non voce nuncupatus heres, iudicio tamen electus esse videbatur.

38. De Alexandri virtute et fortuna quaedam.
(Justin. XII. 16.)

Decessit Alexander mensem unum tres et triginta annos natus, vir supra humanum modum vi animi praeditus. Omina quaedam magnitudinem ejus in ipso ortu portendisse existima-bantur. Quo die natus est, pater ejus nuntium duarum victo-riarum accepit; alterius belli Illyrici, alterius certaminis Olym-piaci, in quod quadrigas miserat. Puer acerrimus¹ litterarum studiis² eruditus fuit. Exacta pueritia, per quinquennium Aristotele, philosopho praestantissimo, usus est magistro. Accepto tandem imperio tantam militibus suis fiduciam fecit, ut, illo praesente, nullius hostis arma timerent. Itaque cum nullo hoste unquam congressus est, quem non vicerit; nullam ur-bem obsedit, quam non expugnaverit. Victus denique est non virtute hostili sed insidiis suorum et fraude.

39. Luctus barbarorum, Macedonum laetitia.
(Justin. XIII. 1.)

Exstincto in ipso aetatis et victoriarum flore³ Alexandro Magno, triste apud omnes tota Babylone silentium fuit. Ut vero nuntius de ejus morte disseminatus est, omnes barbarae gentes, paullo ante ab eo devictae, non ut hostem, sed ut parentem luxerunt. Mater quoque Darii regis, audita morte victoris, in quo pietatem filii erat experta, mortem sibi ipsa conscivit. Contra Macedones, non ut civem, sed ut hostem defunctum gaudebant; severitatem nimiam et assidua belli peri-cula exsecrantes. Huc accedebat, quod principes regnum et imperia, vulgus militum thesauros, veluti praedam, specta-bant. Erant enim in thesauris quinquaginta millia talentum,⁴ quae sibi divisum iri sperabant. Nec amici Alexandri frustra regnum spectabant. Nam tantae virtutis et venerationis erant, ut singulos reges putares. Neque unquam ante Macedonia vel ulla gens alia tanto clarorum virorum proventu floruit; quos primo Philippus, mox Alexander tanta cura legerat, ut non tam ad societatem belli, quam in successionem regni electi viderentur.

40. Duces de imperio constituendo consilia ineunt.

(Justin. XIII. 2.)

Caeterum, defuncto Alexandro, armati in regiam cœunt, ad formandum rerum praesentium statum.¹ Perdicca censet, Roxanes, regiae conjugis, quam gravidam relinquerat, partum esse expectandum, et si puerum peperisset, hunc patri successorem fore. Meleager negat, expectandum,² dum reges nascerentur, quum jam genitis uti liceret. Esse Pergami puerum, filium Alexandri, natum ex Barsine, nomine Herculem; seu mallent juvenem, esse in castris fratrem Alexandri, Aridaeum, comem et cunctis non suo tantum, verum et patris Philippi nomine acceptissimum. Ptolemaeus recusabat regem Aridaeum, tum, quod ex Larissaeo scorto natus esset, tum ob majorem, qua laborabat, valetudinem;³ nam verendum esse, ne ille nomen regis, alius imperium teneret; melius esse ex his legi, qui pro virtute regi suo proximi fuerint. Vicit Perdiccae sententia, consensu universorum. Placuit itaque Roxanes expectari partum, et si puer natus fuisset, tutores Leonatum, Perdiccam, Crateron et Antipatrum constituunt, confestimque in tutorum obsequia jurant.⁴

41. Aridaeus, Philippi filius, rex creatur. (Justin. XIII. 3, 4.)

Quum equites idem fecissent, pedites indignati, nullas sibi consiliorum partes relictas,⁵ Aridaeum, Alexandri fratrem, regem appellant, satellitesque illi ex turba sua legunt, et nomine Philippi patris vocari jubent. Magna hinc in castris seditione orta, tandem ab equitibus quoque Aridaeus rex agnoscitur. Servata est portio regni Alexandri filio, si natus esset. His ita compositis, Macedoniae et Graeciae Antipater praeponitur: regiae pecuniae custodia Cratero traditur: castrorum et exercitus cura Meleagro et Perdiccae assignatur; jubeturque Aridaeus rex corpus Alexandri in Hammonis templum deducere. Tunc Perdicca, lustratione castrorum indicta, seditiosos supplicio occulte tradi jubet. Reversus inde, provincias inter principes divisit.

42. Bellum in Graecia ortum per Antipatrum comprimitur.
(Justin. XIII. 5.)

Dum haec in Oriente geruntur, in Graecia Athenienses et Aetoli bellum, quod jam vivo Alexandro moverant, summis viribus instruebant. Causa belli erat, quod reversus ab India Alexander epistolas in Graeciam scripserat, quibus omnium civitatum exsules restituebantur. Quae litterae recitatae praesentē universa Graecia, in mercatu Olympiaco,¹ magnos motus excitaverunt, quod plurimi non legibus, sed per factionem principum pulsī fuerant principesque verebantur, ne revocati potentiores in republica fierent. Palam igitur jam tum multae civitates libertatem bello vindicandam fremebant.² Principes tamen omnium Athenienses et Aetoli fuerunt. Bello igitur exorto, Antipater, cui Graecia sorte obvenerat, Leonatum ex Asia in auxilium vocavit. Qui quum venire cum exercitu nuntiatus esset, obvii ei Athenienses cum instructis copiis fuere, ibique equestri proelio, gravi vulnere ictus, exstinguitur. Sed Antipater, exercitu extincti recepto, quum par hostibus etiam proelio videretur, solutus obsidione, qua cinctus fuerat Lamiae,³ in Macedoniam concessit; Graecorum quoque copiae, finibus Graeciae hoste depulso, in urbes dilapsae sunt.

43. Certamina inter duces Alexandri. (Justin. XIII. 6. XV. 1.)

Post haec bellum inter Perdiccam et Antigōnum oritur, quod, velut incendium, mox latius serpsit. Macedonia, in duas partes discurrentibus⁴ ducibus, in sua viscera armatur, ferrumque a barbaris in civilem sanguinem⁵ vertit. In hoc bello Perdiccas occisus est; pluresque ejusdem partis duces perierunt. Et jam finitum certamen inter successores Alexandri Magni videbatur, quum repente inter ipsos victores nata est discordia. Ptolemaeus⁶ et Cassander, Antipatri filius, inita cum Lysimacho et Seleuco societate, contra Antigōnum bellum terra marique enixe instruunt. Tenebat Ptolemaeus Aegyptum cum Africae parte minore et Cypro et Phoenice. Cassandro parebat Macedonia cum Graecia. Asiam et partes Orientis occupaverat Antigonus, cujus filius Demetrius, prima belli congressione, a Ptolemaeo apud Gamalam⁸ vincitur. In quo proelio major Ptolemaei moderationis gloria, quam ipsius victoriae fuit. Siquidem et amicos Demetrii non solum cum suis rebus, verum etiam additis insuper muneribus, dimisit; et ipsius Demetrii privatum omne instrumentum⁹ ac familiam¹⁰ reddidit, dicens; non se propter praedam, sed propter dignitatem inisse bellum, indignatum, quod Antigonus, devictis diversae factionis ducibus, solus communis victoriae praemia corripuisset.

virtus clarissima fuit. Post mortem Alexandri, occupato regno Orientis, urbem cōdidit, patris nomine Antiochiam vocatam, et campos urbi vicinos Apollini dicavit, a quo generis originem ducebat. Multa in Oriente post divisionem inter socios regni Macedonici bella gessit. Principio Babyloniam cepit: inde auctis ex victoria viribus Bactrianos expugnavit. Compositis deinde in Oriente rebus, in bellum cum Antigono descendit. Coniunctis igitur omnium sociorum copiis, proelium¹ committitur; in eo Antigonus occiditur; Demetrius filius ejus in fugam vertitur. Sed socii, profligato hostili bello, denuo in semet ipsos arma verterunt; et, quum de præda non conveniret, iterum in duas factiones diducuntur. Seleucus Demetrio, Ptolemaeus Lysimacho junguntur. Cassandro defuncto Philippus filius succedit. Sic quasi ex integro nova Macedoniae bella nascuntur.

47. Regnum Macedoniae, parricidiis inquinatae, Demetrius occupat. (Justin. XVI. 1.)

Post Cassandri regis, filiique ejus Philippi continuas mortes,² Thessalonice, uxor Cassandri, non multo post tempore, ab Antipatro filio occiditur. Causa parricidii fuit, quod, post mortem mariti, in divisione inter fratres regni, in alterum filium Alexandrum videbatur fuisse propensior. Quod facinus eo gravius visum est, quod nullum maternae fraudis vestigium fuit. Ob haec igitur Alexander, in ultionem maternae necis gesturus cum fratre bellum, auxilium a Demetrio petit: nec Demetrius, spe invadendi Macedonici regni, moram fecit. Cujus adventum verens Lysimachus persuadet genero Antipatro, ut malit cum fratre suo in gratiam redire, quam paternum hostem in Macedoniae admitti. Inchoatam igitur inter fratres reconciliationem quum praesensisset Demetrius, per insidias Alexandrum interfecit, regnumque Macedoniae occupavit. Lysimachus quoque, quum bello Dromichaetis, regis Thracum, premeretur, tradita ei³ altera parte Macedoniae, quae Antipatro ejus genero obvenerat, pacem cum eo fecit.

48. Demetrius a Pyrrho, Epiri rege, Macedonia pellitur. (Justin. XVI. 2.)

Igitur Demetrius, totius Macedoniae viribus instructus, Asiam occupare statuit. Sed Ptolemaeus, Seleucus et Lysimachus, pacta societate conjunctisque copiis, bellum adversus Demetrium transferunt in Europam. His comitem se jungit Pyrrhus, rex Epiri, sperans, Demetrium non difficilius amittere Macedoniae posse, quam acquisierat. Nec spes frustra fuit; quippe, exercitū ejus corrupto, ipsoque in fugam acto, regnum Macedoniae occupavit. Demetrius autem, a tot exercitibus circumventus, quum posset honeste mori, turpiter se dedere Seleuco maluit. Finito bello, Ptolemaeus cum magna rerum gestarum gloria moritur, regno minimo natu ex filiis¹ relicto.

49. Lysimachus et Seleucus, ultimi commilitonum Alexandri, pereunt. (Just. XVI. 3. XVII. 1, 2.)

Sed mox inter Lysimachum et Pyrrhum, socios paullo ante adversus Demetrium, bellum exarsit. Victor Lysimachus, pulso Pyrrho, Macedoniam occupavit. Inde Thraciae bellum intulit. Mox post varia ostenta, quae Lysimacho dira portendebant, Agathoclem, filium, Arsinoē noverca veneno interfecit. Hoc parricidium principum secuta est caedes, luentium supplicia, quod occisum juvenem dolebant. Itaque et hi, qui caedibus superfuerant, et hi, qui exercitibus praeerant, certatim ad Seleucum deficiunt, eumque compellunt, ut bellum Lysimacho inferret. Ultimum hoc certamen commilitonum Alexandri fuit. Lysimachus quatuor et septuaginta annos natus erat; Seleucus septem et septuaginta. Sed in hac quoque aetate utrique juvenilis erat animus, imperiique cupiditatem insatiabilem gerebant. Lysimachus in eo bello strenue² moritur,³ amissis ante variis casibus quindecim liberis. Seleucus autem, solum se de cohorte Alexandri superesse gavisus, post septem menses a Ptolemaeo Cerauno,⁴ cujus sororem Lysimachus in matrimonio habuerat, per insidias circumventus, occiditur, regnumque Macedoniae, quod Lysimacho eripuerat, cum vita pariter amittit.

50. Motus in Graecia. (Justin. XXIV. 1. 3.)

Paulo post, dissidentibus inter se Ptolemaeo Cerauno et Antiocho⁵ et Antigono⁶ regibus, omnes ferme Graeciae civitates, ducibus Spartanis, ad spem libertatis erectae, in bellum prorumpunt; et, ne cum Antigono, sub cujus regno erant, bellum cepisse viderentur, socios ejus Aetolos aggrediuntur, causam belli praetendentes, quod sacratum Apollini campum Cirrhaeum⁷ per vim occupassent. Conjuncto exercitu, Aetolorumque finibus devastatis, magnam cladem passi sunt. Deinde, Spartanis bellum reparantibus, auxilium multae gentes negaverunt, existimantes, dominationem eos, non libertatem Graeciae quaerere. Interea inter reges bellum finitur. Nam Ptolemaeus, pulso Antigono, quum regnum to-tius Macedoniae occupasset, pacem cum Antiocho facit, affinitatemque cum Pyrrho, data ei in matrimonium filia sua, jungit. Sed brevi post, incredibilibus commissis sceleribus, a Gallis regno spoliatus captusque, vitam ferro, ut meruerat, amisit.

51. Galli in Graeciam penetrant. (Just. XXIV. 4, 5.)

Namque Galli, abundante multitudine, quum eos non caperent terrae, quae genuerant, trecenta millia hominum ad sedes novas quaerendas miserunt. Ex his portio in Italia consedit, quae et Romam incendit,¹ alia portio in Illyricos sinus penetravit, et in Pannonia² consedit, ubi per multos annos bella cum finitimis gesserunt. Hortante deinde successu, divisis agminibus, alii Graeciam, alii Macedoniam petivere. Tantisque terror Gallici nominis fuit, ut etiam reges non laessiti ultro pacem ingenti pecunia mercarentur. Solus rex Macedoniae Ptolemaeus adventum Gallorum intrepidus audivit, hisque cum paucis et incompositis, quasi parricidiorum furiis agitatus, occurrit. Proelio commisso Macedones caeduntur. Ptolemaeus multis vulneribus saucius capitur; caput ejus amputatum et lancea fixum circumfertur. Paucos ex Macedonibus fuga servavit: caeteri aut capti aut occisi.

52. Galli Brenno duce Delphos petunt. (Justin. XXIV. 6.)

Paullo post Brennus, quo ducem portio Gallorum in Graeciam se effuderat, cum centum et quinquaginta millibus pedum et quindecim millibus equitum in Macedoniam irrumpit. Victo exercitu, totius regionis agros depraedatur. Tum Delphos iter vertit ad Apollinis templum spoliandum. Hoc templum positum est in monte Parnasso, in rupe undique impendente, cujus praecipitiis, ut naturali praesidio, defenditur. Multa ibi et opulenta regum populorumque visuntur munera, quaeque magnificentia sua et gratam hominum voluntatem, et Apollinis veracitatem manifestant.

53. Cum ingenti clade repelluntur. (Just. XXIV. 7.)

Brennus quum in conspectu haberet templum, ad acuendos suorum animos, praedae ubertatem militibus ostendebat, stautasque cum quadrigis, quarum ingens copia procul visebatur, solido auro fusas esse affirmabat. Qua asseveratione incitati Galli, simul et mero saucii,³ sine respectu periculorum rhi filio, funditus victus, cum septem comitibus fugiens salutis latebras in solitudine quaerit.

56. Argos oppugnans occiditur. (Just. XXV. 4, 5.)

Pyrrhus autem, in tanto fastigio regni collocatus, Graeciae Asiaeque imperium meditatur. Primum illi bellum adversus Spartanos fuit: ubi majore mulierum quam virorum virtute exceptus, Ptolemaeum filium, et exercitus partem robustissimam amisit. Ptolemaeus in oppugnatione urbis usque in mediam urbem procurrerat, ubi concursu multitudinis interfectus est. Cujus corpus ut relatum est patri, dixisse Pyrrhum ferunt, aliquanto tardius eum, quam timuerit ipse, vel temeritas ejus meruerit, occisum esse. Ipse Pyrrhus quum a Spartanis repulsus Argos petiisset, ibi inter confertissimos violentissime dimicans saxo de muris ictus occiditur. Satis constans inter omnes auctores fama est, nullum nec ejus, nec superioris aetatis regem comparandum Pyrrho fuisse. Nam et vitae sanctitate atque justitia optimos quosque aequabat; scientia rei militaris plurimos superabat, patriamque suam angustam et ignobilem, fama rerum gestarum toto orbe illustrem reddidit.

57. Antigonus Gallos magno proelio fundit. Bella inter Macedonas et Epirotas. (Just. XXVI. 1, 2, 3.)

Post mortem Pyrrhi non in Macedonia tantum, verum etiam in Asia Graeciaque magni bellorum motus fuere; civitatesque mutuis inter se odiis in bellum ruebant. Inter hos motus Antigonus, qui in Macedoniae regnum redierat, quum multiplici bello et Ptolemaei¹ regis et Spartanorum premere-tur, novusque ei hostis, Gallograeciae exercitus, affluxisset,² parva manu adversus caeteros relicta, adversus Gallos totis viribus proficiscitur. Galli, quum hostiae ante pugnam caesae infaustum pugnae exitum portenderent, in furorem versi conjuges et liberos suos trucidant, cruentique ex recentium suorum caede in proelium proficiscuntur. Omnes occidione caesi. Post hujus pugnae eventum, Ptolemaeus et Spartani victorem hostium exercitum declinantes, in tutiora se recipiunt. Antigonus ubi eorum discessum videt, bellum Atheniensibus infert. In quo quum occupatus esset, Alexander, rex Epiri, ulcisci mortem patris Pyrrhi cupiens, fines Macedoniae depopulatur. Adversus quem quum reversus a Graecia Antigonus esset, transitione militum destitutus,³ regnum Macedoniae cum exercitu amittit. Hujus filius Demetrius, puer admodum, absente patre, reparato exercitu, non solum amissam Macedoniam recipit, verum etiam Epiri regno Alexandrum spoliat. Tanta fortunae varietas erat! Paulo post tamen Alexander, non minore Epirotarum desiderio, quam suorum auxilio, in regnum restituitur.

58. Seleuci et Antiochi, fratrum, flagitia. (Justin. XXVII. 1, 2.)

Mortuo Syriae rege Antiocho, Seleucus, qui in ejus locum successerat, parricidio novercae, Ptolemaei sororis, inquinatus, a Ptolemaeo terra marique victus est. Quum, quo se verteret, non haberet, Antiochi fratris auxilium implorat, oblata ei Asia inter fines Tauri montis, in praemium latae opis. Antiochus¹ autem, quum esset annos quatuordecim natus, supra aetatem regni avidus,² occasione arrepta fratrem regno spoliare conatus est. Ea tempestate omnia bella in exitium Asiae gerebantur. Seleucus et Antiochus fratres bellum propter Asiam gerebant; Ptolemaeus, rex Aegypti, sub specie sororiae ultionis, Asiae inhiabat: hinc Bithynus Eumenes, inde Galli Asiam depopulabantur. Victo Antiocho, quum Eumenes majorem Asiae partem occupasset, ne tunc quidem fratres a bello abstinuerunt. Antiochus victus, quum profugo nusquam tutus locus esset, ad Ptolemaeum hostem confugit. Sed Ptolemaeus eum servari arcissima custodia jubet. Hinc opera cujusdam mulieris, quam familiariter noverat, custodibus deceptis, elabatur, fugiensque a latronibus interficitur. Seleucus quoque iisdem ferme diebus, amisso regno,³ equo praecipitatus obiit. Sic fratres, ambo exsules, ambo regno privati, similibus casibus, scelerum suorum poenas luerunt.

59. Antigonus, Philippi tutor, regnum Macedoniae administrat. (Justin. XXVIII. 3.)

Circa illa tempora Demetrius, rex Macedoniae, Antigoni Gonatae filius, relicto filio Philippo admodum parvulo decessit. Cui Antigonus Doson⁴ tutor datus, accepta in matrimonium matre pupilli, regem se constitui laborabat. Interjecto deinde tempore, quum seditione minaci Macedonum clausus in regia teneretur, in publicum sine satellitibus procedit, projectoque in vulgus diademate ac purpura, dare haec eos alteri jubet, qui aut imperare illis nesciat, aut cui parere ipsi sciant. Commemorat deinde beneficia sua, ut defectionem sociorum vindicaverit: ut Dardanos,⁵ Thessalosque exsultantes morte Demetrii regis compescuerit; ut denique dignitatem Macedo- num non solum defenderit, verum etiam auxerit. Quorum si illos poeniteat, deponere se imperium et reddere illis munus suum; ipsi regem quaerant, cui imperent. Quum populus pudore motus recipere eum regnum juberet, tamdiu recusavit, quoad seditionis auctores supplicio traderentur.

60. Spartanos superat. Horum in malis virtus. (Justin. XXVIII. 4.)

Post haec bellum Spartanis infert, qui soli adhuc Macedonum arma contemnebant. Inter duas nobilissimas gentes summis viribus pugnabatur; quum hi pro vetere Macedonum gloria, illi non solum pro illibata libertate, sed etiam pro salute certarent. Victi Lacedaemonii¹ non ipsi tantum, sed etiam conjuges liberique magno animo fortunam tulere. Nemo quippe in acie salutem² pepercit; nulla amissum conjugem flevit; filiorum mortem senes laudabant; patribus in acie caesis filii gratulabantur; suam vicem omnes dolebant, quod non et ipsi pro patriae libertate cecidissent. Inter haec nullus in urbe strepitus, nulla trepidatio: magis omnes publicam quam privatam fortunam lugebant. Inter haec Cleomenes rex, post multas hostium caedes, toto corpore suo pariter et hostium cruore madens, supervenit; ingressusque urbem non humi conседit, non cibum aut potum poposcit, non armorum onus deposuit, sed acclinis parieti, quum quatuor millia sola ex pugna superfuisse conspexisset, hortatur, ut se ad meliora tempora reipublicae reservarent. Tum cum conjugē et liberis Aegyptum ad Ptolemaeum³ proficiscitur, a quo honorifice susceptus, diu in summa dignatione vixit. Postremo post Ptolemaei mortem a filio ejus⁴ cum omni familia interficitur. Antigonus autem fortunam tantae urbis miseratus a direptione milites prohibuit, veniamque his, qui superfuerunt, dedit. Nec multo post ipse decessit, regnumque Philippo pupillo, annos quatuordecim nato, tradidit.

61. Multa imperia nova regum successione mutantur. (Justin. XXIX. 1.)

Iisdem ferme temporibus prope universi orbis imperia nova regum successione mutata sunt. Nam et in Macedonia Philippus, mortuo Antigono, regnum suscepit; et in Asia, interfecto Seleuco,⁵ impubes adhuc rex Antiochus⁶ constitutus est. Aegyptum, patre ac matre interfectis, occupaverat Ptolemaeus, cui ex crimine facinoris cognomen *Philopator*⁷ fuit. Etiam Spartani in locum Cleomenis suffecere Lycurgum; et

64. Ptolemaei quaedam gesta. (Just. XXX. 1, 2.)

Dum haec in Graecia geruntur, Ptolemaeus, qui ad necem utriusque parentis fratris quoque caedem adjunxerat, luxuriae se tradiderat, nec amici tantum, verum etiam omnis exercitus regis exemplum secuti erant. Quibus cognitis, Antiochus, rex Syriae, repentino bello multas urbes ejus oppressit, ipsamque Aegyptum aggreditur. Ptolemaeus autem exercitu in Graecia conducto, secundum proelium facit, spoliassetque regno Antiochum, si fortunam virtute juvisset. Sed contentus recuperatione urbium, quas amiserat, facta pace, in pristinam luxuriam revolutus, regnum perditissimis hominibus tanquam praedam permisit. Eo mortuo Alexandrini, supplicio de praedonibus illis sumto, legatos miserunt ad populum Romanum, rogantes, ut tutelam pupilli susciperent, tuerenturque regnum Aegypti, quod jam Philippum et Antiochum, facta inter se pactione, inter se divisisse dicebant.

65. Romani bellum contra Philippum suscipiunt.
(Justin. XXX. 3, 4.)

Grata legatio Romanis fuit, causam belli adversus Philippum quaerentibus, qui ipsis, belli Punici temporibus, insidiatus fuerat. Mittuntur itaque legati, qui Antiocho et Philippo denuntient, regno Aegypti abstineant. Mittitur et M. Lepidus in Aegyptum, qui tutorio nomine regnum pupilli administraret. Dum haec aguntur, legationes Attali et Rhodiorum, injurias Philippi¹ querentes, Romam venerunt. Quae res omnem cunctationem Macedonici belli senatui exemit. Statim igitur titulo² ferendi sociis auxilii, bellum adversus Philippum decernitur, legionesque cum consule in Macedoniam mittuntur. Nec multo post tempore tota Graecia, fiducia Romanorum ad spem pristinae libertatis erecta, bellum Philippo intulit; atque ita quum rex undique urgeretur, pacem petere compellitur. Repudiata a Senatu pace, proelium commissum est apud Cynoscephalas in Thessalia inter Philippum et Flaminium, Romanorum ducem. Macedonas Romana fortuna vicit. Fractus itaque bello Philippus, pace accepta, nomen quidem regium retinuit; sed omnibus Graeciae urbibus extra terminos antiquae possessionis amissis, solam Macedoniam retinuit.

66. Antiochum, Hannibalis consiliis adjutum, Romani aggrediuntur. (Justin. XXXI. 1, 2. 4.)

Interea Antiochus, rex Syriae, Aegyptum occupare statuit. Itaque Phoenicen, caeterasque Syriae quidem, sed juris Aegypti civitates, quum invasisset, legatos ad eum Senatus misit, qui denuntiarent ei, abstineret¹ regno pupilli populi Romani, postremis patris precibus fidei suae traditi. Quibus spretis, bellum ei denuntiatum est. Eodem tempore Nabis, Lacedaemoniorum tyrannus, multas Graeciae civitates occupaverat. Igitur Senatus, ne uno tempore duplici bello Romanae vires distinerentur, scripsit² Flaminio, si ei videretur, sicuti Macedoniam a Philippo, ita Graeciam a Nabide liberaret. Terribile quippe Antiochi bellum nomen Hannibalis fecit, quem aemuli ejus cum Antiocho inisse societatem apud Romanos criminabantur. Qui quum sibi a Romanis insidias strui intellexisset, clam nave conscensa, cursum ad Antiochum direxit. Ad hunc quum pervenisset, negabat opprimi Romanos nisi in Italia posse. Cujus consilia quum regi placerent, Romani ad Antiochum legatos misere, qui et regis apparatus specularentur, et Hannibalem assiduo colloquio³ suspectum invisumque redderent. Hic dolus bene illis successit. Quippe Antiochus reconciliatam ejus cum Romanis gratiam⁴ existimans, eum veluti hostem proditoremque sui odisse coepit.

67. Eum pugna navali superant. (Just. XXXI. 6.)

Dum igitur Antiochus, falsa suspitione deceptus, omnem belli apparatus temere et negligenter agit, Acilius, Romanus consul, omnia bello necessaria summa industria parat. Itaque prima belli congressione⁵ rex victus et fugatus castra ditia victoribus reliquit. Deinde quum in Asiam fugiendo pervenisset, poenitere neglecti consilii coepit, revocatoque in amicitiam Hannibale, omnia ex sententia ejus agere. Interim nuntiatur, Aemilium, Romanum ducem, cum octoginta rostratis navibus adventare. Itaque, priusquam sociae civitates ad hostes deficerent, decernere navali proelio statuit, sperans cladem in Graecia acceptam nova posse victoria aboleri. Tradita igitur Hannibali classe, proelium committitur.⁶ Sed nec Asiani milites Romanis, neque naves eorum pares rostratis navibus fuerunt; minor tamen clades ducis solertia fuit.

68. Antiochus pacis leges, a Romanis dictatas, repudiat.
(Justin. XXXI. 7.)

Novae hujus victoriae fama nondum Romam venerat, quum jam Lucius Scipio consul creatus esset, qui bellum in Asia gereret. Huic datur legatus frater Africanus, cui Poeni et Hannibal superati nomen fecerant. Trajicientibus autem in Asiam exercitum Scipionibus, jam utrobique profligatum bellum nuntiatum est, victumque Antiochum terrestri, Hannibalem navali bello invenerunt. Primo igitur adventu eorum legatos pacem petentes ad eos Antiochus mittit, peculiare donum Africano ferentes ipsius filium, quem rex parvo navigio trajicientem ceperat. Leges pacis dicuntur: Ut rex Asia Romanis cederet, contentus regno Syriae esset, naves universas traderet, sumtumque omnem belli Romanis restitueret. Quae quum nuntiata Antiocho essent, nondum ita se victum esse respondit, ut spoliari se regno pateretur.

69. Magno proelio vincitur. (Justin. XXXI. 8.)

Igitur quum ab utrisque bellum pararetur, ingressisque Asiam Romani Ilium¹ venissent, mutua gratulatio Iliensium ac Romanorum fuit, Iliensibus, Aeneam caeterosque duces cum eo a se profectos; Romanis, se ab his procreatos, referentibus. Tantaeque laetitia omnium fuit, quanta esse post longum tempus inter parentes et liberos solet. Profectis ab Ilio Romanis, Eumenes rex cum auxiliis occurrit; nec multo post proelium cum Antiocho commissum.² Quum in dexteriore cornu pulsa legio Romana ad castra fugeret, M. Aemilius, tribunus militum, ad tutelam castrorum relictus, armare se milites suos et extra vallum progredi jubet, strictisque gladiis fugientibus minari, morituros, nisi in proelium revertantur; infestioraque sua, quam hostium castra, inventuros. Attonita tam ambiguo³ periculo legio in proelium revertitur, magna-que caede edita, initium victoriae fuit. Caesa hostium quinquaginta millia, capta undecim. Antiocho pacem petenti nihil ad superiores conditiones additum. Captas civitates inter socios divisere Romani.

70. Aetoli a Romanis victi. Achaeorum et Messeniorum bella.
(Justin. XXX. 4. XXXII. 1.)

Aetoli,⁴ qui Romanis offensi, quod non omnem Macedoniam Philippo ademptam ipsis dedissent, Antiochum in bellum

73. Ultima Hannibalis fata. (Justin. XXXII. 4. Corn. Nep. Vita Hannib. c. 12.)

Hannibal, quum ab Antiocho Romani, inter caeteras condiciones pacis, deditioem ejus deposcerent, admonitus a rege, Cretam confugit. Ibi quum se propter nimias opes invidiosum¹ videret, contendit ad Prusiam, regem Bithyniae. Qui quum terrestri proelio ab Eumene victus esset, et bellum in mare transtulisset, Hannibal novo commento auctor victoriae fuit. Quippe omne serpentium genus² in fictiles lagenas conjici jussit, medioque proelio in naves hostium mitti. Id primum illis ridiculum visum. Sed ubi serpentibus repleti naves coepere, ancipiti periculo circumventi, hosti victoriam cessere. Quae ubi Romam nuntiata sunt, senatus legatos misit, qui utrumque regem in pacem cogerent, Hannibalemque deposcerent. His Prusias, quod petebant, negare non ausus, rogavit, ne id a se fieri postularent, quod adversus jus hospitii esset; ipsi, si possent, comprehenderent; locum, ubi esset, facile inventuros. Hannibal enim uno loco se tenebat in castello, quod ei a rege datum erat muneri, idque sic aedificarat, ut in omnibus partibus aedificii exitum sibi haberet; semper verens, ne usu eveniret, quod accidit. Huc quum legati Romanorum venissent, ac multitudine domum ejus circumdedissent, puer a janua prospiciens Hannibali dixit, plures praeter consuetudinem armatos apparere. Qui imperavit ei, ut omnes fores aedificii circumiret, ac propere sibi renuntiaret, num eodem modo undique obsideretur. Puer quum omnes exitus occupatos ostendisset, sensit id non fortuito factum, sese peti, neque sibi diutius vitam esse retinendam. Quam ne alieno arbitrio dimitteret, memor pristinarum virtutum, venenum, quod semper secum habere consueverat, sumpsit.

74. Perseus a Romanis victus; Macedonia in provinciae Rom. formam redacta. (Just. XXXIII. 1, 2.)

Jam Macedonicum bellum summa omnium virium contentione a Romanis geri coeptum est. Prima equitum congressio fuit, qua Perseus victor suspensam³ omnium expectationem in sui favorem traxit; misit tamen legatos ad consulem, qui pacem peterent, quam patri suo Romani etiam victo dedissent, impensas belli lege victi⁴ suscepturus. Sed consul Sulpicius non minus graves, quam victo,⁵ leges dixit. Dum haec aguntur, Romani Aemilium Paulum consulem creant, eique extra ordinem Macedonicum bellum decernunt; qui quum ad exercitum venisset, non magnam moram pugnae fecit. Pridie, quam proelium¹ consereretur, luna nocte defecit; quod ostentum Perseo cladem finemque Macedonici regni portendere vaticinabantur. Quod vaticinium non fefellit. Perseus rex fuga cum decem millibus talentum Samothraciam² defertur; quem Cnaeus Octavius ad persequendum missus a consule, cum duobus filiis, Alexandro et Philippo, cepit, captumque ad consulem duxit. Macedonia Romanorum ditioni addita. Aetolorum, nova semper bella in Graecia excitantium principes Romam missi, ibique, ne quid in patria novarent, diu detenti sunt. Tandem per multos annos legationibus civitatum senatu fatigata, in suam quisque patriam remissus est.

75. Romani in Achaeos causas belli quaerunt. (Justin. XXXIV. 1.)

Macedonibus subactis, Aetolorumque viribus debilitatis, soli adhuc ex universa Graecia Achaei nimis potentes tunc temporis Romanis videbantur, non propter singularum civitatum nimias opes, sed propter conspirationem³ universarum. Namque Achaei, licet per civitates divisi, unum tamen imperium habent, singularumque urbium pericula mutuis viribus propulsant. Quaerentibus igitur Romanis causas belli, tempestive fortuna querelas Spartanorum obtulit, quorum agros Achaei propter mutuum odium populabantur. Spartanis a senatu responsum est, legatos se ad inspiciendas res sociorum in Graeciam missuros. Legatis clam mandatum est, ut corpus Achaeorum dissolverent. Hi itaque omnium civitatum principibus Corinthum evocatis, decretum senatus recitant, dicentes, expedire omnibus, ut singulae civitates sua jura et suas leges habeant. Quod ubi omnibus innotuit, velut in furorem versi universum peregrinum populum trucidant; legatos quoque ipsos Romanorum violassent, nisi hi, audito tumultu, trepidi fugissent.

76. Achaeis victis Corinthus diripitur. (Justin. XXXIV. 2.)

Haec ubi Romae nuntiata sunt, statim senatus Mummio consuli bellum Achaicum decernit, qui, omnibus strenue provisus, pugnandi copiam hostibus fecit. Sed apud Achaeos omnia neglecta et soluta fuerunt. Itaque praedam, non proelium agitantibus,⁴ vehicula ad spolia hostium reportanda, secum duxerunt, et conjuges liberosque suos ad spectaculum certaminis in montibus posuerunt. Sed proelio commisso⁵ ante oculos suorum caesi sunt. Conjuges quoque et liberi eorum praeda hostium fuere. Urbs Corinthus diruitur: populus omnis sub corona venditur; ut hoc exemplo ceteris civitatibus metus novarum rerum¹ imponeretur.

77. Attalo defuncto, Asia fit Romanorum.

(Justin. XXXVI. 4.)

Non ita multo post etiam Asia Romanorum facta est. Attalus² ibi florentissimum ab Eumene patruo acceptum regnum caedibus amicorum et cognatorum suppliciis foedabat. Post multa scelera squalidam vestem sumit, barbam capillumque in modum reorum summittit:³ non in publicum prodire, non populo se ostendere, non domi laetiora convivia inire, prorsus ut poenas scelerum pendere videretur. Omissa deinde regni administratione, hortos fodiebat, gramina seminabat, et noxia innoxiiis permiscebat, eaque omnia veneni succo infecta, velut peculiare munus, amicis mittebat. Postea aerariae artis fabricae se tradidit, cerisque fingendis et aere fundendo et procudendo oblectabatur. Matri deinde sepulcrum facere instituit: cui operi intentus, morbum ex solis fervore contraxit, et septima die decessit. Hujus testamento populus Romanus heres regni est institutus.

F. RES PARTHORUM.

1. Parthorum origines. (Justin. XLI. 1.)

Parthi,⁴ penes quos nunc Orientis imperium est, Scytharum exsules fuere. Hoc etiam ipsorum nomine manifestatur; nam Scythico sermone Parthi exsules dicuntur. Hi et Assyriorum et Medorum temporibus inter Orientis populos obscurissimi fuerunt. Postea quoque quum imperium Orientis a Medis ad Persas translatum est, veluti vulgus sine nomine, praeda victorum fuere. Postremo Macedonibus servierunt. A Romanis autem, binis bellis,⁵ per maximos duces, florentissimis temporibus, laccessiti, soli ex omnibus gentibus non pares solum,⁶ verum etiam victores fuere.

2. Parthorum mores. (Justin. XLI. 2.)

Administratio gentis post defectionem Macedonici imperii sub regibus fuit. Proximus regibus populi ordo est: ex hoc in Asia victo, cum praedonum manu Parthos ingressus, imperium gentis invasit. Non magno deinde post tempore Hyrcanorum quoque regnum occupavit, et Seleucum ad defectores persequendos venientem, proelio vicit. Quem diem Parthi exinde solemnem, velut initium libertatis, observant.

5. Regnum firmat. (Justin. XLI. 5.)

Revocato deinde Seleuco novis motibus in Asiam, Arsaces dato laxamento, regnum Parthicum format, militem legit, castella munit, civitates firmat. Urbem quoque nomine Daram, in monte Zapaortenon condit, cujus loci ea conditio est, ut neque munitius quidquam esse, neque amoenius possit. Nam praeruptis montibus ita cingitur, ut tutela loci nullis defensoribus egeat; et soli circumjacentis tanta ubertas est, ut propriis opibus expleatur. Sic Arsaces, quaesito simul constitutoque regno non minus memorabilis Parthis, quam Persis Cyrus, matura senectute decessit. Cujus memoriae hunc honorem Parthi tribuerunt, ut omnes exinde reges suos Arsacis nomine nuncupent. Hujus nepos, Arsaces et ipse nomine dictus, quindecim annis in regno actis decessit, relictis duobus filiis, Mithridate et Phrahate; quorum major Phrahates more gentis, heres regni, Mardos, validam gentem, bello domuit, nec multo post decessit, multis filiis relictis; quibus praeteritis,¹ fratri potissimum Mithridati, insignis virtutis viro, reliquit imperium, patriae potius quam liberis consulendum ratus.

6. Mithridates regni fines profert. (Justin. XLI. 6.)

Hic vir spem de se conceptam non fefellit. Bello inter Parthos et Medos orto, post varios utriusque populi casus, ad postremum victoria penes Parthos fuit. His viribus auctus Mithridates Mediae Bacasin praeponit, ipse in Hyrcaniam proficiscitur. Unde reversus bellum cum Elymaeorum² rege gessit, quo victo hanc quoque gentem regno adjecit, imperiumque Parthorum a monte Caucaso, multis populis in ditionem redactis, usque ad flumen Euphratem protulit. His actis adversa valetudine correptus, non minor Arsace proavo, gloriosa senectute decessit.

7. Regum Parthicorum successio. (Just. XLII. 1, 2, 3.)

Huic Phrahates filius successit. Qui cum Scythis bellum gerens a Graecis militibus, quibus in bello captis et crudeliter tractatis, imprudentius, ut suis, utebatur, in pugna relictus atque occisus est. In hujus locum Artabanus, patruus ejus, rex substituitur; qui bello Thogariis¹ illato, in brachio vulneratus, statim decedit. Huic Mithridates filius succedit, cui res gestae Magni cognomen dedere: quippe claritatem parentum animi magnitudine supergreditur. Multa bella cum finitimis magna virtute gessit, multosque populos Parthico regno addidit. Etiam cum Scythis prospere aliquoties dimicavit. Ad postremum Ortoadisti, Armeniorum regi, bellum intulit; quo debellato propter crudelitatem a Senatu Parthico regno pellitur.

8. Romanorum legiones a Parthis trucidantur.
(Justin. XLII. 4.)

Vacans regnum occupavit Orōdes, Mithridatis frater. Qui quum Babyloniam, quo Mithridates confugerat, diu obsideret, oppidanos fame coactos in deditionem compulit. Mithridates quoque, fiducia cognationis, ultro se in protestatem Orodis tradit. Sed Orodes plus hostem, quam fratrem, cogitans, in conspectu suo eum trucidari jussit. Post haec bellum cum Romanis gessit, Crassumque imperatorem cum filio et omni exercitu Romano delevit. Hujus filius Pacorus, missus ad persequendas Romani belli reliquias, magnis rebus in Syria gestis, patri suspectus in Parthiam revocatur; quo absente, exercitus Parthorum relictus in Syria a Cassio, quaestore Crassi, cum omnibus ducibus trucidatur.

9. Romani Parthos magno proelio vincunt.
(Justin. XLII. 4.)

His ita gestis non multo post tempore, apud Romanos inter Caesarem et Pompejum civile bellum exarsit, in quo Parthi Pompejanarum partium fuere. Victis partibus Pompejanis, et Cassio et Bruto auxilia adversus Augustum et Antonium misere, et post belli finem rursus, Pacoro duce, Syriam et Asiam vastavere, castraque Ventidii, qui absente Pacoro exercitum Parthicum fuderat, magna mole aggrediuntur. Sed ille simulato timore, diu continuit se, et insultare² Parthos aliquantisper passus est. Ad postremum in securos laetosque partem legionum emisit, quarum impetu fusi Parthi in diversa abiēre. Pacorus quum fugientes suos abduxisse secum legiones Romanas putaret, castra Ventidii, velut defensoribus privata, aggreditur. Tum Ventidius, reliqua parte legionum emissa, universam Parthorum manum cum rege ipso Pacoro interfecit. Nullo bello Parthi unquam majus vulnus acceperunt.

10. Orodis, regis Parthorum, de morte filii luctus.
(Justin. 1. c.)

Haec quum in Parthia nuntiata essent, Orodes, pater Pacori, qui paullo ante vastatam Syriam, Asiam a Parthis occupatam esse audiverat, victoremque Pacorum Romanorum gloriabatur, repente filii morte et exercitus clade audita, ex dolore in furorem vertitur.¹ Multis diebus non alloqui quemquam, non cibum sumere, non vocem mittere, ita ut etiam mutus factus videretur. Post multos deinde dies, ubi dolor vocem laxaverat,² nihil aliud quam Pacorum vocabat, illum videre, illum audire se putabat. Post longum deinde luctum alia sollicitudo miserandum senem invadit, quem ex numero triginta filiorum in locum Pacori regem destinet. Multae pellices, ex quibus generata tanta juvenus erat, pro suis quaeque sollicitae, animum senis obsidebant. Sed fatum Parthiae fecit, ut sceleratissimus omnium, et ipse Phrahates nomine, rex statueretur.

11. Phrahatis saevitia et exilium. (Just. XLII. 5.)

Hic itaque, beneficium parricidio rependens, patrem interfecit; fratres quoque ad unum omnes trucidat. Jam quum infestos sibi optimates propter assidua scelera videret, ne esset, qui in suum locum nominari rex posset, adultum filium interfici jubet. Huic Antonius bellum cum sedecim validissimis legionibus intulit, sed graviter multis proeliis vexatus, a Parthia refugit. Qua victoria insolentior Phrahates redditus, quum in dies magis saeviret, in exilium a populo pellitur. Exilii impatiens, quum diu finitimas civitates, ad postremum Scythas precibus fatigasset, Scytharum maxime auxilio in regnum restituitur. Eo absente regem Parthi Tiridaten quemdam constituerant; qui, audito adventu Scytharum, cum magna amicorum manu ad Caesarem,³ in Hispania bellum tunc temporis gerentem, profugit, obsidem Caesari minimum filium Phrahatis ferens, quem negligentius custoditum rapuerat.

12. Augustus Phrahatem terret. (Justin. 1. c.)

Quo cognito, Phrahates statim ad Caesarem legatos mittit, servum suum Tiridaten et filium remitti sibi postulat. Qua legatione audita, Caesar, neque Tiridaten dediturum se Parthis, dixit, neque adversus Parthos Tiridati auxilia daturum. Simul Phrahati filium sine pretio remisit, et Tiridati, quoad manere apud Romanos vellet, opulentum sumtum praeberi jussit. Post haec finito Hispaniensi bello, quum in Syriam ad componendum Orientis statum venisset, metum Phrahati incussit. Quare hic ut bellum a Parthiae finibus averteret, omnes captivos ex Crassi et Antonii legionibus colligi jussit, eosque simul cum signis militaribus¹ Augusto remisit. Sed et filii nepotesque Phrahatis obsides Augusto dati, plusque Caesar magnitudine sui nominis fecit, quam armis alius imperator facere potuisset.

G. RES SICILIAE.

1. Siciliae origines. (Justin. IV. 2.)

Siciliae primo Trinacriae² nomen fuit: postea Sicania³ cognominata est. Haec a principio patria Cyclōpum fuit, quibus extinctis Cocalus regnum insulae occupavit; post quem singulae civitates in tyrannorum imperium concesserunt, quorum nulla terra feracior fuit. Horum ex numero Anaxilāus iustitia cum caeterorum crudelitate certabat; cujus moderatio- nis haud mediocrem fructum tulit. Quippe decedens quum filios parvulos reliquisset, tutelamque eorum Micÿtho, spectatae fidei servo, commisisset, tantus amor memoriae ejus apud omnes fuit, ut parere servo, quam carere regis filiis mallent, principesque civitatis, obliti dignitatis suae, regni majestatem administrari per servum paterentur.

2. Carthaginenses in Sicilia. (Justin. IV. 2.) Dionysius major. (Ibid. XX. 1. 5.)

Imperium Siciliae etiam Carthaginenses tentaverunt; diuque varia fortuna cum tyrannis dimicatum. Ad postremum amisso Hamilcare imperatore cum exercitu, aliquantis per quievit victi. Insequenti tempore Dionysius, Carthaginensibus victis, totius insulae imperium occupavit. Tum, desidiā exercitus sui timens, copias in Italiam trajecit. Prima illi militia adversus Graecos fuit, qui proxima Italici maris litora tenebant; quibus devictis, finitimos quosque aggreditur, omnesque Graeci nominis,⁴ Italiam possidentes, hostes sibi destinat; quae gentes non partem, sed universam ferme Italiam ea tempestate occupaverant. Expugnatis Locris, Crotonienses aggreditur, qui cum parvis copiis fortiter restiterunt. Hoc bello occupatum Dionysium legati Gallorum, qui paucos ante menses Romam incenderant,¹ societatem amicitiamque petentes adeunt. Grata legatio Dionysio fuit. Ita pacta societate, et auxiliis Gallorum auctus, bellum velut ex integro restaurat. Sed eum in Siciliam adventus Carthaginiensium revocavit, qui, reparato exercitu, bellum auctis viribus repetebant. Nec multo post Dionysius, assiduis bellis victus fractusque, ad postremum suorum insidiis interficitur.

3. Dionysius minor patri succedit. (Just. XXI. 1.)

Eo extincto milites maximum natu ex filiis ejus, nomine Dionysium, in ejus locum suffecere. Qui, ut popularium animos inter initia regni sibi conciliaret, nexorum² tria millia e carcere dimittit; tributa populo intra triennium remittit, et, quibuscunque delinimentis potest, animos omnium sollicitat.³ Tunc fratrum suorum avunculos, veluti aemulos imperii sui, hortatoresque puerorum ad divisionem regni, sustulit, ipsosque paullo post fratres interficit.

4. Regno pellitur. (Just. XXI. 2.)

Sublatis aemulis in segnitiam lapsus, saginam corporis ex nimia luxuria, oculorumque valetudinem contraxit, adeo ut non solem, non pulverem, non denique splendorem ferre lucis posset. Propter quae dum contemni se putat, saevitia grassatur, civitatemque caedibus implet. Quae saevitia quum eum omnibus invisum reddidisset, et bellum denique Syracusani adversus eum decrevissent, diu dubitavit,⁴ imperium deponeret an bello resisteret. Sed a militibus, praedam ex urbis direptione sperantibus, descendere in proelium cogitur. Plus semel victus, legatos ad Syracusanos mittit, spondens, se depositurum tyrannidem, si mitterent ad eum, quibuscum sibi de pace conveniret. In quam rem missos primores in carcere retinet,⁵ atque ita incautis omnibus nec quidquam hostile metuentibus, exercitum ad delendam civitatem mittit. Fit igitur in ipsa urbe anceps proelium; in quo, oppidanis multitudine superantibus, Dionysius pellitur, qui quum obsidionem, arcis timeret, cum omni regio apparatu in Italiam profugit tacitus.

8. Tyrannidem Agathocles occupat. (Just. XXII. 2.)

Quum apud Murgantinos¹ exularet, ab his odio Syracusanorum primo praetor, mox dux belli creatur. In eo bello et urbem Leontinorum² capit, et patriam suam Syracusas obsidere coepit. Sed quum videret, fortius defendi urbem, quam oppugnari, precibus per internuntios Hamilcarem exorat, ut inter se et Syracusanos pacis arbitrium suscipiat. Quo intercedente non pax tantum Agathocli conciliatur, verum etiam praetor Syracusis constituitur. Quo facto, acceptis ab Hamilcare quinque millibus Afrorum, potentissimos quosque ex principibus interficit, senatum trucidat, et ex plebe quoque locupletissimos et promptissimos tollit.

9. Agathoclis bella cum Poenis. (Just. XXII. 3—6.)

His ita gestis militem legit exercitumque conscribit; quo instructus finitimas civitates, nihil hostile metuentes, ex improviso aggreditur. Deinde quum adversus Poenos arma movisset, Poenique victores Syracusas obsidione cinxissent, mira prorsus audacia bellum in Africam transferre statuit. Itaque oppidanis ad obsidionis necessitatem frumento instructis, comitibus duobus adultis filiis, Archagatho et Heraclida, cursum in Africam direxit. Quo quum venisset, universas naves, consentiente exercitu, incendi jubet, ut omnes scirent, auxilio fugae adempto,³ aut vincendum aut moriendum esse. Deinde quum omnia, quacunque ingrederentur, prosternerent, villas castellaque incenderent, obvius ei fuit cum triginta millibus Poenorum Hanno; sed, proelio commisso, duo⁴ de Siculis, tria millia de Poenis cum ipso duce cecidere. Hac victoria et Siculorum animi eriguntur et Poenorum franguntur. Castra deinde in quinto lapide a Carthagine statuit, ut vastitatem agrorum et incendia villarum de muris ipsius urbis specularentur.⁵

10. Agathocles Poenos e Sicilia pellit. (Justin. XXII. 7, 8.)

His Poenorum malis etiam deletus in Sicilia cum imperatore exercitus accessit. Nam post profectionem Agathoclis Poeni in obsidione urbis segniore redditi, ab Antandro, fratre Agathoclis, occidione caesi nuntiabantur.⁶ Itaque quum domi forisque eadem fortuna Carthaginiensium esset, non tributariae tantum ab his urbes, sed etiam socii reges deficiebant. Quorum copiis auctus,⁷ Carthaginienses gravi proelio superat. Quo facto, tradito exercitu filio Archagatho, in Siciliam rediit, nihil actum existimans, si amplius Syracusae obsiderentur. Nam post occisum Hamilcarem; Gisgonis filium, novus eo a Poenis missus exercitus fuerat. Statim igitur primo adventu ejus Siciliae urbes, auditis rebus, quas in Africa gesserat, certatim se ei tradunt, atque ita pulsus e Sicilia Poenis, totius insulae imperium occupavit. In Africam deinde reversus, seditione militum excipitur. Nam stipendiorum solutio in adventum patris dilata a filio fuerat. Igitur ad concionem vocatos blandis verbis permulsit: stipendia illis dicens ab hoste quaerenda esse: communem victoriam communem praedam futuram. Sedato itaque militari tumultu, ad castra hostium exercitum ducit; ibi inconsultius proelium committendo, majorem partem exercitus perdidit. Quum itaque in castra fugisset, militesque ob stipendium non solum metueret, concubia nocte solus cum Archagatho filio profugit. Archagathus tamen, qui a patre noctis errore¹ discesserat, a militibus comprehensus reducitur. Tum pacatione cum hostibus facta, milites, interfectis Archagathi liberis, Carthaginiensibus se tradidere; Archagathus ipse ab Arcesilao, amico antea patris, occisus est. Post haec Poeni ad persequendas belli reliquias duces in Siciliam miserunt, cum quibus Agathocles pacem aequis conditionibus fecit.

11. Agathocles moritur. (Justin. XXIII. 2.)

Brevi post tempore, Agathocles, quum spe ampliandi² regni in Italiam trajecisset, gravi morbo correptus est. Quum jam nulla spes esset, eum hoc malo liberari posse, bellum inter filium ejus nepotemque oritur, regnum jam quasi mortui vindicantes, occisoque filio, regnum nepos occupavit. Inter haec domestica mala rex moritur. Carthaginienses autem, cognitis quae in Sicilia agebantur, occasionem totius insulae occupandae datam sibi existimantes, magnis viribus³ eo trahunt, multasque civitates subigunt.

12. Pyrrhus Siciliam occupat et amittit. (Justin. XXIII. 3.)

Eo tempore Pyrrhus, rex Epiri, adversus Romanos bellum gerebat:⁴ qui imploratus a Siculis in auxilium, quum Syracusas venisset, multasque civitates subegisset, rex Siciliae appellatur. Post haec multa secunda proelia cum Carthaginiensibus facit. Interjecto deinde tempore, quum legati ab Italicis sociis venissent, nuntiantes, Romanis resisti non posse, deditionemque futuram, nisi subveniat victorem exercitum in Italiam trajecit. Quo facto socii in Sicilia ab eo defecerunt, et imperium Siciliae tam cito amisit, quam facile quaesierat. Sed nec in Italia meliore felicitate usus in Epirum revertitur.

13. Hiero, Hieroclis filius, imperium Siciliae adipiscitur.
(Justin. XXIII. 4.)

Post profectionem a Sicilia Pyrrhi, magistratus Hiero¹ creatur, cujus tanta moderatio fuit, ut, consentiente omnium civitatum favore, dux adversus Carthaginienses primum, mox rex, crearetur. Hujus futurae magnitudinis multa fuerunt omina. Quippe genitus patre Hierocle, nobili viro, a patre, quod ex ancilla natus esset, expositus erat. Sed parvulum apes multis diebus aluerunt. Ob quam rem responso aruspicum admonitus pater, qui regnum infanti portendi canebant, puerum recepit, omnique studio ad spem majestatis, quae promittebatur,² instituit. Eidem, in ludo inter aequales discenti, lupus, in turba puerorum repente conspectus, tabulum eripuit. Adolescenti quoque, prima bella ineunti, aquila in clypeo, noctua in hasta consedit. Denique adversus provocatores saepe pugnavit, semperque victoriam reportavit. A Pyrrho rege multis militaribus donis donatus est. Pulcritudo ei corporis insignis, vires quoque in homine admirabiles fuere; in alloquio blandus, in negotio justus, in imperio moderatus, prorsus ut nihil ei regium deesse, praeter regnum, videretur.

H. DE HISPANIA QUAEDAM.

1. Hispaniae descripto. (Justin. XLIV. 1.)

Hispaniam veteres ab Ibēro amne primum Iberiam, postea ab Hispano³ Hispaniam cognominaverunt. Haec, inter Africam et Galliam posita, Oceani freto et montibus Pyrenaeis clauditur. Sicut minor utrâque terrâ, ita utrâque fertilior. Nam neque, ut Africa, violento sole torretur, neque, ut Gallia, assiduis ventis fatigatur, sed media inter utramque in omnia frugum genera fecunda est, adeo ut non ipsis tantum incolis, verum etiam Italiae urbique Romanae cunctarum rerum abundantiam suppeditet. Hinc enim magna copia est frumenti,

4. Carthaginensium in Hispania imperium.

(Justin. XLIV. 5.)

Mature Carthaginenses imperium Hispaniae occupavere. Nam quum Gaditani¹ a Tyro, unde et Carthaginensibus origo est, sacra Herculis in Hispaniam transtulissent, urbemque ibi condidissent, finitimi incrementis novae urbis invidentes, Gaditanos bello laccessiverunt. Consanguineis Carthaginenses auxilium miserunt. Ibi felici expeditione et Gaditanos ab injuria vindicaverunt, et majorem partem Hispaniae imperio suo adjecerunt. Postea quoque, hortante primae expeditionis successu, Hamilcarem imperatorem cum magna manu ad occupandam provinciam misere, qui, magnis rebus gestis, dum fortunam inconsultius sequitur, in insidias deductus occiditur. In hujus locum gener ipsius Hasdrubal mittitur; qui et ipse a servo Hispani cujusdam, ulciscente domini injustam necem, interfectus est. Major utroque Hannibal, Hamilcaris filius, successit. Hic universam Hispaniam domuit; inde bello Romanis illato, Italiam per annos sexdecim variis cladibus fatigavit; quum interea Romani, missis in Hispaniam Scipionibus, primo Poenos provincia expulerunt, postea cum ipsis Hispanis gravia bella gesserunt. Nec prius Hispani jugum potuerunt accipere, quam Caesar Augustus, perdomito orbe terrarum, victricia ad eos arma transtulit, populumque barbarum et ferum, legibus ad cultioris vitae usum traductum, in formam provinciae redegit.

I. RES MASSILIENSIVM.

1. Phocaeenses Massiliam condunt. (Just. XLIII. 3.)

Temporibus Tarquini Superbi, Romanorum regis, ex Asia Phocaeensium juvenus, patria profuga, Massiliam inter Ligures² et feras gentes Gallorum condidit, et, dum se armis adversus Gallicam feritatem tuentur, magnas res gesserunt. Duces classis Simos et Protis fuerunt. Hi regem Segobrigiorum, Nannum nomine, in cujus finibus urbem condere gestiebant, conveniunt. Forte eo die rex occupatus in apparatu nuptiarum Gyptis filiae erat; quam more gentis, electo inter epulas genero, nuptum tradere illic³ parabat. Itaque quum ad nuptias invitati omnes proci essent, rogantur etiam Graeci hospites ad convivium. Introducta deinde virgo quum juberetur a patre aquam porrigere ei, quem virum eligeret, tunc, omissis omnibus, ad Graecos conversa, aquam Proti porrigit; qui factus ex hospite gener, locum condendae urbis a socrero accepit. Condita igitur est Massilia prope ostia Rhodani amnis, in remoto sinu, velut in angulo maris. Sed Ligures, incrementis urbis invidentes, Graecos assiduis bellis fatigabant.¹ Qui pericula propulsando in tantum² enituerunt, ut, victis hostibus, in captivis agris multas colonias constituerent.

2. Massiliensibus a finitimis struuntur insidiae.
(Justin. XLIII. 4.)

Ab his igitur Galli et usum vitae cultioris et agrorum cultus, et urbes moenibus cingere didicerunt. Tunc et legibus, non armis vivere, tunc et vitem putare, tunc olivam serere consueverunt. Mortuo rege Nanno Segobrigiorum, a quo locus condendae urbis acceptus fuerat, quum regno filius ejus Comanus successisset, affirmat Ligur quidam, Massiliam, quandoque³ finitimis populis exitio futuram, in ipso ortu opprimendam esse. Subnectit et fabulam: canem gravidam aliquando a pastore locum petisse precario, in quo pareret; quem quum obtinisset, iterato petisse, ut sibi educare eodem in loco catulos liceret; ad postremum, adultis catulis, pastorem illam, domestico praesidio fortem,⁴ depellere non potuisse. His incitatus rex insidias Massiliensibus struit. Itaque solemnibus Floraliorum⁵ die multis fortes et strenuos viros hospitii jure in urbem misit; plures etiam frondibus tectos vehiculis induci jussit. Ipse cum exercitu in proximis montibus delitescit, ut, quum nocte portae apertae forent,⁶ tempestive adesset, urbemque somno ac vino sepultam⁷ armis invaderet. Sed has insidias mulier quaedam, regis cognata, prodidit, quae Graecum adolescentem, cujus amore tenebatur, miserata formae et fortunae ejus, periculum declinare jussit. Ille rem statim ad magistratus defert; atque ita patefactis insidiis, cuncti Ligures comprehenduntur. Quibus interfectis, insidiant regi insidiae tenduntur. Caesa sunt cum ipso rege hostium septem millia. Exinde Massilienses festis diebus portas claudere, vigiliis agere, peregrinos recognoscere,⁸ ac veluti bellum habeant, urbem custodire.

3. Massiliensium bella. (Justin. XLIII. 5.)

Post haec magna illis cum Liguribus, magna cum Gallis fuere bella; quae res urbis gloriam auxit Graecorumque virtutem celebrem inter finitimos reddidit. Carthaginiensium quoque exercitus, quum bellum, captis piscatorum navibus, ortum esset, saepe fuderunt, pacemque victis dederunt; cum Hispanis amicitiam junxerunt; cum Romanis prope ab initio conditae urbis foedus summa fide custodierunt, auxiliisque in omnibus bellis industrie socios juverunt. Quae res illis et virium fiduciam auxit, et pacem ab hostibus praestitit.

4. Finitimis impetum in eos facientibus, deorum cura servantur. (Ibid.)

Quum igitur Massilia fama rerum gestarum, et abundantia opum, et virium gloria floreret, repente finitimi populi ad nomen Massiliensium¹ delendum, veluti ad commune exstinguendum incendium, concurrunt. Dux consensu omnium Catumandus regulus eligitur, qui, quum magno exercitu¹ lectissimorum virorum urbem hostium obsideret, per quietem specie torvae mulieris, quae se deam dicebat, exterritus, ultro pacem cum Massiliensibus fecit; petitoque,² ut intrare illi in urbem et deos eorum adorare liceret, quum in arcem Minervae venisset, conspecto simulacro deae, quam per quietem viderat, repente exclamat, illam esse, quae se nocte exterruisset; illam, quae recedere ab obsidione jussisset, gratulatusque Massiliensibus, quod animadverteret, eos ad curam deorum immortalium pertinere,³ torque aureo donata dea, in perpetuum amicitiam cum Massiliensibus junxit. Parta pace et securitate fundata legati Massiliensium, revertentes a Delphis, quo missi munera Apollini tulerant, audierunt urbem Romanam a Gallis captam incensamque.⁴ Quam rem domi nuntiatam publico funere⁵ Massilienses prosecuti sunt; aurumque et argentum publicum privatumque contulerunt, ad explendum pondus Gallis, a quibus redemptam pacem cognoverant. Ob quod meritum et immunitas illis decreta et locus spectaculorum in senatu datus et foedus aequo jure percussum est.

tius ad ea, quae e re sua essent, animos adverterent, senatori cuidam nobiliori, cujus nutu et auctoritate regerentur eorum studia, commendari solebant. Cicero igitur, toga virili sumpta, a patre deductus est ad Q. Mucium Scaevolam augurem, tam rerum publicarum et civilium scientia, quam ingenio et doctrina, longe praestantissimum. Quem quidem quum Cicero, quod adolescentes honoris causa solebant facere, deduceret in forum, reduceretque, nec unquam ab ejus latere discederet; non solum consilia, quae rogatus ille dabat, cupide arripiebat et animo recondebat, sed etiam vel commode, vel acute, vel prudenter ab eo dicta et disputata diligenter memoriae mandabat. Hinc factum est, ut brevi tempore et legum, et omnium, quae a bono causarum patrono exiguntur, cognitionem sibi pararet accuratissimam. Sed quum nulla re magis ad summos in republica honores viam muniri posse intelligeret, quam arte dicendi et eloquentia, toto animo in ejus studium incubuit; in quo quidem ita versatus est, ut non solum eos, qui in foro et judiciis causas perorarent, studiose sectaretur, sed privatim quoque, tam graecas orationes in latinam linguam vertendo, quam, quae ipse commentatus esset, declamando, diligentissime se exerceret. At ne in hoc quidem exercitationis genere acquievit. Nam eodem tempore non solum carmina, quibus Scaevolam et Atticum mirifice delectatos esse legimus, conscripsit, sed etiam philosophiae, Phaetro Epicureo inprimis duce, operam dedit.

3. Cicero miles.

Postquam juvenes Romani assidua in rebus forensibus exercitatione, et vario officiorum genere, senatus populique favorem atque gratiam sibi collegerant, tum, ut foris pariter ac domi de republica bene merere discerent, togam cum sago mutare, sive castra sequi, et virtutis bellicae documenta edere, debebant. Itaque Cicero, ut faceret et tentaret omnia, quibus in republica ad summos honores enitendum erat, militaris quoque artis scientiam sibi parare constituit. Nec deerat ei ad hanc rem occasio. Saeviente enim tum bello Sociali sive Marsico, quum consul Pompejus Strabo, Pompeji Magni pater, exercitum duceret contra hostiles copias, facile ab eo, ut in ejus comitatu sibi esse liceret, impetravit. In quo quidem bello, quamvis ad pacis magis, quam ad belli artes, natus esse videbatur Cicero, tamen nulli strenui militis defuit officio, et omnino ita se gessit, ut bellicae quoque virtutis laudem inde referret.

4. Cicero post militiam in urbem reversus.

Quum rerum publicarum status graviter tum concuteretur Sullae et Marii certaminibus, Cicero, ab omni partium studio alienus, oratoribus, qui tum excellebant, vacabat, vel ipse cogitata mentis litteris mandabat. Sed multum ille in hac re discrepabat a nostrae aetatis hominum ingenio. Non enim protrusit et evulgavit statim, quae juvenis litteris consignaverat, sed ad maturiorem aetatem reposuit, et, quae minus tum probarentur ejus judicio, aut emendavit, aut plane delevit. Ad oratores autem, quorum exemplo et disciplina adjuta tum imprimis sunt Ciceronis studia, pertinent Philo Academicus et Molo Rhodius, Mithridatis furore atque violentia cum multis aliis e Graecia exacti. His quidem et Diodoto Stoico (quem recepit adeo in domum suam) eo impensius dedit operam, quo major ei inter Romanos oratores eminendi fuit cupiditas. Accenderat inprimis Ciceronis studia exemplum Hortensii, omnium oratorum, qui tum Romae florebant, eloquentissimi. Hunc igitur tanto animi ardore aemulatus est, ut brevi tempore non aequaret tantum ejus laudem, sed etiam superaret.

5. Cicero in causa publica primum orator prodit.

Cicero, viginti et sex annos natus, postquam in privatis causis jam pluribus operam suam commodaverat, nunc in publica causa eloquentiae suae copias expromendi occasionem nactus est. Nam quum Roscium quendam ex Ameria, parricidii accusatum, ob Chrysogoni, qui in ejus adversariis fuit, potentiam nemo defendere auderet; tanta eloquentiae vi et animi libertate eum defendit Cicero, ut jam tum in arte dicendi nullus ei par esse videretur. Ipse Cicero saepius magna cum animi voluptate hujus orationis et partae sibi per eam laudis meminit, quamvis idem, se nimium passim in hac oratione juvenili fervori indulsisse et fines, intra quos contineri debuisset, transiluisse, in maturiore aetate constitutus haud dissimulat.

6. Cicero peregrinatur.

Anno post ad corporis male affecti valetudinem reficiendam Cicero in Asiam profectus est. Quum primum Athenas venisset, adeo hujus urbis commodis et opportunitatibus captus est, ut per sex menses ibi commoraretur. Nihil autem opportunius et jucundius in hac celebratissima Mūsarum sede obtingere potuit Ciceroni nostro, quam quod ei cum Antiocho, philosopho Academico, non versari tantum, sed etiam apud eum habitare liceret. Sic enim nactus fuerat non solum amicum, quocum familiariter viveret, sed etiam magistrum, ad cujus praecepta philosophiae studia moderari posset. Ad vitae jucunditatem, qua Cicero Athenis fruebatur, multum conferebat Pomponii Attici, veteris amici et aequalis, quem ibi convenerat, consuetudo; quae quidem ita tum aucta et confirmata est, ut per totam reliquam vitam alter alteri exsisteret amicissimus. Eodem tempore apud Demetrium Syrum, veterem et haud ignobilem dicendi magistrum, studiose Noster in arte rhetorica se exercuit.

7. Cicero Asiam peragrat.

Athenis relictis Cicero iter flexit in Asiam, ibique cum principibus oratoribus, ad quos se applicaverat, Menippo Stratonicensi, Dionysio Magnete, Aeschylo Cnidio, Xenocle Adramytteio et aliis versatus est et nobilissimas Asiae urbes peragravit. Delatus denique est Rhodum, ubi, quem jam Romae audiverat, Moloni denuo operam dedit. Insignes, quos Cicero in arte dicendi interea fecerat, progressus mirabatur quidem Molo, sed idem vitia, quae vitanda essent oratori bono et gravi, libere ei indicavit. Nam quum res, quas Noster in orationibus describendas sibi sumserat, nimia verborum copia exaggeraret, et sententiarum lumina ingenii ostentandi causa nimis coacervaret; humaniter eum monuit Molo, ut hunc juvenilem impetum reprimere, et, quae redundarent, quasi extra ripas diffluentia, coercere studeret. Cuius quidem praecepti veritatem se bene jam tum percepisse, ipse grato animo profitetur.—Posidonium quoque, philosophum, qui Rhodi erat, diligenter audivit, eumque in philosophiae studio ducem adhibuit.

8. Cicero ex peregrinatione redux in urbem factus.

Biennio post quum Cicero Romam se recepisset, ibi, sicut ante peregrinationem, in foro versari atque causas perorare coepit. Ad eos, quorum causas tum Ciceronem defendisse constat, pertinet Roscius Comoedus, vir tam arte histrionica, quam ingenio et aliarum virtutum laude florentissimus. Quo crebrior autem causarum dicendarum oblata fuit Ciceroni occasio, eo luculentius exsplendescere coepit ejus fama atque 11. Cicero e Sicilia Romam reversus.

Cicero, Quaestoris munere insigni laude perfunctus, e Sicilia rediit Romam, gravissimis tum bellis pressam et distentam. Ibi per quinque annos in causis dicendis ita excelluit, ut inter omnes causarum patronos et esset et haberetur princeps. Jam vero quum ad eam aetatem pervenisset, (triginta et septem annos tum natus erat,) quae praestituta fuit aedilitatem vel praeturam petituris, nomen suum inter candidatos aedilitatis professus est eo successu, ut, praëlatus caeteris candidatus omnibus, uno ore omnium Aedilis Curulis crearetur.

12. Cicero Verrem accusat.

Priusquam aedilitatem adibat Cicero, opportuna, qua summi oratoris artem ostenderet, oblata ei est occasio Verris accusatione. Homo iste, qui primum Quaestor, tum Praetor per tres deinceps annos in Sicilia fuerat, tanta avaritia et impudentia non privata tantum, sed etiam publica bona, diripuerat, ut Siculi, inaudita impudentia ab isto spoliati et expilati, diem ei Romae dicere constituerent. Quo magis autem illi jam olim non solum summum Ciceronis in causis dicendis ingenium et eloquentiam, sed etiam insignem ejus animi integritatem, humanitatem et benevolentiam perspexerant, eo vehementius nunc eum rogabant, ut accusationem contra Verrem suscipereret. Nec defuit ille eorum precibus. Imo nefandam, qua in Siculorum bona grassatus fuerat Verres, avaritiam tanta orationis gravitate et animi libertate in judicio perstrinxit et ante omnium oculos posuit, ut iste, argumentorum vi convictus, sponte in exilium, ubi reliquam vitae partem transegit, abiret.

13. Cicero Aedilis Praetor.

Cicero, aedilitatem ingressus, solemnem illum morem, quo munera, sive ludos populo edere solebant novi Aediles, haud neglexit quidem, sed in eorum sumtibus faciendis sapienter modum tenuit, honestiorem rationem, qua populi gratiam et amorem sibi conciliaret, secutus. Nam, quum populus tum premeretur annonae caritate, splendidissima a Siculis sibi oblata munera impendebat eo, ut viliori annona veniret pretio. Quo quidem honesto liberalique studio populi in Cicero-nem favor adeo auctus est, ut, quum post aedilitatem Praetoris munus peteret, inter octo Praetores, qui creabantur, rae multis aliis competitoribus totius populi suffragiis primus crearetur. Nec vana fuit populi de Ciceronis praetura expectatio. Nam sicut summam diligentiam, humanitatem, prudentiam et honestatem in quaesturae aedilitatisque ob-eundis officiis probaverat, ita in Praetoris munere gerendo summae justitiae, aequitatis, sanctitatis et temperantiae laude excelluit. Dum Praetor erat Cicero, cum alias orationes habuit, tum imprimis orationem pro Lege Manilia. Nam quum Manilius, tribunus plebis, legem rogasset, qua Pompejo summum belli Mithridatici imperium decerneretur; Cicero in oratione illa Pompeji virtutes, summo duci proprias, tanta ubertate, gravitate atque elegantia descripsit et exposuit, ut, faciendum omnino esse, quod in lege Manilia suaderetur, omnes ac singuli judicarent.

14. Cicero post Praeturam.

Praetura perfunctis provincia, quam Propraetores administrarent, decerni solebat. Sed Cicero, neque divitiarum in provincia parandarum, neque rerum foris gerendarum admodum cupidus, detrectata provincia, Romae manere, et ibi rerum civilium scientiae et earum artium, quibus viam ad consulatum sibi aperiret, operam navare maluit. Itaque per duos post praeturam annos, (tantum enim temporis a praetura usque ad consulatus petitionem intercedere debebat,) quolibet officiorum genere populi favorem colligere, et hujus collecti favoris aura vela quasi sua ita implere studuit, ut fieri non posset, quin metam, h. e. consulatum, secundo cursu attingeret.

15. Cicero Consul.

Cicero igitur, tanto studio tantaque virtutum laude ad summos honores grassatus, aetatis anno quadagesimo tertio, quo secundum leges consulatum peti licebat, non tabellis, quibus alias suffragia in comitiis Consularibus dari solebant, sed voce universi populi Romani honorificentissime Consul creatus, et sex aliis competitoribus, in quibus L. Sergius Catilina fuit, praelatus est. Consulatum gerere incipienti negotium facessebat P. Rullus, tribunus plebis, homo seditiosus, qui, dum legis agrariae rogationem, veterem istam gravissimarum discordiarum causam, agitabat, non parum reipublicae infestus fieri coepit. Sed Cicero perniciosos Rulli conatus tribus orationibus agrariis tanta sententiarum vi et gravitate repressit atque retudit, ut ipse populus legi tam populari, pauperiorum magis, quam universae reipublicae commodis respondenti fortiter resisteret.

16. Cicero detecta et compressa Catilinae conjuratione servat rempublicam.

L. Sergius Catilina, quem inter consulatus competitores fuisse modo commemoravimus, quum spe consulatus consequendi se dejectum videret, obnixè faciebāt omnia, ut proximis certe comitiis obtineret, quod frustra adhuc petierat. Sed Cicero, quum praeciperet animo, quantum malorum ab immensa Catilinae libidine dominandique cupiditate reipublicae immineret, nefandas artes atque callida consilia, quibus ille consulatum adfectabat, eludere atque irrita reddere studuit. Hinc tanta in Ciceronem accensus est ira Catilina, ut fere palam illi mortem minaretur. Et vere ipso die comitali, quem caedi destinaverat, perpetraturus fuisset illud facinus, nisi Cicero re comperta sibi providisset et firmissimo se contra vim sibi paratam munivisset praesidio. Itaque quum lorricatus et fortissimorum virorum cohorte stipatus in Campum Martium prodiisset, Catilina non solum a vi facienda prohibitus, sed etiam a consulatu, quem appetebat, repulsus est. Sed ne sic quidem a proposito deterritus est. Vi enim et armis consecuturus, quod arte et consilio consequi non potuerat, sociis, in domum Leccae cujusdam convocatis, rationem, qua ferro ignique rerum potirentur, descripsit atque proposuit. Ante omnia autem consilio Ciceronem e medio tollendi intentus fuit. Sed frustra fuerunt, quas Ciceronis vitae struxerat, insidiae! frustra bellici ab uno conjuratorum, Manlio, in Etruria contra patriam facti apparatus! frustra omnia, quae Catilina cum conjuratis inierat, consilia! Ne multa! unius Ciceronis prudentia et vigilantia gravissima calamitas a bonorum capitibus et ab universa civitate depulsa est.

17. Cicero vir Consularis

Cicero, postquam consulatu, tanta laude et gloria gesto abierat, vir consularis inter principes senatores, h. e. inter eos, qui primum in senatu rogarentur sententiam, locum obtinere, et in urbe publicae salutis invigilare maluit, quam Proconsul in provinciam sibi decretam discedere. Primum quidem misere vexabatur ab adversariis, nimiam inprimis potestatem, qua ille Consul indicta causa cives supplicio affecisset, in crimen vocantibus. Contra hos igitur, inprimis poenam in lege ista constitutam a se amoliretur, sordidatus, ut reus, per vias incedebat, adolescentibus eum ex omni nobilitate plus viginti millibus comitantibus. Quin ipse senatus pro Cicerone deprecabatur. Sed quum neque senatus, neque nobilium, neque populi studiis quicquam effici posset apud consules, Pisonem et Gabinium, in Clodii partem inclinantes; sponte ille solum vertere constituit. Verum enim vero ne sic quidem Clodii ira deferbuit. Nam quum in ipsum Ciceronem saevire non posset, in absentis domum et villas incendio saeviit.

20. Cicero exsul.

Quum Cicero in exsilium abiret, primum iter dirigebat in Siciliam, tum Brundusium et inde in Graeciam, ubi navem ad Dyrrhachium appulit. Inde se contulit Thessalonicam in Macedonia, ubi a Cn. Plancio admodum benigne exceptus et quovis humanitatis et liberalitatis genere per septem menses ornatus et cumulatus est. Interea Romae totus fere populus ingenti desiderio flagitare coepit Ciceronis reditum. Post acerrima igitur, quibus senatus populusque Romanus contra Clodium exsurrexerant, certamina, Cicero tandem secundum peculiarem legem, a Lentulo rogatam, et insigni populi favore jussam, revocatus est in patriam. Nihil autem per totam vitam Ciceroni itinere, quo in patriam rediit, accidit jucundius. Quocunque enim veniebat, voces ei acclamabantur laetissimae, et, quum ipsi urbi propior factus esset, omnes fere incolae obviam ei ruebant, et suam de ejus reditu laetitiam faustissimis declarabant significationibus.

21. Cicero post reditum ex exsilio.

Cicero, quum in urbem rediisset, sicuti statim domos villasque suas, nefario scelere a Clodio direptas atque dirutas reficiendas atque restituendas curavit, ita pristinum de republica et aliis bene merendi studium retractare et de integro exercere coepit. Quicumque eum consuleret, vel ejus in causa aliqua patrocinium peteret, hunc tam consilio suo, quam eloquentia sustentavit, et tutum ab injuria praestitit. Quinquaginta et quatuor annos natus in Collegium Augurum adoptatus est. Paulo post P. Clodius, Ciceroni infestissimus, in fortuito concursu a Milone interfectus est. Defendebat quidem Cicero accusatum de hac caede Milonem, sed ejus eloquentiam adeo pervincebat et obtundebat ferox et incondita Clodii sociorum vociferatio, ut, quo minus in exsilium exigeretur Milo, haud impedire posset. Ciceronis, quae adhuc exstat, pro Milone oratio, scripta demum est tum, quum is jam exsul viveret Massiliae.

22. Cicero Proconsul in provinciam proficiscitur.

Cicero, ut supra commemoravimus, repudiavit, quam post consulatum statim administraret, provinciam. Sed duodecim ferme annis post ex senatusconsulto provinciae Ciliciae et finitimis locis Proconsul praeesse jussus est. Quum in provinciam proficisceretur, et ad Ephesum in terram escenderet, ingens Graecorum, tantum virum videre gestientium, undique confluit copia. Inde properavit in provinciam, ubi, quum variis rebus melius rectiusque constituendis egregiam dedisset operam, tanto successu contra Parthos dimicavit, ut non solum Imperatoris nomine ornaretur, sed in ejus honorem etiam supplicatio Romae decerneretur. Exacto anno ex provincia, Quaestori Coelio tradita, Romam decessit.

23. Ciceronis post reditum ex provincia studia.

Cicero, in urbem ex provincia redux, suavissime quidem afficiebatur insigni illo, quo totus populus Romanus eum accipiebat, favore et observantia, sed ejusdem simul animus rerum, quae tum Romae movebantur, consideratione graviter perturbabatur. Tantae enim inter Julium Caesarem et Pompejum ortae erant inimicitiae, ut res non nisi bello dirimi posse videretur. Cicero quidem studiose et obnixie faciebat omnia, ut utrumque inter se reconciliaret, et a belli civilis calamitatibus deterreret; sed quum neutrum ad pacem ineundam permovere posset, Pompeji partes amplexus cum optimatum exercitu in Graeciam profectus est. Mox in campis Pharsalicis commissum est memorabile illud proelium, non exercitui tantum Pompeji, sed ipsi quoque, paulo post occiso, funestissimum. Cicero igitur prudenter reditum acceleravit in Italiam, ubi, omni rerum publicarum cura ex animo dimissa, sibi et litteris vivere constituit. Tum primum rhetoricam et philosophiam latinae orationis luce illustrare coepit, scripsitque cum alia, tum Partitiones Oratorias; Brutum sive de claris oratoribus; tres libros de Oratore; Catonem sive Laudem M. Catonis Uticensis.—Sexaginta et duos annos natus de filiae dilectissimae, Tulliae, morte dolorem suscepit longe acerbissimum. Primum quidem dolor ille omnia sapientiae praecepta ex ejus pectore excussisse videbatur, sed deinde, quum sensim sensimque eum ferre didicisset, conscripsit li-brum de Consolatione, qui tamen, quod valde dolendum, temporis injuria nobis ereptus est. Nam liber ille, qui sub hoc nomine in quibusdam Ciceronis editionibus exhibetur, satis aperte alienam manum prodit. Eodem fere tempore plura, quae ad philosophiam spectant, commentatus est, e quibus quinque libri de Finibus bonorum et malorum et totidem Tusculanarum Quaestionum ad nostra tempora propagati sunt.

24. Cicero post caedem Caesaris.

Caesare interfecto, Cicero cum ejus interfectores, a quorum societate et consiliis prudenter adhuc refugerat, se contulit in Capitolium. Post tres dies, quum inde descendisset, venit in senatum, et, quicquid ad pacem quietemque servandam conferre videretur, gravi oratione suasit et proposuit. Sperans igitur, fore, ut eorum, quae suasisset, a senatu populoque haberetur ratio, secessit ex urbe in Tusculanum suum, ibique fessus pertaesusque publicarum curarum omne tempus in litterarum studiis contrivit. Ad ea, quae litteris consignavit in otio illo rusticano, referendi sunt libri: de Natura Deorum; de Divinatione; de Senectute; de Amicitia; de Officiis.

25. Cicero Antonii lacessitur insolentia.

Quum novi motus Romae concitarentur, Cicero imminentem tempestatem itinere, quod in Graeciam facturus erat, effugere tentavit. Sed idem deinde, praesentia sua fortasse motus istos componi posse ratus, ex itinere jam incepto Romam regressus est. Vix autem eo venerat, quum insolenter et contumeliose tractaretur a consule Antonio. Quod quidem tam aegre tulit Cicero, ut in prima Oratione Philippica graviter in consulis insolentiam et inhumanitatem invectus de moderatione erga se adhibenda ageret. Sed tantum abfuit, ut haec oratio mitigaret mutaretque Antonii animum, ut publice nunc se Ciceronis inimicum profiteretur. Tum Cicero ex urbe in villam suam ad Neapolin se recepit, ibique secundam orationem Philippicam, in qua omne virus acerbitatis in Antonium effudisse videtur, composuit. Sed brevi tempore post quum Antonius, ut Dec. Brutum e Gallia Cisalpina pelleret, ex urbe profectus esset, Cicero, ut, hac liberius agendi occasione usus, labefactato liberae reipublicae statui, quae posset, fulcra subderet, celeri pede Romam reversus est. Et vere paulo post, Antonio ad Mutinam victo, nova spes liberae reipublicae affulgere coepit; sed in breve tantum tempus. Octaviano enim et Q. Pedio consuli-

CAPUT PRIMUM.

NARRATIONES BREVIORES EX CICERONIS OPERIBUS EX-CERPTAE.1. Verae divitiae.

1. Nunquam ego bona perdidisse dicam, si qui pecus aut supellectilem amiserit; neque non laudabo sapientem illum, Biantem, qui numeratur in septem; cujus quum patriam Prienen cepisset hostis, caeterique ita fugerent, ut multa de suis rebus secum asportarent, quum esset admonitus a quodam, ut idem ipse faceret: Ego vero, inquit, facio; nam omnia mea porto mecum. Ille haec ludibria fortunae, ne sua quidem putavit, quae nos appellamus etiam bona. (Paradoxa c. 1.)

2. Socrates in pompa quum magna vis auri argentique ferretur, quam multa non desidero, inquit. (Tusc. Qu. V. 32.)

3. Xenocrates, quum legati ab Alexandro quinquaginta ei talenta attulissent, quae erat pecunia temporibus illis, Athenis praesertim, maxima, abduxit legatos ad coenam in Academiam: iis apposuit tantum, quod satis esset, nullo apparatu. Quum postridie rogarent eum, cui numerari juberet, quid? vos hesternam, inquit, coenulam non intellexistis, me pecunia non egere? Quos quum tristiores vidisset, triginta minas accepit, ne aspernari regis liberalitatem videretur. (Tusc. Qu. V. 32.)

4. At vero Diogenes liberius, ut Cynicus, Alexandro roganti, ut diceret, si quid opus esset, nunc quidem paululum, inquit, a sole! Offecerat videlicet apricanti. (Tusc. Qu. V. 32.)

5. Et hic quidem disputare solebat, quanto regem Persarum vita fortunaque superaret; sibi nihil deesse; illi nihil satis unquam fore; se ejus voluptates non desiderare, quibus nunquam satiari ille posset; suaseum consequi nullo modo posse. (Tusc. Qu. V. 32.)

6. Themistocles quum consuleretur, utrum bono viro pauperi, an minus probato diviti filiam collocaret, ego, inquit, malo virum qui pecunia egeat, quam pecuniam quae viro. (De Offic. II. 20.)

II. Sapientiae praestantia.

1. Xenocratem ferunt, nobilem imprimis philosophum, quum quaereretur ex eo, quid adsequerentur ejus discipuli.

respondisse, ut id sua sponte facerent, quod cogerentur facere legibus. (De Republ. I. 2.)

2. Eleus Hippias quum Olympiam venisset, maxima illa quinquennali celebritate ludorum, gloriatus est, cuncta paene audiente Graecia, nihil esse ulla in arte rerum omnium, quod ipse nesciret, nec solum has artes, quibus liberales doctrinae atque ingenuae continerentur, geometriam, musicam, litterarum cognitionem et poetarum, atque illa, quae de naturis rerum, quae de hominum moribus, quae de republica dicerentur, sed annulum, quem haberet, pallium, quo amictus, soccos, quibus indutus esset, se sua manu confecisse. (De Orator. III. 32.)

3. Scipioni interroganti Laelium, quid? Laeli, tum quum tu es iratus, permittis illi iracundiae dominatum animi tui? Non mehercule, respondit ille, sed imitor Archytam illum Tarentinum, qui quum ad villam venisset, et omnia aliter offendisset ac jusserat, te infelicem, inquit villico, quem necassem jam verbis, nisi iratus essem. (De Republ. I. 38.)

4. Publium Scipionem, eum, qui primus Africanus appellatus est, dicere solitum scripsit Cato, qui fuit fere ejus aequalis, numquam se minus otiosum esse, quam quum otiosus esset. Magnifica vero vox et sapiente digna, quae declarat, illum et in otio de negotiis cogitare, et in solitudine secum loqui solitum; ut neque cessaret unquam, et interdum colloquio alterius non egeret. Itaque duae res, quae languorem afferunt caeteris, illum acuebant, otium et solitudo. (De Offic. III. 1.)

5. Diogenes Cynicus projici se jussit inhumatum. Tum amici: volucrisne et feris? Minime vero, inquit; sed bacillum propter me, quo abigam, ponitote. Qui poteris? illi; non enim senties. Quid mihi igitur ferarum laniatus oberit, nihil sentienti? (Qu. Tusc. I. 43.)

6. Praeclare Anaxagoras; qui quum Lampsaci moreretur, quaerentibus amicis, velletne Clazomenas in patriam, si quid accidisset, auferri? nihil necesse est, inquit; undique enim ad inferos tantundem viae est. (Qu. Tusc. I. 43.)

III. Exempla Fortitudinis.

1. Lacedaemonius quidam mortem tantopere contempsit, ut quum ad eam duceretur, damnatus ab ephoris, et esset vultu hilari atque laeto, dixissetque ei quidam inimicus, contemnisne leges Lycurgi? responderet, ego vero illi maximam gratiam habeo, qui me ea poena multaverit, quam sine mutatione et sine versura possem dissolvere. O virum Sparta dig-num! ut mihi quidem, qui tam magno animo fuerit, innocens damnatus esse videatur. (Qu. Tusc. I. 42.)

2. Tales innumerabiles nostra civitas tulit. Sed quid duces et principes nominem, quum legiones scribat Cato saepe alacres in eum locum profectas, unde redituras se non arbitrentur? (Tusc. Qu. I. c.)

3. Pari animo Lacedaemonii in Thermopylis occiderunt, in quos Simonides:

Dic, hospes, Spartae, nos te hîc vidisse jacentes,
Dum sanctis patriae legibus obsequimur.

E quibus unus, quum Perses hostis in colloquio dixisset glorians: Solem prae jaculorum multitudine et sagittarum non videbitis.—In umbra igitur, inquit, pugnabimus. (Tusc. Qu. I. c.)

4. Viros commemoro: qualis tandem Lacaena? Quae quum filium in proelium misisset, et interfectum audisset, idcirco, inquit, genueram, ut esset, qui pro patria mortem non dubitaret occumbere. (Tusc. Qu. I. c.)

5. Lacedaemonii, Philippo minitante per litteras, se omnia quae conarentur prohibitorum, quaesiverunt: num se esset etiam mori prohibitorum? (Qu. Tusc. V. 15.)

6. Fortes et duri Spartiatae; magnam habet vim reipublicae disciplina. Quid? Cyrenaeum Theodorum, philosophum non ignobilem, nonne miramur? Cui quum Lysimachus rex crucem minaretur, istis, quaeso, inquit, ista horribilia minitare purpuratis tuis! Theodori quidem nihil interest, humine an sublime putrescat. (Tusc. Qu. I. 43.)

7. Illustris mors Epaminondae, illustris Leonidae. Quorum alter quum vicisset Lacedaemonios apud Mantineam simulque ipse gravi vulnere exanimari se videret, ut primum dispexit, quaesivit, salvusne esset clypeus? Quum salvum esse flentes sui respondissent, rogavit, essentne fusi hostes? Quumque id quoque, ut cupiebat, audivisset, evelli jussit eam, qua erat transfixus, hastam. Ita multo sanguine profuso in laetitia et in victoria est mortuus. Leonidas autem, rex Lacedaemoniorum, se in Thermopylis trecentosque eos, quos eduxerat Sparta, quum esset proposita aut fuga turpis aut gloriosa mors, opposuit hostibus. Praeclarae mortes sunt imperatoriae. (De Finib. II. 30.)

8. Clarae mortes pro patria oppetitae, non solum gloriosae rhetoribus, sed etiam beatae videri solent. Repetunt ab Erechtheo, cujus etiam filiae cupide mortem expetiverunt pro vita civium: Codrum, qui se in medios immisit hostes veste famulari, ne posset agnosci, si esset ornatu regio; quod orarecepissent: ostendit eis in eodem cursu multas alias laborantes; quaesivitque, num etiam in his navibus Diagorâm vehi crederent. (De Nat. Deor. III. 37.)

4. Diogenes Cynicus dicere solebat, Harpalum, qui temporibus illis praedo felix habebatur, contra deos testimonium dicere, quod in illa fortuna tam diu viveret. (De Nat. Deor. III. 34.)

5. Dionysius quum fanum Proserpinae Locris expilavisset, navigabat Syracusas: isque quum secundissimo vento cursum teneret, ridens, videtisne, inquit, amici, quam bona a diis immortalibus navigatio sacrilegis detur? Idem quum ad Peloponnesum classem appulisset, et in fanum venisset Jovis Olympii, aureum ei detraxit amiculum grandi pondere, quo Jovem ornat ex manubiis Carthaginensium tyrannus Gelo. Atque in eo etiam cavillatus est, aestate grave esse aureum amiculum, hieme frigidum, eique laneum pallium injecit, quum id esse ad omne anni tempus diceret. Idemque Aesculapio Epidauri barbam auream demi jussit: neque enim convenire, barbatum esse filium, quum in omnibus fanis pater imberbis esset. (De Nat. Deor. l. c.)

6. Mensas argenteas idem de omnibus delubris jussit auferri: in quibus quod more veteris Graeciae inscriptum esset, Bonorum Deorum, uti se eorum bonitate velle dicebat. Idem Victoriolas aureas, et pateras coronasque, quae simulacrorum porrectis manibus sustinebantur, sine dubitatione tollebat, eaque se accipere, non auferre dicebat. Esse enim stultitiam, a quibus bona precaremur, ab iis porrigentibus et dantibus nolle sumere.

7. Eundemque ferunt haec, quae dixi, sublata de fanis in forum protulisse, et per praeconem vendidisse, exactaque pecunia edixisse, ut, quod quisque a sacris haberet, id ante diem certam in suum quodque fanum referret. Ita ad impietatem in deos, in homines adjunxit injuriam. (De Nat. Deor. l. c.)

V. Exempla praesagiorum de rebus futuris.

1. Apud Agathoclem scriptum in historia est, Hamilcarem Carthaginensem, quum oppugnaret Syracusas, visum esse audire vocem, se postridie coenaturum Syracusis; quum autem is dies illuxisset, magnam seditionem in castris ejus inter Poenos et Siculos milites esse factam: quod quum sensissent Syracusani, improvise eos in castra irrupisse, Hamilcaremque ab iis vivum esse sublatum. Ita res somnium comprobavit. (De Divinat. I. 24.)

2. Simonides quum ignotum quendam projectum mortuum vidisset, eumque humavisset, haberetque in animo navem conscendere, moneri visus est, ne id faceret, ab eo, quem sepultura affecerat: si navigasset, eum naufragio esse periturum. Itaque Simonidem rediisse dicunt, periisse caeteros, qui tum navigassent. (De Divinat. I. 27.)

3. Midae Phrygio, quum puer esset, dormienti formicae in os tritici grana congesserunt. Divitissimum fore praedictum est: quod evenit. At Platoni quum in cunis parvulo dormienti apes in labellis consedissent, responsum est, singulari illum suavitate orationis fore: ita futura eloquentia provisa in infante est. (De Divinat. I. 36.)

4. Quid? amores et deliciae tuae, Roscius, num aut ipse, aut pro eo totum Lanuvium mentiebatur? Qui quum esset in cunabulis, educareturque in Solonio, qui est campus agri Lanuvini, noctu, lumine appposito, experrecta nutrix animadvertit puerum dormientem circumplexatum serpentis amplexu: quo aspectu exterrita clamorem sustulit. Pater autem Roscii ad haruspices retulit: qui responderunt, nihil illo puero clarius, nihil nobilius fore. (De Divin. I. 36.)

5. L. Paullus consul iterum, quum ei bellum ut cum rege Perse gereret obtigisset, ut ea ipsa die domum ad vesperum rediit, filiulam suam Tertiam, quae tum erat admodum parva, osculans animadvertit tristiculam. Quid est, inquit, mea Tertia? quid tristis es? Mi pater, inquit, Persa periit. Tum ille arctius puellam complexus, accipio, inquit, mea filia, omen. Erat autem mortuus catellus eo nomine. (De Divin. I. 46.)

6. Bello illo maximo, quod Athenienses et Lacedaemonii summa inter se contentione gesserunt, Pericles ille et auctoritate et eloquentia et consilio princeps civitatis suae, quum obscurato Sole tenebrae factae essent repente, Atheniensiumque animos summus timor occupavisset, docuisse cives suos dicitur, id quod ipse ab Anaxagora, cujus auditor fuerat, acceperat, certo illud tempore fieri et necessario, quum tota se Luna sub orbem Solis subjecisset; idque fieri non posse nisi certo intermenstruo tempore. Quod quum disputando rationibusque docuisset, populum liberavit metu: erat enim tunc haec nova et ignota ratio, Solem Lunae oppositum solere deficere; quo Thaletem Milesium primum vidisse dicunt. (De Republ. I. 16.)

VI. Graecorum studia.

1. Honos alit artes, omnesque incenduntur ad studia gloria, jacentque ea semper, quae apud quosque improbantur. Summam eruditionem Graecia sitam censebant in nervorum vocumque cantibus. Igitur et Epaminondas, princeps meo iudicio Graeciae, fidibus praeclare cecinisse dicitur. Themistoclesque aliquot ante annis quum in epulis recusasset lyram, habitus est indoctior. Ergo in Graecia musici floruerunt, discabantque id omnes, nec qui nesciebat satis excultus doctrina putabatur. (Tusc. Quaest. I. 2.)

2. Secundis suis rebus unusquisque volet mori: non enim tam cumulus bonorum jucundus esse potest, quam molesta decessio. Hanc sententiam significare videtur Laconis illa vox, qui, quum Rhodius Diagoras, Olympionices nobilis, uno die duo suos filios victores Olympiae vidisset, accessit ad senem, et gratulatus, morere, Diagora, inquit, non enim in coelum adscensurus es.—Magna haec, et nimium fortasse Graeci putant, vel tum potius putabant; isque qui hoc Diagorae dixit, permagnum existimans, tres Olympionicas una e domo prodire, cunctari illum diutius in vita, fortunae objectum, inutile putabat ipsi. (Tusc. Qu. I. 46.)

VII. Acute dicta nonnulla.

1. Nasica quum ad poetam Ennium venisset, eique ab ostio quaerenti Ennium ancilla dixisset, domi non esse: Nasica sensit, illam domini jussu dixisse, et illum intus esse. Paucis post diebus quum ad Nasicam venisset Ennius, et eum a janua quaereret: exclamat Nasica: se domi non esse. Tum Ennius: Quid? ego non cognosco vocem, inquit, tuam?—Hic Nasica: homo es impudens: ego quum te quaererem, ancillae tuae credidi, te domi non esse: tu mihi non credis ipsi? (De Orator. II. 68.)

2. Scipioni majori coronam sibi in convivio ad caput accommodanti, quum ea saepius rumperetur, P. Licinius Varus, noli mirari, inquit, si non convenit: caput enim magnum est. (De Orator. II. 61.)

3. Orator quidam malus quum in epilogo misericordiam se movisse putaret, postquam assedit, rogavit Catulum: videreturne misericordiam movisse? Ac magnam quidem, inquit: neminem enim puto esse tam durum, cui non oratio tua miseranda visa sit. (De Orator. II. 69.)

4. Qu. Catulus quum a Philippo interrogaretur, quid latraret? furem se videre, respondit. (De Orator. II. 54.)

in concionem magna cum expectatione venit, dixitque: perutile esse consilium, quod Themistocles afferret, sed minime honestum. Itaque Athenienses, quod honestum non esset, id ne utile quidem putaverunt, totamque eam rem, quam ne audierant quidem, auctore Aristide repudiaverunt. (Offic. III. 11.)

III. Titi Torquati pietas.

Lucio Manlio, quum Dictator fuisset, Marcus Pomponius tribunus plebis, diem dixit, quod is paucos sibi dies ad Dictaturam gerendam addidisset. Criminabatur etiam, quod Titum filium, qui postea est Torquatius nominatus, ab hominibus relegasset, et rure habitare jussisset. Quod quum audisset adolescens filius negotium exhiberi patri, accurrisset Romam, et cum prima luce Pomponii domum venisse dicitur. Cui quum esset nuntiatum, quod illum iratum allaturum ad se aliquid contra patrem arbitraretur, surrexit e lectulo, remotisque arbitris, ad se adolescentem jussit venire.

At illē, ut ingressus est, confestim gladium destrinxit, juravitque, se illum statim interfectorum, nisi jusjurandum sibi dedisset, se patrem missum esse facturum. Juravit, hoc coactus terrore, Pomponius. Rem ad populum detulit: docuit, cur sibi causa desistere necesse esset: Manlium missum fecit. Tantum temporibus illis jusjurandum valebat. (Offic. III. 31.)

IV. Reguli in jurejurando conservando religio.

Attilius Regulus, primo Punico bello captus a Poenis, juratus missus est ad senatum Romanum, ut, nisi redditi essent Poenis captivi nobiles quidam, rediret ipse Carthaginem. Is, quum Romam venisset, in senatu mandata exposuit, sed reddi captivos, negavit esse utile: illos enim adolescentes esse, et bonos duces, se jam confectum senectute. Cujus quum valuisset auctoritas, captivi retenti sunt: ipse Carthaginem rediit; neque eum caritas patriae retinuit, nec suorum. Neque vero tum ignorabat, se ad crudelissimum hostem, et ad exquisita supplicia proficisci: sed jusjurandum conservandum putabat. (Offic. III. 26.)

V. Studio et disciplina vinci possunt innata vitia.

Stilponem, Megareum philosophum, acutum sane hominem et probatum temporibus illis accepimus. Hunc scribunt ipsius familiares, et ebriosum et mulierosum fuisse: neque hoc scribunt vituperantes, sed potius ad laudem. Vitiosam enim naturam ab eo sic edomitam et compressam esse doctrina, ut nemo unquam vinolentum illum, nemo in eo libidinis vestigium viderit. Quid? Socratem, nonne legimus, quemadmodum notarit Zopyrus, physiognomon, qui se profitebatur hominum mores naturasque ex corpore, oculis, vultu, fronte pernoscere? Stupidum esse Socratem dixit et bardum, quod jugula concavā non haberet; addidit etiam, mulierosum: in quo Alcibiades cachinnum dicitur sustulisse. Haec ex naturalibus causis vitia nasci possunt: extirpari autem et funditus tolli, ut is ipse, qui ad ea propensus fuerit, a tantis vitiis avocetur, non est id positum in naturalibus causis, sed in voluntate, studio, disciplina. (Fat. 5.)

VI. Labore et studio superantur impedimenta naturae.

Orator futurus imitetur illum, cui sine dubio summa vis dicendi conceditur, Atheniensem Demosthenem, in quo tantum studium fuisse tantusque labor dicitur, ut primum impedimenta naturae diligentia industriaque superarit; quumque ita balbus esset, ut ejus ipsius artis, cui studeret, primam litteram non posset dicere, perfecit meditando, ut nemo planius eo locutus putaretur: deinde quum spiritus ejus esset angustior, tantum continenda anima in dicendo est assecutus, ut una continuatione verborum (id quod ejus scripta declarant) binae ei contentiones vocis et remissiones continerentur: qui etiam, ut memoriae proditum est, coniectis in os calculis, summa voce versus multos uno spiritu pronuntiare consuescebat, neque id consistens in loco, sed inambulans, atque adscensū ingrediens arduo. (De Orat. I. 61.)

VII. Exemplum spectatae amicitiae.

Damonem et Pythiam, Pythagoreos, ferunt hoc animo inter se fuisse, ut, quum eorum alteri Dionysius tyrannus diem necis destinavisset, et is, qui morti addictus esset, paucos sibi dies commendandorum suorum causa postulavisset, vas factus sit alter ejus sistendi; ut, si ille non revertisset, moriendum esset ipsi. Qui quum ad diem se recepisset admiratus eorum fidem tyrannus petivit, ut se ad amicitiam tertium ascriberent. (Offic. III. 10.)

VIII. Timothei de coena apud Platonem iudicium.

Timotheum, clarum hominem Athenis, et principem civitatis, ferunt, quum coenavisset apud Platonem, eoque convivio admodum delectatus esset, vidissetque eum postridie, dixisse, vestrae quidem coenae non solum in praesentia, sed etiam postero die jucundae sunt. (Tusc. Qu. V. 35.)

IX. Philippus filio suo Alexandro largitionem exprobrat.

Praeclare epistola quadam Alexandrum filium Philippus accusat, quod largitione benevolentiam Macedonum consecetur. Quae te, malum, inquit, ratio in istam spem induxit; ut eos tibi fideles putares fore, quos pecunia corrupisses? An tu id agis, ut Macedones non te regem suum, sed ministrum et praebitorem sperent fore? (De Offic. II. 15.)

X. Socratis de beatitudine sententia.

XI. Phormio coram Hannibale de imperatoris officio disputat.

Quum Hannibal Carthagine expulsus Ephesum ad Antiochum venisset exsul, proque eo, quod ejus nomen erat magna apud omnes gloria, invitatus esset ab hospitibus suis, ut Phormionem, peripateticum, si vellet, audiret; quumque se non nolle dixisset; locutus esse dicitur homo copiosus, aliquot horas de imperatoris officio, et de omni re militari. Tum, quum caeteri, qui illum audierant, vehementer essent delectati, quaerebant ab Hannibale, quidnam ipse de illo philosopho iudicaret. Poenus non optime Graece, sed tamen libere respondisse fertur, multos se deliros senes saepe vidisse: sed qui magis, quam Phormio, deliraret, vidisse neminem. Neque mehercule injuria. Quid enim aut arrogantius, aut loquacius

Timotheum, clarum hominem Athenis, et principem civitatis, ferunt, quum coenavisset apud Platonem, eoque convivio admodum delectatus esset, vidissetque eum postridie, dixisse, vestrae quidem coenae non solum in praesentia, sed etiam postero die jucundae sunt. (Tusc. Qu. V. 35.)

IX. Philippus filio suo Alexandro largitionem exprobrat.

Praeclare epistola quadam Alexandrum filium Philippus accusat, quod largitione benevolentiam Macedonum consecetur. Quae te, malum, inquit, ratio in istam spem induxit; ut eos tibi fideles putares fore, quos pecunia corrupisses? An tu id agis, ut Macedones non te regem suum, sed ministrum et praebitorem sperent fore? (De Offic. II. 15.)

X. Socratis de beatitudine sententia.

Socrates, quum esset ex eo quaesitum, Archelaum, Perdiccae filium, qui tum fortunatissimus haberetur, nonne beatum putaret? haud scio, inquit; nunquam enim cum eo collocutus sum.—Ain' tu? an tu aliter id scire non potes?—Nullo modo.—Tu igitur ne de Persarum quidem rege magno potes dicere, beatusne sit?—An ego possim, quum ignorem, quam sit doctus, quam vir bonus?—Quid? tu in eo sitam vitam beatam putas?—Ita prorsus existimo, bonos, beatos; improbos, miseros.—Miser ergo Archelaus?—Certe, si injustus. (Qu. Tusc. V. 12.)

XI. Phormio coram Hannibale de imperatoris officio disputat.

Quum Hannibal Carthagine expulsus Ephesum ad Antiochum venisset exsul, proque eo, quod ejus nomen erat magna apud omnes gloria, invitatus esset ab hospitibus suis, ut Phormionem, peripateticum, si vellet, audiret; quumque se non nolle dixisset; locutus esse dicitur homo copiosus, aliquot horas de imperatoris officio, et de omni re militari. Tum, quum caeteri, qui illum audierant, vehementer essent delectati, quaerebant ab Hannibale, quidnam ipse de illo philosopho iudicaret. Poenus non optime Graece, sed tamen libere respondisse fertur, multos se deliros senes saepe vidisse: sed qui magis, quam Phormio, deliraret, vidisse neminem. Neque mehercule injuria. Quid enim aut arrogantius, aut loquacius fieri potuit, quam Hannibali, qui tot annos de imperio cum populo Romano omnium gentium victore certasset, Graecum hominem, qui numquam hostem, numquam castra vidisset, numquam denique minimam partem ullius publici muneris attigisset, praecepta de re militari dare? (De Orat. II. 18.)

XII. Cibi et potionis condimenta fames et sitis.

Quis non videt, desiderii condiri epulas? Darius in fuga, quum aquam turbidam, et cadaveribus inquinatam, bibisset, negavit umquam se bibisse jucundius. Numquam videlicet sitiens biberat. Nec esuriens Ptolemaeus ederat: cui quum peragranti Aegyptum, comitibus non consecutis, cibarius in casa panis datus esset, nihil visum est illo pane jucundius. Socratem ferunt, quum usque ad vesperum contentius ambularet, quaesitumque esset ex eo, quare id faceret; respondisse, se, quo melius coenaret, opsonare ambulando famem. Quid? victum Lacedaemoniorum in phiditiis nonne videmus? ubi quum tyrannus coenavisset Dionysius, negavit se jure illo nigro, quod coenae caput erat, delectatum. Tum is, qui illa coxerat: minime mirum: condimenta enim defuere. Quae tandem? inquit ille. Labor in venatu, sudor, cursus ad Eurotam, fames, sitis. His enim rebus Lacedaemoniorum epulae condiuntur. (Qu. Tusc. V. 34.)

XIII. Splendida tyrannorum miseria.

Dionysius major, Siciliae tyrannus, ipse indicavit, quam esset beatus. Nam quum quidam ex ejus assentatoribus, Damocles, commemoraret, in sermone copias ejus, opes, majestatem dominatus, rerum abundantiam, magnificentiam aedium regiarum, negaretque, unquam beatiorem quemquam fuisse: visne igitur, inquit, Damocle, quoniam haec te vita delectat, ipse eandem degustare, et fortunam experiri meam? Quum se ille cupere dixisset, collocari jussit hominem in aureo lecto, strato pulcherrime textili stragulo, magnificis operibus picto, abacosque complures ornavit argento auroque caelato. Tum ad mensam eximia forma pueros delectos jussit consistere, eosque nutum illius intuentes diligenter ministrare. Aderant unguenta, coronae: incendebantur odores, mensae exquisitissimis epulis exstruebantur. Fortunatus sibi Damocles videbatur. In hoc medio apparatu fulgentem gladium, e lacunari seta equina aptum, demitti jussit, ut impenderet illius beati cervicibus. Itaque nec pulchros illos ministratores adspiciebat, nec plenum artis argentum: nec manum porrigebat in mensam. Jam ipsae defluebant coronae. Denique exoravit tyrannum, ut abire liceret, quod jam beatus nollet esse. Satisne videtur declarasse Dionysius, nihil esse ei beatum, cui semper aliquis terror impendeat? (Tusc. Qu. V. 21.)

XIV. Dionysii tyranni ingenium.

Duodequadragesima annos tyrannus Syracusanorum fuit Dionysius, quum quinque et viginti annos natus dominatum occupavisset. Qua pulchritudine urbem, quibus opibus praeditam servitute oppressam tenuit civitatem! Atqui de hoc homine a bonis auctoribus sic scriptum accepimus, summam fuisse ejus in victu temperantiam, in rebusque gerendis virum acrem et industrium, eundem tamen maleficum natura et injustum. Ex quo omnibus, bene veritatem intuentibus, videri necesse est miserrimum. Ea enim ipsa, quae concupierat, ne tum quidem, quum omnia se posse censebat, consequeretur. Qui quum esset bonis parentibus atque honesto loco natus (etsi id quidem alius alio modo tradidit,) abundaretque aequalium familiaritatibus et consuetudine propinquorum: credebat eorum nemini; sed iis, quos ex familiis locupletum servos delegerat, quibus nomen servitutis ipse detraxerat, et quibusdam convenis et feris barbaris, corporis custodiam committebat. Ita propter injustam dominatus cupiditatem in carcerem quodammodo se ipse incluserat. Quin etiam, ne tonsori collum committeret, tondere filias suas docuit. Ita sordido ancillarique artificio regiae virgines, ut tonstriculae, tondebant barbam et capillum patris. Et tamen ab iis ipsis, quum jam essent adultae, ferrum removit, instituitque, ut candentibus juglandium putaminibus barbam sibi et capillum adurerent. Quumque duas uxores haberet, sic noctu ad eas ventitabat, ut omnia specularetur, et perscrutaretur ante. Et, quum fossam latam cubiculari lecto circumdedisset, ejusque fossae transitum ponticulo ligneo conjunxisset: eum ipsum, quum forem cubiculi clauserat, detorquebat. Idemque quum in communibus suggestis consistere non auderet, concionari ex alta turri solebat. Atque is, quum pila ludere vellet (studiose enim id factitabat) tunicamque poneret: adolescentulo tradidisse gladium dicitur. Hic, quum quidam familiaris: Huic quidem certe vitam tuam committis, arisissetque adolescens: utrumque jussit interfici: alterum, quia viam demonstravisset interimendi sui, alterum, quia id dictum risu approbavisset. Atque eo facto sic doluit, ut nihil gravius tulerit in vita. Quem enim vehementer amarat, occiderat.

quanti Pythius voluit, et emit instructos; nomina facit, negotium conficit. Invitat Canius postridie familiares suos: venit ipse mature: scalmum nullum videt. Quaerit ex proximo vicino, num feriae quaedam piscatorum essent, quod eos nullos videret? Nullae, quod sciam, inquit ille; sed hic piscari nulli solent. Itaque heri mirabar, quid accidisset. Stomachari Canius. Sed quid faceret? nondum enim Aquillius protulerat de dolo malo formulas. (Off. III. 14.)

XVIII. Inventor artis memoriae Simonides.

Gratiam habeo Simonidi illi Ceio, quem primum ferunt artem memoriae protulisse. Dicunt enim, quum coenaret Crannone in Thessalia Simonides apud Scopam, fortunatum hominem et nobilem, cecinissetque id carmen, quod in eum scripsisset, in quo multa ornandi causa, poetarum more, in Castorem scripta et Pollucem fuissent, nimis illum sordide Simonidi dixisse, se dimidium ejus ei, quod pactus esset pro illo carmine, daturum: reliquum a suis Tyndaridis, quos aequae laudasset, peteret, si ei videretur. Paulo post esse ferunt nuntiatum Simonidi, ut prodiret: juvenes stare ad januam duos quosdam, qui eum magnopere evocarent: surrexisse illum ipsum, prodiisse, vidisse neminem. Hoc interim spatio conclave illud, ubi epularetur Scopas, concidisse: ea ruina ipsum oppressum cum suis interiisse. Quos quum humare vellent sui, nec possent obtritos internoscere ullo modo: Simonides dicitur ex eo, quod meminisset, quo eorum loco quisque cubuisset, demonstrator uniuscujusque sepeliendi fuisse. Hac tum re admonitus invenisse fertur, ordinem esse maxime, qui memoriae lumen afferret. (De Orat. II. 86.)

XIX. Delus insula.

(Memoriae ae literis proditum est,) Latonam ex longo errore, et fuga, gravidam, et jam ad pariendum vicinam, temporibus exactis, confugisse Delum, atque ibi Apollinem Dianamque peperisse. Qua ex opinione hominum illa insula eorum deorum sacra putatur: tantaque ejus auctoritas religionis et est, et semper fuit, ut ne Persae quidem, quum bellum toti Graeciae, diis hominibusque, indixissent, et mille numero navium classem ad Delum appulissent, quidquam conarentur, aut violare, aut attingere. (In Verr. Act. II. I. 18.)

XX. Lautumiae Syracusanae.

Lautumias Syracusanas omnes audistis: plerique nostis. Opus est ingens, magnificum, regum, ac tyrannorum. Totum est ex saxo, in mirandam altitudinem depresso, et multorum operis penitus exciso. Nihil tam clausum ad exitus, nihil tam septum undique, nihil tam tutum ad custodias, nec fieri, nec cogitari potest. In has lautumias, si qui publice custodiendi sunt, etiam ex caeteris oppidis Siciliae deduci imperantur. (In Verr. Act. II. V. 27.)

XXI. Mithridates, ex Ponto profugiens, cum Medea comparatus.

Ex suo regno sic Mithridates profugit, ut ex eodem Ponto Medea illa quondam profugisse dicitur: quam praedicant in fuga fratris sui membra in iis locis, qua se parens persequeretur, dissipavisse, ut eorum collectio dispersa, moerorque patrius, celeritatem persequendi retardaret. Sic Mithridates fugiens maximam vim auri atque argenti, pulcherrimarumque rerum omnium, quas et a majoribus acceperat, et ipse bello superiore ex tota Asia direptas in suum regnum congesserat, in Ponto omnem reliquit. Haec dum nostri colligunt omnia diligentius, rex ipse e manibus effugit. Ita illum in persequendi studio moeror, hos laetitia, retardavit. (Pro Leg. Manil. 9.)

XXII. Caedes et furtum miro indicio deteguntur.

Strato medicus domi furtum fecit et caedem ejusmodi: Quum esset in aedibus armarium, in quo sciret esse nummorum aliquantum et auri: noctu duos conservos dormientes occidit, in piscinamque dejecit: ipse armarii fundum exsecuit, et sestertiū CL et auri quinque pondo abstulit, uno ex servis puero, non grandi, conscio. Furto postridie cognito, omnis suspicio in eos servos, qui non comparebant, commovebatur. Quum exsectio illa fundi in armario animadverteretur, quaerebant homines, quonam modo fieri potuisset? Quidam ex amicis Sasiae recordatus est, se nuper in autione quandam vidisse in rebus minutis aduncam, ex omni parte dentatam, et tortuosam, venire serrulam, qua illud potuisse ita circumsecari videretur. Ne multa: perquiritur a coactoribus. Invenitur ea serrula ad Stratonem pervenisse. Hoc initio suspicionis orto, et aperte insimulato Stratone, puer ille conscius pertimuit: rem omnem dominae indicavit; homines in piscina inventi sunt: Strato in vincula conjectus est, atque etiam in taberna ejus nummi, nequaquam omnes, reperiuntur.—Hoc uno modo saepe multorum improbitate depressa veritas emergit, et innocentiae defensio interclusa respirat: quod aut ii, qui ad fraudem callidi sunt, non tantum audent, quantum excogitant; aut illi, quorum eminent audacia atque projecta est, a consiliis malitiae deseruntur. Quod si aut confidens astutia, aut callida esset audacia, vix ullo obsisti modo posset. (Pro Cluentio 64. et 65.)

- 4 7. Artes ludicras, i. e. ad luxuriam magis, quam ad vitæ necessitatem pertinentes.
8. Araxes, a river of Armenia, which empties itself into the Caspian sea.
9. Omissis, i. e. neglectis, hostibus.
10. Insuetos, scil. vini, non adsuetos vino.
- 5 1. Cum hac exprobratione, i. e. hac exprobratione adjecta.
2. Quem sitisti, i. e. cujus fuisti sitiens. Sitire sanguinem, as sitire honores, instead of, vehementer cupere, avidum esse sanguinis.
3. Offensus superstitionibus. The Persians abhorred the Egyptian custom of worshipping beasts, as indeed all idolatry, since they offered their adoration only to the Sun, the Moon, and the Elements.
4. Apis, a god of the Egyptians, worshipped under the form of an ox. He had a magnificent temple at Memphis.
5. Templum. A sacred place in an Oasis of the Libyan desert, a resting-place for the caravans, and a famous oracle.
6. Per quietem, i. e. dormiens, somnians.
7. Parricidium, "the murder of any near relation."
8. Cunctantesque, ne. Understood before ne, prae metu. The idea of apprehension is conveyed by the word cunctantes.
- 6 1. Fortuna ita regente, i. e. fortuna percussoris ictum ita moderante, ut Gobryæ corpus non tangeret, sed magum interficeret.
2. Haec res, i. e. equi hinnitus ad solis ortum.
3. Nihil negotii superesse existima, i. e. jam totum illud negotium sic uti optas, actum et transactum puta.
4. Pridie const. diem, i. e. pridie ante const. diem.
5. Ad eundem locum, where the experiment was to be made.
6. Firmaturus. Eo consilio, ut firmaret regnum, matrimonio juncto cum filia regis, regni Persarum auctoris seu conditoris.
7. Regi se inopin. offert, i. e. in conspectum regis venit, qui nihil tale suspicatus fuerat.
8. Transfugae titulo, i. e. se transfugam esse simulans.
9. De fide, i. e. de veritate eorum, quae narrabat.
- 7 1. Scythis. The north of Asia was known to the Greeks and Romans by the generic name of Scythia, and divided into Scythia intra and extra Imaum, that is, on either side of Mount Imaus.
2. Ister, the Greek name for the river which the Romans called Danubius. The former name was used especially to denote the eastern part of the river.
3. Trepidus, magna cum festinatione, nec timoris expers.
4. Ionibus. The Ionians were a Grecian colony in Asia Minor, on the coast of the Aegæan.
5. Narrabitur. See within, C. cap. 5, 6.
6. Campus Marathonius, a plain in Attica.
7. Et in regno et ante regnum, "both during his reign and previous to its commencement."
8. Susceptis, i. e. natis et educatis.
9. Domi, i. e. privatim, not before the usual tribunal.
10. Contentio. Haec contentio tam fraterna (i. e. tam fraternis animis decertata) fuit.
11. Eique apparatus, i. e. eique parando.
12. Dux, emphatically, a leader, such as he ought to be.
13. Thermopylae, a small pass leading from Thessaly into Locris, Phocis, and the southern parts of Greece. It has a part of the chain of Mount Oeta on the west, and the sea on the east, with deep and dangerous marshes, being in the narrowest part only 25 feet in breadth.

1. Hortatur, recedant. After hortari and similar verbs ut is often omitted.

2. Ante congressionem, i. e. antequam cum Graecis navali praelio congrederetur.

3. Delphi, in Phocis, at the foot of Mount Parnassus, one of the most celebrated oracles in Greece.

4. Quam nullae, &c. ut homines intelligerent, quam vanae nulliusque momenti hominum vires essent adversus deos.

5. Thespiæ and Plataeae, towns in Boeotia.

6. Athenae, the capital of Attica.

7. Non poterat, scil. grassari.

8. Salamis, an island in the Saronicus Sinus (now the Gulf of Engia), near the coast of Attica.

9. Statuta, i. e. in statione collocata.

10. Halicarnassus, a town of Caria, in the south-west of Asia Minor; it was governed by kings, and was tributary to the Persians.

11. Cum rege, i. e. cum regis copiis conjuncti.

12. Hellespontus, now the Dardanelles, a strait between Asia and Thrace, connecting the Propontis with the Aegaeon. Xerxes had built across this a bridge of boats.

1. Abȳdos, a town on the Asiatic shore of the Hellespont; Sestos was opposite. 9

2. Mycale, a promontory of Ionia.

3. Cimon, son of Miltiades.

4. Cyprus, an island in the Mediterranean, tributary to the Persians.

5. Phoenicia, a country on the coast of the Mediterranean. A great part of the Persian fleet consisted of Phoenician ships.

6. Pausanias, the conqueror of Mardonius at Plataeae.

1. Darius, an older son of Xerxes. 10

2. Qui, i. e. hic autem.

3. Recogniturus, i. e. simulans, se recogniturum esse.

4. Vindicare caedem is equivalent to ulcisci: vindicare se ab insidiis, is equivalent to servare se, et insidias vitare.

5. Inclinari, i. e. ad ruinam vergere.

6. Patris judicium: haec patris suprema voluntas, testamento prodita, qua Artaxerxes, patre adhuc privato genitus, ipse praeferebatur.

7. In praelio, near Cunaxa, a place of Assyria, 500 stadia from Babylon.

8. Quidem—autem, like the Gr. μέν—δέ.

9. Equi fuga, i. e. velocitas.

1. Revertuntur. This is the famous retreat of the ten thousand Greeks, (described by Xenophon), from the interior of Asia to the Aegaeon, which they made through unknown and hostile nations, although constantly harassed by a Persian army. 11

2. Parricidii, scil. quod molitus fuerat.

3. Conjuges. It was customary among the Persians to put to death the families of traitors, together with the criminal himself.

4. Cadusii, a people of the most northerly region of Media, on the Caspian sea.

5. Decora, the consequence instead of the cause, as often laus for laudabile factum; properly ob egregium hoc facinus, quod ei laudem et decora paraverat.

1. Incrementis, i. e. magnitudine sua, qua florentibus jam rebus suis utebantur. 12

- 12 2. Sordibus. Justin may be considered as alluding here to the origin of the Roman state.
3. Innata solo. They styled themselves αὐτοχθόνες, indigenae.
4. Lanificii et olci. The olive was first produced here by Minerva, the tutelar goddess of the Athenians; to her they were also indebted for the art of weaving.
5. Vini. Bacchus taught the mode of cultivating the vine to the Athenian Icarius.
6. Serere frumenta. Triptolemus, son of Celeus, king of Eleusis, was taught agriculture by Ceres, and made it known throughout the world. Previously mankind had subsisted on acorns and other wild fruits.
7. Glandem vesci, instead of glande vesci.
8. Leges et civilis disciplina. These they considered also as the gift of Ceres, whence they styled her θεσμοφόρος.
9. Superfuerunt, etc. i. e. ii tantum servati sunt, qui in montes se receperunt; or, omnes perierunt, praeter eos, qui in montes confugerunt.
10. Aut. After aut understand qui.
11. Thessalia, an extensive country in the north of Greece, having on its northern boundary the Cambunii Montes, on the western the chain of Pindus; on its southern that of Oeta, and in the north-west Olympus.
12. Initia, (τέλη) "the sacred rites, or mysteries, of Ceres."
13. Noctes initiorum sacratae, i. e. mysteria, noctu habenda, instituta sunt.
14. Theseus was distinguished by many glorious actions, but especially by the destruction of the Minotaur.
15. Adversus Trojanos. Homer makes Menestheus, not Demophon, leader of the Athenians in the Trojan war.
16. Dorienses, a branch of the Hellenes, who originally dwelt in the north of Hellas near Mt. Oeta.
17. Superiores, etc. instead of victoriam reportaturos esse (ni instead of nisi) si regem non occidissent.
18. Custodia regis, i. e. ut caverent, ne regem Atheniensium occiderent.
19. Permutato, instead of deposito, alioque (pauperis hominis habitu) sumto.
- 13 1. Regnavit, i. e. rex fuit. After the death of Codrus, the state was governed by perpetual Archons, of whom there were thirteen in succession. After the death of Alcmaeon, they were appointed for ten years; and finally nine archons, instead of one, were appointed annually; (annui magistratus).
2. Nullae leges. The institutions of Draco were not observed on account of their excessive severity, so that the state seemed destitute of laws.
3. Deformis, instead of deformatus; sumto habitu, quo deformis videretur.
4. Vicissitudines. Pisistratus was more than once banished.
- 14 1. Religione. The Lacedaemonians had agreed to send aid to the Athenians, but would not march before full moon. They believed that this planet had a particular influence on their affairs, and could aid them only when in the height of its splendour.
2. Campi Marathonii, the plains about the village of Marathon, a village situated on the eastern coast of Attica.
3. Locus non aequus, i. e. iniquus; as tempus aequum instead of aptum.

- 16 is more usual in the ancient authors. The Greeks wrote Πείραιος, sometimes also τὸ Πείραιον.
4. Dignitate, i. e. splendore et magnificentia.
 5. Ultero. The Greeks, who had hitherto acted on the defensive, now commenced an offensive war.
 6. Byzantium, now Constantinople, situate on the Bosphorus Thracius, which connects the Propontis with the Euxine. The Persians had taken possession of this city.
 7. Eretriensem, "of Eretria," a town of the island Euboea.
 8. Misit. The perfect is used in letters to express an action which is present to the writer, but considered as past in relation to the reader. Combine thus: Pausanias misit tibi eos, quos Byz. ceperat, postquam cognovit eos propinquos tuos esse.
- 17
1. Certum, i. e. cui confidere possit.
 2. Face (an old form instead of fac, which here renders the sentence more harmonious than fac would), mittas instead of cura ut mittas, and this for mitte.
 3. Salute, i. e. libertate recuperata.
 4. Collaudat, i. e. valde laudat.
 5. Si fecerit, etc. i. e. si rem perfecerit, nihil esse, quod a se non sit impetraturus.
 6. Chalcioecus, "the brazen temple," or, "that has a brazen house or temple." Quae refers either to aedes or Minerva, and the epithet χαλκίοικος applies as well to the goddess as to the temple.
 7. Ephōri, the most powerful magistrates at Sparta, who were first created by Lycurgus. They were five in number, and held their office for a year. They were much the same as the tribunes of the people at Rome, appointed to watch with a jealous eye over the liberties and rights of the populace. Hence their name ἔφοροι, "overseers," from ἐφορᾶν "to oversee, inspect."
 8. In primis, etc. i. e. inter primos fuisse, qui lapides afferrent.
 9. Testarum suffragiis, "by the Ostracism" (Ὀστρακισμὸς, "the act of voting with the shells," from ὄστρακον, testa, "a tile, a shell,") so called from the shells, or earthen tiles, on which the citizens wrote their votes. He, whose name was written on a majority of the tiles or shells given in, was banished from his country for ten years.
 10. Argos, (τὸ Ἄργος, in the singular a neuter, in the plural a masculine), the principal city of Argolis, in the Peloponnesus.
 11. Hoc crimine, i. e. hac criminatione.
 12. In domum tuam, scil. in Xerxem, patrem tuum, et omnino in Persas.
 13. Ille expertus est, scil. Xerxes.
 14. De his rebus, i. e. quod attinet ad has res.
 15. Annum temporis, instead of tempus unius anni.
- 18
1. Animi magnitudinem, the courage and resolution which he displayed in throwing himself upon the protection of an enemy.
 2. Omne illud tempus, the whole year allowed him.
 3. Commodius, i. e. disertius, majore facilitate et elegantia.
 4. Asia, Asia Minor.
 5. Magnesia, a town in Lydia.
 6. Desperaret. According to others, because his returning love for his native land prevented him from performing his promise.
 7. Acerbitatem, i. e. severitatem.
 8. Confirmavit, "he confirmed in their good will those who were well disposed towards the Athenians."
 9. Alienatas, "those who had separated from the Athenians."

10. Scyros, an island in the Aegean, lying east of Euboea.
11. Civibus, i. e. Atheniensibus eo missis.
12. Thasos, an island near the southern coast of Macedonia, opposite the mouth of the Nestus.
13. His manubiis, a concise form of expression for praeda, in his expeditionibus facta.
14. Qua, i. e. ea parte, qua.
15. Quam, instead of in quam. - The preposition is often omitted with the relative, when it has been a little before expressed with the demonstrative.
16. Desiderium, scil. apud Athenienses.
17. Post annum quintum, quam expulsus erat, i. e. quinto anno postquam expulsus fuerat.
18. Satius, i. e. melius, utilius.
19. Contendere, i. e. se conferre.
20. Sua sponte, opposed to publice, "without a public commission, of his own authority."
1. Incrementa invidentibus. Sparta envied the greatness and progressive increase (incrementa) of Athens, her rival (aemula urbs), for precedence. 19
2. Saepius susceptum et dep. est. The Peloponnesian war lasted, with various interruptions, from Olymp. 87. 1. to Ol. 93. 3. a period of 27 years.
3. Navali proelio, off Naupactus, in the Sinus Corinthiacus (G. of Lepanto), under the command of Phormio.
4. Post plures annos. In the ninth year of the war.
5. Sociorum persona, instead of per socios.
6. Catina or Catana at the foot of Aetna. The inhabitants of this town were called Catanenses, Catinienses, and Catinenses.
1. Secundo Marte, i. e. felici successu. 20
2. De belli inclinatio statu, "concerning the unfavourable turn of the war." Inclinatus is used in opposition to rectus, firmus.
3. Quo cognito, i. e. quod quum cognovissent.
4. Graeciae bellum, i. e. bellum quod civitates Graeciae inter se gerabant.
5. Ex utraque parte, scil. Lacedaemoniorum et Atheniensium.
6. Inter angustias maris, where the Athenian fleet could not extend itself sufficiently.
1. Elis, a town in a district of the same name in the Peloponnesus. 21
2. Thebae, the capital of Boeotia.
3. Eumolpidae, the priests of Ceres at the celebration of her festivals of Eleusis. The Eumolpidae were descended from Eumolpus, a king of Thrace, who was made priest of Ceres by Erechtheus king of Athens. The priesthood continued in the family for 1200 years.
4. Decelia, Δεκέλεια, on the boundaries of Boeotia and Attica.
5. Tempus, scil. opportunum, opportunitatem.
6. Regem fore. The accusative with the infinitive depends upon dixit, the idea of which is contained in persuadet.
7. Ne externis vacet, i. e. ne otium Graecis suppetat ad externa bella gerenda.
8. Maligne, i. e. parce.
9. Samos, one of the Sporades, off the coast of Ionia. At that time almost all the Athenian fleet was stationed here.
1. Imperium transfertur. This is the revolution of Pisander, which occurred, Ol. 92. 1. By this revolution the government was taken from the people and committed to 400 tyrants, thereby changing the 22

22 previously existing democracy into an oligarchy. After a few months the oligarchy was in turn abolished, in the accomplishment of which the friends of Alcibiades were particularly active.

2. Patria liberata, since he had abolished the oligarchy and restored the democracy.

3. Viguerant, more expressive than fuerant.

4. Tribus navalibus, especially in that of Cyzicus, which made the Athenians masters of the Hellespont, and compelled the Lacedaemonians to abandon the whole sea.

5. Consilio, i. e. prudentiâ, "by his prudent conduct."

6. Adversas superiores, i. e. calamitates, quibus superioribus temporibus afflicti essent.

7. Coronis donabatur. Crowns were given, as marks of distinction, to citizens who had deserved well of their country. This seems to have been practised towards Olympic victors at their home, since a state thought itself peculiarly fortunate when one of its citizens obtained a prize in the higher games. It was usual in such cases, upon the entry of the victor, to heap upon him flowers and wreaths.

8. Resacrare or resecrare, liberare ab imprecationibus, revocatis diris.

23 1. Dum populiatur. According to others, Alcibiades had left the fleet in order to procure subsidies, and the generals, whom he left in command, risked an engagement contrary to orders.

2. Aegos flumen (Αἰγὸς ποταμὸς), i. e. "the goat's river," a stream in the Thracian Chersonese, with a town called Aegos at its mouth.

3. Inclinata est, i. e. prostrata est.

4. Nec aliud ditionis Atheniensium, instead of nec quidquam, quod in ditione Atheniensium fuit.

5. Requirere. The infinitives currere, sciscitari, requirere, are used in place of the finite verb. This is called the historical infinitive, and is much employed in animated narration.

6. Cum privatis casibus quer. pub. misc. instead of dum de suis quisque casibus queritur, etiam reipublicae calamitatem deflet.

24 1. Decem viros, "decemvirates," δεκαδρχίαι, by which the democratical constitution was abolished, and an oppressive aristocracy introduced.

2. Nomen Athen. a circumlocution for the Athenians, like nomen Romanum for the Romans.

3. Negarunt, se passuros, i. e. dixerunt, se non passuros.

4. Ex duobus oculis. Sparta and Athens were the two eyes of Greece.

5. Longi muri brachia, τὰ σκέλη τοῦ μακροῦ τείχους. So they called the double walls, which connected the Piraeus with Athens, and enclosed the way which led to it.

6. Triginta rectores, as if a triple decemvirate.

7. Mutari. Since the people had lost all their rights, the laws were given by an oligarchy, and the execution of their decrees was entrusted to mercenaries.

8. A victoribus, i. e. Lacedaemoniis.

9. Exhaustam, etc. urbem bello exhaustam caedibus et rapinis conficiunt.

10. Theramenes had been very active in the transactions with Sparta, and above all, had co-operated in effecting the adoption of the hard conditions proposed by the Lacedaemonians, but at a later period resisted the violent measures of his colleagues.

11. Domesticum terrorem, scil. imminentia a tyrannis pericula.

12. Phrygia, a country of Asia Minor, of great extent.

6. Vir melior, instead of utrum vir melior. The omission of the first interrogative is not unusual
7. Accipere, scil. ex honoribus.
- 31 1. Muneris, i. e. beneficii a capris accepti.
2. Aegae, from αἴξ, αἰγός, a goat.
3. Mortis postrema, instead of mors, rerum omnium postrema; as in the language of Homer, τέλος θανάτου.
4. Praefatus, i. e. dicens.
5. Stirpem, scil. stirpem regum illius familiae. After the death of Alexander, the government of Macedonia devolved upon his generals.
6. Thracibus et Illyriis. The Thracians and Illyrians were the nearest neighbours of the Macedonians, the former on the east, the latter on the west. They were both rude and warlike nations.
- 32 1. Regem, emphatically; a king, such as he should be.
2. Sustulit, i. e. suscepit et educavit.
3. Olynthus, a celebrated town and republic of Macedonia, in the district of Chalcidice, north of the peninsula of Pallene, and at the head of the Toronaicus Sinus, or Gulf of Cassandria.
4. Occupatus fuisset, i. e. oppressus fuisset.
5. Alexander occubuit. Diodorus (XV, 71) and others relate that he was murdered by Ptolemy Alorites, his younger brother, who held the kingdom for four years, and made way for Perdiccas and Philip.
6. Pari . . . decipitur. According to Diodorus (XVI, 2) and others he was slain by the Illyrians.
7. Serumque . . . erat, i. e. neque exspectari poterat, donec puer adultus auxilium ferre posset.
8. Hinc, i. e. ab una parte, scil. a matre Eurydice.
9. Immaturam . . . urgeret, i. e. adulescentem immaturae adhuc aetatis premeret.
- 33 1. Redemit, i. e. pecunia data terminavit.
2. Amphipolis, an Athenian colony on the Strymon, between Macedonia and Thrace.
3. Bello . . . caedit. Philip with an army of 10,000 foot soldiers and 600 horsemen, slew 7,000 of 10,000 foot soldiers and 500 horsemen, whom Bardylis, king of the Illyrians, had brought against him. Upon this a treaty of peace was made, by which Philip recovered from the Illyrians all the cities that had been previously taken from the kingdom of Macedon, Diodor. XVI. 4.

4. Thessalorum equitum. The Thessalian horses were universally esteemed.

5. Methona, a town of Macedonia, on the Thermaicus Sinus, in the province of Pieria, above Pydna. Diodorus makes this to have been the third time that Philip had besieged this town.

6. Jacta sagitta, by Aster, whose offer of his services had been slighted by Philip.

7. Interjectis diebus, i. e. post-aliquot dies.

8. Inferioribus, i. e. imbecillioribus.

9. Coronas laureas, as tokens that they were devoted to the service of Apollo, to whom the laurel was sacred.

10. Duos fratres ejus. Aridaeus and Menelaus, sons of Amyntas by his second wife.

1. In Thracia. Especially in the vicinity of Crenides, afterwards called Philippi. 34

2. Fratres duo, scil. Berisades and Amadocus, sons of Cotys, a Thracian king.

3. Adhibitis, i. e. ad causam suam defendendam assumtis.

4. Bellum deprecabantur, i. e. bellum a se avertere conabantur.

5. His, scil. Phocensibus.

2. In campis Adrastiae, a plain near the Granicus, a river of Mysia.
3. Asiae, i. e. of Asia Minor.
4. Gordius, a Phrygian, who, though originally a peasant, was raised to the throne. He consecrated in the temple of Jupiter the wagon in which he was riding when saluted king.
5. Tarsus, a town in Cilicia, the most southern province of Asia Minor.

39

1. Indubitato, i. e. certo.
2. Divitiarum, scil. quae illis ex praeda hostium obventurae essent.
3. Nec inven. &c. instead of nullas vires inventas esse pares illorum viribus.

40

1. Sidoniae, scil. urbis. Sidon, the oldest and most powerful city of Phoenicia, five geographical miles north of Tyrus, on the sea-coast.
2. Spretis; i. e. posthabitis.
3. Ne...putarent, i. e. ne cives hujus urbis existimarent, regem, ipsis datum, hoc beneficium nobilitati generis sui potius, quam Alexandri voluntati debere.

4. Tyrus, the great trading town of the Phoenicians. This commercial city consisted of two parts or towns; one of them was built on the main land, and called Palaetyros; the other, on a small island opposite to it. Its ancient Phoenician name, Tzur, is retained in the modern Sur. Hercules was the chief deity of the place

5. Ammon. See above, B. cap. 9. note 5.
6. Alexandria. See Part First, p. 56, n. 8.
7. Babyloniam profugisset. After the battle of Issus.
8. Faciat. Understand ut after precatur.
9. Sua sibi dari, i. e. his oblatis conditionibus nihil sibi offerri, quod non jam teneret.
10. Regni arbitria, i. e. arbitrium de regno, quam ejus partem ipse sibi servaturus, quamque Dario relicturus esset.

41

1. Euphrates, one of the most considerable rivers in Asia, which rises in a part of the most northern branch of Taurus, and, flowing about 1400 British miles, finally empties itself into the Persian Gulf. In its course it washes the skirts of Syria, and divides Arabia, and also Chaldaea and Babylonia, from Mesopotamia.

2. Gaugamela, a village near Arbela, beyond the Tigris, where Alexander obtained his third victory over Darius. Gaugamela being an obscure place, the battle was named after Arbela.

3. Persepolis, a celebrated city, the capital of the Persian empire. The ruins of Persepolis, now Estaker, or Shehel-Minar, still astonish the modern traveller by their grandeur and magnificence.

4. Cognovit, i. e. audivit.

42

1. Hyrkania, a large country of Asia, situate to the south of the eastern part of the Caspian sea.

2. Mardi, a people of Persia, on the confines of Media.

- 51 1. Minimo natu ex filiis. To Ptolemy Philadelphus.
 2. Strenue, i. e. forti animo.
 3. Moritur. Lysimachus fell in a bloody battle, fought in Phrygia, near the Hellespont.
 4. Ptolemaeus Ceraunus, son of Ptolemy Soter, was prevented succeeding to the throne of Egypt by his father's partiality for his younger brother Philadelphus. He fled to the court of Seleucus in Macedonia, and, notwithstanding the kindness of his reception, perfidiously murdered his protector, and ascended his throne, B. C. 280.
 5. Antiochus, the son of Seleucus.
 6. Antigonus Gonatas, the son of Demetrius Poliorcetes.
 7. Campus Cirrhaeus, so called from Cirrha, a maritime town of Phocis, at the top of the Sinus Crissaeus, serving as a port to Delphi, and being 60 stadia distant from it.
- 52 1. Romam incendit, after the battle fought at the Allia, in which the Romans were totally defeated, B. C. 387. See Part I. V. Lib. I. Cap. 32.
 2. Pannonia, a large country of Europe, bounded on the north by the Danube, east by Upper Moesia, south by Dalmatia, and west by Noricum. In the time of Antonine it was divided into Superior and Inferior, the former answering to part of Hungary, the latter to Sclavonia.
 3. Saucii, i. e. ebrii. Saucius is used of every kind of hurt or damage; thus it is applied to a drunken man, qui mente non est integra.
- 53 1. Diis antesignanis, i. e. diis ipsis ducentibus.
 2. Brevi, scil. tempore.
 3. Statuta, i. e. Constituta, composita.

- 55 1. Antiochus, surnamed Hierax.
 2. Supra aetatem avidus, i. e. avidior quam pueri hac aetate esse solent.
 3. Amisso regno. He had been for some time a prisoner in Parthia.
 4. Doson, Δῶσων, Daturus, from his promising much, and giving nothing.
 5. Dardani, a northern tribe of Upper Moesia, inhabiting the territory now called Servia.

1. Victi Lacedaemonii. This battle was fought in the vicinity of Sellasia, a town in Laconia, north-east of Sparta. 56
2. Saluti. Instead of vitae.
3. Ad Ptolemaeum, to Ptolemy Evergētes, who had aided him against the leaders of the Achaean league.
4. A filio ejus. The 4th Ptolemy, son of Evergētes, was surnamed Philopātor.
5. Seleucus, the 3d, surnamed Ceraunus, by antiphrasis, as he was a very weak and irresolute monarch. He was son of Seleucus the 2d, surnamed Callinīcus.
6. Antiochus, brother of Seleucus Ceraunus, though only 15 years old when he ascended the throne, rendered himself so celebrated that he acquired the name of Great.
7. Philopātor, by antiphrasis; Φιλοπάτωρ, parentum amans.
1. Imperium totius orbis spe complexi, i. e. sperantes, fieri posse, ut imperio orbis terrarum potirentur; or, imperio totius terrarum orbis inhiantes. 57
2. Illi, (scil. regi Philippo) i. e. in Philippo gratiam; regno (in the ablative) a Romanis occupato. So below, C. 68. Ut Rex Asiā Romanis cederet.
3. Gratius habiturus, &c. i. e. se malle socium (Philippum) quam hostes (Romanos) in imperii sui possessione videre.
4. Minus negotii, i. e. id bellum facilius profligari posse.
5. Trasimēnus, or Trasymēnus, or Thrasymēnus, now the lake of Perugia, a lake of Italy near Perugia, celebrated for a battle fought there between Annibal and the Romans under Flaminius, B.C. 217.
1. Injurias Philippi, instead of de injuriis a Philippo acceptis. 58
2. Titulo, i. e. sub praetextu.
1. Abstineret. Understand ut. 59
2. Scripsit, i. e. per literas imperavit, ut.
3. Assiduo colloquio, i. e. Crebris sermonibus cum Hannibale mixtis; frequente cum eo colloquendi occasione quaesita.
4. Reconciliatam ejus cum Romanis gratiam, instead of reconciliatum ejus cum Romanis animum; vel, eum cum Romanis in gratiam rediisse.
5. Congressione, near Thermopylae in Greece.
6. Praelium committitur, near Phocaea, on the coast of Asia Minor.
1. Ilion. Where formerly Troja (Ilium) stood. 60
2. Post praelium commissum, near Magnesia, in Lydia.
3. Ambiguo, i. e. utrimque imminente.
4. Aetoli. The Aetolians rendered themselves conspicuous, as the allies of Rome, in the war against Philip of Macedon; but when they did not receive the whole of his kingdom as their reward, they went over to their former enemies.
1. Velut in illo omne bellum confecissent, i. e. quasi illo capto, omne bellum confectum esset. Philopoemen was one of the greatest generals of his age. He has been styled the last of the Greeks. 61

 9. Quam victo, quam si victus esset.
- 63
1. Proelium. This battle was fought near Pydna, in Macedonia.
 2. Samothracia, now Samanaraki or Mandraki, an island in the Aegaeen sea, opposite the mouth of the Hebrus, on the coast of Thrace.
 3. Conspirationem. In a good sense, "unanimity."
 4. Praedam, non proelium agitantes, i. e. non de proelio, sed de praeda cogitantes.
 5. Proelio commisso. Near Leucopetra, on the Isthmus of Corinth.
- 64
1. Novarum rerum. A milder expression for seditionum.
 2. Attalus, the third. He reigned only five years.
 3. Summittit. Instead of promittit.
 4. Parthia, the country of the Parthi, was a small province south-east of the Caspian sea. In this restricted sense, Parthia must not be confounded with what the ancients called the Parthian empire. This last was of vast extent, being bounded on the east by the Indus, on the west by the Tigris, on the south by the Mare Erythraeum, and on the north by Caucasus.
 5. Binis bellis. Orōdes, a prince of Parthia, defeated Crassus, the Roman triumvir. His son and successor, Phraates the 4th, made war against M. Antony with great success, and obliged him to retire with much loss.
 6. Non pares solum, scil. Romanis.
- 65
1. Sui moris, i. e. ipsis propria et peculiaris.
 2. Fluida, "flowing, loose, very wide."
 3. Ut incautiores adversus vulnera insequentes habeant, i. e. eam ob causam, ut insequentes hostes minus a vulneribus caveant. The art which the Parthians possessed of discharging their arrows while retiring at full speed, gained them many victories.
