PREFACE

By Asher Carter Baker, Director of Exhibits.

A modern, universal exposition is an encyclopedia of man's words and works. It is a collection of the achievements and productivity of man for examination by the International Jury of Awards, and constitutes a compact, classified, indexed compendium of man's activity in all phases, extending from the most material to the most refined products. It is estimated that a million objects are exposed in the various displays installed within the palaces, and in the foreign, state and special pavilions. To properly classify, group and arrange all the exhibits of an exposition of such international scope, is a task of such magnitude that it was impossible to provide a complete catalogue of these exhibits on the opening day of the Exposition.

This revised and complete edition of the official catalogue is therefore presented. In realization of its extraordinary value as a document of general and commercial reference, special care has been given to its preparation, so that it constitutes a full list of the infinite variety of interesting exhibits which are the concrete evidences of the industrial, educational and artistic advancement of the world.

Acknowledgment is hereby offered of the excellent co-operation received in the compilation of this catalogue from the Commissioners-General of participating nations, officers of State Commissions, individual exhibitors, and more particularly the various officers of the Division of Exhibits, as also from the Official Catalogue Company, the publishers of this catalogue.

INTRODUCTION

Department of Education

BY

Alvin E. Pope, Chief

The compelling force that attracts the public to an Exposition is the educational value of its exhibits. Education in its broadest sense is the theme of the entire Panama-Pacific International Exposition. The far-reaching effect of educational influence in stimulating and directing future progress alone justifies the enormous expenditure of time, effort and money involved in this endeavor; the Department of Education is therefore expected to establish the standard for the educational movement.

The Palace of Education, situated at the extreme western end of the exhibit building area, is 396 feet by 526 feet and was erected at a cost of $425,610.00 It fronts on Administration Avenue and on the east is the Court of Palms, designed by George W. Kelham. At the entrance to this Court on each side is a tower of Italian Renaissance, 200 feet in height. Between the two towers stands the magnificent statue "The End of the Trail."

Education, domestic and foreign, occupies one-half of the floor space in the Palace of Education, the other half being devoted to exhibits in Social Economy.

Domestic Exhibits were secured by invitation, the policy of the Department being to request each exhibitor to confine his exhibit to one distinct system or process in which he excelled; to some definite lesson which he was capable of teaching the world; to present complete information on his particular subject which would be of interest and benefit to the visitors to an international exposition. These invitations were restricted in order to avoid duplication and these special exhibits were so assembled as to portray the salient features of Modern American Education. We have outgrown the old style educational display consisting of comprehensive, duplicate exhibits, composed chiefly of pupils' work; therefore it has been the aim and endeavor of the Department to have each exhibitor deal with the fundamental principles of education, illustrating the means used to develop a child into the highest type of citizenship. Foreign countries and Insular Possessions have followed the general policy of the Department in regard to the arrangement of exhibits.

Demonstrating classes will show the actual processes of education in operation. These classes will cover nearly every subject of education treated by an exhibit. For the first time in exposition history motion pictures will play an important part in Education. The demonstrating classes will find a rival in these pictures which will illustrate the various processes of education from the leading schools of the country.

By securing the co-operation of exhibitors in following the principles herein outlined; by arranging the exhibits for the benefit of the visitors instead of the exhibitors, the Department hopes to be of great assistance in improving international educational conditions. It hopes to have a definite message to all lines of educational and scientific thought. It hopes to produce a world-wide effect on the education of the future. It hopes to assist in making useful citizens of the boys and girls of today.

HOW TO LOCATE AN EXHIBIT

The Palace of Education is laid out in blocks, which are consecutively numbered from 1 to 34, inclusive, as shown on the floor plan. The aisles are designated as streets (First to Sixth), running north to south, and as avenues (A to E), from east to west. To locate an exhibitor refer to the names, alphabetically arranged under the exhibit group to which each belongs in the official classification, and note the aisles location following each name. Street and Avenue signs are erected at their intersection on the corners of all blocks.

All Exhibits entered in this Catalogue are located in the Palace of Education, unless otherwise indicated after the entry. The following are abbreviations used in this Catalogue to designate other Exhibit Palaces:

HOW TO LOCATE AN EXHIBIT

The Palace of Social Economy is laid out in blocks, which are consecutively numbered from 1 to 34, inclusive, as shown on the floor plan. The aisles are designated as streets (First to Sixth), running north to south, and as avenues (A to E), from east to west. To locate an exhibitor refer to the name, alphabetically arranged under the exhibit group to which each belongs in the official classification, and note the aisles location following each name. Street and Avenue signs are erected at their intersection on the corners of all blocks.

All Exhibits entered in this Catalogue are located in the Palace of Social Economy, unless otherwise indicated after the entry. The following are abbreviations used in this Catalogue to designate other Exhibit Palaces:

PREFACE

By Asher Carter Baker, Director of Exhibits.

A modern, universal exposition is an encyclopedia of man's words and works. It is a collection of the achievements and productivity of man for examination by the International Jury of Awards, and constitutes a compact, classified, indexed compendium of man's activity in all phases, extending from the most material to the most refined products. It is estimated that a million objects are exposed in the various displays installed within the palaces, and in the foreign, state and special pavilions. To properly classify, group and arrange all the exhibits of an exposition of such international scope, is a task of such magnitude that it was impossible to provide a complete catalogue of these exhibits on the opening day of the Exposition.

This revised and complete edition of the official catalogue is therefore presented. In realization of its extraordinary value as a document of general and commercial reference, special care has been given to its preparation, so that it constitutes a full list of the infinite variety of interesting exhibits which are the concrete evidences of the industrial, educational and artistic advancement of the world.

Acknowledgment is hereby offered of the excellent co-operation received in the compilation of this catalogue from the Commissioners-General of participating nations, officers of State Commissions, individual exhibitors, and more particularly the various officers of the Division of Exhibits, as also from the Official Catalogue Company, the publishers of this catalogue.

SOUTH CAROLINA

FLOOR PLAN

PALACE OF LIBERAL-ARTS
PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION

SAN FRANCISCO U.S.A. 915

INTRODUCTION

Installation of Exhibits

in the Department of Liberal Arts

By Theodore Hardee, Chief of Department.

The Palace of Liberal Arts is approximately 585 feet long by 470 feet wide, with walls 55 feet high, and covers nearly six acres of ground. The main front of the building faces the South Gardens and the westerly end fronts on the "Court of Palms" and the "Court of the Four Seasons"; the northerly wall is divided from the Palace of Agriculture by an oblong garden connecting the "Court of the Four Seasons" with the grand central "Court of the Universe," which, with its wide approach from the lofty "Tower of Jewels," opposite the main entrance to the Exposition grounds, forms the northeasterly and easterly boundaries of the Palace of Liberal Arts. The dome in center of the Palace is 160 feet high and the tower over the southwest corner rises to a height of 195 feet. Wide entrances at convenient intervals afford ready access to the building and make pleasing and imposing effects.

The aisles of the Palace are designated as avenues (by letters) running east and west, and as streets (by numbers) from north to south. All exhibits may thus be readily located by reference to the Official Catalog for this Department.

The general scheme for installation of exhibits in the Palace of Liberal Arts provides for location of commercial and scientific exhibits from the United States in "industrial" groups corresponding to the Official Classification for this Department. The Foreign exhibits are displayed in groups according to their respective nationalities. The Domestic Section occupies the entire southern half and the upper portion of the northeastern quarter of the Palace. The Foreign Groups are located in the northeastern quarter. The whole northwest quarter is devoted to the United States Government exhibits.

Owing to limitation of space in the Palace of Liberal Arts, the exhibits of Printing Presses, their processes, and kindred equipment, Road Rollers and similar heavy products of the Liberal Arts classification are installed in the west corner of the Palace of Machinery, where a "Liberal Arts Section" is established for this purpose. While these exhibits are not displayed in the Palace of Liberal Arts, they are listed in the Official Catalog as exhibits of Liberal Arts and are subject to review as such by the International Jury on Awards for the Department of Liberal Arts.

The three groups composing the Graphic Arts, consisting of typography, books and publications and maps, occupy three blocks just south of Avenue "C" in the southwestern corner and one block in the northeastern quarter of the Liberal Arts Palace. Adjoining the Graphic Arts are the Medical and Surgical exhibits, and next come the Musical Instruments. Photography covers the two blocks along the southern wall directly opposite.

On the eastern side of Fifth Street, below Avenue C, the Instruments of Precision and Electrical Methods of Communication exhibits occupy the first three blocks and opposite, along the south wall, is the Engineering group. The Chemical and Pharmacal group follows in the next three blocks. Theatrical Equipment is shown along the southeast wall.

Adjoining the main east entrance to Avenue C is a small block containing an important "working exhibit" which forms the central Fire Alarm and Police Signal station for the entire Exposition.

The Domestic Architectural displays are in the northeastern part of the Foreign Section.

As a matter of accommodation, and for other important reasons, many exhibits classified as Liberal Arts may be found installed in other exhibit palaces, the Exposition Hospital, and elsewhere on the Exposition grounds. A number are in use by the Exposition management, as "working exhibits," throughout its administrative offices. The immense Pipe Organ in Festival Hall is a "working exhibit" of the Musical Instrument group. The Garbage and Refuse Disposal Plant at the extreme western end of the Exposition grounds, and the great "Panama Canal" concession on the "Zone," are both "working exhibits" in the Civil and Military Engineering group of this Department.

In the extreme southeast corner of the building are located the public service booths for Telephoning, Telegraphing and Typewriting.

Under the dome in the center of the palace is a great Telescope, with a 20-inch lens and forty feet long, emblematic of the Applied Sciences which the Department of Liberal Arts represents.

INTRODUCTION

Department of Manufactures

by
CHARLES H. GREEN, CHIEF.

The civilization of a nation is reflected by its manufactures. Science and industry, applied to natural resources, contribute to the development of mankind by lessening his burdens, allowing leisure for cultural pursuits with accumulative benefits affecting each succeeding generation.

The primary wealth of a nation lies in its natural resources. The increase of wealth through the transformation of raw material into finished articles of commerce in the United States alone in 1913 amounted to more than $10,500,000,000. A further idea of the importance of manufacture is gained when the fact is recited that some 275,000 manufacturing concerns are interested in the display made at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition; that 6,000,000 wage-earners are on the payrolls of these establishments; and that approximately 100,000,000 consumers look to these industries for their supplies. The importance which manufacture assumes in the world's affairs is expressed in the number of exhibit palaces devoted to this use in the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. The Palace of Manufactures and the Palace of Varied Industries, containing the exhibits of the Department of Manufactures, adjoin the Tower of Jewels on the east, and facing the Avenue of Palms, form a quarter of the main group of Exhibit Palaces, the facade of each palace being of different design, to harmonize with the Court effect connecting the various palaces.

The interior construction is especially designed with regard to the requirements of exhibitors in the display of their products. The aisle plan is that of city blocks, all avenues running east and west; streets north and south.

The specific lines of trade represented in this mammoth display are manifold, covering hundreds of industries, including not only the goods one would find in the principal retail shops of a large city, but also everything that goes into the interior finish and decoration of public and private dwellings, including the plumbing, heating and ventilating, lighting, art wares, and certain forms of machinery.

The following classification, each item carrying numerous subdivisions, represents the general scope of products embraced in the Department of Manufactures and Varied Industries:

Stationery, Desk Accessories, Artists' Materials. Cutlery, Silversmiths' and Goldsmiths' Ware. Jewelry, Clock and Watch Making. Objects of Ornamental Design. Glass. Brushes, Fine Leather Articles, Fancy Articles and Basket Work. Traveling and Camping Articles. India Rubber and Gutta Percha Industries.

HOW TO LOCATE AN EXHIBIT

The Palace of Manufactures is laid out in blocks, which are consecutively numbered from 1 to 33, inclusive, as shown on the floor plan. The aisles are designated as streets (First to Eighth) running north to south, and as avenues (A to D), from east to west. To locate an exhibitor refer to the name, alphabetically arranged under the exhibit group to which each belongs in the official classification, and note the aisles location following each name. Street and Avenue signs are erected at their intersection on the corners of all blocks.

All Exhibits entered in this Catalogue are located in the Palace of Manufactures, unless otherwise indicated after the entry. The following are abbreviations used in this Catalogue to designate other Exhibit Palaces:

HOW TO LOCATE AN EXHIBIT

The Palace of Varied Industries is laid out in blocks, which are consecutively numbered from 1 to 32, inclusive, as shown on the floor plan. The aisles are designated as streets (First to Sixth), running north to south, and as avenues (A to E), from east to west. To locate an exhibitor refer to the names, alphabetically arranged under the exhibit group to which each belongs in the official classification, and note the aisle location following each name. Street and Avenue signs are erected at their intersection on the corners of all blocks.

All Exhibits entered in this Catalogue are located in the Palace of Varied Industries, unless otherwise indicated after the entry. The following are abbreviations used in this Catalogue to designate other Exhibit Palaces:

HOW TO LOCATE AN EXHIBIT

The Palace of Machinery is laid out in blocks, which are consecutively numbered from 1 to 54, inclusive, as shown on the floor plan. The aisles are designated as streets (First to Fifth), running north to south, and as avenues (A to I), from east to west. To locate an exhibitor refer to the names, alphabetically arranged under the exhibit group to which each belongs in the official classification, and note the aisle location following each name. Street and Avenue signs are erected at their intersection on the corners of all blocks.

All Exhibits entered in this Catalogue are located in the Palace of Machinery, unless otherwise indicated after the entry. The following are abbreviations used in this Catalogue to designate other Exhibit Palaces:

Class 451. Appliances for handling and purifying feed water: feed pumps and injectors, feed-water regulators, feed tanks; feed-water heaters; chemical and mechanical purifiers, oil extractors, scale removing appliances and compounds; water softening compounds. (See Class 462.)

Class 452. Valve gear, governors and speed regulators for steam engines or turbines, not attached.

Class 453. Equipment for transmission and control of steam: steam piping and piping systems, including pipe, valves, fittings, steam hose, traps, separators and exhaust heads.

Class 454. Condensing apparatus: surface and jet condensers; air pumps, dry vacuum pumps, circulating pumps; cooling towers, cooling systems.

Class 455. Methods and appliances for testing and recording the performances of engines, turbines, boilers, condensers, their auxiliaries, and other machinery: pyrometers, steam thermometers, calorimeters, steam meters, CO^2 recorders, flue gas analysis apparatus for steam power plants; counters, gages, indicators, tachometers, and dynamometers.

GROUP 86

INTERNAL COMBUSTION MOTORS

Class 456. Internal combustion engines, gas turbines, and all motors in which internal combustion of the fuel takes place; apparatus and systems for supplying fuel for internal combustion motors.
NOTE: This group does not include motors attached to mobile devices (such as automobiles), nor does it include agricultural or road making machinery.

GROUP 87

HYDRAULIC MOTORS

Class 457. Impulse wheels, turbines and other motors driven by water power, and apparatus for their regulation and control.

GROUP 88

MISCELLANEOUS MOTORS

Class 458. Motors operated by heated air, or other means, not elsewhere classified.

GROUP 89

GENERAL MACHINERY AND ACCESSORIES

Class 459. Appliances for handling heavy weights; overhead traveling and stationary cranes, operated by hand or power; hoisting engines, jacks, differential pulleys. (Marine and mining equipment not included.)

Class 460. Conveying machinery: belt, bucket and movable table or roller conveyors; trolley conveyors. (For special apparatus in mining see Classes 750, 756 and 780.)

Class 461. Power-transmitting appliances: leather, fibre, chain, link and other belting; cable and rope drives; gearing, shafting, couplings, pulleys, clutches, hangers, and pedestals.

Class 462. Apparatus for lifting and handling water and other liquids: hand, steam and power driven pumps, pulsometers, air lifts, hydraulic rams; water pipe and accessories; water meters. (See also Classes 451, 470, 530, 554, 559 and 751 for pumps for special uses.)

Class 463. Fire engines, extinguishers and fire fighting apparatus. (See Class 183.)

Class 464. Air and gas compressors and accessories. (See also Classes 354 and 749.)

Class 465. Brick and tile making machinery. (Transferred to Class 765.)

Class 466. Dredging and excavating machinery and appliances. (For railroad machinery see Class 520. For mining machinery see Class 759.)

Class 467. Refrigerating machinery. (See also Classes 531 and 601.)

Class 468. Packing, gaskets, heat insulating material, lubricators, lubricants, lubricating systems, metal for bearings.

Class 469. General machinery not otherwise classified.

GROUP 90
TOOLS FOR SHAPING WOOD AND METALS

Class 470. Steam forging hammers, hydraulic forging presses; hydraulic accumulators, intensifiers, pumps and accessories; extruding presses; hand and power shears, punches and blank cutters for metals; plate bending and planing machines; drop forging hammers; swaging presses; riveting machines. (See Class 462.)

Class 471. Apparatus, equipment and compounds used in annealing, hardening, tempering, brazing and soldering metals.

Class 472. Machine tools, lathes, planers, shapers; drilling, boring, milling, slotting and splining machines; bolt, nut and pipe machines; metal saws; forcing presses; polishing and finishing machines for metals; machines for rough grinding. All machine tool attachments; safety devices when attached to machines; portable power tools; tool grinding machines; machine shop accessories.

Class 473. Machinery for grinding accurate surfaces; screw cutting machines; presses and spinning lathes for shaping sheet metals.

Class 474. Hand tools for machinists: measuring tools; bench tools, etc.

Class 475. Machines and tools for boiler shop and sheet metal shop work, not elsewhere classified.

Class 476. Wood working machinery: power saws, wood lathes, planers and jointers, and other wood working power tools other than saw-mill equipment; equipment for bending or pressing wood; box and basket machinery. Attachments for wood-working machinery. Safety devices for wood working machinery when shown attached to machines. (See Class 448.)

Class 477. Special machinery for various purposes, not otherwise classified.

ELECTRICAL GROUPS

GROUP 91
COMMUTATING APPARATUS

Class 478. Direct-current commutating generators, all types.

Class 479. Synchronous commutating machines, comprising synchronous converters, motor converters and double current generators.

Class 480. Direct and alternating current commutating type motors.

Class 481. Direct and alternating current commutating type railway motors.

GROUP 92
SYNCHRONOUS APPARATUS
(All Alternating Current)

Class 482. Synchronous generators, all types.
Class 483. Synchronous motors.
Class 484. Synchronous condensers.
Class 485. Synchronous frequency changers.
Class 486. Synchronous rotary phase converters.

GROUP 93
STATIONARY INDUCTION APPARATUS

Class 487. Transformers (including induction coils) and autotransformers, all types.
Class 488. Potential regulators and reactances, all types.
Class 489. Induction starters.

GROUP 94
ROTARY INDUCTION APPARUTUS

Class 490. Induction generators, all types.
Class 491. Induction motors.
Class 492. Induction condensers.
Class 493. Induction frequency changers.
Class 494. Induction rotary phase converters.

GROUP 95
UNIPOLAR (ACYCLIC) APPARATUS

Class 495. Unipolar (Acyclic apparatus).

GROUP 96
RECTIFYING APPARATUS

Class 496. Rotating commutators.
Class 497. Electric valves (including mercury rectifiers).
Class 498. Vibrating commutators.

GROUP 97
LUMINOUS APPARATUS (Sources of Light)

Class 499. Arc lamps, all types.
Class 500. Incandescent lamps, all types.
Class 501. Vapor lamps, all types.
Class 502. Vacuum lamps, all types.

HOW TO LOCATE AN EXHIBIT

The Palace of Transportation is laid out in blocks, which are consecutively numbered from 1 to 30, inclusive, as shown on the floor plan. The aisles are designated as streets (First to Eighth) running north to south, and as avenues (A to F) from east to west. In addition are the Court of Universe Boulevard in the southwest portion of the building, and the Lincoln Highway, Trail of the Sunset and the Midway, streets running north to south in the Automobile Section, and the Mid Continent Highway, from east to west in the same section. To locate an exhibitor refer to the names, alphabetically arranged under the exhibit group to which each belongs in the official classification, and note the aisle locations following each name. Street and Avenue signs are erected at their intersections on the corners of all blocks.

All Exhibits entered in this catalogue are located in the Palace of Transportation unless otherwise indicated after the entry. The following are abbreviations used in this catalogue to designate other Exhibit Palaces:

FLOOR PLAN

PALACE OF FOOD PRODUCTS

PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION

OPENS FEBRUARY 20 SAN FRANCISCO.U.S.A.1915. CLOSES DECEMBER 4

HOW TO LOCATE AN EXHIBIT

The Palace of Food Products is laid out in blocks, which are consecutively numbered from 1 to 34, inclusive, as shown on the floor plan. The aisles are designated as streets (First to Sixth), running north to south, and as avenues (A to E), from east to west. To locate an exhibitor refer to the name, alphabetically arranged under the exhibit group to which each belongs in the official classification, and note the aisles location following each name. Street and Avenue signs are erected at their intersection on the corners of all blocks.

All Exhibits entered in this Catalogue are located in the Palace of Food Products, unless otherwise indicated after the entry. The following are abbreviations used in this Catalogue to designate other Exhibit Palaces:

PREFACE

By Asher Carter Baker, Director of Exhibits.

A modern, universal exposition is an encyclopedia of man's words and works. It is a collection of the achievements and productivity of man for examination by the International Jury of Awards, and constitutes a compact, classified, indexed compendium of man's activity in all phases, extending from the most material to the most refined products. It is estimated that a million objects are exposed in the various displays installed within the palaces, and in the foreign, state and special pavilions. To properly classify, group and arrange all the exhibits of an exposition of such international scope, is a task of such magnitude that it was impossible to provide a complete catalogue of these exhibits on the opening day of the Exposition.

This revised and complete edition of the official catalogue is therefore presented. In realization of its extraordinary value as a document of general and commercial reference, special care has been given to its preparation, so that it constitutes a full list of the infinite variety of interesting exhibits which are the concrete evidences of the industrial, educational and artistic advancement of the world.

Acknowledgment is hereby offered of the excellent co-operation received in the compilation of this catalogue from the Commissioners-General of participating nations, officers of State Commissions, individual exhibitors, and more particularly the various officers of the Division of Exhibits, as also from the Official Catalogue Company, the publishers of this catalogue.

HOW TO LOCATE AN EXHIBIT

The Palace of Horticulture is laid out in blocks, which are consecutively numbered from 1 to 44, inclusive, as shown on the floor plan. The aisles are designated as streets (First to Eighth) running north to south, and as avenues (A to D), from east to west. To locate an exhibitor refer to the name, alphabetically arranged under the exhibit group to which each belongs in the official classification, and note the aisles location following each name. Street and Avenue signs are erected at their intersection on the corners of all blocks.

All Exhibits entered in this Catalogue are located in the Palace of Horticulture, unless otherwise indicated after the entry. The following are abbreviations used in this Catalogue to designate other Exhibit Palaces:

plete industrial exhibits which begin with the undeveloped mineral resource, end with the article sold to the retail trade of the country and show, insofar as possible, the intermediate processes of mining, reduction and manufacture.

Especial attention has been given to petroleum and coal, to copper, to lead and zinc, to the precious metals, to the gems and semi-precious stones. The iron and steel industry is shown by the most comprehensive and complete exhibit ever assembled. The rarer minerals and processes for their reduction have received due attention, particularly the radio-active ores.

A co-operative metallurgical exhibit has been arranged where standard metallurgical methods are illustrated on a working scale. An open Metallurgical Forum is conducted by the United States Bureau of Mines. It is expected that this will prove to be a rendezvous for technical men from all parts of the world and that many important problems will be investigated during the life of the Exposition.

Mining methods are illustrated by a novel and most instructive exhibit beneath the floor of the Palace in THE DEMONSTRATION MINE. The leading metal mining companies and coal producers of the United States, and the various manufacturers of machinery and equipment, have joined in a comprehensive exhibit illustrating mine practice. Iron mining on the Iron Ranges of Lake Superior, copper mining in Arizona and Montana, lead-silver mining in Idaho, gold mining in South Dakota; coal mining on the Pacific Coast, in Wyoming, in Pennsylvania and in West Virginia are shown by full size stopes and rooms, together with all the incidental surface and underground equipment—a truly educational exhibit. Other types of mining are fully illustrated in the underground motion picture theatre. Daily demonstrations of mine rescue work will be given.

In short, the exhibits in the Palace of Mines and Metallurgy are truly representative of the important industry which this Department is designed to serve.

HOW TO LOCATE AN EXHIBIT

The Palace of Mines and Metallurgy is laid out in blocks, which are consecutively numbered from 1 to 36, inclusive, as shown on the floor plan. The aisles are designated as streets (First to Seventh), running north to south, and as avenues (A to E), from east to west. To locate an exhibitor refer to the names, alphabetically arranged under the exhibit group to which each belongs in the official classification, and note the aisle location following each name. Street and Avenue signs are erected at their intersection on the corners of all blocks.

The United States Government exhibits, including Bureau of Mines, Geological Survey, United States Mint and United States Postoffice, will be found in the northwest corner of the building.

The Demonstration Mine and the Co-operative Metallurgical Exhibit are situated near the main north entrance on Avenue B and Fifth Street.
