It all started in 2004 with friends who shared a passion for illustration and chocolate. Today Le Chocolat des Français prides itself on its 100% French-made bio chocolates using traditional methods and pure cocoa butter. The witty illustrations are the work of more than 400 artists across the world, and the tablets have been featured in museums including the Louvre in Paris and MoMA in NYC.

Fifty-five years ago in Brittany, Michel Chatillon, artisan chocolatier, dedicated himself to creating a range of florentins. Cooked in a copper casserole, stirred with a wooden spoon, then topped with chocolate, his biscuits were quickly recognized for their excellence and have been awarded many prizes, including the Lauriers d'Or européens.

A true finder of forgotten recipes, the Petit Duc in Saint-Rémy de Provence has breathed new life into many specialties while developing its own original creations. Le Petit Duc relies on traditional methods to produce its famous square calissons, illustrious cookies, exceptional nougats and single-origin chocolates.

Chocolate-filled eggs are a long tradition in chocolate-making, now almost forgotten. The egg is painstakingly removed from the shell, the shells are washed and sterilized, and then filled with chocolate praliné & hazelnut pieces or chocolate praliné and pieces of crêpes dentelles.

To enjoy, chill the egg in the refrigerator for 15 minutes or heat in the microwave and dip your brioche in the melted chocolate.

In 2004, the Breton chocolatier Philip Le Petitcorps created this treat— an exquisite chocolate bonbon composed of a fine shell of dark chocolate filled with a fondant center of caramel au beurre salé—and in 2014 it was elected best specialty in France by the National Culinary Academy. The pompon winks an eye at the “batchi” or cap of the sailors in the National Marine. Legend has it that touching the red pompon will bring luck.
