A bronze plaque dedicated to Paul H. Kidd is found in the Robert F. Kidd Library.

Plaque Dedicated; Honors Paul Kidd

A bronze plaque dedicated to the memory of Paul H. Kidd was placed in the Central W.Va. Collection of the Robert F. Kidd Library shortly after the close of the regular school term. The plaque was donated by the Kidd family for Mr. Kidd who was a prominent Glenville lawyer and the son of Robert F. Kidd for whom the library was named.

The 1973 Book Fair will be held July 16 through August 17 in the library. The exhibit includes elementary level books and professional books representative of 72 publishers.

The learning materials center now has curriculum units in geography, history, and math, complete from kindergarten to grade 12. These units will be catalogued and ready for use in September.

National Vets Ass't Van To Visit Glenville Area

The National Veterans Assistance Van will be in Glenville on July 17 from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

According to C.W. Nixon, director of the Huntington Veterans Administration Regional Office, the van is staffed by two veterans benefits counselors who will try to "take the VA to the veteran."

The aim of the mobile unit is to reach those veterans who have not made full use of their veterans' benefits, opportunities in education, housing assistance, and job-training and employment. A trained staff will provide the necessary information.

Nixon said the mobile van program began last June in Texas. Since then, vans have toured 21 other states reaching more than 45,000 veterans in visits to almost 500 communities.

GSC student Dave Hewitt is shown with two fellow musicians at the West Virginia Folk Festival held June 14-17.

Glenville's Six-Story Catch 22 Subject Of Critical Eye

Well girls, a lot of you have asked me to write this, and despite my resolution to stay away from Glenville's tallest building (known to some as "The Six-Story Catch 22") as a subject for editorials, I have decided to present your point of view.

Since my grandmother told me never to say anything bad about anyone (or anything) without saying something good, allow me to say I'm glad they finally got the air conditioning in C-wing. I lived in that wing for three semesters without it - paying for it, though, of course - and most of the time it was all I could do to get the heater to work right. It's about time they got that in, and it must be nice.

Having said something good, I think it is now time to "give 'em hell." I am having trouble getting something straight in my mind, as are most residents of "Catch 22." You are only allowed to go to the basement two hours a day and to the laundry room for two hours a day and on weekends. This rule is to protect you from the dirty old men on the construction job, of which there are few, and which are gone by 5 p.m. But they let you associate with (be antagonized by) the little monsters in all the camps who yell and run around, and become generally obnoxious. If anyone, anywhere, can explain this to me and to the Women's Hall residents, I promise to attempt to understand.

Conservative, rightist character that I am (snicker, snort). I must say I can see where underaged commuters from downtown Glenville should be asked to move into the dorm for the sake of their precious dollar-bills (actually, I admire anyone who will even try to get away from the Catch 22 superstructure, and I stand looking with awe at anyone who succeeds, especially if they are under 21). But, what I do not understand is how certain administrators found out exactly where these extra-legal commuters lived. I know of at least two instances where girls were told exactly where they were staying. It shows that there is quite a lot of unnecessary spying going on around here, enough to make Watergate look like a game of cowboys and Indians. It rather scares you to think that your best friend might be brown-nosing his or her way into high esteem at your expense. Best friends like that nobody needs and nobody wants. I wonder if it ever occurs to them that they are merely being used by the people they want to have admire them?

I have said what you asked me to say. Now, I could tell you that the iniquities of Glenville State College can be resolved. I could tell you how to organize, but I won't tell you that, because you won't do it. You have to graduate; you have to be admitted to the block; you have scholarship requirements to fill. Or, you just plain don't care. Or, you're one of those brown-nosers and like things the way they are. And furthermore, I won't tell you how to do it because then you'll expect me to tell you what to do and to lead you into it. And even if I do, it will still fall through due to lack of student support. So figure out how to get around it yourselves or - suffer.

Festival Held June 14-17

A crowd was gathered on the streets of downtown Glenville for the 24th annual West Virginia Folk Festival held June 14-17. Some highlights of the festival were the Shape Note Singing School, Horse Trader's Folk music, music and street dancing, folk music, and dancing in the GSC auditorium.

Thursday a reception was held for the Belles and their friends at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Byron Turner. Friday's events included a beef barbecue, a McGuffey spelling bee, the Old Time Fiddler and Banjo Pickin' contest, and the Belles' Tea at Mrs. Robert "Rosabelle" Gainer's home. A rainy Saturday morning started the woodchopping demonstration, the festival parade, and the barbecued chicken sale. Also open house was held at the home of Mrs. E.G. "Fern" Rollyson. Sunday closed the festival with a religious service and shape note singing at Job's Temple.

Headquarters for the festival was located at the Country Store on Court Street. New exhibit areas between the Federal Building and the Dept. of Welfare office were opened for craftsmen.

This year the dog shows, missing in recent years, was a special event. Also, the regular fiddling and banjo picking contest was divided between a group aged over 50, who competed Friday, and group under 50, who competed Saturday.

Dr. D. Banks Wilburn, President of Glenville State College, has been elected president of the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Association, effective July 1. This association supervises the intercollegiate athletic events of all West Virginia four-year schools.

Nichols Instructor At GSC Art Camp

Mr. Steve Nichols is having his second annual ART Camp from June 13-29. The camp was started by Mr. Nichols to give students more or new information about art beyond what they have already had.

The ART stands for Art Research and Teaching Workshop. Students who are enrolled are doing the research. They include ninth graders to graduating seniors. College students are teaching the classes in certain areas.

There were six students participating in this camp from different parts of the state. High school juniors, seniors, and graduates may enroll for up to four hours of regular college credit. The activities the students are involved in cover six basic areas: drawing, design, graphics of print making, ceramics, crafts, and painting.

The cost of the two week camp was $90, which includes workshop tuition, room and board, some materials, classes and private instructions. The students are not required to have art as a prerequisite. The students will all stay at Women's Hall and eat their meals at the college dining hall.

The classes were held seven days a week. In the two weeks time the student had sixty hours of classroom instruction. Three hours are spent in the morning for lecture which is open and free for discussion. In the afternoons they work on things discussed in the morning or things in which they are interested. Every evening, one hour is devoted to direct contact between one assistant and one student.

Donna Stalnaker and George Brumfield are assisting the camp for their Education 301 class. Patty Canterbury, Jack Gainer, Ken Walker, and Deborah Moody are doing it through the community service class.

Shown above are the Folk Festival's Belles. They are: Mrs. Seldon Uhl, Mrs. V.B. Snyder, Mrs. Waitman Riddle, Mrs. C.C. McPherson, Mrs. Dessie Mae Golden, Mrs. Mabel Leonard, Mrs. J.M. Monster To Blame For Blackout? Nuclear War? Aliens? Robbery?

by Donnie Cuppett

Last week's blackout may prove to be the highlight of the summer '73. Witnessing total darkness in Glenville (something that has been rumored for years) was an unusual and eerie experience. This was the longest blackout in Gilmer County in recent times, or at least within the last two weeks. But the question is, what caused this stark interruption of our pastoral habitat?

The first rumors floating around were the possibilities of nuclear war. When an airplane flew over, many people claimed they saw falling objects. Heat lightning in the distance added to this half-serious atmosphere, with an effect of A-bombs destroying cities. First went Charleston, then Pittsburgh, then Washington, D. C. When one "went off" in a southeasterly direction, the Nuclear War theory was almost totally disbanded. Why would someone want to pick on Sutton? or Minnehaha Springs? or the Blue Ridge Parkway?

One of the strongest theories of the blackout is that an alien force caused it, simultaneously instilling mental devices into prominent people. While the area was rendered harmless for lack of electrical energy, we were

Frat Averages Told

The fraternity grade point averages for the 1973 spring semester have been released by the Dean of Men, Carl F. Pennington.

Tau Kappa Epsilon headed the list with a 2.38 average. Lambda Chi Alpha posted a 2.25 mark followed by Theta Xi with a 2.21.

The overall fraternity average for the semester was 2.28 as compared with the overall men's average of 2.51. For the year, the fraternity average was 2.35, nearly identical to the 2.36 overall men's average.

Fraternity members with a 3.00 or better include, in Tau Kappa Epsilon: Roger Bonnett, Charlie Boswell, Steve Buffington, Donnie Cuppett, Jeff Garton, Bill Lavoie, Dennis Law, Frank Marcinko, Steve Moore, Terry Moore, and Phil Reale. Lambda Chi Alphas include: Paul Ayers, Mike Bennett, Jim Berry, Bob Childers, Chuck Cortrell, Chuck Hatfield, Dent Hickman, Neil J. Lothes, John McKinney, Dennis Pack, Joe Parton, Steve Pridemore, and Bob Rentschler; in Theta Xi: Rick Butler, Tom Carper, Howie Hoetzel, Tom Humphreys, Gene King, John Ross Lilly, Tom Lilly, Pat McKinney, Gary Ross, Mike Rust, and Phil Tharp.

sitting ducks. But why Glenville?

Another possibility was that someone wanted to sack the bank. Their idea, whether right or not, was that by turning off the electricity, they would make the alarms useless. Many people (largely students) discarded this dream for an even more intriguing caper: swiping the spotlight! With no worry of electrocution, one could easily cut the lines. Imagine having Gilmer County's link with urban America as a table setting or as a chandelier in your favorite haunted house.

One final rumor requires more thought. The possibility of the old Gilmer County Monster (not to be confused with the Braxton County monster) lurking in the misty valleys surrounding our town is one to really wonder about. Has this phantom-like creature returned? If so, then hikers, campers, and power line repairmen had better watch out! Maybe our serene area is about to be oppressed by this gruesome beast once again.

Even so, a monster would not be as anticlimactic as a transformer failure that is reported to be the real cause for our three hour period of darkness. What did people do without television, stereos, and cold beers? Wait for nine months and see for yourself!

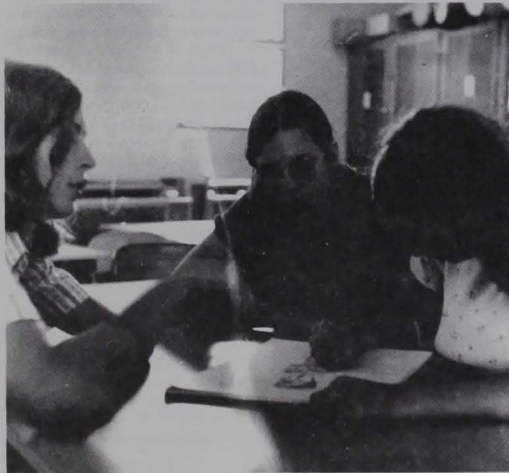

Student Union hours this summer are Monday through Friday, 7:30 - 2:30. Game Room hours are Sunday through Thursday 5:00 - 10:00.

ANNUAL BAND CAMP TO BE HELD JULY 10-20

Glenville State College will sponsor its sixth annual high school summer band camp July 10-20. Realizing the need for quality instruction in music and performance, the music faculty has sought to plan the camp centered around the needs of the average school musician. Each musician will receive individual applied instruction. Concentrated music study and planned recreation will be the order of the day.

Housing will be in Women's Hall and meals will be provided in the college dining hall. The camp is open to students who are active in an ensemble program and who will be in the seventh grade or above in the fall of 1973. Graduating seniors are also eligible to enroll.

A fee of $60 will cover all expenses of the camp including the private lessons, materials, and facilities. The director of the summer music camp is Mr. Edward M. Vineyard.

Football Camp Held

Glenville State College sponsored its third annual high school football camp in two sessions - each one lasting a week. The first session was held June 17-22; the second session, which ends today, began Monday.

The GSC football staff is in charge of this camp with Coach Bill Hanlin directing. Each year the college is honored by having several visiting coaches assisting the regular staff. For the first session they included: Fred Martinelli, Ashland College, Ashland, Ohio; Cecil Perkins, Potomac State, Keyser; Bill Frost, Southern High School, Oakland, Maryland; Ralph Holder, Belpre High School, Belpre, Ohio; and Fred Taylor, Ravenswood High School, Ravenswood. This session included 76 boys including twelve from out of state.

The second session was held June 24-29. Besides our regular staff of football coaches, the visiting coaches for the session included: Bill Neal, Indiana University, Indiana, Pa.; Frank Elwood, Ohio University, Ohio; Frank Vincent, Charleston High School, Charleston; Marcus McPhail, St. Mary's High, St. Mary's. A total of 57 boys participated at the second session.

During their stay, the boys lived in Women's Hall and ate their meals at the college dining hall. The fee was $55 per week.

The purpose of this camp is to teach the boys film work, individual techniques and fundamentals. During their week of camp the boys use no equipment or pads. The dress is shorts, tee shirts, and tennis shoes. The age limit is from seventh grade to graduating seniors.

Assisting the coaches with the camp were four of Glenville's own football players: Captain John Pratt, Captain Mark Reger, Ted Williams, and Steve Buffington.

This summer for the first time a special "hustle award" was presented to the boy who showed the most hustle in the camp. This award is in memory of Assistant Coach Ron Rice of the University of Maryland. Coach Rice died this past December of a heart attack while recruiting in West Virginia. Coach Rice had helped with the football camp the first two years it was held - 1971 and 1972.

During their week of camp the boys are under supervision day and night with a planned schedule worked out for them including recreation.

Children's Camp Organized

Students enrolled in camp counseling received actual experience in a working camp situation. Eight students, under the direction of Dr. Robert Dollgener, organized and worked at the Gilmer County Youth Opportunity Camp which was held June 11-15 at the 4-H campgrounds in Glenville.

The eight student-counselors, enrolled in camp counseling, met with Dr. Dollgener June 6-8 to set up the camp. During the three days of meetings, camp classes were set up, instructors assigned, programs planned, and all other details connected with camp completed. The students involved were required to stay at the camp as counselors 24 hours a day for the duration of the camp. They received a grade credit for a 3-hour class, and $50.00 for working as a counselor. The students were Tom Lilly, Rudy King, Mike Sandy, Dave Tipley, Joe Parton, Beth Garrett, Barbara Walker, and Linda Jones.

The GCYOC was held for children ages 7-14 and was organized in connection with Community Action and the W.Va. Department of Welfare. There were 115 children in the camp which offered a variety of classes and crafts. The classes offered and instructors were: gun safety - Steve Davis; leathercrafts - Harlan Hogue; folkdance - Tom Luzader; crafts - Barbara Walker, Linda Jones and Tom Lilly; swimming - Dave Ripley, Barbara Walker, Beth Garrett; canoeing - Dr. R. Dollgener; fishing - Joe Parton; outdoor cooking - Ruth Meyer; ceramics - Carl Scott; nature hike - J. R. Kennedy; grooming - Carol Frame; group activity - Rudy King, Mike Sandy. Physical examinations were given to all campers by Barry Grosseckoff, MD; Vernon E. Hoeffler, DO; Louis J. Manley, DO; and Richard Rapport, MD.

A second camp situation will be offered August 11 in Braxton County. The counselors for that camp will be the students in Coach Tim Carney's camp counseling class.

GSC Annual Camp To Begin

The American Cheerleading Association will hold its annual cheerleading camp at Glenville State College, July 29 - August 3. The ACA will supply their own personnel of prepared young women to teach the students.

The cost is $55 for registration, meals, and lodging. All students will stay at Women's Hall and eat at the college dining hall. The students will be under direct supervision of the camp leaders at all times.

All junior and senior high schools in West Virginia and bordering counties in Ohio, are invited to attend. The purpose of this camp is to teach young people the basic fundamentals of cheerleading. This camp is made possible through the American Cheerleading Association.

Mr. D. Gillespie To Begin Job As Glenville's Mayor

By Linda Mathews

Mr. David M. Gillespie first began his professional career in Glenville in 1968 when he was hired by Glenville State College as head librarian of the Robert F. Kidd Library. He is now ready to begin his first term as mayor of the city in July.

When asked what prompted him to run for mayor, Mr. Gillespie replied that he had first thought of running for city council. He changed this when numerous residents of the city asked him to consider running for mayor.

Now that he has been elected and will shortly begin his duties as mayor, Mr. Gillespie intends to continue as head librarian seeing no conflict between the two jobs. He stated that he will hold regular office hours at city hall three times a day. The rest of his working day will be devoted to the library. This can be easily accomplished, Gillespie explains, because he simply plans to do what needs to be done. Mr. Gillespie will be general supervisor over the police department and city facilities, such as water. It is the city council, he explained, that does most of the work.

As mayor, Mr. Gillespie said he would try to expand a sound financial base for the city to operate on. He explained that the city will receive approximately $37,000 in revenue sharing funds which will be used, among other things, for street repair, parking facilities, and the police department. But the new budget has been estimated at $46,000. This deficit will be made up through the city's main sources of revenue which include city property taxes, traffic and meter violations, liquor taxes, building permit fees, and business operating fees. But, even with these sources, there will be no extra money, Gillespie explained.

When asked what his goals as mayor would be, the response was first "an evaluation of some sort to either collect existing taxes or find a base for new revenues." The next goal would be to encourage citizens to take "a little more active part in city government by making suggestions and attending council meetings." The third, and most important to the mayor-elect, is encouraging the citizens of Glenville to take a little more pride in their city. He stressed civic pride and beautification of the area.

After making this statement, his secretary remarked, "Maybe that is the real reason you ran for mayor."
