Eureka, California

Welcome to the Lost Coast Brewery Native Plant Garden at the Humboldt Botanical Garden!

We encourage you to take a walk through the Lost Coast Brewery Native Plant Garden (NPG) as it shows off its summer bloom. This garden was first planted in 2007-2008, and since then has been steadily growing in stature and diversity. We now have over 175 California native species represented in 24 separate garden beds covering approximately 1.6 acres. Be sure to also visit the two interpretive panels describing the California Floristic Province and the genus Arctostaphylos (manzanitas) and take a virtual tour of 25 California native plants via the link on the Garden website.

During the summer months, several of the NPG plants are in bloom. Many others, such as the manzanitas, ceanothus, iris, and currants finished blooming earlier in winter and spring. The NPG does not receive supplemental irrigation except hand watering for new plantings and relies entirely on rainfall. No fertilizers are used in the NPG. Planting sites in our difficult clay soils are amended with sharp gravel. Summer maintenance work primarily involves cutting back spent blooms, maintaining garden paths, mulching, and weeding.

We remain committed to the continued improvements to the NPG by removing dying or underperforming plants and adding new and interesting natives from the California Floristic Province. We continually seek to improve the garden by rehabilitating beds and adding more structure and texture. In the last five years alone, we have introduced over 1,000 new plants, including species such as Santa Cruz Island buckwheat (Eriogonum arborescens var. compactum), 'Select Mattole' California fuchsia (Epilobium septentrionale 'Select Mattole'), bush anemone (Carpenteria californica), 'Mountain Pride' nightshade (Solanum xanti), California leopard lily (Lilium pardalinum), and fragrant pitcher sage (Lepechinia fragrans 'El Tigre'). Because the garden changes dramatically throughout the seasons, we encourage you to return often to enjoy the beauty and progression of growth, flowering, and plant diversity. Questions or comments to me at mmoore1229@gmail.com regarding the NPG are always welcome and will be helpful as we move forward in the garden's continued development.
