foreword

WELCOME TO our celebration of the International Wine and Spirit Competition 2017 winners, a fantastically diverse group of wines and spirits from more than 90 countries – the biggest reach of any competition.

This was another excellent year for IWSC entries. We have again grown and adapted our award line-up significantly, with, among others, a new English Sparkling Wine Trophy, a Chinese Wine Producer of the Year award and an Organic Wine Trophy.

There was an especially strong showing from spirits, including an outstanding performance from Asia with eight baijiu gold medal winners. Its standing was so impressive we decided to introduce a dedicated trophy. We also saw a marked increase in Japanese shochu and Korean soju. And we shouldn't forget the unstoppable rise of craft gin. We saw an increase of 126%, and that's still a relatively small proportion of the thousands of gins now being made.

There's been continued growth in whisky entries – the category has diversified and expanded, with a range of no-age statement whiskies dominating the sector. Turning the focus to the art of the blend, rather than the prestige tied up in age, the Single Malt Scotch No Age Statement Trophy was this year awarded to Richard Paterson's The Dalmore Valour Single Highland Malt. Richard, who has also won the Lifetime Achievement Award, is profiled on page 17.

The spirits awards were celebrated in July with our annual tasting at Vintners' Hall in London, hosted by the Worshipful Company of Distillers. As usual, the ancient hall was packed with spirits professionals keen to taste the line-up of 200 spirits, from baijiu to the finest and rarest malts. Then in October we judged the wine label design award – now in its second year – in the suitably sumptuous surroundings of Asprey in New Bond St.

Wine entries were strong, with 14 new countries added, from Macedonia to Azerbaijan. While Chinese wine continues its global spread, we've had powerful showings across the board, especially in Australia and New Zealand.

Wines and spirits would be nothing without the people behind them. You'll find profiles of and interviews with the many extraordinary talents we are celebrating this year, people like Joe Fattorini and Olivier Ward, Wine Communicator and Spirit Communicator of the Year respectively, and Nik Darlington of Red Squirrel Wine (the Julian Brind Trophy), Nick Morgan (Outstanding Achievement in Scotch Whisky), and Kanonkop's Abrie Beeslaar, our Winemaker of the Year.

THE VERY BEST

As part of our mission to search out and highlight the very best in wines and spirits worldwide, we've had a presence at the world's major wine fairs, including ProWein in Düsseldorf, Vinitaly, Vinexpo and the London Wine Fair. Together with our partners the Kedge Business School, we also attended Vinisud, and – to reflect the importance of organic and biodynamic wines – the Millésime Bio 2017 in Marseille. This year, in parallel with the Annual Awards Banquet, we will also be at ProWine China in Shanghai with an exclusive spirits showcase.

I would like to extend our heartfelt thanks to Chris Blandy, our outgoing president and an indefatigable champion of the IWSC, whose time with us inspired him to find new ways of promoting Madeira, as he explains on page three.

Finally, a warm welcome to our new president, Facundo Bacardí, the great-great-grandson of the founder of Bacardí, who promises to bring the "founder's mentality" of the legendary house to bear on the IWSC.

For Facundo, "culture, authenticity and heritage" are what connects a brand to its audience. As the IWSC approaches its 50th anniversary in better health than ever, those three attributes will be at the forefront of our celebrations.

2017 SAW the loss of a great supporter of the International Wine and Spirit Competition (IWSC), a true ambassador for Madeira wine and the island, and a great friend – Tim Stanley-Clarke. When I took over my family's business in 2011, Tim was always on hand to introduce me to everyone and, in typical Tim form, he was always ready to pull a prank when I was least expecting it.

His regular trips to Madeira with his wife, Dounie, became a fixture and before he passed away, he was busy organising a visit in 2018 with The Worshipful Company of Distillers. He will be much missed by the whole industry.

I had some big shoes to fill when I took over the reins as president of the IWSC, following on from the charismatic Matteo Lunelli. Being only the second Portuguese person to join a distinguished list of past presidents meant that I had a great opportunity to talk about Madeira and all that it stands for in this modern era.

'I had the pleasure in March of hosting a superb dinner at ProWein in Düsseldorf on behalf of the IWSC, where we had the opportunity to mix and exchange ideas with a host of industry personalities'

Coming from a region where the production of wine is, literally and figuratively, a drop in the ocean (352,000 nine-litre cases in 2016), my focus was to help promote wines of Madeira in all of the key markets, including the US, the UK and Japan. In this regard, being associated with the IWSC has opened many doors.

This, together with the increase in tourism to the island and the added benefit of having one of the world's best football players from the island, has meant that all things Madeiran are in fashion. (It's Cristiano Ronaldo, in case you didn't immediately know who I meant).

Madeira wine sales, until the end of August, are 5% up in value and once again, Jancis Robinson MW has recently reaffirmed her choice of Madeira as her desert island dessert wine of choice.

During the year, I have juggled my duties as president with those of CEO of the Madeira Wine Company. I had the pleasure in March of hosting a superb dinner at ProWein in Düsseldorf on behalf of the IWSC, where we had the opportunity to mix and exchange ideas with a host of industry personalities. The IWSC team have once again carried out a range of hugely successful events and tastings throughout the year. My thanks and congratulations go to them for their work on these and in raising the profile of the competition around the world.

I have taken inspiration from these events back to Madeira where we have worked hard, not only in restructuring the company for the future, but also focusing on promoting our brands to our island visitors. At our week-long wine festival in September, we asked various artists to promote their craft at our wine lodges. These included an exhibition of paintings on Madeiran vineyards, dance shows by the group Dançando com a Diferencia (dancers with disabilities), concerts by local bands and a memorable demonstration of how to serve wine by some of Portugal's top sommeliers.

And, for the first time, two 'rival' Madeira wine companies joined together to launch their new wines. We invited Vinhos Barbeito to join us as we launched the Blandy's Vintage Bual 1957, Blandy's Vintage Sercial 1968 and Blandy's Colheita Verdelho 2000. Vinhos Barbeito launched a Sercial 1988, a Malmsey 2000 Colheita and a Bastardo 50 anos – truly the spirit of co-operation and friendship – things we all need more of today.

Thank you to everyone at the IWSC for their continued support throughout this year. I wish everyone well for the year ahead and give my best wish to the incoming president for 2018.

YOUR 2018 IWSC entry

Every year the IWSC travels the world in search of the best wines and spirits that producers have to offer.

This year has been no exception.

NOT EVERY wine and spirits competition can boast the international links and global appeal held by the IWSC.

Now in its 48th year, the IWSC is a truly world-class competition and as relevant today as it was when Anton Massel founded the organisation in 1969.

FRESH APPEAL

Once again, the competition has expanded and adapted its award line-up this year to reflect the changing face of the wine and spirits industries, increasing the breadth and scale of its operation and raising the bar on the competition for quality among producers. A new Chinese Wine Producer of the Year Trophy was introduced, along with a Chinese Wine Trophy, to reflect the growing importance of this country on the international wine stage. A number of new cocktail-mixer categories were also introduced, following the success of the Gin & Tonic and Vodka & Tonic categories last year. Whisky & Ginger, Rum & Cola and Rum & Ginger were added to the line-up, rewarding spirits producers crafting a perfect serve. A new organic wine trophy was also added, with the IWSC recognising the growing importance of this category. Backing up this commitment, the IWSC once again took a stand at Millésime Bio 2017 in Marseille, the “ultimate event for the organic wine trade”, attended by more than 900 organic wine producers.

GLOBETROTTING

As part of its work to seek out, highlight and reward the world’s best wines and spirits, 2017 saw the IWSC travel from Germany to Hong Kong via Italy and London to promote a record number of entrants from around the globe. In March, the team travelled to Düsseldorf to attend ProWein – the world’s biggest wine and spirits trade fair, attended by thousands of wine and spirits buyers, exhibitors and journalists. Here, the IWSC hosted a dinner, presided over by this year’s IWSC president Chris Blandy, CEO of the Madeira Wine Company. Attended by representatives from Wines of Australia, Wines of New Zealand and Wines of Portugal, the event was a chance for key figures to exchange ideas.

Then it was on to Italy, where the IWSC awarded Joe Fattorini this year’s Wine Communicator of the Year Trophy at the 2017 Vinitaly trade show. Fattorini was picked as the outstanding candidate from a prestigious shortlist for his work on TV programme The Wine Show, with which he is now wowing audiences worldwide following the show’s phenomenal success since hitting screens last spring. (See a Q&A with Joe on page six)

In May, the IWSC pitched up at London’s biggest trade fair, showcasing current IWSC award and medal winners at the 37th London Wine Fair. Its participation saw the IWSC host a packed schedule of masterclasses that included an educational seminar on English fizz with Susy Atkins, an entertaining session on Japanese food and wine led by last year’s Wine Communicator of the Year, Joe Wadsack, and a masterclass on Australian Riesling hosted by winemaker Neil McGuigan.

Emerging talent

IWSC Associate Judge of the Year: CHERRY CONSTABLE

This year, the IWSC chose freelance drinks writer Cherry Constable as its Associate Judge of the Year, praising her tasting ability and breadth of knowledge.

Specialising in spirits, specifically gin, Cherry judged for the IWSC on wines, fortified wines and spirits over the course of 2017, with judges particularly impressed by her nose for whisky.

"Her ability to judge whiskies was particularly appreciated by chair judges, with good consistent scoring similar to the other experienced judges on the panels," the IWSC judges said. Cherry was also praised by the panel for demonstrating excellent timing, her contribution to discussions and her analytical approach.

A worthy winner of this award, Cherry established her career in the drinks industry after completing a BTEC National Diploma in Hospitality and Catering, with a module of alcoholic beverages proving particularly inspiring. She later enrolled on a course at Plumpton College to study Wine Business, and has also achieved her Wine and Spirits Education Trust (WSET) Diploma.

IWSC SPIRITS TASTING

Held at the Worshipful Company of Distillers in London, this year's IWSC Spirit Tasting featured more than 200 of the competition's award-winning examples.

Not only did this year's competition confirm a number of key consumer trends, it also heralded the arrival of a multitude of lesser-known, but bold newcomers to the spirits premier league.

Highlighting the competition's global reach, this year's tasting saw Asia's spirits explode onto the world stage, with baijiu and shochu standing proud among dozens of gins, whiskies, rums and liqueurs. Mezcal was also given greater standing alongside Tequila, with a Mezcal Trophy up for grabs for the first time, while gin continued its upward trajectory, with entries growing by 600% in the past two years.

JUDGING PROCESS

Judging takes place for seven months of the year, involving more than 300 judges. The IWSC team takes each product received into its dedicated cellars, giving each one the due care and attention needed when preparing flights for judges. To ensure complete objectivity, the IWSC uses a unique double-blind judging method, meaning the judges never see a bottle, and are served samples in pre-numbered glasses only. A secondary chemical and technical evaluation is undertaken by Campden BRI after the judges' scores have been recorded.

INDUSTRY RESPECT

With 48 years' experience, the IWSC is widely recognised as the original, the most prestigious and the most respected wine and spirits competition in the world. Global consumers trust and seek the IWSC medal when making purchasing decisions.

RAISE YOUR PROFILE

Competition winners receive a free marketing toolkit to assist in the PR and marketing of awards. Dedicated social media campaigns ensure winners are promoted year round with consumer-friendly campaigns.

INCREASE YOUR SALES

Winners are published in a supplement produced by the drinks business, distributed to more than 10,000 international subscribers, showcasing winning products to buyers worldwide. Medal-winning wines and spirits available in the UK are highlighted on Amazon.co.uk and the price-comparison website Winesdirect.co.uk. Official IWSC medal stickers ensure differentiation on a crowded retail shelf.

TRADE SHOW PROMOTION

Competition representatives promote winners at trade shows all over the world, including Vinitaly, ProWein, Millésime Bio, The London Wine Fair and the Hong Kong International Wine and Spirit Fair.

communicators

SWEET talkers

Two personalities stood out this year for their efforts to further the conversation on wine and spirits

WINE COMMUNICATOR:

JOE FATTORINI

Fattorini is best-known for his work on ITV's The Wine Show, which hit screens in the UK last spring and has since been exported to 109 countries. Prior to this, the Yorkshire-based wine expert, presenter and writer spent 15 years as the weekly wine critic for Scotland's The Herald newspaper, two decades selling wine to restaurants, hotels and bars, and several years as wine consultant to the US PGA Tour.

How did you get into wine?

I was seven and drank quite a lot of my grandfather's Latour '45 at a party. A few months later there was a family wedding serving Mateus Rosé and apparently I was a bit sniffy about it. You know the way pre-teen boys get into dinosaurs or football cards or Egyptology. I was fascinated by wine. I loved reading about where it came from, who made it, how they made it, the history of it. Filming The Wine Show is me doing the same thing I've done since I was seven. Only with lots of make-up to stop my head from shining.

Are there any regions, styles or grapes that we should be re-evaluating?

I'm not sure there are any that we shouldn't be re-evaluating. Australia is in the middle of a small-producer revolution. The Loire is adapting brilliantly to a changing climate. Countries such as Croatia, Hungary and Slovenia are making extraordinary whites. The Chilean Volvo has turned into a concept car. South Africa gives you wines that are 10% better value than anywhere else. China is rewriting the rules on how long it takes to be an established producer. Germany is waiting for the rest of the world to discover that their text books are out of date. Vermentino is the new Chardonnay and Sauvignon. Cava is the new Prosecco. Canada is the new Burgundy. Spain's brilliant. Italy's mad. I'm just waiting for red Bordeaux to become edgy.

How can the trade improve the way it talks to consumers about wine?

Always replace the word 'consumers' with another word, like shoppers, wine lovers, drinkers or restaurant goers. Even 'the audience'. Consumers are faceless and complacent. It's a word that leads to top-down, one-way communication. 'Consumers' assumes a subservient, producer-led relationship. When you write for an 'audience' you want to make them cheer. The onus is on you to please them, not on them to consume your product.

What has been the most memorable moment, so far, on The Wine Show?

At the end of our film in Georgia for series two there were tears because it was so poignant. It took quite a while to get over the emotion of filming in the townships in South Africa, and also the surprise of what we discovered in China. Although nothing was as painful as running the Bordeaux Marathon in a four-layer Obi Wine-Kenobi costume.

Who are your wine heroes?

My first wine book was Serena Sutcliffe's Wine Drinker's Handbook in 1982. I'm still star-struck when we meet in the street. In the early 1990s I worked at my first big public tasting with Oz Clarke. When The Wine Show came out he called me and said: "Do you remember that tasting we did at Vinitaly, organised by Veronafiere, one of the world's largest international wine and spirit trade shows with 4,270 exhibitors and 128,000 visitors in 2017, will be held in Verona, Italy, between 15-18 April 2018.

Vinitaly created and has sponsored the Wine Communicator of the Year award since its inception in 1996, when Jancis Robinson MW became the first to receive the accolade. The award has been designed to recognise individuals or organisations whose communication skills have made an exceptional contribution towards promoting and increasing public awareness and interest in wines and spirits over the previous 12 months, whether through publishing, journalism, new media, radio or television.

SPIRIT COMMUNICATOR: OLIVIER WARD

Ward is the editor, co-founder and creative force behind the gin-based website Gin Foundry, which covers news, reviews and insight on the gin industry and oversees a number of projects designed to celebrate the juniper-led spirit. These include workshops and masterclasses on gin and distillation, its Ginvent Calendar and Gin Kiosk shop.

Outside of Gin Foundry, Ward is also a regular on Channel 4's Sunday Brunch, and has contributed articles about gin to magazines including Olive Magazine and BA Highlife.

How did you get into spirits?

The first time I knew that my career was going to be in spirits was when I tasted a very distinct American gin. I had always loved the flavours of spirits and eaux-de-vie, but it was at that moment that I understood that a great spirit can transport, can evoke and capture an entire story in a glass. It was like a lightbulb switching on and I finally saw that spirits could be a vehicle for a world of emotion and could encapsulate both terroir and human endeavour in a single drop. I was hooked.

How can the trade sustain gin's appeal to ensure its long-term growth?

Try to keep authenticity first and foremost. The more it becomes about wacky flavours and quick PR stunts, the sooner consumers will move on. Gin has always had a unique blend of heritage and innovation, progressive flavours and distillation techniques, sitting comfortably alongside more classic offerings, big personalities and big ideas – so it's got a lot to lean on and lots of areas it can grow into. Simplistic brand reductionism and quick-buck marketing will be the death of the category, while gimmicky flavours will create a loss of identity too. Both need to be challenged for gin to maintain growth.

What has been the most exciting innovation or development in the gin category in the past year?

The continued hybridisation happening within the worlds of gin and wine, from adoption of ideas surrounding terroir, vintages, production techniques and infusions. I'm seeing it everywhere and it's producing some really innovative products, rich in concept and tasty as hell.

Who are your gin heroes?

I idolise most gin makers one way or another, as each has something that makes both them and their spirits special. The two that come to mind are Lance Winters (St. George Spirits) for his ability to translate romanticism and concept-driven ideas into spirit form and explain that to consumers, and Jon Hilgren (Hernö) for his quiet humility.

Sponsor: Chivas Brothers

Chivas Brothers is a global drinks producer and export company steeped in Scottish heritage.

It is the only Pernod Ricard business devoted entirely to Scotch whisky and comprises a prestigious range of single malt and blended whiskies. Chivas Brothers' award-winning portfolio features some of the world's most revered Scotch whisky brands including Chivas Regal, Ballantine's, Royal Salute and The Glenlivet. With a multitude of awards and accolades for its quality, craftsmanship, industry-leading sites and award-winning campaigns, its brands are at the heart of moments of connection across the globe.

The company comprises 1,600 employees, 14 Scotch distilleries, two bottling facilities and over 300 warehouses across its 26 sites including Orkney, Scotland and London. The company is extremely proud to sponsor this year's IWSC Spirit Communicator of the Year, which recognises an individual or organisation that has made an exceptional contribution towards the promotion of spirits.

CONTACT:
ChivasBrothers@text100.com

Are there any other projects we should know about?

We've been working on two major projects that are due to come to fruition by May 2018, but it's just a little too early to tell everyone about them yet. I think they will further the category in a big way.

PINOTAGE pioneer

Recognising quality, consistency and a talent for Pinotage, Kanonkop's Abrie Beeslaar takes home his third Winemaker of the Year trophy

WINEMAKER OF THE YEAR,
SPONSORED BY AMAZON:
ABRIE BEESLAAR, KANONKOP

This year marks a hat-trick for Kanonkop winemaker Abrie Beeslaar, who has now won the coveted Winemaker of the Year trophy three times, having also scooped the gong in 2015 and in 2008.

The judges felt Beeslaar stood out from the crowd for his outstanding work at Kanonkop Estate in Stellenbosch, South Africa. Beeslaar began working at Kanonkop as assistant to Beyers Truter in 2002, taking over the top job in 2003.

Having studied oenology and viticulture at the University of Stellenbosch, he went on to work as assistant winemaker at Swartland Winery, where he was later appointed as red winemaker. Naturally, his favourite grape is Pinotage. As one of Kanonkop's signature varieties, along with Cabernet Sauvignon, Pinotage has been taken to new heights of refinement under Beeslaar's direction. "It's a variety that was badly misunderstood for a long time," he says. "People connected a certain style and certain characteristics with the variety. Today we are trying to focus on what's important for producing quality red wines, which is balance, structure and elegance, rather than what is 'typical' Pinotage."

Achieving the structure and balance for which Kanonkop reds are known is not straightforward in South Africa, where ripening periods are short and phenolic ripeness occasionally lacking. "We have a very intense extraction here - every two hours, 24 hours a day," Beeslaar says.

"This style has worked well for us. We can get exactly the right structure and balance because we manage the extraction so carefully."

This precision is exemplified in Kanonkop's flagship Black Label Pinotage, the first vintage of which was 2006. "The Black Label has added another dimension to our portfolio. We've put a lot of focus on the quality and potential of Pinotage. It's something that has evolved from the ground upwards," he says.

Kanonkop also recognises the ageability of Pinotage, releasing a 10-year-old vintage each year. Since the 2012 vintage, Beeslaar has made Stellenbosch single-vineyard Pinotage for his boutique personal project called simply 'Beeslaar'. Made from Pinotage grown on slate soil, the wine spends 20 months in French oak.

"[Winemaker] Jan Boland Coetzee said that 'Pinotage is not for sissies' to explain the challenges of Pinotage to other winemakers," says Beeslaar. "It was these challenges and the exposure to great old vines bearing unique grapes that started my love affair with Pinotage. If you are lucky enough to have the right terroir and put in the effort that Pinotage deserves, there is no wine more rewarding." db

RAPID ascension

This year's Distiller of the Year trophy was awarded to Taiwan's Kavalan Distillery, which, despite being just over a decade old, is already making its mark

DISTILLER OF THE YEAR: KAVALAN DISTILLERY

This year the IWSC named Taiwan's Kavalan Distillery Distiller of the Year – an impressive feat given that it's been in business little more than 10 years.

Founded in 2005 in Yilan County in north-eastern Taiwan, Kavalan is the long-held dream of entrepreneur Tien-Tsai Lee, who is also the founder of the beverage company King Car. Stepping into the drinks category in 1979, Lee's King Car group first became known for its Mr. Brown brand of canned coffee, and later diversified from beverages into everything from bottled water to orchids. But Lee always had the ambition to produce a Taiwanese whisky.

It wasn't until 2002, when Taiwan joined the World Trade Organisation, that it became possible. Three years later, Lee, together with master distiller Ian Chang and the late Scotch whisky expert Dr Jim Swan, embarked on a mission to produce a Taiwanese whisky and founded the Kavalan Distillery – the only family-owned distillery in the country.

Kavalan has been dedicated to the production of single malt whisky since its first expression was released in 2006. However it wasn't until 2010 that the Kavalan Distillery shot to global prominence, after one of its malts beat a trio of premium Scotch whiskies in a blind tasting organised by Time magazine on Burns Night. In 2015, Kavalan's Solist Vinho Barrique was named the World's Best Single Malt Whisky at the World Whiskies Awards.

Today, its distilling operations are overseen by master distiller Ian Chang, who joined Kavalan in 2005 and is also the whisky producer's brand ambassador, director of global business development and head of research and development.

Nearly all of Kavalan's whiskies are aged in American oak barrels, with the distiller earning a particular reputation for the quality of its whiskies aged in ex-Sherry casks. Chang credits the distillery's success with Sherry casks to the Lee family's approach to sourcing its barrels, with Chang flying to Spain every year to visit its suppliers and inspect every cask to ensure quality. All Kavalan whiskies are aged in its warehouses in Yilan, where temperatures average 33°C in the summer. Combined with intense humidity, which accelerates the ageing process, maturation can be cut down by a third, with four years in the Taiwanese heat comparable with around 10 to 12 years in Scotland, depending on the warehouse location and cask. All Kavalan releases are No Age Statement, but four years in cask is the brand's minimum.

At the end of 2016, Kavalan announced a huge expansion project as King Car's whiskies became more widely exported to North America and other markets. That expansion saw it build a second distillery at its Yilan site, doubling its number of copper stills to 20, all constructed in Scotland by Forsyths, and its production capacity to nine million litres, making it one of the largest single malt whisky distilleries in the world.

This isn't the first time that Kavalan has been recognised by the IWSC. As well as receiving the prestigious Distiller of the Year Trophy, this year the producer was also named Worldwide Whiskey Producer of the Year for a second year running, adding to an impressive line-up of accolades that includes winning the IWSC Asia Pacific Spirit Producer of the Year award four times in a row from 2011.

"Kavalan Distillery has earned some of the highest awards ever seen across all the products entered into the competition, as well as winning the Worldwide Whiskey Trophy. For a young distillery, Kavalan has done exceptionally well at becoming a serious international contender," commented the IWSC judges. db

THE TROPHY FOR OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENT IN THE SCOTCH WHISKY INDUSTRY:

DR NICK MORGAN

With more than 20 years' experience in the Scotch whisky business Dr Nick Morgan, head of whisky outreach at Diageo, is a worthy winner of this year's Outstanding Achievement in Scotch Whisky award.

Described as "understated but enormously influential" by IWSC CEO Allen Gibbons, Morgan began his career teaching modern Scottish history at the University of Glasgow. He joined United Distillers (now Diageo) in 1990, and was given the role of establishing its archives, becoming a leading authority on the history of the Scotch whisky industry in the process. He later moved into Diageo's global Scotch malt whisky marketing team, working his way up to marketing director. In this role, Morgan was responsible for a number of key innovations, including the development of the Talisker range, the introduction of Diageo's special releases programme, and the development of The Singleton of Glen Ord, as well as the creation of training programmes to help marketers and external commentators understand more about distillation, maturation and flavour. He later took on the position of Scotch heritage director, championing the history of the company and its famous whisky brands in Scotland.

Speaking of Morgan, Tobias Gorn, IWSC whisky judge and sommelier, called him a "truly inspiring person" who was "very humble about his amazing work and tremendous stature" in the Scotch industry.

"Nick is a highly respected figure in the industry," added Felicity Murray, editor-in-chief of The Drinks Report. "His in-depth knowledge and passion for Scotch whisky and its history has done much to develop the market today, not only for his company and its brands, but also the sector as a whole. In his quiet but authoritative manner, he has mentored and encouraged many who have had the privilege to work with or for him." db journalist's eye for a story has proven invaluable. Dedicated to sourcing wines made from native, unusual, forgotten and endangered varieties ("red squirrels not grey squirrels"*) Darlington has built up an esoteric and eclectic range of wines covering every style.

Today, Red Squirrel is one of the fastest-growing specialist wine importers in the UK and supplies some of the country's best restaurants. Judges were full of praise for Darlington and Red Squirrel, calling his approach "fresh and innovative" and praising the "originality" of the marketing and the "verve" with which he had established the business in just a few years.

One judge remarked: "Nick has achieved a great deal in a short space of time, having had no exposure to the wine trade previously. His championing of the esoteric and his craft as a storyteller make him a worthy winner of the Julian Brind award."

Few people have an orthodox route into the wine trade, and Nik Darlington is certainly no exception.

From starting as a management consultant with Simon-Kucher & Partners where he specialised in strategy and marketing for universities and newspapers, to chasing down scoops in the House of Commons as a journalist for BBC Scotland, Darlington's road is typical in its atypicality.

As well as a keen love of rugby and cricket, Darlington has written for The Spectator, The Huffington Post, The Daily Telegraph, The Independent and Total Politics on a wide range of topics, including literature, politics, universities, the environment and sport. But the one topic that has always exerted a powerful pull is a fascination for wine, one that began in Darlington's case during his time living in France as a teenager.

Later, in 2012, Darlington turned his love of wine and his ambition to run a business into a reality when he founded Red

The late Julian Brind MW was a leading light in the wine trade and an integral part of the Waitrose wine team for more than 40 years. We have created this award in association with the IWSC, where he was a long-standing judge, to honour his contribution and service to the trade he loved. He was a trusted and committed mentor to many aspiring young wine professionals, as well as being a dedicated family man, full of energy both for his work and his leisure activities.

Julian was always interested in quality and true wine value; he was also unswervingly enthusiastic about innovation and discovery. For example, as a supermarket buyer in 1973, he was involved right at the start of the New Zealand Sauvignon craze.

Each year, we award this prize to the man or woman who demonstrates they have the courage of their convictions, dedication to the industry and real passion for wine. The intended recipient will have established an early track record in their field, be seen to be "going places", and will already be taking part in the wider aspects of the wine trade, showing commitment and determination in everything they do.

Facundo Bacardí, the great-great grandson of rum legend

Don Facundo Bacardí Massó and this year's IWSC president elect, explains what makes the competition so special

What attracted you to the role of IWSC president?

The high-quality standard that the IWSC both demands and celebrates is close to my heart. My great-great grandfather, Don Facundo Bacardí Massó, and the creators of the other premium brands in our company's portfolio, had unique passions for crafting superior liquids. My family is committed to honouring my great-great grandfather's legacy by ensuring his creation will remain the highest-quality rum available for purchase. The IWSC's activities and focus are similar in many ways.

How valuable has your success in previous IWSC competitions been to the global development of your brands?

The IWSC has a thorough methodology for the evaluation and judging of products. For us, the double-blind panel is a great focus group of experts. We think of them as a way to evaluate if our products are meeting the look, feel, and taste expectations of those outside of our company. The chemical analysis helps validate the authenticity in the intrinsic messaging of the product as well. By winning an award we have an incredibly valuable asset that assures the trade and consumers of the quality of our products. An example of the value to our brands is our flagship Bacardí rum. We are proud that we can say that it is "the most awarded rum in the world".

However, we don't submit it to just any competition because the quantity of those awards is only as good as the quality of the awards. For us, the IWSC sits among the top shows on our short list of must-have competitions.

Biography: Facundo Bacardí

Facundo L. Bacardí has been chairman of the board of Bacardí Ltd since 2005 and a director since 1993. He is the great-great-grandson of company founder Don Facundo Bacardí Massó, and a fifth-generation family member.

Mr Bacardí is the managing director of Apache Capital LLC, an investment company based in Coral Gables, Florida, which invests in a broad, diversified class of public and private assets. Mr Bacardí serves on the advisory board of Noro-Moseley Partners and the board of trustees of Emory University. He also serves as the executive director of the Facundo and Amalia Bacardí Foundation.

Mr Bacardí holds a JD from Emory University Law School and a BSBA degree in finance from American University.

What have been the most exciting innovations to have emerged in spirits in recent years?

There have been many interesting innovations: for example, the use of more exotic botanicals in the production of gin, or the creation of products like Grey Goose VX that creatively fuse different categories into wonderful new expressions. However, focusing solely on rum, the recently renewed passion for premiumisation stands out. Our core priority is to drive premiumisation of the rum category. If we don't do it, no one is going to do it. In the past year, we started a shift to make sure we re-establish what rum really means. To do so we are embracing our heritage and origins in an external way by being a true rum and not chasing fads. Premiumising aged rum is in the best interest of the entire rum category that Bacardí, as the leader, is responsible for.

How can the trade better communicate with consumers about wine and spirits?

Many brands have invested heavily in platforms and programmes that drive education. Some have been more successful than others, but all with the aim of making sure the trade understands what's in the bottle, and who are the people behind it. On the other hand, brands continue to invest in reaching consumers with messaging that helps them connect with the brand, be it through culture, authenticity, heritage, or the drinking occasion. I see opportunity in the creation of better bridges that connect these two worlds. We need to ask ourselves: how can the one-on-one experience of a bartender or sommelier with a guest at a restaurant be amplified to reach more consumers? How can we increase the opportunities for cross-exposure between these two groups so that we can add value to the at-home experience for consumers?

How will you use your experience to support and strengthen the IWSC?

My industry experience will add value to the IWSC by amplifying and broadening the IWSC brand name in key regions where consumers may not be as in tune with what the IWSC is, or are not fully aware of its scope beyond the world of wine. In other words, increase the value of the IWSC for the distilled spirits world.

‘For us, the IWSC sits among the top shows on our short list of must-have competitions’

What developments can we expect to see from Bacardí in the near future?

More of our internal spirit of innovation and entrepreneurship. We are proud of our “Founder’s Mentality” which shapes our way of thinking, our approach to opportunities, and how we act. You will see even more innovative approaches to marketing. We are less and less focused on traditional marketing and traditional advertising because today’s consumer is generally reached differently. # POSITIVE change

Judges were impressed by Morrisons' work to refresh its wine range, including an exciting own-label offering

INNOVATOR OF THE YEAR: MORRISONS

2017 has been a transformative year for UK supermarket Morrisons, with the IWSC rewarding its work to rejuvenate and refresh its wine range by naming it Innovator of the Year.

In May, the UK retailer expanded and refreshed its premium own-label The Best wine range, adding wines from South Africa, southern Italy and the south of France. The Best, which incorporates all of the wines formally carried under the Signature label, now comprises around 70 lines in total. New additions include a Verdicchio and Grillo, to "lift the premium end" in Italy, as well as a Primitivo sourced from San Marzano in Puglia. Morrisons has also leveraged its third Wine Festival to showcase a selection of around eight of its The Best wines to "bring the range to life", merchandising these with meat and other offers, and offering tastings and cheese matching in store for the first time.

"There's been a lot of positive change," said Mark Jarman, Morrisons' senior trading manager for wine, at the retailer's tasting earlier this year. "We've listened to what customers are looking for; they want new and interesting styles, so we have developed new countries and price points. We've opened the range and brought in wines across the board."

Another big change to the own-label range in the past year has been the introduction of the Workshop Wine

Company, a range of Australian wines that offer an alternative to big brands. The project has seen Morrisons work directly to source and produce wines with growers and winemakers around the blending table. Of the six wines in the range, four are Workshop Bench blends priced at around £6, comprising a Viognier, Chardonnay, Merlot and Shiraz, and two are more premium – a single-vineyard Workshop Grenache-Shiraz and a McLaren Vale Shiraz at around £12.

Other regions that Morrisons has boosted include the south of France, to push the boundaries and expand out of the traditional areas, with new wines including Vinus by Paul Mas Clairette, a Pomerols Picpoul de Pinet and a Gérard Bertrand No Added Sulphite Chardonnay – one of three no-added sulphite wines to go on shelf this year.

Malbec was also extended beyond France and Argentina to regions including Chile and Patagonia to introduce breadth to the range, Jarman said. However, it is South Africa that has seen the biggest refresh, with around 50%-60% of the range new since last year.

"The objective was to reflect the genuine character that South Africa is capable of in terms of variety, regionality and also the new breed of iconic winemakers," he said.

The retailer also added its first Fair Trade wine to its portfolio, an old-vine

The Saviour Cinsault from Swartland, and acknowledged the potential to develop its range of own-brand Fair Trade wines further.

This widespread shake-up of its wine portfolio comes as Morrisons signed a deal to supply wines to convenience retailer McColl's estate of 1,300 convenience stores and 350 newsagents following "a competitive process".

Resurrecting the Safeway name for the wholesale deal, David Potts, Morrisons' chief executive, said the new partnership was an example of how the company was leveraging its existing assets to access the UK's growing convenience food market, with its foray into the world of wholesale helping to make the retailer into a "broader, stronger business". db

In an increasingly crowded arena, two independent retailers proved they have what it takes to thrive

INDEPENDENT WINE RETAILER OF THE YEAR, SPONSORED BY FRESCOBALDI: LEA & SANDEMAN

With nearly three decades in the business, Lea & Sandeman is one of London’s most respected wine merchants; part of the ‘old guard’, but far from set in its ways. As its co-founder, Charles Lea, states: “When we opened our first shop on the Fulham Road in 1988, the aim was to bring the full service of the traditional wine merchants to the High Street in updated form.”

Today, the retailer remains at the forefront of the independent sector, and has been quick to react and adapt to changing trends. It now has four shops in Barnes, Chelsea, Kensington and Chiswick, a growing wholesale operation, a thriving online business, a private-client arm and an en primeur sales and advice service.

Its range runs to around 2,000 wines in-store, with just over half available online, with France and Italy, especially Burgundy, Bordeaux, Tuscany and Piedmont, specialities, but with strong listings from Spain, Austria, South Africa, New Zealand and California.

The retailer prides itself on its dedication to sourcing many of its wines direct from growers, with a key tenet of its business model being exclusivity and value. “We are not name buyers, we are quality buyers,” adds Lea, boldly stating: “Our Sauvignon de Touraine is better than cheaper Sancerres; our Sancerre is among the best in the appellation.”

INDEPENDENT SPIRITS RETAILER OF THE YEAR: THE WHISKY EXCHANGE

Since it was founded by Sukhinder Singh in 1999, The Whisky Exchange has built an enviable reputation as one of the world’s leading online retailers of around 10,000 whiskies, specialist spirits and liqueurs, but also wines, Champagnes, beer and saké, maintaining a bricks-and-mortar base at its Covent Garden store.

Head buyer Dawn Davies MW is responsible for the vast range, to which she has added around 100 new suppliers in the past year alone, including Garden Tiger Gin from the Capreolus Distillery in the Cotswolds, strengthening the retailer’s reputation for products with genuine heritage, rarity and quality.

More recently, the retailer has worked to boost its editorial content online, with its team producing feature articles and analysis that work in tandem with its marketing goals. In 2016, online sales increased by 25% year-on-year, and while whisky remains a key driver of its business, gin recorded an increase of 30%.

This year the retailer launched its Old & Rare Whisky Show, which builds upon its already established Whisky Show, held each year in London.

The inaugural Whisky Show: Old & Rare took place in Glasgow in February, showcasing more than 400 old and rare whiskies, including an Orkney distilled in 1894 and one of the oldest whiskies ever released – a Glenlivet Generations 1940 70-year-old.

The winner of this year's Wine Importer of the Year award, Awin Barratt Siegel Wine Agencies was founded in 1986 by Michael Awin, originally under the name Australian Wineries. In the early days, it specialised in Australian wines, but has since expanded to represent all key winemaking regions of the world.

In 2005, the company bought Siegel Wine Agencies and was renamed Awin Barratt Siegel in 2006, more commonly known as ABS. The importer prides itself on being a family-run business and in turn works hard to seek out smaller wineries across the world with the aim of establishing long-term partnerships, while also holding contracts with both British Airways and The Wine Society.

Since 2013, ABS has been bottling more of its own wines in the UK, working with Greencroft Bottling, to supply private- and own-label brands to the UK on- and off-trade, under the guidance of Philip Goodband MW and Lynne Sheriff MW.

While its Australian portfolio remains a key part of its business, it has built strong ranges from Germany and South Africa, which together are worth 20% of its turnover. This year, it added two Oregon wineries to its portfolio: Twill Cellars, in the Willamette Valley; and Division Wine Company, an urban winery in Portland.

SPIRITS DISTRIBUTOR OF THE YEAR: MAVERICK DRINKS

2017 marks the third time that Maverick Drinks has won Spirits Distributor of the Year – an impressive feat given that the business was only founded in 2013. Since then it has brought a raft of unique craft spirits to the UK that prioritise provenance and authenticity. In the past year its portfolio has expanded to include Wolfburn Single Malt, That Boutique-y Gin Company and Bluecoat American Dry Gin. The company counts a wealth of wholesalers, online retailers and high street outlets in its UK distribution network, with national retailers Asda, Waitrose and Morrisons coming on board this year, along with specialist retailer The Whisky Shop. To keep up with growth, the Maverick team has doubled in size this year.

Earlier this year Maverick Drinks launched an industry-wide campaign called #ForwardDrinking, which aims to encourage the on- and off-trade to rethink their approach to alcohol. One of the issues it will tackle are industry taboos such as 'retros' (when brands pay for bar listings) and 'pay-to-play' schemes (when brands offer incentives to gain a retail listing). It is hoped the campaign will also help inspire innovation, bringing the trade together to encourage progress. db

A LIFE'S work

In 2016, The Dalmore master blender Richard Paterson marked five decades in the Scotch whisky industry

LIFETIME ACHIEVEMENT:

RICHARD PATERSON

This year the IWSC chose to honour a man who in 2016 marked 50 years in the Scotch whisky industry – The Dalmore's master blender Richard Paterson.

Growing up around Scotch whisky, Paterson got a 'nose' for whisky when he was just eight years old, when his father took over the family's specialist blending, bottling and brokerage company. He began his own whisky career in 1966, when, at 16, he became general production assistant at A. Gilles & Company Whisky Blender & Brokers in Glasgow, before moving to Whyte & Mackay. When he was 26, Paterson was promoted to the position of master blender, later transitioning to become master blender at the Whyte & Mackay-owned brand The Dalmore.

To mark five decades in the whisky trade, Paterson embarked upon an 18-month world tour in 2016, which is seeing him host a series of tastings worldwide showcasing a selection of bottles including The Dalmore Paterson Collection and the recently released The Dalmore Quintessence. As part of the celebrations, the distiller also released The Dalmore 50-year-old Single Malt, finished in Domaine Henri Giraud Champagne casks, marking half a century of Paterson's "pioneering whisky-making". In particular, he is known for his work in the art of multi-cask maturation and finishing, which led to releases such as The Dalmore King Alexander III – the first single malt whisky to undergo a six-cask finish in ex-wine, Port, Sherry, Madeira, Bourbon and Marsala vessels. The Dalmore 50-year-old meanwhile was matured in American white oak, Matusalem oloroso Sherry casks and Port Colheita pipes, before undertaking a "final finesse" for 50 days in Domaine Henri Giraud Champagne casks.

"The past 50 years have flown by, and I am so proud of what I have achieved in the industry," said Paterson of the milestone. "My time with The Dalmore has provided me with some of my fondest moments. The chance to create and work with the world's oldest and rarest malts has been an absolute privilege."

structure of whisky on smell alone has also earned him the title of 'The Nose'. A writer in his spare time, in 2008 Paterson published his first book, Goodness Nose – The Passionate Revelations of a Scotch Whisky Master Blender, in which he reveals some of the secrets of his craft and thoughts on where the industry is heading. When he's not making whisky, Paterson is also a diploma lecturer for Scotch whisky at the Wine & Spirit Education Trust in London.

Praising his contribution to the industry, a spokesperson for The Dalmore said: "As the creative force behind some of the most iconic and innovative releases in the world, Richard's passion, expertise and artistry have seen him pioneer the art of maturation and cask finishing which has been instrumental to the success of The Dalmore." db

A WHOLE LOTTA bottle

Retail giant Tesco scoop this year's supermarket wine buyer award, while Aldi impressed judges with its innovative spirits offer

SUPERMARKET WINE BUYER OF THE YEAR:

TESCO

Tesco, the UK's biggest food-and-drink retailer, is on track for a turnaround this year after seeing its group sales rise by 3.3% in the first half of the year, with group operating profits of £759 million.

With regard to its beer, wine and spirits portfolio, the retailer focused on improving the relevance and profitability of its offer by broadening its range, increasing the prominence of own brand products and maintaining a strong, stable core price position in an extremely promotional market.

Led by BWS category director Rob Cook, category-buying manager for wine

John Wotton, and beer, wine and spirits selling manager Simon Marsden, its wine-buying team impressed this year's judges with a number of innovations. In March, Tesco bolstered its premium own-label Finest range with the roll-out of 10 wines it described as being "luxury without the price-tag". The predominantly French and Italian wines come from unusual and upcoming regions, and champion the winemakers that Tesco partnered with on the project. The bottles have been redesigned with a new silver shield on the label. As well as the standard 75cl format, Tesco rolled out the range in single-serve 187ml bottles to encourage experimentation.

"The introduction of the new premium wines is the latest stage of Tesco's journey to develop its wine range by improving the quality, selection and availability, and simplifying the pricing of their own-label wines," a spokesperson for the retailer said at the time of the launch.

Tesco's former wine-category buying manager, James Davis MW, added: "A large number of customers are looking for a terrific wine to celebrate a special occasion, or to be an interesting talking point at the dinner table. We believe we've found some hidden gems among some brilliant classics. With the help of our fantastic winemaking partners we're able to bring these once-exclusive wines to shoppers across the country."

Year-on-year, Finest wine sales have increased by 18% and now account for nearly 40% of all sales in wine, while in the past year own-label sales topped £360m.

Proving its dedication to seeking out more unusual wines, in April the retailer added Changyu's 2015 Cabernet Sauvignon from the Helan Mountains in Ningxia, China, to its range. Now one of the largest wine-producing countries in the world, ahead of the more traditional regions of Chile and New Zealand, Davis believes the "impressive, food-friendly" Chateau Moser XV Cabernet, whose profile is "a cross between a classic Bordeaux and a rich fruity Australian wine", offers customers "an opportunity to discover a unique quality wine at an affordable price".

Confirming its commitment to quality, this year the retailer was also awarded the Sauvignon Blanc Trophy for its Tesco Finest North Row Vineyard 2016 Sauvignon Blanc.

"Winning awards across seven wine-producing countries and three continents, with a major trophy for Sauvignon Blanc, Tesco performed tremendously well at the IWSC 2017 and has proved that supermarkets can make and source trophy-winning wines," one IWSC judge said in praise of the retailer. db

SUPERMARKET SPIRITS BUYER OF THE YEAR:

ALDI

Aldi had a particularly successful year in 2017. In the 12 months, to December 2016, the retailer saw total sales increase by 13.5% to £8.7 billion, while spirits sales increased by 13.3%. Boosted by new additions to its own-label range and a focus on gin, Aldi's efforts to introduce greater innovation to its spirits portfolio were rewarded with the IWSC naming it Supermarket Spirits Buyer of the Year.

In particular, the retailer received recognition for its Oliver Cromwell London Dry Gin, which retails at just £10 and won a Gold medal in this year's competition. Off the back of its success with the Oliver Cromwell brand, the retailer added two new gins to its range in October, and confirmed plans to release a further five expressions in November. These new additions include the Oliver Cromwell 1599 sloe gin, Victoria Pink Gin and Needle Blackforest Gin from Germany. Its Glen Marnoch range of own-label whiskies also scored highly, taking home a clutch of silver medals, as did its Baroque Brandy, Bluegrass Kentucky Straight Bourbon and Chavalier Cognac.

"With high scores over an extensive range of spirits styles, both traditional and innovative, Aldi's buying team has shown excellent skills at sourcing high quality products in an ever competitive market," IWSC judges said of its success.

This year, Aldi also expanded its reach into the craft spirits sector with the signing of a £1.1m million deal with craft distillery Eden Mill, based in Guardbridge near St Andrews, Scotland, to supply its stores with a range a bespoke gins and pre-mixed cocktails. Three varieties of Eden Mill's Botanical Project range will be available to Aldi shoppers including limited release flavoured craft gins in Blueberry & Vanilla and Chilli & Ginger, as well as its Traditional Batch Gin. This range will run in-store alongside the distillery's Mixology Project – a range of ready-to-pour cocktails made with Eden Mill's small-batch gins, available in Basil Smash, Citrus Fizz or Berry Bramble variations.

Demonstrating further innovation in the gin category, and the crossing over of categories, Aldi has also announced the imminent arrival of sloe gin-flavoured mince pies, which will go on sale in November ahead of the festive season.

2017 also marked the opening of Aldi's first store in the US, its first online store in China, and it becoming the UK's fifth-largest retailer, overtaking The Co-Op. Over the 12-week period to 29 January 2017, the retailer recorded a 2.4% year-on-year sales boost, which increased its share of the UK grocery market to 6.2%, pushing past The Coop's 6% share. As of October, the retailer held a 6.8% share, maintaining its fifth place position.

Not content to rest on its laurels, the retailer has also announced plans invest £459m to open a further 70 stores in the UK this year, which will take its total number of stores to just shy of 800. db

For the second year in a row, Waitrose is the leading supermarket when it comes to beer, wine and spirits

SUPERMARKET OF THE YEAR,
SPONSORED BY MCGUIGAN WINES:

WAITROSE

Scooping the Supermarket of the Year award for the second year running, Waitrose impressed judges with its breadth of activity across its entire BWS range, with a raft of product launches, innovative activations and consumer engagement taking place throughout the year.

In September, Waitrose added a range of half-bottles to its own-label range including a Prosecco, a rosé and two fortified wines. The half-bottles form part of the retailer's new Blueprint Wine range, and mark complete relaunch and redesign of the retailer's mid-tier own-label range.

This year also saw the launch of a new premium bag-in-box wine range to meet increasing demand for larger formats. The new range comprises six wines, varying from 1.5-litre to 2.25l boxes, and includes a 1.5l Côte Bleu Méditerranée Rosé – the first time Waitrose has sold a pale, dry rosé in the bag-in-box format.

Sherry also received a summer refresh, with the retailer boosting and redesigning its own-label range, abandoning its colour-coordinated look in favour of more individual styles to add more on-shelf appeal. At the same time, Waitrose expanded its entire BWS range with the addition of 90 new lines, including 11 new craft beers, six spirits and a raft of wines, with a particular focus on its fine wine offer. James Bone, buying manager for wines said there had been a renewed strategy to offer greater choice within the fine wine range, making it easier for consumers to navigate with the introduction of a "ladder".

"Last year we looked at fine wine and it was getting condensed in terms of price and needed more of a ladder," he said, adding that the revamp has started with Italy and moved into the "heartland" of Burgundy. "Now there is more of a ladder, which makes it more exciting for customers to find wines at different price points, and an opportunity to trade up."

In terms of innovation, the team recently set out to trial a "new generation" of in-store tech with the launch of video shelf-edge technology in its beer, wine and spirits aisle. This has digitised information, giving customers access to its wine team's tasting notes and recommendations, including food-and-wine matching.

Outside of the store, the Waitrose events team has also been busy, confirming that its consumer Drinks Festival will return for a second year on 17-19 November 2017.

Launched last year, the event was a culmination of six months' work by the buying teams, who are not only active in the planning the festival, but also provide 'tours' of their respective categories to consumers on the day. db

KANONKOP WINE ESTATE

No consideration of the great historic estates of the Cape would be complete without mentioning Kanonkop.

With a name derived from a cannon placement in the 17th century, when firing was used to signal the arrival of trading ships in Cape Town harbour, this is a property rich in history, and one that has become famous for its great age-worthy reds. In particular, the producer is renowned for creating the world's finest expressions of Pinotage, a grape that may divide opinions but, as Kanonkop has proved, is capable of producing wonderful results in the right soils and with careful handling. It also helps that Kanonkop, located on the lower slopes of the Simonsberg Mountain in Stellenbosch, has some of the Cape's oldest commercial plantings of the variety, with Pinotage vineyards now more than 50 years old.

Aside from Pinotage, Kanonkop is also revered for its blends made using Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot and Cabernet Franc. Today, Kanonkop is not only recognised for its distinctive cannon emblem but also respected for both the quality of its wines and exceptional value for money.

WEINGUT HORST SAUER

Weingut Horst Sauer is a Franconian estate nestling in the wine village of Escherndorf, close to the great Escherndorfer Lump.

It became a VDP estate in 2012 and is managed by father-and-daughter team Horst and Sandra Sauer. Covering 20.5 hectares, it has vineyards on the Grosse Lage Escherndorfer am Lumpen 1655, the Escherndorfer Lump and Ersten Lagen Escherndorfer Fürstenberg in Franken.

The estate grows Silvaner, Riesling, Müller-Thurgau, Bacchus, Scheurebe, Spätburgunder, Domina and Weißburgunder. The estate is today known for both its noble sweet wines and its elegant dry expressions. Among several medals awarded to Horst this year was a Gold for its Weingut Horst Sauer Escherndorfer Lump Riesling Trockenbeerenauslese 2015, which judges noted for its "rich, ripe aromatic lemon and honey on the nose" and "streak of acidity, showing masterly balance".

As Horst Sauer states: "We promote the best features in all our wines, from the basic Qualitätswein to the noble sweet wines, from the start of their development in the vineyard to the point of bottling. We just can't help giving our best for them, because we love all our children."

CANADIAN WINE PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY: REIF ESTATE WINERY

The story of Reif Estate begins not in Ontario but Germany’s Rhineland, where in 1937 the founder was born into a long-established family of winemakers.

Ewald Reif eventually set out from Germany to Canada in 1977 and, on arriving, he swiftly bought Riverscourt Farm near Niagara and planted it with vines – some of the first vitis vinifera vines in Canada. Before long he was supplying grapes to the equally new and now famous Inniskillin winery.

In 1982 Ewald decided to begin vinifying and bottling his own wine. He refurbished the old coach house on the estate to be his winery and his brother, Gunther, helped supply steel tanks and German barrels. The winery opened the following year.

In 1985 Gunther’s son, Klaus, visited Canada and immediately fell in love with the country and Niagara in particular. Completing his studies at Geisenheim in 1987, he swiftly returned to take up a position in the company and completed his first Icewine harvest in 1988.

Since then the winery has picked up awards for its Meritage blend (1997) and Icewine (2002) at the IWSC, with 2002 also marking the occasion when the winery was first named Canadian Winery of the Year at the competition.

Still run by Klaus, the winery today boasts 125 acres in the Niagara-on-the-lake sub-appellation – the warmest area in Ontario. As well as its much-awarded Icewine the estate produces Riesling, Chardonnay, Chenin Blanc, Gamay, Pinot Noir and Cabernet Franc among others.

CHAMPAGNE PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY,
SPONSORED BY THE LONDON WINE FAIR:
CHAMPAGNE PIPER-HEIDSIECK

Piper-Heidsieck started life as a cloth- and wine-trading company called Heidsieck & Co in 1785. Founded by Reims-based draper Florens-Louis Heidsieck, who was keen to make “a cuvée worthy of a queen”, the house quickly gained a reputation for its distinctive Champagne, which won favour at the French court.

Following his death in 1828, Heidsieck’s nephew, Christian, joined forces with entrepreneur Henri-Guillaume Piper to continue the business, with their fizz becoming the official Champagne of 14 royal and imperial courts.

In 1988 the house was taken over by the Hériard Dubreuil family which consolidated the international development of the maison, now owned by EPI, with cellar master Régis Camus (pictured) having been at the helm since 1994.

Known for its full-bodied nature, Piper focuses on Pinot Noir in its brut non-vintage, traditionally using around 60% in the blend along with Chardonnay and Pinot Meunier from Grande and Petite Montagne de Reims. The Piper range includes a brut non-vintage, brut vintage, Rosé Sauvage, Cuvée Sublime and prestige cuvée Rare. Last October Piper launched a rosé expression of Rare, debuting with the 2007 vintage. This is a blend of 56% Chardonnay and 44% Pinot Noir, aged on its lees for eight years.

“I’ve been thinking about making a Rare rosé expression since 2002 but had to wait for the right vintage, which was 2007. Colour is very important with rosé – I wanted it to look like sunlight through stained glass,” said Camus.

This year the house announced that it was moving to brown glass bottles for its brut non-vintage to protect its sparklers from UV light. Its latest release is Essentiel – an extra-aged, lower-dosage expression. The house has been the official pour at the Cannes Film Festival since 1993.

CHILEAN WINE PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY, SUPPORTED BY WINES OF CHILE:

VIÑA CONO SUR

One of Chile’s most recognised and awarded wineries, Cono Sur was founded in 1993 with the aim of producing “premium, expressive and innovative wines”.

The name itself is a reference to the winery’s position in the ‘Southern Cone’ of South America (incorporating Chile, Argentina, Paraguay and Uruguay). From the start Cono Sur has applied new ideas and technology to its winemaking to capture the spirit and terroir of the New World.

In a short space of time the winery has achieved a number of ‘firsts’, such as being the first Chilean winery to produce and export Viognier, and the first to attain a Designation of Origin for both Riesling and a sparkling wine from Bío Bío.

It is one of the largest Pinot Noir producers in the world, with a range that spans its entry-level Bicicleta label to top-of-the-line Ocio, produced in partnership with noted Burgundian winemaker Martin Prieur, from Domaine Jacques Prieur.

It’s not just in its wines that Cono Sur tries to lead the way either. In 1995, just two years after its founding, it became the first winery in South America to use synthetic corks. Since 2002 it has bottled its aromatic white wines under screwcap to maintain their intensity and prevent oxidation. Its entry-level red, white and rosé wines have also been bottled under screwcap for the past 15 years.

In the vineyards too, Cono Sur has been at pains to remain committed to the environment and developing environmentally friendly policies; including embracing natural vineyard management, organic production and balancing CO<sub>2</sub> emissions.

ENGLISH WINE PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY, SPONSORED BY THE VINTNERS’ COMPANY:

GUSBOURNE ESTATE

Founded in 2004 on an estate dating back to 1410 Gusbourne, in Kent, has emerged as one of the brightest lights of the burgeoning English wine industry.

Focusing on the three main traditional Champagne grapes – Chardonnay, Pinot Noir and Pinot Meunier – the Gusbourne estate spans 40 hectares in Kent and a further 22ha in West Sussex.

Bottling its first vintage in 2006, Gusbourne’s inaugural commercial release came in 2010. Today the estate makes a trio of sparklers: its flagship blanc de blancs, which is aged on its lees for 36 months; a brut reserve blending the three Champagne grapes; and a pale pink rosé made from Pinot Noir and Pinot Meunier. Last October the 2007 vintage of Gusbourne Blanc de Blancs made its way onto the menu at a Buckingham Palace banquet. In addition to fizz Gusbourne also produces two still wines: Guinevere Chardonnay and a Pinot Noir – one of the most promising still reds in England.

In 2013 Gusbourne was bought by investment company Shellproof for £7 million, which has given the estate the cash to invest in a new winery. Master Sommelier Laura Rhys was hired in 2015 to look after the brand’s domestic and global development. In keeping with the brand’s luxury approach, Gusbourne can be found at high-end retailers such as Selfridges and Fortnum & Mason, and fine-dining restaurants like Heston Blumenthal’s The Fat Duck in Bray and Simon Rogan’s L’Enclume in Cumbria. While still in charge of winemaking, last October Charlie Holland was promoted to the role of chief executive.

Gusbourne increased its sales last year by 35%, while gross profits grew by 47%. Its latest development is the opening of a new tasting room, while key objectives for 2018 include expanding production and exports.

FRENCH WINE PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY, SPONSORED BY VINIMPO:

LA CAVE DES VIGNERONS DE PFAFFENHEIM

Founded in 1957, this year Alsace producer La Cave des Pfaffenheim celebrated its 60th year in business. Based in a small village 15km south west of Colmar, the administrative capital of Alsace, the co-op was formed by a small group of local winemakers who decided to pool their resources to work more efficiently. It bottled its first harvest in 1959. Nine years later it merged with another small co-op in the neighbouring village of Gueberschwihr, which took its membership to 100 growers.

In 1997 the group expanded again with the acquisition of Dopff & Irion and Riquewihr Castle, located in the village of the same name. A new winery was constructed in 2003, equipped with pneumatic presses, with wines made in stainless steel vats to preserve their fruit character. Since then it has grown to 170 members, making an average of 2.5 million bottles a year from 270 hectares of vineyards that surround the village. It is unique in using only hand-picked grapes, the result of its members pushing tirelessly to improve quality. 2012 saw the reorganisation of its sales and marketing team, with the objective of developing export sales. A year later the group formed its own logistics platform, furthering its reach into export markets.

While celebrated for its whites, the winery also makes a very well-respected Pinot Noir in La Griffé du Diable (Claw of the Devil) and a full range of classic Alsace varietal wines, including its classic Riesling Cuvée Jupiter, as well as its Gentil Pfaff and Black Tie blends. Then there are five grand crus – Goldert, Hatschbourg, Steinert, Zinnkoepflé and Steingold, as well as five Crémants d’Alsace.

To celebrate its 60th anniversary the cellar of Pfaffenheim plans to organise a festive event in the region, but has also used the occasion to upgrade its facilities, installing a new bottling system that uses inert nitrogen bottles.

AUSTRALIAN WINE PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY,
SPONSORED BY HELLMANN BEVERAGE LOGISTICS:
HOUSE OF ARRAS

It was in 1995 that Australian winemaker Ed Carr spotted Tasmania’s sparkling-wine potential, which led to the creation of the House of Arras, owned by wine giant Accolade.

The house’s first fizz made from 100% Tasmanian fruit – 1998 – was released in 2002. Australia’s leading wine critic, James Halliday, describes Carr as “a quietly spoken genius” and named him the country’s greatest sparkling winemaker “by some considerable distance”.

Working with Pinot Noir and Chardonnay and ageing the wines for at least four years on the lees – top drop EJ Carr Late Disgorged is aged for a decade – Carr’s goal is to make elegant, ageworthy sparklers that can compete with the best in the world.

“The Arras style is about complexity, flavour persistence, finesse and critically maintaining vibrancy and freshness,” he says.

Carr believes Tasmania’s cool climate and the long ripening season it allows for has a greater influence on the grapes than the soils they are grown in. “Soil types vary tremendously across Tasmania and have a significant impact on the grapes, although climate is by far the major contributor,” he adds.

Arras is represented by Liberty Wines in the UK and has a small presence in Asia, but its strongest market is Australia.

“It’s only within the last decade that the wines have evolved to a point of world parity in quality and have increased to significant volumes,” says Carr. “Expanding our volumes to increase our global footprint is a key objective for us.”

THE ITALIAN WINE PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY:
FATTORIA LA VIALLA DI GIANNI, ANTONIO E BANDINO
LO FRANCO SOCIETÀ AGRICOLA SEMPLICE

Fattoria La Vialla is a family-run agriturismo estate, one of the oldest and largest organic and biodynamic farms in Tuscany, and boasts the largest Demeter-certified vineyard in Europe.

The estate was purchased by the Lo Franco family in 1978 and today is run by Brothers Gianni, Antonio and Bandino, who represent the second generation of ownership.

The estate covers around 1,342 hectares, with about 190ha under vine. Planted with Sangiovese, Canaiolo (for Chianti and Chianti Superiore) and Malvasia (for Valdichiana and Vin Santo), the vineyard has been certified organic since 1983 and biodynamic since 2006. La Vialla is also home to 115ha of olive trees and a large area of arable land and forest.

Producing not only biodynamic wine but also high-quality olive oil, grains for breads and other baked goods, as well as pecorino and ricotta cheeses, La Vialla is a popular destination for agritourism for visitors to Tuscany. There are 23 restored farmhouses available for hire and on Tuesdays and Wednesdays guests eat at communal tables under the trees.

La Vialla was one of 10 pilot companies in Italy that participated in research, promoted by the European Commission, which aimed to establish a common set of regulations and necessary requirements for a wine to be certified as organic.

Today the estate is fully independent and eco-sustainable in all stages of the winemaking process, from cultivating and harvesting to packaging and shipping. All energy used is renewable and is supplied by the photovoltaic facility on site, while a phyto-purification plant filters the water.

NEW ZEALAND WINE PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY, SPONSORED BY HELLMANN BEVERAGE LOGISTICS: TAKAPOTO ESTATE

It's always exciting in any awards programme to unearth a new producer making class-leading wines, and this year a surprise discovery is New Zealand's Takapoto Estate.

Launched with the 2012 vintage, Takapoto Estate is a relative newcomer to the wine scene in New Zealand, although the founder winemaker, Andrew Anderson, who is 48 years old, has been making wine for almost 25 years, with experience in Australia and Spain. The brand was born in 2011 when Anderson struck up a conversation about great Pinot Noir from New Zealand with Mitchell Plaw, who now owns the Takapoto brand and company that produces it, called Profile Farms.

Plaw asked Anderson to make the wine, and it is the inaugural 2012 vintage of the Takapoto Bannockburn Single Vineyard Pinot Noir that has been named the winner of this year's Pinot Noir Trophy. The Pinot comes from the Central Otago sub-region of Bannockburn, specifically from the Legends Terrace, which sits above the famous Felton Road winery. Anderson said that having tasted through the vineyard he settled on several rows made up of three different clones of Pinot that he felt gave the best expression of the vineyard.

All Takapoto's wines are made using native yeasts, no additives are used and the wines are bottled after one year in mainly new French oak, unfiltered and unfiltered. They are then left to mature in the bottle for four years before being released. The 2012 Bannockburn Single Vineyard was the first wine produced along with a Gibbston Valley Single Vineyard 2012. These wines are only produced in great vintages, otherwise Takapoto produce a blend of the two, such as in 2013.

PORTUGUESE WINE PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY:
COOPERATIVA AGRÍCOLA DE ST. ISIDRO DE PÉGOES C.R.L.

Based in the southern Portuguese region of Setúbal (near the city of the same name), the Cooperativa de Pegões owes its creation to the philanthropy of the great beer magnate José Rovisco Pais. When Pais died in 1932 he left large estates to the Lisbon State Hospitals, including land around Pegões.

The cooperative was established in March 1958 to help offer technical and logistic support to the growing number of grape growers who were among the farmers the government had given the land to. The Cooperative survived the economic turbulence and instability that followed the revolution of 1974, and today the winery boasts 1,117 hectares of vineyard and an average production of 12 million bottles a year.

With quality and value always at the forefront of the winery's plans, millions have been spent on modernisation and new technology – €15 million (£13.52m) in the last 15 years – from fermentation vats to vacuum presses, filling, packaging and labelling lines and thousands of casks for ageing.

The winery's production is weighted towards red wines, which make up 70% of its output, with the rest being white although some specialities are made too, such as a sweet Muscat, sparkling wines and eau-de-vie.

The grape varieties are a mix of native Portuguese and international. For the reds they include Castelão, Touriga Nacional, Aragonês and Cabernet Sauvignon, while for the whites there are Fernão Pires, Muscat, Tamarez, Arinto, Verdelho and Chardonnay.

FORTIFIED WINE PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY: HARVEYS SHERRY (BODEGAS FUNDADOR)

Harveys was founded in Bristol's historic Denmark Street in 1796 by merchant William Perry, and went on to become one of the largest importers of Sherry from the Bay of Cadiz to the port of Bristol during the 19th century.

At the time Sherry was imported into Britain in oak casks by ship, then blended in Bristol, where Perry used his medieval cellars to store the wines. In 1846 Perry's three eldest sons, John, Edward and Charles, joined the business and set about perfecting a new blend of Sherry named Bristol Milk, a rich dark Sherry later known as Harveys Bristol Cream. First created in 1882 by John Harvey II and his brother Edward, it was the result of a meticulous selection of more than 30 blends of fino, oloroso, amontillado and Pedro Ximénez Sherries. The fortified wine is aged in American oak casks using the traditional system of soleras and criaderas

In 1895 Harveys received the royal warrant. The company owns vineyards in the three key points of 'the Sherry triangle': Jerez, Sanlúcar de Barrameda to the west and El Puerto de Santa Maria to the south.

Manuel José Valcarcel has been Harveys' master blender for over 20 years. Today, he makes a number of different expressions, from the famous Bristol Cream with its distinctive electric-blue label, to a refreshing fino, Harveys Medium Dry, a rare cream Sherry called 'Signature', an oloroso and three VORS certified Sherries – an amontillado, palo cortado and Pedro Ximénez.

In 2012, Harveys' historic cellars in Bristol reopened as a Sherry and tapas bar.

ARGENTINE WINE PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY, SUPPORTED BY WINES OF ARGENTINA:

VIÑALBA

For those who love the richness of Argentine reds, but also the classic structure of claret, Viñalba is a name not to be missed. Founded by Bordeaux-born Hervé Fabre, Viñalba is a property that unites Argentine old vines with French winemaking know-how. Family-owned to this day, and still run by Hervé along with his wife Diane, Viñalba has vineyards in a range of Argentina's top terroirs, from the Valle de Uco's sought-after sub-region of Gualtallary to the extreme climate of Patagonia's Río Negro.

Although Hervé has been making wines in Mendoza since the early 1990s from his Fabre Montmayou winery in Luján de Cuyo, in 2007 he launched the Viñalba brand. Not only do the wines of Viñalba benefit from a number of Argentina's oldest Malbec vineyards, which date back to 1908, but also Hervé's subtle approach in the cellar; techniques that favour elegance over power.

In keeping with his Bordeaux background, Hervé has always championed wines made from Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot and Cabernet Franc. However at heart Viñalba is a brand for Malbec, no doubt because Hervé was the first winemaker to create a pure Malbec expression from Argentina.

Nevertheless, as one might expect considering his French roots, the art of blending grapes to create complexity and balance is also key to Viñalba's wines and, aside from the aforementioned Bordeaux grapes, Hervé also likes to marry Malbec with Syrah and Touriga Nacional to great effect.

SPANISH WINE PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY,
SPONSORED BY HELLMANN BEVERAGE LOGISTICS:

BODEGUEROS Y VITICULTORES ALTOS DE RIOJA

Founded in Rioja Alavesa in 2006, Altos de Rioja is a joint venture between Jean Marc Sauboua, an award-winning flying winemaker from Bordeaux, Roberto San Ildefonso of Bodegas Sobreño in Toro, and Bienvenido Muñoz of Bodegas Muñoz in La Mancha.

Sauboua began his career at first-growth Château Haut-Brion and has worked at top estates in South Africa and New Zealand, alongside winemaking projects in Italy, Spain, Australia, Chile and Argentina. Ildefonso, meanwhile, started out in the Rioja Alavesa in the early 1980s and by the late '90s had successfully developed his Bodegas Sobreño brand.

Boutique project Altos de Rioja was born from a shared passion between the three men to make modern Rioja wines of great quality with a respect for traditional methods. Grapes are sourced from old vines in the high-altitude villages of Laguardia, Elvillar and Cripán – a privileged microclimate for growing grapes characterised by dry summers, warm days and cool nights with a temperature difference during the growing season between day and night of 20°C, which allows for optimum ripening of the grapes in terms of colour, structure and ageing potential. The entire range is aged in 80% French oak and 20% American barrels.

The six-strong range includes a partially barrel-fermented white made from Virua and Malvasia; a Tempranillo aged in oak for six months; and a Graciano called Pigeage made from 80-year-old vines.

UNITED STATES WINE PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY:

BLACK STALLION ESTATE (DELICATO WINERY)

Black Stallion Winery, located in the Oak Knoll District of Napa Valley, was bought by Delicato Family Vineyards in 2010. It lies three miles north of the town of Napa, on the famed Silverado Trail. It takes its name from an equestrian facility, known as the Silverado Horseman’s Centre, which was based on the site for many years. Another claim to fame: the old property is where Francis Ford Coppola filmed the helicopter scene from Apocalypse Now.

Today the winery comprises nine acres of estate vineyards, a tasting room and hospitality centre, as well as two guest cottages. It is planted predominantly with Cabernet Sauvignon but also has small plots of Merlot, Malbec, Syrah, Pinot Noir, Zinfandel, Chardonnay and Sauvignon Blanc.

The winery releases its wines in three tiers: prestige; limited-edition; and heritage wines. Production volumes remain small, regardless of the tier, with a focus on “crafting exquisite, ultra-premium wines that reflect the elegance and complexity of the Napa Valley”.

Black Stallion recently announced the completion of the installation of a solar-electric energy system comprising 1,000 solar panels fixed to the roofs of the winery complex. The system is expected to reduce carbon dioxide emissions by approximately 377 metric tons per year, equivalent to planting 357 acres of trees.

THE JING SONG TROPHY FOR CHINESE WINE PRODUCER OF THE YEAR, SPONSORED BY JING SONG: CHANGYU PIONEER WINE CO. LTD., YANTAI, CHINA

The history of the Changyu Pioneer wine company goes back to 1892 when Chinese businessman and politician Cheong Fatt Tze, known as “the Rockefeller of the East”, started a winery in the city of Yantai in Shandong province.

Importing vines from the US, in 1896 he signed a contract with Baron Max von Babo, the son of the celebrated Austrian viticulturist August Wilhelm von Babo, who founded the famous viticultural college in Klosterneuberg.

Unfortunately, in the early days of viticulture in China, perhaps Max’s inexperience of how to handle such a commission (he was acting local consul as well), combined with the outbreak of the World War I, led to a rocky start for the company.

With time, however, Changyu found its feet and is now the biggest producer of wine in China, with major wineries in Ningxia and Liaoning, Beijing and, of course, Shandong.

Having started with an Austrian viticulturist, Changyu worked to develop its Ningxia site, Château Changyu Moser XV, with another well-known Austrian, Lenz Moser – who chose the site in Ningxia because of its similarity to Mendoza in Argentina. Built in 2013, the finished ‘château’ cost around €70 million (£63m), boasts an 800-barrel cellar, bottling lines and a museum telling the story of the company’s progress since its founding.

Its flagship red, Château Changyu Moser XV, is a blend of 90% Cabernet Sauvignon and 10% Merlot. Currently Changyu is the only Chinese producer available in the UK. Its wines have previously been on sale in Britain through Berry Bros & Rudd and are on wine lists at London’s Mandarin Oriental and The Dorchester, however 2017 marked the first time that its wines became available in a major UK supermarket, with both Sainsbury’s and Tesco taking on the brand.

INTERNATIONAL GIN PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY, SPONSORED BY THE GIN GUILD:

HERNÖ GIN

Based in the village of Dala, just outside the city of Härnösand in the province of Angermanland, Hernö Gin was founded in 2011 by master distiller Jon Hillgren. It was Sweden’s first dedicated gin distillery and the world’s most northerly.

Staying true to its Swedish roots, the distillery is built in a traditional Swedish manner, with wood painted in red and white. All of its spirits are certified organic and produced using eight botanicals sourced from around the world, including Swedish lingonberries, cassia from Indonesia, vanilla from Madagascar and juniper berries from Hungary.

Hernö’s core range includes four expressions: a London Dry Gin; an Old Tom gin; a 57% ABV navy-strength gin; and a juniper cask-aged gin. Its cask-aged gin is left to mature in 40-litre casks made from juniper wood for 30 days before being bottled at 47% ABV. Hillgren believes juniper wood carries more flavour than oak, with Hernö’s juniper cask-aged gin the first of its kind when it was launched in 2013.

This year saw the launch of its limited-edition Swedish Rose gin, released in partnership with independent gin bottler That Boutique-y Gin Company. The gin, which took home the IWSC London Dry Gin Trophy this year, is made by ageing neutral spirit in a juniper cask and combining it with dried rose petals, reducing the use of meadowsweet and lingonberry botanicals, and then blending it with a proportion of juniper cask-aged gin.

VODKA PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY:

PURITY VODKA

Purity Vodka was founded in 2002 in Scania, Sweden, by master blender Thomas Kuuttanen (pictured).

Its vodka is produced in small batches and distilled 34 times using a still, made from copper and gold, housed at the 13th century Ellinge Castle in southern Sweden. The unusual still has a mash volume of 600 litres, with the resulting spirit coming off at 96% abv unfiltered. It is then blended with deionised mineral water to reduce it to 40% abv. Purity Vodka uses natural ingredients and is certified as organic in Europe and the US.

“During the thirty-four distillations, 90% of the liquid is lost,” says Kuuttanen. “The remaining spirit is so refined that no filtration is necessary, leaving all the natural flavours and character in the vodka.”

Backing up Kuuttanen is David Szydlak, who was appointed as Purity’s new president and chief executive officer earlier this year, taking over the role from Brian Citron. For the past eight years Szydlak has held multiple roles at Pernod Ricard, including business-unit director southwest and national director of sales operations and planning, as well as his most recent role as director of chains. Before joining Pernod Ricard Szydlak held various management positions with Molson Coors and Coca-Cola Enterprises.

The distiller was not only named Vodka Producer of the Year at this year’s competition but was also awarded the Vodka Trophy in recognition of its Purity Vodka 51, described by judges as a “full-bodied” vodka that “rounds off with a refreshing touch of citrus” on the finish.

LIQUEUR PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY:
MOZART DISTILLERIE GMBH

Mozart Distillerie GmbH is today owned by Austria’s Schlumberger Wein- und Sektkellerei, which acquired the company from Beam Suntory in 2016, and has gained international recognition for its Mozart chocolate liqueur brand.

Founded in 1954 and based in Salzburg, the birthplace of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, the Mozart Distillerie today specialises in chocolate-based liqueurs, which it has been making for the past 30 years, and is the global market leader in the category. All of its chocolate liqueurs are made from natural ingredients, with production centred on the cold maceration of vanilla and two types of cocoa bean; Forastero and Trinitario. The raw ingredients are mixed with neutral alcohol and then stored for two months in barrel and filtered to produce a clear cocoa spirit which forms the basis of Mozart liqueurs.

This February Mozart launched a White Chocolate Cream Strawberry expression, created by combining strawberries, bourbon vanilla, cream and cocoa butter with distillate.

“The vibrant packaging – our iconic foil-wrapped bottle – is a real crowd-stopper,” said Mozart’s CEO Florian Iro at the time of the launch. “With Mozart White Chocolate Cream Strawberry, we are opening a new season for chocolate lovers by presenting the chocolate world’s most-liked fruit combination.”

Other brands in the Mozart range include its original chocolate cream liqueur, a dark chocolate expression and a white chocolate variant. All of the expressions in the Mozart range are made with Belgian chocolate, fresh cream and vanilla from Madagascar, which are macerated in beet sugar alcohol to create the liqueurs.

In addition to its cream liqueurs, the distillery also produces a unique Mozart Chocolate Vodka – a clear spirit distilled from its trademark cocoa and vanilla macerate.

RUM PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY: RUM TRADING INTERNATIONAL

Rum Trading International is the company name for the producers of Flor de Caña, the leading rum brand in Nicaragua, and one that is still family owned after 125 years.

From 1890, near the base of the San Cristobal volcano in northwestern Nicaragua, the Pellas family began producing rum for workers on their estate to celebrate the end of the harvest. The first rums from the estate were sold commercially in 1937.

By 1959 the brand began to expand its exports to neighbouring Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala and Venezuela.

The political upheavals in Nicaragua of the late 1970s and early 1980s led the company to keep back a larger stock of rum and continue ageing them until better times returned. It is for this reason that Flor de Caña has, to this day, one of the largest reserves of old rum in the world.

Since the 1990s the brand has grown, expanded its export markets and picked up ever-greater numbers of awards – nearly 200 of them – at international competitions, making it one of the most awarded rum brands in the world.

In 2005, the company released its 18-year-old Flor de Caña, which went on to be given top awards at competitions in San Francisco and London, while the 25-year-old expression released in 2014 was named ‘2017 Best Rum of the Year’ at the International Rum Conference in Madrid. This year the brand celebrated its 125th year, with its leadership spanning five generations.

WORLDWIDE WHISKEY PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY:

KAVALAN DISTILLERY

From humble beginnings, Kavalan has grown to become a worldwide whisky heavyweight. Founded in 2005, it is the only family-owned whisky distillery in Taiwan and is produced at the King Car distillery in Yilan Province.

Kavalan shot to global prominence in 2010 after one of its whiskies beat a trio of premium Scotch whiskies in a blind tasting organised by Time magazine on Burns Night. The success of that tasting led to sales tripling and demand outstripping supply. Five years later, in 2015, Kavalan’s Solist Vinho Barrique was named the World’s Best Single Malt Whisky at the World Whiskies Awards. The distillery has also been recognised by the IWSC in the past, winning the Asia Pacific Spirit Producer of the Year award four times in a row from 2011 to 2014, and the Worldwide Whisky producer trophy in 2016 and 2017.

Recognising it could not yet compete with Scotch in terms of age, given its short history, Kavalan has instead chosen to carve a niche for itself with Sherry cask-aged whiskies matured at its warehouses in Yilan, south of Taipei, where temperatures average 33°C in the summer. Combined with the region’s humidity, which accelerates the ageing process, maturation can be cut down by a third, with four years in the Taiwanese heat comparable with around 10 to 12 years in Scotland, depending on the warehouse location and cask.

Nearing the end of an ambitious expansion drive, Kavalan announced plans for a second distillery at the end of 2016 at its site in Yilan, doubling its number of copper stills to 20 and its production capacity. This year, it hopes to produce nine million litres, making it one of the largest single malt whisky distilleries in the world.

SCOTCH WHISKY PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY: WHYTE & MACKAY

Whyte & Mackay was founded on the docks of Glasgow in 1844 by James Whyte and Charles Mackay, who had a mission to create a “truly Scottish blended whisky”.

This partnership laid the foundations for extraordinary growth over the next century, with the company now known for producing and distributing some of the most highly respected whisky and spirit brands.

Demonstrating the level of experience at the heart of Whyte & Mackay’s operation, in 2016 its master distiller, Richard Paterson, celebrated 50 years in the whisky industry, having begun his illustrious career in 1966. At the age of just 26 he became Whyte & Mackay’s master blender. This year he was awarded the IWSC’s Lifetime Achievement award (see page 17).

The company’s award-winning portfolio includes its flagship Whyte & Mackay Blended Whisky, The Dalmore Highland Single Malt, Jura Single Malt Scotch Whisky, Fettercairn, Glayva Liqueur and Mackinlay’s. This year Whyte & Mackay launched a new blended Scotch malt whisky brand called Shackleton, inspired by charismatic British explorer Sir Ernest Shackleton who led the first expedition to the South Pole in 1907. Shackleton set sail on a ship packed with 25 hand-selected cases of Mackinlay’s Rare Old Highland Malt Whisky. He and three companions became the first to set foot on the South Polar Plateau in January 1909 – but abandoned pursuit of the pole itself as the team was close to starvation and suffering from severe exhaustion. In 2007 three cases of the whisky were uncovered, frozen into the ice beneath Shackleton’s base camp. Richard Paterson analysed and re-created the whisky, using it as the foundation to create Shackleton.

UK GIN PRODUCER OF THE YEAR, SPONSORED BY THE GIN GUILD:

ATOM BRANDS

Atom Brands seems to be going from strength to strength. Flying the flag for craft spirits, Atom Brands’ primary focus is on producing drinks using the best quality ingredients.

The Tunbridge Wells-based business owns drinks brands including Ableforth’s Bathtub Gin, a bold, juniper-led expression made using the traditional method of cold compounding and sealing the bottle in a brown paper wrapper with black wax.

Another of its clever in-house creations is That Boutique-y Gin Company, which specialises in small-batch gins with bags of character, from Moonshot Gin, which is made with botanicals that have been sent into space (yes, really), chocolate-orange gin, cherry gin, and its newest addition – spit-roasted pineapple gin. Not only are the contents of the bottles intriguing, the labels are equally eye-catching. The producer picked up a slew of medals this year, including a Gold Outstanding medal for its cask-aged, navy-strength Bathtub Gin, Port Ellen Islay Single Malt Scotch Whisky 33YO and Swedish Rose Gin, a collaboration between Hernö and That Boutique-y Gin Company, which also took home this year’s London Dry Gin Trophy.

Also on its books is 1897 Quinine Gin, which is made using cinchona bark – the natural and traditional source of quinine, and Origin Gin, a range that explores the impact of terroir on the aroma and flavour profile of gin. Each batch comes from a different location, such as Apecchio in Italy and Pejë in Kosovo.

Part of Atom Supplies Ltd, the same company that owns online spirits store Master of Malt and spirits distributor Maverick Drinks, Atom Brands developed from Master of Malt in 2010 when the company decided to add non-whisky-based spirits to its in-house portfolio.

BRANDY PRODUCER OF THE YEAR TROPHY:

KWV

Founded in 1918, South Africa’s KWV started out as a small co-operative of growers and has since grown to become a global producer of more than 100 products spanning both wine and spirits. However, it is in the production of brandy that its reputation was first built on.

Currently, it produces nine expressions of brandy including KWV 3 years, KWV 5 years, KWV 10 years, KWV 12 years, KWV 15 years, KWV 20 years, Imoya, KWV Héritage XO Cognac and KWV Nexus, all distilled using copper pot stills and aged in French oak barrels. KWV Nexus, KWV’s top-of-the-range expression, is a 30-year-old, small-batch brandy bottled in a hand-blown glass decanter crafted by local artisans.

The producer is known for its famous Cathedral Cellar, which is one of the largest of its kind in the world. Officially opened in 1930 and restored in 2005, the cellar has a barrel-vaulted roof and stained-glass windows with carved wooden vats lining the sides.

Last year KWV was sold to global investment group Vasari Global, who acquired a 57% majority stake from its former owner Hosken Consolidated Investments for 1.15 billion rand. Vasari, which is headed by Vivian Imerman, owns brands such as Scotch whisky producer Whyte & Mackay, Del Monte Royal Foods and Ethiopian brewer Dashen Brewery.

As well as its brandy, KWV also produces Cruxland Gin, Poncho Tequila, Republic Rum and Doubs Absinthe, as well as wine brands including Roodeberg, Cathedral Cellar and Pearly Bay.

THE PORT WINE TROPHY
CÁLEM PORTO COLHEITA 1961
 SOGEVINUS FINE WINES
 PORTUGAL

Pale tawny in colour. A fresh and elegant nose reveals an underlying energy and definition. Expressive yet composed aromas of ginger parkin, sweetly-scented spice and charred wood feature on the nose, preceding a rounded, loud, soft and voluptuous palate. Soft, pleasing, poised, and deeply flavoured, climaxing with a powerful finish.

THE FORTIFIED WINE TROPHY
HARDYS RARE SHOW SWEET WHITE
 HARDYS
 AUSTRALIA

Deep brown colour. Dense nose of raisins, roasted coffee, dark chocolate, toasted cashews, treacle tart. Palate is brooding and unctuous with excellent concentration of flavours echoing the nose, framed by brisk orange-zest acidity. Lingering and savoury finish. Complete, complex wine. Stellar.

THE MERLOT TROPHY
FLEUR DU CAP UNFILTERED
MERLOT 2014
 DISTELL LTD
 SOUTH AFRICA

Fresh blueberry, exotic spice flavours on an elegant, restrained frame with a fine tannin structure. Harmonious and elegant with a long spice-cake-and-mocha finish. Will give pleasure for years to come.

THE MADEIRA WINE TROPHY
BLANDY'S 1980 TERRANTEZ
 BLANDY'S MADEIRAS LDA
 MADEIRA

Notes of rich dried figs and dates, with clean acidity cutting through its core, coating the palate with flavours of coffee, citrus and toasted nuts and a very rich, umami finish. Excellent marriage of intricate flavours.

THE DESSERT WINE TROPHY
GRAND RESERVE VIDAL
ICEWINE 2015
 REIF ESTATE WINERY INC
 CANADA

Lemon in colour. Fragrant nose of burnt sugar and pineapples. Mouth-watering acidity with lemon curd, caramel and candied apple. Long, honeyed finish.

THE PINOT GRIS/GRIGIO TROPHY
AOC ALSACE GRAND CRU
STEINERT PINOT GRIS 2014
 LA CAVE DES VIGNERONS DE
 PFAFFENHEIM
 FRANCE

Beautiful yellow colour with bouquet of stone fruits and delicate white flowers with a hint of smokiness. On the palate, full bodied, layered, touch of nuttiness with refreshing acidity and mineral flavours. Silky finish with exceptional length. Stunning wine.

THE ORGANIC WINE TROPHY
VIN SANTO DEL CHIANTI RISERVA
DOC 2012

FATTORIA LA VIALLA
ITALY

Honeycomb and roasted hazelnuts intermingle on this most enticing nose. Truffles, pecan nuts and maple syrup combine on a lusciously textured palate. The twang of candied orange peel on the finish is distinctively Vin Santo. Bravissimo!

THE VODKA TROPHY
PURITY VODKA 51 LIMITED RESERVE
PURITY VODKA AB
SWEDEN

Banoffee and lemon on the nose, with a pleasant zing to it. It has a very pure and neutral taste that is exceptionally clean on the palate with a great balance of flavour. Despite this, the texture is full-bodied and rounds off with a refreshing touch of citrus on the finish.

THE BAIJIU TROPHY
CHINESE SPIRITS BAIJIU YUSHAN
TAIWAN KAOLIANG LIQUOR
AGED 5 YEARS

TTL
TAIWAN

Soft lavender and pine needles on the nose, followed by a delicate palate that has a delightful mellowness. Clean and gentle, this spirit has just a touch of baked bamboo and Chinese pickle.

THE MEZCAL TROPHY, SUPPORTED BY SPIRITS OF MEXICO
CORTE VETUSTO MEZCAL ESPADIN
BLACK SHEEP SPIRITS LTD
MEXICO

Clear complexion. Meaty, savoury and broad on the nose, with a delicious smoky, earthy, complex backdrop. Peppery, weighty and textural in the mouth, with a lively interplay of smoke and agave, leading to a lingering finish.

THE SHOCHU TROPHY
SHASHARAKURAKU AKA
NISHI SAKE BREWING CO. LTD
JAPAN

A lifted and aromatic nose reveals pronounced aromas of rose, violet, lychee and mango. Expressive and unusual. Rich and flavoursome on the palate, boasting a perfumed, spicy, floral medley of flavour that leads to a layered and delicate finish.

THE FRUIT SPIRITS TROPHY,
SUPPORTED BY ARTHUR NÄGELE
LÖRCH HOCHAROMATISCHER
WALDHIMBERGEGEIST
BIMMERLE KG
GERMANY

Fresh and bright raspberry with a little nuttiness from raspberry seeds. Pleasant crispness with bright fruitiness and a soft berry twang.

THE LONDON DRY GIN TROPHY,
SPONSORED BY THE GIN GUILD
HERNÖ SWEDISH ROSE GIN
ATOM SUPPLIES
SWEDEN

Complex, classic, intense nose that is bright and lifted. Intense, citrus, juniper-heavy pronounced nose personified. Incredibly intense, vivid and fresh in the mouth, zesty, powerfully botanical with explosive flavour.

THE COGNAC TROPHY
COGNAC ROULLET VSOP GRANDE
CHAMPAGNE
SAS MAISON DE NEGOCE
CHARENTAISE
FRANCE

The nose is like walking through a Moroccan souk with a vanilla ice cream that has chopped hazelnuts on top. The palate shows a hint of spice with lots of chopped fresh ginger and notes of lemon and lime. The zest comes to the fore on the finish.

THE CONTEMPORARY GIN TROPHY,
SPONSORED BY THE GIN GUILD
BATHTUB GIN - NAVY-STRENGTH
ATOM SUPPLIES
ENGLAND

Exceptionally spicy on the nose covering the full range of the spice rack: cardamom, nutmeg, cinnamon, ginger and cloves. Taste: lovely and smooth in texture. Full of bold, resinous juniper flavours upfront, before a light, sweet note of cassia and a slight cakiness that is reminiscent of tiffin slices and raisin country slices.

THE WORLDWIDE BRANDY TROPHY,
SPONSORED BY DISTELL
KWV 15 POTSTILL BRANDY
WARSHAY INVESTMENT (PTY) LTD
TA KWV
SOUTH AFRICA

Rich and positive, warm and inviting in a galaxy of glory as it enriches the palate with pure luxury. Memorable.

THE LIQUEUR TROPHY
MOZART CHOCOLATE CREAM
MOZART DISTILLERIE GMBH
AUSTRIA

A delightful and great example of a chocolate liqueur. Notes of molten chocolate are intermingled with a little alcoholic warmth. The flavours are beautifully integrated, and ultra-smooth, with a gentle duskiness on the finish. This demonstrates a great balance between flavour intensity, sweetness, and alcoholic strength.

THE BLENDED SCOTCH WHISKY
TROPHY, SPONSORED BY WILLIAM
GRANT & SONS
SYNDICATE 58/6 12 YO BLENDED
SCOTCH WHISKY
SYNDICATE 58/6 LIMITED
SCOTLAND

Oh-so-sweet aromas of rich, thick and sticky marzipan smeared over golden-syrup sponge. An equally rich palate is joined by ripe bananas, hazelnut and praline. A bounty of beauty, silky and sensual - exquisite.

THE TROPHY FOR SINGLE MALT SCOTCH WHISKY (OVER 15 YO)

GLENGLASSAUGH HIGHLAND SCOTCH WHISKY 40 YO
THE BENRIACH DISTILLERY COMPANY LTD
SCOTLAND

A serious whisky with notes of fresh grass cuttings, moss, earth, petrichor, a hint of chalk dust and drying embers of maple charcoal on the nose.

The palate is ginger snaps filled with brandy cream and pickled ginger on top of the finest back cod, and some cracked pepper and sea salt.

THE TROPHY FOR CASK STRENGTH SCOTCH WHISKY, SPONSORED BY WHYTE & MACKAY
BUNNAHABHAIN 18 YO SINGLE MALT SCOTCH WHISKY
DISTELL
SCOTLAND

The aroma is driven by a unique distillery character that pairs with the oak to give penny foam banana sweets, hints of tobacco and some mint. The palate has some additional green veg, freshly steamed and just al dente enough to retain flavour, with the finish giving some seas salt and milk chocolate notes.

THE TROPHY FOR SINGLE MALT SCOTCH WHISKY (15 YO & UNDER)

THE BALVENIE 14 YO CARIBBEAN CASK SINGLE MALT SCOTCH WHISKY
WILLIAM GRANT & SONS
SCOTLAND

Deep toffee notes on the nose, with elements of dark tea and a hint of coffee. Ginger is also present. The palate is sweet, with crystallised ginger coming through, earthen floor and lavender notes.

THE WORLDWIDE WHISKEY TROPHY, SUPPORTED BY WHISKIES OF THE WORLD

KAVALAN SOLIST EX-BOURBON SINGLE CASK STRENGTH SINGLE MALT WHISKY
KAVALAN DISTILLERY
TAIWAN

Complex and balanced with hints of biscuit, apricot jam, vanilla, treacle and distinct nuttiness on the nose. Dried fruits and soft spices on the palate, silky on the tongue with a long finish that is reminiscent of a dry version of apfelstrudel.

THE TROPHY FOR SINGLE MALT SCOTCH WHISKY (NO AGE STATEMENT), SUPPORTED BY THE WHISKY LOUNGE

THE DALMORE VALOUR SINGLE HIGHLAND MALT
WHYTE AND MACKAY LTD
SCOTLAND

Velvety notes of plums and damsons, with some quince jelly and a wholesome note of delicately smoked meats. The palate gives a richness of cookie dough, creme brulée topping, more plums and some sour cherry. The finish adds a hint of spice and more cherry notes, this time sweet and fresh cherry.

THE RUM TROPHY
RHUM AGRICOLE VIEUX NEISSON 12 ANS D'ÂGE
DISTILLERIE NEISSON
MARTINIQUE

Incredible balance between fresh sugar cane character and mellow age. Wine influence, complex, Christmas cake, dried figs and prune.

product trophies

THE BOURBON TROPHY
BIG HOUSE KENTUCKY STRAIGHT
BOURBON WHISKEY
SAZERAC COMPANY INC
UNITED STATES

The nose gives dry leaves, twigs and oak from a saw mill, backed with liquorice and some root beer elements. The palate shows rich spices, popping candy and freeze-dried strawberries. The finish gives a hint of rye spice, and a nice bed of vanilla.

THE RUM & GINGER BEER TROPHY,
SUPPORTED BY FEVER-TREE
WORLD'S END RUM DARK SPICED
2240 SOCIAL CLUB
BELGIUM

Rich and indulgent. The rum stands up well to the mixer, enhancing the flavour of sweet ginger beer with deeper spice notes and a full-bodied, dark fruitiness. An equal partnership, with both elements contributing to a spicy and delicious drink.

THE AQUAVIT TROPHY
GYLDEN AKVAVIT
PABST & RICHARZ VERTRIEBS GMBH
GERMANY

Medium gold in colour. Ultra-expressive on the nose, with a primary, intense and personified assortment of white blossom, green apples and spicy caraway. Savoury and chewy in the mouth, displaying a layered depth of flavour and a rich forward character. Deliciously long finish, this is flawlessly good.

THE RUM & COLA TROPHY,
SUPPORTED BY FEVER-TREE
ROM RINCON
CADUSHY DISTILLERY
NETHERLANDS

Grassy, spiced aromas on the nose with notes of pimento and sweet leaves. More grassy notes on the palate, with clove, ginger and hints of basil and tarragon. Dark sugar sweetness balanced by an underlying dryness.

THE POMACE BRANDY TROPHY
GRAPPA LE GIARE
GEWÜRZTRAMINER
DISTILLERIA MARZADRO SPA
ITALY

Light golden colour. A delicate perfumed note reveals hints of dried fruit, white blossom, pear, spice and baked bread. Pronounced and balanced on the palate – beautifully delicate, pretty, flavoursome and intricate with a lengthy finish.

THE VODKA & TONIC TROPHY,
SUPPORTED BY FEVER-TREE
GUSTAV DILL VODKA
LIGNELL & PIISPANEN
FINLAND

Freshly cut dill on the nose; lively and invigorating but not overpowering, which follows to the palate, which remains fresh and balanced.

THE GIN & TONIC TROPHY,
SUPPORTED BY FEVER-TREE
SPRITFABRIKENS "G" GIN
SKÅNSKA SPRITFABRIKEN
SWEDEN

A deliciously inviting nose reveals a plethora of aromas ranging from green apples and cardoman to grains of paradise with a big hit of juniper. Pronounced with a discernable point of difference and a layered complexity.

Sponsor: Mission Hill

Mission Hill Family Estate was founded by Anthony von Mandl, O.C., O.B.C., in 1981 and first captured the attention of the international wine world by winning the IWSC Trophy for Best Chardonnay in the World in 1994.

At that time the Okanagan Valley in British Columbia was relatively unknown and unproven, so the IWSC judges insisted on re-tasting the flight to be absolutely certain. The re-tasting conclusively affirmed both the award of the IWSC Trophy to Mission Hill and the realisation of von Mandl's bold vision to produce exceptional wines in this relatively unknown region which could stand alongside the best in the world. Subsequently in 2006, von Mandl was the first Canadian ever appointed as president of the IWSC. The depth and breadth of Mission Hill's unique wine portfolio celebrates the individual terroirs and micro-climates of the Okanagan Valley, one of the most exciting emerging wine regions globally.

Sponsor: Distell

As South Africa's leading producer of brandies highly acclaimed for their excellence in the international arena, Distell is proud to sponsor the annual IWSC Worldwide Brandy trophy. This annual award provides many of the world's pre-eminent brandy makers with the opportunity to benchmark themselves against each other in the constant pursuit of ever-higher quality standards. South African producers are regular recipients of this award, lending credence to the contention of international brandy authorities that the country's best examples are becoming the standard bearer for quality aged brandies produced outside the AOC regions of France.

In addition to its brandy portfolio, Distell is also a major producer of award-winning wines, Cognac, Scotch whisky, South African whisky, other spirits, cider and RTDs.

CHALLENGE THE STATUS QUO

While most vodkas only distill 5 times or less, the heart of Purity Vodka is distilled a remarkable 34 times. This labor-intensive process creates a high quality spirit with unparalleled smoothness and character. We have challenged ordinary vodka by creating a superior tasting experience, because taste is what matters most.
