“As we hoped,

Dear friends,

As Margot and I imagined, the University of Mount Union campus is gloriously beautiful in the fall. We thought it would be, but it was under six inches of snow and slush when we first visited in November of last year.

As we hoped, the people of Mount Union and Alliance are wonderfully friendly and welcoming. We thought they would be, but it's easy to get fooled by a campus interview during which everyone (mostly) is putting his or her best foot forward.

As we sensed, the alumni of the University are intensely loyal to Mount Union. We felt they would be, but results are the best measure of alumni loyalty. Alumni giving to the Mount Union Fund, the number of legacy freshmen in the incoming class and our early encounters with multi-generation Mount families all confirm the alumni loyalty that we sensed.

As we thought, the faculty, administration, and Trustees of Mount Union are truly invested in Mount Union's success and they bring great passion to their work and to their leadership roles. That's how it seemed to us, that's what we talked about during the long months of waiting to make our start at Mount Union. And now we see: that's how it is.

We're excited to be at Mount Union, we're grateful for the opportunity to make a contribution to its important mission, and we look forward to getting to know you. Thanks for all you do for the University of Mount Union!

Best regards,

Dick

TALKING POINTS

ENGINEERING PROGRAMS EARN ABET ACCREDITATION

The civil and mechanical engineering programs at Mount Union have recently earned accreditation from the Engineering Accreditation Commission of the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology, Inc. (ABET). The accreditation assures that the programs meet the quality standards of the engineering profession and fully prepare students for their future careers.

In order to be evaluated by ABET, Mount Union had to first graduate at least one class of engineering students. The first class of students graduated in 2014 and the accreditation process began as soon as the program was eligible last fall. To date, job placement rate for Mount Union engineering graduates is 100%.

CLASS OF 2014 REPORTS JOB PLACEMENT SUCCESS

An impressive percentage of 2014 Mount Union graduates have indicated success in their search for degree-related careers or graduate school attendance.

Each year, the University's Office of Career Development conducts a study on the graduating class from the prior year. The Post-Graduation Report details where Mount Union graduates have landed within the first year following Commencement. With 87% of the Class of 2014 self-reporting, 99% of graduates reported successful job or graduate school placement in an average of 38 days after graduation.

MOUNT UNION RANKED FOR INTEGRATIVE STUDIES, VALUE, TUITION

The University of Mount Union was recently acknowledged by three prestigious ranking bodies for its integrative studies program, value and tuition control.

BestColleges.com cited Mount Union for having one of the top integrative studies programs in the nation, with the University securing the 11th spot in the current rankings.

The Integrative Core at the University of Mount Union ensures a well-rounded educational experience for students. Extending throughout all four years of a college career, this unique curriculum allows students to explore a variety of topics, ideas and modes of inquiry. Paired with a major, these foundational classes provide a framework for students to understand multiple ideas from various perspectives.

In addition, for the 25th consecutive year, the University of Mount Union was ranked as a top college by U.S. News and World Report. Mount Union ranked eighth among Midwest Regional Colleges in U.S. News and World Report's 2016 Best Colleges rankings.

The University has also been named a "Tuition Hero" by Tuition Heroes, an organization that strives to help solve the problem of growing tuition rates in the United States by recognizing colleges and universities that have tuition growth control.

"These rankings reflect the quality education Mount Union provides and the preparation for meaningful work that students receive during their time here," said Mount Union president W. Richard Merriman, Jr. "Mount Union alumni are achieving great success and excelling at a high level. We're extremely proud of this accomplishment."

MOUNT UNION ONE OF THE BEST COLLEGES IN THE NATION FOR FEMALE ATHLETES

Mount Union made the list of “50 Best Colleges for Female Athletes” in a ranking by niche.com. The Purple Raiders were the highest ranked Ohio school at number 28, three spots ahead of The Ohio State University. The rankings are out of 703 colleges based on NCAA Championship appearances, percentage of female students participating in varsity sports and more than 200,000 student opinions from nearly 75,000 students. A high ranking indicates that the program has performed well in NCAA tournaments and that athletes are given the support and resources they need to succeed both on and off the field.

LEARNING COMMONS AREA UPDATED

A second phase of renovations have been completed in the Learning Commons area in the Kolenbrander-Harter Information Center. The space has been re-purposed to allow for two collaboration spaces for the Digital Written and Oral Communication (DWOC) Studio, which offers personal consultations and workspaces to students working on writing, speeches and digital projects. Also included is the Digital Production Lab where students can edit video and presentations, and high-quality digital cameras and tripods are available for students to check out.

SPENCER A FINALIST FOR THE 2015 CAMPBELL TROPHY

Hank Spencer, senior linebacker and computer science major of Greencastle, Indiana, has been named as one of 12 finalists for the 2015 Campbell Trophy. This award is presented by Fidelity Investments, the National Football Foundation (NFF) and the College Football Hall of Fame. As a finalist, he will receive a postgraduate scholarship in recognition of his athletic, academic and leadership qualities.

The finalists were chosen from a pool of 135 semifinalists across all divisions of college football and will be recognized at the 58th NFF Awards Dinner on December 8 in New York City.

The Campbell Trophy winner will be announced at the dinner.

Among many other accolades, Spencer is a two-time captain and a two-time recipient of the NCAA Elite 89 Award, which is awarded to the student athlete who has the highest grade point average at a national championship.

ALLEN GREEN NAMED CHAIR OF BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Allen Green '77, president of H-P Products, has been elected chair of the Mount Union Board of Trustees.

Green joined H-P Products, Inc. in 1984 as controller. Since joining the company, he has served as the company's CFO, vice president of finance and manufacturing, tubular products general manager and executive vice president. He currently serves as the president and chief operating officer.

Green earned a bachelor's degree in accounting and mathematics from Mount Union. He is actively involved with Mount Union, previously having served as vice chairman of the Board of Trustees and on the Board's Business Advisory Council. He has also worked with the Bringing Executives and Students Together (BEST) mentoring program for more than 10 years. Green serves as president for Jobs for Ohio Graduates, is a former board member of the Stark County American Heart Association, is a charter member of Leadership Stark County and has taught project business through Junior Achievement for more than 20 years. Green is an active member of Vistage.

He is married to Carol (Howlett '76) Green, and the couple has two children, Scott (Nazlie) Green and Julie (Mike) Thornton. He and Carol reside in North Canton, Ohio.

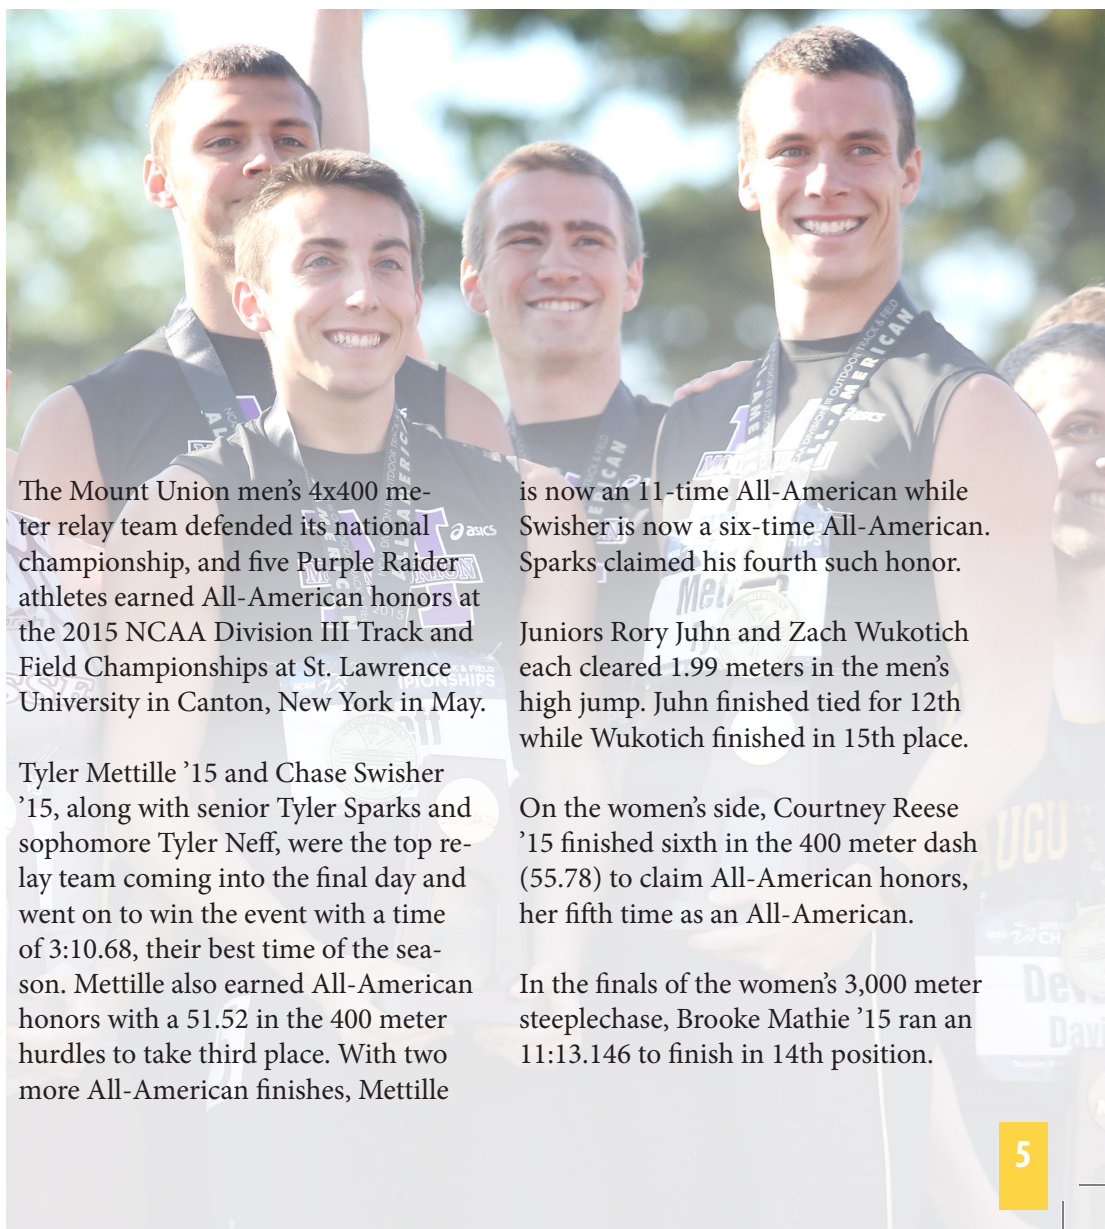

"I am humbled and honored by this appointment," Green said. "I can't imagine a higher honor than to be entrusted with one's alma mater, its care and future. The University of Mount Union has always occupied a very special place in my life, which has shaped it in so many important ways. To serve on this board with so many other talented and capable leaders is truly a privilege."

PROGRESS MADE ON MOUNT UNION GATEWAY

Work has continued this fall on the Mount Union Gateway located on State Street across from campus. DeHoff Development Company and Alliance Ventures are partners in the new shopping center. Locations open for business include Farmer's National Bank, Buffalo Wild Wings, Orange Leaf Yogurt, Papa Gyro's restaurant and T-Mobile. Other tenants expected to open soon include Georgio's Pizza.

MEN'S 4X400 TEAM DEFENDS NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

The Mount Union men's 4x400 meter relay team defended its national championship, and five Purple Raider athletes earned All-American honors at the 2015 NCAA Division III Track and Field Championships at St. Lawrence University in Canton, New York in May.

Tyler Mettille '15 and Chase Swisher '15, along with senior Tyler Sparks and sophomore Tyler Neff, were the top relay team coming into the final day and went on to win the event with a time of 3:10.68, their best time of the season. Mettille also earned All-American honors with a 51.52 in the 400 meter hurdles to take third place. With two more All-American finishes, Mettille is now an 11-time All-American while Swisher is now a six-time All-American. Sparks claimed his fourth such honor.

Juniors Rory Juhn and Zach Wukotich each cleared 1.99 meters in the men's high jump. Juhn finished tied for 12th while Wukotich finished in 15th place.

On the women's side, Courtney Reese '15 finished sixth in the 400 meter dash (55.78) to claim All-American honors, her fifth time as an All-American.

In the finals of the women's 3,000 meter steeplechase, Brooke Mathie '15 ran an 11:13.146 to finish in 14th position.

Dr. S's Three Teaching Rules

(Actually, they're more like guidelines than rules).

Creativity, empathy and grit are often overlooked as requirements of a liberal arts education. They're labeled non-cognitive skills, which university teachers may approach as academic concepts despite the fact that they seem to transcend collegiate studies. If our K-12 schools teach them, it's usually done indirectly through sports, band and other extracurricular activities. Regardless, we need them more now than ever before. Ironically, one could easily pass a multiple-choice or essay test on creativity, empathy and grit; however, to truly pass muster on these concepts "ya gotta live 'em."

CREATIVITY

My teachers pegged me as creative in seventh grade. That year I had to enter a writing contest as part of an English assignment. While ruminating about a topic for days (maybe weeks), a recurring memory of being cut from a little league baseball team moved me to investigate major league baseball to see if there were any players who played in the BIGs, in spite of having asthma, which was a huge childhood hurdle for me. A little bit of research uncovered amazing MLB athletes like Monty Stratton, who pitched for the Chicago White Sox with a prosthetic right leg, and Pete Gray, who lost his arm in a childhood accident yet still played the outfield for the St. Louis Browns. The paper could have practically written itself, but perhaps the most creative part of my portion of the process was talking my mom into writing it for me, or rather helping me compose it. Regardless, my need to take a different slant, to try to surprise someone every day and to be creative has been a blessing and a curse ever since. Creativity expert Sir Kenneth Robinson contends in his Ted Talk that "...creativity now is as important in education as literacy, and we should treat it with the same status." However, being creative is hard work. Work at it.

GRIT

When I was 14, my father died quite suddenly. It was awful. My mother was left with seven rambunctious children (one semi-adult, two young adolescents, one in the midst of puberty, two others on the cusp of puberty and a five-year-old). To top it off, it was the sixties, baby! Of course, I was totally oblivious to her situation, but with the help of my sometimes bright, yet more often ornery, brothers and sisters, we taught her grit, resilience, tenacity and perseverance. Actually, she modeled the power of GRIT for us. Her love and stick-to-it attitude has been an inspiration to me all of my life.

And I'll never forget the first year that I took a group of Mount Union middle school majors to Charleston, South Carolina to teach at Rivers Middle School (RMS). As we drove to Charleston, we perfected lesson plans on conflict resolution and generated lots of enthusiastic and creative ideas. When we arrived at RMS and saw the eight-foot fence with razor wire, I'm betting that you could have heard our collective, "GULP!" back in Alliance. Was this fence designed to keep people out or to keep the children in? During the first class that my Mount Union students taught, a huge fight broke out in the back of the classroom and suddenly two Mount students were on the floor, fists flying – they broke it up, but not by using any of our conflict resolution theories. That spring break (and for many following spring breaks), groups of Mount Union students showed me the meaning of resilience. The teaching was always a struggle, but in the midst of calamity and disappointment, GRIT appears. I love teaching; it forces you to develop grit, which can be contagious – I caught it from my students. Keep at it.

EMPATHY

Teaching has taught me a lot, and in my second year of teaching (1977), a fifth grader may have been one of my best teachers ever. Sarah was an absolutely adorable girl whose wide-open eyes complemented her curious spirit. One day, she came to me with a note, requesting that she be excused from school for an eye examination. Without thinking, I said to her, "Don't worry when the doctor takes your eyes out to examine them in the lab, it doesn't hurt too much." She looked at me and burst into tears; realizing what I'd done, I erupted into tears too. After many apologies and then more tears, I realized that it was a necessity for me to learn how to walk in my students' shoes. Perhaps one of the most important uses of our imaginations (creativity revisited) is to develop empathy for others. It's imperative for the 21st century. Through empathy we share our suffering and joy. More importantly, empathy reduces others' suffering and augments their joy. Try it.

Merriman, Kelman Look Forward to Rewarding Experience at Mount Union

Dick Merriman considers himself an advocate for the underdog.

His upbringing in rural Kansas helps him relate to the typical hardworking, American family. His paternal grandfather was a coal miner in the mountains of western Maryland; his maternal grandmother grew up in a sod house in western Kansas and ran a tavern.

“It’s a typical American family tree,” Merriman said. “You go back a generation or two and you find blue collar people.”

Margot Kelman has similar, but urban, roots. Her father’s family emigrated to the U.S. from Latvia during the early 1900s. They settled in the Bronx and her grandfather went to work driving a subway car in New York City. Her mother, Marianne, was from a Jewish family living in Berlin, Germany in the 1930s. At the age of 11, Marianne left Germany for England as part of the Kindertransport rescue operation. She was the only member of her immediate family to survive the Holocaust.

The Impact of a College Degree

“If you check out the American side of the Merriman and Kelman family trees in the 1890s, you find rural and urban laborers, hardship, limited opportunities. Nothing very fancy happening there,” Merriman said during his State of the University address in August. “If you check them out in the 1930s, things don’t look much different, or more prosperous. Then came World War II. Along with millions of others, my father and Margot’s father served in the military during that war. My dad was in the Pacific. Margot’s dad was in Europe, which is how he happened to meet a Jewish teenager from Berlin at a youth hostel in London.”

Thanks to the post-war GI Bill, Merriman’s and Kelman’s fathers were both able to attend college. Merriman’s father studied to become a United Methodist pastor; Kelman’s attended an aviation school and became an aircraft mechanic for American Airlines.

“The GI Bill is one of those ‘black swan’ moments in American social history. Access to college for millions of people who wouldn’t have been able to attend without veterans benefits created huge social mobility,” Merriman said.

“I grew up in a house full of books, and the assumption was that everybody would go to college,” Merriman recalls. “All my siblings went to college and my mom went to college after she got us launched. College was a real game changer for our family.”

Due to their father’s success, as well as their mother working as a secretary, Kelman and her brother were afforded the opportunity to attend college as well.

“I want to make sure all kinds of people have educational opportunities.”

President of Mount Union*

Advocating for Education

Merriman notes that unfortunately, these types of college opportunities don't come easily to today's students.

“We've evidently decided that, for most people, a college education is a private purchase, not a public priority. That's very different from when I went to school,” he said.

Despite the challenges facing today's families when it comes to sending children to college, Merriman continues to advocate for making education a reality for students.

“I want to make sure all kinds of people have educational opportunities,” he said. “Most of my professional life has been spent in private higher education, and I really care about that.”

Kelman has also been an educator for most of her life and shares that passion. In high school, she volunteered at a center for severely and profoundly disabled children, where she met a speech-language pathologist and became intrigued by her work.

Kelman went on to earn numerous college degrees – Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees in speech-language pathology and a Doctor of Philosophy degree in communication sciences and disorders. She also earned a graduate certificate in educational leadership.

Helping Others

Most recently, prior to moving to Ohio, Kelman had her own early childhood speech therapy practice in Kansas in which she worked with families and children with speech and language problems.

“I think we're both attracted to providing opportunity for people,” Merriman reflected. “She (Kelman) has excelled in helping children who have challenges, and I like helping people who have talent and energy and just need a chance. There are smart people all around us who just need an opportunity to show what they can do.”

Bachelor of Science in Education degree, speech-language pathology, State University of New York – Fredonia

In his scholarly work, Merriman has examined the ways Americans' ideas about fairness and equal opportunity – and their ideas about government's proper role in shaping the terms of competition for education, jobs and housing – have influenced the politics of race in the United States.

In his State of the University address in August, Merriman discussed the link between ability, effort and achievement, noting that “the world feels right side up” when effort leads to achievement. But he also understands that circumstances – poor health, family issues, unfair treatment or just plain bad luck – can impede a person's success.

“We all need support. If we're being honest with ourselves, we know that many people have helped each of us when we have achieved success,” Merriman concluded. “The University of Mount Union is here to provide that help, and we are able to do it so well because our alumni give, out of gratitude, to support this great mission.”

“Over the course of four years, they sort themselves out and you see leaders and strengths emerging. Watching people figure out who they are and what they're going to do with their lives is exciting. It's satisfying to help that happen.”

Kelman also notes that the most rewarding aspect of working with children is watching them grow and learn.

“Parents have come to me in tears, so happy that their child is finally talking and they can communicate,” she said. “The biggest reward for us is when we can help other people like that.”

A Worthwhile Investment

Merriman is no stranger to the college affordability discussions taking place on a national level. And while he admits that the economy and student loan interest rates pose challenges for today's student, he maintains that a college degree is one of the best investments a person can make.

“When I was growing up, everyone wanted to go to college – that was the dream.” Merriman said. “No one wondered whether it would be worth it. Now there's a lot of active wondering.”

One thing that attracted Merriman to Mount Union was the institution's success in finding graduates their first jobs and in telling the stories of those successes. According to the University's 2014 post-graduation report, 99% of 2014 graduates self-reporting found success in their searches for degree-required careers or graduate school attendance.

“Strong leadership by Dr. Richard Giese and the Board have put Mount Union in a very good position. In a competitive higher education marketplace, with many people questioning the value of a college degree, we have an outstanding story to tell. Our combination of liberal learning and career preparation is the winning idea for this marketplace.”

Q&A with Dr. Merriman and Dr. Kelman

WHAT HAS YOUR EXPERIENCE WITH ALUMNI BEEN LIKE SO FAR?

Margot (M) – They’re passionate and so grateful for the opportunities they had at Mount.

Dick (D) – They really love Mount Union. They have great memories about Mount and they have stayed well connected with former classmates. They want to find ways to help our students. If you look at what alumni have given to the institution, it’s pretty impressive. They’re not just talking about it, they’re actually doing something about it.

TELL US ABOUT YOUR FAMILY.

D – We have two children ... and a basset hound!

M – Ben is in Chicago. He’s finishing his doctorate in sociology at the University of Chicago. He is married to Sarah who also works at the University of Chicago in residence life.

D – Aaron is a freshman at Mount Union. He’s having the Miller Hall experience this year.

M – Jasmine is our nine-year-old basset. She loves guarding the Haupt House!

WHAT ARE YOU LOOKING FORWARD TO ABOUT BEING AT MOUNT UNION?

D – I love the rhythms of the school year, the busy periods and the lulls, and seeing the seasons (weather and athletic) change.

M – I’m looking forward to learning more about the University and its people – faculty, staff, students and alumni.

WHAT IS YOUR FAVORITE BUILDING ON CAMPUS?

D – I really like Chapman Hall. I’m reading the book, “A Select School – A History of Mount Union,” which has a photo of Chapman Hall in the 60s. They took the roof off the building and completely gutted it and rebuilt everything inside. Because of that investment, a building that pre-dates the Civil War is still spectacular.

M – The view of Chapman from Beeghly is stunning. I love the way this campus looks. It is beautifully maintained.

HOW DO YOU PLAN TO BE INVOLVED IN THE ALLIANCE COMMUNITY?

M – I am on the board of the Early Childhood Education Alliance and plan to support early childhood initiatives in the Alliance community. I’m open to whatever else comes my way.

D – I’ll be involved with the Alliance Area Chamber of Commerce, Alliance Area Development Foundation and other partnerships between the community and University.

WHAT ARE YOU MOST LOOKING FORWARD TO IN YOUR NEW ROLE?

D – Putting the puzzle together. We’ve come from an institution where we knew a lot after being there for 17 years. It’s an amazing thing to try to figure out a “new” institution that has over 150 years of history. We’re not having much trouble falling asleep at night because our brains are working pretty hard these days.

M – It’s all about relationships. I’m looking forward to getting to know people and really making a contribution here.

WHAT ARE YOU MOST PASSIONATE ABOUT?

D – I like helping other people achieve their dreams, and I feel fortunate that I’ve had jobs for most of my life that have allowed me to do that. I’ve also really enjoyed recognizing and thanking donors who have done great things for the schools at which I’ve worked.

M – We’re both passionate about helping make people’s lives better.

Department of EDUCATION

Gives Students Diverse Experience

A CHALLENGING YET REWARDING FIELD

In the ever-changing field of education, today's undergraduate education majors and minors are tasked to learn more than just teaching fundamentals. Teachers must be prepared for a changing curriculum at state and federal levels, ever-changing technology, continuing education requirements and a diverse student population.

"Teaching is a tough field today. It doesn't look like it used to 10 or 20 years ago. But, it's just as rewarding as ever," said Dr. Melissa Askren-Edgehouse '99, associate professor and chair of the Department of Education at Mount Union. "It isn't easy for teachers to differentiate their instruction for all 30 students in their classes, but when that light bulb eventually goes on for each one of their kids, all the hard work completely pays off."

The University of Mount Union's Department of Education is giving students a well-rounded experience in preparation for the demands of working in the field of education.

"The Department of Education has made great strides to enhance student preparation for the ever-changing realities of the job," said Dr. Patricia Draves, vice president of Academic Affairs and Dean of the University.

The Department of Education at Mount Union offers majors in early childhood education, middle childhood education and intervention specialist, as well as minors in adolescence to young adult education and multiage education. Additionally, undergraduate students choose one of 13 undergraduate areas in which to receive licensure.

In order to provide students with diverse experiential learning opportunities, the department offers students a variety of field experiences and student teaching opportunities.

"The Department of Education at Mount Union has provided me with opportunities that have shaped me into the future educator I want to be," said Jena Finch '16, an intervention specialist major of Boardman, Ohio. "I have had the experience of working with multiple grade levels through my field hours that subsequently led me to my pre-clinical rotation at the high school level. Having the real life application in the classroom has enhanced my understanding of teacher strategies, classroom management skills and the vital importance of high expectations for all students. Mount Union has prepared me for a teaching career after graduation by providing multiple opportunities and resources."

PREPARATION FOR TEACHING

During their undergraduate studies, Mount Union education majors are prepared for teaching careers that require continual learning and professional development. Anna Minor '98, who is the assistant superintendent of Louisville City Schools in Louisville, Ohio, has found her Mount Union education to be beneficial through each stage of her career.

“Education is one of those fields where you cannot be fully prepared for every situation,” Minor said. “It is a difficult profession that requires continual professional development. There were many lessons from my professors that I was able to refer back on to utilize in the classroom. Additionally, the resources accumulated over the time spent at Mount Union provided great opportunities for later in the classroom.”

Students majoring in education benefit from a number of diversity initiatives within the Department of Education at Mount Union, including a partnership with Akron Public Schools. Through the partnership, 100 inner city students visit campus each year and Mount Union students plan the programming for the day – organizing tours and panel discussions.

“It’s a good opportunity for our students, many of whom have not come from diverse environments, to interact with high school students of diverse racial, ethnic and socioeconomic backgrounds,” said Dr. Jennifer Martin, assistant professor of education at Mount Union. “This experience reduces the stereotypes many of our (Mount Union) students’ hold of urban schools.”

In addition, Mount Union education majors enhance knowledge on diversity-related issues as they engage in service projects for their multicultural education course. Students have also benefited from a partnership with Christ University in Bangalore, India, which allowed them to interact with international pen pals.

Mount Union students also benefit from the Thelma E. Slater Curriculum Resource Center (CRC), located on the third floor of the Main Library. The CRC provides a comprehensive collection of P-12 classroom materials across the curriculum in addition to teacher books and other aids. Most materials, including books, display items and realia, circulate throughout the University community and may be taken to local school sites by students.

In addition to field experiences with P-12 students, education majors at Mount Union undergo coursework that is aligned to a number of state and national standards and prepare them for licensure exams.

PERFECTING Practical Preparation

HANDS-ON EXPERIENCE

According to Askren-Edgehouse, education majors are placed in a variety of school settings. This is done intentionally to encourage candidates to experience diverse P-12 students in rural, suburban and urban locations.

“They end up with a greater appreciation for what all teachers do, and we want to make sure our candidates aren’t limiting themselves to one type of school district,” Askren-Edgehouse said.

In addition to conducting field experience and clinical practice (student teaching) in area school districts, Mount Union education majors also have the option to participate in clinical placements in locations throughout the region. The University maintains partnerships with districts in northeast Ohio, Illinois, North Carolina and other places throughout the country.

“A strong alumni network allows students to benefit from relationships with alumni so the educational quality isn’t diminished for students who choose to gain experience out of state,” Askren-Edgehouse said.

One such opportunity Mount Union students take advantage of is Chicago Semester, an off-campus program that incorporates living, learning and working in Chicago. Stefanie Tippel ’16, an English major of Hartville, Ohio, plans to participate in the program in the spring.

“I will forever regard my education at Mount Union as a beneficial and enjoyable experience,” Tippel said. “I cannot forget about those who placed me in the field. I know that because of my experiences thus far and with my upcoming experience student teaching in Chicago, I will be one of the best-prepared candidates for the teaching profession along with the other candidates graduating alongside me.”

Jennie Johnson ’16, an early childhood education major of Canton, Ohio, is preparing to complete clinical practice out of state this spring – an endeavor she never thought she’d accomplish. However, with the support of faculty members, family and friends, Johnson will leave her comfort zone to work in a first grade classroom in North Carolina for the semester.

“Coming to Mount Union was the best decision I made,” Johnson said. “I know that when I graduate in the spring, I will be ready for a classroom of my own because of Mount Union and the awesome people here.”

MASTER'S PROGRAM

Educators looking to advance to leadership positions in their careers are benefitting from Mount Union's 24-month Master of Arts in Educational Leadership (MAEL) program, one of the first graduate programs to be offered at the University.

Students enrolled in the program complete coursework online throughout the traditional academic year and through two seven-day Summer Institute sessions during the summers.

Additionally, the 36-credit-hour program includes the option for eligible candidates to earn Ohio Principal's License (PK-6, 4-9 and 5-12) and/or Curriculum, Instruction and Professional Development (CIPD) License. After completion of the program, many grads pursue career options such as principal, curriculum director, teacher leader or head of a division or school.

Maeve Gallagher M '16 enrolled in the program to help reach her goal of becoming a professor and head coach at the collegiate level.

"Every assignment I do is tied to personal experiences of my career," Gallagher said. "I am fortunate to constantly be learning and applying all aspects of the program to my coaching."

For Joe MacBenn '01, M '15, the MAEL program was a great fit with his busy career as orchestra director for grades 4-8 for Lima City Schools.

"I have a busy schedule but the program was very easy to fit into my daily routine," MacBenn said. "The online learning aspect of the program was great. The professors organized it in such a way that it was very easy to execute."

The MAEL program requires a yearlong internship project designed for working professionals. Graduate students work with school partners and University faculty to design meaningful projects in the area of leadership and curriculum.

Darlene Howald M '14, assistant principal at North Canton City Schools, developed an after-school Science, Technology, Engineering and Math (STEM) program for her internship.

"From start to finish, the project required collaboration with teachers, parents, students, school administrators and the larger community," Howald said. "I learned a great deal about my own leadership strengths, and it gave me the confidence to pursue an administrative position upon graduation."

THE EXCITEMENT OF A FUTURE EDUCATOR

Ally Lewandowski '16 finds her passion for teaching

{BY JAIME EYSSEN '16}

Ally Lewandowski '16

Amherst, Ohio

B.S., Middle Childhood Education,
University of Mount Union

"I would have never realized I love teaching middle school if it wasn't for my experience observing through the Department of Education."

- Ally Lewandowski '16

For senior middle childhood education major Ally Lewandowski '16 of Amherst, Ohio, her future career path in education has always been clear. In pursuit of her dreams to become an educator, Lewandowski found Mount Union to be the perfect fit. Specifically, she was attracted to the strength of the Department of Education.

"Mount Union was the one school that I looked at that offered me the chance to get a dual licensure in four years," Lewandowski said.

In addition to the dual licensure program, Lewandowski was attracted to the fact that, at Mount Union, all education majors have the opportunity to begin classroom observation during their freshman year. Not only does this help students figure out if education is right for them, but it also helps them identify which grade level they want to specialize in. For Lewandowski, who originally wanted to teach early childhood education, getting experience in the classroom helped her discover a passion for teaching middle school students.

"I would have never realized I love teaching middle school if it wasn't for my experience observing through the Department of Education," she said.

Lewandowski values the opportunity to gain multiple teaching perspectives as another way to prepare herself for her future. Over the course of her time at Mount Union, Lewandowski has had the opportunity to observe 10 different teachers from area school districts, spend school breaks observing in her hometown and gain perspective and excitement for her future career from faculty and staff.

"All of my professors were teachers in a classroom first and then they came to Mount," she said. "They have the life experience needed to teach you what you need to know to become an educator."

Lewandowski values the close bonds that she has formed with her professors at Mount Union, professors who not only encourage success but are always willing to go above and beyond for students. She hopes to one day have a similar bond with students in her middle school classroom.

"I want to be the type of teacher that students can come to and feel comfortable talking with," Lewandowski said. "Middle school students go through so many different things at that point in their lives. I want to be able to help my students not only academically, but socially and emotionally as well."

The aspiring educator has also learned some very important lessons from working with her peers in the Department of Education. These lessons have further helped her form an idea of the type of educator she strives to become.

"After working with peers in the classroom or working in the field with younger students, you realize that you can't just teach a lesson to one student," Lewandowski said. "You have to take into account how diverse everybody is and really aim your lesson toward every student, not just one."

In addition to her classroom experiences at Mount Union, Lewandowski is diverse in her involvement on campus as well. She stays busy as a member of the Student National Educators Association, a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, a big sister for the American Women's Society, a participant on the intramural volleyball and basketball teams, a statistics tutor and a success mentor. Lewandowski also enjoys volunteering in the TANF Town simulation, a simulation offered through the Department of Education that focuses on showing education majors what it is like to be a student or family in poverty.

"The simulation gives you a perspective on how you can help them [students in poverty] in school and what you can do for them," Lewandowski said. "It's interesting to figure out what it is like for them."

Every experience at Mount Union is a lesson, and Lewandowski has many under her belt. Whereas some college seniors may have mixed feelings about the day they walk across the stage at graduation, Lewandowski cannot be more excited to begin her future career, a passion she thanks Mount Union for inspiring.

"It's bittersweet that you are graduating because you don't want to leave Mount Union," Lewandowski said. "But, I really can't wait to be a teacher."

Career in Education

I am an associate principal in a middle school with approximately 1,100 children in grades 6-8. Although some of my job responsibilities include the management of our school staff and building, I aspire to be an instructional leader who influences the educational environment in which I work.

Unique Graduate Program

I chose Mount Union because of the reputation of the University as well as the rigor the MAEL program offered. I was not just looking for a degree, but rather an experience that would both challenge and enrich me as a professional educator. I liked the online aspect of the program, but I was not willing to complete an entire program online. It was the combination of the summer institutes and the fall/spring online courses that really helped me make my decision. I would recommend the program because it is diverse, well balanced, relevant and responsive to the needs of aspiring educational leaders.

An Investment in Education

I know that, having completed this program, I am a better educator and instructional leader. I am not sure I can put a price tag on that, but it has great meaning to me, and I hope that there is a direct impact on the children I serve.

Preparation for Teaching

The education I received at Mount Union helped prepare me to be a classroom teacher. The networking and relationships established at Mount continue to open doors in my field. My education classes provided me with a valuable and pertinent understanding of my field. The professors' guidance and mock interviews gave me confidence at the beginning of my career.

Lasting Investment

Not only did I receive a great education that prepared me to be a teacher, Mount Union also afforded me the opportunity to constantly network with talented alumni that I have been in contact with throughout my career. My wife, Susan (Clark '94) Chaddock and I have had successful professional careers due to the excellent preparation from Mount.

Favorite Part of the Job

The opportunity to make a difference in the lives of students, families and staff in the Stark County community through education is my favorite part of the job.

Staying Connected

My wife, Susan, and I consistently contribute to the Mount Union Fund and attend alumni events when we can. Our oldest daughter, Ellie, is a freshman art education major and golfer at Mount Union.

Molding the Next Generation

I support and lead 19 secondary schools (nine middle schools and 10 high schools) in their endeavors to create career and college readiness opportunities for students, build staff capacity and increase rigor in the curriculum in order to close the learning gap and provide opportunities for all students to be career and college ready upon graduation from high school.

Career Preparation

My Mount Union education provided me with a foundation of readiness to be an effective teacher and leader.

Opportunities for Everyone

Mount Union provides opportunities for students of different cultural backgrounds, ethnicity and economic status to collaborate in the learning process. I had three professors that I favored equally because of their patience, guidance and understanding of my situation of being a single parent, student and athlete during my time at Mount Union. They were Dr. Linda Burkey, Dr. Tom Gannon and Dr. Jack DeSario.

Lifetime Goal

My main goal is to continue to have an impact on reshaping the educational system and to continue being a positive role model for students, but especially young black males.

Mentoring From Afar

I'm currently taking some time off from work to focus on my growing family. Until recently, I had the opportunity to work for Mount Union as a University supervisor for three seniors who were completing their Student Teaching Clinical Practice in Gaston County, North Carolina. I reviewed their weekly lesson plans, observed them in the classroom, completed their evaluations and had weekly conferences with them to act as a mentor.

Favorite Part of the Job

The clinical practice of student teaching is such an exciting, stressful, overwhelming and rewarding time for seniors. I sincerely enjoyed my role of mentor and supervisor for students who were so close to stepping into their first role as professional educators. I was able to share my passion for teaching, experiences and lessons I have learned along the way.

Career Preparation

Mount Union's Department of Education does an incredible job of preparing tomorrow's teachers for their future. I gained field experience in the classroom during my freshman year. Many other colleges and universities do not send their students for field experience that early. Gaining that experience early on made me confident that teaching was the correct profession for me.

Valuable Investment

My education from Mount Union has proven to be an excellent investment. I have had a great deal of success inside and outside of the classroom because of the help I received from everyone at Mount Union.

FLAVIL HAMPSTEN '01 EARNS TOP SPORT BUSINESS HONORS

Mount Union graduate Flavil Hampsten '01 recently earned double honors after being named to the Sports Business Journal's Forty Under 40 and to the Charlotte Business Journal's Forty Under 40 for 2015.

According to sportbusinessdaily.com, the Sport Business Journal's Forty Under 40 was created to identify and honor the most promising young executives in sport business under the age of 40. The Charlotte Business Journal's Forty Under 40 recognizes young professionals from the Charlotte area for the strides they are making in their careers and the contributions they have made toward civic work.

Hampsten, who majored in business administration with marketing and management concentrations, began his position as senior vice president of the Charlotte Hornets in 2010. In the past year, Hampsten was part of the team that brought the Hornets back to Charlotte. Hampsten currently works as executive vice president and chief sales and marketing officer for the San Jose Sharks.

Previously, Hampsten held positions with the National Basketball Association as director of team marketing and business operations, the Phoenix Coyotes as vice president of ticket sales, Comcast Spectacor as premium seating account executive and Mandalay Sports Entertainment as corporate marketing manager.

Currently, Hampsten is on the University of Mount Union Sport Business Advisory board, Baylor University's S3 board and the Make-A-Wish board.

Previous Mount Union alumni and Sport Business Journal Forty Under 40 recipients include 2013 recipient Brent Stehlik '99 and 2014 recipient Ed Kiernan '96.

ASSOCIATION MESSAGE

It's all about your Pride and Passion. Several years ago I was asked to serve on the Alumni Council. I appreciated being asked, but was reluctant.

I was busy. I was living at the airport, or so it seemed. I had three active teenagers and my wife, Kathy, was working full-time as a teacher. Our plate was full, did I really need another commitment? Probably not, but I have tremendous Pride and Passion for Mount Union so I jumped in.

I've had the pleasure to work with three presidents and their teams. I have always been impressed with the dedication they have to the students, community and alumni. They have Pride and Passion for Mount Union's mission.

I have also had the opportunity to work with the Board of Trustees and the Alumni Executive Board. Every one of these unpaid volunteers dedicates hours of valuable time to support the University because they have Pride and Passion.

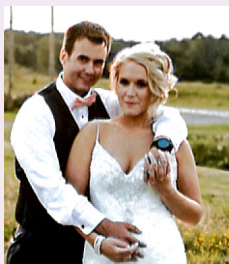

I am passing the torch to Bill Schumacher '82, your new Alumni Executive Board president, and Bob Kerr '89, the incoming vice president. I know these gentlemen very well. They have Pride and Passion for Mount Union and I know that they will represent your interests.

As you look ahead to 2016, please consider including Mount Union in your plans. Visit campus to see a play or concert, attend an athletic event or just walk the grounds. Look for ways to get involved and reconnect.

Someone once told me if you want to get something done ask a busy person. In the end, it's all about asking a busy person to do a little bit more. How busy are you? Do you have the Pride and Passion for Mount Union?

Douglas Jenison '01 of Stow, Ohio, died July 16, 2015.

George Weimer '54

Mount Union trustee emeritus George Weimer Jr. '54 died June 10, 2015.

Known as an inspirational, generous and sincere human being, Weimer was a member of the Board since 1980 and an invaluable asset during a period of significant growth and expansion. Retired as the vice president and trust officer for United National Bank and Trust Co., he and his wife, Shirley (Barrick '56), have been staunch supporters of the University for decades. They co-chaired Mount Union's Sesquicentennial Committee, and over the years, they have provided support for a number of initiatives including the establishment of two George and Shirley Weimer prizes, one in German and another in Japanese; a number of campus sculpture initiatives including an annual sculpture competition, a statue of Mount Union founder Orville Nelson Hartshorn outside of the Gartner Welcome Center and a sculpture of St. Francis of Assisi at the Huston-Brumbaugh Nature Center; and the establishment of a fund to support campus needs and initiatives such as new uniforms for the Mount Union Marching Band. The Weimers have also been generous supporters of the Mount Union Fund and numerous campaigns. In 1979, Weimer was the recipient of the University's Alumni Service Award. His place in the history of the institution is a considerable one, and the University is truly a better place because of his contributions.

Vincent Marotta '48

Vincent Marotta '48 of Pepper Pike, Ohio, died August 1, 2015. Marotta was one of the co-founders of the iconic Mr. Coffee brand that helped revolutionize how Americans make their morning brew. He and his business partner and high school friend Samuel Glazer turned Mr. Coffee into a household name after asking two engineers to create a drip brewing system like those found in restaurants. Mr. Coffee helped make the percolator obsolete as the standard for home coffee brewing.

Marotta was a star high school athlete and was signed by the St. Louis Cardinals as a centerfielder in 1942, but he went into the military just before the start of spring training. He became a star running back in football at Mount Union after World War II.

University of Mount Union Financial Summary

2014-15 Fiscal Year

University of Mount Union Financial Summary

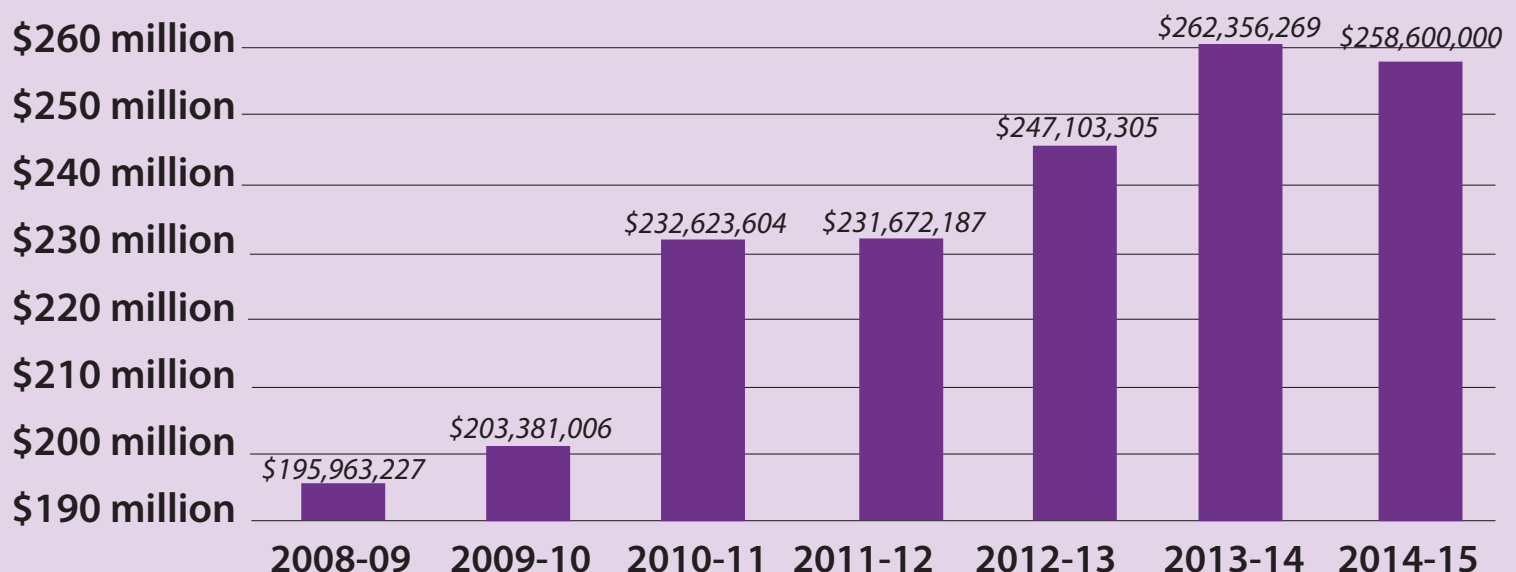

The University of Mount Union had another positive operating year ending June 30, 2015, marking its 61st consecutive year of balanced operations. Despite flat investment returns from the University's endowment, net assets were within 1.5% of last year's level, at $258.6 million.

On the University's Statement of Financial position, Mount Union experienced significant growth in unrestricted net assets, up $8 million (6.8%) thanks to excellent operating performance and completion of construction projects in the sciences and the fine arts. Temporarily restricted net assets experienced a decline in 2014-15 due to the completion of those projects which were re-classified to unrestricted, flat endowment growth and the elimination of a temporarily restricted trust. Restricted net assets were up $1.8 million thanks to new gifts. On the liability side, total liabilities were reduced by nearly $3 million as the University continues to retire debt at a pace faster than its amortization schedule, as requested by the Board of Trustees.

As outlined in the Statement of Activities, the University had an exceptional operating year, with net tuition revenues up 1.0 million (3.2%) and unrestricted revenues at a record $58.6 million, (up 3.3%). Overall expenses were held in check, at $54.9 million (up 2.6%), as the University continues to make investments in new programs in allied health and engineering. Fundraising continued to be a strong portion of our fiscal health, as the University received $6.4 million in total gifts and private grants, up nearly 50% over the prior year. As a result, change in assets from operations totaled $4.6 million versus $4.0 million in 2013-14.

Honor Roll of Investors 2014-2015

Dear Alumni and Friends,

On behalf of the faculty, staff and students, I'm pleased to present the names of those generous investors whose gifts were made to the University of Mount Union during the 2014-2015 Fiscal Year. Through the Honor Roll of Investors, we would like to recognize and thank those who have made this year a success.

When we reflect on our past and visualize a new era at Mount Union, one thing remains a constant – the foundation of generous and loyal support that we receive from our alumni and friends. Building upon that strong foundation, we welcomed a new leadership team, Dr. W. Richard Merriman, Jr. and Dr. Margot Kelman, to the Mount Union family to help further shape and develop the University. With new energy and enthusiasm leading the charge and 17 years of presidential experience, we feel Mount Union's future is in exceptional hands.

As we turn to the planning process that will guide the University of Mount Union in the immediate future, it's your unwavering commitment and support that has created the Mount Union of today. Our heartfelt thanks to you for allowing 2,200 students to call Mount Union home each year.

These wonderful young men and women who walk our campus each day experience a residential community that is second to none. If you've been back to campus in recent years, I'm sure you have noticed the incredible transformation of our physical campus, most of which has been created in large part through the investment of generous donors. With a gorgeous campus and forward-thinking academic programs that blend the liberal arts and the professional experience, Mount Union is focused and committed to remaining accessible to all students who are interested in a Mount Union education.

In order to ensure that a Mount Union education is attainable, we will be shifting our fundraising focus from building new facilities to strengthening our endowment. The key to making sure that students of today and tomorrow have access to quality education is providing financial opportunity through endowed scholarships. Scholarship opportunities help offset shrinking state and federal support, and it's imperative that we create new financial pathways for students to attend Mount Union.

As we visualize the future of Mount Union in this rapidly-changing higher education landscape, we would be remiss not to reflect and pay tribute to those individuals who made the recent year a success. The Honor Roll of Investors is one way we can show our sincere appreciation and gratitude to all of you for making Mount Union what it is today. To all of our alumni, parents, friends and supporters, we say thank you!

Sincerely,

Gregory L. King '89
Vice President for University Advancement

Endowed Funds

Endowments are permanent funds that provide support for academic pursuits and programs at the University of Mount Union. Private gifts to the University create these endowments. Donors determine the purpose for which endowment income may be spent. Some common purposes include the following.

- Chairs, professorships and other faculty and staff positions
- Scholarships and prizes
- Support for an academic program of the University, department, building or area
- Academic research
- Purchase of journals, books, art, technology or new equipment

Since its inception in 1846, thousands of donors have contributed to endowment funds established for hundreds of purposes at Mount Union. Generous support for higher education, coupled with conservative and effective investment strategies, has resulted in an endowment currently valued at $142 million (as of June 30, 2015).

“Harold Kolenbrander, one of Mount Union’s most distinguished presidents, would often say that he agreed that university education, as well as education in general, was expensive. But he would follow that comment with the important observation that if one thinks education is expensive, try ignorance. We give to the great endeavor of helping to support the quality education offered and available at Mount Union because it is an investment in fighting the enormous inflation of ignorance. No investment results in greater returns.”

The Mount Union Fund

Each year, generous alumni, friends, parents and organizations support campus programs and initiatives through gifts to The Mount Union Fund. These gifts support the current operations of the University by providing needed and flexible funds used to assist student aid, enhance campus technology, support campus improvement projects and address emerging opportunities. Simply put, the University would not be in the position it is in today without a strong and growing tradition of annual support. Those who support The Mount Union Fund do more than just share their resources or receive a tax benefit, they show their belief in the University, its faculty and students, its mission and its direction. Mount Union is indeed grateful for the nearly 3,000 donors to The Mount Union Fund.

1846 Society

The 1846 Society is the pinnacle of annual giving recognition. Membership in the 1846 Society is achieved by Donors who contribute $1,250 or more to the Mount Union Fund during the fiscal year (July 1-June 30). The following Donors, through their annual support, make a collective statement that their belief in the University of Mount Union is strong and that the University is indeed a priority in their philanthropic lives. The University salutes the following individuals who made a significant difference during 2014-2015.

Volunteers

The spirit of giving at Mount Union does not end with financial support. Many volunteer their time and talents through several avenues of engagement. Alumni can choose to engage more fully in the life and success of the University by participating on the Alumni Association Executive Board. In addition, some alumni and friends choose to give their time as members of the Board of Trustees, Engineering Advisory Council, Executives and Professionals on Campus, Physician Assistant Advisory Council, The Ralph and Mary Regula Center for Public Service and Civic Engagement Advisory Council and the Sport Business Advisory Council.

Alumni Association Executive Board

The purpose of the Alumni Association Executive Board is to be actively engaged in activities that promote and provide leadership in support of the University.

Board of Trustees

Members of the Mount Union Board of Trustees serve in a policy-making role, but more importantly they provide financial support and management; represent the University to the public; assure the maintenance of the physical plant; serve as a court of final appeal; assess the institution's performance; and have administrative accountability for the Office of the President.

Jim '56 and Sally (Cooper '56) Otto

Mount Union has always been a special place to Jim and Sally Otto. It is not only where they first met, it is a place they choose to share their passion for tradition, education, service and philanthropy.

Even while attending Mount Union, Jim and Sally were active volunteers within the campus community. Jim and Sally met while serving on a committee for a play. They first connected at the bottom of the stairs in the Chapman Hall lobby and have been together ever since.

After graduation, Jim and Sally were married, began their prosperous careers in education and sales, had two children and always remained active supporters within the Mount Union community.

"It is indeed a pleasure to be able to help the university move forward in its endeavors to prepare other students to take our places, surpass our accomplishments and make a better world!"

Jim and Sally were members of the Class of 1956 Scholarship Committee. The committee planned its 50-year celebration and collectively raised funds to endow a scholarship. The scholarship is now awarded each year to a deserving Mount Union student in the name of the Class of 1956. Sally also donated her time on Mount Union's Alumni Council.

Along with being active volunteers, Jim and Sally have been consistent supporters of the Mount Union Fund since 1985 and support the 1846 Society at the Founder's Club level. In honor of their lifetime giving, they are also members of the Forever Mount Society. Jim and Sally recently generously contributed to the new Giese Center for the Performing Arts to name the Jim and Sally Otto Lobby and Sally Otto Art Gallery.

"Our liberal arts education at Mount Union prepared us very well for our journey from students to well beyond adulthood."

Refer a student to Mount Union

MOUNT UNION IS LOOKING FOR GREAT STUDENTS, and no one is better at choosing future Purple Raiders than our loyal alumni and supporters.

More than 17,000 alumni and current students have called Mount Union “home” and have first-hand experience of the value and impact a Mount Union education brings. The admission staff needs your help in obtaining information about students who may be great matches for Mount Union.

GO TO mountunion.edu/prospective-student-referral-form to submit their contact information {Be sure to have the complete name, address, email and year of high school graduation before you begin}.

We will reach out to your student with general information and place him or her on mailing lists pertinent to their specific needs and interests. The Mount Union admission staff are waiting to see how we can best support your student, but THEIR JOURNEY STARTS WITH YOU.

REFER A STUDENT!

Share your story with future Purple Raiders and encourage them to visit campus at: mountunion.edu/tour-registration
