West Nottingham Twp. v. Gatlos

Zoning violation – Unlicensed practice of law – Power of attorney –
Constitutional challenge to zoning ordinance – Right to jury trial

1. Sections 5602 and 5603 of the Probate Code do not empower an individual who is not licensed as an attorney-at-law to practice law in this Commonwealth. To construe the Probate Code so as to permit a non-attorney to appear and represent a principal in a court of record would be to permit the licensing and admission requirements to be circumvented. In addition, such an interpretation would effectively abrogate the Judicial Code's prohibition against the unlicensed practice of law. The potential problems created by the use of the power of attorney as a means of encouraging the unauthorized practice of law are obvious. Of course, if the principal wishes to proceed pro se, he or she may do so. However, the power of attorney cannot be used as a device to license laypersons to act as an attorney-at-law.
2. It is well settled that, with a few exceptions, non-attorneys may not represent parties before the Pennsylvania courts and most administrative agencies.
3. An attorney-in-fact may personally engage in all activities authorized under sections 5602 and 5603 of the Probate Code that do not constitute the unauthorized practice of law. Although the exact boundaries of the practice of law may be difficult to determine, by whatever standard or definition, the in-court representation of another — a paradigmatic function of the attorney-at-law — amounts to the practice of law in this Commonwealth.
4. It is well established in Pennsylvania that zoning regulations are not per se unconstitutional. A municipality may enact zoning ordinances reasonably restricting the property right to protect and promote the public health, safety and welfare under its police power.
5. A zoning ordinance is presumed to be valid so that one challenging the zoning ordinance, particularly on constitutional grounds, has the heavy burden of establishing its invalidity.
6. In Pennsylvania, the constitutionality of a zoning ordinance is reviewed under a substantive due process analysis. Under such analysis, the party challenging the validity of provisions of the zoning ordinance must establish that they are arbitrary and unreasonable and have no substantial relationship to promoting the public health, safety and welfare.
7. Article I, Section 6 of the Pennsylvania constitution provides that “trial by jury shall be as heretofore, and the right thereof remain inviolate.” In construing this section, the court has consistently held that the right to a jury trial as preserved by our Constitution extends to all causes of action that existed at the time the Constitution was adopted.
8. The great purpose of the constitution in providing that “trial by jury shall be as heretofore, and the right thereof remain inviolate,” was not to contract the power to furnish modes of civil procedure in courts of justice, but to secure the right of trial by jury in its accustomed form before rights of person or property shall be finally decided. Hence the right of trial as it then existed was secured, and the trial itself protected from innovations which might destroy its utility and its security as a palladium of the liberties of the citizen. Beyond this point, there is no limitation upon legislative power in constructing modes of redress for civil wrongs and regulating their provisions.

9. Civil enforcement proceeding based upon the violation of a township's zoning ordinance were unknown at common law and exist only because they have been created by the Pennsylvania Municipalities Planning Code, which allows a municipality to recover fines, costs and attorney fees for prosecuting a violation of a zoning ordinance. Thus, there is no right to trial by jury.
10. The constitutional protection against imposition of excessive fines found in Article I, Section 13 of the Pennsylvania Constitution generally applies only to criminal proceedings, but the legal principle embodied in Article I, Section 13 has been found applicable to all proceedings, civil and criminal, and excessive penalties are not favored by the law.
11. Under Pennsylvania law, the fixing of penalties for crimes is a legislative function and an act of the legislature is presumed to be constitutional and the burden of demonstrating the unconstitutionality of a legislative enactment is on the person asserting that position.
12. Defendant filed an appeal from the Court's decision of April 21, 2010, wherein the Court Held against defendant on the basis of his continuing violation of the zoning ordinance of West Nottingham Township. Pursuant to Pa.R.A.P. No. 1925(a), the Court filed its opinion setting forth the reasons for its decision.

OPINION

Defendant has filed an appeal from our decision of April 21, 2010, where-in we found against defendant on the basis of his continuing violation of the zoning ordinance of plaintiff, West Nottingham Township. Whether or not the appeal is premature and whether or not any issues have been preserved for appeal,¹ pursuant to Pa.R.A.P. No. 1925(a), we herewith file this opinion setting forth the reasons for our decision.

Following the filing of the appeal, appellant was directed to file a concise statement of the errors complained of on appeal and has done so. None of the issues raised by defendant have any merit.

First, appellant argues that we erred in refusing to permit appellant's wife, Polly Gatlos, to represent appellant at trial. Appellant specifically bases his claim on "20 Pa.C.S.A. §§5602 & 5603." However, "sections 5602 and 5603 of the Probate Code do not empower an individual who is not licensed as an attorney-at-law to practice law in this Commonwealth. To construe the Probate Code so as to permit a non-attorney to appear and represent a principal in a court of record would be to permit the licensing and admission requirements to be circumvented. In addition, such an interpretation would effectively abrogate the Judicial Code's prohibition against the unlicensed practice of law. The potential problems created by the use of the power of attorney as a means of encouraging the unauthorized practice of law are obvious. Of course, if the principal wishes to proceed pro se, he or she may do so. However, the power of attorney cannot be used as a device to license laypersons to act as an attorney-at-law." Kohlman v. Western Pennsylvania Hospital, 438 Pa.Super. 352, 359, 652 A.2d 849, 852 (1994). See also The Spirit of the Avenger Ministries v. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, 767 A.2d 1130 (Pa.Cmwlth. 2001) ("It is well settled that, with a few exceptions not applicable here, non-attorneys may not represent parties before the Pennsylvania courts and most administrative agencies. Shortz v. Farrell, 327 Pa. 81, 193 A. 20 [1937]"). An attorney-in-fact may personally engage in all activities authorized under sections 5602 and 5603 that do not constitute the unauthorized practice of law. Although the exact boundaries of the "practice of law" may be difficult to determine, "by whatever standard or definition, the in-court representation of another — a paradigmatic-ic function of the attorney-at-law — amounts to the ‘practice of law’ in this Commonwealth.” Id at 358, 652 A.2d at 852. Therefore we did not err in not permitting appellant’s wife to represent him at trial.

¹ We note that no judgment has been entered based upon that decision nor did defendant file a motion for post-trial relief.

Second, appellant contends that we denied his civil rights. Although appellant does not explain how his civil rights were violated, he does cite to “Article I, Sections 1, 6, and 26 of the Pennsylvania Constitution.”

Section 1 sets forth “Inherent rights of mankind” and Section 26 provides that no political subdivision of the Commonwealth “shall deny to any person the enjoyment of any civil right, nor discriminate against any person in the exercise of any civil right.” Appellant has not specified the manner in which these constitutional provisions might apply but we speculate that appellant is challenging the right of West Nottingham Township to restrict in any way the use of his property. However, it is well established in Pennsylvania that zoning regulations are not per se unconstitutional. “It is well settled law in Pennsylvania that a municipality may enact zoning ordinances reasonably restricting the property right to protect and promote the public health, safety and welfare under its police power. Plaxton v. Lycoming County Zoning Hearing Board, 986 A.2d 199, 205 (Pa.Cmwlt. 2009) (citing Woll v. Monaghan Township, 948 A.2d 933 (Pa.Cmwlt. 2008), appeal denied, 600 Pa. 767, 967 A.2d 962 [2009]). A zoning ordinance is presumed to be valid so that one challenging the zoning ordinance, particularly on constitutional grounds, has the heavy burden of establishing its invalidity. “In Pennsylvania, the constitutionality of a zoning ordinance is reviewed under a substantive due process analysis. McGonigle v. Lower Heidelberg Township Zoning Hearing Board, 858 A.2d 663 (Pa.Cmwlt.2004). Under such analysis, the party challenging the validity of provisions of the zoning ordinance must establish that they are arbitrary and unreasonable and have no substantial relationship to promoting the public health, safety and welfare.” Plaxton, supra, at 205. Appellant has made out no case to establish the invalidity of any part of the West Nottingham Township Zoning Ordinance.

Article I, Section 6, provides that “trial by jury shall be as heretofore, and the right thereof remain inviolate.” “In construing this section, this Court has consistently held that the right to a jury trial as preserved by our Constitution extends to all causes of action that existed at the time the Constitution was adopted. See Wertz [v. Chapman Township, 709 A.2d 428, 432 (Pa.Comm. 1998), aff’d, 559 Pa. 630, 741 A.2d 1272 (1999)], 741 A.2d at 1275-76; Commonwealth v. One (1) 1984 Z-28 Camaro Coupe, 530 Pa.523, 610 A.2d 36, 41 (1992) (right to jury trial for in rem forfeiture cases preserved by Pennsylvania Constitution where such cases heard by juries at time of adoption of Constitution); William Goldman Theatres, Inc. v. Dana, 405 Pa. 83, 173 A.2d 59, 64-65 (1961) (right to jury trial for obscenity charge preserved by Pennsylvania Constitution where such cases heard by juries at time of adoption of Constitution); Appeal of Watson, 377 Pa. 495, 105 A.2d 576, 577-78 (1954) (no right to jury trial on issue of tenure for teacher fired for “mental derangement” where such cases not heard by juries at time of adoption of Constitution); Premier Cereal & Beverage Co. v. Pennsylvania Alcohol Permit Bd., 292 Pa. 127, 140 A. 858, 859-60 (1928) (no right to jury trial on issue of revocation of liquor license where such cases not heard by juries at time of adoption of Constitution). As this Court explained in 1866: The great purpose of the constitution in providing that ‘trial by jury shall be as heretofore, and the right[] thereof remain inviolate,’ was not to contract the power to furnish modes of civil procedure in courts of justice, but to secure the right of trial by jury in its accustomed form before rights of person or property shall be finally decided. Hence the right of trial as it then existed was secured, and the trial itself protected from innovations which might destroy its utility and its security as a palladium of the liberties of the citizen. But beyond this point there is no limitation upon legislative power in constructing modes of redress for civil wrongs, and regulating their provisions. Haines v. Levin, 51 Pa. 412, 414 (Pa.1866).” Mishoe v. Erie Insurance Company, 573 Pa. 267, 279-280, 824 A.2d 1153, 1160 (2003). Thus, in Mishoe, the inquiry was whether the bad faith cause of action today residing in section 8371 existed at the time the Pennsylvania Constitution was adopted. Finding that it did not, the Supreme Court ruled that there was no right to trial by jury in Pennsylvania in such cases. In this case, then, the inquiry is whether or not a cause of action for a civil enforcement proceeding based upon the violation of a township’s zoning ordinance existed at the time the Pennsylvania Constitution was adopted. Such causes of action were unknown at common law and exist only because they have been created by the Pennsylvania Municipalities Planning Code and specifically §617.2 of the Pennsylvania Municipalities Planning Code, Act of July 31, 1968, P.L. 805, as amended, 53 P.S. § 10617.2, which allows a municipality to recover fines, costs and attorney fees for prosecuting a violation of a zoning ordinance. Thus, here, as in Mishoe, there is no right to trial by jury.

Appellant’s third issue cites to footnote 1 of our decision for the proposition that we “incorrectly stated that [we] had no jurisdiction to hear this matter”² but made a ruling anyway. Of course if we were incorrect, as appellant contends, in stating that we had no jurisdiction, then the error is moot since we did, as appellant notes, render a decision on the entire case. However, appellant misstates the content of the footnote. In that footnote, we suggested that we might not have jurisdiction to review the issue of whether or not defendant had committed and continues to commit a violation of the township's zoning ordinance (i.e. liability) but never did we suggest that we did not have jurisdiction to impose a fine for that violation. As noted in the said footnote, the issue of whether or not we could review the issue of the violation itself was moot as the evidence was overwhelming that appellant had violated and continued to violate the zoning ordinance.

² That footnote, in its entirety, reads as follows “Even if we had the authority to review whether or not defendant had committed and continues to commit a violation of the township’s zoning ordinance (and we probably do not have that authority on the facts of this case, City of Erie v. Freitus, 681 A.2d 840 [Pa.Cmwlt.1996], appeal denied, 547 Pa. 738, 690 A.2d 238 [1997]), the evidence is overwhelming that defendant is in continuing violation of the zoning ordinance. A landowner who has violated a provision of a zoning ordinance “shall, upon being found liable therefor in a civil enforcement proceeding commenced by a municipality, pay a judgment of not more than $500 plus all court costs, including reasonable attorney fees incurred by a municipality as a result thereof.” 53 P.S. § 10617.2(a). Generally, “[e]ach day that a violation continues shall constitute a separate violation.” Ibid. The initial date of violation was determined by the magisterial district judge to be December 2, 2008, and the evidence before us leads us to the same conclusion. Therefore, the maximum permissible judgment as of the date of this order is $252,500.00. We have, nevertheless, determined that a judgment of $20 per day is sufficient, in addition to which the defendant is liable for plaintiff’s court costs, including reasonable attorney’s fees.”

Appellant's fourth and final point is that the fine was excessive, citing Article I, Section 13 of the Pennsylvania Constitution which provides, in part, that "excessive fines" shall not be imposed. This constitutional provision applies only to criminal proceedings. Geffen v. Baltimore Markets, 325 Pa. 509, 191 Atl. 24 (1937). Appellant has not developed this argument but we note that, in general, that the legal principle embodied in Article I, Section 13 is applicable to all proceedings, civil as well as criminal, id at 517, 191 Atl. at 27, citing City of Scranton v. Peoples Coal Co., 274 Pa. 63, 71, 117 A. 673 and that "excessive penalties will not be favored by the law," Ibid., but here, as in Geffen, supra, we do not regard the penalties as excessive and, we note, the penalties have not caused the appellant to cease the violation of the zoning ordinance. Our rationale for imposing the fine as we did is set forth in footnote 1 to our decision and is in accordance with the fines established by the Pennsylvania legislature. See footnote 2, supra. "Under Pennsylvania law, the fixing of penalties for crimes is a legislative function and an act of the legislature is presumed to be constitutional. Commonwealth v. Bryant, 239 Pa. Superior Ct. 43, 361 A.2d 350 (1976). The burden of demonstrating the unconstitutionality of a legislative enactment is on the person asserting that position." Downs v. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, 150 Pa.Cmwlth. 455, 467, 616 A.2d 39, 46 (1992). In our view, the same reasoning applies to fines established for zoning ordinance violations and, again, appellant has presented no evidence or argument in support of his position.

For the foregoing reasons we rendered the decision from which this appeal has been taken.

Claim What is YOURS

Last year, the Pennsylvania Treasury returned over $100 million of unclaimed property. Search today at www.patreasury.org.

Search www.patreasury.org or call 1-800-222-2046 to see if we have money for you. Each year, Treasury receives millions of dollars in unclaimed property – things like:

- ✦ abandoned bank accounts
- ✦ life insurance policies
- ✦ forgotten stocks
- ✦ safe deposit box contents
- ✦ uncashed checks
- ✦ uncashed refunds
- ✦ certificates of deposit
- ✦ expired gift cards

At Treasury, we work hard to find the rightful owners of unclaimed property. The names listed here have property worth more than $250 awaiting them. Is your name here? If so, file a claim at www.patreasury.org.

Even if you don't see your name, visit www.patreasury.org to perform a free search. You can even search for your friends and neighbors. Treasury estimates that approximately 1 in 10 Pennsylvanians has property waiting to be claimed.
