Dear Teacher

We are delighted to showcase our learning resources that have been prescribed for Forms 1–5 in our Pearson Botswana Secondary Catalogue.

Forms 1–3

For Junior Secondary, we present our two series – Longman in Action and Heinemann Exploring. These two series cover all the requirements of the Revised Junior Secondary School syllabi.

We aim to equip you with the tools you need to take your teaching to new heights and thus we have incorporated additional, value-adding tools such as FREE Key Concept Charts with our Student’s Books.

Forms 4–5

You have a number of prescribed local and international titles to choose from for Senior Secondary. Be assured that all the materials provide comprehensive coverage of the current curriculum requirements.

We will be in touch

English Novels

One Bounce

Kop and Hale have been best friends since childhood. They grew up next door to each other and spent many hours playing One Bounce together in the street. Now Kop has given up school to join the world of fast cars and crime. Hale knows his friend is getting himself into deep trouble. As events unfold, Hale starts to wonder about his own life.

Written by Andrew Ntsele and Janet Smith, this gripping book will motivate learners to study literature.

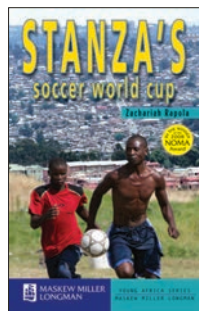

9780636036550

Stanza's Soccer World Cup

Stanza dreams about making his debut at the 2010 Soccer World Cup. But he has to manage difficult players and a corrupt businessman, all the while fighting to keep his Diski Mini-League and his delivery job on track. Will his team make it? And will he finally get Bontle, the pretty kiosk operator, to notice him?

Written by Zachariah Rapola, the award-winning writer and film-maker, this book will grab the attention of even the most reluctant readers.

Stronger than the Storm

Thinasonke enjoys school life and the time she spends with her friends, but there are storm clouds on the horizon. Her brother, Mangaliso, hasn't spoken since being detained in the 1980s, and her best friend Thabang's mother is ill with a mysterious disease. Over the next few months, Thina's life and the lives of those around her are changed forever by the AIDS epidemic. This moving story speaks to us all by dealing sensitively with issues such as sexual abuse and the secrecy surrounding AIDS.

Calcium	Green leafy vegetables, broccoli, legumes	Prickly pears, oranges, mulberries, mowani
Phosphorus	Legumes, broccoli, potatoes	Grapes, guavas, kiwi fruit, lichis, grandillas
Iodine	Green leafy vegetables	-
Carbohydrates	Starch is present in potatoes and sweet potatoes. Sugars are present in carrots, beetroot, onions and peas.	Fruits contain carbohydrates in the form of fruit sugar (fructose) and starch.
Fibre	All vegetables contain fibre.	All fruits are rich in dietary fibre.
Water	Vegetables contain between 80 and 90 % water.	Most fruits contain more than 80 % water.

Guidelines for choosing fresh vegetables and fruits

- Green leafy vegetables must be a deep green colour, as this shows the presence of vitamins and iron.
- The leaves of the vegetables must be crisp, which is a sign of freshness.
- In the case of cabbages and lettuce, the heart must be firm to the touch.
- Avoid vegetables that have their outer leaves removed, as this may indicate that the vegetables are no longer fresh.
- Root vegetables must be firm and free from marks. Avoid those that feel soft.
- Avoid very large root vegetables, as they may be stringy or have a coarse texture.
- Vegetables must not be bruised or damaged, as this can cause a loss of nutrients, especially water-soluble Vitamins B and C.
- Choose fruits that are clean, brightly coloured and free from blemishes.
- Avoid overripe fruit – choose when just ripe.
- Buy fruits that are firm to the touch and are heavy in weight for their size.
- Fruits must not be bruised or damaged, as this can cause a loss of nutrients, especially water-soluble Vitamins B and C.

Storing vegetables and fruits

Here are some guidelines on how to store vegetables and fruits to prevent spoilage and loss of nutrients.

- Store roots and tubers in a dark, cool, dry place. This prevents moulding and sprouting. They can also be stored underground, and covered with soil.
- Most fruits and vegetables can be stored in the bottom drawer of the refrigerator for 1–2 weeks. Place them in plastic bags or sealed plastic containers to prevent them from drying out and losing nutrients.
- Put green tomatoes in a bowl on a sunny windowsill to ripen. Once ripe they can be stored in the refrigerator.
- Vegetables such as carrots, peas and green beans can be washed, peeled, chopped and frozen. This will keep nutrients locked in for up to six months, provided they are stored in airtight containers.
- Vegetables such as rutabaga, sheep, bean leaves and pumpkin leaves can be parboiled and then dried. Although there is some nutrient loss, this method allows these vegetables to be available when out of season.
- Check stored fruit and vegetables regularly and remove those that show signs of decay as this can spread very easily. The loss of nutrients occurs very quickly in decaying fruit and vegetables.

High and low biological value protein

Sources of HBV protein	Sources of LBV protein
Meat	Wheat
Fish	Maize
Eggs	Peas
Milk	Beans
Cheese	Lentils
Pane	Nuts
Soya beans	Olefin

Guidelines for choosing and storing eggs

- Buy eggs from a supplier that has a high turnover and check the "best before" date on the container.
- Open the container and examine the eggs for cracks.
- There should be no unpleasant smells.
- A stale egg will produce a sound when shaken whereas a fresh egg will not.
- A fresh egg will have a rough shell.
- A fresh egg will be heavier than a stale egg.
- Eggs should be stored in a cool, dry place, for example, the egg tray in a refrigerator.
- Eggs should be stored away from strong smelling foods such as onions, as their porous shells may absorb the odour.
- Eggs should be stored with the sharp end facing down and the rounded end facing up to keep the egg yolk suspended in the centre.
- Eggs may also be stored in a container with sawdust or dry sorghum bran.

Guidelines for choosing and storing meat

- The meat should look and smell fresh.
- Beef should be red in colour and veal should be pink in colour.
- Lean meat should have marbled fat.
- Meat should be springy to the touch.
- Meat should be moist but not damp or dripping fluids as this may be a sign of spoilage.
- Dried meat (biltong) should show no signs of mould.
- Check the expiry date on packaged meat; do not be tempted to buy meat that is already beyond its "sell by" date.
- Buy meat from a reputable supplier that sells meat that has been inspected and graded.
- Fresh meat should be stored in the refrigerator and used within a few days after being purchased. Wrap the meat in plastic to keep out air and prevent evaporation of juices.
- Meat can be frozen for up to three months.
- Processed or cured meat such as ham or poultry can be kept in the refrigerator for up to two weeks, provided it is well covered.
- Dried meat can be stored in the fridge.

Guidelines for choosing and storing legumes

- Choose glossy, richly coloured seeds.
- Avoid cracked or broken seeds or beans showing holes.
- Look for smooth-skinned, uniformly sized and evenly coloured beans.
- Buy legumes that are free from weevils or other pests.
- Check for hard seeds and stones.
- Store legumes in sealed containers in a cool, dry place.
- Protect legumes from attack by insects by mixing the seeds with wood ash.
- Store legumes in ceramic or dark glass containers to prevent exposure to light.
- Add dry leaves to stored legumes to keep bugs away.
- Traditionally legumes are stored in silos (dibbani) with wood ash or ash from dry cow dung (malwa wa dib).

Guidelines for storing milk

- Milk should be stored in a cool, dark place, for example, a refrigerator.
- Milk should be covered to keep it from absorbing flavours from strong-smelling foods like onions and cheeses.
- Fresh milk should be used within 2–3 days after purchase.
- Sterilised and ultra heat-treated milk should be treated as fresh milk once the packet is opened.

Guidelines for storing cheese

- Cheese should be stored in the refrigerator.
- Soft cheese will keep for a few days in the refrigerator.
- Hard cheese will keep for weeks if it is kept in a sealed container or tightly wrapped to prevent drying out.

Crafts

- Basketry is one of the oldest crafts in the world. The most common types are coiled, platted, stake and strand, and split baskets.
- Pottery is a traditional craft that has been used for many years by all groups of Botswana to make both functional and decorative articles. The three main ways to hand-build clay pots are by the pinch, coil and slab methods.
- Plait can be used in many different ways to improve the home. Examples are fabric painting, stencil painting, marbling, painting on canvas, painting on glass, découpage, and paper miche.
- Carving makes attractive ornaments. Wood, soapstone, clay, bone, plaster, soap and wax can be carved.
- An easy way to make a picture is to create a stencil by sticking natural or man-made materials on to a firm background.
- In southern Africa many groups of people traditionally carried out bandwork. Beads can be threaded in straight lines, woven to make flat belts, strung into tubes or stitched to make a design on cloth or leather.
