Elevating
Richland
County

The Community Foundation flipped orthodoxies in the way communities typically approach revitalization of their central business districts. Having laid the groundwork in 2017 by investing in strategic community impression points around Mansfield, the Board of Trustees acted upon a unique opportunity to raise up Mansfield as a place to work, gather and live. Rather than invest in an outside consultant to provide ideas and architectural renderings of a model downtown, the board elected to act on a request from the Mansfield Area Chamber of Commerce and Idea Works, a downtown co-working space, to send 15 community members to the South by Southwest Conference, in Austin, TX. The diverse group departed with the express purpose to gather ideas from some of the most innovative minds from around the world and bring those ideas back to Mansfield to create an investment strategy to energize Mansfield's Central Business District - and the Mansfield Rising project was born.

An additional opportunity arose to strengthen a community impression point through competitive and donor advised fund grants to support the Mansfield Art Center's Arts Rising initiative. This project not only included an exterior rejuvenation of this art icon that opened in 1971, but added classroom space to expand its educational outreach and access to entirely new audiences.

While we are excited about these new opportunities, a grim reality of our current society was also addressed. The Community Foundation initiated conversations with substance abuse professionals and other private foundations to address the societal problems created by the opioid epidemic. The Community Foundation, along with the OhioHealth Foundation and SN & Ada Ford Fund worked together to leverage funding from the State of Ohio to the Richland County Mental Health and Recovery Services Board to construct a 16-bed withdrawal management facility. Upon its completion, the new facility will help complete a spectrum of treatment and prevention services available in Richland County.

The staff and Board of Trustees are thankful for the willingness and energy exhibited by so many people and organizations in our community to work together on these important projects.

Mansfield Rising Plan

Downtown Mansfield has been on a revitalization path since 1991 when the Richland Carrousel Park opened. During the planning, many people in the community scoffed at the idea that a wooden carrousel could improve downtown. Twenty-seven years later, most would agree it was a fantastic idea. Since then, many improvements have been made in downtown. But it has not reached critical mass with regards to development and investment. The Mansfield Rising Plan offers ways to help reach critical mass.

“We can’t operate from a mindset of scarcity, we need to operate from a mindset of possibility”

- Carl Fernyak, Idea+Works

The Richland County Foundation invested in 15 local citizens by sending them to the South by Southwest Conference in Austin, TX. The goal was to come back with ideas on how to improve Downtown Mansfield. Turning regular citizens into consultants gives depth and authenticity to the plan. It has been vetted through the community, developed through historical knowledge and written through the voices of 15 local citizens. It provides a road map of projects and opportunities for partnerships to continue the renaissance of Downtown Mansfield.

The production of the plan was fostered by the Richland County Foundation. However, this is a plan for any organization, business, citizen, or group looking to get involved. Neither the Foundation nor the City of Mansfield can fund or execute every aspect of this plan. In order to be successful, this must be a comprehensive effort. The execution phase will be just as collaborative as the development one. Costs range from sweat equity to millions of dollars. The Foundation will continue to lead, convene, guide, and fund efforts that support this plan.

Creating an emotional connection to a community has been shown to generate both long-term pride and commitment, as well as growth in overall GDP which enhances a community’s ability to grow and meet the needs of its residents. Specific factors that most affect this sense of community attachment are social offerings, aesthetics, and openness. Healthy communities afford social offerings (e.g. arts and cultural opportunities, availability of social community events, the community’s nightlife) that are plentiful, relevant, and easily accessed by their residents and visitors.

The vision is for Downtown Mansfield to become an optimal place to conduct business, gather and live. This vision can be achieved through five key areas: effective land use, wayfinding, technical assistance for business, branding and marketing, and safety.

The Richland County Foundation will use the Mansfield Rising plan to prioritize its investments in downtown. It will be implemented at various speeds and through various organizations with an end result of a better Downtown Mansfield.

Generous Donors Make Richland Gives a Success

Richland Gives, an online day of giving hosted by the Richland County Foundation, raised $309,503 for 88 Richland County nonprofit organizations. Since its inception in 2015, Richland Gives has raised $724,519.

The day is designed to encourage people to contribute to local nonprofits they care about through a single giving website. The Foundation hosted the day to build capacity, grow philanthropy and make the community stronger. It allows local organizations to raise funds and awareness as well as cultivate new donors and reinvigorate lapsed donors.

The Foundation awarded $45,000 in matching grants as incentives during the giving event. The nonprofit organizations that raised the most overall were awarded $3,000, for first place, $1500 for second place and $500 for third place.

The winners in the small nonprofit category were Lucas Community Center, first, Little Buckeye Children's Museum, second, and Discovery School, third.

The winners of the large nonprofit category were Renaissance Performing Arts Association, first, Richland Academy of the Arts, second, and Friendly House, third.

Charles Robinson of iHeart Media, Maura Teynor, chief advancement officer, and Brady Groves, foundation president, celebrate raising over $309,000 for local nonprofit agencies during Richland Gives.

Life's circumstances, experiences and fortunes inspired David and Therese Remy to give back to their community. They established The Remy-McCollough Family Trust at the Richland County Foundation in memory of his parents.

His father, Lewis F. Remy, was a home builder and realtor while his mother, Janice B. McCollough Remy, was mostly a stay at home mom but went to work in order to pay for David's college tuition.

"I am so full of gratitude for my life and want to share it. The community was good to my parents. My wife and I set up this donor advised fund as a way to memorialize them and pay it forward in perpetuity," said David.

His parents were high school sweethearts and met at Madison High School. They married in 1947 after his dad returned home from serving in the Air Force during World War II. When his father came back, he wanted to go to college but abandoned the idea and ended up working for David's grandfather at City Loan in the Collections Department for a couple of years.

Lewis Remy eventually ended up working as a finish carpenter and then a home builder for Modern Builders. Later he went into business for himself and began selling real estate in the 1960s.

He was very active in the community and served on the Mansfield City Planning Commission, Regional Planning Commission, Mansfield Board of Realtors as well as a Washington Township Trustee.

He had an aptitude for mathematics and engineering and surprisingly, he was artistic. He carved wooden ducks, birds, miniature carrousel horses, and turned wood to craft plates and bowls.

Janice Remy, who was also very artistic and a very good seamstress, went to work in the Mansfield Clerk of Courts Department in order to fund David's tuition at Ohio Northern University for undergraduate and law school.

David was born with infantile cerebral palsy and esophageal dysphasia. He spent the first several months of his life in Rainbow Babies and Children's Hospital. Growing up, he was not coddled because of his physical disability. He worked construction with his father; hauled block, spread gravel and pulled nails.

"My parents completely allowed me to participate in a lot of things including sports. They believed people with disabilities could live a normal life," said David. "They encouraged keeping up on physical therapy and agility to my maximum ability," he added.

David's wife and her sisters were adopted as children by Dr. Albert and Elaine Voegelé. Terri has an affinity to help children.

"With our donor advised fund, Terri and I would like to give children the spark and opportunity to better themselves," said David.

They would like to help several nonprofit agencies including those that serve disadvantaged children and people with disabilities.

David Remy currently is the City of Mansfield Public Works Director. He is an attorney whose career includes tenures as the City of Mansfield Law Director and Human Resources Director as well as working in the Richland County Juvenile Court, Mansfield Municipal Court, and Mansfield Law Director's Criminal Division along with running a private practice for many years. Terri Remy worked for O'Sullivan's Wine & Cheese Store, in the Mansfield Clerk of Courts Office and as a CASA (court appointed special advocate) volunteer in Juvenile Court.

Jana and Pat Mulherin recently established a donor advised fund at the Richland County Foundation. When asked why they did it, they both replied, “We want to continue to give back to our community. There are a lot of positive things happening here that gives us hope for future generations.”

“Our fourth generation family business, Mansfield Dairy Queen, has been here for over 70 years. The community has been good to us and we want to do our part. We were both born and raised here so it is important to us to make sure Richland County continues to grow and prosper.” Pat said.

Before taking over the Dairy Queen Glessner location from his father

“It is nice to show that people of ordinary means like us can make an impact. The needs and opportunities of a community change over time. When everyone pulls together, we can do great things to meet those needs. We’re excited about the future.” said Jana.

For many people, a job at the DQ is their first job. A first job there provides the opportunity to learn interpersonal skills, self confidence and how to become a valued employee. The Mulherin’s believe their success in this community is due to the people here; their customers, their employees and their families.

in 1987, Pat spent several years in local banking and industry with accounting and finance. Jana started working for United Telephone and left 17 years later when it was Sprint as Staff Administrator Complex Training.

They like knowing their gift to the Richland County Foundation will continue to benefit their community forever.

Doug Castle was a local educator whose 50 year career spanned all aspects of education in Richland County.

He had a special place in his heart for the underdog. When he died of brain cancer last year, his family established the Doug Castle Legacy Fund to carry on his work and honor his life. His wife, Liz, and daughter, Beth, want the fund to help in many areas including education, racial equity and inclusion, mentorship and community building.

“My dad just did so much with his life and was a source of inspiration to so many countless people. What we will miss the most is him of course- and as we can’t replicate is him and he meant so much to us, we need to do what we can to honor his life through our work. So in his absence, we hope to organize efforts to carry his legacy of integrity, educational opportunity, and belief in community,” said Beth Castle.

An advisory committee is being formed to ensure that any efforts will be ongoing and in touch with what the community needs. The first initiative launched will be Castle Community Conversations in which community members will be invited into a productive dialogue around an issue that needs to be addressed “Doug Castle style” - directly but with fairness and compassion leading to change.

Christ Lutheran Church of Lexington Scholarship Fund

By Donald Karger, Church Treasurer

As one of its final and lasting acts of community service, Christ Lutheran Church of Lexington established a scholarship fund. The church closed its doors at the end of last year due to declining membership. Prior to its last service Dec. 30, 2018, the members of the congregation voted to use its resources to set up a fund to award a scholarship to a Lexington High School graduate attending Trinity School for Ministry in Ambridge, PA, or the North American Lutheran Church designated seminary.

If there are no students who meet the first criterion, other criteria in the following order allow the scholarship then to be awarded to a Richland County high school graduate attending Trinity School for Ministry; then to a Lexington High School graduate attending a trade school or technical school, then to a Lexington High School graduate attending a college or university.

Christ Lutheran Church of Lexington had its beginnings in September 1964 when Pastor George Billman began surveying the Village of Lexington to establish statistics for the Board of American Missions, Lutheran Church in America.

On Nov. 22, 1964, all interested Lutherans, some of whom were educators in the local school district, gathered at the Congregational Church to set up plans for future worship services. At an organizational meeting Nov. 29, 1964, the new congregation was named Christ Lutheran Church of Lexington. Church services began on Dec. 6, 1964, in the Central Elementary School Cafeteria in Lexington.

On Jan. 27, 1965, the charter members of the Christ Lutheran Church of Lexington declared their wishes to be recognized as a member body of the Lutheran Church in America. On Oct. 10, 1965, George Billman was installed as the first pastor. On Sept. 8, 1966, two purple telephone poles in the shape of a cross were placed on the future church building site at 159 Frederick Street, Lexington. A groundbreaking ceremony was held on Jan. 28, 1968, and the dedication service for the newly constructed church was held June 16, 1968.

The Christ Lutheran Church Scholarship Fund shall endure as a legacy to all previous members as well as everyone who was baptized, confirmed, married and interred through the ministry of Christ Lutheran Church of Lexington.

“We are in the process of assessing and talking with those who my dad mentored and worked with in education to determine how best to support educational opportunity and community based mentorship and support as an initiative,” said Beth.

He began his teaching career in 1965 at John Simpson Junior High School and took an active role in coaching football, basketball and track.

In 1975 he was named the assistant principal at John Sherman Middle School and in 1979 became the principal at John Simpson Junior High School.

Castle developed an administrative philosophy based on being fair and keeping a sense of humor. He was a staunch believer in disciplining children in a way that would not destroy their dignity or self-respect.

For many years he was the director of the Mansfield Mehock Relays and then the Gorman Wrestling Tournament. From the early 1980s, he worked as a sanctioned official for track and field and volleyball.

Castle retired from Mansfield City Schools in 2000, and then worked as the Galion Middle School principal for the next five years.

Ohio State University Football Coach Jim Tressel hired Castle to work as an Academic Encourager for the young men on the football team. He met with players on campus to make sure they attended class and to help them with life’s obstacles. He loved every minute of the job; he got to stand on the sidelines during games, go into the locker room and attend bowl games.

To donate to a fund write a check to the foundation and designate the fund on the memo line.

Camp Invention at Dowds Elementary School in Shelby was funded in part by a Summertime Kids Grant. Camp Director Anne Finn said the children worked with robotic pets, designed a smart home and dancing dinosaurs. This student worked on his Optibot—a small self-driving bot that senses changes in light.

Camp Hope created by Hospice of North Central Ohio helped 88 children from Richland, Ashland and Knox counties deal with their grief over losing a loved one. The camp is funded in part by a Foundation Summertime Kids Grant.

Malabar Farm Foundation Fund

Malabar Farm Foundation Vice President Bob Berry said the fund will help plan for the future of the beloved Malabar Farm State Park.

“There was a time when the Foundation board was scrambling to have enough money to mail membership applications for the Louis Bromfield Society, a membership program established to raise funds to support the mission of the Foundation.

Through hard work of all the volunteers and generous donors we came out of that weak financial situation. The board members decided to preserve a nest egg so that does not happen again. That is when we set up an endowed fund,” said Berry.

The Malabar Farm Foundation was founded in 1994 to provide resources in support of the vision and programming of Malabar Farm State Park. The Foundation preserves, educates, promotes and extends the legacy of Louis Bromfield in the fields of agriculture, conservation, the arts and literature.

Donations to the Malabar Farm Foundation, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization, help fund many projects including educational exhibits and restoration of the many one-of-a-kind artifacts found in the Big House, the 32-room sprawling former home of Louis Bromfield, a Pulitzer Prize-winning author and conservationist.

The Malabar Farm Foundation spent more than $80,000 over the last three years to restore artwork and furniture in the Big House with more restoration projects in the works. In order to preserve these treasures in the Big House, the Foundation installed UV protection shades on all the windows.

“While the Ohio State Parks division has done a tremendous job restoring the Big House and other farm structures, it does not have the resources for this type of work. We have to creatively fundraise to preserve the history, art and artifacts in the Big House,” said Berry.

“I can safely say that we as a board want to leave Malabar Farm State Park a better place than when we found it,” said Berry.

Agency Designated Funds are not endowed funds, so the nonprofit may use the principal of the fund. Like the Agency Endowment funds, these funds support or provide an annual revenue stream for the overall operations of the organization.

The Women's Fund
RICHLAND COUNTY FOUNDATION

The Women's Fund was established in 1996 as a permanent endowment to support innovative programs at nonprofit organizations to promote the physical, intellectual, emotional, social, economic or cultural growth of women and girls.

An advisory committee comprised of 15 women awards the grants. Since its inception, the fund has awarded over $378,000 in grants impacting hundreds of lives including $70,000 in scholarships to assist women in advancing their education and careers.

Mary McDonald, on the right, was awarded the JoAnn Dutton Volunteer Community Service Award by Cathy Goldman. The award was named in honor of JoAnn Dutton, former executive director of the Mansfield YWCA. It celebrates and honors women who devote a significant amount of time and energy in a meaningful way to local charitable organizations.

The Legacy Society was established by the Board of Trustees in the year 2000 to recognize individuals during their lifetime who have made plans to leave a gift to this community in partnership with the Richland County Foundation. This gift may be through their estate plans, written in their will, including the Foundation as a future beneficiary of their IRA, insurance policy, remainder trust, or other similar planned gift.

The Richland County Foundation acknowledges the following generous people who have planned a legacy to their community through gifts that will eventually come to the Foundation for the benefit of others.
