

DISRUPTING BINARIES

About the Art and the Artist

When exploring this year's theme of Disrupting Binaries I wanted to showcase a sense of identity and self. People often put themselves into categorical boxes like race, gender, sexual orientation, etc., and quite frequently people can be put into those boxes by others. The reality is that you as an individual get to decide who you are, and what makes you, you. The main figure in the cover is made to resemble no one, and in turn it could resemble anyone. It is covered with literal boxes, some permanently a part of the person, some everchanging. The idea with this is that you as an individual get to decide what boxes you are a part of and which you are not, hence the crushed cube. This amalgamation of different boxes will always be unique to you because no two people are ever exactly the same. The aesthetic of the cover is inspired by a few things. Comic books, which can be an excellent example of diverse inclusion and representation. The color palette, geared towards the vibrant and lively atmosphere of New Orleans. And Pop Art, an art movement that was and is an advocate for many different ideas.

Welcome Message from SSS President, Gayle Kaufman

Welcome SSSers!

I am excited to be here with you in New Orleans for the 87th meeting of the Southern Sociological Society! The conference theme “Disrupting Binaries” is intended to encourage critical examination of the many boxes we put ourselves and others into. This threads through the plenaries on “Resisting Sociology’s Binaries” by S.L. Crawley, “Troubling the Public During Troubled Times” by Tressie McMillan Cottom, and “The Utility of Categorizing Genders” with Kristen Schilt moderating a conversation with D’Lane Compton, Michelle Johns, and Danya Lagos.

Like all SSS conferences, most of the conference is made up of your papers, panels, posters, roundtables, and workshops. Whether you want to learn more about race, racism, and racial justice; gender and sexuality; immigrants and immigration; health disparities and mental health; violence and victimization; schools and education; rural and urban spaces; popular culture; indigenous women’s movements; or climate change and disasters, you’ll find a session. If you need a little help writing, publishing, getting a grant, teaching, or finding a job, there’s a session for you.

I am deeply grateful for the tireless efforts of so many SSSers working behind the scenes. This includes the Program Co-Chairs Hiromi Taniguchi and D’Lane Compton and program committee members – Aarushi Bhandari, Blu Buchanan, Felicia Casanova, Melanie Escue, Won-tak Joo, Nik Lampe, Braden Leap, Gabriela Leon-Perez, Corey Miles, Ugur Orak, Ryan Parsons, Elizabeth Rahilly, Kapriskie Seide, Jaclyn Wong, and Sam Yuan – the Executive Officer David Brunsma and Assistant Executive Officer Elizabeth Roberts, Local Arrangements Co-Chairs Heather O’Connell and Kevin Smiley and committee members Yoon Jung Jeong, KayLynn Larrison, Jazmin Robinson-Smith, and Xinying (Nunnally) Zou. And all the volunteers!

I hope you’ll find time to make new friends whether that’s over coffee in between sessions or during one of our receptions. I would love to personally welcome you to the conference on Wednesday night during the Welcome Reception or on Thursday morning during the Coffee with the President. Wherever it is, come and say hi to me!

Welcome Message from SSS Program Chairs, D’Lane Compton and Hiromi Taniguchi

Greetings colleagues,

We are excited to announce that we have nearly 200 sessions and 700 presentations included in this year’s program built around President Kaufman’s conference theme of “Disrupting Binaries.” As noted in our charter, “the Southern Sociological Society promotes sociology as a profession and scientific discipline through maintaining high standards, encouraging effective teaching and research, applying sociological knowledge to societal problems, cooperating with related disciplines, recruiting and training sociologists, and developing sociology programs in educational and other agencies.” As such, we made it our goal to create spaces in the program for thoughtful and engaging papers, posters, panels, and session topics, in addition to activities that would spur comradery and micro-creativity for further work and revitalization.

In preparation for this meeting, please note:

1. First and foremost, if you have any concerns or need help onsite, please swing by registration.
2. While all those at SSS 2024 will have access to Wi-Fi in all the conference spaces, sometimes with so many people on the same system, things can run intermittently and inconsistently. Please be prepared by bringing your presentation on a USB drive and/or emailing it to your presenter to download onto their laptop in advance of your session.
3. Specific to NOLA, it is always a good idea to hydrate and no one ever needs more than two hand grenades in a day! We strongly suggest wearing comfortable shoes, loud and decadent flair, and always watching where you step.
4. We are excited to plan an in-person 2024 conference. All those attending SSS will be required to follow any COVID 19-related protocols mandated by local authorities at the time of the meeting. We strongly recommend that attendees receive a COVID-19 vaccination or booster in advance of the conference. Mask use is optional but encouraged. Please do your best to consider your own health and that of your colleagues. Depending on circumstances closer to our meeting in April, SSS Executive Committee may enact stricter protocols.

Lastly, we would like to further thank all those that helped and contributed to building this program from last minute submitters to the extraordinary committee of experts for their dedication and work in seeing this program come to be. Likewise, we greatly appreciate our Executive Office for always having an answer and the technical support over the last nine months.

We hope you enjoy your time in NOLA, and Laissez le bon temps rouler!

D’Lane Compton, University of New Orleans
Hiromi Taniguchi, University of Louisville

Message from our Mini-conference Organizers, Sancha Medwinter, Tannuja Rozario, and Monisha Jackson

Have you heard about our Diasporic Womanisms and Indigenous Women's Movements of the Global South Mini-Conferences at SSS? Come and join us for deep, reflexive decolonial, antiracist, antipatriarchal dialogues and a chance to be part of a community of like-minded BIPOC, QTPOC, and Global South scholars!

All our sessions are held in Gallier AB, 4th Floor on Thursday and Napoleon A2, 3rd Floor on Friday. We have an exciting slate of panels for you. Plan ahead and add to your calendar! Thursday Sessions: If you're looking to be part of a community, don't miss our laid back, kick off introductions, and the session organizers' presentation of our DW framework, "Diasporic Womanist Sociology: The Framework" (1:00 pm - 2:15 pm); "Diasporic Womanisms II: Decolonial Womanist Methodologies" (2:30 pm - 3:45 pm); "Diasporic Womanisms III: Navigating Academic Exclusions" (4:00 pm-5:15 pm). Friday: "Diasporic Womanisms IV: Womanism and Life-Death Ecologies" (8:30 am-9:45 am); "Diasporic Womanisms V: Decolonizing Identity, Sexuality, and Self-Care" (10:00 am - 11:15 am).

Message from our Mini-conference Organizers: Adam M. Straub, Kevin Smiley, and Liesel A. Ritchie

We would like to invite you to the Challenging Dichotomies in the Context of Hazards/Disasters Mini-Conference.

Traditionally, hazards and disasters have been categorized as “natural” or “technological” events. However, this reduces the complexity of these events and their effects on individuals, communities, institutions, and society. Join us as we blur these binaries and explore the complex social dynamics, technological challenges, and environmental changes that increasingly shape our world. All our sessions will take place on Friday, April 5th in Bayside B, 4th floor.

8:30-9:45a – Community (in)Action I:

1. I just called to say...it flooded: Flooding and governance seen through 311 calls in Baton Rouge
2. Community based organizational response after the Pearl River Flood (2022)
3. Citizen sewists?: The (unexpected) mutual aid workers of COVID-19
4. Engaging the community to address disaster food and nutrition insecurity

10:00-11:15a – Community (in)Action II:

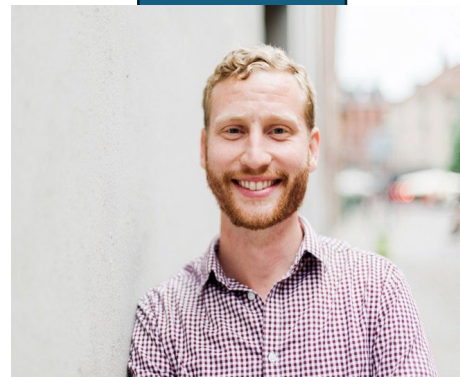

1. Experiences with Winter Storm Uri and perceptions of recreancy
2. Beyond boundaries: An analysis of the impact of water and power outages from Winter Storm URI
3. Feeling the burn: A pilot study of heat wave perceptions and preparedness
4. Challenging the moderate/radical dichotomy Through an ecosystem of tactics model: the Mountain Valley Pipeline resistance

1:00-2:15p – Institution and Organization (in)Actions:

1. Measuring recreancy in the context of a na-tech disaster
2. Long-term resilience of vulnerable communities in Southeast Louisiana
3. Disrupting “crisis”: The case of the declining Dead Sea
4. A culture of recreancy before, during, and after the Pearl River Flood

2:30-3:45p – Taking Stock, Moving Forward with panelists:

S. Kroll-Smith, K. Tierney, D. Miller, D. Gill, and S. Domingue

Social Currents

Social Currents, the official journal of the Southern Sociological Society, is a broad-ranging social science journal that focuses on cutting-edge research from all methodological and theoretical orientations with implications for national and international sociological communities. The uniqueness of Social Currents lies in its format. The front end of every issue is devoted to short, theoretical, agenda-setting contributions and brief, empirical and policy-related pieces. The back end of every issue includes standard journal articles that cover topics within specific subfields of sociology, as well as across the social sciences more broadly.

Session Glossary

AMCRs: These “Author-Meets-Curious-Reader” Sessions are an opportunity for book authors and other experts in their field to discuss recent publications. Join these conversations to learn more about new sociological material and to hear from those likely to agree, or disagree, with the conclusions drawn.

Mini-Conference: A formal grouping of paper sessions around a central theme. The sessions provide an opportunity to learn from authors about the work they have been doing and the new sociological knowledge. These mini-conference sessions are built of 10-minute presentations and question-and-answer sessions where time allows.

Panel Sessions: These curated conversations focus on a topic and the scholars making waves within it. In viewing these sessions, you will learn from those presenting and have the opportunity to ask questions to learn more about the subject.

Paper Sessions: Paper sessions are the opportunity to learn from authors about the work they have been doing and the new sociological knowledge coming out of it. These sessions are built of 10-minute presentations and question and answer sessions where time allows.

Plenary Session: An invited formal presentation to the entire society focused on a topic that highlights the theme of the conference.

Poster Sessions: Almost paper sessions but based on posters, these sessions allow scholars to share their work with an active audience. Presenters in these sessions range from undergraduates sharing their work with the community for the first time to tenured professors continuing to share their knowledge.

Presidential Address: A formal session that serves as the keynote address of the society delivered by the president.

Roundtables: Roundtables are informal presentations focused more on conversations about the researcher’s topic. These do not include formal presentations opting instead for an informed conversational approach.

Thematic Sessions: These paper sessions and panel sessions have been selected because of their unique connection the conference theme, “Disrupting Binaries.”

Workshops: Focused on skills sociologists use such as publishing and teaching, these provide an opportunity to learn from colleagues about the inner workings of our discipline. Attend these to learn from experienced members of our network about the ways they do their work as sociologists.

Southern Sociological Society Anti-Harassment Policy

SSS is committed to providing a safe and welcoming conference environment for all participants, free from harassment based on age, race, ethnicity, national origin, religion, language, sexual orientation, gender identity or gender expression, disability, health conditions, socioeconomic status, marital status, domestic status, or parental status (hereafter, simply harassment). Harassment of colleagues, students, hotel staff or other conference participants undermines the principle of equity at the heart of these professional fora and is inconsistent with the principles of free inquiry and free expression.

Harassment of any participant is unethical behavior under the American Sociological Association Code of Ethics. Harassment consists of a single intense and severe act or of multiple persistent or pervasive acts which are demeaning, abusive, offensive, or create a hostile professional or workplace environment. Harassment may include sexual solicitation, physical advance, or verbal or non-verbal conduct that is sexual in nature; threatening, intimidating, or hostile acts; circulation of written or graphic material that denigrates or shows hostility toward an individual or group; epithets, slurs, or negative stereotyping based on group identity.

All participants at SSS meetings are expected to abide by this Anti-Harassment Policy in all meeting venues including ancillary events as well as official and unofficial social gatherings. If you witness potential harm to a conference participant, be proactive in helping to mitigate or avoid that harm. Alert conference security personnel or law enforcement if you see a situation in which someone might be in imminent physical danger.

Advocates

Advocates are volunteer members of SSS who are available to support those making a report by providing information and resources. The following Advocates will be at the annual meeting:

- Melanie Escue, Assistant Professor, University of North Carolina at Pembroke: melanie.escue@uncp.edu
- Olivia Hetzler, Associate Professor, Lincoln University: hetzlero@lincolnu.edu
- Eucharika Nkem Ozoemenam, Graduate Student, North Carolina State University: enzoeme@ncsu.edu
- Corinne Schwarz, Assistant Professor, Oklahoma State University: corinne.schwarz@okstate.edu
- Elizabeth Wroten, Graduate Student, University of Delaware: edsuofd@udel.edu

Attendees should see the SSS 2024 Mobile App and/or visit the Registration Desk on the 3rd Floor for a list of advocates and reporting processes

President: Brianna Turgeon, Jacksonville State University

SSS is in the process of forming an Anti-Harassment Committee and adopting an anti-harassment policy. This policy focuses on providing a safe and welcoming environment for everyone, free from harassment based on age, race, ethnicity, national origin, religion, language, sexual orientation, gender identity or gender expression, disability, health conditions, socioeconomic status, marital status, domestic status, or parental status and applies to members of all positions and statuses within the Society. Join members of the Anti-Harassment Taskforce at this forum to hear more about the proposed policy, the resources we are working to offer for harassment, a Q&A, and to offer comments and suggestions on the support you would like to receive from SSS.
