SUNDAY LETTER

Origin:

6th c Gaul / Spain – Latin (Priebsch 1936: 19)

451-453 Jerusalem – Greek (van Esbroeck 1989)

Disapproved by church:

bishop Licinianus of Carthagena in Spain (6th c)

Saint Boniface at the Lateran Synod in Rome (745)

bishop Ecgred of Lindisfarne (ca 835)

Translated into:

Middle High German, Old and Middle English, Norsem Old French, Provençal, Catalan, Italian, Medieval Irish, Welsh;

Armenian, Syriac, Arabic, Ethiopian, Slavic

Even where, as in the case of texts like Kyssegyrlan Uched, Py delw ydyl dyn credv y Duw and Am Gadw Dyw Sul, the precise Latin original has not yet been traced, the fact of translation can hardly be doubted upon a consideration of the language employed it shows ample traces of translation. (Jones 1937: 69)

ONE TEXT OR TWO TEXTS?

I am Peter the Bishop of Antioch, who swear by the power of God, who created the heaven and the earth, and that which is therein, and created man in his own image and form; and by Jesus Christ, the Son of the living God, who was crucified for us, (and) who will come to judge the quick and the dead; and by the Holy Ghost; and by the Trinity (in) Unity inseparable; and by the four evangelists; and by the twenty-four prophets; and by the twelve apostles; and by the Blessed Virgin Mary, mother of Christ; and by the bodies of the saints, no man composed this epistle, but it was found upon the altar of Peter, the Apostle, sent by Jesus Christ from heaven indeed.

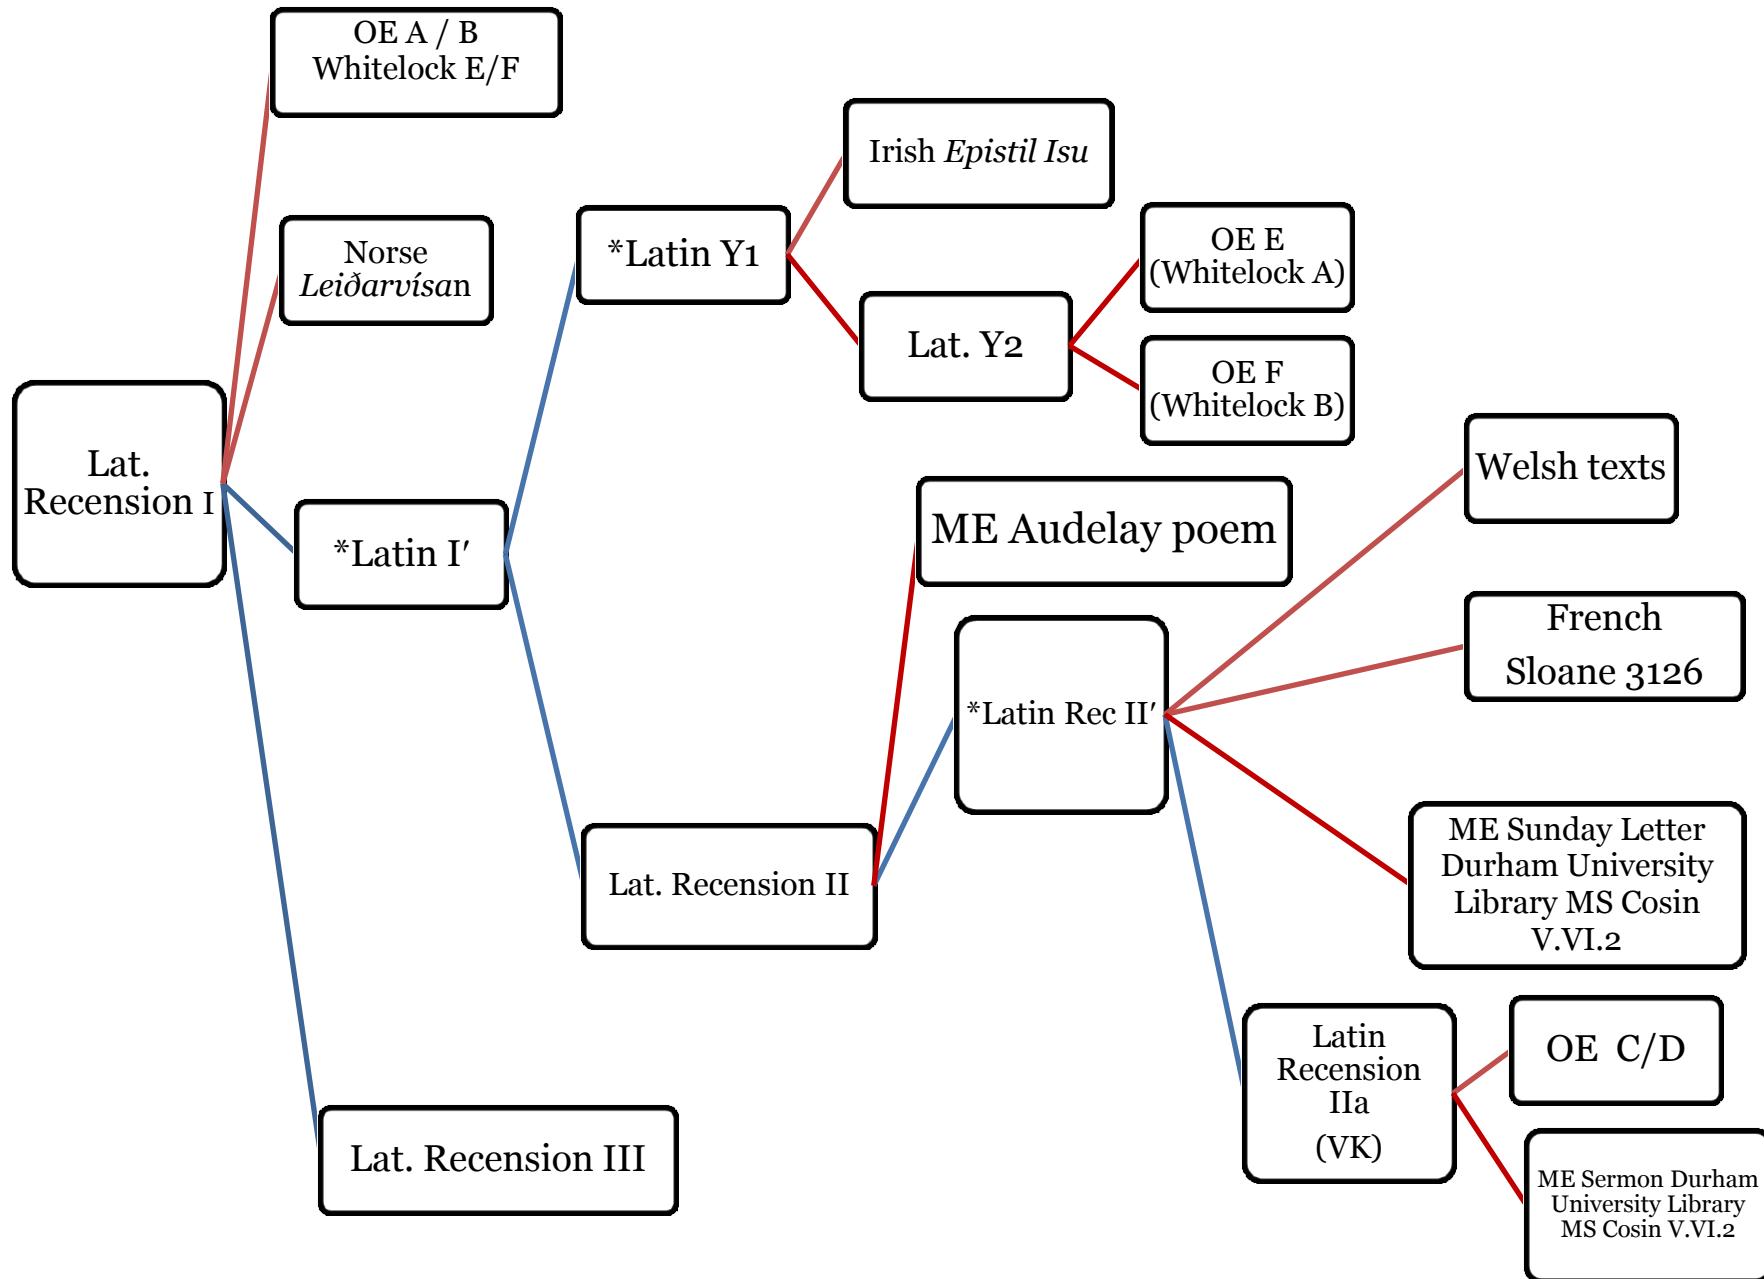

(BL Cotton MS. Titus XXII;
tr. Powel 1887: 169)

Ego Petrus episcopus indignus, iuro per Maiestatem Dei qui fecit caelum et terram, mare et omnia quae in eis sunt, per Ihesum Christum et per sanctam genetricem Mariam, per omnes angelos Dei, per omnes patriarchas, prophetas, apostolos, martyres, confessores, virgines, per reliquias omnium sanctorum atque electorum Dei, quia ista epistola non formata est manu hominis neque scripta, sed est scripta digito Dei et Domini nostri Ihesu Christi, et est transmissa de septimo caelo et de throno Dei in terram, qualiter diem sanctum dominicum observare debeatis.

(Munich 9550)

Je Pierre, evesque d'Antioche, vous senefie et jure a toulz et a toutes de par Dieu qui est tout puissant qui fist ciel et terre et mer et vendra jugier toulz et toutes au jour du jugement et par sa Sainte Trinité qui est un Dieu en trois personnes, c'est le Pere et le Filz et le Saint Esperit, et par la sainte mere de Nostre Sire et par les .xii. apostres et par les patriarches et par les .iv. evangelistres et par toulz les corps des saints et des saintes de Paradis que ceste epistre ne fu onques fourmee de main de home mortel, mes du Trone de Paradis et de Dieu envoie en terre et qu'elle fu escripte da la propre main de Dieu et le doivent toutes gens ainsi croire afin que le saint jour du dimenche et le samedi puis none soit gardé jusques a la fin du monde et pour acomplir toutes bonnes euvres.

TEXT TRANSMISSION

NO LATIN SOURCE FOUND

Let them declare to the people that they may believe in the solemn Sunday, and that they may merit the mercy of heaven; for God himself sent this written admonition to sinners unto the altar of the church of Peter and Paul in Rome, to admonish them respecting the work of Sunday and holy day.

[I am Peter the Bishop of Antioch, who swear by the power of God, who created the heaven and the earth, and that which is therein, and created man in his own image and form; and by Jesus Christ, the Son of the living God, who was crucified for us, (and) who will come to judge the quick and the dead; and by the Holy Ghost; and by the Trinity (in) Unity inseparable; and by the four evangelists; and by the twenty-four prophets; and by the twelve apostles; and by the Blessed Virgin Mary, mother of Christ; and by the bodies of the saints, no man composed this epistle, but it was found upon the altar of Peter, the Apostle, sent by Jesus Christ from heaven indeed.]

Let all the people of the world hear that, from love to me, they may not grow bold to swear false oaths, or to dishonour my churches, or to commit thefts on the holy Sunday. (Powel 1887: 167)

Audite, omnes populi, et videte quod nullus iuret in die sancto dominico.
(Munich 9550 [Delehaye 1966: 155-6])

CONCLUSIONS

From the foregoing examination of possible sources, it is evident that the whole Sunday Letter-Sunday List tradition is such a fluid one that it may be a mistake to imagine that direct sources are available for particular versions and that perhaps it is best to think in terms of analogues and groupings.

(O'Mara 1994: 100)

CONCLUSIONS

- Welsh text belongs to Recension II
- One translation into Middle Welsh
- Specific status of the final oath
- Close connection to Visio Pauli
- The translation follows Latin text closely
