Message from a VOS Board Member:

Dear fellow orchid addicts,

I am writing this while staring out the window on a grey wet Vancouver day. It's the first real rainy day since May and I swear I can hear the gardens (or at least all the gardeners) breathing a sigh of relief. It also heralds the change of the season, summer is drawing to a close and soon fall will be upon us, along with a new season at the VOS and a new executive (of which I am one). On behalf of the 2015/2016 Executive, I would like to take this opportunity to thank retiring members of the previous executive for all their hard work: Ryan Young (2nd VP), Ray Sword and Jennifer Fabre (Directors) and Margaret Prat (Past President).

Special thanks go to Margaret, who, although holding the title of Past President last year, operated as de facto President, chairing meetings, organizing shows and pretty much doing anything and everything that was needed. She has donated a lot of time and effort to the society and we all have benefited from her work. Although Margaret is no longer part of the executive, her efforts for the society are not ending, she is leading the first Culture Class of the season, Orchids 101 on September 14th, will be speaking at our October meeting on the genus Phaius, and, thankfully, has volunteered to chair the spring show and sale. Thanks again, Margaret. Now if only we could find a new President.....

I want to give a special mention to Jennifer Fabre, who also has been a busy lady, involved in the membership committee, helping to get our website revamped, working on the organizing and advertising for the spring shows and sales, among other things. She will be giving the first talk of this season, on her recent orchid hunting trip to Borneo at our monthly meeting on September 23rd. I am looking forward to hearing about her adventures!

Thanks also to Margaret Elvidge for her years of service at the raffle table at our monthly meetings (and to all who donate the plants and other prizes). She is stepping down and Chuck and Audrey Belotte are taking over. I, for one, particularly like the raffles; I won one of my favourite orchids, a lovely red SLC, from the raffle table.

And thanks to all the others, who have volunteered their time to various events. It is the volunteers that make the Vancouver Orchid Society's events, like the recent August Sale, and our presence at the Van Dusen 40th Anniversary Event possible. I was out of town and missed these events, but I have heard that both were successes: Erik Nilsen and Richard Pearson spearheaded efforts for the sale, and Barb Cable and Monica Stefansson organized the Van Dusen event. Their efforts, along with the others who came and helped out are much appreciated.

So don't be shy when we come looking for volunteers for upcoming events or other aspects of the VOS. Volunteering is a great way to get to know other members, have some fun and keep the society running. Both long time and new members can play vital roles here. And as I mentioned, we are still looking for a new President.....

Cheers all,

Jennifer Pell, Secretary

P.S. Adam Ludlow has taken on the role of updating the VOS website and Facebook page. Our website is beautiful, but was in need of upkeep so we can get our word out to current and future members and now Adam will be doing this (yeah!).

Cypripedium Advice:

“When I say that cypripediums grow like Hostas, this only applies for adult plants in beds or in the garden. In pots they are really sensitive and not long-lasting for most horticulturists. A pot should be only a wrapping for sales, not more. In this respect cypripediums behave similar to several other exclusive perennials. So I warn about thinking of cypripediums as pot plants.”

What's In Bloom At The Muttart

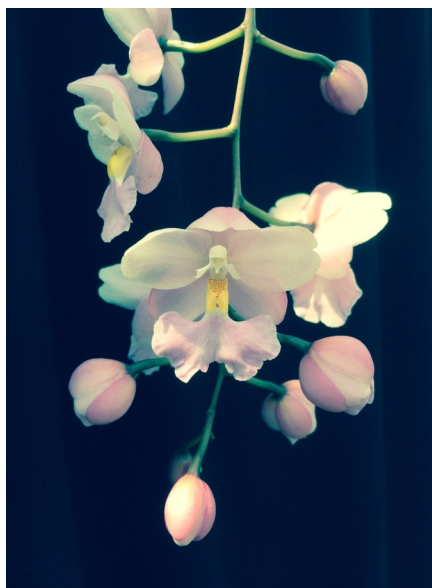

July 2015

Cuitlauzina [Cu.] pendula

Commonly known as the pendent or drooping cuitlauzina; it is one of eight species that currently make up this genera named after the Mexican King cuitahuazin.

It is found in Western Mexico growing on trees in oak or pine-oak forests in the Pacific coastal mountains bordering the Balsas Basin.

This specimen was part of the Keith Day donation and was for a long time known as Odontoglossum [Odm.] citrosum. It is grown in the intermediate green house and the sunnier (west) facing side. It also requires a cool dry rest period over the winter

Prosthechea [Psh.] ionocentra

One of the 122 species that comprise of this genera. Until recently this species along with 5 others form their own genera known as Panarica which was a combination of the two countries where they are found ; namely Panama and Costa Rica growing at altitudes from 2950 to 5250 ft. (900-1600 m).

It is grown in our intermediate greenhouse on the sunnier (west side).

July 2015 (cont'd)

Lycaste [Lyc.] deppei

Commonly known as Deppe's Lycaste in honor of Ferdinand Deppe (1794–1861) who was a German naturalist, explorer and painter.

Deppe travelled to Mexico in 1824. He collected natural history specimens for the Berlin Museum with Count von Sack and William Bullock. He also collected in California and Hawaii on his way home in 1830.

There are 49 species currently in the Lycaste genera: whose range extends from Central America, the West Indies and South America south to Peru and Bolivia

The genera is name after a greek nymph and daughter of Priamos the king of the Trojans.

The collection currently holds 12 species (~ 25% of the genera)

Lycaste deppei is found in Mexico, Guatemala, Honduras, El Salvador, and Nicaragua normally grow as epiphytes in wet mountain forests at 3600-5600 ft. (1100-1700 m), but are sometimes found growing on rocks.

The specimen is grown in our hot section on the sunnier (west) side of the greenhouse

Corallorhiza [Corallz.] trifida

I thought I would end on something completely different. This orchid will not be found in the Muttart orchid Collection as you will have to explore the Wagner Natural Area instead.

This is one of the 28 native species of orchid native to Alberta was taken with my cellphone while on a guided tour of the Wagner Natural Area by David Fielder.

I believe this is Corallorhiza trifida. Next time I go for a walk with an expert I will take better notes.

So given I do have to describe its habitat I will just end by saying you don't have to go far from home to find beautiful orchids and needless to say just take pictures home with you and leave the plant in its natural world for others to enjoy

Bulbophyllum levanae

The Bulbophyllum genera is one of the largest in the orchid world with over 1945 distinct species identified to date. They can be found in every corner of the world with the exception of Europe.

This specimen, commonly known as Levan's Bulbophyllum, is found only in the Philippines growing in forests at elevations around 500 meters on the islands of Panay, Luzon Leyte and Sibuyan. The 4" spidery blooms are a waxy reddish brown with reflexed petals and a wet oozing dark red hinged mobile lip; this flower smells so bad that it will shock and amaze your friends but flies on the other hand are drawn to it.

While we try to control insects in the greenhouse occasionally they can provide brief moments of joy and wonder, as was the case when Doug was taking these pictures.

It is from the original donation of Lorne Stewart and is kept on the shady side of the hot greenhouse.

Brassia allenii

This orchid was named after Paul Hamilton Allen (1911–1963) an American botanist noted for his work on the ecology of Central America, orchid systematics.

It is found in Panama and Colombia growing in the cloud forest. It normally carries 5 to 8 very fragrant flowers

This plant was part of the donation to the OSPF by Gerry Suffolk and is kept on the sunnier side of the intermediate greenhouse

It is part of the extensive collection of Brassia's held by the foundation

Dracula chestertonii

Named after Joseph Henry Chesterton (c.1840 – 26 January 1883) who was a plant collector sent by James Veitch & Sons and Henry Sander to search for orchids in South America with much success. On his final trip, he discovered a species of "Dracula orchid", Dracula chestertonii, which was named after him.

This orchid can be found in the Western Cordillera in the Departments of Antioquia, Valle del Cauca, and Chocó of Columbia. The plant produces a few single, fragrant [mushrooms] flowers borne in succession and held below the plant

This plant donated to the OSPF by Keith Day in 2004

12472A Stelis hirtella

Stelis genus is large with around 925 distinct species

Commonly known as the Bristley Stelis, this orchid can be found in Ecuador and Peru in high montane forests as a miniature sized, cool to cold growing epiphyte.

It is kept on the shady side of the cold greenhouse and was purchased by OSPF in 2014.

New AOS Awards Page!

The American Orchid Society published a new webpage that makes the latest orchid awards and photos available to everyone!

Six things you will absolutely love about the new awards page

1. It's free! Gaining access to orchid awards previously required a subscription to the AOS' Orchids Plus award registry platform.
2. You don't have to be an AOS member. These breathtakingly beautiful photographs haven't been available to non-paying visitors until now.
3. The page shows the 30 most recent orchid awards, including name, parentage, description, award, score and photograph. This information can help make you a better orchid grower.
4. Clicking on any photo in the page opens up a larger photo with a gallery feature, allowing you to click through all of the large photos for the latest awards.
5. The page also includes a social sharing function to allow you to share the page with your friends via your favorite social media or bookmarking site, as well as by email.
6. You can start exploring right now!
