Los Angeles—The Benny Goodman band, in the process of something like a reorganization preparatory to opening at the Astorian New York, will come up with five musicians in its line-up who were with the "original" Goodman band that made history here at the old Palomar in 1936.

Joe Harris, the singing slip-horn player who recorded Basin Street with Benny about the time he was alunching his first band, is now the partner of Miff Mole in the trombone section.

Charlie Spivak Makes Changes

New York-Charlie Spivak took New York—Charlie Spivak took on a new singer, Leonard Lane, two weeks ago during his stay at the Hotel Pennsylvania here. The trumpet-playing maestro also had a change of managers with Max Schall, who has been handling the business end for Jerry Wald swapping places with Ted Alabaster, Spivak's mentor. Other changes were imminent in the Spivak outfit at press time but details were lacking.

James at Astor

New York—Harry James moves out of the Hotel Astor on June 26, replaced by Benny Goodman, and moves over to Frank Dailey's Terrace Room in Newark for a five day stay. After that, the James band is set to return to the west coast to shoot an MGM movie called Tals of Two Sisters and will do a return date at the Astor sometime in December.

Virginia Maxey

New York—Bob Allen and his band, with Helen O'Connell singing singly in the same show, opened at the Capitol theater here on June 3 with a new gal singer, Virginia Maxey, who replaced Paula Relly.

Few canine pets have done as much traveling with a name band as this black cocker spaniel of Jimmy Dorsey's. Vickie is seen here with the master in a dressing room between theater shows. Even the strain of fiveaday can't make Jimmy ignore his faithful pal.

Now here's a hunk of dog-and a beautiful hunk of gal, toe. It's Ann Corlo, strip-tenscuse superb, with a Great Dane be-longing to a fan. He doesn't seem to mind Ann's arm around his neck, proving that dogs are no dopes. Ann is touring west coast theaters, heads east soon.

WillOsborne to Anita O'Day to Follow Spivak At the Pennsy

Casa Loma Returns In July, T. Dorsey Due in September

New York—Dick Gabbe, General Amusement Corporation booker, resigned from that firm two weeks ago to join Jimmy Dorsey's band at the Earle theater in Philadelphia in the capacity of road manager. Gabbe replaced Billy Burton, who is handling enough personal management deals to warrant his staying in town.

Besides the bands of Dorsey and Gracie Barrie, Burton is also the business representative for singers Helen O'Connell and Dick Haymes. Gabbe was replaced in the GAC office by Howard Sinnott.

New York—At press time, Down Beat learned that Will Osborne and his band had been contracted to follow Charlie Spivak into the Hotel Pennsylvania on June 24. The booking came as something of a surprise, in as much as the Penn has always carried name band talent with top commercial drawing power and the Osborne outfit is not quite in that category.

However, from another angle, the deal is an illustration of howhard pressed the hotels are becoming to get top-flight music for their dine-and-dance rooms. Name bands do not make money in hotels; they do clean up on the road, doing one-niters and theater tours and at the present time, there aren't enough bands around to fill all the open and lucrative bookings out on the road.

New York — Two of Harry James' men, trombonist Don Boyd and bassist Thurman Teague re-ported for induction on June 8, while a strong rumor had key sax-man Corky Corcoran also ready for a khaki suit.

Sing for Woody

Los Angeles — Seemed probable that Anita O'Day, formerly with Gene Krupa, and recently working as a solo attraction at Charlie Foy's Supper Club in North Hollywood, would be Woody Herman's new canary.

Deal appeared to be pretty well settled at this writing with strong likelihood that Anita would join Herman at the Palladium around June 8.

Carolyn Grey, who did the vocal chores with Woody for several years, left the band here about the time Woody opened at the Palladium.

Sherwood Hires New Vocalist

New York — Bobby Sherwood took along a new band vocalist, Gwen Davies, on his recent trip to the New England territory where he played one nighters. The Sherwood band was set to return to New York on June 10 for a Hotel Lincoln opening, replacing Abe Lyman, who is embarking on a road tour.

Charles Trenet Alive in Africa

Decline Union Proposals On Outlaw Discs

New York — Music publishers, through Walter Douglas, chairman of the MPPA board, advised James C. Saxes were intact at writing with Robinson, Musso, DeFair, DiMaggio and Mondello (Pete).

The rhythm still has regulars such as Frankie Carlson, drums; Jimmy Rowles, piano; and Hi White, guitar; and one new-comer. Gene Sargent, bass; who replaced army-bound Yoder. Carlson is said to have given notice, however.

Proud Daddy On the Cover

Since Fathers' Day is June 20, here's ome of the most popular daddies in the band business, Vaughn Monroe. Sixteemmonth-old Candy is pushing the middle valve down for papahere. Vaughn, who sings and plays trumpet in addition to conducting his dance orchestra, will have even more fans when his coming movie is released. His talent and personality so impressed the producers of the film that the entire script was re-written to give the hand leader a fat part.

Shortage of Good Men Holds Back Plans for Band

Plans for Band

New Yerk—Although Don Redman has been described by several trade papers as actively engaged in forming a new band, the crack arranger-leader told Down Beat at press time that his plans for leadership were still vague and undetermined. Redman said that he had been thinking of starting a new outfit but added that even though there was the present day advantage of bookings at fancy prices upen on all sides, there was also the disadvantage of getting enough good men together for an acce outfit and the even more bothersome trick of keeping an organization together.

However, Redman has been far from inactive recently. Besides fronting good pick-up bands for stage appearances, he has been hard at work making a series of short subjects for Columbia pictures which should go down as a high water mark in the history of movie jazz music, as the following line-up in part certainly indicates: Trumpets: Ray Name, Taft Jordan, and Harold Baker; reeds: Harry Carney and Jimmy Hamilton; trombones: Benny Morton, vic Dickerson, and Wilbur De-Paris.

Los Angeles—Kid Ory, one of the participants in San Francisco's recent historymaking concert featuring Bunk Johnson and other veterans of the early days of jazz, has joined Zutty Singleton's augmented combo, which opened May 26 as one of the stage acts in Blackouts of 1943, Ken Murray's highly successful revue which has been running at the El Capitan theater for over a year.

Zutty's quartet (drums, piano, has and sax) moved into the stage show from Billy Berg's Swing Club. In addition to Ory, the famous "tailgate" trombone player, who became widely known through his recordings with Louis Armstrong's Hot Five and other historic jazz combos, Zutty has added Bob Sarrell, trumpet.

Paul Martell Augments Band

New York—Paul Martell, whose relief band at the Arcadia has been familiar to thousands of dancers over a period of more than six years, opened as the featured bandleader in that spot on June 4 with an augmented band of 13 pieces. Martell also planned to have both a boy and a girl ainger on the stand but at press time, auditions were still taking place. Allen Holmes' eight piece outfit will take over as the Arcadis relief band, after closing at the Aquarium, a night club, to take the job. There is a strong pussibility that the Arcadia will land a network wire for Martell.

As Well as Andrews

New York — Cy Devore, road manager for the Andrews Sisters, takes over the managerial reins for Mitchell Ayres and his band at the conclusion of a joint Andrews-Ayres booking at the Paramount theater here the first of August.

Mitchell has been handled in the past by Jack Philbin, also mentor of the Johnny Long and Bob Chester outfits, but Devore booked the Paramount date with the sisters for Ayres and will take over completely at the end of what is tentatively set for a six week Paramount backing.

At that time, both the singers and Ayres will leave for the west coast where the Andrews have a picture to shoot for Universal. There is a strong possibility that Ayres and his band will also be given a part in the movie, which is as yet without a title.

Basie Fans Like New Girl Singer

Decca Puts Out All or Nothing

New York—Decca Records is re-featuring its Jimmy Dorsey re-cording, with a Bob Eberly vocal, of All or Nothing at All. The tune as recorded by Sinatra on Columbia is selling like hot cakes, and Decca has lost no time in catching on to what should turn out to be a lucrative bandwagon.

New York—Elisse Cooper, who announced her intention a month ago to leave Jan Savitt's band to get married, has changed her mind. Elisse told Down Beat at press time that she now intends to stay on with Savitt for another six months, at which time she will wed and also venture out as a single under the booking hand of Joe Glaser, with whom she has just signed a personal management contract. Reason for the change in plans arose when Gabe Gelinas, her husband-to-be, was inducted by the army and the pair decided to wait until life became more settled before going ahead with their marriage plans.

Another new client for Joe Glaser is Jimmy Blair, radio singer, who once worked with Teddy Powell's first band, but, more recently, has been singing on the Blue network's Basis St. program. Blair has initialed a contract with Glaser for help with movie and theater work and also has signed with John Cleary for radio bookings. The young singer is set to report to his draft board on August 15 and alse expects to become a father sometime in December.

Concert Fund To Buy Discs

New York — ASCAP sponsored a Rachmaninoff Memorial Concert two weeks ago, the proceeds of which were donated to an organization called Armed Forces Master Records Inc. which supplies service-men all over the world with classical discs. The New York Philharmonic under the direction of Howard Barlow, and Sgt. Eugene List, pianist, were the music-makers for the occasion.

Wald and Long Swap Man, Job

New York — Jimmie Maxwell, former Benny Goodman trumpet, is now playing lead for Jerry Wald, having replaced Charlie Zimmerman, who went with Johnny Long, Harry Shockey, trumpet recently with Wald, has rejoined Wald's band Just to make it a little more confusing, Long replaces Wald's band at the New Yorker Hotel here in mid-July.

New York—Chris Cross and his Comedy Capers replaced Freddie Fisher at Jack Dempsey's. Band consists of eight pieces and features comedy and entertainment. Will be heard over Mutual three nights weekly.

Uan Rasey Takes Snooky Young's Place with Benny

Los Angeles — Race prejudice took another notable defeat at the hands of the musical profession as Uan Rasey, white trumpet plays who attracted much favorable notice when he was with Sonay Dunham, giened Benny Carter at the Casa Manana. Rasey stepped in to take the place of Snooly Young, who went with Cound Basic, currently at the Aragon, Ocean Park, Calif.

There has been only one other changu in Benny's band in recent weeks—the departure of Fred Trainer from the trumpet section and advent therein of Ted Butterer.

Present personnel of Carband lines up as follows: U Rasey, Gerald Wilson, Ted Buner, Walter Williams, trumped Shorty Haughton, Slim Moore, J Johnson, trombones; Bumps of the State of the Bradford, Eugene Port Willand Brown, saxes; Osc Johnson, tris Bradford, Eugene Porte, Willard Brown, saxes; Oscal Bradley, drums; Dillon Russel, bass; Ted Brannon, piano; Savanah Churchill, vocals.

Carter's own sax and trumped gives him a combination of fetrumpets or five saxes. He planto add a guitar shortly.

New York—Musicraft Records, the disc firm which accepted James C. Petrillo's "tax" proposal to end the ban on record-making, told Down Beat at press time that its negotiations with the AFM were still pending and that there was still nothing in the way of a happy meeting of minds.

Paul Puner, Musicraft president, said that he was of the opinion that many of the objections raised by other disc axecutives were specious ones and pointed out particularly that the idea of industry contributing to the social security funds of its union employees was not without precedent, nor unconstitutional, as has been claimed by attackers of the Petrillo proposition.

Talk Royalty Raise?

Petrillo sent for the publishers and submitted his proposal, believed to be aimed specifically at Eli Oberstein, head of the Classic firm, who has been accused by the union of recording activity in defiance of the ban laid down by the union last August.

Although there have been strong rumors in music circles that Petrillo also discussed with representatives of the publishers the possibility of increasing the mechanical royalty rate, possibly as an inducement to interest the music men in his plan to halt outlaw recording, this was denied by Douglas and other publishers attending the conference. AFM officials would make no comment on any angle of the situation.

Law First Rate

In any event, the present copyright law fixes two cents as the maximum disc royalty to publishers for use of copyrights, so the possibility of an increase would seem to be remote.

It also has been reported that all factions in the AFM were not in strict accord with Petrillo's move to approach the music publishers.

TD Still Owns Sinatra Third Worth 25 Gees

Singer Dickering To Eliminate Some of 'Pieces'

New York—At press time, Tommy Dorsey still owned 33½ per cent of Frank Sinatra. A month ago the singer made a flying trip to Chicago in an attempt to settle his financial setup with the bandleader. Sinatra in reported to have offered $25,000 payable over a period of several years to TD for a release from a contract which takes away one third of his earnings.

takes away one third of his earnings.

Besides Dorsey, other reports have credited both Leonard Vannerson and the General Amusement Corporation with having a piece of Sinatra property and the general estimate has been that Sinatra only owns 46% per cent of himself, Vannerson and the booking agency each having ten per cent.

Newer sources of information

Newer sources of information indicate that there may be even more chunks taken out of Sinatra's weekly pay envelope, the result of financial deals made some time be-fore the singer became the current vocal rage.

Dorsey and Sinatra are still on-friendly terms and it is quite pos-sible that some settlement satis-factory to both sides will soon be made.

Regular Jam Sessions for Chicago Now

Chicago—Jam sessions do not always fall into the right groove, but the second of the series being sponsored by Abert Marks, with the assistance of Bud Freeman and other municians, certainly came on like a block-buster. It was held in the ballroom of the Hotel Hamilton on Dearborn street, and Hamilton on Dearborn street, and drew a crowd of more than 200 swing lovers. Robert Crum, 88 sensation from swing lovers.

Robert Crum, 88 sensation from Elmer's, although scheduled as featured solvist, sat at the keyboard throughout the three hour session and accompanied everybody, in addition to giving out with a generous armful of his own stuff. Red Allen and J. C. Higginbotham from the Downbeat Room of the Garrick were on hand and ready as ever.

ginbotham from the Downbeat Room of the Garrick were on hand and ready as ever.

Stuff Smith came over from the Three Deuces and brought his bass player, John Levy. Stuff is dishing it out as well as, if not better than ever. Baby Dodds beat it out on the hides all afternoon, and Bud Freeman gave with his sax and emceed the proceedings.

The spot is an ideal one for ressions, plenty of capacity but still intimate enough for the right atmosphere. Marks plans to continue the series from 4 to 7 each Sunday, and if the talent holds up to the standard set by the second bash, it definitely will be a worthwhile contribution to the Chicago scene.

The last half hour of this particular session was devoted to a rocking One O'Clock Jump, with all hands on deck, and several volunteer instrumentalists, such as trumpet player from the Tune Toppers and a 17-year-old hornman whose name we missed, dropping in and out for choruses.

Kansas City Jazx in the person of Jay "Hooty" McShann and his boys slipped into Chicago's Loop unheralded late last month. The Band Box house band, under the direction of Boyd Raeburn, availed themselves of a week at the Oriental theater while the Box management pulled a "sleeper" by presenting a lusty colored jazz band with a sturdy kick. In addition to nightly appearances on the bandstand the group was presented on a half-hour broadcast over CBS-WBBM nightly. Although they had come and gone before many of the Windy City jazz fans were aware of their presence, they very definitely left behind them an impression, enough of one in fact, to pression, enough of one in fact, to earn them a regular engagement of eight weeks probably starting in July. This reviewer caught the band on closing night and found the spot packed with enthusiastic patrons listening and dancing to a band repertoire largely made up of jazz arrangements.

Highlight of the band proves to be the piano artistry of McShann. Here is jazz piano with an original style yet incorporating a bit of Hines here and a bit of Basie there. McShann excels Basie as a soloist and sparks his rhythm section with as much drive as does Basie his section. Jay also shows a fine talent in playing accompaniments to his singers. His backing is terrific, whether it is a blues shout or a popular ballad of the day.

The McShann rhythm section drives with a beat that is typical of and associated with Kansas City. Made up of piano, drums and bass, it is the only part of the band that has remained from the original group that left KC with McShann several years ago upon the release of the classic Confessin', the Blues on Decca Records. However, the blues singer who helped make that record is still a feature of the organization. Walter Brown, who did the vocalizing on Confessin', now writes his own lyrics to the blues arranged by Jay and Skippy Hall. Unfortunately, WBEM banned all blues vocals on the broadcasts. Consequently, Brown sang When My Draamboat Comis Home nightly.

This band's book is laden with many originals. Jay's nickname is "Hooty" and hence the title of their theme—Hooty, Blues. There is also a number called Hold 'EmHooty.' They have waxed a dozen sides for Decca, the last two of which are due for release any day. Tunes are Jumpin' the Blues (Vocal by Walter Brown) and Get Me On Your Mind (Vocal by George Hibbler—a blind blues singer who no longer is with the hand)

Jay and his band have that freshness and enthusiasm that typ-ified Basic at the Grand Terrace back in 1936. They have smoothed out some of the roughness they had a year ago when playing Chi-

"Just a bit of misunderstanding," was the comment from interested parties.

It seems that treasury representatives had lined up the quis program, with Jack Benny as guest star, for the July 4 date, and after premature announcements that the deal was set discovered that the Standard Oil of California, which is sponsoring ten broadcasts by the Bowl ork this summer, had signed a contract calling for its first broadcast from the Bowl on the same date, with Paul Whiteman as conductor.

The Dorsey band, amoothly fitted into the show as playing at the nitery that serves as a locale for most of the action, is heard in numerous sequences throughout the picture, not only in specialties by the band, but also as accompaniment for dance and production numbers. At no time, however was the band merely used as a nucleus for a recording orchestra of 50 to 60 men. The band is recognizable even when not seen, the only augmentation having been in the doubling of Tommy's regular string section.

Margaret Arpino (Minatoka, N. J.): That music played just prior to At Last by Glenn Miller in Orchestra Wives had no title other than Boom Shot. It was written especially for that sequence, in which the camera traveled over the dance floor on a big crane, known in the studios as a "boom." The music was by Miller and Bill May.

George R. Heinel (Wilmington, Dela.): It is doubtful if even the movie bosses to re-issue those old dimusicals you mention. Revivals of old pictures have never been very successful. Los Angeles — The "Unknown Soldier" of the successful service men's stage production Hey Rookie, which has grossed over $250,000 during its run at the Belasco theater here, is a woman—Mrs. Doris Colvan, who wrote practically the entire show but to date has never received any credit.

Mrs. Colvan's part in writing the sketches and practically all of the show's book was hushed up because military tops wanted the production to appear to be an all-soldier effort. When the show was purchased by Columbia Pictures for the purpose of making a screen version (for $25,000. which was turned over to the Athletic fund at Ft. MacArthur) Mrs. Colvan's emotions were naturally somewhat mixed. She put in for a little recognition and got—a little!

Benny gets away with his few speaking parts effectively enough, but an oddity is the fact that he is seen in the picture without his glasses. It isn't a good dodge as the specs are very much a part of Benny's personality. Like anyone else who wears glasses all the time, he looks funny without them.

Singing Wives Discuss Wedlock

Band Vocalists Express Their Views on Problems Faced by Canary-Brides

Chicago—Probably due to the war, which always seems to accelerate the tempo of the marriage rate, an unusual number of band vocalists have become brides this year and many more have signified their intentions of taking trip to the altar soon. The editors of Down Beat, knowing that all of these marriages would incite a discussion of the old, familiar questions; should a girl singer wed in or out of the profession, should she continue her career after marriage, do children inter-fere with careers, etc., decided to canvass the singers them-selves for answers to these

A score of the best known vocal-ists in the country, all of whom are married or have been married, obligingly filled out questionnaire, giving their experiences and their views on these various angles of married life as it affects a profes-sional singer. al singer.

Figures Tell Story

Of the 19 case histories at hand, 14 of these girls wed in the profession, five are married to nonpros, a usual average. Seventeen of them continue to work, two have retired. Six of them are mothers, while thirteen have no children.

Only eight of the vocalists expressed the opinion that singers should marry in the profession, however. Three of them were against this, and the remaining eight said that is doesn't matter, depends rather on the individuals involved.

sale involved.

Fifteen of the singers believe that a girl should continue working after marriage, only four voted for retirement. And seven of them tate that rearing children interferes with a career, while 11 opine (and some of them have demonstrated it; that it is possible to be good mothers and good singers at the same time.

"Children Interfere"

Children Interfere

Harriet Hilliard, whose ideal domestic life with hubby Ozzie Nelson was the subject of a feature article in the Beat recently, says that rearing children definitely interferes with a singing career (Harriet is the mother of two fine boys), "but what does it matter, so long as the singing career doesn't interfere with rearing children?"

iren?"

Harriet says it doesn't matter whether a girl marries in or out of the profession, as long as she's in love. "Develop tact, however," she warns, "or you're a dead pigeon?" She believes that a bride should be a wife first, and a singer eccond, if she wants to continue work. And she adde that Ossi- is the boss—on the band stand.

Gracie Barrie, who took over husband Dick Stabile's band when he joined the coast guard and who was featured vocalist with the band up to that time, says a girl abould determine whether she wants to continue singing or settle down before she weds, and to marry in the profession if she wants to keep her career. "Don't ever become separated," she warns.

Helen is featured vocalist with the James hand, and her name was linked romantically with that of her hose some months ago. Now, even if Harry obtains the divorce from Louise which he is said to be seeking, it is unlikely that they will wed. Newspaper columnists have reported regular long distance conversations between the leader and a blonds movie star.

Peggy Mann, who became the bride of aax player Larry Moling in the profession, "because it's so important to have things in common, in order to achieve complete happiness." Peggy's new hubby is in the navy, so she is continuing as vocalist with Teddy Powell.

Powell.

"Wife Shouldn't Travel"

"Rather than sing and travel with a band, a girl should decide to settle down and enjoy marriage," says Peggy. "But I think a wife could do radio work and keep her home intact. Having babies is another matter, and that's the time I'd make my exit from the profession. Rearing children is a career in itself."

Marion Hutton, the spark of the Modernaires and the wife of Jack Philbin, personal manager of bands, believes that marriage and a career are compatible if both parties are broad-minded and considerate. Marion is a mother, too, and says that a competent nurse is the solution to the problem of rearing a family while continuing to work. "I highly recommend married life to any singer," says Marion.

Three of the Four King Sisters are married, and two of them are mothers. Yet they do not agree in detail on the various aspects of marriages and eareers. Louise, although she is the wife of Alvino Rey, believes that a vocalist should wed out of the profession, because it is simpler to have a normal home life.

"Never Talk Shop"

'Never Talk Shop'

Her own case is special, she points out, because she is able to continue work with her husband. Otherwise a wife should retire, she thinks. Louise states that she and Alvine never talk shop after hours, and that they take vacations occasionally to get out of the professional atmosphere.

Yvonne, the wife of Buddy Cole, pianist, advises marriage within the profession, to avoid jealousy and an unreasonable attitude toward a singer's job on the part of a husband who doesn't understand the band business. She thinks a girl should continue work, if possible, because it keeps her in touch with the music world and makes her more interesting to her husband.

"A vocalist's husband has a certain amount of competition, which is bound to keep love alive," says Yvonne. "And if he's a musician, he doesn't get jealous over the attentions of college boys, the boss, or the inevitable old men. Buddy and I keep separate bank accounts, which gives each of us a good feeling of independence."

That's what I'd do, if I had to make a choice."

make a choice."

Anite Boyer, who was the wife of Dich Barrie, orchestra leader, until their divorce in 1941, believes that a singer should marry in the profession, but that she should be sure to select comeons with similar musical tastes. Whether she should continue to work, inite thinks, depends upon the extens of her telent. "You can't stay married and travel constantly," says Anita. "A wife should try to get radio work, and maintain a normal home. Absolute mutual trust is the main solute mutual trust is the main point in a professional marriage. A girl singer must associate with many men, so she should strive harder than an average housewife to convince her husband that he is

Poggy Leo's Views

Peggy Lee is a newlywed, having been Mrs. David Barbour only since March 8. She believes marriage within the profession is indicated because the partners have more in common and a better understanding of temperament. Dave, a guitarist, has his own room in their home for practice, and they try to keep the same hours.

"Marriage seems the eternal answer for women, whether they are singers or not," opines Peggy. "Many vocaliste feel chromically insecure, and a happy marriage may solve that problem. A girl should be certain that her love for her husband is greater than her love for a career, in case it should come to a choice between the twe."

"We've just bought a new home, and we have a new baby boy, and we're both tickled pink," says Ella Mac Morse, whose husband is Richard Showalter, pianist. "My husband and I get good musical kicks together, because we like the same type of music, and we trust each other. That's the answer!

After the War — What of Music?

The boys have been doing plenty of loose talking about the shape of things to come post bellum. Not only have there been serious discussions about economic phases, but a lot of chatter about the effect on every day living of the tremendous prog-ress and development being made in radio, medicine and other scientific fields.

We don't intend to intimate that victory is just around the corner, although we subscribe to the general confidence in an eventual victory. But we don't think it's too early for an occaaional peek into the future, nor for a probing discussion, from time to time, about the metamorphosis of music.

One thing for certain, mister, is that music will be much more of a determining factor in all of our lives after this mess than it ever was in the swingy 'thirties. Not only have millions of men in uniform been made acutely conscious of music - and the nece econscious of music — and the neces-sity for music (wide: Jack Scott's The Army's Music, May 1 issue), but other millions in war plants have had the power of music to boost production demonstrated to them directly.

The character of our music will be altered, too, because many of the men who will write it, and play it, are scattered y throughout the world, undergoing soul-shattering experiences that only come in time of war to re-mold the men who endure them. Their emotions are being tested in the hellish crucible of war, unlimited in latitude and ranging in altitude from the depth of a fox-hole or even the ocean's floor, to the substratosphere.

Duke Ellington ones evaluated who in his critical the Duke Ellington once explained why, in his opinion, the susic of the negro is so rich and colorful: (1) because of the terrific social and economic pressure on the race for generations. (2) An outgrowth of that INTERNATIONAL pressure, the natural ability of the INTERNATIONAL INTERNATIONAL INFLUENCE SEEN pressure, the natural ability of the negro to range emotionally from the depths of despair and grief to the heights of joy and ecetasy, and quickly.

(3) The definite influence, through intermingling, of the characteristics of other races, notably Chinese and Indian. We may see some of these influences, too, on our future music, not so much No. 1, but No. 2 to some extent, and contains No. 2. certainly No. 3. Our musicians and our composers are scat-tered in nearly all of the climes. They are intermingling with peoples of almost every known race and nationality. They cannot fail to be impressed by these contacts, and to grasp inspirations never encountered on a typical one-night dance tour within the limits of their own land.

Yes, music after the war will really be something. It will have a wider acceptance and a more extensive market, possibly including the Latin American countries. And it will be a newer, fuller, richer music than any we have ever known!

To the Editors:

It hurts my pride being a Hal Derwin fan for the past five years and knowing his fine baritone voice can cheer millions if only you people would tune him in.

He has more charm and personality than any band vocalist is the business. He is being featured with Les Brown's crew.

Sinatra vs Eberly

Upper Darby, Pa.
To the Editors:
I realize only too well that
Frank Sinatra is good in fact, wonderful (anything to keep the Sinatra fans off my neck). I think that Frank Sinatra is super, but what about Bob Eberly?
In my opinion Bob Eberly is better looking than Frank and he isn't quite as hungry looking. Bob has a simply super voice which has brought him much popularity.
Although Frank is the most current fan-mailed singer in the busness, Bob still rates highest with me.

the Editors:

To the Editors:
It's an old story when jazz musicians achieve fame and recognition after their death. Few, however, when living, receive more than publicity, good or bad, and that is soon forgotten. The musician I have in mind is far from dead, but he is also far from the fame and credit he deserves. Benny Strickler, one of the best trumpet players I have had the privilege of knowing, is at present confined to the Arkansas State Sanitarium with tuberculosis.

Speaking of Omaha, after a mart remodeling job, the Chez Paree has reopened with Joe Poretta's five-piece combo. Joe is well know in music circles as having helped develop the Griff Williams band, after several years with Freddy Martin some time back. Personnel includes Mathew Cryan, piano; Tommy Dodge, drums: Boh Puntillo, guitar; Charlie Fundeski, bass; Betty Watts, vocals.

The Johnnie Landre orchestre, now at the Non-Come club in Columbus. Georgia, has added Jack Moore from Waynesburg. Pa., on drums.

Del Mason and his orchestra is rated one of the best swing bands in the middle west. Operating out of Richmond, Indiana, they play the best spots in Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Terra Haute, Fort Wayne and other cities, including all of the leading universities, colleges, parties, clubs, sororities and fraternities. Present personnel is as follows: Tommy Robbins, trumpet and scat vocals: Russell Tabor and Jack Robbins, trumpeta; Al Wilt, trombone; Bob Armstrong, Ray Briscoe, Jimmie Coates, Dick Wedding, saxes; Myron Burr, Dean Ryan, bass; DeLores and Trayer, vocals. Del also plays piano and sings.

New York—Dick Stabile's coast guard band is taking over the Mutual network 12:30 to 1:00 p.m. Sunday afternoon wire from Manhattan Beach. The half hour, which is a special feature for service-men, has starred name bands in the past, but the strict ban on gas here in the east caused the authorities to call off all trips out to the beach by civilian orchestras. Stabile's band is stationed at Manhattan Beach and numbers among its personnel many former name band side-men.

Great Detroiter, running from Detroit to Buffalo and back. The Men of Music include Edward Reuter, piano; Sam Melitello, tenor; Edward De Ciantes, accordion, sucals and bass; Jerry Fodor, violin, aax and vocals.

"Nan" Pailett's orchestra, recently at Uncle Charlie's Sugar Bowl in Port Chester, N. Y., has broken up because of draft worries. Don Rogers and his orchestra replaced at the Sugar Bowl and "Nan" joined the Rogers band. Personnel includes Mickey Fabrixi, Louie "Poots" Russo, Jay Stolar, "Nan" Pallett, saxes: Elmer Oliver, Ray Kinzel, Joe Archino, trumpets; Celia Pieno, piano; Boby Howard, drums; "Slaps" Fidelibus, bass; Valerie Stewart, vocalist

The soldiers down at Tampa, Fla., are getting their kicks out of the solid five-piece colored band at the Brass Rail, namely, Ralph Duty, temor axist; Ralph Butler, alto saxist; Howard Gary, bassist; Mike Rodrigues, pianist and Leroy, drummer.

Wildwood Lakes, a pavilion just outside of Kansas City, Mo., located between two defense plants, will hold dances every Sunday from 1:30 a.m. to 4:30 a.m. and from 9:00 p.m. to 12:00 p.m., featuring the music of Johnny Giles and his six-piece combo. Johnny plays trumpet and works at the Lake City Ordnance Plant during the week, while the other members are with the KMBC staff orchestra.

Aub Horton and his all girl band recently completed a long ongagement at The Clover Club in Ft. Worth, Texas and are now at the Sante Rita Hotel in Tucson, Arisona.

Marsala Takes Shribman Tour

New York — Joe Marsala, who was left momentarily without a booking for his band when Glen Island Casino folded a month ago, has embarked on a four to six week one-niter tour in New England, booked through Cy Shribman's office. The Casino opened on May 14, planning to run a full summer season but ten days after its new debut, the edict banning pleasure driving in the east forced the Glen Island management to call it quits.

Donahue Heads For Totem Pole

New York — Although summer band spots were closing on all sides because of the recent ban on pleasure driving, landluader Al Donahue was reported building an out-fit to bow into the Totem Pole, a summer dance hall in Auburndale, Mass.

Kaycee Welcomes Native Son. Basie

Kansas City—Count Basie blew into town for a one nighter at the Mune suditorium late last month. His home town welcomed him with a crowd of 5,000. Most of the band, including Basie, went down to Scott's theater restaurant after the dance, where a mighty solid seasion ensued.

Going strong at Tootie's Mayfair is Bill Martin and his Hep Cata Bill plays a fine trumpet. . . . A small combo at Hotel President's Drum Room, Dorothy and the Esquires, are setting a nice danceable pace. The line up is Steve Mathewa, piano; Mike Charanella, violin; Jack Charanella, guitar; and George Cass, basa; with Dorothy taking vocals.

Moving in late last month to Martins-on-the-Plass was Curtyse Foster and his band, an all sepia combo of five men that gives the spot a rock solid beat. . The Streamliners are back in town at Silcott's cocktail lounge with two of the previous group. Dave Reiser, guitar, and Joe Myers, bass. The new piano man is Eddie Howe.

Big Spud Deal

New York—Joe Marsala, the handlesder, owns a farm up New York state way. During a recent short weation between shookings. Joe received a great many calls from song publishers back in Manhettan. If you think that they were staking early claims for plugs for their tunes, you're wrong. What they were interested in was the fertility of the Marsala potato crop and the possibility of garnering a few spuids for their own home consumption.

Rendezvous With Jazz

Otto Cesana has written four concertos. They are for piano, clarinet, trumpet and trombone and are scored for the particular solo instrument with symphony orchestra background. He predicts symphony orchestras will enter the entertainment field, but pointed out, however, that they are long on the notes but short on the music. In other words, not hep, and if they could only hear some real jazz playing with the proper conception, they might begin to catch on. Hence, Cesana's idea of concertos for the hep boys with symphony orchestra background.

Cab Calloway swept into town a couple of weeks ago and knocked Broadway sharpies off their feet with a show that had sip from its Minnie the Moocher theme beginning right through to the jive tune and and the band's descent into a darkened pit.

Cab's enthusiantic initials were sing right through to the jive tune and and the band's descent into a darkened pit.

Cab's enthusiastic initials were all over the program and demonstrated once again that the hi-dihoer still gives out with more verve and entertainment than you'd get from as many other landeaders dropped together into the over-sized zoot hat that Cab sports on the stage.

For this reviewer, the only drawback to the show was the lack of both sole work by the land's fine instrumentalists and the equal lack of spotlighted ensemble jump arrangements by the land's fine instrumentalists and the equal lack of spotlighted ensemble jump arrangements by the vhole band.

Calloway's band is a great one and not often enough thought of as such. Each section, rhythm, reeds, and brass, sparkles and jumps and many of the side-men play second horn to nobody. It's unfortunate that a stage appearance means that the band has to conceal its very best aspects in favor of something that is sure to be a big commercial click.

However, Calloway himself was snough of a treat. His first, straight version of That Old Black Magic was good singing, all of Cab's vocal detractors to the contrary, while his second parody lyric was both fresh and amusing.

Magic was followed up by Cab singing St. James Infirmary Blues and it couldn't have been any bluer. Mood, tempo, Cab's rendition and the trumpet chorus taken by Shad Collina (the only instrumental solo in the show) were tops in that line and were the highlight of the program for the read demonstration of what the potent and enthusiastic as any in the business. Trombones, while not up to the high standard set by the trumpets, do a good ensemble job and punch out some exciting backgrounds behind Spivak's lead horn horn.

The biggest drag on the band, of course, is the loss of ace alto-ist-vocalist Willie Smith. Reeds were the original weak spot in the Spivak company, and while Sal Pace, who took over Smith's chair, plays well enough, he doesn't supply the wonderful boot which Willie brought to the band and which is so conspicuously missing in the sax section now.

Another replacement who took

sax section now.

Another replacement who took over a tough spot to fill is bassist Bob Casey, substituting for Jimmy Middleton, out of the band because of illness. Casey, however, is by no means a handicap, and with men like Kenny White, guitar; Lionel Prouting, piano and Alvin Stoller, drums on his side, the rhythm section still hammers out a strong, steady beat.

For this reviewer's dough, June

For this reviewer's dough, June Hutton and the Stardusters are tops for a band-working vocal group. Their songs are smooth, well-arranged and consistently entertaining.

As for leader Charlie . . . he's still the same gracious, smiling guy who works very hard with his band and plays a horn which may not appeal to the heppeat of the hep, but neither does it run second to any other trumpet around, either for powerhouse lead, or for a beautiful straight melodic line.

JOE VENUTI

(Reviewed at Roseland Ballroom, New York)

New York)

The most satisfying thing about Joe Venuti's band is, naturally, Joe Venuti. There are comparatively few musicians who really deserve the word, great. Joe does. When he puts his bow to his fiddle, watch out. His vibrant, everfascinating play of ideas, his luscious tone, even in the highest treble notes where tone generally disappears, his contagious humor, his infectious, infallible beat, leaves no kicks unturned.

He is the star of every tune. The fact that he never seems to steal the whole show, yet being it, is a tribute to his extraordinary talent.

Without special billing, or special trying, a band within the band, made up of the rhythm section—Joe Buck, piano; Hayden Causey, guitar; Barrett Deems, drums; George Butterfield, basa; and Joe—wraps itself neatly around two or three choruses of tunes. Playing with identical feeling, the result is beautifully balanced, symmetrical music. When the full band comes in on the last choruses, the effect is climactic. When the band lets the small group finish out a tune, the effect is climactic in reverse.

Outstanding is Barrett Deems'

Outstanding is Barrett Deems' drumming, firm, resilient, and revealing his highly developed feeling for creacendo and diminuendo, and the subtle but dramatic effect their use creates in every tune.

early jams era than the saccharine laments of today, (which is not to say that she can't do today as well as yesterday, for she can). It's time someone came along to sing the old tunes the way they should be sung. It's time Lulu came. Her experience in vaudeville, and in top clubs all over the country, especially in Chicago and the Midwest, has developed her natural gift for lusty singing into a style that is the easence of American jazz, and of Lulu herself: forthright, honest, uncompromising.

Under the influence, and the

Under the influence, and the shadow, of Sophia Tucker, Lulu Bates' own individuality did not begin to emerge fully until, in 1935 when she signed up with Billy Rose, he wrote a number for her called, The Lady Known as Lulu. She worked for Rose at the Fort Worth Exposition, Cleveland Exposition, and the Diamond Horseshoe in New York. She then moved to Bill Hardy's Gay Nineties, and for the last year and a half has been one of the Gay Nineties' stars on the WJZ-Blue Gold Old Days show.

The show's conductor, Joe Rines,

The show's conductor, Joe Rines, recognized Lulu's potentialities, spoke a few words into the right ears, and on May 17, Lulu started her 6:15-6:30 P.M., four-times-aweek sustainings (Mon., Tues., Wed., Fri.), accompanied by Rines' orchestra.

At first Joe's band did not quite match Lulu for relaxed, solid, easy swinging. It smacked of being too long in radio's cold storage. Later long in radio's cold storage. Later broadcasts, however, have shown a distinct mellowing of the orchestral backgrounds, and the instrumental numbers, first leaning more toward the Dancing in the Dark, El Rancho Grands category, are swinging more toward the Skaters' Waltz, as originally done by the Bob Crosby crew, and Right Kind of Love mood. This helps keep the program in its essential jazz character, a good idea. Continued exposure to Lulu's robust style (and plenty of Sammy Weiss' dexterous, uninhibited dramming) should soon remove any lingering taint of studio inflexibility.

The St. Louis Blues as Lulu's signature was amart choosing. Her identification with this tune, more than any other typifying American jazz, ought to be as socko as that of Sophie Tucker with Some of These Days.

To listeners inured to the subtler styles of the Dinah Shore and Ginny Simms', Lulu Bates riding in on "I hate to see that evenin' sun go down," may come as a shock. It should be a shock as restoring as hot sun after a cold dip.

If you've a taste for the real stuff, listen to Lulu. She's, as they say, terrific.

LULU BATES (Listen to Lulu— WJZ-Blue Network)

To Listen to Lulu is not hard to do, for Lulu sings the fine old tunes—After You've Gone, Lovin' Sam, Beale St. Blues, A Good Man is Hard to Find, Darktown Strutters' Ball—with all the flavor and earthiness and sest those tunes call for. She sings modern ones, too, though her throaty, full-powered style seems more suited to the down-to-earth modes of the the down-to-earth modes of the Lang, Venuti would necessarily be expected to have no secondrater on guitar. Hayden Causey is no second-rater. He plays full, solid rhythm, his solos are never marred by wasted notes, and his duet work with Joe is apt.

The capable five-man braas and four-man sax teams produce a volume many times beyond their assumed capacity.

Despite Roseland tastes for congas, Venuti has a fairly reasonable opportunity to show his jax and ballad wares, and they're both attractive. Tunes like Smoke Gets In Your Eyes and Tea For Two have been arranged with originality and elan. Jump tunes jump solidly and gently. No male vocalist breathes out lyrics in syrupy ardor. Kay Starr brightens the choruses she sings with a voice that has warmth and individuality, and a personality that's exuberant. Ceaselessly beating out choruses ane sings with a voice that has warmth and individuality, and a personality that's exuberant. Ceaselessly beating out rhythm, silently mouthing all the licks of the brass and reeds, she must be more exhausted at the end of an evening than the musicians. Except Deemsy.

On the different evenings observed, Joe did very little clowning, letting humorous jibes on his fiddle speak to those who cared to get them. Getting them gives the getting of the music an added fillip. Just getting Venuti's point is to know that his is a hot fiddle that can never grow cold.

Although Del Mason of Richmond, Indiana, has lost 15 musicians to the service, several of whom are overseas, he still heads a very acceptable swing band in his home town, composed largely of workers from local war plants. In addition to his fine dance band, Golly has built a terrific seven-man jazz combo around the accordion work of Pvt. Sam Porforio, who also handles much arranging for Golly. The latter's clarinet, and the trumpet, alto, bass, guitar and drums of Boardman, Baileys, Kissling, Barclay and Kahn fill out this unit, which smacks of the John Kirby influence.

The Walter Page Blue Devil Vocalion recording date is of note due to the fact that the two sides waxed were the only tunes made by the Moten-Basic combination before they were associated under the baton of Bennie Moten and later Count

Basic.

This band originally belonged to Bill King's Musical Revue and travelled around through the southwest. It was 1927 when Walter Page, the bassist, brought the group into Kansas City.

The two sides made for Vocalion were waxed in Kansas City by the following personnel: Trumpets — James Simpson, Oran "Hot Lips" Page, and James Lu Grand; Walter Page, Leader, and Bass, Ruben Lynch, steel guitar; Alvin Burroughe, drums; Count Basie, piano; Dan Minor, trombone; Ted Manning, 1st alto; Buster Smith, 2nd alto; Rubin Roddy, tenor sax; James Rushing, vocalist.

Phil Featheringill has made some remarkable moving pictures of Richard Jones and Crippled Clarence Lofton active at the piano. They are candid, although both musicians were aware they were being pictured. Both were shot at their own pianos in their homes. Clarence keeps his piano stool tied to a leg of the upright and the movies follow him from the time he unties his stool to the time he reties it after playing several numbers.

Richard Jones, New Orleans pianist residing in Chicago and Charles Creath, St. Louis trumpter also located in Chi, are both working in a defense plant, Foote Brothers Gear Co. Jones is operating amachine.

Roanoke Has Noisy Combo But It's Good

Roanoke Va.—The noisy little combo at Victory Hall on weekends may be small, but kicks out enough solid riffs to make other cats want to come around and listen—(and sit in). Best features are Jimmy St. Clair, piamo ace and Eddie Wiggins, sax-clary. All of the fellers in the outfit are part of the Collegians orchestra of which St. Clair is co-leader with Jack Shafez, who plays trumpet. Buddy Mac's orch will have to look for new diggins now that the opening of Rockledge Inn has been postponed indefinitely. The mountain top location of the club, now that pleasure driving is out, makes it almost impossible to open without taking a loss.

The Mac crew is composed of newcomers and uses mostly stocks, but they have enough good ideas to rate them another spot around town. Lineup includes; Buddy Mc-Philamy, leader-piano: P. C. Barnard, drums; Harry Rader, R. Fishburn, P. Canary, trumpets; L. Danza, tram; J. Karns, P. Anderson, reeds, and blonde Dottie Atkins does the vocals.

William Saroyan, the newest voice in American writing dicians, whose movie, The Human Comedy, is breaking records at Condon, the Astor theater in New York, also has written a number of short stories. In his latest book of these, entitled Inhals and Exhale, he has a wonderful story about a trap drummer, loe Bus and don't want to tell the story, and he wants to know if he should have the general lides in the story of the should be sho

but the general idea is as follows:

but the general idea is as follows:

While Saroyan was in Kiev, Russis, in 1935, he heard a band one night playing American jaxs music. The reason the band didn't, or couldn't sound right was because of the drummer, who apparently never had heard a real American jaxz drummer, but only had seen them in the movies. He was trying to go through the motions, but the moises he made were very sad and didn't fit at all with the jaxz the hand was trying to play. The idea is that you don't play jazz drums with fancy motions alone, but you must feel it to bring out the proper sounds. Every drummer should read this Saroyan story.

Bob Kinsey of Baltimore writes that he digs most of the bands that visit there, and that he notices that nearly all of the drummers use one tom-tom, usually a 9 x 13, or an 8 x 12, on the left hand side of their bass drum. Bob seems to think that the use of more toms would make it more solid.

This is matter of personal tests, and there are plemty of drummers who use two toms on the base drum. It seems to be more popular today to use a single tom at the left of the base, and a 16 x 16 on a stand at the right side of the drummer.

Pyt. Ray Churchman of Camp

Pvt. Ray Churchman of Camp Machall, Hoffman, N. C., writes that he has his practice pad at the camp, but when he really gets down to practice, he doesn't know what to practice. He says he has a couple of good instruction books, and he wants to know if he should study from these, or just for around with his high hats a work out some solid foot cymb stuff.

It won't hurt a bit to do both, but by all means study the legismate stuff, as well as the funcymbal jive.

Musicians Pay Tribute To Milt Gabler, Jazzman

New York—A lot of people shook hands with Milt Gabler the night of May 20 at Jimmy Ryan's on 52nd Street. They gave him a cake, too, and a silver eigaret case. A lot of musicians, like Duke Ellington and several of his men, Eddie Condon, Brad Gowans, Pops lington and Trumbauer. Once in awhile a fine jazz chorus would many of them played their appreciation. They had to play for many more, like George Wettling and Jess Stacy, who were out of town and found, behind the baseball bats, a haven where they could she for Bix on Riverboat Shuffs and get, instead of a blank look, the Trumbauer record.

Memorial albums, albums dewoted to Chicago, New Orleans, of what Milt Gabler started. He started alone searching for good cent."

The Commodore Music Shop got its 1 per cent. That little store shipped jaxz records all over the world. It was the first to hear from the jazz critics abroad. It was the only store in the country then buying hot records.

When Okeh quit business, Gabler bought up the stock. By 1935 he had another pioneering thought: despite continued public apathy for jazz and its musicians, he started re-issuing old jazz records, exclusively Commodore output.

hot fans issued his Commodore discs under the UHCA label for members.

Encouraged with the response, he went out on another apparently uncommercial limb. He staged public jam sessions, admission and refreshments free to Hot Club members, at the recording studios, generally Decca or Brunswick. The timing was perfect. The Sind Street spots were alive with music that wasn't written down, played by jazzmen who knew how to play it.

Milt held a jam session at the Famous Door, and packed the place.

He masked himself, "If the 1 per cent crowd the 52nd Street spots to hear jazz, and yell for more, why wouldn't they rush to buy records of that same jazz?"

He answered by issuing, in 1938, the Commodore records featuring the Commodor all about in 1927, when he worked after school in his father's little radio store on East 42nd Street, New York. It was named the Commodore Music Shop, Business in records and sheet music was so bad, the store stocked sporting goods, cameras, even greeting cards, to keep going until radio could get a firmer hold. Records, particularly jaxs records, were dead pigeons. Yet somehow Milt managed to sell his father on the idea of stocking records and sheet music. Skeptically father said, "OK, but you can worry about them."

Connecticut Scene Active, Joints Jump

Bridgeport, Conn. — Plenty of activity in the local night-life scene and is going strong despite the new gas restrictions. Oncasualty was the Seven Gablann, now on a week-end plan. To boom is keeping the musicians at available plenty busy.

Latest to join the armed form were Nate Sussman, drumma and Jim Setenery, trumpet. Susman was the maestro at the Cabloward and Johny Mucci's creareplaced.

At the Club Hollywood, Georgickeye and his group are domicely. A big feature here is the weekly Sunday afternoon jam assion. Drawing fine and some figiaxs is a result.

And word from the mid-weekinds localite Roland Young planing with Morrey Brennan and acrew. The Brennan band is at Tapler in Jamestown, N. Y. no having just concluded a 6-weekstop at the Hollywood in Kabmazoo, Mich., where they brok all records. Vocals of Alma Olse (Mrs. Brennan) a stand-out. Ronny Rommel, horn, and Hae

No Live Music At Missouri U

Columbia, Mo.—Came the set of the semester at the University of Missouri last week and came the end of live music in Columba, probably for the duration. Most of the key men in both of the temaining bands left for the arms forces when their student defements ran out. Others are slate to go shortly when the navy and marine reserves go on active duty. to go shortly when the navy and marine reserves go on active duty. While the bands at the Navy Diese School and the A.A.F. Pre-Flight school at the U. carry on the active roster of Local 413 gets to look more and more like the lineaup for a really hep bridge game. There should be just about enough 4F's around to get up a fair codtail combo.

Secretary of Davenport's Local Is Dead

Davenport, Iowa—Jack Manthey and his jivesters were selected to play the Annual Cotton Ball at the LeClaire hotel. Local socialite vocalist, Mary Jane Walsh, recently featured on Broadway, entertained. Local 67 was recently shocked by the sudden death of trumpeter Al Woeckner, who has been secretary of the local and a member of the Urpheum theater ork for the past six years. Roy Kautz has been named temporary secretary. Keith Pease, former Jack Manthey 88'er and valvist Dave Orwitz, both of Camp Adair, Oregon, were recently home on furfough. Tram man "String" Pahl in town from an army camp in Indiana and 88'er Doug Walton back long enough to get adivorce and sit in on a few jam sessions.

Hartford Hot Clubs

Hartford, Conn.—Tony Armentano's Playboys have been playing at Beckley's restaurant for the last two years and despite the gasoline shortage, they're still packing in the customers. Members of the combo are: Teddy Page, tenor; James Parrone, alto; Harold Bryant, bass: Johnny Olivieri, drums; and the leader featured on piano.

Tootic Failla and Seb Shonty, readmen, joined Ray Kinney's ork just as Murry Gottfried left to join the navy... From a membership of over fifty, the Hot Music Guild of Hartford has lost all but four to the armed forces. ... Joe Richards, one time cornetist for Jelly Roll Morton, has put his horn on the shelf in favor of defense work. ... The said that Tony Pastor purchased a 20-room house in uppity West Hartford.

Harry Bridges Sponsors Bunk

San Francisco—Repercussions of appreciation are still pouring forth as a result of the tremendous jazz concert at S.F.'s Geary theater last month featuring the once legendary Bunk Johnson, teacher and idol of Louis Armstrong. Fitted out with store teeth, a new suit and horn, Bunk was brought out from Louisiana for the occasion and because of the enthusiastic response and continued interest felt for the New Orleans jazz, Bunk wanted to make San Francisco his home. When local columnists found out Bunk would remain in San Francisco if he could find a job—any kind of job—they featured it as a touching human interest story.

Result: Bunk received a call the next day from Harry Bridges, west coast labor leader, who also boasts of a fine hot record collection, and wanted to know if Bunk was interested in going to work for the CIO at $60 per week as consists of a fine hot record collection, and wanted to know if Bunk was interested in going to work for the CIO at $60 per week as a warehouse elevator operator. Bunk said "Yes, Mr. Harry."

But this "work" tie-up may be temporary because Bridges, realizing the importance of Johnson as a great jazz artist, is seriously considering enlarging the downstairs CIO har to open a location for Bunk and a real jazz combination. Interesting to note the most amazed man listening to Bunk play was Louis Armstrong himself, who invited Bunk to take over his horn and band at Sweet's ball-room one night last month. The sensitive flawless solog that Bunk took on Basin Street and Louis and his band knocked out the rest of the night!

Philly Swing Club Stages Big Bash

Philadelphia — Playing to an audience of long hairs and service men, with a stiffening of good hot fans, the Basin Street Swing Club of Philadelphia held its first annual concert last month.

Three bands played. The personnels read like "Who's Who in Jazz." Nobody was featured. They were all stars. The audience was small—the clubs angels had a little digging to do.

The concert lasted from 1:30 to 6. Here's part of the line-up: trumpets, Sidney DeParris, Bill Coleman, Chelsea Qualey, Jack Butler; trombones, Benny Morton, Brad Gowens, Sandy Williams, Wilbur DeParris; clarinets, Pee Wee Russell, Edmond Hall, Milt Mesirow; sax, Eugene Cedric; rhythm, Al Hall, Jack Bland, Danny Alvin. Sidney Catlett; piano, Art Hodes, Dick Carey, Ellis Larkin, and Sammy Price.

Sammy Price did most of the work, and deserves all of the credit for an important afternoon in local jazz history.

Dance Hall Is Now War Plant

Red Lion, Pa.—When dance hall owner A. P. Davey saw his patrons slipping away from jitterbug routlines into march stops, it didn't take him long to catch on. He closed the hall, doubled its size, opent a lot of money outfitting the new building with machinery and started producing hadly needed war materials, including valuable parts for marine engines. The cats may not be knocking themselves out in Red Lion anymore, but the steam is on the beam, anyway.
