THE OBJECTS OF THE ASSOCIATION ARE AS FOLLOWS:

FIRST: To improve the directory business by the interchange of ideas, and by the exchange of competent employees.

SECOND: To protect the public against fraudulent advertising schemes operated under the name of directories, and to drive the promoters of such out of the business.

THIRD: To provide permanent and continuous employment for honest and faithful directory canvassers.

FOURTH: For the mutual advancement of the established and prospective interests of all who may become members of the association.

1923 THE CITY OF CINCINNATI 1924

THE GREAT EVENTS,—those which arise from the mediocre and rivet the attention as monuments in the passage of time, are not to be measured, limited or controlled by calendar years. Most of them culminate after years, decades or centuries of inception and growth, prompted by some unknown and unforeseen influence, and ripening when the season is propitious, according to the Divine order of things.

Intelligent humanity, wherever found, and whether individual or massed, recognizes and is governed by a knowledge of the above facts, finding in such knowledge an insistent demand that one's conduct conform to things as they are, rather than to our conceptions of things as we would have them. Civilization, the rules of social and business contact, all, are debtors to necessary restrictions upon human conduct.

Cincinnati is not unlike other average American cities, according to a more or less cursory examination of its corporate entity.

Its high, individual characteristics, generally manifest themselves under stress of fast moving events, and call for the steadying influence of deep planted principles,—principles upon which have been erected a cultural and commercial structure, the result of one hundred and thirty-six years of civic life and endeavor.

POPULATION.

Cincinnati, on the north shore of the Ohio River, has always been deprived of its proper showing of population, in excess of the Federal Census claim, because of the five smaller cities and towns on the south shore of the river which contribute, almost entirely, their citizenship to the daily business life of the larger city, and reside in the Kentucky municipalities across the river. Therefore, it is customary, in referring to this city, to designate its scope of interests by the terms; Cincinnati proper; Metropolitan Cincinnati, which includes the cities South of the river; and Industrial Cincinnati, embracing the counties of Hamilton and Butler, in Ohio, and the northern part of Campbell and Kenton counties of Kentucky.

In Cincinnati proper, according to the decennial census of 1920, there was a population of 401,247. Allowing for a normal increase since then, the present population is, conservatively stated, 418,000.

In Metropolitan Cincinnati, based upon the same census, there is, in 1923, a population of about 580,000.

Industrial Cincinnati may rightfully lay claim to a population of approximately 800,000.

The 1920 census figures also showed that within Metropolitan Cincinnati there were 141,000 families.

The people comprising the population of the city rank high among residents of American municipalities. Eighty-five and eighty-six hundredths per cent. are American born, and only a little more than 12,000 are of a class generally regarded as the undesirables of European peoples. This is conceded to be a remarkable showing. The Negro population represents but about 2.6 per cent. of the total population.

PUBLIC HEALTH.

The city has enjoyed extraordinary immunity during the past year from epidemics arising from unsanitary conditions and impure water.

Preventive measures are relied upon to save the populace from ill health. Therefore, conditions are nowise congenial to wandering germs in search of victims.

The health record of the city, during many years, has been such that the outside world has taken note of the same and copied many of the features and plans of this local Health Department.

WATER SUPPLY.

As elsewhere herein shown, the city is singularly immune from epidemics and other diseases ordinarily arising from impure water supply. This is due, primarily, to the exceptional pure water furnished under the system of adequate purification provided by the City Waterworks Department. Some conception of the state of water purity, furnished its people, will be sensed, following the statement that typhoid fever, as a matter of statistics, has been reduced to insignificant figures, conclusively showing the direct relation between pure water and health within the city.

The city's water is taken from the Ohio River. It might be interesting to give a history of the millions spent and the intelligent effort necessary to perfect the present plant, insuring adequate and 100 per cent. sanitary water for the citizens, but such recital can find no place here. It is enough to assert that Cincinnati is one of the few cities of the country that is so signally favored.

At present there are upward of 760 miles of principal water mains, 300 of which have been laid since the present large plant began operations, more than fifteen years ago. During the latter period more than $4,000,000 have been expended in betterments.

The Waterworks Department is much more than self-sustaining and taxpayers are not called upon to maintain the system.

CITY TRANSPORTATION.

During the past year many urban and interurban Motor Bus Lines have been added to the already large number of such vehicles connecting the city with cities and towns located within a wide radius. These now serve a large and increasing patronage.

RAPID TRANSIT LOOP.

The Rapid Transit Loop, begun several years ago, and which cannot be completed for several more years, is designed to co-ordinate the entire Street Railway System and make the hill-top regions more accessible to the business center of the city. The Loop when completed will show an expenditure of near $18,000,000.

RAILROAD AND TERMINALS.

Railroads entering and serving the city are nineteen in number. They are owned or controlled by the following systems: Baltimore and Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York Central, Louisville and Nashville, Chesapeake and Ohio, Nickel Plate, Norfolk and Western, Monon, and Southern. Ohio points are reached by ten lines, Indiana by six, Kentucky by four and West Virginia by three.

Railroad terminals and their facilities are approximately 25 miles East and West and twenty miles North and South. Within these limits is a trackage of nearly 1,200 miles. Car loads can be routed by way of any line reaching the city. All railroad lines furnish trap-car service. Freight stations and team tracks within the industrial district are 85. There are also 28 warehouse stations having a storage area of over 1,129,864 square feet.

OHIO RIVER TRANSPORTATION.

Ohio River commerce, during the year 1923, reached a total of 8,280,520 tons of cargo of all kinds, valued at $110,022,252.73, according to the official report of the United States Engineers.

This freight, according to the report, was carried a distance of 708,302,798 ton miles, and it is computed to have required 1,771 railroad trains of 35 cars, each carrying a net tonnage of 55 tons of bulk freight a car, to move this amount of cargo. It is estimated that 150,555 cars were therefore released to the railroads for service by the use of the Ohio River and tributaries during the year 1923.

It is said that improvement work on the Ohio River will be completed by 1929, at the present rate of construction. Five dams are to be completed in 1924, making the total completions 42 to that date, and two dams are to be started, making the total under construction 50 by December 31, 1924.

Cincinnati maintains no Harbor Master, so it is not known the proportionate amount of river commerce the municipality participated in. It is certain, however, that the river freightage, in and out of the city, was larger than in any previous year of the last quarter century.

INDUSTRIAL POWER.

The Cincinnati District is one of those comparatively few, but highly fortunate, communities now served by Natural Gas. The Union Gas & Electric Company, as its name implies, furnishes both the gas and electric supply in Cincinnati, and is one of the subsidiary Companies which make up the "Columbia System"—these Companies either controlled or entirely owned by the Columbia Gas & Electric Company.

Expansion of this "System" of companies has constructed a great service chain which includes other cities and towns of the famous Miami Valley—one of the real garden spots of the world. Gas or Electric services—or both—are now rendered in Hamilton, Middletown, Dayton and numerous other smaller adjacent municipalities.

At Miami Fort, in the western outskirts of Cincinnati, a Columbia company is now building a gigantic new Electric Generating Station which will eventually have a capacity of 240,000 kilowatts. When this capacity is added to that of the present highly efficient plant (generating 120,000 K. W.) it becomes obvious that a well-nigh unlimited supply of power is to be added to the list of Cincinnati's industrial advantages.

The effect of all this development must be the commercial aggrandizement of the entire territory of which Cincinnati is the Center. It is usually conceived that a city can grow no more rapidly than its utility services, but when the utility Company takes the lead in extending the service to wholesale and retail customers alike, the resultant benefits can only be guessed at.

In addition to the expected developments in the trading territory contiguous to the Queen City, the industrial future of the city itself is receiving active attention. The Columbia Industrial Company, a recently organized member of the "Columbia System," is promoting the sale of factory sites on a 1,400 acre tract lying along the Ohio River and surrounding the new Power Plant previously mentioned as under construction at Miami Fort. Exploiting the possibilities of river transportation, the Company is taking full advantage of the inexpensive power to be available at this point, and the central location of Cincinnati from the viewpoint of one interested in marketing on a National scale.

The leading position which the Gas and Electric Company of Cincinnati assumes is seen in the recent electrification of the City. In less than thirty months, subsequent to January 1, 1922, considerably more than 50,000 new electric consumers were added to the service lines of the Company. This movement on the part of the people of Cincinnati to modernize their homes, is pointed out as an example in all the large cities of the Country.

Customers of The Union Gas & Electric Company are taken in as partners under the customer ownership proposition generally offered in January of 1924. This stock selling campaign was handled in its entirety by regular employees of the Company, and has been accepted by the people of the Cincinnati and Miami Valley districts to a remarkable degree.

Probably the most vital of all phases of the Company's activities is the fact that participation in the usual development plans of the Columbia Gas & Electric Company will assure to the domestic and business interests of the Cincinnati Territory the continuation of the aggressive policy which opens new and ever greater opportunities for growth, prosperity and accomplishment.

INDUSTRIAL INSTITUTIONS.

There are, in Metropolitan Cincinnati, about 3,000 industrial establishments. Wood-working machinery, printing and publishing, shoes, clothing and furnishing goods, meat packing, soap, jewelry, automobiles, copper, tin and sheet-metal products, chemicals and fertilizers, predominate a list of the many items of output.

A somewhat conservative estimate of the total output of these various establishments is $750,000,000 in value.

Employed in some of these industries and in the building trades are:

Metal Trades .....	30,000
Shoes .....	7,000
Clothing and Furnishing Goods.....	8,000
Building Trades .....	12,000
Cigar Manufacturers .....	2,000

CINCINNATI TERMINAL WAREHOUSE.

Conservation and distribution—the elements most affecting cost of commodities to consumers, have been materially aided by construction of the magnificent new Cincinnati Terminal Warehouse.

Little noise was made during the inception and progress of the enterprise. Public spirited business men and capitalists, possessing faith in an instant and eager response to their lavish expenditure of money and credit, proceeded to fill a civic gap,—an absolute necessity if local business is to be modernized in accordance with twentieth century methods.

The Cincinnati Terminal Warehouse is a proud achievement,—and in the opinion of experts is the most up-to-date and the latest word in warehouse construction and appointments. This is saying much, but not more than justified, when is taken into consideration that the house trackage accommodates thirty-eight cars; that the cold storage capacity is 1,000,000 cubic feet; the dry storage capacity 6,000,000 cubic feet; and that the warehouse will be accessible to every railroad and freight transportation line within the City, including the Ohio River and its traffic.

Practically every modern method and appliance for receiving, storing and discharging all forms of goods and merchandise are found at this great plant, guaranteeing to storage patrons safety, expedition and economy.

In structural composition, and detachment from extraordinary exposures, the building is singularly immune from fire and other hazards. Insurance rates are exceptionally low. Insurance men are enthusiastic, and warehouse executives and patrons, universally, assert it to be the best storehouse in America.

Within the building are found abundant offices, of varying area, suitable for the use of storage patrons. Many of these are already under lease and those remaining are rapidly being taken.

The prospects for business—cold and dry storage—justify a belief that the capacity of the warehouse will be reached by January 1, 1925.

The Board of Directors of The Warehouse Terminal Company are: Bolton S. Armstrong, C. H. M. Atkins, John J. Burchenal, Geo. D. Crabbs, Clifford P. Egan, Tylor Field, W. E. Fox, Maurice J. Freiberg, Wm. D. Grote, Charles L. Harrison, Wm. J. Hogan, Chas. W. Ireland, Chris. M. Rembold, Andrew Rohan and Peter J. Schneider. Its president is Mr. C. L. Harrison.

To these men, best representative of the business interests of Cincinnati, must be credited the conception and consummation of this institution. Each of them has not only gotten behind the project financially, but individually they have contributed of their business experience and skill, to assure the success of this great civic enterprise.

BANKS AND BANKING.

The clearings of the member banks of the Cincinnati Clearing House Association, during the year 1923, amounted to $3,444,728,332.

There are 31 banking institutions in Cincinnati, one less than the preceding year, due to the absorption of the City Hall Bank by the Brighton Bank & Trust Company. This number does not include the many banks in Norwood and other suburban towns, north and south of the Ohio River. Of the 31 banks 9 are National banks, with a combined capital of $13,175,000, as of October 10, 1924, and having a total surplus and undivided profits of $13,318,969, deposits of $118,994,198 and show total resources of $156,829,555.

The State Savings Banks & Trust Companies are 22 in number, having a total capitalization of $8,500,000, with a surplus and undivided profits of $12,753,304, and deposits amounting to $148,984,168 with total resources over $169,000,000.

While the above indicates the large resources of Cincinnati's money institutions, it fails to take into account the more than 230 Building and Loan Associations, and many other institutions, affording accommodations to business and other borrowers, which would swell the grand total to figures largely in excess of the totals above.

SECURITIES MARKET.

This city is recognized as a superior bond market. Leading brokerage houses of the country are represented, and many local institutions are also doing business.

In the stock market are a very large number of reliable trading brokers. Wildcat schemes are thoroughly discountenanced, and an active campaign has been waged from this city against fraudulent stock speculation for many years past. Such agitation played a major part in the enactment of the present Ohio "blue-sky" statute.

TELEPHONE SERVICE.

The year 1924 finds the Cincinnati & Suburban Bell Telephone Company giving service to the public through 150,000 telephones.

This in contrast to forty-five years ago when the first modest exchange was opened with one single line on which seventeen subscribers received telephone service.

Today the net gain in stations averages 1,000 a month.

The Company is giving better service than any time in its history.

New buildings with the latest up-to-date apparatus are about to be placed in commission.

These new exchanges are located in Norwood, where a spacious building will be occupied by a dual exchange, and the new Harrison Exchange, located at Westwood, while a replica of the latter building is being erected in Cumminsville to take care of the fast increasing population of that part of the city.

There is not an exchange in the whole system that has not had switchboard facilities added to it during the past year.

Paraphrasing Coue, we can say with pride, "Each day telephone service is better."

Statistics show that the Company is giving good service and no doubt this accounts in great measure for the demand for telephone service. Operating forces of today are not of the "hit or miss" character of years ago. A well equipped Training School is maintained where the novitiates are given a practical course in operating the switchboard.

Today, experienced teachers and supervisors know, before the educational course is completed, whether or not the pupil will become competent to preside at the board. This is a big factor in the good service rendered.

If the casual observer will stop to view the outside plant, there will be very little to visualize. Almost everything in the way of poles and wires have disappeared. An underground system has taken care of this.

There are 449,000 miles of wire in use in the Cincinnati Exchange area, of which 402,000 miles is underground cables, 38,000 in aerial cables, the balance being on poles. Figures are necessarily vague,—yet, expressed in other terms: There is enough wire to encircle the earth at the equator 17 times, with enough left over to string 9 circuits between here and San Francisco.

Underground cables not only reduce wire troubles to the lowest notch, but add to the "City Beautiful." This is particularly true, especially in our hill-top suburbs, the beauty of which has been sung by visitors and writers of note.

Wherever a new building is erected it adorns the neighborhood. The architecture is set off by spacious, well-kept lawns with artistic fountains in full play during seasonable weather.

Within these buildings everything is done to promote the health, comfort and happiness of the occupants. Rest Rooms and Dining Rooms are provided, unsparingly.

Taking these things into consideration, is it any wonder that, with a happy and contented set of employees, the public should profit by this condition?

COAL.

As a bituminous coal market Cincinnati occupies a unique and leading place among the cities of the country, due to the proximity of the Kentucky and West Virginia coal fields. Every coal interest including operators, owners and brokers is here represented.

It is estimated that the sales of coal directed from the city approximate not less than 120,000,000 tons a year.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Entering upon the 85th year of its existence, the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, the oldest in the State and one of the first organized in America, has demonstrated its usefulness to the city the past year as its outstanding civic and big business organization, by inaugurating a movement which marks a new era in the history and development of Cincinnati.

The Chamber through its Program of Progress, has undertaken to ascertain by surveys and other scientific methods, what, if anything, is the matter with Cincinnati. After ascertaining causes and effects, corrective and constructive measures necessary to place the city in the position it deserves among American municipalities, will then be inaugurated.

In assuming this responsibility, the Chamber initiated a program of work almost revolutionary in scope.

The Program of Progress of the Chamber was formulated and undertaken in June, 1924. Within the brief time which has since elapsed, much has been accomplished. Some of its outstanding achievements are:

One million eight hundred thousand dollars annually was saved Cincinnati gas consumers through the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce's intervention, resulting in the Mayor's veto of a proposed ordinance increasing gas rates to the consuming public. The Gas Committee of the Chamber, by communication with other municipalities, was responsible for municipal officials of Cincinnati being invited to unite in an effort to forestall a policy promoted by gas Utilities, to increase the natural gas rate in Ohio Valley cities. City Council appointed two of its members to attend a conference of representatives from Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia cities for the purpose of united action.

During 1923, Cincinnati retained its position as the third convention city of America, entertaining 239 conventions with a total attendance of 122,235 visitors.

A worthy accomplishment was the securing of the Ohio Valley Retail Furniture Association Convention and Exhibition, which will be held in Cincinnati, during March, 1925. This is the first time in thirty-five years that a furniture exhibition has been held in Cincinnati. Eventually, it is planned by Cincinnati's furniture interests, to erect a building designed to permanently house such an exhibit.

An unique and outstanding accomplishment of the year was the completion of arrangements with Pathe Review for filming several hundred feet of films, showing Cincinnati's beauty spots. These films are to be finished in three colors and will be nationally released before 20,000,000 people.

Much work has already been done by the Technical Advisory Corporation on a series of surveys of the natural and industrial resources of Cincinnati and the formulation of a concrete plan is now under way for the general development of markets and extension of trade territory. When completed, these surveys, together with that undertaken by the University of Cincinnati, will provide information, necessary to a workable method of expansion and control of the commercial and industrial development of Cincinnati.

The Ohio Valley Improvement Association, through which the Chamber of Commerce has long worked in the effort to secure interest in the Ohio River, as a trade artery, held its most successful convention in 1924, when it met in Cincinnati. The work of canalization of the Ohio River was reported at that time as 84 per cent. complete and that the remaining dams necessary were either under construction or contracted for. That meeting adopted as its slogan, "Close the Gap by 1929," or, in other words, complete the canalization of the Ohio River by that date.

Prospects are brighter at this time than heretofore, for new railroad terminal facilities, both passenger and freight.

The Chamber of Commerce is mainly responsible for the routing of the Dixie Highway and the Atlantic-Pacific Highway through Cincinnati. Both of these highways are rapidly nearing completion and the Dixie "A" Highway through Knoxville to Asheville, is already in use and carrying a heavy tourist travel, due to the joint efforts of the Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations and public spirited citizens in raising and contributing funds for its improvement.

The Chamber furnished secretarial and auditing service in the collection of funds for the relief of the Lorain storm sufferers, and Cincinnati raised $56,000 as its quota for that purpose.

The Chamber, through its various departments, is capable of rendering valuable aid and assistance to those desiring to make Cincinnati their home, or in giving consideration to the city as a site for industrial or business enterprises.

BUSINESS MEN'S CLUB.

The Business Men's Club has a resident membership of 2,500, including the leading representatives of Cincinnati industry, trade and the professions. It also has a non-resident membership of 500, and there is now a waiting list of would-be members of both classes.

A magnificent new building, recently dedicated, and the remodeling of the old building, now going on, provide ample facilities for the Club's activities. It is practically two Clubs in one. The new structure houses all civic, business and social activities of the Club, and the old building will be devoted solely to recreation features. The new building is fire-proof, reinforced concrete construction, 13 stories high, including basement and sub-basement. It occupies a frontage of 200 feet, on the north side of Eighth Street, and 90 feet on Race Street, with an alley separating the new building from the old, access between the two buildings being through bridges.

The new building, including its beautiful interior furnishings and equipment, cost over $2,000,000. It is also exceedingly beautiful as an architectural achievement, the exterior being a free treatment of Italian Renaissance in modified buff brick, trimmed in Bedford stone.

Claims are made that this new, and newly remodeled, Club building equals or surpasses anything of the character, west of New York City.

BETTER BUSINESS COMMISSION.

The Better Business Commission of Cincinnati was formed by public spirited business men to promote honesty, truthfulness and reliability in advertising and merchandising of all kinds. It is supported by leading financial institutions and retail and manufacturing organizations, and it seeks to discourage fraudulent methods in business, thereby increasing public confidence in advertising, salesmanship and business in general. The Commission is not operated for profit, has no clientele, except the general public and business at large, and is supported by voluntary membership subscriptions.

Summarized in few words, the objective of the Commission is the enforcement of the modern business creed: "Legitimate and progressive business people will play fair with the public, and the others must." In its daily operations it seeks to correct wrong practices in merchandising and advertising; removes unjustified suspicion and misunderstanding between competitors; secures the facts regarding suspected cases, and issues reports upon their real character. Likewise, it aims to reduce the burden of unjustified public suspicion which may, through misunderstanding, rest upon advertising or merchandising. The very fact of its co-operation with advertisers, increases public confidence in all advertising and merchandising.

The Better Business Commission is a teacher and adviser, not a destroyer. It seeks to educate the advertiser to the value of attractive truths. Confident of business man and consumer alike, it works unceasingly to eliminate fraud, foster fair dealing, protect the public against exploitation, and the merchant against unfair competition.

Nor do its duties end with the above. It digs beneath the surface and seeks to eradicate individual abuses of every character within business, subversive of the elemental principles upon which business morality and absolute loyalty are founded. It acts as a clearing-house for complaints, and eradicates the causes. Its functions include, among others, the curbing of frauds against the membership and citizens in general, whether in advertising, schemes, such as fraudulent stock or business promotions, house to house canvassing and the like; and warnings are bulletined for the public's benefit.

The Better Business Commission co-operates with the Federal Trade Commission, State Securities Divisions, Chambers of Commerce, the National Vigilance Committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World and its forty affiliated Better Business Commissions, and secures and furnishes information for these various agencies. The information which it compiles from all sources is available to members, non-members and the public, without cost.

HOTELS.

The hotel accommodations of Cincinnati are exceptional in magnitude and quality. The city has many hostelries of the first class, ranking with the very best, by comparison with those of other cities East or West.

Being a large center of business distribution and travel to and from all points of the compass; with twenty railroad lines and trunk-line automobile roads, added to which is the favor in which Cincinnati is held as a convention city,—urgent demand for large, modern hotels has been made.

There are two of these that, by reason of their magnitude and modern appointments, should have special mention.

The Hotel Gibson has ten hundred and thirty-seven rooms, most of them bedrooms. Every bedroom has private bath, either shower, tub or combination tub and shower bath, and, in fact, every room in the new addition has combination tub and shower bath and circulating ice-water. The original Hotel has been remodeled and refurnished to conform to the new appointments. A number of the rooms are parlors with an in-a-door bed and dressing room.

The Lobby and Mezzanine floors have been redecorated and the floors and stairways covered with beautiful rugs. The Lounge, just off the Lobby, has been fitted up with comfortable reed furniture and soft shaded lights. The front Office has been enlarged, giving space also to the Transportation and Service Departments, the check room being near.

A battery of six elevators, controlled by mechanical signal devices, are at one side of the Lobby and, going directly out from them is a new Ladies' Entrance, which eliminates the necessity of female patrons crossing the main Lobby. To one side of the elevators is the stately entrance to the Florentine Room. Then, there is the news and cigar stand, and the gift shop, also adjoining the Lobby.

On the Mezzanine Floor are the Executive Offices, Writing Room, Ladies' Rest Room, Beauty Parlor and Circulating Library. There is also an entrance to the Florentine Room from the Mezzanine, corresponding with that of the main Lobby. One floor above the Mezzanine is the magnificent Louis XVI Ball Room. Many private Dining Rooms are also on this floor, making it convenient for convention and other purposes.

The Florentine Dining Room is upon two levels—one, the Lobby floor and the other the Mezzanine—each overlooking Fountain Square. It seats one thousand persons, with several private Dining Rooms adjoining. Its decorations throughout are true Florentine type, in tones of rich red, blue and marble. In the center, a grand stairway leads to the lower level. The Della Robia Room also adjoins this and can be used as a separate apartment, or as a part of the Florentine Room. This magnificent Dining Room has been pronounced the most beautiful in the country; however, it is equalled in beauty by the Roof Dining Room, which is the largest individual dining room in America, seating fifteen hundred people. It is used as a dining room in Summer and as a ball room in Winter. Its decorations are gold and pastel shades and at either end of the main section are mural paintings of great beauty and value.

The hotel has 24-hour floor-clerk service; also individual maid service for lady guests. The Hotel Gibson enjoys the distinction of being located on Fountain Square, which, to most people in neighboring towns, is synonymous with Cincinnati. This great Hotel is a credit to the city and public appreciation of the fact is shown by the heavy patronage it enjoys.

The Hotel Sinton has 750 rooms, each with connecting bath and servitor service, and many special suites. It has capacity for the accommodation of 1,500 people. It represents an investment of $4,000,000 and its reputation is country-wide as entertainer of a splendid clientele, and for the superior service it furnishes.

This building was erected by popular subscription from among the enterprising men who guide Cincinnati's destiny in finance, commerce and society, therefore, the Sinton is a Mecca for activities which would be of interest alike to tourists and commercial travelers.

The structure is of the most modern type, consisting of reinforced concrete, steel and marble, with as little inflammable material as is required for artistic finish, thereby insuring absolute safety from fire. The building covers so spacious an area that everywhere one may enjoy great freedom and comfort.

Particular care has been observed to equip the hotel in the complete and elegant style demanded in this twentieth century. The special features are the banquet and convention facilities, the large sample rooms on every floor, the magnificent dining rooms, and the greatest artificial ventilating system ever installed in a modern hotel.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The comprehensive school system of Cincinnati testifies that education of the masses is the leading industry of the city. The foundations of the same were laid early by a very superior class of people, themselves educated men, who resolved that they, as sponsors for succeeding generations of citizens, were in duty bound to rear a civic community worthy the heritage of a civilization handed down by the founders of the Republic.

The public school system in this city has gradually developed from small beginnings, no backward steps being permitted, until, today, no municipality in America may be heard to make greater claims of superiority.

No analysis of the system can be attempted here.

Vocational Schools are conducted in every High School of the city. Besides these there are separate Vocational Schools. They are the Automotive, Sheet Metal, Plumbing, Machine, Printing, Sewing Trades, Retail Selling, and Commercial Service Schools.

The Elementary and High School enrollment for the school years 1923-1924, was: Day pupils, 55,277; Night pupils, 14,850.

In all, there are eighty-five school buildings, not including portable and other structures of a more or less temporary nature, and the estimated value of property, including real and personal, amounts to something between $17,000,000 and $20,000,000.

A building program, covering an eight year period, and involving over $8,000,000 of expenditure, will be begun in 1925.

PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS.

Increased enrollment was noted in the 58 elementary parochial schools of Cincinnati. Pupils to the number of 18,740 are being taught by 423 teachers. The extension of Catholic High Schools to take care of a larger number of pupils was undertaken during the past year. A $600,000 High School, for the eastern section of the city, is now in process of construction at Gilbert Avenue and Victory Boulevard. The enlargement of Elder High School, on Price Hill, to care for pupils from the western section of the city, will provide accommodations for over 2,000 pupils. At present, 2,107 pupils are registered in High School grades.

In the college section, St. Xavier College for men and women, Mt. St. Joseph College, and Sacred Heart College for women, the enrollment is over 1,600.

UNIVERSITY OF CINCINNATI.

The University of Cincinnati, the first municipal University in America to be organized, was founded in 1858 with funds provided under the will of Charles McMicken, for the establishment of a College which would provide free instruction to the people of Cincinnati.

From this beginning, developed the University until it now embraces seven Colleges: College of Liberal Arts, College of Law, College of Medicine, College of Engineering and Commerce, College of Education, School of Nursing and Health, and the Graduate School.

From a budget of approximately $10,000 a year the expenditures have risen to a something more than $1,000,000 with buildings and property valued at $1,829,371.07, equipment, $769,947, and an endowment of $6,000,000 from private sources.

The University receives the money to cover expenses from taxation and endowments. Four-tenths of this revenue is received from taxation and the balance from endowment income.

Various professional schools were added, after the founding of the Liberal Arts College: In 1904, College of Engineering; 1905, College for Teachers; 1906, Graduate School; 1912, College of Commerce; 1917, College of Medicine. These became a part of the general plan of the University.

Perhaps the most forward step was taken by the University when it adopted the co-operative system of engineering, founded at the University in 1906 by Dean Herman Schneider. This system of education provides both theory and practice as a part of the student's curriculum. Students spend part of their time in the class-room and a part in the various industrial plants in and about Cincinnati. Such arrangement also aids students in supporting themselves when in College.

Night classes have been organized on an extensive scale by the University, for the benefit of students unable to attend during the day. By concentrated effort, men and women are able to take degrees after several years of study.

Although the College of Medicine of the University has been in existence under its present name for only about six years, it was entitled to celebrate its 100th anniversary in 1920, one hundred years after the granting by the Ohio Legislature of a charter to the Medical College of Ohio—its lineal ancestor. In 1909, the Miami Medical College, founded in 1852, became an integral part of the University and the united medical schools became known as the "Ohio-Miami Medical College of the University of Cincinnati."

November 6, 1917, the City of Cincinnati adopted its present charter which provides that the combined medical colleges connected with the University, a municipal institution, and the Cincinnati General Hospital, also a municipal institution, should be united under the control of the Board of Directors of the University. The name given the united medical colleges was "The College of Medicine, University of Cincinnati." By this arrangement the city placed upon the College of Medicine, the responsibility for the care of the city's poor and the further responsibility of educating the capable medical practitioners.

The Cincinnati Law School was founded in May, 1833. The first term of this, the first law school established west of the Allegheny Mountains, opened October 8, 1833, with seventeen students. In 1835 this school was incorporated with Cincinnati College, and from that time it was conducted under the name of the "Law School of the Cincinnati College." It is the only department of old Cincinnati College to survive the ravages of time. In 1918 the Law School of Cincinnati College became a part of the University of Cincinnati, as the College of Law, under which name it is now conducted.

The College of Education was established as the College for Teachers of the University of Cincinnati, in 1905, having previously operated as a department in the McMicken College of Liberal Arts. In that year it was reorganized under the joint management of the Board of Directors of the University and the Board of Education of the City of Cincinnati. The general oversight of the College of Education was originally placed, and still remains, in charge of a Joint Committee, consisting of the President of the University, a member of the Board of Directors thereof, the Superintendent of Public Schools, and a member of the city Board of Education. Its name was changed to "College of Education," in 1922. The work of the College of Education is adequately supported by University funds and an annual appropriation from Cincinnati Public School funds.

College of Engineering and Commerce: In September, 1906, instruction on the co-operative plan was begun, and the first class of twenty-seven students was opened. The regular full-time theoretical courses were continued, with an enrollment of 107 students, but the co-operative course was offered as an alternative, to those students of mechanical, chemical and electrical engineering who wished to combine practical experience with their study of technical theory. Under the co-operative plan, a carefully co-ordinated schedule was arranged, whereby the student spent six years in alternate weeks of class-room instruction at the University, and of practical work in the industries of Cincinnati. The co-operative class was divided into two sections, one of which was at the University, while the other was at work in the shops, and vice versa. Unless by special arrangement, each student had an alternate, so that both the school and the shop were always full-manned.

School of Nursing and Health: January, 1889, the Cincinnati Training School for Nurses was established by a group of Cincinnati women. In 1896 this training school was taken over by the city and made an integral part of the Hospital, the title being changed to the Cincinnati Hospital Training School for Nurses. November, 1914, it was reorganized as the School of Nursing and Health of the Cincinnati General Hospital.

College of Liberal Arts: The first step towards the establishment of McMicken College of Liberal Arts was taken in 1858. In 1879 the General Assembly of Ohio passed an act "To Aid and Promote Education," under which the University of Cincinnati was organized. In 1873 students were received and instruction was given by the teachers of Woodward High School. Several professors and instructors were, in 1874, appointed to conduct the Academic Department, now known as the McMicken College of Liberal Arts. They met classes in a school building on Franklin Street until the building erected by the city on the site of the old McMicken homestead was occupied in 1875.

The development of the University of Cincinnati is attested by the very large enrollment of the past year. The attendance by colleges for the past academic year is as follows: College of Liberal Arts, 984; Evening Academic Classes, 894; Graduate School, 178; College of Education, 274; College of Engineering, including School of Applied Arts, 1,000; Evening Commerce, 715; Home Economics, 30; College of Medicine, 252; School of Nursing and Health, 107; College of Law, 61—thus making a grand total of 4,495.

Recent gifts to the University are two: The Tanners Council of America presented $110,000 for the erection of a building in connection with the College of Engineering and Commerce, and is one of the most important from a scientific standpoint. The building, soon to be dedicated, will be used for scientific research purposes for the advancement of the leather industry in America.

From Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Taft was received a contribution of $75,000, in aid of a fund of $250,000 set aside for the erection of the Alphonso Taft College of Law Building, on the University Campus. This building now nears completion. The gift was made as a memorial to Judge Alphonso Taft, the father of Mr. Charles P. Taft.

BUSINESS COLLEGES.

Cincinnati was one of the first cities of the Central West and West to be favored with thoroughly equipped, advanced Business Colleges, and each year has added to their high quality and reliability. Here are to be found many of these schools of commerce and commercial practice. Their guiding heads have made long and intensive study of the practical, every-day requirements and necessities of modern business, therefore, instead of turning out novices, they send forth adequately and finely equipped graduates, young men and young women, able to enter the actualities of commercial life.

In these Business Colleges, class-room instruction is no longer perfunctory. Few professional schools are more rigid in discipline or more thorough in theory, emphasized by strict adherence to practical methods. From their halls come forth the largest percentage of young people needed to fill positions of highest responsibility and trust in the city. As proof of the high character of these institutions, the fact is pointed to that they are unable to fully supply the demands made upon them for graduated students.

The Business Colleges of Cincinnati are not in the experimental stage. They fill a definite place in the educational scheme of the period. They have become indispensable,—a most necessary and beneficial aid in thoroughly training, on the practical side, the coming generation of business men and business women.

CHURCHES AND MISSIONS.

From the earliest period, Cincinnati began to build upon the sure foundations of religion. Church and mission labors walked hand in hand with material prosperity and social uplift.

Conservatism, orderly conduct and reverence for religious teachings and practice lie at the root of a proud city past, and give assurance of a future, full of good.

MUSIC IN CINCINNATI.

Cincinnati has for more than a half century maintained its place as the leading center of music and musical education in the West. Its May Festivals, its colleges and other institutions devoted to the highest in musical instruction, its Symphony Orchestra, its Grand Opera, under the baton of a famous local director, and its multitude of musical societies and choral organizations, attest the musical atmosphere of the city.

In the year 1873, the foundations of organized music were laid in Cincinnati. The above date marks the first Cincinnati May Festival, organized and conducted by Theodore Thomas.

Two such Festivals were given at an interval of two years. The third was postponed until the year 1878, awaiting the completion of Music Hall. The third Festival was one of the most brilliant musical events this country had known up to that time. The programs were of a magnitude never before attempted in America, and the audiences were limited only by the capacity of the magnificent new hall. The artistic success of this Festival proclaimed the great possibilities of the grand body of local talent, while the receipts were unprecedented, amounting to $72,000.00, never since approached.

The fame of this third Festival spread far and wide over the land. This success led to the establishment of another institution: The College of Music of Cincinnati—which opened its doors in the Autumn of 1878. Theodore Thomas was induced to take up his permanent residence in Cincinnati and became the musical director of the College of Music, which he designed to be a sort of musical university, following the lines of the most famous European Conservatories. The College of Music at once became a center of the finest musical education—a distinction which it still maintains.

From the College of Music, founded October 14, 1878, has emanated influences which for the past forty-five years have formed and sustained the musical organizations, and given life and enthusiasm to musical art in Cincinnati. This institution leaped at once to a place as one of the leading musical schools of the world. During its existence it has produced scores of artists of universal recognition. Its departments include every approved form of musical and dramatic instruction. The Faculty, in the past and now, includes Master Artists of fame and recognized ability, and the high standards established in the beginning are fully maintained.

The College of Music is a corporation, under the laws of the State of Ohio, not for profit. Whatever surplus there may be is devoted to further improvements. Since its organization it has had five presidents. The present Director of the College, Adolf Hahn, is the third to bear this title.

The trustees of the College of Music are authorized by law to grant the degrees of Bachelor, Master and Doctor of Music.

The institution has its own Auditorium, where choral concerts and student recitals are held. Facilities, such as adequate practice quarters, several high-grade organs, pianos and every other instrument for the use of pupils are found, to aid ambitious students.

Its Public School Music Department, devoted to the training of teachers in public school music, is accredited by the State and is one of its most important departments. It is assisted in the training of prospective music teachers by the music department of the Cincinnati Public Schools. Pupils who reach the required state of advancement will be given direct opportunities and experience in practice teaching, under the guidance of the Public School Director. This plan is made possible because the School authorities recognize the fact that the College of Music is a public institution, conducted in the interests of its students alone, and not for profit.

The College Orchestra, College Choir, College Opera Department, and the Department of Dramatic Art, give regular series of concerts in performances, to which its pupils and the public are admitted without charge.

The Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, conducted upon the same lines as the celebrated institutions of Europe, has always adhered to the best and highest in art. Following these ideals, it has built a prestige and stands out as one of the really great music schools of the country.

This institution was the pioneer music college of the city, having been founded in the year 1867 by Clara Baur, who remained its directing head until her decease, in 1912, since which her place has been filled by Bertha Baur, a niece, who has endeavored to follow the ideals and ideas of her talented and able predecessor.

The Faculty of the Conservatory now numbers over seventy, besides which are a large number of practice teachers and a staff of business officers of exceptional ability.

A Summer School is an important adjunct of the Conservatory and was founded fifty-eight years ago. Its influence has been a leading feature in helping sustain continued interest in the regular courses, and is growing yearly.

The Conservatory Student Orchestra has supplied many musicians for the Symphony Orchestra. There is also a Conservatory Chorus that all students, not enrolled in the Orchestra, are expected to take part in.

The Department of Opera has taken high rank under Ralph Lyford, the now famous Director of the Cincinnati Zoo Summer Opera Company. The Opera performances are of a high grade and have attracted attention the country over.

Besides music departments, the Conservatory has departments of Expression and Dramatic Art, English Literature, Modern Languages, Aesthetic Dancing and Traditional Ballet. It has, within the past few years added a Department of Public School Music, state accredited, and its graduates are assigned teaching positions, upon receiving their diplomas.

By state authority the Conservatory is empowered to grant the degrees of Master, Bachelor and Doctor of Music, and a diploma of its Public School Music Department is recognized in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Colorado. A combined course, with the University of Cincinnati, leads to the Bachelor of Science Degree and an assured position.

The Conservatory was incorporated in 1920. Miss Bertha Baur is President, Mr. George Baur is Secretary, and Mr. Burnet C. Tuthill is General Manager.

Cincinnati's prestige as one of the greatest musical centers is also splendidly sustained by the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, long an institution in the cultural life of the city.

During the season, 1923-1924, the Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Fritz Reiner, a conductor of world reputation, the fame of this wonderful organization was enhanced at home and on tour.

MUSEUM AND ART ACADEMY.

The Cincinnati Museum Association is supported by endowments, and has two departments.

The Museum has large and varied collections relating to art and archaeology; modern painting, particularly by American artists, and an unusual collection of sculpture. In the applied arts are sections relating to textiles, metal work, ceramics, etc. There is also a good collection of primitive art and examples of the art of the pre-historic inhabitants of this region. A comprehensive art library contains 5,000 volumes and 6,000 photographs and prints relating to all phases of art. A section relating to biographies and reproductions of artists' work circulates among the students. Besides the Annual Exhibition of American Art which is held during the summer, comprising some of the most important paintings of the year, special galleries are occupied from month to month with current exhibitions such as one-man shows of paintings, prints, ceramics.

While the Museum has not sufficient income to permit the Trustees to open the building free, all the time, they continue to do everything that is possible to make access to it easy. It is free to everybody on Saturdays, and on Sundays the charge for admission is only ten cents, and at all times tickets which are sold at the rate of ten for one dollar are received at the door. Furthermore, on all the holidays throughout the year admission is free to everybody. Young people, that is those who are sixteen years of age and under, are admitted free during the school holidays, that is the entire summer season and the winter holiday season, and when the young people do come to the Museum, efforts of many kinds are made to make the visits interesting.

The Art Academy of Cincinnati, an educational department, gives thorough instruction in drawing, painting, modelling and design to about four hundred students every year. Supported by endowment and only partially dependent upon tuition fees the Trustees are enabled to fix these fees at a lower rate than would be possible otherwise. Since its foundation in 1869, distinguished American artists have served on its Faculty, and their students have taken rank among the most highly esteemed American artists.

AMERICAN RED CROSS.

Cincinnati and Hamilton County Red Cross activities in 1923 were almost entirely devoid of sensational performance, such as characterized the war and early post-war period. Yet, as in the case of all acts of mercy, the measure of its service is the quality and promptness of the same.

The outstanding difference between the Red Cross and some other charities, is that it draws no line of color, race or creed. The world is its field and the physically distressed, everywhere, are the subjects of its beneficence.

In spite of the length of time since the Armistice, former service men still have many problems. Red Cross Home Service handling only those men with disability incurred in line of duty, in 1924 served 4,851 men and their families, assisting them in the numerous problems connected with the securing of medical treatment and compensation from the government, assisting financially where necessary, visiting hospital patients at Cincinnati General Hospital, Longview, Rockhill and Branch, and furnishing requested histories to hospitals to aid government doctors in their diagnosis and treatment of patients.

Veterans were assisted during the year in filing applications for bonus paid by nineteen states. For the federal bonus the American Legion and Red Cross maintained for five weeks a joint bureau where more than 20,000 Hamilton County veterans were given assistance in filing applications.

The Chapter, always ready to serve another community in distress, sent a worker to Lorain for two months following the tornado of July, to assist in the rehabilitation work.

The local disaster relief warehouse stands ready to meet emergencies.

To meet disasters, one thousand special-made kimono's were shipped to Japan; clothing sent to Porto Rico; layettes to Hungary; and clothing to St. Thomas, Virgin Islands.

There were conducted 38 classes in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick with 906 in attendance, and classes in the City High Schools and County High Schools; also a class in Food Selection and five classes in First Aid, and passed 315 Beginners and Swimmers, 25 Juniors and 12 Seniors in Life Saving; fully equipped Life Saving Corps; established Cincinnati Gym Boat Club, and volunteer Life Saving Corps at Covington Y. M. C. A. Camp, Little Miami River; North Cincinnati Gym and Camp Edgar Friedlander. At Cincinnati Fall Festival, the Chapter equipped two Emergency Hospitals, four nurses and two doctors on duty at all times, also two ambulances supplied.

The Red Cross in combination with the County Board of Health held 201 clinics and with an attendance of 2,171; examined 2,140 school children and made 3,230 home visits; 550 dental inspections, 110 extractions, 90 fillings, 23 treatments and 32 prophylaxis. Two full-time Public Health Nurses are employed by the Red Cross and one physician and one dentist.

The Nursing Service awarded 10 scholarships in schools of nursing, and 5 post-graduate Public Health Nursing Scholarships.

The Junior Red Cross made 2,500 garments for local distribution and 2,239 toys were made and distributed to local charities. The Chapter made $500.00 contribution to the National Children's Fund; filled 1,000 Christmas boxes for shipment abroad; made Christmas bags for our soldiers in Canal Zone; 355 pieces of furniture were made by Juniors and sent to government hospitals.

COMMUNITY CHEST AND COUNCIL OF SOCIAL AGENCIES.

The Community Chest and Council of Social Agencies of Cincinnati and Hamilton County, is an organization with a two-fold purpose.

One is the efficient and economical raising of funds in one campaign to meet the maintenance budgets of all member agencies and institutions, thus eliminating the old frequent, independent and competitive appeals.

The other and more important purpose is the preparation and carrying out of a co-ordinated program of social service covering all its phases, this program consisting of a continuous and constructive warfare against the social evils of poverty, disease, crime, etc.

The organization as it now stands resulted from a merger of the Council of Social Agencies, incorporated in 1913, and the Community Chest which was formed in 1915. Consolidation occurred January 23, 1922.

The objects of the organization are: "To strengthen and make socially efficient the spirit of human helpfulness in Cincinnati and Hamilton County; to afford the citizens the opportunity to contribute to human welfare work through a Community Chest; to co-ordinate the work of the charitable, civic, philanthropic and benevolent organizations of Cincinnati and vicinity, and to promote co-operation, efficiency and economy in their operations, to the end that pauperism, delinquency and defectiveness and such social conditions as tend to create them, may be reduced and ultimately eliminated."

There are approximately 100 organization members and 64,500 individual and subscribing members of the organization, not including group subscriptions. Funds for all agencies participating in the budget are obtained through an annual campaign.

Approximately 6,000 individuals took part in the campaign of 1924 as executives, office helpers, speakers, solicitors and advisors.

The total amount requested of the public in each campaign is the sum of the budgets of the participating agencies, plus an emergency fund to provide for special or unforeseen needs. Eighty-three agencies shared in the general budget asked for, in 1924, the general budget being set at $1,842,000.

The Community Chest and Council of Social Agencies operates through two departments, the Finance Department and the Council of Social Agencies Department.

The Finance Department, in the main, performs the functions belonging to the Community Chest.

The Council of Social Agencies Department is made up of two delegates from every approved social welfare agency, whether public or private and whether sharing in Community Chest funds or not. Through the co-operative actions of this Department, social ills affecting the entire community are studied and viewed as common problems; thereby bringing to their consideration and treatment the best combined thought of the community and preventing overlapping and duplication of effort, with resultant increased efficiency and reduced cost for the service rendered. The work of this Department includes the co-operative activities connected with Publicity, Research, Confidential Exchange, Boarding Homes, Negro Civic Welfare, Public Health, Standards of Living, Recreation, Education, Child Welfare, Unemployment and Administration of Justice, and operates either through functional delegate bodies, such as the Public Health Federation, the Negro Civic Welfare Committee, Children's Bureau and Recreation Division, or through committees from organizations directly interested in the problem involved, such as the Committee on Unemployment, the Committee on Civilian Rehabilitation, etc.

SPORTS AND AMUSEMENTS.

Cincinnati enjoys representation in every form of sport, yet, except for the venerable "Reds," of Base-Ball fame, there has been lack of co-ordinated effort in backing the attempts made to establish upon a business basis the different athletic enterprises. The time must soon arrive when tradesmen and capitalists of the city will lend substantial moral and financial assistance, in the interests of health, morals and local business.

An outstanding event of 1923-1924, was the annual Hydroplane Motor Boat Race, September 27-28, sponsored by The Ohio Valley Motor Racing Association. This was witnessed by 100,000 people, without charge. Craft from many points in the United States entered the races, and the purses were large.

Other events which call for special mention are: Cincinnati Gymnasium Water Races in July for men and women; North Cincinnati Gym, Labor Day, Open Regatta on the Miami River; Central Y. M. C. A. Regatta; Cincinnati Gym Marathon Swimming Race in August.

There are many pools in Cincinnati where open swimming and diving meets are held during the winter season. The Coney Island Company will open, in 1926, one of the finest pools in the country, 401 by 200 feet in dimensions, and from six inches to ten and a half feet in depth, with a beach of real sea sand at one end.

During this season, Basket Ball has had large favor. Bowling has had heavy prestige and has developed championship quality. Cincinnati Gym Club has a large membership and fine grounds in the suburbs of the city. Roller skating is in continuous evidence at Music Hall and elsewhere, most of the year. Hand Ball and Squash have fine courts and present games of great merit.

The above barely indicate the games and athletic sports of the city, but this article cannot further catalogue the situation.

Cincinnati is one of the best theatrical stands in the country and all first-class attractions are here seen. Parks and other summer resorts are largely in evidence and enjoy heavy attendance.

CLUBS.

Cincinnati has a large number of clubs, in fact it may be denominated a Club City. These organizations need not be catalogued, but special mention should be made of The Cincinnati Business Women's Club. It is now eight years old, with a steadily increasing membership. It has in operation a definite program for the carrying out of the slogan of the National Federation: "Better Business Women for a Better Business World." Scholarships have been established which enable girls of sixteen who are unable to finish their high school education, to do so. One girl at Woodward and one at Hughes are now availing themselves of this opportunity, while another, graduated from Woodward and, because of this preparation, has taken a place in one of the leading professions,—something she could not otherwise have done.

A Speakers' Bureau has been established. This Bureau, which is made up of some of the members experienced along educational lines, sends out a speaker to Mothers' Clubs and other organizations, to tell them of the advantages a girl may have when she starts on a business career, if she has as a foundation a good business education. This creates interest in the home and prepares the mother for a time when her daughter may become legally an earning member of the family.

The Club has also an educational program for its own membership. Lectures in Business Education on such subjects as "Marketing Analysis," "The Budget, an Aid to Management," "Buying Policies," "Economics for the Business Manager," "Organized Research in Business," are proving of unusual interest. The Club has been fortunate in securing the services of professors from the University to deliver these lectures. Round Table Discussions on Business English and lectures in Current Events are held bi-weekly.

An innovation that has proved both interesting and educative was that of the noon-day luncheons held at the Club House every Thursday. A speaker is selected from the membership, who gives a fifteen-minute talk on a subject of general interest. This function brings together interested groups.

The Club has co-operated with the University in that it has employed in its Tea Room service two young ladies taking the Co-operative Course in Nutrition in the College of Applied Arts. These two girls spend two weeks out of each month at the University and the other two weeks at the Club.

An interesting monthly publication is printed and mailed to every member of the Club.

This organization has taken a definite and useful place in the community and through its activities along the lines of business education, is a power in the growth of the city.

PARK SYSTEM.

The city Park System covers a total area of 2,661 acres. There are eight large parks and innumerable park playgrounds. Topographically, the city and environs lend themselves to landscape embellishment as probably few other cities of the country do. Advantage has been taken of the fact so that, as a whole, the parks of Cincinnati are marvels of beauty, elevating to the soul and productive of civic pride.

THE ZOO.

One of the most interesting of show places, having prestige of age and holding continued interest throughout the years following its establishment, in 1875, is the Cincinnati Zoological Garden. Few institutions of the character have survived the vicissitudes of time and risen to equal prominence as one of the very best of its kind in the world.

In specimens of the animal kingdom, rare of species, and of bird life, few such collections are to be found elsewhere. The secret of its success is found in the able direction of its management and in the intelligent supervision of the veteran zoologist, Sol. L. Stephan, than whom there is no better qualified, more considerate and unselfish superintendent in America or elsewhere.

The Zoo was established by Andrew Erkenbrecher and associates, and in the year 1875 was opened to the public. Its beginnings were modest, but year by year the enterprise has grown and maintained its place in public favor. Inaugurated upon a high plane, the lofty aims of its founders have been rigidly adhered to. It was contemplated that there should be found a constant place of instruction for the youth and adults of Central United States, coupled with scenic beauty of natural location that should be and remain a joy for all time.

The Zoo has become and is one of the city's leading institutions. Cincinnatians are proud of it and can be counted upon to respond to the lure of its really wonderful attractions. Patronage from outside the city is increasing yearly, due to its interesting, artistic and educational appeal.

THE CINCINNATI AUTOMOBILE CLUB

The Cincinnati Automobile Club is the largest civic organization in the Ohio Valley, with a membership of more than 14,000. Affiliated with the American Automobile Association and the Ohio State Automobile Association, the handsome club house, at Eighth and Race Streets, is the haven for all tourists.

The club house is the new home of the Automobile Club. The lobby occupies the first floor. On the second floor are the executive offices, touring and license departments and the headquarters for the free emergency road service given to all members. On the third floor is the great lounge and the legal department.

The Automobile Club strives to develop the Ohio Valley and lends its active support to both the Dixie and the Atlantic-Pacific Highways. The tourist camp, maintained by The Automobile Club on Victory Boulevard is the mecca for hundreds of visitors.

The enforcement of the arterial stop ordinance during the past year was largely due to activities of the Automobile Club. In the interests of safety the Club has arranged for brake testing stations on leading highways entering the city. Every school teacher was provided with a course in safety instruction for the pupils.

During the past year a legal department was added to the Club. Here a competent attorney is prepared to advise automobile club members as regards violations of traffic or other law pertaining to motorists.

The emergency road service is given without cost to the member and special 24-hour service is maintained throughout the year. The Club Rooms are open every day in the year. A complete chain of "Official Garages" are found in the towns along roads leading through Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia and Tennessee, in addition to the Ohio service stations.

The Automobile Club has been active in bettering street, traffic and civic conditions in Cincinnati, always with the purpose of helping Cincinnati be a bigger and better city to live in.

MARIEMONT.

Two years ago the establishment of Mariemont, a model city, contiguous to Cincinnati, was announced. At this writing, in 1924, the town has developed, from farm lands, elaborate streets, sewers, electric lights, in fact all the conveniences of modern life and living.

Private dwellings and public buildings, have been built or are in process of erection. Parks and playgrounds have been laid out. Where a year ago there was naught but evidences of agriculture, abide hundreds of people who have thus located to enjoy the new town's advantages.

Following is some Mariemont data:

Mariemont will be a residential village, incorporated under the laws of Ohio, and constructed by the Mariemont Company, whose entire capital stock is held by Mrs. Mary M. Emery, its projector and sponsor.

It lies nine miles east of Cincinnati's business center, just outside the city limits. There is abundant transportation by train, trolley or auto roads. It overlooks a beautiful stretch of the Little Miami Valley.

Provision is made for housing about nine thousand people, although the town center will cater to at least twenty thousand because of its strategic location. It is not exclusively for Emery employees, but for any wage earners regardless of place of employment.

There will be no overcrowding and there can be no slums in Mariemont.

The school district of Mariemont will be created. Its inhabitants will enjoy 50 acres of parks, playgrounds, village greens and a concourse on the two-mile long Miami Bluff Drive.

The town will have a central heating plant with mains serving three-quarters of the property.

It will have nine miles of streets, paved and planted.

Mariemont is primarily a residential district, intended for wage earners of different economic grades.

Its houses will be of stone, brick, stucco and frame construction, single homes predominating.

Mariemont is neither a philanthropy nor in any sense paternalistic. It is an ordinary real estate development on normal American lines. The town when completed will illustrate the advantages of "Better Housing" and how well people of moderate means can live near great cities.

METEOROLOGICAL—1923.

The year 1923 averaged close to the normal in both temperature and precipitation. The near-normal temperature for the year was brought about by the comparatively high temperatures during January and December, and the comparatively low average temperatures during the summer months from June to August, inclusive.

January was warm and wet and more like a spring month than a mid-winter month. The temperature was below freezing nearly every night, but only a little below on most nights, and some rain or snow, mostly rain, fell on 19 of the 31 days.

February was cold, but not severe, and March was cool while the late spring months were of about the usual run. The highest temperature for the year was 95° on June 12, and the lowest was one degree above zero on the 18th of February. The snowfall for the year was unusually small. Much of the snow melted the same day it fell, and at no time was the ground covered with snow for a longer period than a day or two. There was a heavy snowfall as late as May 9, but this snow melted almost as soon as it fell.

Although the temperature was not unusually low during the early spring, except for an occasional day, the trees and shrubs did not begin to show green until April 15, and the buds came out so slowly that a week later many of the trees were still bare of foliage. The temperature fell to 31.6° May 9, but vegetation was not damaged. This is the lowest record for May in Cincinnati since the Weather Bureau began in 1870. Some of the old weather notes mention a killing frost on May 16, 1834.

The rainfall was fairly well distributed through the summer and fall. The only really dry month was October with 0.92 of an inch which is the lowest for October since 1912. The rainfall was light also in September.

The warmest portion of the summer was from July 10 to August 15. During these five weeks the temperature averaged slightly above normal, and the highest during the day was 90° or above on 15 days. For the entire summer the temperature was 90° or above on 23 days which is about the average number for this city.

A low-temperature record was made on September 14 when the thermometer fell to 39.1° which is the lowest on record between June 1 and September 22 since 1870. Light frost occurred on September 14, but no damage resulted. The first killing frost in the fall was on October 6. The date of the killing frost is the earliest since 1892. On the last day of October a record low temperature of 24.4° was made. The low temperature records were due to the exposure of the thermometers at the Abbe Observatory on the hilltops. The temperatures at the Government Building in the lower portion of the city were from 3.6 to 7.7° higher than at the Observatory and were not records for that location.

The month of December was both warm and wet. The average temperature is the highest since 1889 and has been exceeded only four times in the last 89 years. The total precipitation for December was the largest since 1879.

Gentlemen:—

I am pleased to be able to report that the stucco work which you did on my house has given entire satisfaction, and has attracted favorable comment from a great many of my friends.

I wish also to thank you for the courteous way in which your workmen handled this work and to express my appreciation for little details of service which you rendered, which were not strictly in the contract.

Very truly yours,

U. C. C. POCAHONTAS SMOKELESS COAL

PREPARATION

SERVICE

It is the highest heat producing coal mined.

It is practically smokeless and sootless and produces less ash and clinkers than any other coal.

It gives greater satisfaction because it requires less attention and holds fire longer.

We would appreciate an inquiry so that we may discuss with you your requirements.

NELSON'S BUSINESS COLLEGE

The Above Represents One of the EIGHT Rooms Occupied by Nelson College

Advantages Peculiar to Nelson's Business College

In it originated the method of teaching by thoroughly organized business communities.

From the first day until the last, students in the business department are engaged in actual business transactions.

The students are drilled daily in business arithmetic, penmanship and bill making. After engaging in business on his own account, each student is permitted to keep the books in two or three of the large offices connected with the business department of the school.

The Nelson College employs only first-class teachers in all departments. Each member of the faculty is especially educated and trained for the branches he teaches.

SHORTHAND—We teach the Gregg, Pitman and New Rapid Systems of shorthand. You may take any System. We enjoy the reputation of having the best shorthand department in Cincinnati.

If you are looking for a first-class stenographer, book-keeper or general office clerk, Phone CANAL 29.

No. 50    2½-TONS CAPACITY

No. 70    3½-TONS CAPACITY

During the past few years all of the parts manufacturers have made great improvements in their units, to make them more durable and more fool-proof.

Our New Models incorporate all of these very latest improvements, together with new engineering ideas developed from past experiences, so that we can honestly say our New Models are Super Trucks. They have no equal in performance or economy of operation.

THE OBJECTS OF THE ASSOCIATION ARE AS FOLLOWS:

FIRST: To improve the directory business by the interchange of ideas, and by the exchange of competent employees.

SECOND: To protect the public against fraudulent advertising schemes operated under the name of directories, and to drive the promoters of such out of the business.

THIRD: To provide permanent and continuous employment for honest and faithful directory canvassers.
