Another Detour On No. 11 Through Scotia

Last week extending of the work between North Loop and Scotia Junction on No. 11, past the junction of 11 and 56 west of Scotia made it necessary to open another detour, making three that are in use at present.

A little later, when the bituminous surfacing starts on No. 11 between Elba and St. Paul, a fourth detour will be made, this over the same route followed last year when this stretch of road was graded.

The completion of 1.6 miles of road to connect No. 56 with No. 57 about 12 miles southwest of Ord, is a project of special interest to the people of Valley county.

Ord Starts Buying Power June 1 for 2 1/2 Year Period

Under the contract, Ord will operate its own plant for 3 months in 1940 and again in 1941, probably from August 1 to November 1, and sell its output to the district at the same price paid to the district during other periods.

The North Loop district buys power, will have none available during those three months of 1940 and 1941 due to the fact that it is carrying the construction load for the Kingsley dam and until this is completed will have no extra power available during those late summer months.

At 4:00 a. m., weary after a night of consideration and wrangling, councilmen went home with a promise to meet the next day and resume discussions provided Mayor James could secure permission from his directors to defer the shut-off order 24 hours.

Before a contract is signed it must be approved by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation but since the agreement, upon which the contract will be based, was drawn up with the knowledge and approval of an R. F. C. representative, this is regarded only as a formality.

By going off the highline, however, Ord succeeded in getting what is regarded as a much better contract and one which, if not entirely satisfactory, is probably the best possible to secure at the present time.

It is now proposed to dig new laterals at once to serve 1,000 new acres in Springdale, which will place nearly 13,000 acres under irrigation this summer.

Workers Organizing for Poppy Day Sales

Visitors came from all parts of the county, a large delegation coming from Amarillo, Tex., and there were smaller groups from Utah, Colorado, Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Oklahoma, and of course, thousands from Kansas.

Forty Kansas state patrolmen were present to help take care of the traffic, and they estimated the number of cars in one parking lot at 6,000, and the crowd at 25,000. It was the third largest crowd ever seen in Kansas, the others being at the National cornhusking contest, and the premiere of "Dodge City."

The parade was more than a mile in length and contained 19 bands, among them the Ellis, Kas. band of 110 pieces, which is without doubt one of the finest marching bands in the United States. There was also the Newton, Kas. band of 90 pieces. There were perhaps fifty transports in the parade.

Poppy Day will be observed in Ord, as it is in most towns throughout the nation, on May 25, the Saturday before Decoration Day. On that day all Americans will be asked to wear memorial poppies in tribute to the World War dead and to aid the living victims of the war.

Because of the renewed warfare in Europe the ladies feel that Poppy Day should have an increasing meaning in America this year, recalling to mind the men who made sacrifices and gave their lives 20 years ago.

New Co-op Gas Big Sensation!

Sensation of the petroleum industry is the new Co-Op gasoline manufactured in the new cooperatively-owned refinery at Phillipsburg, Kas., and sold in co-op service stations throughout the middle west. It is not surprising that the new Co-Op gasoline should be better than other gasolines. It is refined in a modern, up-to-date refinery erected during the winter at Phillipsburg, Kas., and dedicated only two weeks ago. This refinery embodies the newest in refining machinery and methods. It was built particularly to refine gasoline from western Kansas crude oils and not from a multitude of crude oils from different fields. It is new from top to bottom and was designed and constructed by the foremost engineers in the petroleum business. The new Co-op gasoline has a higher octane rating—72 to 74—than nearly any other gasoline on the market. This means that it has been refined and the proper amount of lead has been added to make it fast starting, high in anti-knock quality. Since Co-op gasoline is sold only in the middle west it is refined to fit the climate of this region and give the best results under the weather conditions we have here. If you haven't yet tried a tank full of new Co-op gas we invite you—yes, we urge you—to drive in and fill up today. Try the best gasoline you ever put in your tank and note the difference.

YES... We Have the Cheaper Cuts too

A housewife calls our attention to the fact that we are always advertising our fine steaks and chops, our delicious roasts, but seldom do we mention stew meat, boiling beef, soup bones, spare ribs, flank steaks, neckbones and the other cheaper cuts that are so tasty when properly prepared. Of course we have them; in fact it would be difficult to mention anything in the line of meats—fresh, smoked, salted or cured—that our market doesn't have, as well as fresh bread, cottage cheese, butter, eggs, milk and a fine line of fancy groceries.

Form the habit of trading at our market; you'll never be sorry.

Spanish Decorations Adorn Gymnasium For Junior-Senior Banquet

Each year the junior class strives to outdo all previous classes in originality and beauty of theme for the big event of the year, the junior-senior banquet and ball.

To transform a very rectangular gymnasium into a delightful patio beside a cloistered walk was a difficult problem these Ord high school juniors solved easily.

The banquet tables were appropriately gay spread in their yellow, their blue and orange cloths. Before each plate a clever bit of pottery made in Mexico stood awaiting a new owner.

Inside the programs were headed La Comida, and the menu described as: arroz, pollo, patatas, guisantes con cebollas, pan de cillo, jalea, salad de tomates, melado, pastel nueces and cafe.

The program also carried a page entitled La Fiesta, with David Miliken listed as el amo de ceremonias. After El Tango, Clarence Rood, in his capacity as president of the junior class, welcomed the diners to the party.

The sewing project will be open regular hours, 3 a. m. to 5 p. m., from Tuesday morning until Saturday morning, with the exception of Friday. On that day the hours will be 1 to 5 p. m. and 6 to 10 p. m., with regular hours again on Saturday.

James Petska and Syl Furtak attended the Knights of Columbus convention at Kearney on Sunday and Monday, and were well pleased with results.

Remember the Snow We Had Ten Years Ago?

Ten years ago, on May 17, 1930, we had plenty of snow, as the above photos, taken at the Ben Eberhart place southeast of Ord, will prove. Tuesday it looked for a time as though we were in for a repetition of the incident. It snowed all day and some the next morning, and at one time there was at least 6 inches of snow on the ground. The weather was plenty cold but there was little damage to fruit and there was a good crop. The Quiz is indebted to Mrs. Eberhart for the use of the photos.

FSA borrowers are reminded that sorghums respond just as well to good soil and good care as any other crop, and further have shown that they will give as good or better returns on fallow ground as will wheat.

County agents in the various sections of the state will be consulted as to the best varieties of both grain and forage sorghums for the particular locality.

Play, "Seven Sisters," Given by Senior Class

Wednesday evening, under the direction of Miss Wilma Shavlik, the senior class play, "Seven Sisters," was given before a crowded house at the high school auditorium. This proved to be a splendid play, and the parts for the 'cast were well chosen.

Wilma Ollis took the part of Widow Gyurkovic, and her seven daughters from which the play takes its name were Angelina Wachtler, Bette Vogelant, Christina Petersen, Joy Loft, Loretta Mae Achen, Sylvia Iwanski and Mildred Mae Moudry.

The male parts were: Col. Radvany, Gerald Stoddard; Ferenz Radvany, Emanuel Smolik; Gilda Radvany, Rodney Rathbun; Michael Sandorff, Capron Coe; Tom Lelek, Cornelius Bismont; Janko, Joe Gregory. Other members of the class who were on the production staff were Lyle Flagg, Don Vogeler, Wilber Kizer, Donald Miller, Maxine Fox, Betty Meyer and Gerald Jirak.

The play was well carried throughout, and it would be difficult to point out the outstanding performers, although Miss Joy Loft, as Mizzi, had one of the leading parts and did exceptionally well. Joe Gregory as Janko handled a most unusual part with credit. There was not a weak link in the entire cast, which is unusual in so large a group.

The three-act play was preceded by three selections by the 40 piece high school orchestra under the direction of Henry Deines. Between the first and second acts Miss Viola Koelling played a difficult selection on the marimba which was well received and heartily applauded.

The outstanding event on the program, however, came between the second and third act, when Adolph Urbanovsky played a number of popular airs on the accordion. When swung into the strains of the "Beer Barrel Polka" the impulse was irresistible, and before he had finished, half the people in the house were singing the chorus. Adolph plays exceptionally well, and should go far with his favorite instrument.

To Help Our Wildlife Plant Winter Food Now

The Department of Game, Forestation and Parks made a suggestion in a recent bulletin that would be worthy of serious consideration. It is the adoption of the plan now in use in Pennsylvania for taking care of the winter feed for game birds.

The plan calls for the planting of a special seed mixture suitable to this section, and the mixture worked out by the commission is as follows: Black Amber cane, 20 pounds, Sudan, 20 pounds, Sooner Milo, 15 pounds, Cheyenne kafir, corn 10 pounds, hegar, 13 pounds, red proso millet, 20 pounds, dwarf Essex rape, 2 pounds.

It is suggested that this mixture be sown in long, narrow plots adjacent to good cover for birds, such as brushy ditch banks, fence rows, gullies and wood lots, in amount of about 15 pounds per acre, and from May 1 to June 10. It is suggested that the seed be broadcast by hand, as the seeder does not work so well with various sized seeds.

the office of the County Clerk at Ord, Nebraska, at the office of the District Engineer of the Department of Roads and Irrigation at Grand Island, Nebraska, or at the office of the Department of Roads and Irrigation at Lincoln, Nebraska.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish bond in an amount equal to 100% of his contract. As an evidence of good faith in submitting a proposal for this work, the bidder must file, with his proposal, a certified check made payable to the Department of Roads and Irrigation and in an amount not less than one hundred fifty (150) dollars.

3-Year Home-Making Program in Ord Schools

A three-year homemaking program is to be taught at Ord high school next year. This means that the girls may take home economics in the eleventh grade as well as in the ninth and tenth grades. Selected units from science related to the home, art related to the home, physiology, and home management are to be taught as units in the homemaking course.

At present Ord has two semesters of home economics in the ninth grade, two in the tenth, and four semesters of related subjects which means eight semesters in all. Now it will be two semesters of home economics in the ninth, tenth, and eleventh grades respectively.

Along with this plan the vocational homemaking teacher is to be employed for a few weeks during the summer. This enables the teacher to talk with prospective students, to supervise summer home projects, and to meet and help homemakers. Home projects are not just doing individual projects but consist of a series of projects making up a home project program.

During this last year 33 out of 89 schools in Nebraska used this "Three-year Homemaking program."

Harold Williams came to Ord Saturday evening and returned to Grand Island Sunday morning.

More Sorghums Planted by Nebraska Farmers

Planting of sorghums to insure adequate feed supplies for livestock during 1940-41 is being urged for Farm Security Administration borrowers, according to an announcement by Claude C. Davis, Valley county FSA supervisor.

Due to corn having been a rather precarious crop for the past few years we are urging the planting of sorghums in place of some of the corn acreage, as a security food crop. Davis said, "The farm business on practically every farm in the state is built around livestock. To continue to develop and maintain this part of Nebraska Agriculture, feed is essential and consequently we feel that feed security is income security."

Jones Apartments Last Word in Convenience

The five-apartment house of Albert Jones on L street is the most modern improvement in the city of Ord. It is a three story affair, with two basement apartments, two on the first floor, and one larger on the second floor. Those on the ground floor are identical except that one is the reverse of the other. Those in the basement are also identical except that they are smaller. The upstairs apartment is larger, with an extra bedroom, but in other respects it is very much like those below. The building itself is practically completed, but there is much work still to be done on the outside, including concrete driveways on either side and a garage with space for five cars in the rear.

All the apartments have been occupied for the past ten days. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cuckler live in the east apartment below, and the Virgil Cucklers have the west apartment below. On the ground floor, Mrs. Amolita Partridge lives in the east apartment, and Roy Price, new Safeway manager, and his family are on the west. The L. E. Walfovs occupy the upper floor.

The most noticeable feature of the building is that entrance to any apartment, either front or rear, may be made without passing through any other. All entrances are separate in front, while the rear doors all open upon a common rear hall. There is a common laundry room in the basement, and the families each have their own washday each week.

Features common to all the apartments are the highly finished oak floors throughout, the neat and simple lighting fixtures, the concealed ironing boards, the Venetian blinds, the rough plaster in all rooms but the kitchen, where the lower part is smooth finish and the upper part rough.

Each kitchen has its built-in cupboard with the sink in the center and work table on either side. The equipment includes new electric stoves and ice boxes. Each apartment has its own bathroom, with built-in bathtub and other equipment of late design.

In each case the living room is at the front, the kitchen in the middle and the bathroom and bedroom side in the rear, with a short hall leading to them. There is no door between the living room and kitchen, nor between the kitchen and rear hallway, thus making possible a better arrangement of the furniture in the rooms.

A special feature is the fact that each apartment has its own meter, its own switch for the rear hall light and for the light in the laundry room, so that each tenant pays his own share of the light and power cost. The laundry room is equipped with an electric hot water heater and an electric washer.

The heating system is unique, in that each apartment has its own thermostat, so that the tenants may have any degree of heat they choose. The heating unit is an automatic oil burner. A common clothes line has been built near the northwest corner of the lot.

Most of the carpenter work was done by Mr. Jones, his son Lowell and his nephew Allen, assisted for part time by Andy Purcell and Ned Powers. In addition to this, Mr. Jones installed the heating unit, which he purchased from Sack Lumber company. Most of the building material came from the Koupal and Barstow yards, the rest from Sack.

Harold Hallen did the electric wiring and installed all the electric equipment which required more than plugging in. The wiring included outlets for the electric iron, reading lamps and radio, and because of the multiple control system, was quite a complicated affair.

Martin Led did the plumbing, which was equally complicated because of the five complete bathrooms and the hot and cold water to the kitchen sinks. John Mason did the plastering. Frank Fryzek and son Joe did the decorating, and still have another coat to put on the outside of the house. The bathroom fixtures and kitchen sinks were furnished by J. W. (Kelly) Ambrose.

Other features not specifically mentioned include an extra roll-away bed in a closet in each apartment for emergency use for company, a complete air-conditioning unit for the entire building which works in connection with the heating plant, and complete insulation of the entire outside, which will eliminate cold currents, and mean a great saving of fuel.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones had hoped to hold open house and permit the general public to look at the apartments, but because the tenants were in a hurry to get located this could not be done. Without doubt it is the greatest improvement made in Ord in recent years, and the owners are to be congratulated on the spirit they showed in building in a time of depression. They will doubtless realize a profit on their investment, and they richly deserve it.

Fire Marshal's Report

Proves Ord Losses Low

Schuyler, with a 1930 population of 2588, was the lowest in fire loss in 1939 of any town of its class, 2500 and up, in Nebraska, and has a right to feel proud of the fact. The loss is given as $754 for the year, which figures 29c per capita, which is certainly low.

In view of this fact, Ord firemen certainly have a right to feel proud of their record for 1939, in which there were five fires reported, with a total loss of $75. Ord is nearly as large as Schuyler, 1930 population being 2226, but the fire loss for last year was only one tenth that of Schuyler which is the lowest in its class.

Figured on the per capita basis, the total fire loss in Ord for 1939 was 3c per person. We have no way of knowing definitely how the Ord record compares with the rest of the towns of the class, 1000 to 2500, in the state, since they are not given individually, but it must be about the lowest.

Much credit must be given the Ord Volunteer fire department for this remarkable record, but some credit must be given the mayor and council, the street and alley commissioner, and the citizens as a whole. Constant vigilance is the

Apportionment of Gas Tax Is Given

The Valley county share of the gas tax, collected by the state for April and received in Ord for May, is $1,647.95. County Treasurer George Satterfield says this amount is apportioned as follows: county road fund, $1,133.57; county bridge fund, $329.53; Ord city road fund, $99.27; Arcadia village road fund, $34.69; North Loup village road fund, $29.92; Elyria village road fund, $4.52.

The amounts received by the county for 1940, collected by the state for the month before, are as follows: January, $1,843.72; February, $1,650.69; March, $1,454.04; April, $1,381.20; and May, $1,647.95. The gas tax is apportioned to the counties by the state on the basis of car registrations. In the county it is apportioned 70% to the county road fund, 20% to the county bridge fund, and the other 10% is divided among the towns on the basis of population.

The firemen of St. Paul are planning to sponsor a celebration on July 4, and will have a whiskey club to advertise the event. The idea is so old it whisks, but it still seems to work.

In St. Paul the citizens observed Poppy Day a week earlier than at Ord, on May 18, and their Dawn-to-Dusk Boy Scout campaign nearly two weeks later, on May 21. Both days were successes.

The Greeley Service club will sponsor a two-day baseball tournament and celebration of July 3 and 4. It also OKed the building of a good road from the corner at Horace to Ericson.

The Clenny Beer parlor at Comstock has been given a thorough spring cleaning, the interior of the building being painted and otherwise decorated.

After trying a smaller paper for a time, the Scotia Register last week went back to an 8 page paper, with the promise of an occasional extra sheet when needed. It is a good paper whatever size it is.

Saturday the merchants of Loup City put on an 88-cent bargain day, and they say that the affair was a great success. The bargain list in The Sherman County Times looked mighty fine.

Norman Gustafson of Meade, Neb., was elected to the position of vocational agriculture teacher by the Loup City school board at its meeting last Monday night. He is a University of Nebraska graduate.

Chet Krebs of Palmer was called to Raymond, S. D., last week by the sad news that his brother Byron, together with another man, had been killed by a bolt of lightning.

The stamp plan for federal distribution of surplus commodities will be put into effect in Nemaha county and seven other counties of that district on June 3.

LETTERS FROM QUIZ READERS

Delbert Chapman III, Long Beach, Calif., May 15, 1940.

To the Editor of the Quiz:

Delbert W. Chapman is in the Naval Hospital in San Diego, Calif. He was taken there about three weeks ago after suffering a slight stroke caused from high blood pressure. He was in a hotel when the stroke took him but walked five blocks to where I was, after the stroke. He is much improved and we are in hopes he is going to recover completely. He will have to be under medical care for a couple months. His nephew, Dale Hughes, came from Gogalala, Neb., but has returned to his work. Letters will reach Delbert at the Navy Hospital. I am staying in Long Beach while Delbert is in the hospital, later I may move to San Diego. Of course I have been over to see him and while Dale was in Long Beach he took Delbert's radio over and had it connected. My address now is 437 C Earl 7th Street, Long Beach, Calif. You have had to change my address so often I could not blame you if you stopped sending the Quiz, but I hope you won't. The postoffice was too far away for me to walk, so we stopped the box.

The picture of Indians in last week's Quiz was taken years ago, during the Preston trouble. Indians belong to that gang I will admit. The faces do not look exactly like Indians but the picture is exactly the same as one I had for years and it was given to me while I worked in the Blizzard office by the man who is on his knee. He was a full blooded Indian and his name was Joe Eagle Eye Slippery-Cuss. If the picture in the Quiz is American men, they have taken exactly the same position and look as the Indians did.

Sincerely, Florence Chapman

OIL DRILLINGS IN NEBRASKA

This is the sixth of the series of articles concerning oil drillings in Nebraska. All information was compiled by research workers of the Nebraska Writers' Project, WPA, from old newspapers and from data supplied by the University of Nebraska.

Nineteen-sixteen was the first year of an oil drilling era that almost attained "boom" proportions. From that year on communities in nearly every section of the state vied for the honor of "bringing in" the first producing well.

On Jan. 19, 1917, it was proposed that a Mr. Hurst, who had "discovered" the Elk Creek Basin oil field in Wyoming, should have full charge of the drilling and one of his first acts was to arrange for the Carter Oil Company of Kansas City to drill the well.

By the latter part of February, drilling had reached a depth of 45 feet and everyone was happy over the steady progress. Unfortunately, however, about this time a carload of much needed casing was "lost" in transit and the well was shut down.

While the Scott-Dennison group were laying their plans, a well was being sunk on the Compton farm in Garfield precinct. The well was known as the Zimmerman well and by April 27, 1916, it had gone down to a depth of 920 feet.

Miss Zola Barta Becomes Bride of Ogallala Engineer at Pretty Ceremony in St. Mary's Church

Father Martin A. Lawler officiated at the eight o'clock nuptials Tuesday morning which made Miss Zola Barta the bride of Wilford C. Wiggins. The Ord girl, eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Barta, has been principal of the grade school at Ogallala, and as the groom is an engineer on the Keystone dam project near that city, their marriage will take them there to make their home following a California honeymoon.

MRS. WILFORD WIGGINS.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a dark blue dress of rough, dull knitted material, over which she wore a most attractive redingote of the same color and fabric. The coat was set off with a broad, crushed band of white which fell from neck to hemline. An orchid corsage and an immense breton type hat of dark blue with simple ribbon trim accompanied the dress.

WPA project taught several simple methods of using prunes that were good... not just the usual stewed prunes again. Ella Hughes, Erma Adamek, May McCune, and Stella Wigent spend their days at tasks like this... they have found as many as 18 not-elaborate ways to use cornmeal or graham flour, and taught them to these women who have to use so much of these commodities.
They showed me burlap draperies they have developed, using cast-off wrappings from another project office here in Ord. You may think they weren't attractive but you are wrong. They had been washed, mended, pressed and sewn carefully. For a trim, and it was a pretty trim, too, a band of unbleached muslin had been crayola colored and then applied in a string-of-gourds pattern. (A hot iron set on crayola coloring makes the color tubfast, you know.)
Also made of burlap odds and ends were roller shades for windows, trimmed in the same gourd crayola work. And runners for table or dresser, with a fringed edge about an inch wide. These grew from old burlap sacks, and so they could be made in even the poorest home with the thread and crayolas the only expense.
One local family got a downright thrill out of having a tablecloth. They had always wanted one, and when the mother was shown how four flour sacks could be seamed together and made presentable, the family kept that cloth for Sundays!
There are folks who don't take tablecloths for granted, you know. As do you and I. —Irma.
IT HAPPENED IN ORD
It so happens that Harold Sack of Ord is not the Harold Sack of Tecumseh who was mentioned over WOW as being so well pleased with his Allis-Chalmers tractor. It did happen that the Sack family, including Harold, was tuned in to that station at the time the announcement was made.
Monday Archie Bradt fished a 'vaseline bottle out of the river at Hardenbrook Dam which contained this message scrawled on paper: "Columbia River, Dec. 26, 1939; 'Help, River Pirates. R. H.—L. D.'"
If the couple will call at the Quiz office they can have their bottle back. We don't need it.
Monday afternoon it rained, and all through the rain Syl Furtak was busy putting a "Bus Depot" sign on the window of the place where the P. C. T. stages stop. With all the dry weather we have had, and he had to pick out the only rainy day for a job like that!
The metal pipe on top of the kitchen chimney at the Herb Nelson place blew over in the high wind last week, and people passing by have been wondering how the Nelsons were keeping their kitchen stove from smoking. The secret is that they were not using the chimney at all.
There is a motto in the Ord Township Library which reads: "Speak Gently, And Let Thy Voice Be Low." That is the way it read until some clever bird saw the possibilities and put an extra L between the words "Be" and "Low." It now reads, "Speak Gently, And Let Thy Voice Be Low."

Notes From the VALLEY COUNTY FARM BUREAU

By C. C. Dale

Hopper Bait Available. A poison bait mixing plant for grasshopper control has been set up at the county fair grounds and poison is now available to the farmers, says County Agent C. C. Dale.

In accordance with federal regulations, bait will be available in two forms, the straight mixture of sawdust, bran and sodium arsenite and another mixture with molasses added to attract the hoppers and prevent the bait from drying out.

Prices will be 10 cents per sack for the straight mix and 15 cents per sack for the molasses mix, where the farmer furnishes sacks. If the sacks are furnished at the plant an additional charge of 5 cents will be made for each sack furnished.

Farmers should understand that the mixing plant is run on a non-profit basis and the charges made are only to cover the expenses of mixing for which the local pest control committee are responsible.

Bran, sawdust and sodium arsenite are furnished by the federal bureau of entomology. The expense of unloading, trucking, storage, power and mixing equipment, molasses, and a foreman in charge must be borne by the local committee. The hatch of grasshoppers has been delayed by a cold backward spring, but they are now appearing in large numbers in all parts of the county.

At the present time the young hoppers are confined to the hatching grounds, mainly along roadsides, fence rows and waste places. Poison can be most effectively used before they migrate into the fields, and farmers are urged to start operations now, while treatment can be given economically and effectively. A sack of bait used now will do more good than a ton spread in July.

Sorghums Best Crop. The dry soil condition which confronts most Valley County farmers today is discouraging the planting of corn and resulting in the largest acreage of grain sorghums ever planted in the county. In view of soil moisture conditions, there is a much greater chance of producing grain from sorghums than from corn.

Experience shows that with little moisture at planting time the chances of getting a crop of corn is very small. Grain sorghums on the other hand will take advantage of practically all moisture which falls during the growing season, and will remain alive during drouth periods which will kill corn.

Farmers are again cautioned about planting sorghums too thickly. Most failures the past few years have resulted from too thick a stand. About two pounds per acre of Sooner Milo and three pounds of Early Kalo are sufficient on dry land.

A bulletin published by the agricultural experiment station on methods of adjusting listers and planters for the correct rate of planting sorghums is available at the county agent's office. Another pointer to remember is to treat all sorghums for smut. Three ounces of copper carbonate dust properly applied to one bushel of seed will insure practically 100% against loss from smut in sorghums.

Ord Woman Here 62 Years on May 28. Mrs. Mary Beran achieved the rather unusual honor and distinction of living in Ord and Valley county 62 years, yesterday, May 28. To have lived in one place for half a century is rather unusual, but adding another 12 years to that record is an achievement indeed.

Mrs. Mary Beran was born near Waterville, Minn., Sept. 9, 1856. John Beran was born in Czechoslovakia about 6 months earlier, and later came to Minnesota, where he lived 12 miles from Mankato. Jan. 29, 1878 they were united in marriage at Waseca, Minn.

After their marriage Mr. Beran added the middle initial "W" to his name, for the reason that there were others of the same name, and much confusion would thus be avoided. If the "W" stood for any middle name Mrs. Beran never found out what it was.

Shortly after their marriage they started for Nebraska, having read in a paper about John Zablouddil, who had already settled in the neighborhood of Woodman hall in the west part of Valley county, and thinking that this would be a fine place in which to make their new home.

They made the journey in a covered wagon, accompanied by a cow and a little colt. With them came Joe Stara, father of Antonia Stara. The Staras, Frank, Anton and Joe, were cousins of Mr. Beran. They crossed the Missouri at Sioux City and made their way westward across the open prairie.

At Stanton, Nebr., they were struck by a heavy rain storm which damaged the bridge across the Elkhorn river and made it impossible for them to cross. However, the men got busy and laid planks on the frame of the bridge and managed to get across after half a day's delay.

The first place they struck in the county was Vinton, which had reached about the limit of its size at that time. From there they went on to the Zablouddil place, where they stayed until the well was finished on the homestead which Mr. Beran filed on two miles north of Woodman hall.

They then moved on the place, living in the wagon until the sod house was finished. In this soddy they made their home for six years, at which time they moved to Ord because the children would soon be of school age, and it was a long way to school on the farm.

They lived their first three months in Ord in a house that stood where the Texaco Service station now stands, and which disappeared many years ago. Then Mr. Beran bought a small, partly finished house in the east part of Ord on the site where he later built the large house now owned by Joe Novosad.

This was a two room house, and before he got it finished a tornado came along and moved it partly off the foundation. The corner that projected beyond the foundation came to rest on a rain barrel, which kept the house from tipping over.

Mr. Beran took the children into the cave to get them out of the storm. He then moved the house back on the foundation and built on three more rooms, saying that it would be harder for the next storm to blow it away. Later that same summer and before the house was all finished, a hail storm came up one day while Mr. Beran was up town.

That was one of the most thrilling events in Mrs. Beran's life. The hail was accompanied by high wind and broke out the windows. She put the children on the bed and covered them with a quilt to protect them from the storm. A piece of flying glass cut her cheek, and the children were badly frightened when they saw the blood.

They lived in this house until 1899, when they built their new 11 room mansion, which was one of the finest houses in Ord at the time, and which is still a splendid building. Mr. Beran was building it for a home, and he saw to it that it was built well.

Antonia Mann, Hillsburg, Calif.; Louise Allen, Stanton, Nebr.; Mary Baker, Hardin, Mont.; John Lubbock, Tex.; Agnes Sytek, Wheatland, Wyo.; Amelia Bader, Battle Creek, Nebr. and Anton, Omaha.

Mrs. Beran recalls that her husband worked first for Joe Slobodney in the implement business after they moved to Ord. Later he was in business with A. E. Shafer, who ran off with the money belonging to the firm and left Mr. Beran to square the account, which he did.

He then went into the real estate business, and in time managed to accumulate enough so that, not long before his death he called his children all home and deeded them each a farm. But to Mrs. Beran the years of prosperity are not the most precious, but those of their younger days, when their troubles were many and their joys were few.

Mrs. Beran is still in fairly good health and does not look as though she would be celebrating her 84th birthday on next Sept. 9. Her time is made pleasant by the daily visits of a number of neighbors, and the occasional visits of her children. After 62 years lived in and near Ord, she still has faith in the city and its future.

Warren Allen expects to install a number of air conditioning units in Ord this month, and Monday evening was planning a way of improving the system at Ben's Grill.

How School Teachers Will Spend Vacations
Thinking that the plans of Ord's teachers for the vacation period might be of interest to the readers of the Quiz, the Quiz took the trouble to ask them Thursday before they got away from town.

Miss Emma Steele, commercial teacher, will go to her home in Lincoln for the summer. She will take a vacation trip, but at present she does not know where.

Miss Lydia Blaha, school secretary, has no plans made at present, but she should take a vacation, as she has certainly done her part in the work of the school.

Miss Arletta Robinson, kindergarten teacher, plans to spend the summer with her aunt at Primrose, Nebr.

Miss Wilma Shavlik, normal training instructor, goes to her home at Morse Bluff for a visit first, and then will probably go to Greeley, Colo., to work on her Master's degree.

Miss Bernice Slote, instructor in English, is going to her home in Lincoln and will attend the state university for the summer.

Miss Evelyn Kosech, teacher in the 5th and 6th grades, has gone to her home at Farwell, Nebr. Her plans for the summer are indefinite.

BACK FORTY

By J. A. Kovanda

A discouraging reminder to local nimrods was expressed by Warden Bill Lytle last Monday evening, when he warned that catfish are apt to disappear from the North Loup river in the near future.

Chief reason for this presentment is a dam built across the Loup near Genoa by the Columbus power project. Last year the fish and game department was active in trapping fish there and lifting them over the dam.

And plans are being made for another dam across the Mississippi river at a point close to St. Louis. This structure might aid river navigation if completed, and thereby bankrupt a few more railroads.
