Sub-Lt. MacMillan Feted By Friends

Prior to his departure to complete his naval training at H.M.C.S. York, Toronto, Sub-Lieut. John Buchanan MacMillan was honored by his friends Wednesday evening, Sept. 13th, at a party tendered him in Big Beaver School, S.S. 1 Kenyon. Sub-Lieut. MacMillan is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ewan Alex. Funeral Mass For Cpl. McCormick

On Sept. 4th, at St. Catherine's Church, Greenfield, a funeral Mass was sung by Rev. Ronald J. McDonald in the presence of relatives and friends for Cpl. Hugh Angus McCormick, youngest son of Mrs. John McCormick and the late Mr. McCormick of the Sixth of Kenyon. At the time of his death he was in his 34th year.

Cpl. McCormick spent his early years in the Sixth of Kenyon and later followed the mining and prospecting industry in Northern Ontario where he leaves many friends. Like many other sons of Glengarry, he answered the call to arms and joined up at Toronto in 1942 with the 27th Canadian Armoured Regt. Later he trained at Portage La Prairie, Camp Borden and Sarnia, went overseas in May 1943 and later transferred to the Sherbrooke Fusiliers one of the leading units to reach France.

On Aug. 14th, 1944, at the battle of Falaise Cpl. McCormick was killed in action and was buried near the little village of Clair Tizon.

Huglie, as he was nearly always called by all, was a kind and loving son and brother and is sadly missed by the family. Besides his sorrowing mother, he leaves to mourn his loss: four brothers and two sisters, namely: Dan of Greenfield; Angus of Cowichan Lake, B.C.; John and Dougal, serving overseas; Eliza and Mary of Montreal.

Rain which fell heavily up until noon, may have adversely affected the attendance at the 54th annual exhibition of Kenyon Agricultural Society at Maxville, Friday, but it had no apparent effect on the enjoyment of some 2500 who were present. The heavy downpour left no mud on the exhibition grounds nor did it curtail the number of exhibits. Fine showings of Ayrshire and Holstein cattle and of bacon hogs were a highlight of the Fair ranking with the best displays in its history.

John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, was in attendance and he gave a 10-minute address, remarking on his close connection with farmers throughout his lifetime.

During his address, Mr. Bracken congratulated the exhibitors for their excellent turnout and extended his compliments to the community for the interest it has shown in presenting the fair.

"The first 20 years of my life were spent in Old Ontario," he said. "The last 22 years were spent in Winnipeg where I knew Ralph Connor, the writer who brought the county of Glengarry into world-wide prominence."

"Thirty-eight years ago when I left the farm in Ontario and went to the Prairies, I spent three years as superintendent of fairs and farm institutes in Saskatchewan. I know something of the difficulties your agricultural society has had in presenting this fair."

Mr. Bracken explained that during the past six weeks he visited fairs in Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Three weeks ago he attended a fair 420 miles north of the United States border in the Peace River district.

"This is as fine a grain growing area as exists anywhere in Canada," he maintained.

Dr. W. R. Quinn To Speak In Glengarry

The County of Glengarry and adjacent districts are to have the honour and privilege next week of hearing an outstanding and very acceptable visitor from India in the person of Dr. W. R. Quinn who comes as the special speaker for the Sunday School Convention and young People's Rally of the Presbyterians of the Presbytery of Glengarry, which event is being held at Kenyon Church, Dunvegan on Monday evening next, September 25.

Born in Kincardine, Ont., he graduated from the local schools, and from the University of Toronto with the degree of B.A., with honours, later receiving his medical training at the University of Western Ontario. He practiced twelve years with growing success at Ilderton and at London, Ont., but gave up these promising opportunities and prospects in Canada to engage in medical missionary work amongst the backward Bhil peoples of India where the Presbyterian Church in Canada has a large and growing mission. His medical training in Canada has been supplemented by post-graduate studies in New York City, Edinburgh, London, Dublin and Vienna.

After serving for one missionary term as Superintendent of the Mission Hospital, Dr. Quinn returned in July 1943 on furlough and has been busy since returning to Canada in (Continued on page 4)

Ottawa—The Quebec conference may not have yielded very much concrete news for the newspapers but it wrote a page in the history of a momentous era, and if newspapermen were forced to rely on their imaginations held in check by discretion on what subjects were under discussion at the meetings of the great political leaders and military advisers, we all know that these meetings helped to mould the strategy which will shorten the war in Asia as well as in Europe. When the Canadian war cabinet met in Quebec we may be sure they discussed what part this country would play in the war in the Pacific. We have a number of air squadrons in the East now, operating in Bay of Bengal and elsewhere in Southeastern Asia. Our navy will be ready to take a hand in the job of destroying Japan's overbearing military power. There may be still lots of hard fighting ahead in Europe but the task of beating Japan, still so strongly entrenched on the mainland and the South Pacific Islands is a United Nations job. The United States had its Pearl Harbor and the debacle of the Philippines but Britain suffered the loss of Singapore and the over-running of Burma, Oustralla, our sister Dominion was for long in peril of invasion and its future security depends on the destruction of the military power of Japan. So the British and the British Commonwealth are and will be up to the neck in this fight to the Orient until the Nipponese menace is wiped out as completely as the German will be according to present indications within the next few months.

UNRA MEETING
Not the same amount of glamour attached to the other International gathering to which Canada and the city of Montreal are now the hosts. The meeting of the delegates from 44 nations of the world to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration is also historic. UNRRA is not only the expression of the humanitarian feelings of the people farms has come from the Nazi policy of seeing that Germans were well fed, however, great the privation, this might mean to the subjugated countries who were asked to appreciate the benefits of the new order. There is no doubt, however, that the rapidity of the advance of the allied armies prevented whatever scorched earth policy the Germans might have contemplated on withdrawal of their forces.

(Relief in the East)
The work of UNRRA will not be confined to Europe. There will have to be the relief measures for the East when the time is ripe. Over 200,000,000 Chinese are now under Japanese domination. The agricultural economy of the country has been disrupted by the war and it seems possible that the extent of relief that will have to be supplied in the East may exceed the needs of Europe. UNRRA's immediate task however is related to Europe. The means by which this will be carried out, and the allocation of the orders for relief goods among the contributing nations will be announced by UNRRA officials. One of the things to be decided at the conference is whether the benefits of UNRRA are to be extended to German and Italians. UNRRA will be operating in German territory because it will be to help the return to their homes of the allied people who had been forced to work in Germany. It is said that there are more than 2,000,000 persons in Europe who have been cut adrift from their homes.

RELIEF A HUGE TASK
Amended figures may be supplied by the officials of UNRRA but from what is available at this time UNRRA will import into the liberated areas about 50 million tons of supplies in the first few months. About one fifth of the amount will come from North America with Canada supplying a great deal of wheat with other kinds of food as well as other commodities. There are it is stated about 130,000,000 people in Europe who will ultimately require relief. They will first have to be kept from starvation and to be clothed. Medical facilities will have to be supplied. UNRRA has a tremendous task in front of it. The first measure of relief are distributed by the army officials as the forces pass through a country. Then UNRRA follows when the civilian authority takes over.

A WEEKLY EDITOR LOOKS AT Ottawa
Written specially for the weekly newspapers of Canada
By Jim Greenblat
Coming up for the week of October 8-14th, Canada will again observe "Fire Prevention Week," deemed so important that it is announced by Proclamation in the Canada Gazette. The Dominion Fire Commissioner flatly states there are too many fires on Canadian farms as well as towns and cities. During the past ten years 470,000 fires in the Dominion have destroyed insurable property valued at more than $264,000,000, and during that period 2,800 persons lost their lives as a result of fires. That's something to think about, alright, and a mighty good reason why everyone should make a thorough inspection of premises for fire hazards—and be careful, always. Nearly all fires can be prevented.

You mightn't think it, but the "taxation" policy of the government is another weapon in the fight to keep down the cost of living, and the same is true of "savings," both having the same result, i.e., helping to pay for the war and curbing excess purchasing power. Through supporting prices and wage controls Canadians contribute passively to the success of the stabilization policy to keep down the cost of living. Through taxation and increased savings they can make an active contribution, and a very important one. That is something to remember when the War Finance organization starts functioning again to mobilize personal savings for Victory through another loan.

No one envies the work of the federal Labor Department which has the tough job of having directed toward it most of the labor and industrial disputes which arise. It is encouraging to hear a report from the department though, that there has been a decided reduction in time lost through strikes in the first six months of 1944, compared with the same period of 1943. Preliminary figures show that 51,000 workers were involved in 110 disputes with a loss of 330,000 man hours. In last year's 6-month period there were 208 disputes, with 109,000 workers and a loss of nearly 516,000 mandays.

The history of the fast-growing Canadian Navy, when it is written, will be a glorious one in the chapter which includes operations of the year 1944. R.C.N. ships provided 100 per cent of close escort for all North America-United Kingdom trade convoys during the summer months of this year and at the same time a considerable proportion of the seagoing lads and fighting ships were supporting invasion operations in Northern France. Our navy manned 30 infantry landing craft, 16 motor torpedo boats for the first six months of this year 532,992 operations, and had 19 corvettes escorting invasion convoys as well as six of our largest and most powerful destroyers. In all 109 ships, manned by about 10,000 officers and men took part in the invasion. Our navy had a great record against U-boats and since the beginning of the war, by themselves, captured one surface ship, sank twelve and damaged sixteen. Canadian ships were represented also in naval forces which sank 23 enemy surface vessels, damaged nine others.

In the farm yard Canadian hens have scored an astounding record for their bosses, farmers and poultrymen. In the first 7 months of this year the Special Products Board bought nearly two and a half million cases of surplus shell eggs for export to Britain in the form of dried egg powder. This is double that of any first seven months in any previous peak year.

Veneral disease has been very effectively handled by the Canadian Army authorities. Its campaign against one of the oldest of health problems has shown results. From a disease rate in the Canadian Army of 62 per thousand at the beginning of the war, V.D. casualties have now been brought down to 24 per thousand a year, a reduction of nearly two-thirds. No soldier found to be infected will be allowed to return to civilian life until given suitable treatment and received a clean bill of health.

The national checkup of employers' reports on male employees by National Selective Service located a total of 7,245 men not in good standing under Mobilization Regulations. These delinquents were among nearly 36,000 doubtful cases reported by patriotic employers.

When the liner "Gripsholm" sailed recently for Sweden to exchange German and Allied prisoners of war, it also carried 1,500 bags of parcels for Canadian prisoners of war in Germany. When the Canadian Post Office department found there would be space for mail, quick arrangements were made to include 1,110 bags of parcel post, on hand in New York. Usually they go through Switzerland, by way of Marseille, but since the latter is now in the battle zone, parcel post had accumulated in New York. New labels were quickly printed in Ottawa, flown to New York and the story behind the story.

Our lumber industry will be in a favored spot when the war is over. Negotiations have been in process between the British Timber Control Office and eastern and western Canadian lumbermen for the export of 2,400,000,000 feet of lumber in two years after, and this will involve a transaction of nearly $140,000,000. Canada is expected to become the chief source of lumber for British reconstruction in the immediate post-war years, because of the heavy demands on all the Baltic countries except Sweden for their own domestic reconstruction. Britain's demands for lumber can be gauged by the report that the robot bombs damaged or destroyed a million homes or buildings in their own little "blitz."

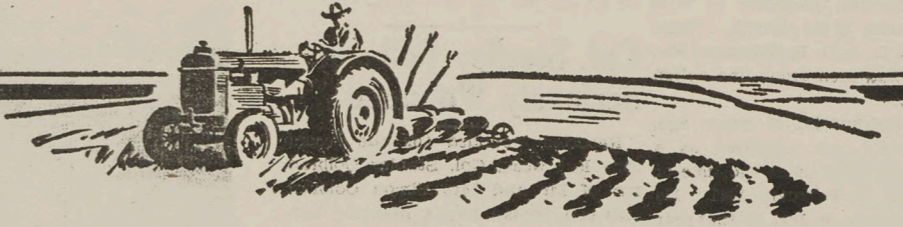

There's still worry about the coal situation in this country and the Munitions Department advises householders, especially in certain regions, to place orders at once for delivery, when the dealer can deliver. Since war has jumped about 70% from 28,000,000 short tons in 1939-40 to an estimated 47,000,000 short tons for 1944-45. Our imports from the U.S.A. doubled in the last 3 1-2 years, but their own domestic consumption increase makes further importation difficult for us.

An unheralded new industry in Canada is highlighted by refugees allowed in, and many have come here since 1938 establishing industries of consequence. "Canada at War" reports that nearly 5,000 workers are employed by these industries, 87% of them Canadian with a total annual payroll of $6,727,000. The five biggest industries—production of $1 million to $9 million worth of goods each a year—are turning out 80 to 100% war materials. The majority of these industries have settled in the east: 26 in Ontario, 17 in Quebec, and one each in Saskatchewan and British Columbia. More than half are introducing new skills, new techniques or new products to Canadian economy. From special curing and canning of hams to the first factory to cut and polish diamonds for tools. Most of the refugees came from Czechoslovakia, though there are Germans, Poles, Belgians, Hungarians, Netherlanders and French as well.

There has been magnificent response reported in blood donations at the Canadian Red Cross clinic. In the year 1943 there were 529,635 donations, compared to 5,325 in 1940. But in the craft, 16 motor torpedo boats for the first six months of this year 532,992 operations, and had 19 corvettes escorting invasion convoys as well as six of

HYDRO HOME ECONOMIST
Hello Homemakers! "Cut peelings as thin as possible to save food value. Better still, cook vegetables with their skins on." These words of advice have been spoken by many food authorities.

There is sound logic in such advice, because it has been found that there is more food value next to the skin in most vegetables.

(When the skin is left on during cooking, not only do you retain the precious mineral and vitamins directly underneath, but the skin acts as a protective covering, holding in the food value of the rest of the vegetable. Among the early winter vegetables this theory applies to potatoes, squash, carrots, parsnips and egg plant.

So for food value economy we recommend potatoes boiled or baked in their jackets; squash, baked or steamed in its shell, carrots and parsnips just well scrubbed, not peeled, before boiling, and egg plant cooked unpeeled, then stuffed for serving.

TOMATO STUFFED POTATOES
6 large baked potatoes, 4 tablespoons finely chopped onion, 5 tablespoons canned tomatoes, 3-4 teaspoon mustard, 1-3 teaspoon celery salt, pepper, salt.
Cut baked potatoes in half lengthwise. Scoop out the contents. Mash and add chopped onion, canned tomatoes, mustard, celery salt and salt and pepper to taste. Mix well and refill the potato shells. Return to the oven and reheat thoroughly. Yield: Six servings.

BAKED STUFFED EGGPLANT
1 eggplant, 1 cup soft, stale bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion, salt and pepper, 1 egg, well beaten, buttered bread crumbs.

Cook eggplant 15 minutes in boiling, salted water or ham stock to cover. Cut slice from top and carefully remove pulp with spoon, taking care not to break skin. Chop and add crumbs. Cook onion with butter five minutes. Add to pulp, season, and, if necessary, moisten with a little stock or water. Cook five minutes, cool and add egg. Refill eggplant, over with buttered crumbs, and bake 25 minutes in electric oven at 375 degrees F.

FRIED SUMMER SQUASH
Wash and cut in half-inch pieces. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dip in crumbs, egg, and crumbs again, fry in hot fat and drain.

CREAMED SALSIFY OR OYSTER PLANT

Wash and scrape the salsify, throwing it immediately into cold water to which a little vinegar or lemon-juice has been added, to prevent discoloration. Cut in inch slices and cook in boiling water until tender, adding salt just before cooking is completed. When tender, drain and combine with medium white sauce. Serve with tiny fried sausage balls.

STUFFED PEPPERS
Half cup canned tomato soup, 1-2 cup hot boiled rice, salt, 1 sweetbread, parboiled and cut in cubes, paprika, 6 green peppers.

Combine ingredients, except peppers, Parboil peppers, stuff, stuff with prepared mixture and bake 10 to 15 minutes in electric oven at 400 degrees F. Serve with tomato sauce.

CREAMED TURNIPS
Reheat three cups diced, cooked turnip in one cup of white sauce; 2 tbsps. bacon fat, 2 tbsps. flour, 1 cup milk, 1-4 tsp. salt, few grains pepper and a few grains nutmeg.

TAKE A TIP
The old-time potherbs have again come into vogue as part of a well-planned garden. Fresh or dried, leaves and flowers add interest to various dishes.

To Prepare Herbs for Storing:
After the dew has disappeared, pick just the young and tender leaves which appear prior to the plants flowering to allow a second growth of leaves as tender as the first.

To retain seed pods, gather the entire plant just before the seeds have matured. Caraway, dill, mustard and coriander are among the seeds used for seasoning.

Dry leaves in a very slow oven for 1-2 hours, or tie in a loose bundle and hang in the shade until all moisture is removed. Crush the leaves to a powder and pack in airtight container.

Seeds should be spread on a cloth rack and dried in the sun, turning daily.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. F. M. suggests: Two new sandwich fillings that are specials.

1. Mix 1-2 cup chopped hard-boiled eggs with 1 tsp. chopped olives or pickles and tsp. prepared mustard.

2. Blend 2 tbsps. prepared mustard in 4 tbsps. butter. A grand spread for meat or cheese sandwiches.

Mrs. W. G. suggest: A good vegetable plate: Make very thick white sauce using 2 cups milk. Add 1-2 tsp. mint, 1 1-3 cups each of cooked peas, carrots and corn. Spread in 2 pans. Grill. Cut in triangles, coat with crumbs and fry. Serve with sliced tomatoes, cucumbers and wedges of lettuce.

Getting Out of Breath Easily First Sign of Failing Heart

By Dr. J. B. Warren

When the heart begins to fail the blood in the veins does not move along quickly enough, there is slowness (stasis). The veins become enlarged and seem to stand out in the neck and arms.

Because there is so much stagnant blood in the veins there is bound to be great need for oxygen in the system to overcome this. Therefore patients who suffer with congestion of the vein system are without exception breathless on slight exertion. Getting out of breath easily is the first sign of failing heart.

Estonia, Land of Forests, Streams, Lakes, Marshes

The native Estonians are chiefly of Finno-Ugric stock, unlike the inhabitants of neighboring Latvia and Lithuania, but related to the Finns and Hungarians. It is believed they came originally from the Ural mountains, between Europe and Asia, with other tribes that wandered westward to settle finally in Finland and other European countries.

The tribes that chose Estonia for their home found a land of forests, streams, lakes, and marshes. Low and flat, it is especially suited to some kinds of agriculture, despite its northern climate, with snowfall often crowding the harvest season. About 70 per cent of the Estonians make their living by farming and dairying. Before the war butter, eggs, and bacon were exported to Estonia's best customers, Great Britain and Germany.

The chief crops are rye, wheat, barley, oats, flax and potatoes. Estonia lives up to an old description of it as a "fair land of potatoes and stone." Rock-dotted, it normally produces so many potatoes that nearly a ton could be given annually to each inhabitant. Forests are still abundant, and in peacetime provide many articles of export, including lumber, matches, furniture, carved toys. Oil shale is important in the national wealth, yielding asphalt, pitch, lubricating and fuel oil, some benzene and gasoline for motor cars and planes.

Rheumatic Fever Strikes Children, Impairs Heart

Rheumatic fever generally follows an illness of streptococcal type, such as scarlet fever, tonsillitis, pharyngitis and certain kinds of colds. Usually the rheumatic symptoms appear two or three weeks after a youngster has contracted one of the foregoing diseases.

Symptoms fairly typical of rheumatic fever are: inflammation of the joints which is shown by redness, swelling and tenderness in the joints; small hard lumps, or rheumatic nodules, formed under the skin mainly over bony surfaces and about the joints; and Saint Vitus' dance (chorea), due presumably to the effect of the rheumatic process on nervous tissue.

Whatever outward form the disease takes, its inner work is usually the same. It causes inflammation and swelling of the heart valves which regulate the flow of blood, and frequently as this heals, it leaves the valves puckered and inefficient.

Children are especially susceptible to rheumatic fever, but adults are by no means immune. In an average year it kills five times as many youngsters as infantile paralysis, and kills more people between the ages of 5 and 44 than pneumonia.

Mint Family

Perilla belongs to a group of the mint family of Asiatic origin. It is sometimes used as an ornamental plant because of the bright-colored foliage. The seed yields an oil with the quality of drying rapidly and is, therefore, utilized in the paint and linoleum industries where it is blended with other oils in the manufacture of various varnishes, enamels, linoleums, and allied products. In Japan it was used in the manufacture of paper umbrellas, oil paper, and artificial leather. Imports of perilla oil into the United States in 1935, amounted to approximately 75,000,000 pounds, valued at 16½ cents a pound. In Manchuria, perilla oil, or Su-Tzu as it is known, is used as a fuel for lamps; a vehicle for pigments especially on metal objects where its rapid drying qualities are needed; in some cases as a food; and as a fence row to protect edible forage crops from animals. Apparently the strong pungent odor of perilla was sufficient to act as a barrier against grazing livestock.

Wood Sugar

In the interval between the two world wars, Scholler of Germany worked out an improvement in wood hydrolysis technique. The subdivided wood waste is packed in large, tile-lined, steel cylinders that are stationary and equipped with a filter cone at the bottom. Successive batches of hot dilute sulphuric acid are introduced at the top of the converter under pressure and percolate through the wood mass to the bottom of the percolator where they are successively drawn off in the form of sugar solutions, cooled, neutralized, fermented to alcohol, and distilled. By carrying on this process through a number of acid batches, all of the cellulose and hemicellulose content of the wood can be converted to simple sugars and recovered in fermentable form with a very high yield.

Coconut Products

Coconuts supply the natives of Central America with a highly nutritive vegetable milk, important proteins and oils. The young leaves and shoots of the coconut tree are recommended as a green vegetable. The dried meat of the nut, copra, is the source of coconut oils used in making oleomargarines and other butter substitutes, candies and confections, as well as manufacturing candles and imitation waxes, perfumes, glycerin, cosmetics, various pharmaceuticals and an unknown number of other uses. The pulp of this copra makes the feed for livestock, particularly sheep, hogs, poultry, and cattle.

Basis For A Sound Nation

"Seventeen thousand homes destroyed by buzzbombs in one day." "Whole towns erased by artillery and retreating Germans." This is the news behind the stories of the recent great advances. Returning War correspondents say it's impossible to grasp the effect of all this destruction on the people and the countries.

Sound homes are the only sure foundation for a sound nation and a sound family of nations. The log house in the forest—the pioneer home is a symbol of all that is good in Canada. On these pioneer homes and the communities they formed have been built our Canadian way of life. Then, homes were the springboard from which a nation was built. Today they must become the springboard for building a new world.

During these last five years men and women have had something greater to fight for than ever before. Can that fighting spirit, which has given incentive, direction and purpose to so many people, be carried on after the cease fire is sounded? What would happen, if, for instance, it was put into fighting for sound homes and community life?

Here is a woman who feels, and has proved, that it can. Leaving her war job, she decided to go back home, not she said, "just for want of something better to do, but because I feel to build a sound home is my greatest personal contribution to building a new world."

"At first," she went on, "I found plenty of reasons why I did not want to stay home. I felt housework was beneath me. I did not want to be alone all day with nobody to talk to but myself. I was afraid of the drudgery that they tell us housework is."

She stuck to her decision, however, and friends who visited were enlisted in a fight for a sound community. Soon representatives of various walks of life in the city began to meet in her home to plan for the best interests of the city.

"As I scrubbed and cooked," she said "I was part of the battle for a sound city. There was no room for loneliness and frustration as I worked to make our home run the way we want the Government run."

Rain In Morning Failed
"This calling (farming) has seldom had a fair deal in Canada. One third of the people are occupied in agriculture and they receive one sixth of the nation's income. During the war a measure of equity has been secured. Let us hope that this will be maintained.
"I left the office of Premier of Manitoba, not in vain glory, but to help the farmers secure a fair share of the nation's income," he declared and added that if the responsibility of government should fall on his shoulders he would welcome the farmers' representatives in Ottawa.
The Progressive-Conservative leader concluded by expressing the hope that the people might continue to develop their community and fair.
Mr Bracken was introduced to the assembly by Dr J. H. Munro, reeve of Maxville, and a vote of thanks was moved by A. A. Fraser, reeve of Kenyon township.
In a short address, Dr W. B. McDiarmid, Liberal Member of Parliament for Glengarry, kindly referred to those residents of the county whose boys are serving in the armed forces. He named a number of families which have been bereaved by the war and extended heartfelt sympathy to them.
The Pipe Band of the Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa, entertained with some fine Highland airs while other entertainment was provided on the grandstand throughout the afternoon. A merry-go-round proved popular with the kiddies, while a wood-cutting contest also attracted much attention.
The horse classes were again strong but an especially fine showing was that of Holstein and Ayrshire cattle which rivalled the exhibits of last year's Fair. J. C. Watt, Lancaster, showed seven first-place Ayrshires while A. E. Garratt & Sons, Lancaster took honors in the Holstein classes with 10 blue ribbons. Entries in the Junior Farmer classes were again heavy.
Notable was the large entry list in the Bacon Hog Exhibit which has become one of the finest features of Maxville Fair. There were exhibits from widely scattered points in Glengarry and the neighboring counties, a fact which points to the importance being assigned by farmers to this unique section of the Fair at Maxville. The Export Bacon Show also attracted much attention and favorable comment.
A new feature among the fine displays in the Hall, was the exhibit by schools of the district of work by pupils in many lines of handicraft. It deservedly drew much attention.
To President Harold Blaney, Secretary-Treasurer Winter and all the officers of the Society must again go congratulations for a big undertaking well done.

Young Foods Better
For Best Freezing
In choosing fruits and vegetables for freezing, pick varieties which give a frozen product of high quality. Remember that tough mature products are not desirable. Meats and poultry should be young and tender. Slightly immature vegetables are much better than those which are old and starchy.
Immediately after harvest, prepare vegetables and fruits for freezing. If this cannot be done, store in a refrigerator. Sort, clean and wash vegetables and fruits in cold running water or ice water. Scald vegetables for the proper period. Make certain that the temperature of the scalding medium (boiling water or steam) is at least 210 degrees Fahrenheit. Chill vegetables to 50 degrees Fahrenheit, using an ample supply of cold running water or water containing ice.
Drain and package immediately in a moisture-vapor-proof package, taking care to fill each completely. Immediately place in the freezer or—if this is not possible—in a refrigerator, then transfer to the freezer without allowing the product to warm up. When freezing allow ample space in the freezer for air circulation around each package. Store at 0 degree Fahrenheit or below.

Interceptors Aid in Conserving Waste Grease
The war with its tremendous need for grease has focused attention on the service performed by the thousands of grease interceptors in hotels, restaurants, schools, hospitals, and other establishments where large quantities of food are served. The use of an interceptor offers the most convenient and effortless way to save the grease which is such an essential raw material for the manufacture of munitions, antiseptics and surgical dressings.
Americans on an average use 56 pounds of grease and oil per person, per year, in preparing food. Another 28 pounds, per person, per year, is used in the manufacture of soap, cosmetics, and medicines.
From 10 to 15 per cent of this total finds its way into the drain lines and sewers. The use of interceptors permits the saving of virtually all the grease that goes down the drain because the best of modern grease interceptors are so efficient that they will trap and hold about 93 per cent of the grease in the drain water.
Solomons' Snakes
The snakes of the Solomons are few. There are burrowing blind snakes with the eyes concealed beneath the scales. Small boas that reach a length of about three feet, with strongly prehensile tails, are remote relatives of the American boa constrictors. A green tree snake and a black and yellow tree snake are widespread in the New Guinea region. All these snakes are quite harmless. There are three kinds of land snakes that are undoubtedly poisonous, related by their fixed fangs to the front-fanged snakes of Australia. There is no record of any human being having been bitten by these snakes, and none of them are aggressive creatures. In such densely forested areas as the Solomons, snakes are usually found only by accident, or perhaps in jungle-clearing operations like the preparation of an airfield. The sea snakes that come ashore to lay their eggs in the rock crevices at high tide level are deadly poisonous, but they are never known to bite anything except the eels on which they prey. Even if roughly handled by fishermen, they do not bite at all.
Heavy Fleece
Ewes with heavy fleeces produce just as good lambs as those with light fleeces, and will add about $2.70 to the grower's revenue, says J. F. Wilson, professor of animal husbandry on the Davis campus of the University of California. Because wool is considered of secondary importance in the production of fat lambs, sheepmen tend to pay no attention to the fleeces grown by the mothers.
Disproving the theory that a heavy-fleeced ewe cannot raise a heavy lamb, Professor Wilson cites experiments which showed that Rambouillet ewes with fleeces weights of 13 and 14 pounds raised just as heavy lambs as others under the same conditions whose fleeces weights were but seven or eight pounds. With wool selling at 45 cents, this added profit, which is produced without any extra cost, makes a considerable increase in the total revenue from a band of sheep.

Farm Income
The cash farm income from the sale of cattle, calves, hogs, sheep and lambs was $5,960,000,000 last year. This sum represented 30 per cent of the total cash farm income of $19,678,000,000 obtained from 12 major farm crops, and was an increase of $1,086,000,000, or 22 per cent over the preceding year, and $1,765,000,000, or 172 per cent greater than the 1935-39 five-year average, according to an analysis of department of agriculture figures by the American Meat Institute.

May Double Quota In October

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 18.—Ontario's liquor quota for October may be boosted to 26 ounces, double the present allowance, it was learned at Queen's Park today.

Provincial authorities are reported unwilling to wait action by the Federal Government to remove their basic quota restrictions, and supplies, reports said, may permit the increase for October instead of waiting until December as first indicated.

A statement on the situation is expected the week-end, Sept. 30, and the new quota would go into force Monday October 2.

Under rationing reports have it the Ontario Liquor Control Board has built up liquor reserves sufficient to last for six or eight years dependent on sales not advancing too greatly. Liquor permit sales for five months of this year have gone over 1,500,000 compared with 1,250,000 for the whole of last year, so that the increased monthly quota will be based on the anticipated consumption of a total permit sale of probably 1,750,000.

Washing Pretties, Makes Curtains Last Longer

Washing is not merely a matter of prettifying the curtains. It is a means of making them last. The sheerer and more fragile your curtains are, the more necessary it is to protect them by washing them as soon as they need it.

Before putting curtains into cool sudsy water, loose dust should be shaken out. Let them soak for about 15 minutes, then squeeze out the blackened water and place in fresh lukewarm suds, either in the washer or tub. Run the washer about five minutes for fragile curtains; eight or ten minutes for the more durable ones. Before going into the washer, lay curtains should be put into thin pillow slips so the agitator will not break fine threads. For hand washing, a light rubbing against the washboard or between the hands may be needed to remove all the grime. Rinse, starch lightly, and dry on a stretcher or by hanging evenly over the line, being sure to square the corners.

Many curtain fabrics, especially those with a net or mesh weave, shrink during washing. This should be taken into consideration when they are purchased or made. If no such allowance has been made and the curtains have shrunk materially they can be re-lengthened by false-facing the top and bottom hems, or by adding fringe to the bottom hem, or by a bias fold of contrasting material.

Enact Laws to Govern Increasing Bicycle Traffic

Appearance of a growing number of bicycles on the nation's streets and highways since 1940, coincident with restricted motor vehicle transportation, has led many cities to enact ordinances and take other steps during this period to regulate use of these vehicles.

At present, three of every five cities in the country report an ordinance in effect for the regulation of bicycles according to information to the American Municipal association.

The information is based on an analysis by the American Automobile association of answers from 328 cities in a survey to determine the seriousness of the bicycle problem and steps taken to meet it. The survey indicated that about 54 per cent of the regulatory ordinances have been enacted since 1939.

Most of the cities require registration of bicycles, 118 requiring annual registration and 66 requiring registration whenever bicycle ownership changes hands. The registration fee charged most commonly is 25 cents, with 50 cents next in line. Three of the cities reported a $1 registration fee.

Food Yeast Processing

Food yeast has a protein value twice that of meat and, more important still, is exceedingly rich in B complex vitamins. It costs as little as 10 cents a pound, and can be easily manufactured, shipped, stored and used.

The present manufacturing methods developed in England in 1940. It is made from molasses and ammonia, and will soon be in full production in both this country and England. The process, a continuous one, consists of planting 125 pounds of this new yeast strain in a vat containing 7,000 gallons of water, a ton and a half of molasses and some ammonia. The yeast feeds on the sugar in the molasses, and the ammonia provides the nitrogen that the yeast converts into protein. Normally the yeast would ferment the sugar, resulting in alcohol, but in the aforementioned manufacturing process, the mixture is stirred by 1,000 cubic feet of air per minute, which prevents fermentation. The yeast multiplies itself about 18 times in weight in 12 hours and emerges from the vat as a ton of creamy mass which is then dried and ready for use.

Get Poultry House Ready For Winter

While poultry is on range, a fine opportunity is presented for making a thorough job of cleaning up and re-movating the empty poultry house. A clean poultry house helps to increase egg production insofar as the most comfortable hens lay the most eggs. To this end, the Dominion Department of Agriculture suggests clearing the poultry house of all its equipment. Everything should be taken out into the sun and disinfected. Roosts, nest and walls should be thoroughly scraped and scrubbed with a strong disinfectant. Roosts and dropping boards can be rid of mites by soaking them in a mixture of coal oil and crank-case oil. The inside of the poultry house may then be given a coat of disinfectant whitewash.

A good whitewash may be made by dissolving five pounds of lime in eight gallons of boiling water, add six gallons of hot water in which ten pounds of alum, and one pound of salt have been dissolved. Then add a can of lye to every 25 gallons of mixture and a pound of cement to every three gallons. The cement should be added gradually, and stirred thoroughly. A quart of cresol disinfectant may be used instead of the lye, but lye is preferable if the colour is to be kept white.

Some farmers have found it a good plan to let the clean-up poultry house stay empty for a time before allowing the re-entry of the poultry. A damp house is apt to be a cold place and poultry particularly need a degree of heat to do well.

Farm Root Cellar Not Costly To Make

Most of the loss and waste of vegetables in storage on the farm, as elsewhere, occurs through moisture and decay. Those losses may be prevented to a large degree by the proper construction and management of a root cellar. On farms where there is a root cellar, now is the time to make certain that the ventilating system will be in working order during the coming winter.

There are many ways of storing vegetables on the farm, but the root cellar has proved one of the best, particularly in districts where low temperatures are common. A root cellar is not costly to build, and what outlay there has been is soon repaid in the saving of roots and vegetables. Old lumber and materials at hand may be utilized.

To help the farmer who wishes to have a root cellar, the Dominion Department of Agriculture has available "Publication 708, A Practical Root Cellar." In it are specifications of plans for a farm root cellar, ground floor side and front elevations, together with information and directions as to material, location, temperature, humidity, and ventilation. A copy of the bulletin may be obtained by writing to Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Plane Production

In building a typical fighter plane, the first plane to come from the production lines, Model "A," took 157,000 manhours to build.

Tenth plane of that model took 59,000 manhours. By that time the engineers were beginning to discover ways and means to improve the ship, so the 13th plane was a slightly revised model—Model "B"—which still took 59,000 manhours to build.

Despite design and model changes and changes in specifications, the 100th plane took only 26,500 manhours to build and the 1,000th, only 7,800 manhours.

Keep it on the Victory March

Demands on Canadian gasoline have increased tremendously in five years of war. Yet not one aircraft has been grounded, a ship held in port, or mobile equipment brought to a standstill because of a lack of petroleum products.

Canadian tanks cover many miles a day as they crash through weakening German lines and these land leviathans like the one shown above can take 150 gallons of gasoline at a time. Thirty cylinder engines make frequent refueling necessary. This is but one of the many war machines that would be helpless and ineffective without ever present supplies of gas. For this this reason gasoline must continue to remain in the scarce list for the Canadian civilians.

Correspondence

41 Seneca St., Ottawa.
Sept. 18th, 1944.

News Editor,
Dear Sir:
Some weeks ago this writer in an article re the Bank Act asked what should there be to prevent the government from using interest-free money (debt free currency is the proper term) to build a water pipe line from the St. Lawrence to Alexandria and other Municipalities.

It sounded fantastic, didn't it? Foolish. Some may even have laughed. I do not so soon. Since then I have enjoyed a hearty chuckle myself.

Consider the following: The News last issue, "As a possible post-war measure the use of water from the St. Lawrence river to supply not only Alexandria, but many points in Glengarry was discussed in a general way. The plan would be feasible only with government assistance."

The Ottawa Citizen last June 21, "And he (the governor of the Bank of Canada) said quite freely that interest-free money might properly be employed by the government to aid our prosperity, which methinks, will sound like heresy to the financial experts and editors who have vowed such a thing impossible."

Rather convincing evidence that the suggestion contained more sense than nonsense. Yes, about one billion of interest-free money has been issued to help fight a war but apparently none to help build a water pipe line to protect the lives of Alexandria.

In peace time they say, "Where is the money to come from?" In war time millions and millions spent keeping a "Zombie" army in idleness while you people in the old home town must boil water for drinking purposes. What hypocrisy!

Yours truly,
ANGUS H. McDONELL.

Receives Consoling Letter From C.O.

Mrs. W. Sylvester Dwyer, the former Theresa McDonald of the Fourth Kenyon, has received the following letter concerning the death in action over sea of her husband, Pte. Dwyer
Saturday 22 August, 1944
Lincoln & Welland Regt.
Cdn Army Overseas.

Dear Mrs. Dwyer:
I realize that nothing that I may be able to write could in any way lessen your great sorrow, on the loss of your husband, but I feel however, that I would like to assure you that you are not alone in missing Bill. Your husband was in my Co's during all the time he was with the Lincoln & Welland and there was no more popular man than he in the whole outfit. I am proud to have known him. He died a brave man, and a good soldier in what might well be the great decisive battle of the war.

I returned to find the graves of our men after the last action, and your husband was buried, along with three of his comrades, by our Padre. He is buried in an orchard in a small French Village, but I believe that all of our men buried there will eventually be moved to an adjacent Canadian Military cemetery. You will be officially notified when this takes place.

All your husband's personal belongings have been forwarded to you through the record's office.

If there is any question that you think I could answer for you, please write to me, care of the Regt. and I shall be more than glad to try to answer it for you.

Again expressing my sincere sympathy to you, and your immediate family, I am,

Yours truly,
H. SWAYZE, Major.

August 28th, 1944
Dear Mrs. McCormick:—
May I express to you my deepest sympathy in the great loss you have suffered in the death of your son in action.

Your son's troop officer, Lieut. Dann told me he was one of his best N.C.O.'s and was a great aid to him at all times.

His courage and the outstanding example he set during the battle was responsible for a great deal of our success.

Your son is buried near Clair Tizon and I can assure you his grave is well taken care of by both ourselves and the French.

Any further information I can give will be gladly forwarded.

Again my very deepest sympathy to you.

Very sincerely,
J. H. BALDWIN, Major.
15th August, 1944
Normandy, France.

Dear Mrs. McCormick:—
I am writing to you on this day after your son Corporal McCormick was killed in action. My deepest and most sincere Catholic sympathies go out to you at this time.

Your son was killed in his tank near the little village of Clair Tizon, he died instantaneously. We had been ordered to hold a piece of ground and it was in great measure due to your son's forward reconnaissance of the ground that we were able to discover the enemy's intentions and dispositions and frustrate this attack.

Nothing can be said or done to console a mother in such a loss, but believe me I have been your son's troop officer for half a year and he was an exemplary Catholic N.C.O. and soldier. On Sunday, as usual he went to Mass and received Holy Communion.

May God console you in your great loss for I can say no more.

Sincerely yours,
NORMAN A. DANN, Lt.
