But and the Salmys sixe and thretti<sup>g</sup>, and the hundrid tenthe, and the hundryd enleueth, and the hundrid eijtent<sup>h</sup>, and the hundrid foure and fourtith, albeit that thei ben wryten with dyuerse metre, neuertelater thei ben weuyd<sup>i</sup> with<sup>k</sup> the abece of the same noumbre; and the Lamentaciouns of Jeremye, and the Preier of hym, and forsothe the Prouerbis of Salomon, in the eend, fro that place in whiche he seith, A strong womman who shal fynde, with the same abicees or markyngis ben noumbryd. Forsothe fyue dowble lettrys ben anentis the Ebrewis, Caph, Men, Nun, Phe, Sade; forsothe other wise thei wryten bi thes the bigynnyngis and the mydils of wordis, other wise the eendis. Wherefore and fyue bokis, Samuel, Malachym, Dabreiamyn, Esdras, Jeremye with Cynoth, that is, his Lamentaciouns, ben eymyd of sum men dowble bookis. What maner wise therfor two and twentielymentis ben, bi the whiche we wryten Ebrewly al that we speken, and mannus voyce with the bigynnyngis of hem is takun, so two and twenti volyms ben nounbryd, bi the whiche as bi lettris and bigynnyngis the tendre and the 3it sowkyng childhod of the ri3twise man is tau3t in the doctrine of God. The first book anentis hem is clepid<sup>l</sup> Bresith, which we Genesis seyn; the secoude, Ellesmoth, the which<sup>m</sup> Exodus is clepid<sup>n</sup>; the thridde is Vagetra, that is Leuytik; the ferth, Vagedaber, the which<sup>o</sup> we clepen<sup>p</sup> Noumbre; the fifthe Abdabarym, the which<sup>o</sup> is before notid Deutronomy. Thes ben the fyue bokis of Moyses, the whiche<sup>o</sup> thei clepen<sup>q</sup> proprely Thorath, that is, the lawe. The secoude ordre of the prophetis thei maken, and bigynnen fro Jesu<sup>r</sup>, the sone of Naue, the which<sup>s</sup> anentis hem is seid Josue Bennun.

Lord Tetragramaton in summe bookes of Grew expressid with olde lettris vnto this day. But also the salmes of the Sauter, as the xxxvj. salm, and the hundrid and x. salm, and the hundrid and aleuene salm, and the hundrid and xvij. salm, and the hundrid and xliij. salm, al be it that thei ben wryten with dyuerse metre, netheles thei ben wryten and wouen to gideris with the abece of the same noumbre; and the Lamentaciouns of Jeremye, and the Preier of him, and also the Prouerbis of Salomon, in the ende, fro that place in which he seith, Who shal fynde a strong womman, be noumbryd with the same abeces of merkyngis. Forsothe the fyue double lettris anentis the Ebrews ben thes, Caph, Men, Num, Phe, Sade; for bi these lettris thei wryten other while the bygynnyngis and the myddes of wordes, and in anothir maner the endis. Wherefor these fyue bookes, Samuel, Malachim, Dabre Jamyn, Esdras, and Jeremye with Cynoth, that is, his Lamentaciouns, ben gissid of sum men to be dowble bookes. Therfor as there ben xxij. lettris, by which we wryten in manere of Ebrews alle thingis that we speken, and mannes vois taken with the bigynnynges of hem, so xxij. volyms ben noumbryd, by the whiche as by lettris and bygiunnynges the 3onge tendre and 3it soukyng childhod of the ri3twise man is enformed in the doctryne of God. The first book anentis hem is clepid Bresith, whiche we clepen Genesis; the secoude, Elesmoch, which is clepid Exodi; the thridde, Vagetra, that is, the book of Leuyticy; the fourthe, Vagetaber, which we clepen Noumbre; the fyfte, Addabarim, the which is bifore notid Deutronomye. These ben the fyue bookes of Moyses, the whiche thei clepen proprely Thorath, what is to seie, the lawe. Thanne thei maken the secoude ordre of profetis, and bygynnen at Jhesu, the sone of Naue, that anentis hem is seid Josue Benun. Fro thennus thei ioyneden yn

Fro then thei vndurweuyden<sup>t</sup> Sophim, that is, the book of Jugis; and into<sup>u</sup> the same thei putten<sup>v</sup> in Ruth, for in the days of Jugis don is toold hir storye. The thridde folowith Samuel, the which we seyn the Firste and the Secounde of Rewmys; the ferthe, Malachim, that is, of Kyngis, the which is conteyned in the thridde and the ferthe volym of Rewmys; and mych betere it is to seye Malachym, that is, of Kyngis, thanne Malathot, that is, of Rewmes; forsothe not of many folk he discryueth rewmes, but of oon Yrael puple, that is conteyned in twelue lynagis. The fifthe is Ysay; the sixt Jeremye; the seuenthe Ezechiel; the<sup>w</sup> eiztith the book of the twelue prophetis, the which<sup>x</sup> anentis hem is clepid<sup>y</sup> Tharisastra. The thridde ordre weeldith Agiogropha, that ben holi wryten ensaumplis<sup>z</sup>. And the first book bigynneth fro Job; the secounde fro Dauyd, the which men holden in fyue dyuysiouns, and in o volym of Psalmys; the thridde is of Salomon, hauynge thre bokis, Prouerbis, that thei clepen<sup>a</sup> Parablis, that is, Masloth; the ferthe Ecclesiasten, that is, Coelech; the fifthe is Soonge of Songis, whom thei<sup>b</sup> before noten bi title Syrasrym; the sixte is Danyel; the seuenthe<sup>c</sup> Dabreiamyn, that is, the wordis of days, the whiche more nameli we mowen clepe<sup>d</sup> the<sup>e</sup> Cronycle of al Goddis story, the which book anentis vs is wryten Paralpomyon<sup>f</sup> the First and the Secounde; the eiztthe Esdras, the which and he<sup>g</sup> lijk maner, anentis Grekis and Latyns, in two bokis is dyuydid; the nynthe Ester. And so ben maad togidre the bokis of the oold lawe two and twenti, that is, of Moyses fyue, of Prophetis eizte, of Agiografis, that ben expresse exsaumplis to holynesse, nyne; al be it that summe wryten Ruth and Synoth among the Agiografis, and thes bookis in her noumbre thei wenen to be to<sup>h</sup> noumbred, and bi that to ben of the Sophim, that is, the book of Juges; and in to the same thei putten in Ruth, for in the dayes of Juges her storie is teeld to be fulfillid. The thridde book folowith, that is clepid Samuel, which we seyn the Firste and the Secounde book of Kynges. The fourthe is Malachim, that is, of Kyngis, which is conteyned in the thridde and the iiij. volym of Rewmes; and myche betere it is to seie Malachym, that is, of Kynges, than Maletoch, that is, of rewmes; for he discryueth not the rewmes of many folkis, but the rewme of o puple of Israel, that is conteyned in xij. lynagis. The fifte is Isaie; the sixte Jeromye; the seuenthe Ezechiel; the eizte in the book of xij. profetis, that anentis hem is clepid Tharisastra. The thridde ordre weeldith Agiografa, that ben hooly wryten ensaumplis; and the firste book bygynneth fro Job; the secounde fro Dauith, which men holden in fyue dyuysiouns, and in o volym of Salmes; the thridde is of Salomon, hauynge iiij. bookes, as Prouerbis or Parablis, that is clepid Maloth; the iiij. Ecclesiasten, that is clepid Coelech; the fyfethe is the Song of Songis, whom thei biforen seien bi title Sirassiryum; the sixte is Daniel; the seuenthe Debraiamyn, that is to seie, the wordis of daies, the which more kouthly may be clepid the Cronycle of Goddis stories; the which book anentis vs is wryten Paralipomenon the Firste and the Secounde; the eiztthe book is Esdras, the which also in lijk maner, bothe anentis Grekis and Latyns, is departid in to twey bokis; the nynthe is the book of Ester. And that is to seie, fyue booke of Moyses, and eizte bookes of the profitis, and neyne of Agiogroffis, that is to seie, of expresse ensaumplis of holynesse; al be it that summen writun Ruth and Synoth among the Agiografis, and thei weenen that thes bookes shulden be rekened in her noumbre, and be that to ben xxiiij. bookes of olde lawe; which the Apocalips of Joon bryngeth yn, vndur the noumbre of xxiiij.

oold lawe foure and twenti bookis; the whiche vndre noumbre of foure and twenti eldris the Apocalips<sup>i</sup> of Joon bryngith yn, honourynge the loomb, and offrynge her crownes, the cheerys born doun, hem stondynge before the foure beestis eyed before and behynde, that is, biholdynge into that that is passid, and into that that is to comen, and crynge with contynuel voyce, Holy, Holy, Holi, Lord God Almy3ti, that was, and that is, and that is to comen! This prologe of<sup>k</sup> Scripturis as an helmyd bigynnynge to al the bokis 'the whiche<sup>l</sup> fro Ebrewe we han turned into Latyn, may acoorde, that we mowen knowe that what euere thing out of thes is, it is to be put among the Apographe, that is, among tho thingis whos autor is not knowun of al holi chirch. Therefore Sapiens, that comounli is wryten in of Salomon, and of Jesu, the sone of Syrak, and the book of Judith, and Toby, and Pastor, ben not in the canoun. I foond the Fyrst book of Machabeis Ebrewe; the Secoude is Greke, that may be proued of that settynge. The whiche thingis whanne thei so han hem, thou reder, Y biseche thee, ne eyne thou my traueyle the repreuyng of oold men. In the tabernacle of God ech man offreth that he may; other men gold, and siluer, and precious stones; other men bise, and purpur, and cocko<sup>m</sup> offren, and iacynt. With vs is wel doon, if we offren skynnys and heeris of she geet; and neuertelater<sup>n</sup> the Apostle oure more<sup>o</sup> contemptible thingis shewith more nedeful. Wherfor and al the<sup>p</sup> fayrnesse of the tabernacle, and the distinccioun of the present, and of the chirche to comen, bi eche spicis is couered with skynnys, and with herys; tho that ben fowler thingis letten the brennyng of the sunne, and the harme of wederis. Thanne rede thow first Samuel, and myn<sup>q</sup> Malachym, myn forsothe, myn<sup>r</sup>; what euere thing forsothe ofter<sup>s</sup> turnynge and in amendeldris onourynge the lomb, and offrynge her crownes, with her cheris cast doun, and stondynge bifor the foure beestis that weren ized bifore and bihynde, that is to seie, biholdynge in to the tyme that is passid, and in to the tyme that is to come, and crynge with contynuel vois, without feyntise, Hooly, Holi, Holy, Lord God Almy3ti, that was, and that is, and that is to comen! This prologe of Scripturis as an helmed princepte mai acorde to alle the bookes which we han turned fro Ebrew in to Latyn, that we moun knowun that what euere wrytynge is out of these, is to be put amonge the Apocrifas, that is, amonge thilke wrytynge whos auctours ben vnknowe of alle hooly chirche. Therefore the book of Sapience, that comynly is wryten to be the book of Salomon, and the book of Jhesu, the sone of Sirak, and the book of Judith, and Thobie, and Pastor, be not in the canoun. I found the Firste book of Makabeus of Ebrews langage; the Secoude book is Grew, that may be proued of the sittinge and of the speche. The which thingis, siththe thei han in sich manere, thou reder, I byseche thee, deeme thou not my traueyle to be maad in repreuyng of old men. For ech man offrith in to the tabernacle of God that he mai, aftir his power; sum men offren gold, and siluer, and precious stoonys; othere men offren biys, and purpur, and scarled, and iacynt. With vs it is weel, if we offren skynnys, and the heeris of geet; and netheles the Postle schewith opynly, that oure foule thingis and contemptible ben more needful than sum faire thingis. Wherfore al the fayrnesse of the tabernacle, that was distinccioun and figure of hooly chirche that is now, and that is aftir to comynge, by alle her semelynesse is kyuerid with skynnys, and with heeris; and tho thingis that ben foulere letten the brennyng of the sunne, and the dispitousnesse of reynes and stormes. 11 It othinkith me, that I haue ordeyned Saul a kyng; for he hath forsokyn me, and my wordis he hath not fulfillid in dede. And Samuel is sory, and cryede

And whanne fro nyzt Samuel was rysen that he go to Saul eerli, it is toold to Samuel, for Saul was comen into Carmeel, and hadde arerid to hym an out shynynge tokne of victory in maner of a bow, and turned was passid, and goon doun into Galgala. Thanne Samuel cam to Saul, and Saul offred brent sacrifice to the Lord of the cheef of the preiys, that he brouzte fro Amalech. And while Samuel was comen to Saul, Saul seide to hym, Thou blessid of<sup>b</sup> the Lord, Y haue<sup>c</sup> fulfillid the word of 14 the Lord. And Samuel seide, And what is this voys of flockis that rengith in myn eeris, and of droues that I here?
 15 And Saul seith, Fro Amalech men han brouzt thes thingis, forsothe the puple sparede to the betre sheep and drouys, for thei shulden be offrid to the Lord thi God; the tother forsothe we slewen.
 16 And Samuel seide to Saul, Suffre me, and I shal shewe to thee what thingis the Lord hath spoken to me to nyzt. And

Therfor<sup>k</sup> Samuel cam to Saul, and Saul offride brent sacrifice to the Lord of the cheef thingis of preies, whiche he hadde brouzt fro Amalech. And the while<sup>13</sup> Samuel cam to Saul, Saul seide to hym, Blessid be thou of the Lord, Y haue fillid<sup>l</sup> the 'word of the Lord<sup>m</sup>. And Samuel seith, Whether wole the Lord brent sacrifices or slayn offryngis, and not more that it be obeishid to the voice of the Lord? Forsothe betre is obeishaunce than slayn sacrificis, and to take heed more than to 23 offre the fatnes of wetheris; for as synne of denyynge bi deuelis is to repugne, and as hidows trespas of mawmetrye to wiln not assent. Dauid sittynge<sup>s</sup> in the chayer, moost wise prynce among three; he is as a moost tendre litil werme of a tree, the which eiȳt hundrid slewȳ with a bure. <sup>9</sup> Aftir this Eliazar, the sone of his vncl<sup>ss</sup> Abohy; among the three stronge, that weren with Dauid, whanne thei reproueden to Philisteym, and thei ben <sup>10</sup> gederid thidir into bateil. And the strong veniaunce of the Lord 1 addide to be wrooth azens Irael†, and he stiride in<sup>o</sup> hem Daud, seiynge to Joab, Go thou, and noubre thou Israel and Juda. And the kyng seide to Joab, the 2 prince of his oost, Go thou bi alle lynagis<sup>p</sup> of Israel fro Dan 'til to<sup>q</sup> Bersabee, and noubre thou the puple, that Y wite the noubre therof. The synne of the puple for which it was punyschid, is not expressid in the text, but in the book of Ebreu questiouns it is seid, that this was herfor, for the puple azen stood not Danyth as it ou3te, in the dede of Vrie, but for this dede was priuy til it was al doon; the puple myste not withstonde Danyth in the synne to be lettid, and aftir that this synne cam in to the knowing of the puple, the puple ou3te not to punysche it, for the peyne was determynd thanne of God, as it is opin in xii. c. bi the

IN this thridde book of Kingis is contened the ending of Dauith, and the coronacioun of Salomon, 3it lyuyngge Dauith; and how the Lord magnyfyed Salomon with wisdom, and richessis, and in al prosperite, for the loue of Dauith his fadir, aboue alle kingis that weren bifor him and after, and 3af to hym pees on ech side. Also how the rewne was departid in the daies of Roboam, sone of Salomon, in to tweie kyngdoms, but the Lord reseruede the kyngdom of Juda to the generacioun of Dauith, for the merit of Dauith; and of alle kingis that weren afterward on Juda and on Israel, in to the transmygracioun of Babiloyne.

Achab hadde herd, that Naboth<sup>1</sup> is deed, he roos, and cam down into the vyn 3erd of Naboth Jezraelite, that he weelde it. 17 Thanne the word of the Lord is doon to 18 Helias Thesbites, seiynge, Rijs, and come down into a3en comynge to Achab, kyng of Irael, that is in Samarye; loo! to the vyn 3erd of Naboth he dessendide, that he 19 weelde it. And Achab seith to Helyas, Whether thou hast foundun me thin enemy? The which seide, I haue founden, forthi that thou be solde that thou 21 doo yuel in the sizt of the Lord. Therfor thes thingis seith the Lord, Loo! Therfor there was non other siche as Achab, that is sold that he do yuel in the sizt of the Lord; forsothe Jezabel, his wijf, stiryde 26 hym; and abomynable is maad, insomiche that he folwide the mawmettis that Amorreis maden, whom the Lord destruyde fro the face of the sonis of
