Common fines xijs [12s]

They present that they gave xijs [12s] as common fines on this day.

Amercements, xd [10d] penalty

Also that William ^{ijd [2d]} Wymond and John ^{ijd [2d]} Wanter made default, therefore they are amerced. And also that Adam ^{ijd [2d]} Warde and John ^{ijd [2d]} Gras and Stephen ^{ijd [2d]} Myles, tenants of the lord, have ruined buildings. Therefore they are amerced. And they were ordered to mend them before the next under a penalty for each of xld [40d].

Heriot one bullock, valued at viijs [8s]

It is presented that Richard Yarwey who held half a virgate of land and a sixteenth part of a perch of demesne land from the lord, ended his days since the last Court. After whose death a new heriot of one bullock, valued at viijs [8s] falls due to the lord, for which the bailiff is answerable to the lord. And afterwards Matilda Yarwey came and took the said half virgate of land and sixteenth part of a perch of demesne land from the lord; to be held by the same Matilda for the term of her life according to the custom of the manor. Rendering and making just as the aforesaid Richard customarily rendered and made. And she made fealty.

Amercements vs [5s]¹

Amercements ijs iiij [2s 3d]

Adam Warde the Constable presents that John ^{vjd [6d]} Wryghte drew blood from John Cartere the younger by the pledge of the Constable. And the Constable ^{ijd [2d]} has not. Richard Starlyng's amercement² and is himself amerced. And that John Cartere the elder justly [called] the hue on the said John ^{iiijd [3d]} by the pledge of the Constable and the Constable ^{ijd [2d]} has not had his amercement so he is amerced. and that Agnes ^{vjd [6d]} Blodlatere unjustly called the hue by a certain examination pledged by the constable and the constable ^{ijd [2d]} has not had her amercement, therefore he is amerced.

¹ These ameracements only total 60d (or 5s) suggesting that Adam Spedelyngton, Robert Myton and William Ryder did not pay.

² The roll does not tell us what this amercement was for. A Richard Sterling appears in rolls 5 and 6, when he paid 4d for brewing ale on each occasion.

And that Adam ^{jd [1d]} Warde justly [called] the hue on John Yarwey with the pledge of Adam [space] and that Adam Warde justly called the hue on Richard ^{ijd [2d]} Heyne by the pledge of the Constable and that the same ^{ijd [2d]} Richard contradicted the presentment in the presence of the steward and [is] in contempt of Court and is amerced.

Accepted from the Warrener ijd [2d]

The Warrener found that Adam ^{ijd [2d]} Warde trespassed in the lord's wood with his ox. He is amerced A [illegible]

Grant

Adam Spredelyngton came to this court and took one dovecot in Welyngton from the lord, to be held by the same Adam from the day of this Court until the feast of Michaelmas next following, paying viijs [8s] therefrom and he made fealty etc.

The xij [12] sworn men present that the tithing men, Constable and Tasters of Ale spoke well and faithfully and concealed nothing.
