

MODERN LANGUAGES (ML)

ML 150 Elementary Modern Language Abroad Class (3 credits)

Shell Course for language course taken abroad. This class has equivalency of levels A.1 and A.2 according to the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages. As such, it will be considered an elementary course.

ML 155 Elementary Modern Language Abroad Class 2 (3 credits)

Shell Course for language course taken abroad. This class has equivalency of levels A.1 and A.2 according to the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages. As such, it will be considered an elementary course. Please note, this class does not count towards any language minor.

ML 210 Modern Languages Intermediate I (3 credits)

Shell Course for language courses not offered at Bentley but accepted from other institutions, Advanced Placement, and Seal of Biliteracy.

ML 220 Modern Languages Intermediate II (3 credits)

Shell Course for language courses not offered at Bentley but accepted from other institutions, Advanced Placement, and Seal of Biliteracy.

ML 250 Intermediate Modern Language Abroad Class (3 credits)

Shell Course for language course taken abroad. This class has equivalency of levels B.1 and B.2 according to the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages. As such, it will be considered an elementary course.

ML 255 Intermediate Modern Language Abroad Class 2 (3 credits)

Shell Course for language course taken abroad. This class has equivalency of levels B.2 according to the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages. As such, it will be considered an elementary course. This did not count for any Spanish minor.

ML 403 Latinos in the U.S.A. (3 credits)

This course studies the historical, social and cultural development of Latinos in the United States, paying special attention to the three most important groups: Chicanos or Mexican-Americans, Puerto Ricans or Neoricans, and Cuban-Americans. Students will explore some key issues affecting the Hispanic communities; cultural stereotypes; individual and collective identity; bilingualism; political and social struggles, through the analysis of literary texts and other cultural productions (film, art, music, theater). As a final class project, students will be able to choose between a field-based research paper or a Service Learning Project.

ML 420 Internship in Modern Language (0 credits)

This course provides practical language and cultural awareness application to advanced students by allowing them to conduct business in a language other than English. The course consists of a part-time internship that students can complete in the fall, spring or summer. Whenever possible, it is expected that students will apply for an internship in a field in which they would like to work after graduation. Students may work closely with the professor in selecting and applying for the internship, they must have their selection of internship approved by a faculty member, and at the end of the internship they must show the professor proof that they completed the number of hours jointly determined by the student and internship employer. This course has no credits, which means that students must be paid for this internship, unless it is for a non-profit. This also means that students who are not U.S. citizens may not take this course, but should instead take ML421 for three credits.

ML 421 Internship in Modern Language (3 credits)

This course provides practical language and cultural awareness application to advanced students by allowing them to conduct business in a language other than English. The course consists of a part-time internship that students can complete in the fall, spring or summer. Whenever possible, it is expected that students will apply for an internship in a field in which they would like to work after graduation. In addition to the internship itself, students taking ML 421 will also have three formal meetings with the professor (two at the beginning of the internship and one at the end); work closely with the professor in selecting and applying for the internship; write reflective journals, complete assigned readings; write a final paper; and make a final presentation.