

Pink threadleaf coreopsis (Coreopsis rosea ‘American dream’): This species is very similar in appearance and form to Coreopsis verticillata except it has light pink flowers. Its flowers provide nectar and pollen for pollinators all summer and birds eat its seeds. Blooms June to September.

