ALABAMA RABBI NAMED U. S. CONCLAVE HEAD; HEATED DEBATE WAGED

World Jewish Congress
Action Put Over to 1933 Meeting

Discussion Is Bitter

Cincinnati, Nov. 11—(JTA)—Rabbi Morris Newfield of Birmingham, Ala., was re-elected President of the Central Conference of American Rabbis at its closing session here Sunday.

Rabbi David Philipson of Cincinnati and Rabbi Joseph Stolz of Chicago were named honorary presidents.

Other officers elected are: Rabbi Samuel H. Goldenson of Pittsburgh, vice president; Rabbi David Marx of Atlanta, treasurer; Rabbi Isaac E. Marcuson of Macon, Ga., recording secretary; Rabbi Harry Margolis of St. Paul, corresponding secretary.

The following were named members of the Executive Board: Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York, Felix A. Levy of Chicago, Leon Fram of Detroit, Samuel Markowitz of Fort Wayne, Ind., Edward L. Israel of Baltimore and Irving Reichert of San Francisco.

Debate Heated

After much heated discussion regarding the question of a World Jewish Congress, the conference finally adopted the resolution contained in the president's message. The message recommended that "the conference take this matter under careful consideration and instruct the Executive Board to place it on the agenda for the conference meeting in 1933 for definite action."

Substitute resolutions by Rabbi Jacob Marcus and Rabbi James Heller, were voted down. Rabbi Stephen S. Wise branded the resolution as mild and tepid and urged the conference to take immediate action which will help formulate united Jewish action. During the discussion Rabbi Harry Ettelson of Memphis, Tenn., took exception to "efforts to force hasty action by charges of timidity on a movement not scheduled to take place before 1934." Others were equally as vigorous in their opposition to any action that would be more binding than the one to which the conference committed itself.

Rabbi Wise was the chief speaker at Monday night's session and scored American Jewry for its un-Jewish assimilation in its efforts at adaptation.

"Judaism Foresworn"

"American Israel," Dr. Wise said, "developed too deep a passion to be like unto the majority of people in the midst of which it lived. Too much that was Jewish was foresworn; and under the aegis of liberation or emancipation, too much that was un-Jewish was assimilated. The most grievous effect of this was that we, as a people, made a minimal effort to effect and to influence, to pervade and to transform the people among whom we had come to find home and freedom and asylum.

"The time is come for us to behold the truth that we are not to suffer ourselves to be consumed and devoured, overborne and assimilated. Rather are we to be a constitutive and creative factor, a transforming force in American life. We must cease to think of finding shelter in America and begin to think of our people as enrichers and not beneficiaries of America. As a people, we have been too docile and acquiescent instead of being inflexibly self-insistent as Jews.

"The time has come for us to take to heart the truth that we may not be sure of a common faith, viewing the infinite varieties within the full circles of the Jewish creed; but, whether or not sure of our common faith, we as a people must insist upon a common fate, whether that fate be good or evil.

"We must no longer be ready to be liberalized into a Semitic version of Unitarianism, nor yet to be Jewish humanists with a Jewish accent,

Jewish Women's Clubs Take Part In Peace Appeal

32 Organizations Hold Armistice Day Mass Meeting to End War

Prominent Educator Speaks

Five Jewish women's organizations were among the 32 major Rhode Island units represented in the joint Armistice Day mass meeting held yesterday afternoon in Plantations Auditorium, observing the 14th anniversary of the close of the World War.

The meeting, originating years ago with the Providence section, National Council of Jewish Women, was conducted under the auspices of the Rhode Island committee on the cause and cure of war, an organization dedicated to world peace. Mrs. Samuel Wachenheimer, international relations chairman of the Council of Jewish Women, was chairman of the arrangements committee and Mrs. Louis B. Wolfenson was in charge of publicity.

Jewish organizations represented included the League of Jewish Women's Clubs, Council of Jewish Women and Sisterhoods of Temple Beth-El, Temple Beth-Israel and Temple Emanu-El. Henry D. Sharpe, Chancellor of Brown University, presided. The principal speaker was Lieut. Alden G. Alley, noted educator and student of international affairs, who spoke on "What Is Happening in Europe and What It Means to America."

Pointing out the closer relationship now between world powers than ever before, Lieut. Alley, who is professor of history at Dana College in Newark, N. J., stressed the importance of a world viewpoint as compared with the strictly nationalistic spirit that prevailed in the years preceding the war. Following his address, the gathering passed unanimously, a resolution endorsing President Hoover's plan for reducing by one-third the armaments of all nations.

In the list of patrons and patronesses were included Rabbi Israel M. Goldman, Mrs. P. Bruntschwig, Mrs. Edward Finberg, Mrs. Isaac Wolf, Mrs. Nat C. Cohen, Mrs. Samuel Blazar, Rabbi Maurice Mazure, Mrs. Leo Weiner, Mrs. Marion L. Misch, Mrs. Lyon A. Marcus, Charles C. Brown, Mrs. J. George Nathanson and Rabbi William Braude. Mrs. Abraham Mines was an honorary usher.

Jewish Candidates Affected by Mighty Political Overturn

WINS SENATE POST

PAUL ROBIN

Democrat, Captures G. O. P. District
In Providence

EMANU-EL TO HOLD SPINOZA SERVICES

Prof. C. J. Ducasse, head of the Department of Philosophy at Brown University, and Rabbi Israel M. Goldman, will be the main speakers at a special Spinoza Tercentenary Celebration at Temple Emanu-El next Friday evening, Nov. 18th.

This community-wide celebration in Providence is part of the world-wide observance of the three hundredth anniversary of the great Jewish philosopher, Baruch Spinoza. In all civilized countries, during the month of November, the life of one of the world's greatest philosophers is commemorated. Prof. Ducasse is a noted philosopher and popular lecturer and will speak on the subject, "Spinoza and the Ideal of Freedom." Rabbi Goldman will speak on "Spinoza and Judaism."

A cordial invitation is extended to the entire community.

Paul Robin Elected to State Senate From Providence

Brown and Bromson Win

The terrific political hurricane which this week swept the entire country, turning administrations topsy-turvy, driving the "ins" out and the "outs" in, is affecting tremendously Jewish office holders.

With Paul Robin as their standard-bearer, Democrats triumphed in the First Senatorial District of Providence, a section normally Republican. This district was reckoned as "safe" by the G. O. P., so that Senator-elect Robin's seemingly small plurality of 666 votes is to be discounted. The victory gives the Democrats a solid delegation from Providence in the upper branch of the Legislature.

Robin in Senate

Mr. Robin will be the only Jew in the State Senate, but he is not the first. Senator Isaac Moses, Democrat, who was not re-nominated, represented the city's Third Senatorial District for the past two years. Louis Shaw was the Republican candidate for this seat and he bowed to the storm. He lost by 3421 votes in a district that, even two years ago, was in the Democratic column.

In the House, Charles Brown, veteran Republican solon from the Fourth Representative District, returns for his fourth term. His plurality was 245 votes. Jacob T. Sydney, Republican standard bearer in the Sixteenth District, lost by the narrow margin of 117 votes, a close verdict that was tribute to the strong fight he put up while his party was taking a terrific trouncing.

Herman O. Rosensweig, seeking a House seat as a Republican in the Twenty-fourth District, was up against an almost hopeless task and made a creditable showing despite the 1658 plurality rolled up over him.

Bromson Returned

In the city elections, Sol Bromson, veteran Republican Alderman, achieved a Third Ward victory so decisive that the 3245 votes he amassed were greater than the combined votes of his opponents. Jewish candidates were unsuccessful in most other instances in the city, due, in Republican cases, to the great sweep of the opposition, and in Democratic instances, to caucus fights, which were carried over into the election, with the result that the number of candidates split the party vote.

Cantor Joseph Schlossberg, Republican, polled the highest vote in the Ninth Ward to enter the City Council. The Jewish vote in this section was split over his candidacy and that of Walter Cohen, Democrat, whose 2201 total was highest of the defeated candidates.

In the Eleventh Ward, Dr. Samuel I. Kennison lost where, normally, a Republican would have won. Councilman Frank Scoliard was re-elected in the Eleventh Ward on the Democratic ticket with a large plurality.

JEWISH CENTER, SALT LAKE CITY, EXEMPT FROM TAXES

Salt Lake City, Nov. 11—(JTA)—The Salt Lake County Commission has ruled that the Jewish Community Center of this city "is a charitable, religious and fraternal institution and in use as such," and, therefore, not subject to taxation under the laws of the county and state.

The amount of $1,831.30 charged to it on the tax rolls for 1932, has been stricken out. The county authorities made their decision on recommendation of one of their special tax investigators.

Two Great States Name Jewish Chief Executives; Lehman and Horner Carry New York and Illinois

New York, Nov. 11—(JTA)—Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, noted philanthropist, was elected Governor of New York, and Judge Henry Horner of Chicago was elected Governor of Illinois in the Democratic landslide which elected Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt the thirty-second President of the United States.

Lieut. Gov. Lehman broke two records in Tuesday's election. He became the first Jew to be elected the Chief Executive of New York and the first candidate to win an election by so large a number of votes.

Lieut. Gov. Lehman's popularity was virtually matched in his own state by Judge Horner. Judge Horner, too, will be the first Jew to sit in the executive mansion in Illinois.

Both Colonel Lehman and Judge Horner carried their states by larger pluralities than Governor Roosevelt.

Colonel Lehman led Governor Roosevelt by an indicated plurality of 250,000 and Judge Henry Horner by a plurality of 474,402.

Colonel Lehman defeated his Republican opponent, Colonel William Donovan, by a plurality of 887,000, a record in New York State, while Judge Horner led his opponent, former Governor Len Small, by 550,000 votes.

The selection of Colonel Lehman and Judge Horner makes the number of Jewish Governors in the United States four. New Mexico re-elected for a second term Governor Arthur Seligman, who first assumed this office in 1930. Oregon, too, has a Jewish Governor in the person of Julius L. Meier, who was elected in 1930.

Colonel Lehman, who is 54 years old and a native of New York City, comes from a distinguished Jewish family. A brother, Judge Irving Lehman, has served on the bench of New York State courts since 1908.

Colonel Lehman came to his first political office in 1928 after achieving a wide reputation which reached across the Atlantic as philanthropist and a Jew to whom nothing affecting the welfare of the Jewish people was alien.

In the four years since he first assumed office, he has achieved through his public acts, a reputation for progress and humane leadership. The complex character of his duties, which have frequently called upon him to act as Governor of the State, have not caused Colonel Lehman to give up his affiliations with local, national and international endeavor.

In 1930, Colonel Lehman was awarded the Zeta Beta Tau medal as the Jew who has done most for Jewry and Judaism.

Colonel Lehman was one of the organizers of the Joint Distribution Committee, which has spent close to $100,000,000 in relief and rehabilitation work in Europe and Palestine, and served as Chairman of its Reconstruction Committee.

He was also one of the leading spirits in the establishment of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, of whose Council he is a non-Zionist member. Among the offices he holds are that of Vice President of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, and he is associated with the American Ort, the Jewish Colonization Association, the American Jewish Joint Foundation in Europe, the Palestine Loan Bank, the Russian Agricultural Fund and the Baron de Hirsch Fund.

Other organizations in which he plays a role are the National Labor

How chic it was in 1912!
...but you wouldn't wear it today

..yet many kitchens you see are just as out-of-date

WHAT a sensation such a hat would create on the streets today! Yet, it's no more surprising than a 1912 kitchen in the eyes of a woman who has an all-electric one.

If your kitchen is one of those left over from the days when housekeeping was an all-day job, it's time to electrify. And the first step to take is to install an electric range.

With all its economies it costs no more to cook electrically. The electric range will cook your meals as quickly as any stove can do it. And it gives superior results because you lose less through shrinkage, and retain more of the healthful vitamins in food. Electric cookery is modern cookery.

JEWIS IN POLITICS

A non-partisan survey after the political storm that struck Rhode Island and the nation this week cannot but give great comfort and encouragement from a Jewish viewpoint—first, in the unusually large number of Jews who sought to enter the governmental field; and second, in the success of those who had been entrusted with the duties of government.

Until this year it was notable that capable Jewish men and women shunned politics and confined themselves to business success. Those who did seek political office were few; of them, however, not a few soon became outstanding leaders. Jewish leadership in private business has been unquestioned. Jewish shrewdness, executive ability and individuality would enrich any government and it augurs well for any community when so many Jews are willing to give of themselves and to serve the public. Win or lose, it is a good sign, especially when younger men are showing such active interest.

Of lesser importance but no less pleasing, is the fact that all those Jewish candidates in Rhode Island seeking re-election weathered the storm. Viewed generally, this election was not a contest between parties or candidates—it was an expression of an overwhelming desire for change. By and whole, party barriers were battered down; laboriously built up political organizations were torn asunder; the "ins" were thrown out and the "outs," of whatever political faith, rode in on the wave. In the overturn, Jewish office holders in Rhode Island stood fast and even new recruits were added to the ranks.

Just what effect the overturn will be on those Jews who hold appointive jobs in the city and state cannot yet be assessed. With the city's political complexion comparatively unchanged, there is little to worry about there. In the state, however, a Democratic Governor is hardly to be expected to re-appoint Republican incumbents in the various state departments. All parties adhere strictly to the old axiom, "To the victors belong the spoils." The Republican party having salvaged the State Senate, and the lower branch of the Legislature being a 50-50 proposition unless recounts upset the present status, an interesting duel looms. Upon the outcome rest a number of jobs now held by Jews, and the hopes of other Jews who aided in the campaign.

NEW POLICY

Beginning with next week's issue, The Jewish Herald will reach its subscribers Friday morning instead of Saturday as heretofore. The new policy is undertaken at the request of many organizations with which The Jewish Herald is glad to co-operate. Advertisers, too, have advised that the earlier publishing date will enable them to get their products before the readers more advantageously.

Tidbits and News of Jewish Personalities
By DAVID SCHWARTZ

The Curtain Drops

Well, the great show is over. (Or will be when this appears in print). The winners may rejoice in their winnings and the defeated have all the philosophical consolations of adversity. Sweet are the uses of adversity, ad astra per aspera, whom the Lord loveth he chastiseth, etc., etc. If calm still does not come to their nerves, let them intone to themselves the little couplet of F. P. A. written during the late Sirovich incident:
Life is so mysterioivich
Don't take it so Sirovich.

Slaying the Bull

For after all, the reason why the Founding Fathers in their wisdom provided in the Constitution of the United States for this great quadriennial bout was merely to give the public a good show.

Let Hemingway delight in telling how that little Brooklyn Jewish boy, Sidney Franklin, slays the bull before the dark-eyed señoritas of Mexico and Spain.

I get just as much pleasure hearing that little Catholic boy, Al Smith, slaying the bull over the radio. And would you presume to tell me that any bull fight was more gory than Carter Glass's last speech? Why, as I listened to it, I could see votes of Republicans being slain from the rock-ribbed coast of Maine to the actress-ribbed beaches of Hollywood.

Warburg's Warning

And since this is a Jewish column, so to speak, it might not be amiss to express a little gratification at the nice advertisement Senator Glass gave our brethren, when he pointed out the late Paul Warburg had sounded the bell in advance about the stock market crash. Mr. Hoover had said, you remember, that there were no Democratic Jeremiahs pointing to the impending doom. Senator Glass challenged this statement. He himself had warned against the inevitable crash, and above all, he said, Paul Warburg had raised a clarion note. Here is what, it seems, Mr. Warburg had said:

"If the stock exchange debauch is quickly arrested by prompt and determined action, it is not too much to hope that a shrinkage of inflated stock prices may be brought about without seriously affecting the wider circles of general business. If orgies of unrestrained speculation are permitted to spread too far, however, the ultimate collapse is certain, not only to affect the speculators themselves, but also to bring about a general depression involving the whole country."

Democratic Showmanship

I think it must be admitted that for plain showmanship, at any rate, the Democrats gave the better performance. Al Smith, John Davis, Newton D. Baker, Owen D. Young and Walter Lippmann are much easier to listen to or to read than Pat Hurley, Cal Coolidge and Stimson.

It is a fact that even the great corporations, who vote Republican, prefer Democrats as exponents. You remember that eight years ago, John W. Davis was the Democratic candidate. The Morgan interests supported Coolidge, but they hired Davis as their attorney.

A Shadchen Story

If you are conservative, I offer you the consolation that you need not worry about any parties getting over radical in office. After election, they all steer a pretty safe middling course.

It reminds me of the story of Jake who went to a shadchen.

"What have you got in the way of brides?" he asked.

"Well," said the shadchen. "I have a very rich but homely young woman from the East and a very pretty young woman from the West Coast." "Haven't you got anything, maybe, from the Middle West?" asked Jake.

A Rival Wife

A geologist, or some sort of ist from Detroit, sends me a note, which I have misplaced, pointing out the fact that the greatest of primitive behemoth was called Gigantic-tsauros or something of that sort.

Interesting and perhaps more interesting is the strange derivation of the Hebrew word "tsauros," meaning troubles, originally meant "rival wife." In other words, the early Hebrews thought the climax of troubles was reached when you had a rival wife. Personally, I can conceive of greater troubles, but maybe it's because I am so innocent.

Izzy and O'Neil

This is a great year for Einsteins. Even Izzy Einstein is having his break now. He has turned author with his opus, "Prohibition Agent No. 1." Izzy is the former post office clerk, who put the drama into dry raids. You recall, he would dress up now as a rabbi, as a stock broker, an impresario, or a butter and egg man, and by these disguises, obtain his entry into select "speaks."

Izzy proved that it was all in the appearance. That fine feathers make fine birds.

Izzy was a sort of living demonstration of Eugene O'Neil's philosophy of life, being all a matter of masks.

Trotsky to Lecture

A lecture bureau is seeking to induce Trotsky to come to America for a series of lectures. They are offering him, it is reported, $1000 a lecture.

It's a top notch price for lectures, but if Leon takes my advice, he'll hold out for more. Why, I'd be willing to offer Trotsky $1000 for just letting people look at him for an hour. And I believe I could make $5000 on it, at that.

Even Al Jolson and Eddie Cantor often get as much as $1000 for a single appearance. "Chicken feed," as Al Smith says.

Fishman and the Old Astor

Jacob Fishman, editor of the Jewish Morning Journal, was recalling the other day pleasant memories he had of some of the old-time saloons—particularly of the old Astor bar.

Newspapermen, as a whole, I suppose, are the most anti-Prohibition crew there are. I remember that the very first newspaper experience I had was on a paper, the editor of which told me that he wouldn't hire a man unless he drank.

I told him that I could qualify by the fact that I generally partook of two beers per day, and if necessary in the interests of better journalism, I would be glad to increase my rations or rather notations.

Einstein and Darrow

But Mr. Fishman, I believe, was not thinking so much of the drinks as of the saloon itself. It provided a social influence that is very much missed in America today. I imagine that there is nothing which the American in Europe regards with so much envy as the cafe where men and women linger and chat over a glass of wine. Professor Einstein, you remember, in a recent article in an American magazine, made the same point. And the point is emphasized by Clarence Darrow in an article in the American Spectator. He points to the fact that in his experience the most dangerous of drinkers was the still drinker, the drinker who drank alone. The "still," naturally, developing in the drunkard species.

And I wonder, if in all our talk against the return of the saloon, we are not catering to the same end. Whether you call it saloon or some other name, is immaterial.

CONFESSES PLOT

This is Kenneth Watson, a guard in the prison at Jackson, Mich., who, with Archie C. French, another guard, confessed to one of the most fantastic stories of intrigue ever to come out of an American prison. Watson and French have signed confessions that they plotted with Edward Hall and James Cross, two long-term convicts, to dynamite the prison in order that the two prisoners might escape. The guards said that the prisoners would then rob a "bank in a small Missouri town" and turn the proceeds over to the two guards as reward for their action. Hall and Cross also admitted the plot.

Miriam Hospital Patient Expresses Gratitude to Superintendent Hoffman

The following was presented to Charles M. Hoffman, Superintendent of the Miriam Hospital, by a patient discharged recently:

Good-bye, I am leaving Miriam, I am leaving and going home; But I'm taking a few things with me, To think of when alone.

I'm taking a few glad hand shakes, And the oft' spoken, "How are you?" "Have you been here long?" "Are you served all right?" "Are the nurses good to you?"

"Do you get what you want?" "Is your food all right?" "And what can I do for you?" These are some of the splendid things I'm taking home from you.

I'm taking them home to think about And be glad that I chose to come here; For I dread it some, I must confess, As would you, in my place I fear.

But now, I can say, "God Bless You!" From the Superintendent down; All through the line may He keep you Strong and true and sound Ready to give the helping hand. To the weak and faltering one May the hand of the "Great Physician" Merit you all a "Well done."

NEWS OF INTEREST TO MEN

COLLEGE — COUNTRY CLUB — SPORTS

SPORTING WORLD

NEWS WRITTEN FOR THE JEWISH HERALD BY GEORGE JOEL

ARE ATHLETICS IMPORTANT?
When I went to college, it's almost ten years ago now, athletics were just about the beginning and ending of everything. When college opened in the fall it was football, during the winter months, basketball, and in the spring, baseball and lacrosse. What the college teams were doing was vital news to the group of Jewish boys who lived in my fraternity house. A topic of conversation that was inexhaustible.

During the fraternity rushing season, when boys were being given an idea of the importance of the fraternity scrap book, in which were kept the records of the fraternity's athletics much also was made over the fact that during that year so many men had played in the football team or baseball team and that so and so was manager or assistant manager of this or that. Never in all the time that I was in school did I hear anyone try and impress a new boy with the scholastic prowess of any member. In fact such things were considered too trivial to even mention.

How important athletics were and what the new men were expected to do can best be illustrated by what happened to two young Freshmen, who, on the Saturday afternoon a minor football game was being played decided to stay in their rooms and study instead of going and cheering the big black, blue or green team to a well-earned victory. When the rest of the brothers returned from the game and found these two scoundrels in their room studying, the entire chapter was stunned. This was treason of the first order. It was incomprehensible. The boys were severely reprimanded and later a special meeting was called and these Freshmen were paddled. They never missed a game. Unfortunately at the end of their first year both flunked out—but they knew all the cheers.

There was never any rest. Football is an attractive sport and it didn't take much urging to get a 100 per cent turnout for the games, but when the basketball season came around it was different. Basketball, played in the winter months, conflicted with examinations and many of the boys wanted to catch up with their work. The head of the fraternity house put a stop to that and boys were literally forced to turn out and crowd into the gym once or twice a week.

Then there was another angle to the situation, especially among the Jewish fraternities. Sensitive to criticism these Jewish groups liked to have a big turnout for tryouts, that is they wanted as many boys as possible to go out for some form of athletic activity and woe to the fellow who could do something in an athletic way, but who refused to play. I knew an able tennis player, whose school days were made miserable because he refused to try out for the tennis team. Another, who played golf, and wanted to turn professional, so that he could enough money to pay his way through college, was ordered to desist from his money laden intention and go out for the college team. He resigned his fraternity affiliations.

The fault with this system was not wholly the fraternities. It was the college spirit inspired from above (not God—but the Prexy), but I understand that in these troublesome days things have changed. It was the student who did it. The commercial aspect of college sport was the main cause for this change in attitude. As soon as the public were permitted to take an active part in college sports—permitted to buy tickets, taught the college cheers, etc., the college man realized that he had lost that feeling of exclusiveness. A snobbish thing, perhaps, but it did its work. The blase ideal then became the mark of the college man. He had been blase about his appearance, (baggy trousers, no garters, etc.), his work and it was a simple matter to transfer this to his concept of athletics. Later on this blase spirit turned to one of cynicism, a natural attribute of youth, and the importance of college athletics to the students anyway took a long step backward. As I wrote last week the present depression played a lion's share in putting athletics where they belonged.

Another important factor that can't be overlooked was the rise of golf and tennis. Here were two games that anyone could play. Boys found that it was more fun going out on the links and courts for an afternoon of exercise than sitting in a stadium watching twenty-two big fellows wallow around the turf. The final result has been a large falling off in the spectacle sports. And it is now almost possible for a young man to attend a college and also attend to his studies without being considered some kind of a queer duck.

CHATTERINGS

I guess this editorial column has been inspired by the recent election. All that speech making would have its effect on a susceptible fellow like myself.

Red Grange adds his voice to that of Benny Friedman in saying that professional football is a better and harder game than the college variety. I agree.

"Tuss" McLaughry to Speak at Emanu-El Men's Club Meeting

In line with the outstanding schedule for the current year, the Men's Club of Temple Emanu-El has arranged a unique program for Thursday evening, Nov. 17, at 8 o'clock, when the second meeting will be held in the Temple Vestry.

It has been the aim of the officers arranging for the entertainment at these meetings to obtain speakers who will talk about matters that are of current and lively interest to the community and to men particularly. It is with great pride and satisfaction, therefore, that the club officials announce that the main speaker for the next Thursday's meeting will be De-Ormond McLaughry, better known to the city of Providence as "Tuss" McLaughry, chief coach of the Brown football team. In view of the fact that the Brown Bears have played such brilliant games this year, a talk by the coach of the famous "Iron Men" is probably the finest attraction of the moment that is available. Coach McLaughry accepted the invitation to speak at the Men's Club without hesitation, and those who attend will be assured of an unusual evening's entertainment. The subject of the address will be, "Football and Sportsmanship."

All Providence men are invited to come to the meeting, and club members are urged to bring their friends. It is not necessary to belong to the Temple congregation in order to belong to the Men's Club of Temple Emanu-El. Musical numbers will be rendered and refreshments will be served.

The committee of arrangements consist of the club officers Nat C. Cohen, President; Sam Rosen and Morris Sydel, Vice Presidents; Charles Strasmich, Recording Secretary; Herman Aisenberg, Treasurer; Louis Abedon, Financial Secretary, and Martin Zucker, Corresponding Secretary, and the Entertainment Committee, headed by Michael Tieman, Chairman.

Brown Team, Sole N. E. Unbeaten Aggregation, to Meet Columbia Saturday

No Eastern team has been called upon to face a more formidable array of title contenders than Brown, for a Bruin eleven that has already toppled five unbeaten teams in Harvard, Yale, Holy Cross, Springfield and Tufts, still must face the unbeaten arrays from Columbia and Colgate before this season closes.

The 10 to 7 verdict over Holy Cross took a toll in bruises that may cut into the strength of the squad that will meet Columbia, but the preparation for the Lions reached its second day with indications that most all of the Bruins would be available. Dan Fraad, George Lear, Ed Gilmartin, Joe Buonanno and Capt. Bill Gilbane all came out of the encounter more or less bruised and bumped, but all expect to be ready for major assignments in New York Saturday.

Marshall Rieck, 255 pound Sophomore tackle, who comes from Arlington, N. J., and who is one of the largest men in football today, played a fine game when he relieved Roland Brown at tackle, and advanced his status considerably in that one game. Roger Offen, the Wallingford, Conn., Sophomore, who was held by injuries through two trying weeks, has come forward with a rush and is crowding Dan Fraad, the big Brooklyn yearling for a place at guard.

"Tuss" McLaughry has worked his backs along together, with Bob Chase, Capt. Bill Gilbane, Ed Gilmartin, Dave Allen, Joe Buonanno and Frank Gammino all playing major roles, and it is likely that Guy Burt and Bill Karaban, the two Sophomores, and Penn Hargrove, the Senior, will be added to that list for the heavy going that the Bruin will encounter this week.

PLEASE WRITE PLAINLY

Letter to the Editor

Editor, The Jewish Herald:—

Permit me to thank you for sending a representative of your paper to interview me relative to new developments in the affairs of the coming Jewish Home for the Aged Ball to be presented in the Biltmore Hotel Ballroom, Christmas.

The Jewish Herald deserves the gratitude and merits the support of the entire Rhode Island and Southern Massachusetts Jewry for its whole-hearted co-operation in every worthy movement.

Now, let me return to your representative. The first question he put to me was in the form of a riddle, namely: "When is an announcement not an announcement?" I must confess that solutions to conundrums do not linger in my cranium, hence I was obliged to appeal to your representative to answer his own question.

"An announcement is not an announcement," said he, "when, for instance, it is given out that a renowned broadcasting and recording orchestra will furnish the dance music at the Jewish Home for the Aged Charity Ball and the identity of that orchestra is withheld from the public."

I was exceedingly glad that that timely subject was brought up, inasmuch as it gave me the desired opportunity to repeat the explanation why the identity of the orchestra in question is not revealed at this time.

Nevertheless, in a moment of weakness I succumbed to the temptation of taking down a "wise-cracking" reporter a peg or two, so I said to him: "You remind me of the restaurant keeper who doesn't eat his own food. Why don't you follow the example of the Herald's readers and read every news item in your own paper? Had you done that you would know that in a recent issue I said explicitly that out of consideration for the sponsors of a dance that will precede the Home Ball I shall withhold the identity of the chief attraction until after that dance is held. Moreover, since that time I learned that another dance will also precede the Home Ball, and I am alluding to the dance of Temple Beth-Israel. The other one is, of course, that of Temple Emanu-El. Believe me, brother, both Temples need the mezonim and the Lord knows—as well as I do—that they certainly deserve to get it."

"Why mention the orchestra at this time at all? Merely to encourage the faithful ones who PUT AWAY A NICKEL A DAY for tickets. But you may assure the editor that I shall supply him with the identity of the famous orchestra in question in time for the The Jewish Herald to spread the glorious news in its Nov. 25th issue, or the day after the Temple Emanu-El dance is held.

"You may also assure all the folks that no expense will be spared to establish the Jewish Home for the Aged Charity Ball as THE event of the year. With Louis Frank Rosenberg as Chairman of the Ball Tickets Committee and with Sam Magid as his Chavor, just watch the 'fur fly.'"

The flag was designed by the Filipino General Aginaldo in 1896 and is now used in the same manner as the state or territorial flags in the United States. MOUNT SINAI HOSPITAL HAS $168,519 DEFICIT

New York, Nov. 11—(JTA)—The 79th annual report of Mount Sinai Hospital, made public by George Blumenthal, President, states that the year of 1931 closed with a deficit of $168,519, due chiefly to the increased demand for free service and a falling off of receipts from paying patients and of gifts.

The deficit would have been far greater had it not been for the receipt of $411,917 from the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies and $47,696, the hospital's share in the annual collection of the United Hospital Fund.

The report expresses gratitude for the continued support of the Federation and urges friends of the sick poor to "stand by the United Hospital Fund, thereby enabling it to continue the great work to which its energies are being devoted."

Why take a chance on worn, smooth, uncertain tires when you can buy Firestone non-skid safe, proven tires at lowest prices.

Firestone Tires are designed to grip the road. The non-skid tread is thick, tough and gives 25% longer non-skid safety.

Glen Schultz only last month set a new world's record in climbing Pike's Peak, in 16 min. 47 sec. His top speed was 78 miles per hour—negotiating many hair-raising turns where a skid or a tire failure meant death.

It's that kind of stamina that makes Firestone Tires safe and economical for you.

That's why race drivers use Firestone Tires. They won't risk their lives on any other make.

No tire in the world has the Firestone endurance. That is because Gum-Dipping, the patented Firestone process, transforms the cotton cords into tough, sinewy units.

The Firestone tread is designed with angles and projections to give the maximum traction and non-skid. Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires hold all world records on road and track for Safety—Speed—Mileage and Endurance.
