O'Connor favors governor-appointed judges

Former justice on judicial reform panel for W.Va.

Staff, wire reports

Retired U.S. Justice Sandra Day O'Connor recommended Monday that West Virginia allow its governor to appoint judges, rather than hold partisan elections with money-fueled campaigns that can create conflicts of interest.

WHAT AREA residents think about judicial reform. Page 2-A.

O'Connor made no secret of her distaste for the election of judicial officers in remarks that opened the latest meeting of the state's Independent Commission on Judicial Reform, which met at the WVU Law School on Monday.

Gov. Joe Manchin appointed the committee to review a number of potential changes to the state's court system. The commission previously met, without O'Connor, in Huntington and will meet in Charleston next week. A final report is due Nov. 15.

O'Connor, honorary chair of the study panel, recalled running under such a system for an Arizona trial court seat in 1975. She found her campaign, and those of other judicial candidates, fielding contributions from lawyers as well as individuals or interests who might someday end up before them in court.

"I saw it firsthand. I didn't

Summer comes to an end today

Sept. 22 marks autumnal equinox

FOR A COMPLETE weather forecast, see Page 10-A.

The Dominion Post

For those who enjoy the minutia of life, say goodbye to summer and hello to autumn at exactly 5:18 p.m. today.

That's the autumnal equinox, the time of year when the northern hemisphere welcomes fall and the southern hemisphere welcomes spring, AccuWeather Meterologist John Dlugoenski said Monday.

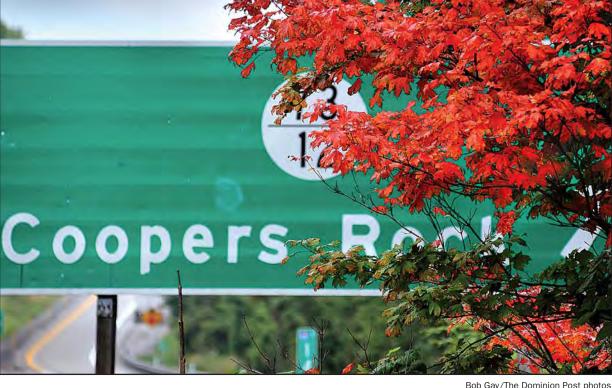

The autumnal equinox is the time when the sun is directly over the equator.

Today may be a day of transition for seasons, but it's not going to be the nicest of days, he cautioned. It will be somewhat humid today, with some sun, but there is a chance of a storm or shower at any time. The high will be about 78.

The rest of the week, through the end of the 68th annual Buckwheat Festival in Kingwood, "is going to be pretty nice," Dlugoenski said. "It will stay pretty warm through the end of the week, and might start to cool off on Sunday."

Wednesday and Thursday will be warm and mildly humid, he said, with highs around 82. That's because we'll see a little more sun mixed with clouds. There's still a chance of some storms, but nothing extensive, he added.

"It will be pretty warm for this time of year," he said. "The normal temperature is about 75, so it's definitely on the warm side. Although it's officially autumn, it will be a more summer-like weather pattern."

Friday and Saturday will be mostly sunny, with temperatures around 80 and a chance of a casual shower.

Sunday's a little too far ahead to predict with confidence right now, he said. The weather then will depend on when an upcoming cold front moves through.

The cold front is on the heels of the Bermuda high that's going to be responsible for this week's warmer-than-usual days, Dlugoenski said. This high is sitting over the area of Bermuda, with a clockwise air flow that's bringing warmer moist Gulf air into the states. It will stay in place through

Inmate charged in death

Argument leads to fight in jail

BY BRANDY BRUBAKER

An inmate from Morgantown was charged Monday with premeditated murder for the beating death of a fellow North Central Regional Jail inmate last week.

Joshua Welty Whitehair, 21, formerly of Sweet Pea Lane, is accused of killing Darryl Eugene Burton, a convicted child molester, after an argument during breakfast. According to a criminal complaint: Burton, 43, of Harrison County, and Whitehair got into an argument while eating breakfast in the common area of Pod F-8 at around 6:30 a.m. Sept. 15. Whitehair stood up and punched Burton several times, as Burton tried to stand. Burton was knocked to the floor and Whitehair continued to punch and kick him in the head and face. Other inmates tried to restrain Whitehair on two occasions, but Whitehair broke free the first time and was released the second time when he threatened to beat up the other inmates.

Burton ran to the intercom likely to call for help — but was stopped by Whitehair. He continued the attack and pushed Burton backward, causing him to lose his balance, fall, and strike his head on a block wall. Burton then became unconscious.

Clout fading, U.S. vies to set G-20 meetings agenda

WASHINGTON — With trilliondollar deficits and a weakening dollar, the United States doesn't have the clout it once had at economic summits. Now Germany, France and all the new kids at the table countries like China and Brazil are pushing their own issues.

As the global crisis eases and nations are no longer gripped by fear, President Barack Obama faces major problems in shaping an outcome that will convince U.S. voters that they will see benefits from discussions on Thursday and Friday in Pittsburgh.

Obama is pushing the Group of 20 leading industrial nations to make sweeping changes in how they run their economies in the years ahead. The goal is to combat the dangerous imbalances that many believe sowed the seeds of the recent financial crisis and severe global downturn.

The initiative would require chronic trade deficit nations like the United States to boost their sav-fewer imports and for trade surplus countries like China to get their consumers to spend more and ings rates to

rely less on export-led growth.

"We can't go back to an era where the Chinese or the Germans or other countries just are selling everything to us, we're taking out a bunch of credit card debt or home equity loans, but we're not selling them anything," Obama said during a CNN interview broadcast Sunday.

Americans' personal savings rate has been rising during the current hard times as households cut back on spending and try to repair their cracked nest eggs, but the problem is that the U.S. budget deficit, a barometer of overall national savings, has been soaring, raising alarm bells in countries such as China, the largest foreign holder of U.S. government debt.

G-20 protesters allege police harassment in suit

PITTSBURGH — Two protest groups filed a lawsuit Monday asking for an emergency hearing into allegations that Pittsburgh police harassed them in the run-up to the Group of 20 global economic summit.

Seeds of Peace and Three Rivers Climate Convergence said in their lawsuit police are discouraging their rights to free speech. Seeds of Peace, a group that promotes Israeli-Palestinian coexistence, says its bus was illegally searched and seized over the weekend. It also says its members were detained without cause.

Three Rivers Climate Convergence, which focuses on the environment, is making similar allegations.

The groups are just two of possibly hundreds expected to protest against the two-day summit when it convenes in Pittsburgh on Thursday. Thousands of protesters have gathered at previous summits of the nearly two dozen world leaders who control more than 85 percent of the world's money.

Just blocks from the courthouse, about two dozen other protesters gathered Monday to stage a global warming "wakeup" call for world leaders. A handful of police stood nearby but watched quietly, putting their hands in their pockets at times.

Judge: Man who started fire must quit smoking

Associated Press

WAILUKU, Hawaii — A judge has ordered a 19-year-old Hawaii man who pleaded no contest to starting a restaurant fire with a flicked cigarette to stop smoking for a year.

Makaio Bachman-Majamay of Makawao was originally charged with thirddegree arson for allegedly igniting the shake roof of the Wei Wei Bar-B-Q Restaurant in Pukalani in July 2008. Witnesses extinguished the blaze using buckets of water, The Maui News reported.

Second Circuit Judge Joel August ordered him to do community service and pay a $1,025 fine to fix the roof. He also told the teen not to use tobacco for a year.

think it was healthy," O'Connor told fellow commission members and the audience at WVU's law school. "It was an ugly system, in my opinion."

But she also campaigned during that election for a measure amending that state's constitution so its governor could instead appoint judges and justices from nominees recommended by a special committee. It narrowly prevailed and has since yielded "extremely good results," O'Connor said. She later became the U.S. Supreme Court's first female justice, nominated by Ronald Reagan in 1981.

Opinions varied among area court officials on whether judges should be elected or appointed.

"It's worked well for hundreds of years," Preston County Circuit Court Judge Lawrance S. Miller said of the election process.

Monday's meeting focused on judicial selection, and several of the initial speakers echoed O'Connor in endorsing appointment-based

Among those addressing the commission was Morgantown attorney Allan Karlin, who is immediate past president of the West Virginia Association for Justice, and Robert M. Bastress, of the WVU College of Law.

Karlin focused on State Supreme Court elections in his presentation. Stith contrasted her experience against a recent judicial race in neighboring Illinois, where she said

"You have no $9 million was spent. Non-candidate groups accounted for much of way of knowing that, which mostly went to television where that is coming from," ads. A number of those were "nasty" Karlin said of the in tone, and some aired in the St. Louis Market, she noted. Missouri

"The advertisements appeared to have the effect of sullying the public's trust in all judges in the area where the ad appeared, including Missouri," Stith said.

West Virginia endured a similar judicial race in 2004. The U.S. Supreme Court recently ordered the removal of state Supreme Court Chief Justice Brent Benjamin from a case involving Massey Energy Co., as company Chief Executive Don Blankenship had spent at least $3 million in that election to help Benjamin win his seat.

But O'Connor asked Stith whether the media paid attention to Missouri's retention elections, as they do contested ones. The state justice cited the judicial performance evaluations that hers and other "merit selection" states issue before balloting. The media tend to report when those are issued, said Stith, who added that states like Arizona mail those evaluations to all registered voters.

More than half the states appoint their top appeals courts, but a greater number elect at least some of their trial-level judges, according to research by the American Judicature Society. For election states, the majority keep the balloting nonpartisan. But a half-dozen states have two, sometimes three different methods for the same tier of their court systems, the society's information shows.

Sen. Jay Rockefeller plans amendments to health care bill

CHARLESTON — Talk to U.S. Sen. Jay Rockefeller about health care reform and the West Virginia Democrat makes it clear he doesn't like the proposal put forth by Senate Finance Committee Chairman Max Baucus.

Rockefeller, who chairs a Senate Finance subcommittee on health, wasn't part of the so-called "Gang of Six," who put the bill together. The group of Senate Finance Committee members were evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats, in a bid to win Republican support.

"We are now in the teeth of a storm," the 72-year-old Rockefeller told The Associated Press last week. "The Gang of Six has come out with a bill and there's a lot wrong with that bill."

HEALTH CARE bill changes to address Dem concerns. Page 5-B.

Debate on the bill starts Tuesday, with hundreds of amendments proposed. Rockefeller says "many, many" of those proposed amendments will come from him. The state's junior senator has already said he won't support the measure as it stands because it would tax coal miners' health care benefits and affect a health insurance program for children. "You don't mess with kids," he said.

To pay for the 10-year, $856 billion bill, the Baucus proposal would tax insurance plans costing more than $21,000 for a family and $8,000 for an individual.

rectional officers, who heard a scuffle, rushed to the pod, officials said.

As Burton was being transported to the hospital, he went into cardiac arrest. He was pronounced dead at United Hospital Center in Clarksburg about two hours after the attack.

A state medical examiner determined that Burton died from head injuries and chose homicide as the manner of death.

Whitehair admitted that he punched and kicked Burton and pushed him before he struck his head on the wall, police said.

West Virginia Department of Military Affairs and Public Safety spokesman Joseph Thornton said jail officials don't believe a weapon was used in the attack, despite some earlier rumors that a shank — or prison-made knife — was used.

Thornton did not release any information on what caused the men to argue.

Thornton said correctional officers were observing breakfast being served by staff members in another pod and were not watching Whitehair's pod at the time of the fight. He said that is proper procedure. The jail does not have the manpower to watch every area at every second of the day, he said.

Whitehair is being held at North Central Regional Jail on a charge of unlawful assault. He was convicted by a jury in April for stabbing his mother with a 6- to 7-inch kitchen knife after an argument about a situation with his girlfriend. Police said Whitehair told his mother, "Mom, come up in the woods. If you die, I have to bury you." Police said Whitehair did tell his mother that he was sorry and said he loved her and didn't mean to do it.

At his trial, Whitehair contended that he accidentally stabbed his mother as she fell during a confrontation, which he said she started by throwing a mug at him. Whitehair said he'd been physically abused by his mother in the past. His mother survived the attack and Whitehair was sentenced to one to five years in prison.

Burton was serving a 10- to 20year sentence for a Harrison County conviction of sexual abuse of a child, Thornton said. He'd been held at North Central Regional Jail since October and was not eligible for parole until 2018. The Division of Corrections is conducting the internal investigation into the incident and the State Police is conducting the criminal investigation, Thornton said.

Whitehair is now segregated from the rest of the prison population, Thornton said.

Treasurys for sale

The U.S. government is auctioning off another $112 billion in medium-duration Treasury notes this week as it continues to raise money to fund its stimulus programs. Market watchers keep an eye on Treasury auctions as any sign of flagging demand for U.S. debt could make it more expensive for the government to raise funding. Lower demand would push the government to offer higher yields, which in turn would raise interest rates on certain consumer and business loans. But so far, these worries have proved unfounded. In fact, foreign governments, among the biggest buyers of U.S. debt, still have solid appetites for Treasurys, recent data shows. China, the biggest foreign holder of U.S. debt, in July raised its Treasury holdings to $800.5 billion up 3.1 percent from June and 46 percent from 2008.

The cruise operator's performance can tell us a lot about the economy. Cruises are after all a non-necessary purchase, and if Americans are willing to spend money on these kinds of vacations, that bodes well for overall consumer spending trends. Listen for comments on cruise prices. Carnival had to cut prices in the past year to entice customers, but prices should be steadying. Fuel is also a big cost for the company, as it is for consumers - so listen to its oil price forecast.

An IPO boomlet

Eight companies are set to begin selling stock to investors this week. That makes this the biggest week for initial public offerings since 2007.

Since then, the IPO market has suffered a long drought. Just 43 companies went public in 2008, compared with more than 200 in a more typical year.

Is this another sign of an economy returning to normal? "We still have a ways to go before we are anywhere near normal," says Kathy Smith, principal with money manager and research firm Renaissance Capital.

Shares of these newly public companies could be good buys. Upstart companies that are strong enough to raise capital in a bad economy are also more likely to thrive when better times come along.

Above all, though, IPO investors should know what they're buying. Before buying shares of real estate investment trusts that invest in mortgages, make sure you understand what they do and how they do it.

Story Stocks

S tocks mostly fell but ended off their lows as investors moved into tech and health care shares. News of Dell Inc.'s plans to buy Perot Systems Corp. for $3.9 billion helped to lift some tech stocks but failed to raise the broader market. A stronger dollar ignited a selfoff in commodities like oil and gold, which weighed on energy and material shares. With stocks up more than 50 percent since bottoming in early March, analysts say breaks in the rally are healthy. The Dow Jones industrials fell 41.34, or 0.4 percent, to 9,778.86. The S&P 500 fell 0.3 percent to 1,064.66, while the tech-heavy Nasdaq rose 0.2 percent to 2,138.04.

Residents complain about vehicle sitting on an empty lot

BY KAITLIN BUSHINSKI

For The Dominion Post

Westover City Council entered into a heated discussion Monday when concerns surfaced about a camper sitting on an empty lot.

The question over what to do with exposed campers and large vehicles sitting in lots has become an issue as the city attempts to deal with complaints, Mayor Dave Johnson told The Dominion Post.

Citizens' complaints about a parked camper on an empty Harvey Street lot prompted Building Inspector Richard Hillberry to ask City Attorney Bryan Edwards if there was an ordinance that permits the city to seek removal of a parked camper.

According to Edwards, there is a city ordinance that allows officials to request the removal of the property if a nonroad-worthy vehicle is stored in an unenclosed area.

However, Edwards cautioned that removal of the camper "can open up a big can of worms," because the ordinance is usually meant for commercial and industrial vehicles, such as bulldozers.

If council applies the ordinance to this camper, it can apply to other campers and similar vehicles throughout Westover, Edwards said.

"I don't think a vehicle that is road worthy and is licensed is considered [a vehicle that needs to be stored]. The last thing I want to do is go around to every house to examine every camper. I consider that as parking on a lot," Hillberry said.

The question over how the city should respond sparked controversy among council members.

Councilwoman Edie Viola said she has received several complaints about the camper in question.

According to Viola, the camper is on the lot because the lot owner's daughter, who is a Cheat area resident, could not keep the camper on her property in Cheat because of neighbors' complaints.

The camper and property owners could not be reached before press

"The attorney gave his opinion, we have to follow through with it,'

Viola said. Councilman William Wilson forcefully disagreed.

"I'm a camper owner and I think if my kid had a camper on my property and the city made me remove it, I would take [the city] to court,"

After Viola responded that the city "should crack down," on exposed campers, Wilson shouted: "You're not the law, you're walking a fine line

Johnson stepped in, diffusing the argument.

'The fact is, it's not this lady's property and I don't think Westover should be one big storage property. We have been trying to crack down on storage," Johnson said.

Hillberry and Police Chief James Smith will continue to research the issue.

"As long as the law is the same for everyone, I don't have a problem doing my job," Hillberry said.

In other business council:

■ Unanimously approved the first reading of an ordinance that would raise all city employees' pay by 20 cents

■ Unanimously approved to annul Kendrick, Van Voorhis and part of Garrison roads because they circle Kingdom Church and are not true access roads.

Official says weekend Fortney fire was arson

ANYONE WHO HAS information on the fires on Fortney Street or at Shaw Place, or the dumpster and couch fires that occurred during the weekend, should contact the Morgantown Fire Department at (304) 284-7480 or the Morgantown Police Department at (304) 284-7522.

BY TRACY EDDY The Dominion Post

The Morgantown Fire Department believes the three fires that destroyed a home on Fortney Street — the last of which occurred early Sunday morning — were arson.

Fire Marshal Ken Tennant said the house at 936 Fortney St. had been on fire three times during the past two weeks. Sunday's fire completed the destruction of the home.

The Morgantown Fire Department is working with the Morgantown Police Department to investigate the fires, Tennant said, and they are following a few leads.

The house, which is owned by Eric Dalton, has been vacant since the first fire.

The fire and police departments are also investigating two fires that occurred about two blocks from Fortney Street, Tennant said. Those fires are also believed to be arson, he said.

Firefighters were called to a vacant Shaw Place house twice. The building was badly damaged in an Aug. 31 fire, and the remaining structure was destroyed in a blaze Sept. 16.

yet if all the fires are related, but they are not ruling out the possibility.

"We're working around the clock Dominion Post contacted him. to try to determine who's setting these fires," he said.

There was also a rash of couch and dumpster fires during the weekend, he said, which resulted in two WVU students being cited for malicious burning.

Tennant said he did not have the names of the WVU students because he was out of the office when The

If found guilty, the students face a possible $1,000 fine, Tennant said, and could also be asked to reimburse the city for any costs related to extinguishing the fire. The citations were forwarded to WVU's Office of Student Judicial Affairs, he said.

WVU spokesman Dan Kim said all charges of student misconduct, including citations or other criminal charges, must go through the university's Office of Student Judicial Affairs The disciplinary action is taken in addition to whatever charges the students faces from a law enforcement agency, Kim said.

Kim said, as far as the malicious burning citations are concerned, the university is "very disappointed."

Two more Preston buildings to get keyless entry systems

KINGWOOD — Two more county buildings will get keyless entry systems, Preston County commissioners learned Monday.

County Administrator Kathy Mace said Lautimus Communications will install card readers in the Courthouse Annex and commissioner's meeting room for $9,399. Funds for the project will come from money carried over from last year's budget and will use equipment remaining from the courthouse project completed earlier this year.

Mace also told commissioners that work will begin next week on the roof over outdoor cages at the Preston County Animal Shelter. T.H. Services will perform the work for $9,800 and will finish by Oct. 26. Funds will come from the Fortney Commissioners also agreed to hire Martha Elliott for a temporary part-time position to replace shelter employee Teresa Richards, who had a family emergency. Richards is expected to return to work by Oct. 1.

Also Monday, commissioners agreed to grant a correction to Messenger Limited Partnership, who aged timber property for 2009. The company has had more than 7,000 acres in managed timber in Preston County since 1993, attorney Sheila Williams told commissioners, and employs more than 40 county residents.

The error in filing would cost the company more than $15,000 in taxes unless corrected.

"Is this basically a tax exoneration?" Commission President Craig Jennings asked?

"Yes," county Assessor Terri Funk said. All three commissioners

Police say woman tried to give pot to USP Hazelton inmate

A New Jersey woman was arrested Sunday after she tried to give marijuana to a prisoner at the United States Penitentiary in Hazelton, according to State Police.

West Virginia State Police Senior Trooper M.S. White II was contacted by prison officials who detained Phyllis I. Broadnax, 40, of Voorhees, N.J., after she attempted to hand seven individually packed plastic bags of marijuana. According to a criminal complaint filed by White, the total amount of marijuana was six grams. The guard told White that Broadnax, "had the marijuana in her hand and was attempting to hand it to a male subject, identified as her fiance, in the visiting room," according to the complaint.

White charged Broadnax with possession with intent to deliver, conspiracy and transporting a controlled substance into the state. Broadnax was arraigned Monday by Preston County Magistrate Lew Ault, who dismissed the conspiracy charge and set bond at $50,000. A preliminary hearing is set for 3 p.m. Sept. 30.

Preston man charged with 7 counts of animal cruelty

A Tunnelton man was charged with seven counts of cruelty to animals after a deputy found a horse and six dogs at his residence without food and water.

Preston County Sheriff's Deputy T.E. Mitter arrested Glenn Edward Buckingham, 54, after he found one horse standing in a trash-filled lot and "showing every bone in its body," according to a press release. The floor in a shed used to shelter the animal had caved in from the horse's weight "and the owner had apparently attempted to fill in the hole with trash," Mitter wrote. "There were three feed pans located in the lot," according to the criminal complaint, but all were empty. "There was no water for the horse, nor any grass in the lot."

Six dogs were also found in a sidence on Buckingham's McGee Hollow Road property. "The residence had been used for storage for quite some time and the dogs were living on piles of strewn about discarded items, which at most places in the residence forced the dogs to stand within a foot gap between the piles and the ceiling," according to the release. The dogs had no food or water.

The seven animals were seized and taken to the Preston County Animal Shelter.

Buckingham is free on bond.

Task force finds Fairmont fugitive within 24 hours

Dennis Terrell Evans Jr.'s freedom was short-lived once the U.S. Marshals and the Mountain State Fugitive Task Force were on his trail, Fairmont Police said Monday.

Evans was arrested without incident Friday at Unity Manor Apartments in Fairmont, Fairmont Police Sgt. Matt Pigott said. The task force and marshals found Evans within 24 hours of taking on the case, Pigott said.

Evans, 21, was sought for attempted murder and wanton endangerment charges. Police said he shot from a car at a person standing on a porch Sept. 10. The bullet missed its target this time, but in 2007, Evans pleaded guilty to shooting a 15-year-old. He had recently been released from prison on that charge. He was in the North Central Regional Jail on Monday awaiting setting of a preliminary hearing on the more recent charges.

Couple plead guilty in fake abduction

Woman faces 20 years for her role in crime

BY BRANDY BRUBAKER

The Dominion Post

A Grafton couple pleaded guilty in federal court for faking a kidnapping to extort $20,000 from an elderly Fairmont woman.

Eric Wayne Zuspan, 53, and Teri Elaine Trickett, 52, tricked the woman into believing Trickett — the woman's caretaker — was being held hostage by kidnappers seeking a hefty ransom, officials said.

Zuspan pleaded guilty Monday to conspiracy to extort money and possession of a firearm by a prohibited person. Conspiracy to extort money is punishable by up to five years in prison, according to federal code. Possession of a firearm is punishable by up to 10 years in prison.

Trickett pleaded guilty to wire fraud Friday, a crime punishable by up to 20 years in prison, according to court records.

Zuspan was not supposed to carry a gun because of a previous felony conviction.

Trickett said she and her husband came up with the scheme to get money from the victim, who she said truly believed Trickett had been kidnapped, court documents said.

The following is according to court documents filed by the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Northern District of West Virginia and the FBI:

Zuspan and Trickett tricked an Someone — claiming to be kidnappers — called the woman March 23 and told her that they would kill Trickett if she didn't pay a $20,000 ransom or if she notified the police.

The woman called Zuspan and told him about the kidnapping. The victim also contacted her investment firm and asked to have $20,000 transferred into her bank account, but was told the money couldn't be Zuspan said he could borrow the money and the woman could reimburse him because the pair led the victim to believe her children in Texas were behind the kidnapping. The victim also was led to believe that the kidnapping was connected to the alleged murder of her father. Authorities did not release any information on the alleged murder.

The woman then received several more calls from the supposed kidnappers, instructing her how, when and where to deliver the ransom money. A few hours later, Zuspan called the woman and told her that the ransom had been paid and Trickett had been released.

She then got a call from an unknown male in Texas telling her that everything was over.

The next day, the woman gave Trickett $10,000 and later paid the rest of the ransom by check.

Trickett was interviewed in person by an FBI agent March 25 and told him that she drove to the woman's house the afternoon of March 23. She said she had gotten out to get the mail, when she was abducted at gunpoint by people in a van. She said she was blindfolded and her hands and ankles were tied with telephone cord.

She said they drove around for about an hour and her kidnappers SEE FAKE, 9-A

Steel beams brace River Road

Workers from Alan Stone Inc. continue their drilling operation to set steel beams, on Monday, as part of the fix for River Road.

DOH hopes work will be done by the end of October

Contractors are taking up damaged blacktop and drilling holes for steel beams that are being sunk into the slipping hillside along River Road.

It takes about 75 minutes to bore each hole, according to workers. Once the hole is dug, a 45-foot steel beam is set in place.

Each beam will be sunk into the ground about 42 feet to support the repairs to the collapsed road surface. The section of River Road between Lockside and Dupont roads has been closed since December because of land slippage. Traffic from the Morgantown Industrial Park, Westwood Middle and Skyview Elementary schools has been detoured to U.S. 19 via Dupont Road since the closure.

Several pilings, or steel beams, are being driven vertically into the ground until they hit more stable soil or bedrock to create a wall.

Recently, a similar structure was built along Holland Avenue, in Westover, after a section of the road began to cave in and the back wall of an adjacent building collapsed. The pilings will prevent future slippage.

Alan Stone Co. Inc., of Cutler, Ohio, and Williamstown, was awarded the contract in July to repair the road. The State Division of Highways earlier said it hopes work will be completed by the end of October.

The repair work will cost $745,104.15. The federal government will pay 80 percent -$596,083.32 — and the state will pay the remaining $149,020.83.

Officials: Years needed to restore creek

DEP looking at algae in Dunkard for toxin source

BY TRACY EDDY

The Dominion Post

Officials said it would take a few years to replenish the fish population in Dunkard Creek, once the creek starts to recover from whatever is killing the fish and turning the water a rust color.

West Virginia Department of Environmental Protection investigators are still working with several agencies to determine what is polluting the water. According to a press release issued by the DEP, investigators are now looking to see whether algae or some similar growth could be contributing to the pollution.

Algae sometimes produces toxins, the release stated.

Frank Jernejcic, District 1 fisheries biologist for the West Virginia Division of Natural Resources, said once the creek starts to recover, the DNR will start a "restocking program" and bring in the types of fish that used to live in the creek, such as bass and muskies.

But the creek's mussel population would not be able to be replenished, he said — at least not in our lifetime. "It's horrible," he said.

Dunkard Creek was home to about eight or 10 different species of mussels, Jernejcic said. It is one of two tributary creeks in the West Virginia stretch of the Monongahela River that had mussels.

Jernejcic said mussels are "very, very slow" to colonize, and they don't occur in a lot of places so they would be harder to get.

"I'm not saying it won't be tried," he said. "But it won't be an easy thing." Residents living along Dunkard

Creek — in West Virginia and Pennsylvania — have reported hundreds of dead fish and other wildlife since Sept. 3. About a 25 mile stretch of the creek was affected by the pollution. Jernejcic said he's been down at the creek every day for the past SEE RESTORE, 9-A

Will also introduce ATV safety programs in schools by way of WVU

BY JIM BISSETT

For The Dominion Post

FAIRMONT — There can sometimes be great worth in simply taking the low-tech approach to life, Mike Stalnaker told members of the Marion County Board of Education on Monday night.

Like more than $700,000 worth, said Stalnaker, who oversees energy-conservation programs for Marion County Schools.

The six-figure savings on the county school system's energy bill comes in the form of a renewed diligence by principals, teachers and students to do all those commonsense saving measures they might do at home, Stalnaker said. That means watching out for dripping faucets in the restroom and turning off lights in the classroom when you're the last person to leave, he said.

"It shows that the little things you can do will make a big difference," Stalnaker said of the savings he's been charting for the past 25 months. "I want us to hit the $1 million mark by next May." But don't call it a "profit," he stressed. While the money won't go back into the coffers, it will be rerouted to other programs.

"That's money that we're avoiding spending on energy costs," he said.

Which, in turn, is an investment in the environment, Superintendent Tom Deadrick said.

The jump-start on the cost ledger, Deadrick said, carries the equivalent of taking some 642 cars off the road for one year.

"That's a positive impact on the environment," Deadrick said, "and that's what we're looking for."

It shows that the little things you can do will make a big difference.

over the weekend.

Not that it's going to be easy, and found 44 computer workstations and 38 monitors running and that was in an empty building

> "That stuff adds up," he said. Not all things that add up are a bad thing, though, Deadrick said. The county wants to increase ATV safety awareness among young people — and it's doing that later this fall, courtesy of WVU's Department of Communication Studies.

Dr. Maria Brann created the safety curriculum with communications doctoral student Brandi Frisby.

Brann is an associate professor in the department whose research interests include health and public safety communication. She also teaches at WVU's Injury Control Research Center, on WVU's Evansdale campus.

Frisby, who also holds degrees from Ball State University and Northern Kentucky University, will help coordinate the free safety training that will be offered on a school-by-school basis.

Frisby first contacted Deadrick with the offer, the superintendent

With ATV deaths commonplace in West Virginia — the state led the nation with 54 fatalities in 2006 Deadrick said he expects the schools to quickly steer themselves into the direction of the training.

'People underestimate what can happen when you're on an ATV," he said. "Just imagine somebody thrown off one on those things without wearing a helmet."

Volunteers jump into efforts

Termans' example one for all of us on banks of Monongahela River

Apparently, no one ever told Tim and Maureen Terman not

Or if someone did, they probably told him to go jump in the river. Because that's kind of what they've been doing for the past three years on their weekends.

More precisely, they volunteer their Saturdays and Sundays cleaning up the banks of the Monongahela River.

The state Department of Environmental Protection provides them with the garbage bags, grabber sticks and pays for picking up their haul.

The city of Morgantown also provides them with a $2,500grant to help offset the costs of maintaining and gassing up their pontoon boat.

But the rest of it, their time, their laundry, their bug repellent and their sweat is all volunteered.

We salute the Termans for their selfless dedication to the river's clean up.

In a day and age when many look to government as the answer, while others decry all government intervention, the Termans' example reflects the best of both worlds.

The state DEP admits it cannot afford all the costs of smaller litter clean-up projects, nor can the city completely fund such initiatives as the Termans'.

And it normally would also be cost prohibitive for any volunteer to pay for their own tools, fuel and cover the garbage pick-up costs.

Though it's not unusual for many area residents to spend their weekends on the river and other waterways, it's doubtful you'll find anyone else there solely gathering trash.

The Termans are currently looking to launch a more exhaustive clean up along the river's banks next summer, including up to the Pennsylvania border.

They hope to find a public or private sponsor to fund their efforts during the weekdays, which would allow them to spend more time cleaning up the river's banks.

We would encourage sponsorship of such an initiative by this couple or others.

The DEP is also ready to provide the supplies and tools for anyone who wants to follow the Termans' example on the river or elsewhere.

Though litter's environmental impact is relatively low on the list, when compared to such hazards as toxic waste or sewage runoff, it is still an eyesore.

Not to mention a disgrace to the primary waterway that runs through our community.

We join the Termans in asking everyone to think twice about littering and encourage the state to step up its enforcement efforts against those who do.

In the meantime, instead of working for the weekend, like the Termans, it can also be rewarding to volunteer on the weekend, too.

Public still not warming up to global warming

I hardly know where to begin in response to a recent guest commentary (DP-Sept. 13) entitled, "Three years to develop morality, or 20 years to collapse.'

The author posits that irreversible global warming is just around the corner and that we will soon have to endure "droughts, famines, diseases, resource wars and failed states." Not withstanding Al Gore's claim, the debate over man caused or anthropogenic global warming is far from over.

The theory of anthropogenic global warming is rapidly losing favor with both scientists and the general public. Numerous online resources are available to demonstrate this.

For example, petitionproject.org has more than 30,000 scientist signatories, including more than 9,000 with Ph.D.'s, who dispute the "man-made' cause of global warming.

Other excellent resources can be found by Googling "global warming skeptics." A recent national poll shows the number of Americans who think the seriousness of global warming is exaggerated is now up to 41 percent. Another national poll shows global warming dead last in a list of 20 "top priorities" for 2009.

The Earth is 4.5 billion years old and has a long history of climate change. The Earth has been both much colder and much warmer than now. Man has lived on this planet only a fraction of those 4.5 billion years and has engaged in activities that supposedly are causing massive changes to our planet's climate in only the last hundred years. What caused "climate change" in the past?

Recent alternative theories to the cause of man-made global warming include the very logical explanation of variation in solar activity. The sun after all is what heats our planet.

Incidentally, the planet has actually been cooling over the last decade. This is in direct contradiction to what the AGW climate models predict. Once again the facts get in the way of a good story.

The author suggests it will be necessary to reduce the planet's opulation "tenfold" and reduce "individual consumption worldwide to a tenth of that in today's developed nations." How would this be implemented? Who will decide which tenth of the world's population survives? This is a clearly ridiculous proposal that suggests an attitude more concerned with "sustainability" for the planet than with the well-being of its occupants.

The commentary makes several statements about "immoral" behavior. The examples, most notably about a friend "who goes to church instead of volunteering in a hospice," display a shocking view of what constitutes morality in the mind of the author.

Doomsayers have proclaimed the "end of the world" again and again. How many times have their predictions been proved correct?

Twenty years from now we can look back at the proponents of the "Three years to develop morality, or 20 years to collapse" theory and wonder at their hubris.

ing taxpayer support. There has been troubling news about the Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now - also known as ACORN that has received more than $50 million in taxpayer support. The organization has faced past criticism for potential voter fraud, and now, ACORN is under intense scrutiny after representatives of the organization were documented providing housing assistance to a couple attempting to set up an illicit business.

Given ACORN's extensive role in providing housing counseling and other housing-related services, Rep. Capito called for hearings in the House Financial Services Subcommittee on Housing and Community Opportunity to ensure that taxpayer dollars are not used improperly or illegally.

And this week she joined a wide bipartisan majority in the House of Representatives in supporting a measure to halt the flow of federal tax dollars to ACORN because the behavior exhibited on the recently-surfaced videos simply isn't acceptable for an organization receiving taxpayer support.

Where does Rockefeller stand on cap and trade?

As voters, we must know, now, how our public servant, U.S. Sen. Jay Rockefeller, intends to vote on the Waxman-Markey cap and trade legislation.

This is a critical issue to West Virginia. If Rockefeller votes to pass cap and trade, then every West Virginian who enjoys affordable, coal-powered electricity and a functioning state economy must demand Rockefeller's recall from service.

On this issue, many Senate Democrats, who know how economically devastating this bill will be for their states, are sitting on the special interest side of the issue hoping desperately that cap and trade will pass without their votes.

The racism card being played at Democrats' convenience

WHEN BARACK OBAMA was elected president of the United States, some suggested that race played a factor in his success. People "wanted" to elect a black man president because of our history of slavery and the denial of civil rights for so many years to African-Americans. It is never "racism" to vote for someone because he is black. It is only racism to oppose the policies of a black Democrat.

As the president's approval ratings fall and rise and fall again, some of his supporters in journalism and politics are returning to days of old when the label "racist" could end any discussion and force the accused either into stunned silence, or groveling repentance. I suspect the tactic won't work this time because Obama supporters will have difficulty explaining how a mostly white country could elect a black man president last November and 10 months later become a racist majority.

Racism has always been a one-way street for the Left. When Clarence Thomas was nominated to the Supreme Court, some liberals called him a "handkerchief head negro" and an "Uncle Tom." According to liberal doctrine, black people can never be racist because they are members of a victim class created by white liberals as a kind of modern plantation to keep blacks voting for liberal Democrats.

Former Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice, African-American like President Obama, grew up in Birmingham, Ala., at the time of the 16th Street Baptist Church bombing by members of the Ku Klux Klan, which killed some of her friends. She has more "street cred" than others who claim to have it, but she got no points from liberal Democrats when she ascended the ladder of power and influence. It was the same with Colin Powell. The Left strongly criticized Powell for adding credibility to the claim that Saddam Hussein possessed weapons of mass destruction thereby winning U.N. approval to use force, if necessary, against the Iraqi dictator. Were those who opposed Powell racist?

He is getting the same heat every president gets, sooner or later.

Using the formulation now being applied to President Obama that opposition to any of his policies — from health care, to record amounts of debt - constitutes racism, they were.

The polar opposite case could be made that, despite his race, President Obama is being treated just like any other politician, which proves he's being treated equally. He is getting the same heat every president gets, sooner or later. The president's race would be a factor only if Americans shied away from criticizing him because of it. That they are not is a triumph of Martin Luther King Jr.'s hope that people be judged by the content of their character, not the color of their skin. Some opinion polls show that Obama's character is being judged and found wanting by a rapidly growing number of Americans, at least a small percentage of whom are black. With Democrats controlling all three branches of government, including significantly wide margins in Congress, isn't there a better explanation than racism for why the president is having difficulty with some of his proposals? If racism is the cause of his difficulties, there must be many congressional Democrats who are racists, because they have the power to enact the president's agenda, but some are reluctant to do so. The Pew Research Center has noted a 10 percent drop in Obama's approval ratings, which includes a 3 percent decline among blacks. As black conservative columnist Star Parker has written, "If we assume this reflects the 16 million blacks who voted for Obama last November, a three-point shift means there are about a half-million blacks who now have buyer's remorse." Are these black Obama voters racist?

THAT NOT TRUE "

There is a better explanation for the growing opposition to President Obama. It has less to do with his ethnicity than it does his credibility. Character, after all, is colorless.

CONSOL Senior Vice President Tom Hoffman said the Blacksville No. 2 mine stopped discharging water into Dunkard Creek late last week.

Hoffman said CONSOL agreed to shut down the outlet to help with the investigation into whether or not the coal mine was contributing to the pollution in the creek.

"We've been working very closely with them," he said.

The coal mine had a permit to discharge water into Dunkard Creek, he said, and had been doing so all year. The water is from acid mine drainage that is treated at a facility near the mine, Hoffman said.

According to the DEP's press release, the agencies involved in the investigation are looking at several different possible causes for the pollution, which is why it is taking "longer to solve."

relieved that she had finally made a right choice.

he's been involved in. They mar-live in another state, far from us. I don't want to expose him while she is not near us. It will crush her. But our daughter is married to a stranger! Everything Melvin told her about himself is a lie. How should we handle this? — HEARTBRO-KEN MOM

DEAR MOM: First of all, your husband should finish what he started.

If Melvin wasn't a police officer, what was he? Is he really divorced? How many times? Is his name really Melvin? Has he done time?

Once you have accurate information, you and your husband should pay your daughter a visit - proof in hand. How she chooses to handle things from then on will be her decision.

But from where I sit, she could qualify for an annulment because whoever her husband is, he married her under false pretenses.

JEANNE PHILLIPS writes "Dear Abby" under the pseudonym Abigail Van Buren.

Showcase gave Hewitson what he was wanting

At one point in his life, Jeff Hewitson thought he was heading for the NBA.

"In 1971, I began a career as a basketball referee," Hewitson explained. "I started out in high schools and moved on to college. I was in the New York pro leagues for a while. I was in line for the NBA, but it didn't work out, which was OK.'

As it turns out, the game of basketball was never far from Hewitson's thoughts, and Hewitson never strayed too far from the game.

"I graduated from WVU in 1966," he said. "I can still remember watching Ron "Fritz" Williams playing in the old [WVU] Fieldhouse. He was such a talented player."

When it came time to hang up his whistle, Hewitson began another career in basketball, one that has blossomed into one of the largest high school basketball showcases in the country.

"I'm from Trenton [N.J.], and in 1976, I wanted to show people what good high school basketball looked like," Hewitson said. "It was a good area for basketball back then, but it has begun to deteriorate. I started locally with eight teams and it's just grown so much over the years."

The Prime Time Shootout was born and is heading to WVU this coming Jan. 22-24.

"It's all been pretty much set," Hewitson said. "There's going to be some adjusting of some of the schedules. We might have to replace one team, but we're excited to come to West Virginia."

Scheduled to appear at WVU are some of the top teams in the nation, including Oak Hill Academy (Mouth of Wilson, Va.) and Paterson Catholic (N.J.).

As far as players go, the biggest news comes from Tobias Harris and the Half Hallows West (N.Y.) team, which is scheduled to play Chester (Pa.), at 1 p.m. on Jan. 24.

Harris, a 6-foot-8 power forward, is ranked No. 5 overall in the 2010 class by Rivals.com and is taking a serious look at the Mountaineers. He received an inhome visit from WVU coaches a few days ago.

Here's a list of other top 2010 recruits scheduled to play:

Josh Selby (No. 4) Lake Clifton, Md.; Doron Lamb (No. 21) Oak Hill Academy; Roscoe Smith (No. 31) Oak Hill Academy; and Juwan Staten (No. 44) Oak Hill Academy.

Quality Education Academy's (N.C.) Quincy Miller (No. 3) headlines players scheduled to play from the 2011 recruiting

The list also includes WVU recruits Noah Cottrill, who is ranked No. 79 overall in the class of 2010, and 2012 recruit Elijah Macon from Marion-Franklin (Columbus, Ohio).

New walk-on

WVU basketball fans will get to know Kenny Ross pretty soon, but should get even more familiar with his Academy of New Church (Bryn Athyn, Pa.) high school.

Ross was the point guard this past season of the team which has made plenty of headway in recent seasons in the national rankings.

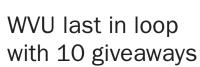

The Academy of New Church (located just north of Philadelphia) was ranked No. 50 in the nation by ESPN this past season.

As far as potential recruits go, the Lions have them. Malcolm Gilbert (6-10, 215) is a three-star center ranked No. 130 in the 2011 class and is looking at several Big East schools, including Pitt, Notre Dame and Villanova.

Keep an eye on the Lions Tyler Reed, though. The point guard is already turning some heads, even though he's just a freshman.

BIG EAST NOTEBOOK

BY STEFANIE LOH

The Dominion Post

While the WVU football team went through a water workout in the pool for recovery purposes on Monday, head coach Bill Stewart said he spent his time trying to figure out the best way to help his team overcome its turnover problem.

The Mountaineers rank last in the Big East and 112th nationally with 10 turnovers from three games. Their

"They got to play with their ears up. You've got to think before you react, and I think we react first and then try to think."

This is a bye week for the Mountaineers, who return to action against Colorado on Oct. 1. In the interim, Stewart said he and today's practice will consist of mostly special teams work. The coaches are also taking advantage of the bye week to hit the recruiting trail. Stewart said seven of his assistants will spend the early part of the week recruiting before returning to Morgantown for practice on Wednesday.

■ According to WVU football trainer Dave Kerns, quarterback Jarrett Brown sprained and bruised the back side of his non-throwing shoulder but is expected to play against Auburn next Thursday.

■ Defensive tackle Scooter Berry (sprained shoulder) and linebacker Reed Williams (sprained foot) did not play on Saturday and are still being evaluated on a day-to-day basis.

Numbers of note

■ With his 128 rushing yards in the Auburn game, WVU running back Noel Devine is now ninth on the Mountaineers' all-time career rush-Volleyball? In the water? In a bathing suit?

Turns out when the coach mentioned "volleyball," the future WVU middle blocker's mind locked onto another sport.

"I thought it was water polo," she said, sheepishly.

Fortunately for Evans, friend explained the difference between volleyball and water polo before Evans had a chance to show up at the first practice in a bathing suit.

Evans became hooked on volleyball from the first moment she stepped onto the court. The former basketball and softball player turned her attention fulltime to the sport, blossoming at the prep and club levels in a hyper-competitive volleyball state.

She developed into a tenacious player in the middle, capable of putting balls away on the front line with one big swing of her right arm.

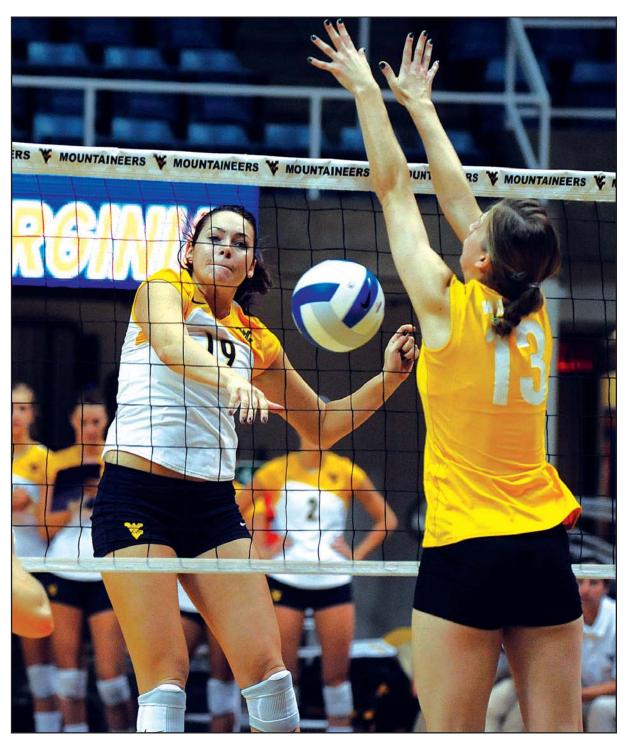

"It was fun," Evans said. "I had friends playing with me. My sophomore year it got a little more serious and a little more competitive. That's when I started playing on a better club team. Things just kind of took off from

She signed with NAIA power Concordia University, in Irvine, Calif., after her senior year at Temescal Canyon High. Evans guided Concordia to two Final Four berths, including a runnerup finish, in 2008.

When her Concordia coach, Paula Weishoff, departed for a job at Division I U.C.-Irvine after the 2008 season, Evans decided to find a new school for her final two years of eligibility.

She thought of WVU. The Mountaineers recruited Evans out of high school. She visited Morgantown in the spring of 2007 before deciding to stay closer to her Canyon Lake, with WVU players Bonnie West and Kylie Armbruster. Evans called West over Christmas break, in 2008.

"I told her I might want to transfer," Evans said.

She wasn't scared off by the Mountaineers' 7-21 overall record and 0-14 mark in the Big East Conference a year ago.

"The last year wasn't that great, but they were hoping to get better in the future," Evans said. "They wanted people who wanted to win, too. They knew I wanted to win. I knew I wanted to switch the team around this year and help them be success-

West phoned WVU assistant coach Bakeer Ganes, who started the process of getting Evans to Morgantown. "I really pushed for her to come here," West said. "It's a great school besides athletics.'

Evans agreed and packed her bags for West Virginia this summer, much to the delight of WVU's coaching staff.

"It was a real surprise that she wanted to transfer," WVU coach Veronica Hammersmith said. "We were happy to get her. We wanted her when she came out of high school. We knew she was good to begin with. It was very nice."

West couldn't wait to reunite with Evans on the court.

This weekend's match marks the first competition for Campriani since joining the WVU squad. Campriani arrives in Morgantown with six years of international experience as a member of the Italian National Team.

Among his varied accomplishments are a 12th-place air rifle finish (594) at the 2008 Beijing Olympic Games and a second place (1173) smallbore 3P finish at the 2009 Milan World Cup.

Campriani can start competing with the Mountaineers in January 2010. WVU begins its defense of its 2009 NCAA national title, on Oct. 10-11, in Lincoln, Neb., against Air Force and Nebraska.

Gymnastics

WVU holds its first official practice at 2:30 p.m. today, at Cary Gym.

"I'm looking forward to starting practice, and I think the team really is too," WVU coach Linda Burdette said. "I think the team is ready to get down to business, and the coaching staff is prepared to lead them toward a successful year.'

The Mountaineers return to the gym following a strong 15-8 2009 campaign, in which they finished fourth at the NCAA Southeast Regional. The squad also went 10-2 in East Atlantic Gymnastics League (EAGL) competition and finished second overall at the conference championship. Four Mountaineers won six league titles, a program-best mark.

Women's soccer

WVU senior midfielder Carolyn Blank has been named to the Big East's weekly honor roll, released Monday.

Blank scored her first goal of the season in Friday's 1-1 double-overtime tie, at league-rival Pitt.

Coach cleared in player's death to resume teaching

Associated Press

A former Kentucky high school football coach acquitted last week in the death of a player was cleared Monday to return to the classroom as a technical teacher and apply for coaching positions. David Jason Stinson, 37, can resume teaching at Pleasure Ridge Park High School on Thursday, Jefferson County Public Schools spokeswoman Lauren Roberts said. Roberts said Stinson met Monday with school district officials, including Superintendent Sheldon Berman. After that, officials decided to allow Stinson to return to the school where he was teaching and coaching when he was indicted. Stinson also received a letter saying he could apply for coaching jobs. A jury last week deliberated less than 90 minutes before finding Stinson not guilty of reckless homicide and wanton endangerment charges stemming from the collapse and death of 15-year-old sophomore offensive lineman Max Gilpin.

Pro football

Brett Favre's streak is not in danger: He has a bent fingernail. Favre's throwing hand was clearly hurting after his last throw for Minnesota in Sunday's win over Detroit. He was hit by two defenders in the fourth quarter during a touchdown pass to Percy Harvin. Coach Brad Childress said Monday nail, and he's fine. Favre has started 271 straight regular season games, believed to be an NFL record. He is also nine games behind Jim Marshall's record for a non-kicker of 282 consecutive regular season games played.

n Cowboys running back Marion Barber has a quadriceps injury, the extent of which is unknown. Barber gingerly walked off the field after 35-yard run in the fourth quarter of the Cowboys' 33-31 loss Sunday night in the home opener against the New York Giants. Coach Wade Phillips says Barber had an MRI on Monday. He says the Cowboys will have to wait to "see where we are" on Barber. Barber ran for 124 yards and a 2-yard touchdown in the loss.

■ Bills starting right tackle Brad Butler needs surgery to repair his right knee and will miss the rest of the season. Without revealing the nature of the injury, coach Dick Jauron announced the news Monday, a day after Butler was hurt in a 33-20 win over Tampa Bay.

■ Randy Thomas is out with a season-ending, perhaps career-ending, triceps injury. Now the Washington Redskins have to figure out how to plug the hole in an already thin offensive line. Coach Jim Zorn said Monday the veteran right guard has a complete tear of the that Favre bent a finger-right triceps off the bone.

College basketball

The under-construction Consol Energy Center in Pittsburgh will be the site for first- and second-round NCAA men's basketball tournament games on March 15 and 17, 2012. The Pittsburgh Penguins' new arena is scheduled to open for the 2010-11 NHL season. Duquesne University will be the host school in 2012, just as it was when NCAA men's tournament games were played before sellout crowds at Mellon Arena, formerly the Civic Arena, in 1997 and 2002. The NCAA East women's regional was played at Mellon Arena in 2001.

College football

Iowa tight end Tony Moeaki (mow-Eah-key), wide receiver Derrell Johnson-Koulianos (KOOL-e-AH-nos) and tackle Bryan Bulaga aren't listed on the depth chart for Saturday's game at No. 5 Penn State. Their absence leaves their status for the Hawkeyes' Big Ten opener in doubt. Moeaki and Johnson-Koulianos missed last week's win over Arizona with injuries. Bulaga has been out the last two weeks because of an undisclosed illness.

Pro Basketball

Michael Beasley is back with the Miami Heat. The second-year forward out of Kansas State worked out with teammates at the Heat practice facility Monday. He was released from a Houston rehabilitation center this weekend after a monthlong stay. Beasley easily passed his team conditioning test, said Heat coach Erik Spoelstra, added that Miami is "100 percent" behind the forward. Miami opens training camp next immunity for his federboyfriend were 'going down.' Richardson says he called and told her to leave the New Jersey house she shared with kingpin Alton Coles. Both were soon arrested.

Martial arts

Herschel Walker is starting a new career in mixed martial arts. The 47year-old former NFL running back said Monday that he has signed a multi-fight contract with promoter Strikeforce. Walker will begin a 12-week training camp next month in San Jose, Calif. The 1982 Heisman Trophy winner already holds a fifth-degree black belt in Tae Kwon Do.

Auto racing

Nelson Piquet Jr. wishes every day he had refused orders to deliberately crash at a race. The fallout from that incident hit Monday, when Formula One spared his former team severe punishment but indefinitely banned the disgraced official who called for the crash. Renault received a suspended ban; the team would be permanently disqualified from the sport if it breaks the FIA's rules within the next two years. Flavio Briatore, who quit as team principal last week, was banned indefinitely from F1 activities by the World Motor Sport Council.

■ Richard Childress Racing will lose sponsor Jack Daniels at the end of the season. Jack Daniels has been with RCR since 2005 and spent this season sponsoring the No. 07 Chevrolet for Casey Mears. The decision was made after a change in spending priorities by parent company Brown-Forman.

Tennis

Former top-ranked player Justine Henin will announce her return to competitive tennis today, according to two top Belgian newspapers. La Derniere Heure and Le Soir reported the comeback Monday. Last year, Henin shocked the tennis world by announcing her retirement while still ranked No. 1.

Astros fire manager Cooper

HOUSTON—The Houston Astros. who failed to make any sort of serious run at the postseason this year, fired manager Cecil Cooper on Monday with 13 games left in the season.

Third-base coach Dave Clark was named interim manager. The Astros were 70-79 headed into Monday's home against St. Louis.

The 59-year-old Cooper was hired on Aug. 27, 2007, to replace Phil Garner. Houston went 171-170 under Cooper, who was the bench coach under Garner between 2005-2007.

Cooper became the fourth manager to get fired this season, all of them in the National League. Arizona dismissed Bob Melvin on May 7, Colorado replaced Clint Hurdle on May 29 and Washington fired Manny Acta on July 13.

Astros general manager Ed Wade said a change was needed. He said making the move now will give the Astros a chance to evaluate "other facets of our operation" heading into the offseason.

He said Clark would be considered a candidate during the search for a new manager.

South Florida's Grothe out for the season

The Bulls suffered a huge setback in their 59-0 win over Charleston Southern on Saturday when senior quarterback Matt Grothe suffered a season-ending knee injury in the second quarter.

Grothe tore the ACL in his left knee, and will miss the rest of the season, South Florida head coach Jim Leavitt confirmed Monday morning on the Big East conference call.

"Matt's a great quarterback, we all know that," Leavitt said. "His play speaks volumes. He's a great young man and we all feel bad for him."

Redshirt freshman B.J. Daniels finished the game against Charleston Southern, and finished with 149 passing yards, a passing touchdown, and also added 105 rushing yards and two rushing touchdowns.

"B.J. has tremendous talent, he throws well, runs very well, and has great leadership ability," Leavitt said. "We recruited B.J. knowing those things. He'll continue to grow and develop and he's excited about the opportunity."

Leavitt said Grothe will continue to travel with the team on all road trips, and maintain a leadership role.

"He's an incredible young man, and will do all he can to lead this football team," Leavitt said.

Grothe is the second South Florida player who is out for the season. Bulls' kicker Maikon Bonani injured his back in a freak accident at an amusement park in the summer and was not able to play this year.

counting the playoffs.

"I was trying too hard on both of them," Reed said. "That's what happens to a kicker when you hook them. I thought the first one was going to sneak in, but I didn't give the second one a chance. I'm just embarrassed because these guys fought their tails off to win the game.'

Reed, 12th in NFL career field goal accuracy, hadn't missed twice since Sept. 26, 2004, when he was 2 for 4 during monsoon-like conditions hours after a hurricane passed through Miami. The Steelers won anyway, 13-3.

Twice in his career, Reed has had only two misses in a season — 2002 (17 of 19 after signing at midseason) and 2007 (23 of 25).

In 2003, he had a pair of games in which he missed twice. But the Steelers easily won one of those, beating Oakland 27-7, and the second came a week later against the Jets during a 6-0 loss played in blizzardlike conditions.

Reed had his typical start to this season as the Steelers beat the Titans 13-10 on Sept. 10, with Reed nailing a 33-varder in overtime after tying it with a 32-yarder with 2:57 remaining in the fourth quarter.

'You can go from an all-time high of kicking a game-winner and then feeling at an all-time low coming up missing two," wide receiver Hines Ward said. "But we still have confidence in Jeff. There's no need for anybody to say anything to Jeff. Jeff knows what's expected of him.'

Yes, and it wasn't this.

The two misses have gotten Reed off to a disappointing start in an important season for him. He is unsigned past this season and while Reed is young by kicker's standards at 30, the Steelers brought in a younger kicker, Piotr Czech, to compete with him during training camp. Czech was released during the final roster cuts, but was impressive during his time with Pittsburgh.

Defenses can't catch Hawks' Cunningham

"CHICKEN-CHASING is how we used to train back in the old days. If you can catch this thing, you can catch greased lighting.'

of the University High football team should train to catch receiver Demetreas Cunningham. Arguably the state's most elusive player, Cunningham has become a human highlight reel through the season's first four games As of now Cunningham, a senior, has had a hand in 10 touchdowns. Seven of those scores were on receptions. His other three have come on an interception return, a kickoff return and a pass.

Perhaps that's how opponents'

This past week Cunningham also had a 55-yard touchdown reception and a 55-yard punt return called back because of penalties.

Despite the penalties, Cunningham still had one of his best games this season, hauling in six balls for 168 yards and two scores.

In other words, Cunningham was unstoppable.

With speed to burn and moves that don't quit, Cunningham is without a doubt the Hawks' most feared player. Kickers and punters kick away from him, opposing quarterbacks pass away from him, and defensive coordinators form special gameplans to stop him. None of it has worked.

The result is the same week in and week out. Once Cunningham gets his hands on the ball, both the crowd and the hair on the arms of every defender, stands straight up. Soon enough, he finds the end zone.

Cunningham's ability to seemingly score at will has helped the Hawks start the season 4-0.

In University's first game this year against North Marion, Cunningham got ahold of the ball eight times. Four of those plays ended in touchdowns. He accounted for 230 total yards on those eight touches.

In the Hawks' second game against East Fairmont, Cunningham pulled in three receptions for 72 yards and a touchdown. His most impressive play in that game, though, came on what has been described by some University fans as being the most exciting 16-yard loss in the history of sports. The play was an end around in which Cunningham reversed field multiple times, spun out of a handful of tackles and nearly broke free down the sidelines.

Against Buckhannon, Cunningham had three more touchdowns. Two of the scores came on passes from sophomore quarterback Travis Maraney and the other on one of his two interceptions in the game.

The reality is, Cunningham is a playmaker. When he touches the ball, things happen.

He shakes, he spins, he stops and starts. His fluid yet semierratic movements dazzle crowds and break ankles.

So, to those defenders attempting to tackle Cunningham in upcoming weeks, try what Rocky did and train by chasing a chicken. Otherwise, you may end up looking like a "Kentucky Fried idiot."

4-0 Cee-Bees buzzing over perfect start

BY GREG CAREY

An undefeated record for the Clay-Battelle high school football team says a lot, but perhaps not as much as what they have accomplished en route to that 4-0 start.

The Cee-Bees have dominated each of their first four opponents, while outscoring them by an amazing 191-23 margin.

Clay-Battelle head coach Ryan Wilson is pleased, but he assures that he and his players are far from satisfied.

"We're real excited with our start," Wilson said. "One of the things that we try to stress to our kids is it's one week at a time. For us to continue to have success, we have to improve each week."

With plenty of talent on both sides of the ball, Clay-Battelle is consistently strong with either its offense or defense on the field. It is quite a luxury for Wilson, knowing his offense will usually light up the scoreboard, but if it happens to have an off night, there's a high probability of his defense shutting down the opponent.

Offensively, the Cee-Bees are led by tailback Jordan Hockenberry. Hockenberry has rushed for a staggering 626 yards and nine touchdowns this season. The junior is averaging just over 12 yards per carry and has surpassed 100 yards in each of the Cee-Bees' four con-Hockenberry has become a better student of the game, particularly with his offensive line, which opens up the holes necessary for him to put up such terrific numbers.

"It's just experience because my freshman year I couldn't read blocks at all. It can be difficult waiting for blocks at times with the defense coming at you," Hockenberry said. "I would just get the ball and go, but with experience I've become more patient."

Wilson has also noticed better play from his offensive line and a more composed Hockenberry, which he believes are both key to the junior averaging 156.5 rushing yards per game.

"Jordan [Hockenberry] has done a great job but it all starts on the offensive line. Jordan does a great job of following his blocks and that's what separates him as a running back," Wilson said. "He reads his blocks and when it happens, he accelerates through."

In last Friday's 55-0 victory over rival Hundred, Hockenberry carried just 10 times for 172 yards and three touchdowns.

Another key to his tremendous start has been the downfield blocking of the Cee-Bees' wide receivers, according to Wilson.

"Our wide receivers did the best job blocking against Paden City that I have seen in a long time," he said. "They were making big time blocks and we had some big runs because our receivers were blocking downfield."

Quarterback Lucas Cottrell has been steady in his first year starting at the varsity level. While the Cee-Bees passing game may not be as potent as their rushing attack, Cottrell benefits from having a great supporting cast. In the blowout victory over Hundred, Cottrell had one of his better performances, completing 8 of 10 passes for 155 yards and two touchdowns.

"This is [Cottrell's] first year on varsity but he's done a good job so far," Hockenberry said.

The Clay-Battelle defense is a fierce group that constantly swarms opposing offenses. Defensive coordinator Eric Ammons earned praise from Wilson for keeping his defenders hungry and giving them free-es to fewer than six points per game.

"Coach Ammons does a great job of calling the game and the kids execute it, they like playing defense. Come Friday night, our defense has a great scouting report and our kids just go out and react," Wilson said.

In its first game of the season, Clay-Battelle held Trinity to 25 total yards. Ammons' unit has posted two shutouts in 2009 and limited another opponent, Bishop Donahue, to just seven points.

Clay-Battelle will head out-ofstate for this week's matchup with Clear Springs, Md.

Although he would be hard pressed to have scripted a better start, Wilson does not want to see any regression from his team.

'We are a good football team right now," he said. "But, can we be a better football team? Yes we can. And, if we continue to get better each week that will lead to our success."

The Dominion Post's Eric Hanlon picks the area's top 10 teams.

POWER POLL

1. UHS girls' soccer — The Hawks are now the state's second ranked team and remain unbeaten at 9-0-1. To this point, University has posted eight shutouts and allowed only two goals all year, which is the least amount in the state.

2. C-B football — The Cee-Bees have been overpowering on both offense and defense. To this point C-B has allowed outscored its opposition by a combined score of 191-23.

3. UHS girls' XC — The Hawks continue to win races, taking first at the Mountaintop Combo in Preston on Saturday. This is a big win for the Hawks as the Combo is considered to be one of the best races in the Mid-Atlantic Region.

4. UHS volleyball - After beating Preston at home this past week, the Hawks have taken the drivers' seat in the NCAC and have shown that they could be state tournament material.

5. UHS football — The Hawks won't be tested until Oct. 2 against Fairmont Senior. At least that's what I thought. Although the Hawks won, they got a scare at Elkins on Friday. Then again, until someone figures out how to tackle senior receiver Demetreas Cunningham, UHS won't lose.

6. PHS volleyball — The Knights got down early against the Hawks and despite an exciting comeback, still lost. For some reason, Preston struggles on the road. To have any success in the state tournament, that's something the Knights will need to overcome.

7. MHS girls' soccer — The for hanging in there with the Hawks last week. Although they lost, the Mohigans are one of only two schools to score on UHS this season. That should provide some confidence come playoff time.

8. MHS boys' soccer -- The good news is that Morgantown has allowed no goals in its past two games. the bad news, it's scored just as many. No one is a fan of scoreless ties, especially two in a row.

9. UHS boys' soccer — After tying three straight games, the Hawks finally earned a decision. Unfortunately for UHS, it faced the state's third ranked team, George Washington, and lost 3-0.

10. PHS girls' XC — The Knights had four runners finish in the top 20 at the Mountaintop Combo on Saturday. But as hosts of the event, I thought they might finish a little better than they did. Still, not a bad outing at all.

Health bill changes to address Dem concerns

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The chairman of the Senate Finance Committee was revising his sweeping health care bill Monday to address serious concerns from fellow Democrats and a key Republican about insurance costs, part of his ongoing struggle to deliver on President Barack Obama's top domestic priority.

The changes came a day ahead of a committee session beginning Tuesday to amend and vote on the bill, which Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., hopes his panel will approve by the end of the week.

The 10-year, $856 billion package would extend coverage to about 29 million Americans who lack it now and institute insurance market reforms, such as prohibiting higher premiums for women or the denial of coverage to sick people. It would make almost everyone buy insurance or pay a fee, give subsidies to the poor to help them buy coverage and create new online exchanges where small businesses and people without government or employer-provided insurance could shop for plans and compare prices.

Release of the bill last week gave a boost to Obama's health care agenda after a summer of angry town hall meetings, though plenty of political and policy hurdles remain before Congress can send a bill to Obama's

In the days ahead, Baucus faces the difficult task of keeping his 13 committee Democrats on board without moving so far to the left that he alienates Sen. Olympia Snowe, R-Maine, the only one of the panel's 10 Republicans seen as likely to vote for the bill.

Snowe's support could become even more critical presuming health overhaul legislation makes it to the Senate floor, as Democrats look for the 60 votes needed to advance the bill.

Snowe and a number of Finance Committee Democrats have raised concerns about whether subsidies in Baucus' bill are generous enough to make insurance truly affordable for low-income people. There are also concerns about a new tax on highvalue insurance plans, which some fear would hit middle-class workers even though Baucus is directing it at so-called "Cadillac" insurance plans that he says are enjoyed by a minority of U.S. workers.

Government investigates health insurance mailer

WASHINGTON — The government is investigating a major insurance company for allegedly trying to scare seniors with a mailer warning they could lose important benefits under health care legislation in Congress.

The Health and Human Services Department launched its investigation of Humana after getting a complaint from Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont.

"It is wholly unacceptable for insurance companies to mislead seniors regarding any subject — particularly on a subject as important to them, and to the nation, as health care reform," Baucus said Monday.

Humana Inc., headquartered in Louisville, Ky., is cooperating with the investigation and stopped the mailer earlier this month, company spokesman Tom Noland said Monday.

CIA interrogations likely damage brain, memory, report says

WASHINGTON — The CIA's harsh interrogation program likely damaged the brain and memory functions of terrorist suspects, diminishing their physical ability to provide the detailed information the spy agency sought, according to a new scientific paper.

The paper scrutinizes the harsh techniques used by the CIA under the Bush administration through the lens of neurobiology. Researchers concluded that the harsh methods were biologically counterproductive to eliciting quality information because prolonged stress harms the brain's ability to retain and recall information.

"Solid scientific evidence on how repeated and extreme stress and pain affect memory and executive functions [such as planning or forming intentions] suggests these techniques are unlikely to do anything other than the opposite of that intended by coercive or enhanced interrogation," according to the paper published Monday in the scientific journal, "Trends in Cognitive Science: Science and Society.'

House moves to extend unemployment benefits

WASHINGTON — Despite predictions the Great Recession is running out of steam, the House is taking up emergency legislation this week to help the millions of Americans who see no immediate end to their economic miseries.

A bill offered by Rep. Jim McDermott, D-Wash., and expected to pass easily would provide 13 weeks of extended unemployment benefits for more than 300,000 jobless people who live in states with unemployment rates of at least 8.5 percent and who are scheduled to run out of benefits by the end of September.

The 13-week extension would supplement the 26 weeks of benefits most states offer and the federally funded extensions of up to 53 weeks that Congress approved in legislation last year and in the stimulus bill enacted last February.

IRS extends amnesty program for tax cheats

WASHINGTON - Procrastinating tax cheats will get a few extra weeks to apply for an amnesty program that has been flooded with applications from people who hid assets overseas.

The Internal Revenue Service said Monday it will extend the deadline, originally set for Wednesday, until Oct. 15.

More than 3,000 Americans have applied for the program, which promises no jail time and reduced penalties for tax dodgers who come forward, said a government official who spoke on condition of anonymity because the agency has not publicly released the size of the program.

The IRS is extending the deadline to give a rush of applicants more time to prepare their paper-

Mass. Senate again delays Kennedy succession bill

BOSTON - The Massachusetts Senate is again delaying debate on a bill allowing the governor to appoint an interim replacement for the U.S. Senate seat left vacant by the death of Edward Kennedy.

The five Republicans in the 40seat Senate are hoping to sway fence-sitting Democrats into voting down the measure.

Census: Recession had sweeping impact on U.S. life

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The recession is profoundly disrupting American life: More people are delaying marriage and home-buying, turning to carpools yet stuck in everworse traffic, staying put rather than moving to a new city.

A broad array of U.S. census data, for release on Tuesday, also shows a dip in the foreign-born population last year, to under 38 million after it reached an all-time high in 2007. This was due to declines in low-skilled workers from Mexico searching for jobs in Arizona, Florida and California.

Health coverage swung widely by region, based partly on levels of unemployment. Massachusetts, with its universal coverage law, had fewer than one in 20 uninsured residents — the lowest in the nation. Texas had the highest share, at one in four, largely because of illegal Hispanic immigrants excluded from government-sponsored and employer-provided plans.

Demographers said the latest figures were striking confirmation of the social impact of the economic decline as it hit home in 2008. Findings come from the annual American Community Survey, a sweeping look at life built on information from 3 million households.

Preliminary data earlier this year found that many Americans were not moving, staying put in big cities rather than migrating to the Sunbelt because of frozen lines of credit. Mobility is at a 60-year low, upending population trends ahead of the 2010 census that will be used to apportion House seats.

"The recession has affected every-

Report: More troops needed for Afghan war success

WASHINGTON — President Barack Obama's top commander in Afghanistan has told him that without more troops the United States could lose the war Obama has described as the nation's foremost military priority.

Obama must now decide whether to commit thousands or additional American forces or try to hold the line against the Taliban with the troops and strategy he has already approved. Obama made clear in television interviews Sunday that he is reassessing whether his narrowed focus on countering the Afghan insurgency is working and will not be rushed into a decision about additional troops.

"Resources will not win this war, but under-resourcing could lose it," Gen. Stanley McChrystal wrote in a five-page Commander's Summary. His confidential 66-page report, sent to Defense Secretary and sacrifice have resulted in some progress, many indicators suggest the overall effort is deteriorating," McChrystal said of the war's progress.

Robert Gates on Aug. 30, is now under review at the White House. "Although considerable effort

Geoff Morrell, a deputy assistant secretary of defense for communications issues, said in a statement the assessment "is a classified, pre-decisional document, intended to provide President Obama and his national security team with the basis for a very important discussion about where we are now in Afghanistan and how best to get to where we want to be.'

While asserting that more troops are needed, McChrystalm, the top U.S. and NATO commander in Afghanistan, also pointed out an "urgent need" to significantly revise strategy. The U.S. needs to interact better with the Afghan people, McChrystal said, and better organize its efforts with NATO allies.

Quake kills at least 7 in Bhutan

Associated Press

GAUHATI, India — A 6.3-magnitude earthquake shook the remote mountain nation of Bhutan on Monday, killing at least seven people when their houses collapsed and damaging buildings across the region, officials said.

The afternoon earthquake was initially reported in Gauhati, the capital of India's northeastern Assam state, but it was centered in a little-populated eastern region of the tiny nation of Bhutan.

Much of Bhutan is sparsely populated, reachable only by walking paths and without electricity or telephones.

"We're trying to piece together information to assess the damage," Ugyen Tenzing, the country's director of disaster management said from Thimphu, Bhutan's capital.

He said at least seven people were killed when their houses collapsed in the eastern districts of Munggar and Trashigang, and rescuers were searching for survivors under the debris of other buildings. He had no further details.

Govt: 1 swine flu shot enough for older kids

WASHINGTON — Studies of the new swine flu vaccine show children 10 and older will need just one shot for protection against swine flu — but younger kids almost certainly will need two.

Protection kicks in for older children within eight to 10 days, just like it does for adults, the National Institutes of Health announced Monday.

But younger children aren't having nearly as robust an immune reaction to the swine flu shot, and it appears they'll need two shots 21 days apart, said Dr. Anthony Fauci. head of NIH's National Institute of

That's not a surprise, since the very young often need two doses of vaccine against regular winter flu the very first time they're immunized against that version of influenza, too, Fauci stressed.

'This is acting strikingly similar to seasonal flu" vaccine, Fauci said. "Overall, this is very good news for the vaccination program."

It means that most people in the U.S. will have to line up for influenza vaccinations twice this for the regular winter flu shot and a second time to be inoculated against swine flu, what doctors call the 2009 H1N1 strain. But here's a twist: If a very young year instead of three times - once child happens to be getting their firstever seasonal flu vaccination this year, that tot would need a total of four shots — two against regular flu and two against swine flu.

Once swine flu shots start arriving next month, it will be OK for kids — or people of any age — to get one in each arm on the same visit, said Dr. Anne Schuchat of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Senate bill could weaken the Federal Reserve

WASHINGTON — Consensus is building in the Senate for legislation that would significantly weaken the Federal Reserve by stripping its power to oversee banks and hand that job to a single federal bank regulator.

The proposal by Senate Banking Committee Chairman Christopher Dodd to merge federal prudential oversight into a single regulator differs from a plan by President Barack Obama. But it's gaining traction among Dodd's colleagues who think the Fed didn't do enough to prevent the current market crisis.

"If you look at the record here of the failure of the regulatory bodies, all roads seem to lead to the Federal Reserve," said Sen. Richard Shelby of Alabama, the top Republican on the banking panel.

Since its creation almost a century ago, the Fed has grown into a major power broker and guardian of the financial system. It plays various roles on the government's behalf in protecting the economy, including the supervision of banks to ensure the "safety and soundness" of the financial system and enforcement of rules to protect consumers.

But the Fed's primary mission is considered its role as the nation's central bank. In that capacity, it sets monetary policy and acts as a bank's "lender of last resort."

As part of a sweeping reform effort in response to last year's financial crisis, Obama has proposed empowering the Fed further by tasking it with deciding whether a financial institution has grown so big and over-leveraged that its failure could bring down the entire economy.

Look at only the North and East hands. South is in four hearts. Your partner, West, leads the club ace. Which card would you play?

Since you have a doubleton club, play your seven, the start of an echo (high-low).

Partner, watching for once(!), continues with the club king and another club, declarer following throughout. After ruffing the third club, what would you lead to start trick four?

In the auction, South might have raised to three no-trump, a contract that would have succeeded unless the defenders attacked diamonds quickly. But it was hard for South not to show his fifth heart.

Did you try to cash the diamond ace? If so, you did not work out the shape of South's hand. The bidding showed that he had (at least) 5-5 in the majors. He has also turned up with three clubs. So he must be void in diamonds, his hand's distribution being 5-5-0-3. Shift to a trump and declarer

Note that if you do not return a trump, declarer can crossruff home, taking two spades and eight hearts must lose one more trick.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I contracted the human papillomavirus (HPV) more than 30 years ago. The gynecologist who treated me then did not tell me I was contagious. I thought he cured me, as he did not tell me it was permanent.

What can you tell me about this disease? I hope you can help me, since no one knows that I have this problem, not even my primary-care physician.

DEAR READER: The cold and HPV are similar. Each is the result of viruses, and there are more than 100 types of HPV and hundreds of cold viruses. Neither has a cure, but fortunately, most of the viruses responsible do not cause serious complications. Colds and HPV are also extremely common. Some types of HPV may even resolve without treatment.

Unlike colds, most people never know they have a human-papillomavirus infection, since most do not cause symptoms or cause other health problems. About 20 million Americans are currently infected, and another 6 million become infected each year.

Some of the types of human papillomavirus can cause genital warts or cervical, vaginal or vulvar cancer. Most other types of HPV will be contracted and even passed on without the person ever knowing.

The cancers are treated exactly the same as non-HPV-related cancers — radiation, chemotherapy and surgical removal of the affected organ(s) or tissue.

Practicing safe sex can reduce the risk of contracting HPV, but abstinence is best. Today, there is also a vaccine for girls and women ages 9 to 26 that may prevent the four types of HPV that cause most cases of cervical cancer and genital warts. It is not recommended for women over 26 and is thought to be most effective if given before sexual activity is begun.

Speak with your primary-care physician or gynecologist about your history with human papillomavirus. I cannot give more specific advice since you do not say how you came to be diagnosed. Was it by chance during a routine Pap smear? Or did you present with symptoms? By keeping this important medical history a secret, you may be harming yourself.

DR. PETER GOTT is a retired physician. Write him at Dr. Gott c/o United Media, 200 Madison Ave., 4th floor, New York, NY 10016.

Conditions in general should help bring substantial improvements. You can only be stopped by your own doubts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) —

Focus your efforts and energies on those critical, long-neglected endeavors. Once you make them a priority, you'll successfully wrap them up in short order.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — Don't be shy about getting in touch with those who can help advance a present interest.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — This might finally mark the day when you will start to receive long-overdue remuneration. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)

- Many people have big concepts, but they do not always know what to do with them. In your case, an idea might not be grandiose or elaborate, but you'll know how to market it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — There are two areas in which you could be extremely fortunate. One is where your material interests are concerned; the other is likely to be your standing among peers in the community.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) — An interesting merger could take place when an old goal intertwines with a new one.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) — Although you can sometimes be shy about doing things, instead of ducking challenges or questionable objectives, you're likely to relish them. Don't doubt vourself. ARIES (March 21-April 19) —

Have you stayed in touch with friends who have moved away some time ago? If not, track them down, because something workrelated awaits you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) —

Unexpected occurrences might normally bother you, but not at this time. As conditions shift or circumstances alter without your instigation, you'll end up liking the results.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — You've always had the ability to see both sides of an issue, and you are likely to be extremely happy that this asset is functioning so well.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Be careful not to sell your abilities or talents short. Others will recognize what you have to offer.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Take advantage of any dealings with influential people who seem to be willing to do what they can for you.
