CHURCH FOLKS LEADING

IN WELFARE WORK

Not Rushing Forward To Advertise

Y. M. C. A. RECRUITING MEMBERS

Leading Women In Cities Near Campments To Create Healthful Social Life.

Reports from nearly all of the thirty-two centres, where are located the training camps of the National Army and National Guard, show that in all of them church people are leading in welfare work for enlisted men. "Behind the Red Cross subscription movement in St. Louis," said Rev. William C. Bitting of that city the other day, "were the church members of the city. The dynamo was not the Government. It was not the Red Cross as such. And the biggest thing St. Louis ever did was its Red Cross subscription. Big money? Yes, but the thing was more than money. It was service. And St. Louis and the whole Middle West are better for it. They are ready as never before for more such work."

As fast as soldiers and sailors arrive at camps canvasses are made, military commanders cooperating. These canvasses are showing what men belong in Masonic and other lodges, what men play tennis well and are fond of doing so, what men wish to belong to dancing clubs, and of course whether men are Catholics or Protestants, or care for religious privileges. It is found that enlisted men invariably respond to these approaches. Indianapolis takes its new visitors sight-seeing in automobiles as soon as they arrive. So does Chattanooga. Niagara Falls converted a hotel into a club, and Chattanooga voted as a city to pay the rental of a building that has been converted into a club. The last named city also has provided a swimming pool twenty five acres in extent.

The Y. M. C. A. is recruiting not only members, but leading women in cities near which enlisted men are encamped to create a healthful social life, for the benefit of both the men and the women, the promotion of good feeling, the driving away of homesickness, and the insuring of good morals. Golf clubs are opening their links. Some cities are issuing small newspapers containing lists of recreational attractions and events. Thousands of lawyers, bankers and others, who never before lifted their hands to do anything for others, have turned missionaries at their own cost.

Churches are not rushing forward to advertise themselves. Protestants and Catholics, they are forgetting themselves and working for causes through organizations best fitted and most experienced in the work in hand. It is right that the Government, having sent men out to fight, see to their care through the Red Cross. It is also right that church people back the Red Cross and all of these agencies. That is the very thing they are doing. And there will follow the close of this war such progress in temperance, in morals, in justice, in democracy, as we have all practiced for years. We have had our years of evangelism. Now we are to have our years of applied Christianity. This is the greatest of wars. It is to bring the greatest of honors to men who win victory in it.

Postal Employees Not to be Exempted.

A ruling issued by the Postoffice Department shows that department officials will make few requests for the exemption of postal employees from military service. Postmasters are instructed not to ask for exemption for carriers or laborers or for clerks in second-class offices below the $1,000 grade, clerks in first-class offices below the $1,100 grade or any above these grades unless they are qualified distributors of mail.

The ruling is the first formal action by an executive department in compliance with President Wilson's order directing that department officials indicate exemptions and that requirement of indispensability be rigidly enforced.

Red Cross to Look After Dependents.

Henry P. Davison, Chairman of the War Council made the following announcement:

"The American people will not, of course, permit families to suffer want because their breadwinners are fighting for their country. Cases will undoubtedly arise wherein the allowance of the Government will not be adequate to protect a family from financial distress. Such instances the Red Cross will hope to provide for through its chapters."

MISINFORMATION IN REGARD TO RAISE IN RENTS IN ANNISTON

Without Any Foundation Says H. A. Goodlett, a Resident.—A Product of Somebody's Imagination.

There are residents of Anniston, Ala., in Washington who are indignant over a statement which appeared in newspapers that prices for rent had excessively risen in that town in anticipation of the encampment and where troops of the National Guard have been assigned for rendezvous. Anniston is a flourishing modern industrial city of the new South, with plenty of living accommodations, according to persons from there, and so well pleased are the inhabitants to have secured the slightest disposition to "gouge" anybody.

"The statement that rents in Anniston," says H. A. Goodlett, a resident there "have become exorbitant, renters taking advantage of the coming of troops, with officers and possibly members of their families, is without any foundation in fact and must be the product of somebody's overzealous imagination."

"Officers of the troops who go to Anniston, in the face of that grossly unjust statement, will be agreeably surprised, not only in the fine healthfulness of the situation and the pleasing aspect of town and its environment, but they can have nothing in reason for complaint of prices for accommodation of any kind that may be supplied by the patriotic and unselfish citizens who compose the community. The dominating people there would stand for no imposition upon their fellow countrymen in any form. No place in the country where troops have been assigned to train will have a heartier welcome and fairer treatment than will be given those who camp at Anniston."

FROM THE COUNTY.

Law violators paid Frederick city government more than $500 in fines during the past three months. In making out his report Sergeant John D. Engelbrecht points out that the cases were not of a serious nature the bulk being "disturbing of the peace."

The Frederick city exemption board Joseph D. Baker, chairman, announced Friday its first call to the colors. Nine young men—George Robert Shaw, Jacob E. Wastler, Carl B. Willard, Melvin L. Jackson, Leslie E. Bopst, Edwin R. Kump, John L. Wininger, Collie Clifford Edwards and James C. Jones—were declared eligible for military service.

With the welfare of its employees and their families in mind, the Ox Fibre Brush Company, of Frederick recently took out an insurance policy in the Aetna Life Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn., on the life of each one of its employees, so that in case of death of the insured, providing he or she is still an employe of the company at the time of death, his or her family will receive an amount equal to a year's income based on their past earnings.

School children needed by parents to gather the fall harvests and to relieve the shortage of labor because by the raising of the conscription army will be excused from school for the first two weeks and will be given full credit for work according to an announcement made on Monday by G. Lloyd Palmer, superintendent of Frederick County Schools.

Three more toll gates ceased to exist Monday when the Liberty and New Windsor Pike Company turned its holding over to the county commissioners of Frederick and Carroll counties. The Carroll county officials paid the turnpike company $900 for the four miles of road in that county. The Frederick county officials refused to purchase the three miles of highway in this county so the company made the officials a present of the road.

Five cattle owned by R. D. Hawkins, who resides on the Eugene Derr farm on the Ceresville road, were killed by lightning during one of the heavy storms which passed over that section last week. The cattle were valued at upwards of $400, on which there was lightning insurance.

A freight car on train No. 3 plunged from the track above Myersville, Monday afternoon. The car struck a tree, which was the only thing that prevented its going through the residence of Alvey Horine. A wrecking crew replaced the car after hours of hard work.

Parks Fisher, Jr., nephew of the late Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley and a former newspaper man, died suddenly near Frederick on Sunday night. Death was due to pneumonia. Mr. Fisher was born in Baltimore 47 years ago.

Where Old Glory Goes

by Wilbur D Nesbit Author of
"Your Flag and My Flag"

Up and down in all the lands and all the seas between;
Brave and bold against the sky, and clear and fair and clean;
Winding through the wilderness, or on the beaten track;
Half the way around the world—and more than that, and back.
Whither will Old Glory go? But whither has it gone?
Mark the way of honor that it has not smiled upon.

Snapping from the halyard blocks of argosy and fleet;
Fluttering to fife and drum that time the marching feet;
Beating back the driven spray, and blazing o'er the sands—
It has led a starry way—a way through all the lands.
Whither will Old Glory go? But whither has it gone?
Where the spot it has not held the glory of the dawn?

Men have gone beneath it o'er the hills and o'er the waves;
Men feel its caresses while they slumber in their graves.
Red and white and blue it glows against the bending sky,
Bringing everywhere it goes new lustre to the eye.
Whither will Old Glory go? But whither has it gone?
Tell the miles it has not traced—the way it has not won!

The War From Day to Day IN Paragraph Form

The Medical Corps of the United States Army announced Friday that the French authorities had turned over to it two large military hospitals and also a large medical depot. American base hospital units are manning these institutions.

Army department commanders by War Department orders issued Friday are relieved of the national army cantonments and National Guard camps within their departments and will devote themselves entirely to the regular troops within their jurisdictions.

A peace resolution was introduced in the Senate Saturday by Senator La Follette providing that the United States define definitely the objects for which it shall continue to wage war, and that the Allies also make a public re-statement of the peace terms which they will demand.

Sinking of the American steamer Campana, a Standard Oil tanker, off the French coast, with the probable capture of the captain and four members of the naval guard by the attacking German submarine, was announced Saturday by the Navy Department.

Twenty-three persons, including 9 women and 8 children, were killed and 50 persons were injured at Southend, in Essex, 40 miles east of London by bombs dropped by German raiders Sunday, says an official statement issued.

Drafted persons whose religious beliefs prohibit their making war will be forwarded to mobilization camps, will make up part of the quota from their districts, and will be assigned to duty as noncombatants, Provost Marshal-General Crowder announced Monday.

The first edition of 100,000 copies of an English-French handbook, which will be supplied to the soldiers going to France, was sent to the War Department Monday by the National Security League.

Twenty Episcopalian and Presbyterian congregations in New York city have arranged to assist in the welfare of the soldiers of the new National Army who will be trained at the Yaphank (L. I.) Camp.

Sinking of the American bark Christiana by a submarine in the vicinity of the Azores August 7 at 7 P. M., was announced Monday by the Navy Department. The entire crew was saved and landed at Ponta del Gada.

The entire 687,000 composing the first increment of the Army draft force, will be under training early in October. Under orders issued Monday the first 30 per cent. of the quota of each district will begin entrainment for cantonments September 5, the next 30 per cent. September 15 and another 30 per cent. September 30. The remaining 10 per cent. will be mobilized as soon after that date as possible.

Major General Wood has recommended to the War Department that a tract of 120 to 150 acres at each cantonment in his department be set aside for the cultivation of vegetables to supply the soldiers tables. His plan has received the indorsement of Herbert Hoover.

Specific and concrete conditions which his Holiness Pope Benedict believes may form the basis of world peace have been forwarded to the rulers of all nations.

The Pope, in outlining these conditions, makes a new and general appeal for the restoration of peace.

The appeal is addressed to all neutrals as well as the belligerents.

Two more nations—Argentina and China—appeared Tuesday ready to plunge into the caldron of war, and another apparently is on the brink of being forced in.

Congress soon will be asked to authorize another loan of between $3,000,000,000 and $4,000,000,000 to the Allies.

Secretary McAdoo and Chairman Kitchin of the Ways and Means Committee agreed on this Tuesday and also agreed upon the desirability of raising a larger sum than $2,000,000,000 for war purposes by taxation.

ADMINISTRATION APPEALING TO COUNTRY FOR STENOGRAPHERS

Scarcity Emphasizes Growth of National Capital Since War Began.—Population Increasing Rapidly.

A news dispatch from Washington says: The scarcity of stenographers in the Government service which has now become so great that the Administration is virtually appealing to the country to help supply its needs, emphasizes the phenomenal growth of the National Capital since the war opened—for it should be understood that where one skilled worker is need perhaps a dozen others must be employed. One of the leading merchants of Washington, in a recent speech, predicted that within three years the city would have a population of 700,000—it is now only a trifle more than half that figure. This startling estimate was generally questioned as being too enthusiastic, but it is learned that the business man based his remarks upon data prepared by Government officials setting forth what the needs of the Federal Government will be in the matter of personnel in the immediate future. If the estimate is too high, it is because it was calculated on the theory of five persons to a family among the newcomers, and failed to make allowance for the fact that many of the new employees will be unmarried men and women who will come alone. Even among the unmarried, however, mothers and sisters and perhaps younger brothers will come along with the new clerks, and the most conservative estimate suggests that within three years the population of Washington will be 500,000. As an example of how the Government force is growing, an office in charge of one of the army officers detailed to special duty contained himself and seven other persons when the war broke out. He now is employing 206 civilians, and expects that by October 1 the number will be increased to 1,000. Twelve thousand persons have entered the Government service since war was declared, and 43,000 more will be needed.

STATE CONDENSED.

Fire of unknown origin Thursday night destroyed the saloon formerly operated by Oscar Riehl at Cabin Branch bridge, near Curtis Bay, Anne Arundel county. The loss will be about $4,000, partly covered by insurance.

After serving in the ministry of Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church for 35 years, the Rev. William Henry Harrison Powers died at his home in Towson Friday night following an illness of several months.

Six persons were badly injured Sunday morning when two automobiles ran together near Chesapeake City. The exact extent of the accident is not known.

A conductor was killed and a telegraph operator in a tower was injured Sunday night when a Baltimore and Ohio engine, being coupled to freight train at Alexandria Junction, near Hyattsville, Md., backed into the train with too much force, knocked four cars off the track and sent them against the telegraph tower, toppling it to the ground.

George S. Jackson, of Baltimore was appointed to take charge of the food control situation in the territory which will include Baltimore.

At a point in "the Narrows," a half mile west of Cumberland, the sidecar carrying Private George Budrer, of Baltimore became detached from its motor-cycle and went over the embankment down to the edge of the Wills Creek. Private Budrer was bruised and his shoulder blade was broken.

Mrs. Mary M. Rodham, for more than 50 years postmistress at Parkville, died Monday morning. She was 88 years old.

Three new cases of infantile paralysis have been reported in Allegheny county.

Bishop Luther B. Wilson, formerly of Baltimore, and Chattanooga, Tenn., now resident bishop in New York city of the Methodist Episcopal Church, on Monday sailed for France in connection with the Young Men's Christian Association work among the troops.

Promptly at the hour 3 Monday afternoon, with practically every one of the 1,600 men in the best of marching shape the Fifth Maryland Regiment, under command of Col. Washington Bowie, Jr., arrived at Camp Overlook, near Cocksessville. The entire trip from the Fifth Regiment Armory, in Baltimore, was made without incident.

The stockholders, of the Maryland Lumber Company, of Hagerstown, with capital stock outstanding of $215,000, have authorized the directors to class out the business in whole or in part. The company has assets of more than (Continued on page 3.)

WORLD AFTER THE WAR

NO SPECIFIC PRESAGES

Countries Piling Up Big War Debts

AN ECONOMIC TRANSFORMATION

One Possible Change Will Be Universal Disarmament.—Vast Saving to the World.

It would be idle to make any specific predictions as to what the economic conditions of the world will be after the war, but that a vast change in the mode of living and of doing business will be experienced is certain. For one thing, nearly all of the countries, neutrals as well as belligerents are piling up big war debts, the like of which never before was approached. It is this enormous indebtedness that will bring about an economic transformation little dreamed of before hostilities began nearly three years ago, says the Christian Science Monitor.

One of the changes that seems possible is universal disarmament. It is not altogether improbable that this will be one of the conditions of peace. If figures were at hand to show the vast saving to the world which disarmament would afford, they would be almost beyond belief. The economic necessities of the people will be the strong argument in favor of disarmament, and much of the world will be ready for it when peace is restored. The enormous cost in man power, since the war began, would be largely compensated for if this were accomplished. Many thousands of men would thus be released from destructive occupations and given constructive employment.

It is altogether within the realms of reason that, after the war, there will be a more equitable distribution of wealth throughout the world. The high wages now being paid as a result of the demands of war, and the heavy taxes levied on large incomes and excess profits of corporations may become a fixture. With this readjustment there would be less likelihood of strikes.

Greater social and political equality will be enjoyed with the triumph of democracy. The trenches have been a great leveler. The work which the women have performed in the war crisis has practically assured them universal suffrage. It may not come at once, but it has made greater strides in the war period than in all the preceding years. The part which women will play in commercial and industrial activities after peace is restored is an altogether unknown quantity, but the sum total of their efforts toward the restoration of the world's business must have great weight.

New inventions stimulated by war's requirements, increased acreage of farm and garden, closer international relationships, and higher aims of mankind generally, have already been experienced, and will serve a good purpose hereafter. The world is likely to awake after the war is over, to find itself on an altogether new and different plane of action, and to experience a far more genuine prosperity.

Marines Do Not Favor Khaki.

The marines of the expeditionary force will make a fight to retain their forest-green uniforms against a tentative order which would place them in the regular Army khaki. The marines think they can arrange a necessary supply of their distinctive clothing, but Army officers feel it would perhaps be better to have the entire expeditionary force in khaki.

The marines hold that to abandon their distinctive dress would tend to lower the morale of the men, which in turn would rob the expedition of the spirit of friendly rivalry now existing between services. The marines cite the case of the Alpine chasseurs in France, who won their fight early in the war to retain their distinctive uniforms of dark blue against an order that all French troops should wear horizon blue.

Will Revolutionize Grain Production.

If Luther Burbank is not mistaken in the promise of a "superwheat" which he has created by plant breeding he has got something that will revolutionize grain production in the United States by producing from 50 to 70 bushels of wheat an acre where ordinary wheat now yields 15 or 20 bushels says the Springfield Republican. The world is going to need that kind of help and a newspaper writer who has talked with Mr. Burbank at Santa Rosa, Cal., found him confident of making his forecast good in this important matter.

SELL YOUR WHITE CORN---NOW

Never before has the farmer had the opportunity to sell his corn at such profitable prices as it has been bringing recently.

But prices are now declining so do not hold over until too late. Otherwise with the new crop coming in, you will have to sell at a much lower price than the market now affords.

You will have no trouble disposing of your crop if you act quickly. We will make you a satisfactory offer on all white corn you have, on the cob or shelled. Also yellow corn.

Write or wire us immediately, and we will make arrangements to take your corn before prices drop further.

Some Leaving the Government.

According to word received from the Capitol, many Government employes, particularly in the scientific bureaus, bitterly resent the influx of new employes; not that they are jealous of their own positions but that the Government, in its eagerness to secure men and women enough to do its work, is offering larger salaries to outsiders than to its old employes.

Features of Soldiers' Compensation Bill

Insurance for every fighting man and nurse at $8 per $1,000. Each enlisted man to send $15 a month to his wife and Government to add $32.50 if there are two children, with $5 for each additional child.

Stomach And Liver Troubles.

No end of misery and actual suffering is caused by disorders of the stomach and liver, and may be avoided by the use of Chamberlain's Tablets.

Great Demand for Seed Wheat.

Owing to the fact that several severe hailstorms passed through certain sections of Frederick County and totally destroyed the wheat crop there will be an unusual demand for seed wheat in this county.

Proceeds of First Crop to Red Cross.

The first three bales of Georgia's new cotton crop to arrive in New York were auctioned from the steps of the Cotton Exchange Monday for $700 nearly 50 cents a pound. The money was given to the Red cross war fund.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Deep cultivation in the orchard may do more harm than good. Three inches is deep enough around trees—once in two weeks.

CURING SWEET CLOVER.

Hay Should Be Left In Swath Until the Plants Are Well Wilted. [Prepared by United States department of agriculture.]

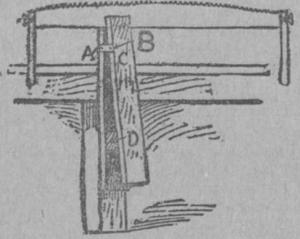

Serious injury to sweet clover stands may result by cutting the first crop of the second season too close to the ground. Examination of hundreds of acres of sweet clover in different sections of the United States during 1915 and 1916 showed that the stand on at least 50 per cent of the fields was partially or entirely killed by cutting too close.

One of the most successful methods for handling sweet clover hay is to allow the plants to remain in the swath until they are well wilted or just before the leaves begin to cure. The hay should then be raked into windrows and cocked at once. The cocks should be made as high and as narrow as possible, as this will permit better ventilation.

In stacking sweet clover a cover should be provided either in the form of a roof, a canvas or long green grass. A foundation of rails, posts or boards is desirable, as this will permit the circulation of air under the stack.

Clamp For Saws.

Here is a plan for a saw clamp that is easy to make and is as good as a purchased one. Take two boards 2 by 6 inches and about three and one-half feet long.

HOLDS SAW FIRMLY.

Plant Buckwheat.

Land to be used for buckwheat this year will be in proper condition for July seeding if plowed in early June and worked a few times before the crop is seeded.

Make Pigs Exercise.

Make pigs take exercise. A well fed pig that does not exercise is likely to get the thumps, and a pig with the thumps is as good as a dead pig, in the opinion of Carl P. Thompson, specialist in animal husbandry.

CHESTNUT TREAT.

Nick and Nancy had been talking about Chestnut hunting. For when it came time for Chestnuts, both of them were ready with their big white Bags to gather lots and lots of them.

"We'll have Roasted Chestnuts," said Dick.

"And I like them plain pretty well, too," said Nancy.

"Then we'll have them both ways," said Daddy, "though Roasting them is such fun, besides making them taste so fine."

"That's so," said Nancy. "Well, we'll eat a few of them plain as we're getting them, and the ones we bring Home we'll Roast."

"Settled," said Daddy. "And now that you are talking about the Chestnuts I must tell you of the Feast the Brownies gave the other night."

"Billie Brownie had been full of mystery for some time. He had gone about whispering Secrets to Peter Gnome, and he had also been very friendly with old Mr. Giant and had paid him many calls in his Cave. In addition to this he had been chatting with the Squirrels a good deal.

"All the Brownies and Gnomes wondered what it could be about. 'Billie certainly has some big Secret,' they said.

"Shortly after this Billie Brownie and Peter Gnome said they would not be Home for several days, but not to worry about them or go after them, for they were going to pay a visit to Mr. Giant, and when they came home there would be a surprise!

"All the Brownies and Gnomes were very much excited as they watched Billie and Peter start off. Billie carried his Bag which was made out of beautiful brown leather, and Peter Gnome had a Bag which he had painted a sky-blue color. They carried their Bags on long sticks over their shoulders.

"Good-by," they shouted. "We'll be back soon."

"They were lonely for a little while after Billie and Peter had left them, so they had a circus to keep up their spirits. They turned Somersaults and did all sorts of Tricks.

"In the meantime Billie and Peter were in the Giant's Cave. And all around the Cave were a great many Squirrels.

"Have you got enough? Peter Gnome was asking.

"We must have plenty, for we want this to be a wonderful Treat," said Billie.

"Yes," said the Squirrels in their little shrill voices, and Mr. Giant, in his deep, low voice said, "Yes. There will be plenty for all."

"You see Billie Brownie and Peter Gnome had asked the Squirrels to gather Chestnuts for them. These they took to Mr. Giant to keep for them in his Cave until the day of the Treat.

"And when Billie Brownie and Peter Gnome arrived at the Cave all the Chestnuts had been gathered.

"Now, let's get the Chestnuts out of the burs," they said.

"Mr. Giant stepped on them with his great, huge Feet, and in that way broke open the burs very quickly. Then the Squirrels, Billie Brownie and Peter Gnome set to work getting the Chestnuts out. After a time they had Bags and Bags full of them.

"The next day, and the one after, they spent most of the time getting enormous sticks and logs for the monstrous bonfire they were going to have.

"It will be right outside my Cave, won't it?" asked Mr. Giant.

"Oh, do you want us to have our Treat here?" asked Billie Brownie delightedly.

"Indeed I do," said the Giant, and the Squirrels all scolded. "Of course, the Treat must be here and no place else."

"So Billie Brownie and Peter Gnome went back to tell the Brownies and Gnomes that the Treat was all ready.

"They all came to Mr. Giant's Cave, and just before they arrived Mr. Giant put one of his Magic Wood Matches (which kind makes a blaze at once) to the enormous pile of wood and kindlings and branches. The Fire started at once and all the Brownies and Gnomes clapped their hands and tossed their hats up into the air. The Squirrels sat around on the nearby Trees and climbed about Mr. Giant's Cave. Then they roasted the Chestnuts, and how happy they were! For Mr. Giant, Brownies, Gnomes and Squirrels all enjoyed the jolly bonfire and the Treat of Chestnuts!"

Insignia Of The Military Rank.

You can tell the rank of an American army officer by knowing that:

A second lieutenant has an epaulette with no bar.

A first lieutenant has an epaulette with one white bar.

A captain has an epaulette with two white bars.

A major has an epaulette with a gold maple leaf thereon.

A lieutenant colonel has an epaulette with a silver maple leaf.

A colonel has an epaulette with a silver spread eagle thereon.

A brigadier general has an epaulette with one silver star.

A major general has an epaulette with two silver stars.

A lieutenant general has an epaulette with three silver stars.

A general is exceedingly rare. Thus far in our history there have been only two. They were Washington and Grant.

NO REASON FOR IT

You Are Shown A Way Out.

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the word of a resident of this locality who has found relief. The following is convincing proof of merit.

Geo. C. Boyer, machinist, 242 E. Patrick St., Frederick, Md., says: "I had terrible pains across my back and the attacks were so bad I could hardly move. The skin beneath my eyes was puffed up and my kidneys acted irregularly. One of my relatives, who had used Doan's Kidney Pills, recommended them to me and I got a box. They helped me from the first and I used about four boxes. Now, I am not troubled by my kidneys at all."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy - get Doan's Kidney Pills - the same that Mr. Boyer had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Heavy Exports Of Food For Year.

American breadstuffs exports in the year ending with June reached a value of $566,000,000, an increase of $144,000,000 over 1916. Meat shipments were valued at $360,000,000 against $258,000,000 last year.

DAINTY RAMEKIN DISHES.

Small amounts of food may be served in small casseroles or ramekins without the suggestion that they are leftovers. Vegetable leftovers may be taken from the table, put into the ramekins, and covered with a cream sauce, then when the meal is to be served all that is necessary is to add a spoonful of buttered crumbs and set them in a pan of hot water in the oven to heat. Asparagus tips, peas, beans, cauliflower, or onions, or two or three of each may be served, allowing the family to make a choice of the one most pleasing. Leftover desserts, of various kinds, may be reheated and served with addition of a little fruit or a custard or some liquid sauce which enhances the flavor of the pudding.

A hard-cooked egg added to a few ramekin dishes of macaroni and white sauce, or rice and cheese, will make an appetizing dish.

Dried beef, lobster, crab, chicken, or any remnant of beef, may be served in this manner most attractively.

Beef Tongue En Casserole.—Choose a tongue which has been slightly corned, remove all of the unsightly portions, rub with flour to which has been added a dash of ginger and allspice. Fry a few slices of salt pork, then put in a sliced onion and the tongue, tying it into shape. Flour it lightly on all sides. Make a cupful of gravy, adding the juice of a lemon, three tablespoonfuls of shredded almonds and a half cupful of seeded raisins. Put the tongue in a round casserole, pour the gravy over it and bake half an hour in a moderate oven. Untie the meat, turn out on a plate, and serve with the gravy over it.

Casserole Calves' Hearts.—Fry an onion in a little bacon fat, roll four calves' hearts in flour and brown. Put into a hot casserole one cupful of stock, a shredded pimento and half a teaspoonful of mixed whole spices. Cover tightly and bake two hours. Garnish the meat with curled bacon.

Records for the destruction of small bridges and the washing of highways were broken this summer during the period of dashing rains, which occurred most frequently during July and the latter part of June. After a careful survey of conditions throughout the county, President of the Board County Commissioners Frank M. Stevens says it will cost the county several thousand dollars to replace and to repair these bridges. Approximately 20 structures have been washed away in floods or have been so badly damaged that they must be repaired or be replaced.

With only about twenty positions yet to fill, the public school authorities have appointed the teaching staff to have charge of the instruction of the army of young folks of the county during the coming session. Superintendent of Schools Palmer has worked out a salary schedule for all regular grade teachers, except principals of the larger schools, and it has been adopted by the school boards. There are three grades of teachers, with two classes in each grade. The salary depends upon the term of service. The summer vacation will end on September 10 when upwards of 10,000 school kiddies will report to their respective schools. During the first week of September a teachers' institution will be held, over which Dr. B. W. Daily, head of the county school of pedagogy, will preside.

Plenty of Meat in Cold Storage.

Cold storage of food throughout the country on August 1, showed an increase over a year ago. Holdings of poultry increased 366 per cent. Meats and poultry holdings amount to more than 915,000,000 pounds.

RAILROADS MUST CARRY THE WHOLE ARMY WITHIN 48 HOURS

Mobilization Means Transportation Of 229,000 Men From 3,800 Cities And Towns To 16 Camps.

American railroads are face to face with their greatest task. Between Saturday, September 1, and Wednesday September 5, 229,000 soldiers of the national army must be mobilized. They must be moved from 3,800 cities and towns to 16 cantonments. Troop trains must have the right of way, and Government materials must move without a halt.

Half a hundred traffic experts are at work on the plan of transportation. Twenty-eight railway executives of the railway committee of the Council of National Defense are scheming. Lieut. Col. Chauncey B. Baker of the Quartermasters' Corps is working on the problem. Staff experts of Provost Marshal Gen. Enoch Crowder are also busy.

Moving the first third of the national army to the cantonments will take about one eighth of the equipment of the 176 railroads of the United States. It is estimated that 18,687 cars will be needed and 1,098 locomotives. This means that there will be 1,098 trains of approximately 16 cars each moving with troops over 176 different railroad systems in the United States simultaneously.

To facilitate the movement of the troops a railway expert will be assigned to every local board. With this expert the local boards will devise the scheme of mobilization. Orders have been issued that the most direct route be used and no discrimination between roads be made. In the case of parallel systems the traffic is to be divided equally between the two systems. In some cases it will be necessary to ration the troops en route. Provision is being made for this by ordering large supplies of food prepared at points where the troop trains may stop.

Baggage cars and baggage trains will be provided. Local boards have been instructed to be careful of proper facilities for drinking water and other conveniences.

Routes and times of departure will be kept secret, in accordance with the general policy of the War Department.

The problem of cost is also a heavy one. A subcommittee is at work on a military rate. The tariffs charged to the Government will be standardized and based on cost plus a reasonable profit. These rates will be submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Summer Complaint.

During the hot weather of the summer months some member of almost every family is likely to be troubled with an unnatural looseness of the bowels, and it is of the greatest importance that this be treated promptly, which can only be done when the medicine is kept at hand. Mrs. F. F. Scott, Scottsville, N. Y., states, "I first used Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy as much as five years ago. At that time I had a severe attack of summer complaint and was suffering intense pain. One dose relieved me. Other members of my family have since used it with like results."

THE WAR FROM DAY TO DAY.

National Guard troops sent to France, according to plans which have been perfected by the War Department for the organization of a division which will include troops from 26 States and the District of Columbia.

On Wednesday a new division of the Army General Staff was created under Brigadier General Francis J. Kernan, who will have full charge of the shipment of troops and supplies to France.

Federal Judge Westenhaver of Cleveland, Wednesday ruled that aliens can be taken into the army. The Court denied a writ of habeas corpus to John Hackenberg, of Akron, a guardsman, who claimed he was an Austrian and refused to be mustered in for war against Germany. Hackenberg is under arrest.

Conferences among Entente diplomats Wednesday crystallized into conviction the opinion in Washington that Pope Benedict's peace move is not likely to change in any substantial degree the attitude either of the Allies or the American government.

The Committee on Public Information on behalf of the War Department Thursday issued an official denial that American troops have been engaged in action on the French front and that 200 have been taken to the base hospitals wounded.

Sub-Secretary of State Ernesto G. Perez Thursday sent instructions to Ambassador Bonillas in Washington to investigate alleged reports that Mexicans are being forced into the United States Army.

Alaska's Gain Due to Copper and Gold

The commerce of Alaska for the fiscal year ended June 30 set a new record with a total of $115,000,000, according to official figures just compiled. This is an increase of $19,000,000 over the previous year.

Vastly increased shipments of copper, as a result of the war, and the exportation of $16,000,000 in gold were responsible for the big total.

Let it never be said that Frederick county lagged behind in a time of national peril.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catocin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland—the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State—there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatched; the climate is notably healthful; its water—pure mountain spring water—cannot be surpassed. It is within easy access of Baltimore, Hagerstown, Frederick; eight miles from the National Battlefield at Gettysburg, near to the Mountain Resorts, and is surrounded by fertile farms and productive orchards.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary—with an enviable reputation extending over 108 years—is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies—equally as noted during its 107 years of splendid achievement—is also here.

There are excellent Schools—Public and Parochial—in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liveries, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled streets.

There is business to be had in Emmitsburg; there are Factory Sites available. If you contemplate changing your place of residence—come to Emmitsburg, Frederick County, Md.

U. S. IS NOT IDLE.

It is no uncommon thing to hear the bystander ask, "What are we waiting for? Why don't the government do something? We've been at war for months and we haven't done anything yet."

The authentic answer to this (and it will be found that the question invariably comes from light weight persons who "just glimpse the papers") may be given in the words of one in authority who knows what he is talking about—one who is a part of and who gets his information from the inside: "The United States has done more in four months than Germany did in a year."

As the Louisville Courier-Journal aptly says: "A nation of 100,000,000 devoted to peace cannot get into a war calling for millions of men and billions of dollars with the savoir faire of a cotillion leader entering a ballroom or with the sang froid of the wearer of the championship belt stepping into the prize-ring. But being in, Americans will acquit themselves as Polonius advised Laertes to do, that those who sought the quarrel might rue their folly and respect the foe.

"Watch America. This country's preparation and performance in the world war will present to the world a new aspect of the American, already an epic figure in the story of human progress."

And is it not a fact that those who are now complaining about what they conceive to be dilatory tactics on the part of the government, in nine cases out of ten, are the ones who from the first were peace-at-any-price pacifists and anti-preparationists? "Their tools in Congress," comments the Milwaukee Sentinel, "prevented such preparedness against war as would have made risking the forcing of the United States into the war too visibly dangerous a proposition to be entertained by a Government with its hands full of trouble already."

At this very moment the Senate harbors Kaiserized German propogandists who are a disgrace to that body and to their country for whose honor they care not a rap. They are making history; but history that in days to come their offspring and the people in the States which they misrepresented will blush to read.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

Li Jo Ko The First and Only, was the wily heathen Chink, who's responsible for putting travel dope upon the blink. 'Twas he invented schedules for the railroads long ago—those lengthy mixed up tables, quite impossible to know. Upside down and backward, forward, he arranged the list of trains, so that any one attempting to get facts gets scrambled brains. Try to figure out departures or arrivals, anywhere, read the numbers and the footnotes and you're right up in the air; for the train that comes at seven, starts at seven and, alack, when you look for its outgoing why, you find it coming back. Start with any schedule column—its a Chinese alphabet—study hard with use of index, and just see how far you get. Certain trains stop at your station—these you mark, but then, alas, by referring to a note you see they do not stop, but pass. Sunday trains run only week days, daily trains, behind and few, and expresses stop at all points and excursions go right through. And they've never changed the system, they have kept in same old ruts; that's why railroad schedule makers and commuters are all "nuts."

THE BALTIMORE AMERICAN.

What would Baltimore be without the Baltimore American? A hundred and forty-four years is a ripe old age for a publication. Hard it is to grow old gracefully—to nod the time of day so often to the old man with the scythe and as each cycle passes show the imprint of youthful spirit and healthy progress. That is just what the American has done; is doing. General Agnus' widely-read journal is a Baltimore, a Maryland institution. So closely is its history interwoven with that of the City and State that to refer to the one immediately is to allude to the other.

The American is, to quote from its columns, "the Nestor of American newspapers. In its columns have appeared all the important events that have marked the progress of this great nation. It has fought all its wars—it has waved its glorious flag and has seen its stars grow from the original 13 to the 48 of today. One of its first advertisers was George Washington."

So—having the mint and the sugar and the incidental ingredient here's a promise to the American of a health and a hand extended in genuine congratulation on Monday.

STICK TO EDUCATION.

The fact that thousands of young men, many of them seniors and juniors, have enlisted in the Service, thereby greatly reducing the hold-over enrollment of universities and colleges—ought to bring the younger student element of the country to the realization that after the war the demand for college-trained minds will be greater than ever. A big incentive is held out to those not of draft age to enter college and to those, still undergraduates, to complete their courses. Youth needs education, institutions need support, the country needs the cooperation of trained minds, business needs the services of mentally and physically developed men. There is a wonderfully attractive opportunity now open, and wise will be those who embrace it. As Dr. Finney (Major John T. Finney) says: "This is a war of science and the country needs educated brains. Let young America go on with their studies."

This Hooveritis disease is on the increase. It's catching (we won't say what); so everybody might as well become a Hooverite. And as long as they're taking the pains to preserve watermelon rinds and to conserve grapefruit skins, why don't they pickle all the bell peals?

The loyal, patriotic, willing-to-fight spirit of some of the gray-haired, graybearded men one meets these days—what a pity it is not more prevalent in many men much younger.

"HOUSE To Take A Rest."—part of its personnel no doubt will take a good, long rest after the term is over—a rest superinduced by the "folks back home."

SWEET toothsome corn once growing in the garden on the hillside, now daily wends its way to cheer the stomach on the inside.

ONE thing about the reduction in the number of circus bills—it means less paste and more flour for food consumption.

"FACE Guns."—Must be those awful things that shoot the female physiognomy full of that highly charged powder.

ANNEXATION without a referendum—what kind of a democracy is that?

No, indeed Samantha, airplane machine guns do not shoot highballs.

CARBON INKS ARE REQUIRED

Seem to Be Only Trustworthy Preparation for Writing That is Desired to Endure.

Attention was first called to the bleaching effect of air and light on writing ink, as used in modern times, by the fact that signatures on certain certificates had become illegible through the fading of the ink, says a writer in the Journal of the Society of Chemical Industry.

As it was impracticable to test a sample of ink by exposure of writing for a period of years, it was considered that a limited application of hydrogen peroxide would be the nearest chemical equivalent to the bleaching effect of the atmosphere. Writing done by different inks was exposed to light, the paper being occasionally moistened with a 3 per cent solution of hydrogen peroxide, the result being that the handwriting gradually became invisible, in some cases more quickly than in others. The violet ink used by typewriters was less readily acted on, but was quickly bleached by sulphurous acid.

If an ink could be produced possessing the desirable properties of perfect fluidity and being non-depositing, and at the same time incapable of being decolorized by oxidizing or reducing agents, there would be good reason to believe that the writing done by such an ink would be practically permanent. In the meantime, when writing is of an important nature and is desired to endure, some form of carbon ink appears to be the only trustworthy preparation.

BILLS NOT GERM CARRIERS

Investigation Dispel Popular Idea Regarding the Danger of Handling Soiled Paper Money.

A contributor to the Journal of the American Medical Association citing the popular opinion of a few years ago in respect to soiled paper money, says it is today regarded by many as extremely dangerous to handle, and many people still insist on clean bills when they are getting change. Bank tellers rarely exhibit such aversion, nor do they give a history of exceptional incidence of infectious disease. Currency has been blamed for the spread of disease and death, especially when it has been difficult to find the true etiologic agency. It is recalled that not long ago a case of myxedema was regarded as the outcome of counting money.

Because of such apparently exaggerated contentions, an actual investigation of the bacteria present on soiled money was made by Professor Hilditch, who arrived at the conclusion that money constitutes an unimportant factor in the transmission of disease. It is pointed out that a more frequent redemption of soiled and worn bills is necessary, yet the facts and evidences at hand do not justify the needless alarming of the public by rash statements concerning currency.

The Great Bell of Glasgow.

The great bell in Glasgow cathedral tells its own history in the following inscription: "In the year of grace 1583 Marcus Knox, a merchant in Glasgow, zealous for the interest of the reformed religion, caused me to be fabricated in Holland, for the use of his fellow citizens of Glasgow and placed me with solemnity in the tower of their cathedral. My function was announced by the impress on my bosom: 'Me Auditio; Venias, Doctrinam Sanctam Ut Discas.' and I was taught to proclaim the hours of unheeded time. One hundred and ninety-five years had I sounded these awful warnings, when I was broken by the hands of inconsiderate and unskillful men. In the year 1790 I was cast into the furnace, refounded at London, and returned to my sacred vocation. Reader! Thou also shalt know a resurrection. May it be to eternal life! Thomas Mears, fecit, 1790."

Made Great Discovery.

The antiseptic properties of flavine were discovered by Dr. C. H. Browning and his colleague at the Bland-Sutton Institute of Pathology, the Middlesex hospital. "Flavine is diamino-methyl-acridium chloride, which was originally prepared by Benda at the desire of Ehrlich." It is a product of ebal tar and is akin to the substance used for polishing brown leather. The late Paul Ehrlich had it prepared for another purpose, and it was reserved for Doctor Browning to make one of the greatest discoveries in chemico-therapy.—London Morning Post.

Got Something
You
Want to Sell?

Most people have a piece of furniture, a farm implement, or something else
which they have discarded and which they no longer want.

These things are put in the attic, or stored away in the barn, or left lying about; getting of less and less value each year.

WHY NOT SELL THEM?

Somebody wants those very things which have become of no use to you.
Why not try to find that somebody by putting a want advertisement in
THIS NEWSPAPER?

THE VOICE OF AUTHORITY.

"Did anybody call me while I was out?" asked Mr. Gadspar.
"Yes, sir," answered the office boy.
"A lady did."
"A lady, eh?"
"Yes, sir. But I think it was Mrs.
Gadspar."
"What did she say?"
"She said, 'Is that Green Hill four-four-seven-three?' Then I said, 'Yessum.' Then she said, 'Summon Mr.
Gadspar to the 'phone at once.'"
"Ahem. Yes, that was Mrs. Gad-spar."

A Slap at Her Complexion.
"Is it true that Mrs. Dubwaite and Mrs. Twobble are no longer on speaking terms?"
"Yes. I fear the breach will never be healed."
"What did they fall out about?"
"They met on the street one day.
Mrs. Dubwaite said to Mrs. Twobble:
'My dear, how do I look?' Mrs. Twob-ble kissed her effusively and said: 'My dear, you are a work of art!'"

A Faux Pas.
"I've lost confidence in that fortune teller."
"Why so?"
"She said I was going to inherit money."
"Maybe you will some day."
"But after I had paid her fee, she forgot that she had already told me my name was Jones, and called me
'Mr. Green.'"

WRONG DIAGNOSIS.

"My dear friend, can you loan me two hundred dollars? I have just recovered from an operation for appendicitis."
"Appendicitis! Your doctor doesn't know his business. He should have operated for gall stones."

Inconsistent.
The pretty girl is willing quite,
Proposals to extort;
Yet she wants no man very long,
Nor will she have him short.

Much Worse.
"Once let a man with a thimbleful of brains get the idea that he has an analytical mind, and he is the greatest bore on earth."
"I know a greater bore than that."
"Name him."
"The fellow without even a thimble-ful of brains who thinks he has an analytical mind."

Had a Grievance.
"Where are your manners, sir?"
asked the crusty business man of a stranger who unceremoniously rushed into his private office.
"I left them out in the main office," answered the irate caller, "where I was insulted by two or three of your impudent clerks."

"LONG-GREEN" WORM.

"It is claimed that the vermiform appendix is a worthless organ."
"Oh, I don't know. It's worth about two million a year to the medical profession."

No Great Danger.
"Oh, kissing does upset me."
Declared coquettish Sue.
Quoth he: "You'd better let me,
We're not in a canoe."

Brief Interval.
"I met Jagsby just now. He told me he was 'off for life.'"
"He means the life of a housefly."
"And how long is that?"
"A few weeks."

Keep Trying.
A man cannot always tell when he reaches the door of opportunity.
"That may be true, but the fellow who tries every door he comes to will open one sooner or later."

Expert Demoralized.

MARKETING THE HONEY CROP

College Park, Aug. 16.—The marketing of any product is a problem entirely aside from the business of production. So involved has this problem become that all large business concerns recognize the necessity of employing experts to place their products where they will sell the most readily and secure the most profitable return.

Individual producers have paid too little attention to this important phase of their business. Beekeepers in particular seldom realize the necessity of doing more than produce honey which may be disposed of as quickly as possible to the highest bidder. Producing honey is only one-half the game. If the other half is neglected the results are only fifty per cent.

Efficient marketing concerns itself with four distinct problems; the production of a standard article, maintaining a constant supply, regulating distribution, and consistent advertising. It may be argued that these are problems for the commission men, wholesalers, and corporate concerns;
that the individual producer will find it unprofitable or inadvisable to both market and produce. Nevertheless, the difference in returns will usually more than repay for the effort required to market properly.

Broadly speaking there are two distinct markets for honey; the local market, and the wholesale market.
Few beekeepers in Maryland sell at wholesale, most of the honey being disposed of in the immediate neighborhood. However, contrary to the prevailing idea, the market principles mentioned are most important where local selling is practiced.

Nothing is more discouraging to the honey business than the yearly dumping of the entire crop on local markets, in any kind of a package, with little or no advertising, and at ridiculously variable prices. Beekeeping will never become a business until every beekeeper realizes the importance of proper marketing.

It is essential that each producer develop a standard, neatly labeled and attractive package both for comb and extracted honey. This package once secured should remain unchanged from year to year and be kept constantly before the public by consistent advertising in the papers, in the store windows, by road side signs, posters, etc.

It is ruinous to dispose of all the honey at once as the best of trades will soon die if its demands are not constantly filled. As the market expands and the competition becomes keener it may be best to dispose of the product that crowded and over-supplied markets may be avoided.
Underselling is never safe and should be avoided. It results in artificially lowering the local market. Beekeepers should guide themselves by the general market. They will find the honey market reports issued by the Department of Markets a great aid in determining prices. These reports may be secured free by application to the Office of Markets United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Maryland beekeepers should realize also that comb honey of a fine grade is not easily produced in the State and that because of this fact and the tremendous demand for liquid honey on the general market the production of extracted honey is the best business proposition.

WHEN THE HENS MOULT.

College Park, Aug. 16.—That proper care and feeding of hens during the moulting season is of utmost importance is being pointed out by Roy H.
Waite, Poultryman of the Agricultural Experiment Station. He says:

"Take good care of your hens during the moult if you wish them to produce eggs for you later in the season. The moulting produces quite a jolt to hens.
This is shown by their nervous condition at the time of moulting and by their dropping off laying. Naturally birds moult a few feathers at a time, but this has all been changed in the domestic fowl which moults in a comparatively short time. Some of the best laying hens seem to drop their feathers all at once.

"During the moult hens do not require as much energy, heat and fat forming feeds as they do when laying but they do need more tissue building feeds. Linseed meal furnishes just the kind of nourishment needed to produce feathers. Add about 10 per cent. of linseed meal to the mash during the moulting period. Sunflower seeds are just as good. If you have them feed a liberal amount. Be careful to not overfeed hens that have just come through the moult, as there is a tendency for them to become overfat.

"Keep them active and working and soon they will get back to laying, if they are the laying kind."

There are more than 1,100 boys enrolled in the Club contests in Maryland, and their activities cover the growing to corn, tobacco, potatoes, pigs and poultry. Potatoes will be the first of the crops harvested and in spite of the rainy weather having caused some delay in getting the crop planted, a very large number of boys will be in the competition. There are many instances of where the boys are outstripping their fathers in the production of different crops.

FATHER PUBLISHED FIRST EMMITSBURG PAPER

Dr. Riley Spent Some Time in This Vicinity.—Now in Fairfield.

Dr. Elihu S. Riley, of Annapolis, Md., has spent a week at Mt. Fay Cottage, Miss Vera Cole, proprietor. He has now moved farther up towards Fair-field, Adams Co., Pa. Dr. Riley's father, the late Elihu S. Riley, Sr., published about the year 1840, probably the first paper ever issued in Emmits-burg. The young publisher was not yet 21 years of age. He soon after went to Annapolis and became editor and publisher of The Maryland Republi-can, a Whig paper. He was connect-ed with this journal for twenty-five years, during which period he was several times elected State Printer by the General Assembly. He handled a ready and fluent pen. Dr. Riley, the son, is the author of numerous historical works; his latest book, just from the press, is "Maryland—the Pioneer of Religious Liberty. The only Catholic Colony of the Thirteen and the First to Establish Religious Freedom." As the author is a non-Catholic, the research has been made and declared without denomina-tional bias or flavor.

County's Draft Quota Changed.

Letters were received by the local exemption boards Tuesday stating that the draft quotas for Frederick city and county had been changed. The letters were signed by Henry M. Warfield, ad-jutant general, by John de P. Douw, major Q. M. C., and stated in effect that a mistake had been made in the ad-jutant general's office in calculating the number of men each division of the county must furnish to the new army.

According to the letter, Frederick city's quota is raised to 66 men, and the county's quota is cut down to 231 men. Formerly the city board was called upon to furnish 25 men and the county 274. These figures were determined upon after credit had been given to both city and county for volunteer en-listments.

Those from Emmitsburg District who were certified for military service to date are: Daniel Erwin Brown, Martin Luther Hahn, Clarence Moses Baum-gardner, Maurice Hampton Moser, Robert W. Hahn, John Thomas Morris, Joseph Warner Kreitz, Clarence George Frailey, Thomas Joseph Frailey, Guy Alexander Knott, George Pedro Smith, Joseph Milton Turner, William Clay Shuff, Edward L. C. Lee Ordman, of Frederick, Second Lieutenant, Coast Artillery Corps.

700 NEW OFFICERS GET COMMISS-IONS AT FORT MYER MONDAY

Leaders Of Nation Attend Presentation Of Honors.—10,000 Spectators Stirred.

President and Mrs. Wilson, Secretary of War, Newton D. Baker, Speaker Champ Clark, Senators, Congressmen, the wives of Cabinet members, mem-bers of the diplomatic corps and hun-dreds of persons prominent in Maryland, Virginia, Delaware and other states were present at the impressive cere-monies that marked the presentation of commissions to 700 young men at the Officers' Reserve Camp at Fort Myer, Va., on Monday afternoon.

Among the 700 were 200 from Mary-land, about 125 of the 200 being from Baltimore. There were more than 10,000 persons present to see these men receive their honors. The 10,000 helped to make up a picture the memory which will linger long with those who had the good fortune to see it.

The Rev. Forrest J. Prettyman, chap-lain of the United States Senate, with the men of the training camp drawn up in front of the stand, delivered the in-vo-cation. In his prayer he asked that victory might be written on the banners borne by these young men when they returned home; that their honor might remain unsullied and that they might be "the heralds of a larger life of freedom." Secretary Baker in his address told the new commissioned officers that the country felt proud of them for hearken-ing to the call, and that the country looked to them to do great things.

The whole program was one to thrill. From the beginning to the end of the exercises the spectators felt the blood surging through their veins as the ring-ing words of the speakers and the marching ranks of the soldiers appeal-ed to their patriotism. And when the climax came at the end of the cere-monies they gave vent to their enthusiasm.

Secretary Baker in a statement issued Monday night said in part: "Two thoughts I like to keep with me as these men come from their camps throughout the country. First: Their selection and preparation has been ac-complishment by means as far removed from political favoritism as could be devised. Secondly: The thoroughness of the training received by these men will mean that those who will be chosen under the Selective Service act will be properly instructed and led so as to in-sure a maximum of effectiveness and a minimum of casualties, in undergoing what ever may be necessary to be-queath to coming generations of men what our forefathers secured by their sacrifices for us."

HOT WATER FRUIT AND VEGETABLE DRYER

This is the cheapest, simplest, most durable and effective dryer for domestic use that has ever been invented. It requires very little space and is used on top of a range or stove when not used for cooking, and when it is removed from the range to make room for cooking it still continues to dry on account of the hot water, which requires some time to cool.

This dryer is especially adapted to drying sweet corn and with very little attention can be dried off twice in one day. There is absolutely no burning or scorching which is one of the essential features of a dryer. It has a dry surface of 18 by 26 in. and weighs six pounds. PRICE $2.50.

THE COMING CIRCUS.

Sparks World Famous Shows are billed to exhibit at Frederick, Thursday August 23, from the newspaper reports preceding them their exhibition will be worth going many miles to witness.

Of the many features carried by the show this season, some of the Animal Acts are without doubt the most wonderful and thrilling ever presented to an American audience. The big group of fighting forest-bred lions, all full grown males, give an exhibition that is full of thrills, and the audience is left with a positive feeling of awe at man's wonderful mastery over the brute creation.

Another extraordinary feature with the show is Capt. Wesley's troupe of educated Seals and Sea Lions. These interesting sea animals perform the most seemingly impossible feats; balancing chairs, umbrellas and whirling brands of fire while climbing ladders, walking tight ropes and riding the backs of galloping horses. This feature baffles description and must be seen to be appreciated.

Many other wonderful things are to be seen with this mammoth show, and the main performance beneath the big tents will present a number of the most marvelous foreign acts of the century.

The menagerie of wild animals carried with the show is complete in every detail, and contains rare and curious specimens of the earth's most interesting and curious animals.

A mile long street parade of dazzling splendor, beautiful women, and handsome horses, interspersed with three brass bands and a steam caliope will traverse the streets shortly before noon and this feature alone will be worth going many miles to see.

Don't forget the date and the place of exhibition, Frederick Thursday, August 23.

Eat All You Can; Can What You Can't.

"Eat all you can't can" is the new slogan of the Department of Agriculture in its campaign for conservation of perishable fruits and vegetables.

Heretofore it has been "Can all you can," but now with a big output of fruits and vegetables the Department is pointing out that the housewife might well vary her menus by devising dishes composed in large part of those products which will not keep.

"While it is imperative that as much food as possible be put up in tins or glass jars, or else dried and properly stored," says a Department statement, "it is nevertheless well to bear in mind that by varying the diet much food which would otherwise be lost can be made to sustain life."

SUGAR BEET INDUSTRY

No Distinct Types of Commercial Plant in This Country.

Equally Wide Variations May Be Found in Fields—So-Called Strains Are Badly Mixed in Process of Production.

(By C. O. TOWNSEND.)

It is a startling fact that there are in this country no distinct types of commercial sugar beets. In any commercial sugar-beet field from Michigan to California, without regard to the name of the so-called variety, can be found from 6 to 20 or more distinct types of beets. Their distinctions may be based upon shape, texture, habit of growth, color, and other characters of the leaf, as well as upon shape, texture, quality, etc., of the root. In fact, scarcely two beets growing side by side in the same field have closely related external characters of leaf or root, and the quality of the roots varies in both sugar and purity.

Equally wide variations may be found in the beet-seed fields, especially with reference to habit of growth and yield of seed. It would appear, therefore, that these so-called strains are badly mixed in the process of growth and production or that many strains or varieties are mixed before the seed is sacked. It would seem, however, from the large number of wide variations in the individual beets produced from commercial seed that the mixed strains or varieties appearing in commercial fields are due more to the method of growth than to artificial mixing. It may be and probably is necessary to have mixed strains, or crosses, in order to combine in one plant all the desirable qualities of weight, sugar, and purity. It would seem, however, that little progress can be made in the development of desirable strains of beets until the present mixed varieties are separated into their component strains and the desirable strains recombined in their proper relation. It is no more reasonable to suppose that such a mixture of the present types of sugar beets will give the best results in yield and quality of roots than it is to assume that the highest results in live stock production can be reached with mixed breeds of animals.

WILD MUSTARD IS NUISANCE

Disappears When Rotation With Grass or Cultivated Crops, Is Used—Pull Scattering Plants.

(By ANDREW BOSS, Agriculturist, University Farm, St. Paul.)

Wild mustard is most common in fields that are devoted to grain growing and disappears when a rotation with grass or cultivated crops is used. If scattering plants appear in the grain, they should be pulled by hand. If the field is badly infested the plants may be sprayed while in blossom with a solution of sulphate of iron, in the proportion of from 75 to 100 pounds of iron sulphate to 50 gallons of water.

After the grain is harvested the land should be worked up with a disk or spring-tooth harrow to cover the seed and induce germination. Some of the plants can be destroyed by late fall plowing. Early cultivation before seeding in the spring will destroy more of them. If the field is still badly infested the treatment should be repeated.

POISON SPRAYS IN ORCHARDS

Live Stock Should Not Be Allowed to Pasture There Until After One or Two Heavy Rains.

When the trees in the orchard are sprayed there is nearly always enough of the solution falling off the leaves to poison the grass underneath the trees. The orchard should not be pastured with live stock after it is sprayed until after one or two heavy rains. Sheep and calves are very easily poisoned.

SPRAY MIXTURE OF ARSENIC

Solution Should Be Handled With Greatest of Care, or Serious Results May Follow.

Spray mixtures are composed largely of arsenic and its compounds and should be handled with the greatest care or fatal results will follow. Paris green, arsenate of lead, bordeaux mixture, copper solution and hellebore are all poisonous to animal life.

MARYLAND'S CROPS MUST BE SAVED

Every Man, Woman And Child Can Render a Patriotic Service By Helping Conserve Our Food Supply.

Help must immediately be given the canners of Maryland, if President Wilson's wishes are to be carried out and if the war, which is involving every civilized nation, is to be won by America.

Every energy of the Government has been concentrated on increased food production. The farmers of America have nobly responded to the call and Maryland was no laggard, as the present crop reports show, but a condition has arisen which calls for the rank and file of our people to respond to the appeal of Herbert Hoover, in charge of the Nation's food to help conserve our increased production and prevent a waste of perishable crops.

Cooperating with the Government in its efforts to conserve all food supplies, General Carl R. Gray, Chairman of the Maryland Council of Defense has asked and received the acceptance of Messrs. C. C. Honor, Jr., John B. Ramsey and Walter B. Brooks to serve on a committee to assist the canneries in securing the necessary help to prevent any waste or spoilage of perishable crops and unless this Committee is successful in its efforts, a great amount of the increased food produced from the farms will be lost to the country.

In 1916 Maryland packed over six million cases of the thirteen million cases of tomatoes packed in the entire United States and in addition packed several million cases of corn, peas and other canned vegetables and fruits.

In 1917—this year—Maryland can almost double her production. The crops are ready to be picked. Maryland can help save the nation and possibly some of her allies from starving, if the people of Maryland will make that patriotic response to which they have in the past been so accustomed.

A great emergency is upon us.

The President has made his appeal. The farmers have loyally and nobly responded and have done their share.

The tomato crop is in the field ready to be picked, delivered to the canneries and canned.

BUT IN FILLING THE RANKS OF OUR ARMY—IN FILLING GOVERNMENT ORDERS FOR WAR MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES—IN BUILDING SHIPS AND GUNS AND AEROPLANES FOR OUR SUCCESS IN THE WAR—WE HAVE USED UP THE LABOR NEEDED IN OUR CANNERIES—AND UNLESS IT IS REPLACED BY PATRIOTIC VOLUNTEERS OUR HEAVY PRODUCTION OF CROPS WILL BE ALMOST A TOTAL LOSS.

The call is sounded for help to man the canneries.

Every man, woman and child, above the age of fourteen, can "do their bit."

Every man, woman and child, loyal to their Country, must do their share. President Wilson on July 11th said:

"I shall expect every man and woman who is not a slacker to be at my side throughout this great enterprise. In it no man can win honor who thinks of himself."

The crops of Maryland must be saved.

The canneries are providing wholesome and sanitary surroundings, the work is not laborious, the pay is liberal, the work is patriotic. School teachers on vacations are enlisting in the canneries to help out. School boys and girls by the hundreds are ready to respond. Married women without children are closing their homes temporarily in order to do their share. Factories have arranged to work half their force, releasing the other half of their employees to spend the five weeks necessary in the canneries. Everywhere is the sacrifice being made.

Women who have never worked in their lives, but who are familiar with home canning are answering the appeal of the Government to help in the canneries. Women, who in their youth worked in canneries are returning this year in response to the country's call.

In every county of the State, there is a Section of the Maryland Council of Defense. The help each person might give may be in their own locality.

Every section of the State is organizing to win the war—to save Maryland's crops—to cooperate with the President and to be loyal to our country.

Volunteer today that you will work in a cannery for five weeks. Form a little club of ten or twelve members—you can all stick together for company—and you will be helping to do your share.

Send your name to Mr. James Steele, Secretary of the State Canning Committee, Fayette and Guilford Streets, Baltimore, who will advise you who to report to in your own county.

Old "Sugar Makin'."

It must have been a busy, hard time for our elders, those old sugar makin' days, but we never heard them complain. Maybe they liked it, hard work and all, as a break in the monotony of a long, dull winter on the farm that was away back from the main traveled road. The old sugar house disappeared long ago, and the grand old trees are gone, too. The big level cornfield of today gives no hint of past joys, but some of us can close our eyes and reconstruct grandfather's farm, and when we have put the old grove back in its proper place, with the road winding up through it, past the old sugar house, to the quaint old steep-roofed house with its ever waiting look of welcome, and when the picture is complete, along with all the other joys of going to grandfather's, we can even taste the taste of real molasses that came from trees.—Indianapolis News

THE FARM LABOR BUREAU AND ITS CO-OPERATION WITH THE FARMER

County Agent, Under Maryland Council Of Defense Law, To Aid Farmer In Every Phase Of Increased Production.

Under the Act of the General Assembly at its special session last June, when it passed a law authorizing a Council of Defense for Maryland, appropriating one million dollars for its preparatory work for war, it stipulated that $200,000 of the million was to be spent toward agricultural development and extension and the conservation of food.

The increased planting of food stuffs, which is yielding almost double production, requiring more farm labor than heretofore, coming at a time, when a scarcity of labor is being felt in every line of work, due to the men being drawn from the fields to the ranks of military service, and to the demand for labor made necessary by increased production in materials for warfare, such as in the munition plants, ship building yards and cantonments, which are springing up in every section in every state, it was necessary for the protection of the farmer, so that his crops would not suffer from want of help to harvest them, to establish a Farm Labor Bureau, whose functions are to provide sufficient labor to yield the greatest production of the crops planned.

To reach the farmers of the State and to provide a speedy and efficient working force to see that the wants of each county was supplied, the Maryland Agricultural Extension Service, with County Agents in each of the counties, with the United States Department of Agriculture and the United States Department of Labor, co-operating, have perfected their organization whereby practical assistance can be given any farmer of the State in need of help along the agricultural line.

Extraordinary efforts are being made by County Agents to have the farm laborers in their county work the full week as well as trying to have those who have left farm work for other vocations, to go back on the farm, and in many instances the County Agents have been able to fill the requests for farm labor without going out of their county for help, which class of help is most desired by the farmers. In cases where the County Agent is unable to supply the demand for labor from his own county, he makes application to the Farm Labor Bureau, located in the Stewart Building, Gay and Lombard Street, Baltimore, Md., by aid of advertising and farm labor scouts, secures the labor desired, where possible, and ships it to the County Agent, who distributes it on the farms needing help.

Being a State Office, no charge is made to the farmers asking for farm hands, but in cases where there is a transportation charge in getting the help from one county to another, the farmer is expected to pay that charge, and in making application to his County Agent for farm help, he is expected to state just what his needs are, whether he wants a man for temporary or permanent work, whether he prefers a married or single man, whether he will provide lodging and board or just lodging or just board, whether he has tenant houses for married help, what he will pay and the character of work he expects to have done. With this information at hand, the County Agent is able to make a selection of the men to be placed, which is found to be of great advantage, not only to the farmer, but to the farm hand, who makes a much better satisfied laborer.

The need for increased production in all food crops cannot be too strongly urged at this time, and with the farm labor situation solved, practically assuring the farmer that he need have no fear as to securing help when it is needed, every farmer is urged, as a patriotic duty and on the personal and special request of the President of the United States, to plant heavier crops this fall than ever before.

If you do not know who your County Agent is write, phone or ask the editor of this newspaper.

COMPULSORY WORK LAW.

The Compulsory Work Law, passed at the special session of the Legislature, is in force beginning next Monday. The States Attorney and Sheriff of each county have received a copy of the rules and regulations, which explain that every able-bodied male person between the ages of 18 and 50 years who are not, on August 20, 1917, or any time thereafter, regularly or continuously employed in some lawful and useful business, occupation, trade or profession must, with three classes of exceptions, register for work under the law.

Those exempted under the terms of the law are (a) students and persons fitting themselves to engage in a trade or industrial pursuit; (b) persons temporarily unemployed by reason of differences with their employers and (c) persons engaged or employed in any seasonal business, trade or occupation, but every unemployed man must register.

Large incomes or revenue from the ownership of property does not exempt a man from the provisions of the Compulsory Work act. Every man must be actively at work or he must register with the Clerk of the Circuit Court of the county in which he lives, and to avoid arrest and imprisonment any man not engaged at work on Monday must register immediately.

Out of His Line.

"Who was the man that just stopped you on the street and waved his hands around so distractedly?" "Oh, that was Stardust, the celebrated astronomer, who discovered and named 186 minor planets." "What was his trouble?" "He couldn't make up his mind whether to name his new baby Charles or William."
