

Risk Summit programme details available - We hope you will join us for our 2018 Risk Summit, “Risks Beyond Boundaries,” held on Wednesday 20 June, 2018 in London. Early bird discounts available until 27 April.

We are honoured that our keynote speaker will be Martin Wolf, Chief Economics Commentator at the Financial Times. Our theme for this year, “Risks Beyond Boundaries”, will be an exploration of risks that transcend national boundaries and jurisdictions, and that are truly systemic and international in nature. Through a series of expert presentations and interactive panel sessions, we will engage with the nascent risk management issues that these risks bring to light, including those related to globalisation, climate change, and the convergence of digital and physical worlds.

Full details of our programme, speakers and accommodation are available on the event site. We look forward to seeing you in June!

The latest Cambridge Cyber Risk Outlook 2018 is now available for download. This report presents the Centre’s latest cyber research topics including the rapidly evolving landscape of cyber risk, shifting trends in cyber risk, management of emerging cyber threats, trends in cyber loss processes, and the current and future state of the cyber insurance markets.

The Centre for Risk Studies has been nominated for Advisen’s Cyber Risk Innovation of the Year. Our report, Cyber Terrorism: Assessment of the Threat to Insurance, produced in collaboration with Pool Re, has been nominated in the 2018 Advisen Cyber Risk Awards. Please vote for us at the Advisen website.

